DC POLICE UNABLE TO LOCATE NEARLY 3,000 GUNS

WASHINGTON (AP) — An internal police audit indicates district police are unable to account for nearly 3,000 guns confiscated at crime scenes or during arrests, a television station reported Monday.

The audit shows the police department has lost track of 2,864 guns received by its property division, WRC-TV reported.

Police spokesman Lt. Reginald Smith denied the weapons are missing, the station reported. They have been misplaced or misfiled, Smith told WRC-TV.

The audit blames years of lax management practices for the current problems.

The division came under fire last spring when it was discovered that the gun storage room doubled as an employee lunch room.

BERKELEY POLICY FOUND IN VIOLATION OF CIVIL RIGHTS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The federal government says the University of California at Berkeley law school's minority admissions program violates civil rights laws.

In findings made public Monday, the U.S. Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights said Berkeley's prestigious Boalt Hall School of Law — the first law school ever investigated by the department — improperly shielded minorities from competition with other applicants.

The university disputed the findings but agreed to change its program, starting with next year's entering class.

Boalt Hall described its 14-year-old program as an effort to diversify the student body by setting goals of 23 to 27 percent minorities in each incoming class, with specific goals for blacks, Hispanics, Asians and Americans Indians.

"The manner in which race and ethnicity were considered had the effect of circumventing competition and effectively excluding applicants from consideration for available positions based on their race or ethnicity," said Gary D. Jackson, regional director of the department's civil rights office, in a letter to the university.

Jackson said the school's admissions director divided applicants into ethnic groups, comparing them only to others within the group, and directed admissions from each group to help insure that goals were met.

EX-DIRECTOR OF RESEARCH GUILTY OF MISUSE OF FUNDS

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — The former director of a research center and job training program at Northwestern State University has been sentenced to 10 months in jail for misusing the program's money.

William J. Long also was fined $20,000 for his guilty plea to one count of theft. The charge stemmed from $926 in automobile repairs paid with money from a federal Job Training Partnership Act program.

A federal and state audit in 1991 claimed more than $1 million in such money was misused before the Louisiana Research and Development Center was forced to shut down in 1989.

The government originally claimed he used training funds to settle personal debts, purchased a telephone system from his own company and used center employees and resources for his personal business.

Campus groups register students to vote

By Julie Phillips
Staff Writer

In this election year the 18-24 year old group has gained the reputation of being a key demographic target for political candidates. Twenty-five million Americans fall in this age group.

Efforts to register GSU students have been under way on campus since the first week of classes.

Southerners for Clinton had a table set up in the Union for the first four days of classes to register voters. The group was acting on a non-partisan basis in an effort to increase voter participation.

The Student Government Association (SGA) had a registration table set up in the Student Union Building and in the rotunda last Monday through Thursday. SGA senator Heather Steinkircher estimated that sixty people registered on September 24.

According to Steinkircher, SGA has registered 1,100 people at Georgia Southern.

Although 18-24 year-olds have historically been overlooked as voters, their participation has been encouraged during this presidential race.

According to David Robinson, who holds the faculty chair for Georgia Southerners for Clinton (an all volunteer organization), there has been an overwhelming increase in interest as compared to the presidential race four years ago.

Robinson anticipates the voting interest of this demographic group will yield more votes for the Democratic candidate Gov. Bill Clinton.

Robinson bases his estimates on national polling data. According to the data, Clinton has a 20 percent advantage over Bush among this age group.

"This state is up for grabs," Robinson said.

The Bulloch County Democratic Committee, Georgia Southerners for Clinton and the Young Democrats are working hard to capture votes. Their efforts include having a campaign table set up at the GSU football game this weekend, a truck in the homecoming parade and a table at the upcoming county fair.

As yet there is no Republican campaign office in Bulloch county, but the College Republicans are actively recruiting new members.

"Sixty-nine new members joined at the membership drive last Wednesday," said Chris Ingram, President of College Republicans.

