Dr. Robert Burnett Appointed Dean

The appointment of Dr. Robert A. Burnett as Dean for the School of Arts and Sciences at Armstrong State College recently was approved by the University System of Georgia Board of Regents.

Dr. Burnett, who assumed his new position on July 1, joined James F. Repella, new ASC Dean for the School of Professional Studies, as part of an administrative reorganization for the college which was approved by the Regents last August.

The administration reorganization plan is designed to help Armstrong achieve better academic planning and closer supervision of the academic quality of programs in the areas of professional studies and arts and sciences.

Dr. Burnett also will serve as a Professor of History at Armstrong.

He received his B.A. degree from Wofford College with a degree in economics, and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in European History.

Dr. Burnett served on the faculties of Pfeiffer College from 1960 to 1963; the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill from 1963 to 1966; and the University of Louisville since 1966.

While at the University of Louisville, Dr. Burnett served as History Department Chairman from 1968 to 1971 and as University Ombudsman from 1974 to 1976.

In addition, Dr. Burnett served as instructor with the Air Defense Center of the U.S. Army at Fort Bliss, Texas, from 1956-58, and was a member of the active reserves from 1958 to 1964 when he received an honorable discharge.

Dr. Burnett is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Alpha Theta (national history honorary society), and was named Davidson Faculty Member of the Year at the University of Louisville in 1975.

He also is a member of the American Historical Association, the Southern Historical Association - European Section, the Committee on History in the Classroom, and the Society for French Historical Studies.

"We are fortunate to have attracted a man of his ability to assume the significant role of academic leadership in the arts and sciences areas" said ASC Vice President and Dean of Faculty Dr. H. Dean Propst in announcing the appointment.

In his position as Dean for the School of Arts and Sciences, Dr. Burnett will work directly with Dr. Propst in coordinating academic programs for the ASC departments of biology, chemistry and physics, fine arts, history and political science, languages and literature, mathematics and computer science and psychology and sociology.

'Miss Armstrong' Competes In Miss Georgia Pageant

by Terry Malphrus

Leesa Bohler, Armstrong State College's "Miss Armstrong," returned early this week from a week-long stay in Columbus, Georgia where the Miss Georgia Pageant was held. Leesa and 33 other girls from cities, counties, and colleges in Georgia participated in the event, which included rehearsals all day long every day of the week. Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday nights were the preliminary judgments for contestants in the swimsuit, evening gown, and talent categories. Leesa said that she could tell without looking at the schedule which girls were in the swimsuit competition on a given night -- they starved themselves all that day! (Leesa said that she didn't refrain from eating on the day of her judging, however.)

The pageant officials stressed carefully that the Miss Georgia Pageant is a scholarship pageant, not a beauty contest, and that the selection of the winners is based 50% on their talent. For Leesa's talent, she played the guitar and sang "I Want to Live" by John Denver. George Cordino, who was director and producer of the pageant, also helped with talent and was in charge of rehearsals, going so far as to tell the girls how to stand and how to walk.

Leesa reported that for the entire week that she was in Columbus (June 26 - July 1), neither she nor any of the other 33 girls was allowed to leave her room at the hotel or to leave the theatre unless unaccompanied by a hostess or with an organized group. The security at the pageant was very tight,

Chaos Leaders Selected

All students who will be freshmen at Armstrong State College this fall will have an opportunity to participate in CHAOS, an orientation program conducted by ASC students to acquaint new students with college life and to answer questions about services and programs at Armstrong.

CHAOS, which stands for Communication, Help, Advisement, Orientation, and Service, will be held in four separate sessions on July 14, 21, 28 and Aug. 4. Students may choose the session that is most convenient for them.

All CHAOS sessions will be held from 12:45 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building on the ASC campus.

The informal afternoon program is designed to provide new students with information about Armstrong, including services, organizations, programs and all aspects of college life.

In addition, representatives of the ASC Division of Student Affairs will be on hand to provide information on student activities, counseling, placement, financial aids and other topics.

All new students participating in CHAOS will have an opportunity to pre-register for fall quarter classes and to meet with faculty advisors to plan their class schedules.

