NEWS BRIEFS

Air strikes against Iraq planned

PERSIAN GULF (AF) - According to a high-placed source in the Navy, squadrons of jets have been put on standby alert for a strike against Iraq.

According to the source, the squadrons have orders to commence air strikes against key strategic targets should President Bush's approval rating fall below 25 percent.

The White House denied these reports, but looked very suspicious doing it.

Furlough plan reinstated

ATLANTA (AF) - Gov. Zell Miller announced Monday that in order to balance Georgia's FY 92-93 budget, state employees will be asked to take a week off without pay.

Miller has ordered all state agencies to re-arrange their work schedules so that normal state business will not be effected.

"These are desperate times," said Gov. Miller, who will be taking a month off to "set an example."

Ford executive fired

DETROIT (AF) - A high-ranking Ford executive was fired Monday for having been seen eating in a Japanese restaurant.

The executive, David Jeane, and his wife were treated at a local emergency room for injuries after the couple were stoned by a group of United Auto Workers who spotted them.

"We cannot tolerate this sort of example from our executives," said a Ford spokesman Tuesday. Other firings of those executives with foreign-sounding names are expected during the next week.

New Kitty Kelly book released

WASHINGTON (AF) - The White House had no comment yesterday on allegations made in the new Kitty Kelly unauthorized biography of the First Lady.

Titled "Barbara," the book alleges the first lady has been carrying on an affair with Vice-President Dan Quayle during daily lunch meetings.

"What's Dan got that I don't got?" said singer Frank Sinatra shortly after the book was released.

Japanese Minister becomes ill at banquet

WASHINGTON (AF) - Japanese Foreign Minister Toroko Owisaka became ill at a state dinner Saturday evening.

The minister vomited as President Bush was trying to help him to the floor, but seemed better after a few minutes, and was seen smiling after leaving the banquet.

In America to discuss the recent trend of "Japanese Bashing," Owisaka stated that he was "Just trying to return the favor."

Classes to be cancelled

Note: The GSU registrar's office has announced that no classes will be held on April 31 of this year. No reason has yet been given for the administration's decision.

Liquor approved for city, county

By Tom Collins
G-A Bartender

The residents of Bulloch County almost unanimously approved a liquor referendum on Tuesday, March 24. Stores, bars and restaurants will be able to sell liquor and mixed drinks beginning April 15.

The referendum was reportedly kept secret until after the students left for Spring Break so the residents could make the decision without the students skewing the results. County officials did not comment on the allegations.

City officials were notably upset that the referendum actually passed. "We thought that by keeping this under wraps it would not be approved," said an official who asked not to be identified.

The total vote count was 159 to 895 in favor of bringing liquor into the city and county.

The results were reported late Tuesday, and nine restaurants announced Wednesday they would open locations in Statesboro. Among them were Spanky's, Bennigan's, Red Lobster and Chuck E. Cheese.

Students were not available for comment, since most decided to spend an extra couple days in Florida.

Keg regulations continue

On March 22, deputies from the Bulloch County Sheriff's Department had microtransmitters implanted into all kegs in a six-county area. The communication devices will allow officers to see the location of all kegs in the GSU area on a special monitor installed in their vehicles.

"The monitors are only operable within a three mile radius of GSU, because that's where all the problems occur," said a spokesman for the Sheriff's Department.

New mall

Also over Spring Break, The J.J. Johnston development company from Houston, Texas announced that a new mall would be build at the intersection of Lanier and Langston Chapel Roads.

The mall property will stretch from Langston Chapel Road to about 200 yards from Paulson Stadium. It will be anchored by Rich's, Macy's, Belk and Parisian.

"We felt that Statesboro would be a great place to expand our list of shopping centers. Everyone knows students spend an average of $300 a week on clothes," said a spokesman for the development company.

The mall, which will be three stories high and have 198 smaller shops, is expected to be open by fall of 1993. It will be named "Eagle's Stadium Court Walk Place University Center."

Henry fired over 'boot'

By Anita Life
Staff Slat

In a surprising development over Spring Break, Dr. Nicholas Henry was fired by the Board of Regents due to the failure of the newly implemented "Boot program."