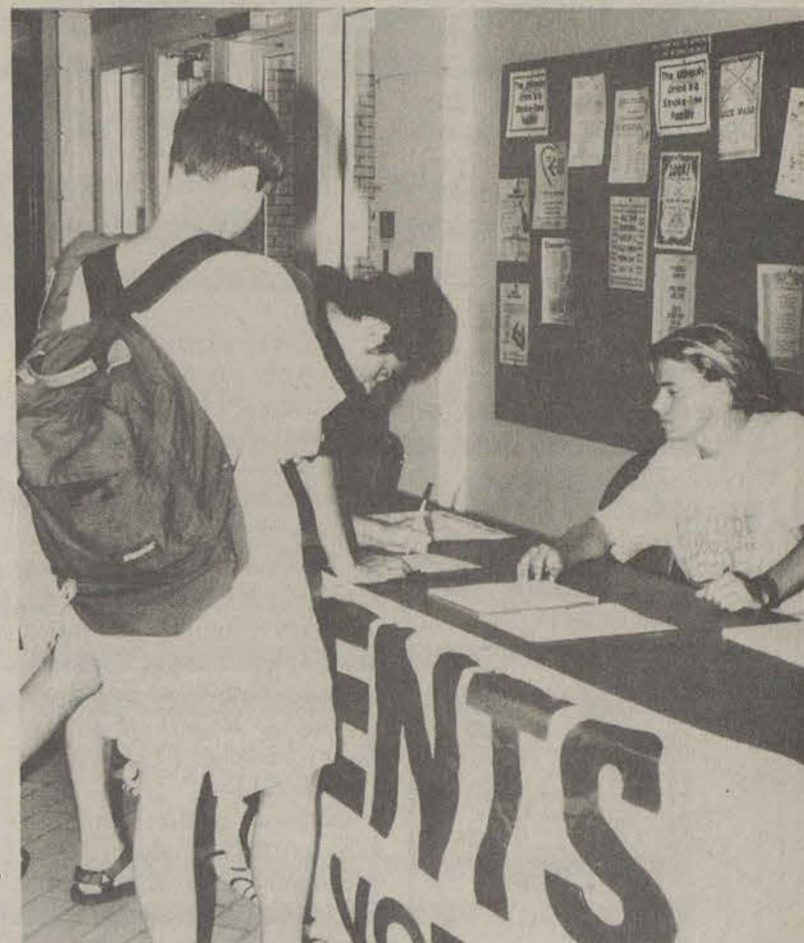

The College Republicans are presently soloing the Bush campaign in Statesboro since the county party is not very strong.

"Most of the community is Democrats," Ingram said, "so they are trying to revitalize the Republican voters."

"Georgia is a conservative state, and there has been a growing number of Republicans in the last eight years," Ingram said.

Campus mugging victim tells the story of her ordeal

By Kim St. Hilaire
News Editor

The following incident occurred in January, and the robbers were finally convicted in September. The name used in this story is not the victim's actual name.

The sun had set and no people were in sight when Catherine walked out to her car in the Union parking lot at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 15.

"Before I was able to close the door, after I'd gotten in the car, one black male stepped between the car door and me," Catherine recalled. "I was sitting in the driver's seat. He stuck a sawed-off shotgun into the left side of my stomach and said, 'Give me all your money.'"

Meanwhile, a second black male stood behind her car.

"At the time, the only thing I could think of was my wallet was in my book bag and I wasn't about to go fishing around for it," Catherine said. "So, I told them that my wallet was in my book bag. He said, 'Give me your book bag.'"

The robbers grabbed her bag and took off toward the woods next to Fair Road.

Catherine said, "I was glad he didn't tell me to scoot over - I'd have had a fit."

Once the males fled, Catherine squatted between the cars before running into the Union.

"I was afraid if they saw me they'd shoot," she said.

Catherine remembers the Union building manager calling the police before she had even reached his desk.

"I just ran straight up there," Catherine said. "I was yelling."

Catherine said the GSU

Division of Public Safety responded almost immediately.

According to GSU Department of Public Safety Sgt. Guy Sharp, "We started without having anything but a general description to go on."

The case broke open when one of the robbers tried to use Catherine's ATM card, and a video camera took a picture of him.

'Test your detectors,' it's Fire Prevention Week

By Enoch Autry
Staff Writer

"Test your detectors; it is sound advice!" will be the theme during the week of October 4-10 as the GSU campus observes Fire Prevention Week.

The main purpose of this week, sponsored by the National Fire Protection Association [NFPA] is to educate both faculty and students in the hazards of fire and what can be done to prevent and protect against fires.

Stratford Hall, which reopened this quarter, had to be renovated after a fire swept through the building on Jan. 21, 1989.