ASC students who will serve as CHAOS leaders include Leesa Bohler, a junior and political science major who is vice president of the Student Government Association (SGA); a member of the College Union Board, and Miss Armstrong State College for 1977-78; Victor Long, a sophomore and computer Science major who participates in the Naval ROTC program; Danny Brown, a senior and history major who is president of the ASC Buccaneers and member of the Union Board; Donna Crabtree, a dental hygiene major and member of the Union Board Buccaneers; Jody Denmark, a junior and elementary education major who is a member of the Buccaneers; Andrea Etersque, a sophomore and SGA secretary and member of the Union Board; Brenda Williams, a junior and elementary education major and member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority; Pat Jenkins, a senior and accounting major who is a transfer student; Cindy Arnold, a junior and business major who is treasurer of the SGA and president of the Phi Mu sorority.

In addition, SGA President John Oppen will speak to students.

Students who will be freshmen at ASC next fall and who have not yet registered for a CHAOS session may contact Lynn Benson, ASC counselor, at 356-5271.

Summer Enrollment Increases

Armstrong State College's summer quarter enrollment has increased 4.3 percent over last summer's enrollment.

A total of 1,464 students are enrolled in summer classes this year, compared to 1,403 last year, according to ASC Registrar George Hunnicutt.

The number of class hours for which students are enrolled also has increased from 12,795 last summer to 13,076 this year, Hunnicutt said.

One reason for the enrollment hike, he said, is the increasing number of military personnel taking advantage of in-state tuition rates now available to them.

In addition, students who traditionally take summer courses at Armstrong have returned in large numbers this year, he added.

Inkwell Opinions

WASHINGTON, D.C. June 22 -- The Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on the Constitution opened its first round of hearings today on the controversial Supreme Court decision in the case of Zurcher v. Stanford Daily, the Subcommittee chairman Senator Birch Bayh (D. Ind.) calling that decision a serious threat to Constitutionally guaranteed rights of individual privacy and freedom of the press.

Bayh, author of the Citizen's Privacy Protection Amendment of 1978 -- legislation now before the subcommittee, said that while he believes prosecutors should have access to necessary evidence in criminal proceedings, the Zurcher decision sets an inappropriate standard for seeking such evidence from persons and organizations not themselves implicated in any criminal activity.

In his statement at the outset of today's hearing, Bayh noted that the recent Supreme Court decision held that police armed with a warrant could -- forcibly and without notice -- search a person's home or business for evidence of a crime, even if that person is in no way suspected of complicity in that crime.

"I don't believe proper enforcement of our criminal law requires that innocent Americans surrender their right to privacy to unannounced government searches of their homes or businesses," the Senator said. "The Zurcher decision has left us with a serious potential for governmental abuse of our right to privacy -- the most fundamental and comprehensive of all Constitutional rights.

"In its decision, the majority stated that Congress was free to establish more stringent legislative standards than the rule laid down by the Court in Zurcher," Bayh said. "I believe we have a responsibility to respond to that invitation."

Specifically, Bayh's amendment to the Civil Rights Act requires that any federal, state or local official seeks evidence of a crime from the home or business of a citizen not suspected of being involved in the crime, the proper procedure is to serve a subpoena duces tecum rather than conduct a surprise search. Violations of the prohibition would result in civil damages, the Senator noted. The only exception granted under Bayh's bill would permit search warrant procedures to replace a subpoena when there are specific indications that the evidence to be sought might be hidden or destroyed.

"In large part, the very independence of this nation can be traced to the desire for individual privacy from unannounced and unwarranted governmental intrusion," Bayh said. "Our founders drew up the Bill of Rights in order to secure for themselves and succeeding generations the individual dignity, security and privacy inherent in a government of free people. I believe it is our responsibility today to carefully nurture and protect that heritage, and I hope these hearings will contribute to the process."

The Indiana Democrat also urged the subcommittee and those scheduled to testify today to bear in mind that the implications of the Zurcher decision pose a particular threat to the media and their Constitutionally - protected functions of news gathering and dissemination. He said the fruits of standard journalistic investigations in pursuit of a story could "almost routinely be considered 'evidence' relating to crimes" and would, under the Zurcher decision, be subject to seizure in unannounced police raids of newspapers, radio and television stations.