Apparently, the inability of the parking department to effectively collect all of the delinquent fines led to Henry's dismissal.

"How are we supposed to fund new projects," queried one member of the Board. "With as many parking tickets as students at Georgia Southern receive, we figured we could start construction on a nice, new building for the University of Georgia."

The new building, which would serve no useful purpose, was supposed to cost between $2-24 million.

Henry has vowed not to go quietly and has filed a lawsuit to retain his position, and more importantly, his parking pass.

"We fully intend to challenge this in court," said Louis Dewey, of the law firm Dewey, Cheatum & Howe. "Dr. Henry was dismissed on groundless charges. He will get his due."

In addition to keeping his parking pass, Dr. Henry will ask for monetary damages as

"We fully intend to challenge this in court."

-Louis Dewey, Lawyer

well. While no figures were released, he was overheard saying, "I just want to make as much as Erk and Stowers."

Before members of the media, Henry was much more subdued.

"We will pursue this action with all the vigor that's required to rectify the problem," he said in a prepared statement. All media members looked at one another in confusion.

Henry's case will begin with jury selection on April 1.

New ticket writer hired

With the hiring of officer Steven F. Austin as a full time parking enforcement coordinator, GSU hopes to improve student relations, according to a spokesman for the department, changes should be seen fairly soon. (Filed Photo)

New temporary buildings planned

By Sally Struthers
Weeping Willow

Several Changes are expected to take place on the GSU campus by Fall 1992. Temporary buildings, fountains and parking facilities are included in the "growth agenda".

Three new temporary buildings will be erected near the new parking lot by Forest Drive. The location, said administration officials, was chosen due to student complaints that the parking lot was too far away from any classroom buildings.

"Two of the buildings will be two stories high," said Lad Derclimb, GSU's official superintendent of temporary buildings. "We expect students will be very proud of these facilities, since they are a first in Southeast Georgia."

Some classes normally held in the Biology, MPP and Hollis buildings will be moved to the new facilities. Faculty advisers have been instructed to suggest that students with classes in one of those three buildings and in one of the new buildings enroll in a new running class. The class will be offered every hour from ten 'til the hour until five after and will involve running from one end of campus to the other. Three PE credit hours will be granted to students who participate.

In other matters, a fountain will be built along the pedestrian directly in front of the library. Landscape foliage will be planted covering the entire area surrounding the fountain from the lake to the library steps.

Students will not be allowed to cut through the bushes and trees. Passage between each side of the fountain will be permitted over the library steps or around the lakes.

In response to multiple complaints to Union officials by visitors claiming they had to walk more than 100 feet to the Union for conferences or lunch, 85 percent of the parking lot adjacent the Union and MPP buildings will now be reserved for visitors. Ten percent will be for faculty members, and the remaining five percent will go to Union Productions student members, by order of Union officials.

Nirvana to play Hanner Friday concert to kick-off G-A anniversary

By Barry Manilow
Lead Singer

The surprisingly popular rock group, Nirvana, will appear Friday at Hanner Field House. Tickets will go on sale Thursday at noon in the George-Anne office, Room 111 of the Williams Center.

The event is being staged to kick off The George-Anne's 65th anniversary. The concert will be partly paid for with George-Anne advertising revenues, so tickets will be $3 for students and $5 for others.

After consulting with local authorities and GSU officials, permission was granted to sell liquor and mixed drinks at Hanner for this one night. "It was determined that since the band is so popular, GSU could make the decision whether to allow the sale of liquor," said a spokesman for the city.

All G-A employees are sacrificing half their pay to help fund the concert. "That should add about 50 bucks to the kitty," said News Editor Misty McPherson.

The Opening act will be Hank Williams, Jr., who says that he "really digs" Nirvana. "Despite my country music career, I really prefer the modern rock," said Williams.

At the end of the show,

Williams and Nirvana will get together to do an upbeat version of Statesboro Blues. The finale is being performed at the request of Bill Neville, student publications coordinator who said he has a lot of Blind Willie t-shirts left from Greg Allman's 1990 appearance at the Championship game. (You remember, it's the one we won.)