The fire was started when a student knocked over a candle in her room and neglected to inform the proper authorities. It eventually spread throughout the room and into the hallway, causing severe damage to the building.

No students were injured, although one female slept through the episode.

At that time, Stratford Hall did not have the modern fire protection systems. The hall had an alarm system but no smoke detectors. Now Stratford Hall is equipped with smoke detectors in the corridors as well as in each sleeping room. There is also a system that detects and locates a fire within a particular zone.

According to Jay Burdett, an Environmental Safety Officer for GSU Division of Public Safety, "There was a study done that showed that approximately 88 percent of the homes in the United States have smoke detectors and of those about one-third were disabled."

Burdett added that people have either removed the battery or the battery is dead. "The best smoke detector in the world won't save your life if, in fact, it is not able to do its job," Burdett concluded.

For on-campus students, fire safety measures have already been established by the Residence Life Office.

Students are not allowed to have microwaves, portable heaters, electric decorations, toaster ovens or extension cords in their sleeping quarters. Most halls provide kitchen facilities where these items can be used.

Smoking is not permitted in public areas, and a battery operated smoke detector must be installed at ceiling height in rooms with lofts. The bedding used in the residence halls meets NFPA fire retardance standards.

Number of big salaries increases in Georgia colleges

ATLANTA (AP) — Big salaries continue to proliferate in Georgia's public colleges and universities, according to a new report that shows 158 key executives and top professors draw pay of more than $100,000 a year.

A similar report 18 months ago showed there were 92 people earning that kind of money.

Both reports were produced by officials of the University System of Georgia after inquiries by The Associated Press.

"I don't feel these salaries are out of line with other institutions of higher education, considering the quality we're trying to attain," said University System Chancellor H. Dean Probst.

The head of a new tax protest organization, Atlanta attorney Robert Proctor, said he found little fault with paying good salaries to top professors and administrators. "In the business world they might be earning more," he said.

The university system employs more than 28,000 people, about 15,000 of whom are faculty members, administrators or top staff. The average faculty salary is about $40,000.

Between the April 1991 report that showed 92 people drawing $100,000-plus salaries and the latest disclosure of 158 such people, the university system has imposed two tuition hikes of 4 percent each while its finances teetered between feast and famine.

In last year's budget, the university system suffered sharp cutbacks because of an overall state budget crisis. This year, it has been infused with millions of dollars, thanks in part to increases in a wide variety of state regulatory fees.

Probst said keeping and attracting top staff "has been a major problem for us as we faced the budget reductions and continued to develop the quality of the system. We couldn't just come to a standstill."

Probst earns $140,965 as chancellor, is given a residence on Atlanta's upscale northside and is paid a $10,000 subsistence allowance.

The presidents of the state's five universities also are paid more than $100,000 and all but Georgia Southern president Nicholas Henry have a state-provided residence. Henry, instead, gets a $10,000 housing allowance. His combined income, including a $2,500 subsistence allowance, is $105,800.

Counting salary and subsistence, here is what the state pays the other university presidents: Georgia Tech's John P. Crecine, $137,900; Georgia State's Carl V. Patton, $137,900; the Medical College of Georgia's Francis Tedesco, $143,625, and the University of Georgia's Charles Knapp, $137,900.

The figures do not include any other pay the presidents may receive through foundations.

Theater South begins season with an 'All American' theme

By Kim Wagner
Staff Writer

Theater South's 92-93 season has begun and is off to a smooth start. The theme of this year's season is the "All American Season," featuring all American playwrights.

Dando Kluever, the Director of the Theater Department, explained this theme. "We chose this theme to show how varied the works of American playwrights are," Kluever said. "These plays couldn't be more different from one another."

The opening play of the season, The Marriage of Bette and Boo, by American Playwright Christopher Durang, is a four time Obie Winner. Durang is known as one of America's leading satirists.

According to Kluever, the play, which "contains comedy and serious content with a biting edge," reflects Durang's reputation.

The Marriage of Bette and Boo consists of 33 scenes and covers a time period of 30 years, from 1947 to 1977. During these 30 years, Durang lets the audience see first hand the hilarious marriage of two people, Bette and Boo. Durang's play shows the effects of marriage on a family and the interference--or lack of interference--from the church.