"A search warrant obtained without notice or an opportunity to be heard would allow police to rummage through the files of a newsroom, inspecting every letter, notebook, film and document until they found those they are authorized to seize," Bayh said. "Throughout this process of course, the authorities will see and inspect many more documents than the ones named in the warrant."

Bayh noted the likelihood of news sources becoming, through this process, "a journalistic relic."

"It can only be a matter of time before a free and vigorous press finds their Constitutionally protected functions hampered by the resultant limitation of information," the Senator said.

Bayh cautioned that the area of legislation before the subcommittee is "a difficult and largely uncharted one" which raises serious and troubling questions of federal jurisdiction and legislative authority.

"But I believe we must face these questions with one thought in mind," the Senator said. "We are not attempting here to extend the power of government authority over our citizens, but rather to restrict that power, and to preserve individual privacy. We seek not to regulate private conduct but to control the government's power to engage in searches of our homes for evidence of someone else's crimes."

"Simply put, the Citizen's Privacy Protection Amendment embodies an attempt to protect the legitimate privacy rights of American citizens," Bayh said, concluding his opening statement with the reminder to the subcommittee of a quote from the British statesman William Pitt:

"The poorest man in his cottage may bid defiance to all the forces of the crown. It may be frail, its roof may shake, the wind may blow through it, the storm may enter, but the King of England cannot enter."

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Being a firm believer in the principles of representative democracy as it once existed in what is now the Sixth Aldermanic District of the City of Savannah and a firm supporter of the right of the American people to 'alter or to abolish' government when that government becomes destructive of certain 'unalienable rights', I would like to suggest to the powers that be, that the recent annexation carried out by the City of Savannah against those areas of Chatham County which now comprise the Sixth Aldermanic District was totally unfair insofar as the voting procedure was concerned. This being the case, the resulting election returns were, of necessity, invalid. I would like to further suggest to the aforementioned powers that the whole affair smacks of a bourgeois reactionary plot to suppress the vitality of the people through the forcible subjugation thereof by denying the residents of the Sixth District a just method by which they could have decided to either to remain part of the County or to join the city.

I therefore feel that it is the right, nay the duty, of the people of the Sixth District to take up the struggle to remove themselves, by force if necessary, from the crushing oppression of a decaying body politic which seeks nothing other than the absorption of free peoples for its own aggrandizement in the vain hope that it can arrest its own slide into the abyss of socio-economic decay. These valiant fighters for freedom must take heart and resist to the utmost the continuing efforts of the city reactionaries to snuff out the fire of democracy.

But the struggle should be no means stop there. The fight must be carried through to its logical conclusion which can be nothing other than the total emancipation of the Sixth District from all oppressors both foreign and domestic. Should the people throw off the chains which presently drag them down only to submit to being saddled once again with the burden of their former masters? Should they simply exchange one tyrant for another? No, the people of the Sixth can be pawns of the power mongers no longer! They must stride forward into the dawn of a new age of freedom!

These gallant heroes need not rely on their former overlords to assist them in their struggle. Aid for the fight for freedom can be obtained from any number of national or international agencies. Such agencies could include: Housing and Urban Development (everybody likes to build cities in developing countries, right?), Health, Education and Welfare, The International Whaling Commission, The World Bank, The Teamsters Pension Fund, The Warsaw Pact, Big Daddy Idi Amin Dada, Cuba, The Metter City Council, Dr. Ashmore and maybe even the National Endowment for the Arts. The list is virtually endless.

Of course, freedom is a thing dearly bought and the people of the Sixth District must be ever on their guard to see that no hidden strings come attached to the aid they receive. I feel certain, however, that there can be no other outcome than victory if the people of the Sixth District unite in heart and mind.

In closing, Madame Editor, I feel that the parties responsible for the abomination which was so euphemistically called an annexation had better be on their guard and I also feel that the people of the Sixth District should and will take a stand and fight for what is rightfully theirs.