G-A Editor Gary Witty said he expects that the widespread popularity of the group will encourage more people to attend. "We may actually be able to get some students to come by."

Teefee Fann, a sophomore MRS major, said she was glad to have another big band play at GSU. "It's not often we have a big band here while they're still popular," she said.

Stephen Gundersen, a remedial developmental studies major with a minor in pre-med, said he would like to see some other act. "I really wish Taylor Dayne would come back, besides you can't do the 'bus-stop' to Nirvana."

The floor seats have been reserved for administration officials. Though they are not expected to attend, G-A officials said they felt the seats should be reserved out of appreciation for their 65 years of not complaining about the paper.

CAMPUS BRIEFS

Landrum chefs attend cooking seminar

Ten Landrum chefs traveled to Atlanta over the break to attend a cooking seminar held by renowned culinary expert Justin Wilson, the Louisiana Cajun cook. The Landrum chefs learned many new recipes, including blackened redfish and blackened chicken. One Landrum employee commented, "We've been making blackened food for years, but we didn't know there was a name for it — cajun cooking!"

Other cooks attended a French cooking class in Paris. The leader of that group said she didn't expect the trip to improve the quality of the food at the cafeteria, but noted that it should look much more appetizing.

Porn films to be shown at Union

The University Union advisory board recently viewed several pornographic films, then proceeded to unanimously approve the films for presentation as feature films. The films, Sorority Girls Exposed, No Secrets, Long Dong Silver, and Let It All Hang Out will be shown at the Union theater spring quarter.

Sarah's Place to Reopen

Back by popular demand is the campus classic, Sarah's Place. The restaurant manager, who worked at the Lakeside Cafe during winter quarter, said, "I've had a taste of the old and a taste of the new. I'll take Sarah's Place any day." She will reopen the doors during summer quarter.

Grade Point Average of Students Jumps

During winter quarter 1992 the g.p.a. of GSU students rose dramatically. Prior to winter quarter the average g.p.a. of a GSU student was 2.17. Because a tremendous number of students made exceptionally good grades during winter quarter, the average g.p.a. of a GSU student rose to 3.04. Vice-president of Academic Affairs Ernest Mann is very pleased with the change. "It must be due to those intelligence-increasing vitamins I slipped into the Collegiate's penny beer," he said.

MFP Good in Town

Auxiliary Services and President Henry decided over Spring Break to allow students with the MFP program to make purchases in all local restaurants and retail stores. A computer system linking participating local businesses to the MFP database was installed Monday. GSU accounting professor Murray J. Weed predicts that prices will rise 120% over present costs to help pay for the computer system, making prices slightly lower than current on-campus rates.

George-Anne announces improvements

Due to the high volume of letters coming into the office, the GSU newspaper, The George-Anne, has announced sweeping changes in its style.

Editor Gary Witty said he would try not to run any opinion columns that mention any class of people, educational group, age group, race, sex, sexual preference, sports team preference, athletic ability, weight, hair color, musical preference, mental ability, handicap, career, major, favorite charity, high school, mother's maiden name or other identifying factor. (See page 4 for details.)

Also, the paper will make all efforts possible to eliminate "jumps", the continuation of a story on another page when it doesn't all fit on the page on which it began. "We have had many

On November 22, 1963 somebody killed President John F. Kennedy and wounded Governor John Connally. Now, after nearly 16 years of passionate, dangerous and unyielding investigation, a GSU political science professor claims to have solved the mystery of who killed President Kennedy.

The professor, Dr. Cornelius Watson III, has trekked from state to state in search of the truth. While in college at the University of Texas, Watson started his quest for JFK's killer(s) and pledged to never give up his crusade.

"I've talked to thousands of people about the assassination," explained Watson. "Once, I was in Florida talking to a lady about the killing and somebody tried to kill me. A guy in a black and green suit came up to me and said something like 'Let Kennedy rest in peace.'"

"Then the guy shot me several times in my chest and leg. I spent the next five months in ICU. After that startling incident, I knew I was getting close to solving the JFK mystery."