Kluever expects this play to be very successful at GSU. "College students will especially enjoy this play," said Kluever, "However, this play also hits a wide range of audiences."

The cast includes: Ernie Becker, Allison Mohrlang, Barbara Donnelly, Jennifer Foster, Frank Hart, Christopher Keever, Sara Loveless, Robert Meguiar, Kerri Mercer, Frank Reed and David Ray.

Kluever is directing the play with the help of stage manager Kail Kemp and assistant manager Tyler Bagwell. Other members of the crew include Brenda Dartt in charge of costumes, Bill Fields as set designer and Gary Dartt as lighting director.

The Marriage of Bette and Boo will be held on Oct. 21-24, 28-30 at 8 p.m.

Next on the schedule for the "All American Season" is the annual performance of A Christmas Carol. The play by English writer Charles Dickens will be modernized and set in Savannah in order to adapt it to the "All American" theme.

Tryouts for A Christmas Carol will be held on Oct. 12 and Oct. 13. The play will open on Nov. 20.

All plays are performed in the McCroan Auditorium in the Administration Building and begin at 8 p.m. Admission is $1 for students with a GSU ID, $3 for faculty and staff, and $5 for non-students.

Work of political cartoonist on display at GSU Museum

By David Hillis
Staff Writer

Cartoonists' depictions of Bush, Clinton and Perot are everywhere, and now GSU students have the unique opportunity to meet the man behind the caricatures, David Boyd.

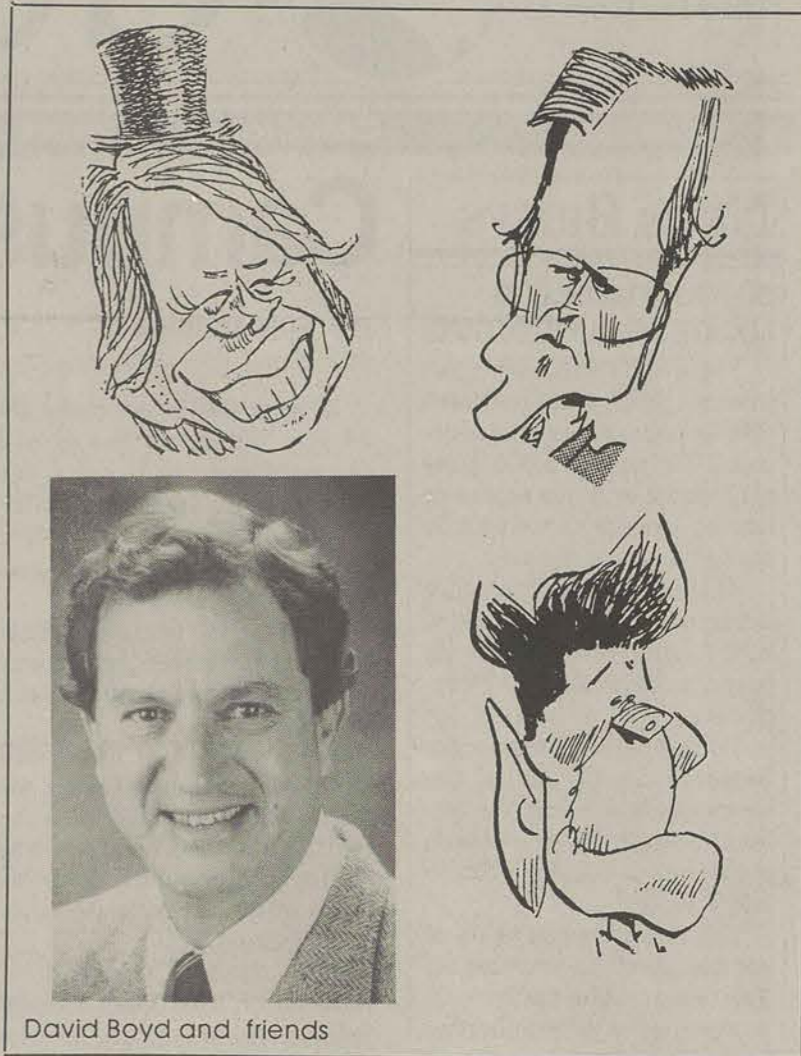

"Syndicated Wit: Political Cartoons of David Boyd" is one of the two premiere exhibits that will be on display from Oct. 4 to Nov. 6 at the GSU Museum.