He also has worked with Dr. Tony Cope of the Oatland Island Education Center on the development of science activities and curriculum enrichment projects. In the community, Dr. Newberry has worked with Leadership Savannah, the Board of Directors of the Savannah Science Museum, Savannah Environmental Education Resource Center, Committee for the Quarter System Development, Elementary Science Curriculum Revision Committee and others.

The Armstrong Student Government Association presented the H. Dean Propst Award for the outstanding faculty member to Dr. Robert Strozier for his service to the community, involvement with student organizations and assistance to students.

Dr. Strozier, who earned his B.A. degree from the University of Georgia and his M.A. and Ph.D. degree from Florida State University, has served in the Armstrong English department for a total of 17 years.

A published and prize-winning poet, Dr. Strozier is a member of the Georgia Poetry Society and has served as that organization's president, served on the first elected school board in Chatham County and is involved with numerous civic affairs.

Armstrong officials also presented a special honor to Ray Seidl, a dean's list senior this year and star member of the ASC bowling team who died of leukemia April 12 at Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital.

Seidl was awarded a posthumous diploma as ASC Vice President Dr. H. Dean Propst cited the courageousness the 24-year-old scholar and athlete displayed during his fight with the disease that did not prevent him from achieving high academic honors and the respect of all who knew him.

Seidl's parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Raymond Seidl, reside at 308 Tanglewood Road in Savannah. He was a graduate of Windsor Forest High School and attended Brunswick Junior College on a baseball scholarship.

Public Opinions Sought on Water Pollution

"The problem of cleaning up Georgia's rivers is not a task merely for some chemists and engineers," according to Cecil

Phillips, Executive Director of The Georgia Conservancy. "It is a matter that deserves the attention of taxpayers, business and industry, environmentalists, and everyone concerned about the future of this state."

State officials agree with this assessment of the need for public involvement in water pollution control, and they are taking the issues directly to the people.

The State Environmental Protection Division and The Georgia Conservancy are working together to involve as many Georgians as possible in planning for the State's 1979 Water Quality Plan. The statewide program is called "Clean Water Strategy" and will continue through July 31.

Every activity that involves water quality is under consideration. Not only issues like how heavy industries use water, or how cities deal with sewage. But also the availability and safety of ground and surface water supplies, the use of fertilizers and pesticides, soil erosion, and effective wastewater treatment management. Where... or if... housing developments, apartments, and industrial parks should be built. How builders let rainwater run off construction sites. What kind of swimming and fishing areas are desirable. And how much money will have to be raised to finance the solutions.

Safe drinking water is quantities large enough to quench our collective thirst is likely to become a problem in some areas. Added to this is the goal of having all of Georgia's rivers and lakes clean enough to swim and fish in by 1983. According to The Georgia Conservancy and EPD, this can only be achieved by a network of state and LOCAL strategies working together to clean up Georgia's rivers and streams.

Information available through the "Clean Water Strategy" program includes a Citizens' Summary of the Georgia Water Pollution Control Program Plan, Fiscal Year 1978, prepared by The Georgia Conservancy. The summary outlines State priorities on construction grants, operation of waste treatment facilities, cost control, non-point sources of pollution, discharge permits, stream monitoring, compliance monitoring and enforcement, and public participation.

For more information on "Clean Water Strategy," and individual participation, call or write The Georgia Conservancy, 3110 Maple Drive, Suite 407, Atlanta Georgia 30305 (262-1967). Outside the Atlanta area the toll free number is 1-800-282-7328.

ASC Buccaneers Start Recruiting

by Daniel Brown

Armstrong has a small group of students who most people have never heard of before. This group is made up of about 25 guys and girls and are known as the host and hostesses of Armstrong. The name of the group is the Buccaneers and they will start their recruiting for new members Spring Quarter. The Buccaneers are active in school events and help out at basketball games and events held in the Fine Arts Building. This year the Buccaneers will work with the Special Events Committee and help out when ever needed.

Freshmen as well as any other students are urged to look into the Buccaneers and see if they would like to join. It is a very good way to get involved in our school and make new friends.

The Buccaneers don't require dues or make you eat goldfish but they do ask that members be loyal to the cause and attend assigned events. Uniform material is supplied to new members and name tags are also supplied by the organization. The advisor to the Buccaneers is Karen Payne and her office is located in the Administration Building on campus.