In March, after meeting with an Air Force colonel known only as "Q" at the White House, Watson claims he was given priceless information and was then able to place the last piece in his inconceivable assassination theory puzzle.

"I now know for a fact who killed JFK," Watson said. "At first it was hard for even me to believe. But, after I looked at all the evidence, I knew I was right. JFK's assassination was a conspiracy that involved two well-known and powerful men: Richard Nixon and Elvis Presley. I know it is very hard to believe, but each man had a clear motive for murder and I feel that in 1963 these deranged men killed our president."

"The reason these men wanted JFK dead is very simple: after Kennedy defeated Nixon in the 1960 presidential election, Nixon filled with hatred. In fact, he once told NBC's Bob Turdman, 'I want

New vitamins discovered

A recently synthesized vitamin supplement was introduced last week by a research team of four chemists from our own Chemistry Department. Apparently the supplement will take the place of strenuous aerobic exercise to shed off excess fat — particularly around the abdominal region of the body. The new vitamin is sure to gain favor from worldwide beer drinkers. GSU Health Services will begin administering these vitamins free of charge during the first week of classes.

The fact that the four chemists were all avid beer drinkers inspired them to discover such a vitamin. Also, the fact that these scientists were under the influence at the time of the discovery probably led them to believe that they had successfully produced such a supplement.

Turner deals Braves to Japan for movie rights

By B.S. Teller
Staff Writer

Millionaire Atlanta mogul Ted Turner is reportedly flying to Japan today to sign official documents that will allow him to acquire the rights to colorize and broadcast all Sony movies. In return, the Japanese company will receive the major league baseball franchise of the Atlanta Braves.

Major league baseball owners approved the deal unanimously in a closed-door meeting yesterday in New York. The deal also includes shipment of the Cleveland Indians to Atlanta, to take the place of the Braves, who won the National League pennant last year.

The Indians, who lost 105 games last year, are expected to improve upon last season, especially with a crop of young, promising rookies.

However, they will not challenge for the pennant this year, barring any further acquisitions the team might make before opening day.

In a press conference announcing the transaction, Turner said: "I feel all those involved will benefit from this in the long run. I just felt I did all I could with the Braves, and there was no room left for improvement. It is now time for the city of Atlanta to become more international."

Turner added, "The best way to do this would be to place ourselves in their shoes. By moving the Indians to Atlanta, we will be put through the level of baseball that the Japanese have endured over the past few years."

News of the trade shocked many Braves players, most of all shortstop Rafael Belliard, who said, "As long as they serve hot dogs at the park, I'll be happy."

Braves fans took the news hard, and are currently planning legal action to be taken immediately. Season ticket holder Aaron Solomon said, "Sure I'll miss the Braves. When I see Santa Fe Trail in color, there will be tomahawks in Tokyo!"

We'll have to wait and see if this affects Atlanta's status as a baseball town. If it is, the Indians will draw more fans this year than in the past five years combined. If not, there will be a lot of empty seats in Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium this year, and it will be because the Atlanta fans will not support another season "In the Cellar".

Amusement park planned near GSU

By Block del Writer

Staff Cubist

A major beer brewing company has announced plans for a new amusement park to be built in Bulloch County. It will be located next to the new mall on Lanier Drive.

The park will be called Bush Gardens. Few details have been released, but a few rides were announced Friday.

Bush Gardens will have a political flavor, featuring the Haunted House of Representatives where visitors will be bounced along on a series of giant rubber checks while seeing visions of filibusters and amendments. The ride will seem to be over fast, but will actually take several hours to go through.

The Two-Party Ride will feature a spinning wheel similar to the popular Gravitron. In linear distance, visitors will travel around the wheel enough times to have traveled a long distance, but actually go nowhere and end up where they started.

On the Primary Freefall, riders will slowly go up a long vertical track supported by an ever increasing number of scale models of presidential candidates. After reaching the top, the cars fall down as the candidates drop away one by one until the cars hit a long horizontal slow-down track. The ride will be open until the first Tuesday in November.