Boyd, the highly regarded and award-winning political columnist from Newman, Ga., has worked as a professional cartoonist since 1969. A graduate of the Citadel, Boyd has drawn over 6,000 cartoons and has had them published in newspapers all over the country.

Today his work appears in more than 180 newspapers throughout the United States. Besides his editorial work, Boyd also draws the cartoon "Apple Pie" and a strip called "The Sovereign State of Affairs."

His outstanding abilities as a cartoonist have also led him to illustrate books and comic calendars for his frequent golf buddies Lewis Grizzard and Robert Steed.

Along with stand-up comic Jeff Foxworthy, Boyd has also produced a remarkable cast of characters in the books Hick Is Chic, Red Ain't Dead, and You Might be a Redneck If...

Boyd's exhibit will focus on the great presidential elections of 1972, 1976, 1980, 1984, 1988 and 1992. Hundreds of these political cartoons will remain on display throughout the month-long exhibition.

A reception will honor Boyd Sunday from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. He will speak briefly and answer questions from the audience at 3:30 p.m. Admission is free, and the public is invited. Refreshments will also be served.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

George-Anne is a bleeding heart, biased publication

Dear Editor,

When will the George-Anne start being printed in pink?

This is a serious question of the most importance. You see, it seems as though the George-Anne is staffed by a bunch of clueless, left-wing, bed-wetting, runny-nosed, tie-dye wearing socialists.

This apparent fact comes to me as I read the third issue of the George-Anne for the quarter. The George-Anne has produced at least one anti-George Bush or pro-"Slick-Teflon-Adulterer-Willie" Clinton/Al "Bore me to death" Gore article in each issue.

Your liberal counterparts in radio and television media follow the "equal time provision" as required by the F.C.C. which requires media to allow equal time to opposing candidates, issues, etc. This is done to counter an otherwise biased media.

The George-Anne could take a lesson in not being so one-sided.

Of course I do not expect the George-Anne to change its ways. Apparently the George-Anne is staffed by a bunch of "yellow-dog democrats." This is why I ask, "Why not print in pink?"

At least then we could recognize it for being the bleeding hearted, leftist publication that it appears to be.

Special programs director clarifies GSU drug discipline policies

Dear Editor,

I would like to thank the George-Anne for their responsible and informative article on GSU's policy on substance abuse on September 22, 1992.

However, the article may have been somewhat misleading. I would, therefore, like to clarify the policy.

The article stated that a student found in violation of the alcohol or drug policy for a third time (regardless of the time elapsed between violations) would be suspended for a minimum of one quarter. This is not the policy as it relates to drugs other than alcohol.

Violations involving drugs other than alcohol are treated in a significantly different manner from alcohol violations. In almost all cases, one violation of the drug policy (not three) will result in a suspension and the suspension will be longer than one quarter.

Liquor, laws and elections: the choice is ours

We could all be having a cocktail right now.

Last November, a local nightclub owner tried to organize a drive to get liquor legalized on a by-the-drink basis here in Bulloch County.

What surprised a lot of people involved was how easy it would have actually been to get the new law passed. All that was required was a petition with five thousand registered voters' signatures to put the issue on the ballot during the general election.

There were over thirteen thousand students on campus at the time, and while this is far from a scientific estimate, I would guess that at least 90 percent of them would have liked to have access to a daiquiri or two every now and then. This 90 percent estimate puts the number of interested students at about ten thousand, enough to swing any election ever held in this county.

Of course, as those students who have frequented our local drinking establishments already know, the liquor referendum never passed.

Why? Because the folks spearheading the drive couldn't convince five thousand students to register to vote so their signatures would count on the petition.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Doug Gross

While 18 to 24 year-olds are infamous for their political apathy in this country, one would think that the prospect of a stiff shot of liquor would have had even the biggest mental couch potatoes flocking to the Bulloch County Courthouse like a pack of lemmings to register.

But not even the prospect of classier nightclubs and frozen drinks could inspire the GSU populace to action; which makes me wonder if the national and local politics of this election year will fair any better.

Let's hope so.

While the nightclub owner in question certainly had his own ulterior motives (read: big bucks) at heart, he raised some important points about voter empowerment.