FLASH

It was just found out that Armstrong State College is hosting a Country Dinner here on campus on July 28th. The food is free and the attire is jeans and overalls. There will also be a movie shown after the dinner -- admission to movie will be 50¢. Along with good food there will be a pie contest, country music, and a Jimmy Carter look-alike contest. The dinner starts at 5:30 and the movie at 8:00.

Tennis Tourney Now History

Ask Coaches George Bedwell and Mike Larisey how to cook up a top notch tennis tournament and they'll tell you the main ingredients are evenly matched competition, nice weather and enthusiastic players. And the 1978 edition of The Armstrong State College Open Tennis Championships proved to be the largest held to date in the county. The uniqueness of the tournament, 4 seperate divisions based on skill, brought out participants on every talent level and the final tally amounted to over 390 tennis sports people.

Co-sponsor Pabst Distributing Company added to the festivities by supplying plenty of refreshments. Due to the enormous turnout, action was spread over the ASC, Savannah Country Day and Bacon Park Courts.

Tournament top seed, Mike Lewanski, upheld his tennis heavyweight reputation by capturing the Mens Open Singles championship and pairing with Jimmy Parker to land the Mens Open Doubles championship.

Lewanski, the practicing pro at the Savannah Yacht Club, had little trouble defeating Jim Hargraves in the singles and led his doubles team in that victory. Holly Helfrich, a coed and member of the GSC tennis team, was able to outmatch several capable opponents in her pursuit of the Womens Open Singles championship. She defeated Ginny Orr in the finals.

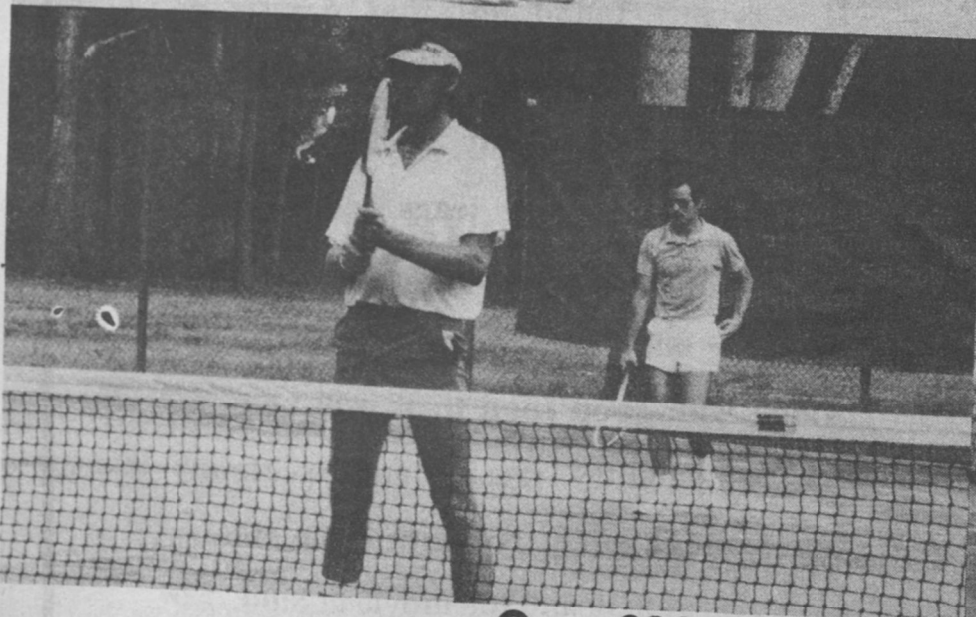

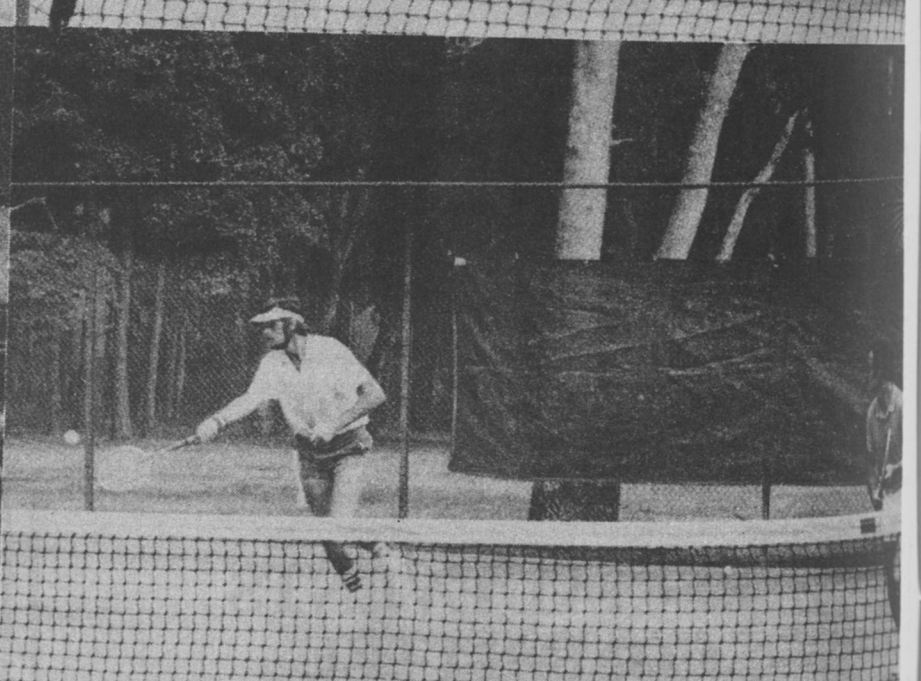

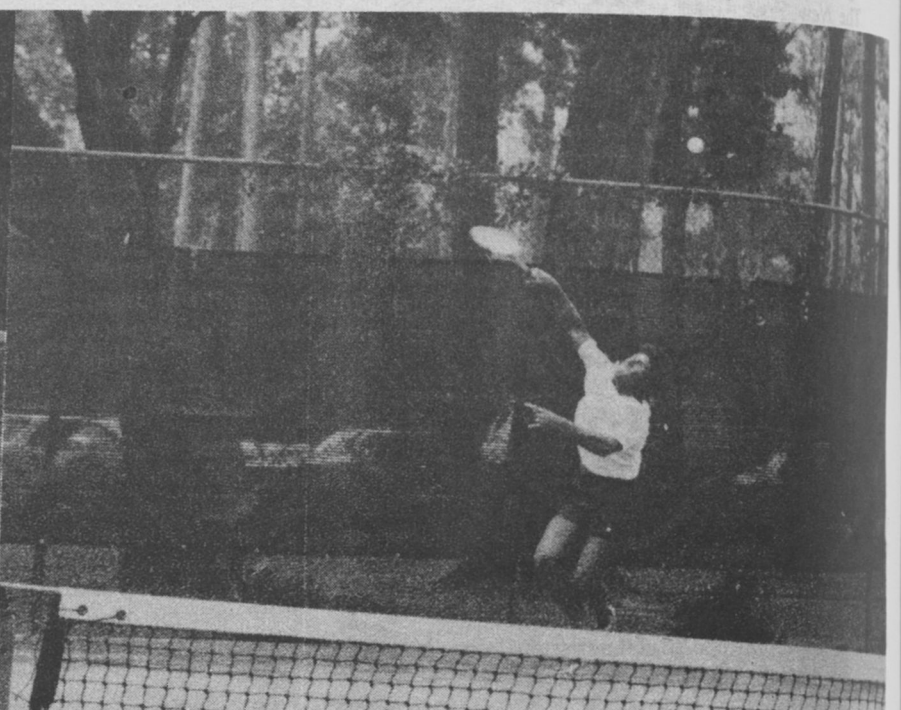

Other winners according to divisions were John Hurt, and Angela Fugate, Advanced Singles; Barry Sutlive and Robin Rodder, Intermediate Singles; Woody Roberts and B.B. Strickland, Novice Singles.

In doubles action Vernon Hardy and Richard Coward won the Men's Advanced while Cheryl McIver and Stephanie McCarthy, of the ASC Varsity Tennis team had little trouble winning the Womens Advanced Division. Karen Burnsed and Susan Cheisson won the Intermediate Doubles. In Mixed Doubles, Mike Vandergrift and Stephanie McCarty won the Open Division while Susan Tinker and John Butcho took the Advanced Title. Kevin Kelley and Jan Bradberry were winners in the Intermediates.

Trophies were awarded to the top three finishers in each event. The tournament was well attended by spectators wanting to see their favorite players in competition. The event is history now but rest assured every one who participated went home feeling like a winner.

Masquers Present "Bad Seed"

The ASC Masquers have planned to present for summer theatre one fine drama. Bad Seed, Maxwell Anderson's adaptation of William March's novel, is a real thriller and provides spine tingling entertainment.

Written about a southern family, the Penmarks, with an unusual little daughter, the play deals with the idea that there are beings who are evil and will do anything to have what they want. This play is about such a being.

The New York Times wrote:

"An extraordinarily literate horror story superior bit of theatre. Little Rhoda Penmark is the evil queen of the story. On the surface she is sweet, charming, full of old fashioned graces, loved by her parents, admired by all her elders. But Rhoda's mother has an uneasy feeling about her. When one of Rhoda's schoolmates is mysteriously drowned at a picnic, Mrs. Penmark is alarmed. For the boy who was drowned was the one who had won the penmanship medal Rhoda felt she deserved."

The novel, written while William March was going insane, deals with horror in a way which leaves the audience totally without defense. Anderson's play captures the essence of this story so well that it was one of Broadway's outstanding hits.

Complete furniture for the set of the play will be supplied by Haverty's Furniture Store. Newspaper photographs were furnished by Steve Fox and Bill Whatley.

Performances will be given nightly at 8:30 p.m. from Wednesday, July 26 through Saturday, July 29. The box office will open on Wednesday, July 19. Tickets are $2.00 for non-students and free for Armstrong students. For more information please call 925-4200.

'Miss Armstrong' Competes In 'Miss Georgia' Pageant

according to Leesa in fact, she and another girl were not even allowed to play on the swingset outside the hotel. The girls could communicate with no one unless the person was involved in the pageant - no parents, no friends, no phone calls, and censored mail. The situation was not as bad as it seems, though, because, as Leesa said, the hostesses were very nice and served as "Mother, best friend, and sister" all rolled into one. Also, with the very close quarters, it was easy to make friends. Leesa said that she "made a lot of close friends after being cooped up with them for a whole week!" She said that the other girls were "friendly, nice, and sometimes crazy!" The girls borrowed clothes from each other, helped each other with hair-dos and make-up, and learned a lot from each other.

Leesa said that several days during the week, the contestants appeared on "The Rozell Show," a local morning talk show. The hostess asked each girl several questions. The highly provocative and relevant question that she asked Leesa was "What did you forget to bring with you this week?" Leesa, being a quick thinker, soon replied: "I forget cream rinse, but the Gillette company gave us a 'bag of goodies' which included a bottle of Tame Cream Rinse." The talk-show hostess quickly picked up her cue and asked Leesa another question which gave Leesa a chance to list several of the major companies that had "been nice" to the girls during the pageant. Leesa also mentioned several times during the interview that all the people in Columbus were very nice to all the contestants. Leesa was particularly impressed by the plush buses furnished by Ronald McDonald in which the girls were transported everywhere they went. Leesa's mother told Leesa later that her answers made her sound like "a walking commercial."

Finally, Leesa told of the events which finished off the week in Columbus. On Saturday afternoon, the other dignified pageant officials and hostesses presented a take-off on a beauty pageant for the group of 34 very nervous girls. The Saturday night, after the pageant (which, by the way, was won by Leesa's very own roommate, Miss DeKalb County), the girls were introduced individually as they entered the Miss Georgia Ball given in their honor. On Sunday morning, the Awards Brunch was held; at which time each girl who entered the pageant was given a $100 scholarship, the top ten girls were given $200 scholarship, and the five runner-ups were given from a $500 scholarship for the fourth runner-up to a $1500 scholarship to the winner. Leesa said that the whole week was tiring and rather nerve-wracking, but that she "enjoyed herself, learned a lot, and it was an experience that none of the girls will ever forget!"