With the numbers we have this quarter (over 14,000 students), the population of GSU has the power to determine the outcome of virtually every local political race on the ballot. Every local issue concerning students, from housing ordinances to keg laws, could be affected by a strong showing at the polls on our part.

On the national level, Georgia is being touted as one of the most hotly contested states in this year's presidential race. In a recent visit to Savannah, vice-presidential candidate Al Gore referred to our state as "as close to the key state as you can get."

The youth vote could be a key determining factor in which way Georgia's electoral votes go this November.

In the past, it seems that many GSU students have considered a trip downtown to the courthouse to register too much of a hassle. This year, however, the school's administration has made the process a little easier.

All it takes is a trip over to the Rosenwald Building, rm.

289, to sign up to do your civic duty. Students registered in other counties can also move their registration to Bulloch at Rosenwald and get involved in the wild and woolly world of south Georgia politics.

But time is running out. Monday, Oct. 5 is absolutely the last day to get signed up for the November general election.

Those not registered by then have no alternative left but to sit back, watch the results and hope for the best, knowing their uncast ballot is in effect going to the winner.

The failure to register also terminates the non-voter's right to bitch about politicians for the next four years. President bashing has developed into a bit of an artform in the United States and it would truly be a shame to be left out of the fun for the next term.

Hopefully these facts will inspire GSU student to register in droves before next Monday and show up at the polls in mass on Nov. 3.

Or maybe we'll just have to wait until everybody gets really sick of drinking beer.

New campus construction efforts may be misdirected

I guess by now it's pretty obvious to everyone that our campus is undergoing some serious changes.

There's a lot of construction (and destruction) taking place. I've been studying these things for a while now. I'm just trying to get them straight.

I'm sure everyone has noticed the new sidewalk -- oops -- I mean pedestrian, that is presently being built from the Union to the LRC. It comes complete with lighting, trees, benches and a fountain. Pretty fancy (expensive).

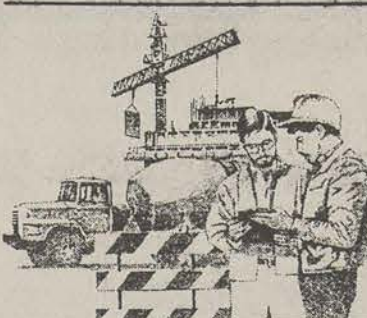

There is also a new dorm being built across the street from the health center. The idea here is to help relieve the on-campus housing shortage.

Of course, when the dorm is completed, the on-campus housing will still be inadequate, but GSU has reached an agreement whereby the local Realtors will meet student housing needs with off-campus (expensive) housing.

Everyone seems to be happy

LET ME SEE IF I GOT THIS STRAIGHT

Everyone seems to be happy with the arrangement -- except maybe the students ...

with the arrangement -- except maybe the students.

And you may have noticed that some of your classes seem to be a little crowded. Some of you may even have arrived at a class to find that there were no more desks.

This is because GSU is also having a problem with inadequate classroom space for our present student population. But never fear, our leaders have a solution. They plan to put up some more temporary buildings. (I wonder if they think our present level of student population is temporary.)

In case you haven't been in one of our temporary buildings yet, the interior walls and floors are constructed at such a variance of angles as to remind you of a Salvadore Dali painting, and the air within reeks of a variety of noxious chemicals.

I can only wonder why OSHA hasn't condemned them. The large number of these temporary structures prompted one student to refer to our fair campus as "the biggest mobile home park in Statesboro."

Then there's on-campus parking. The new dorm I mentioned earlier is being built on one of our larger parking lots.

This, along with a couple of other little projects, has resulted in the loss of about 300 parking spots.

Oh yeah, we now pay 50 percent more for our parking decal.

I would like to take this opportunity to suggest that our leaders start doing some things to encourage alternate forms of transportation; things like putting in more bicycle racks and selling motorcycle parking decals at half-price.

So the way I see it, GSU presently has inadequate classroom space, inadequate

Cafe Manager/DJ enjoys working with cheeseburgers and Suicidal Tendencies

By Shann Wood
Staff writer

Next time you're hanging out in Lakeside Cafe wolfing down a burger or a burrito, take a look around and you're sure to spot WVGS's longest-running disc jockey. By day, David Williams is the mild mannered manager of the Lakeside Cafe, but every Sunday night from 7-9 PM, he slips into the radio personality that has been entertaining students for almost ten years.

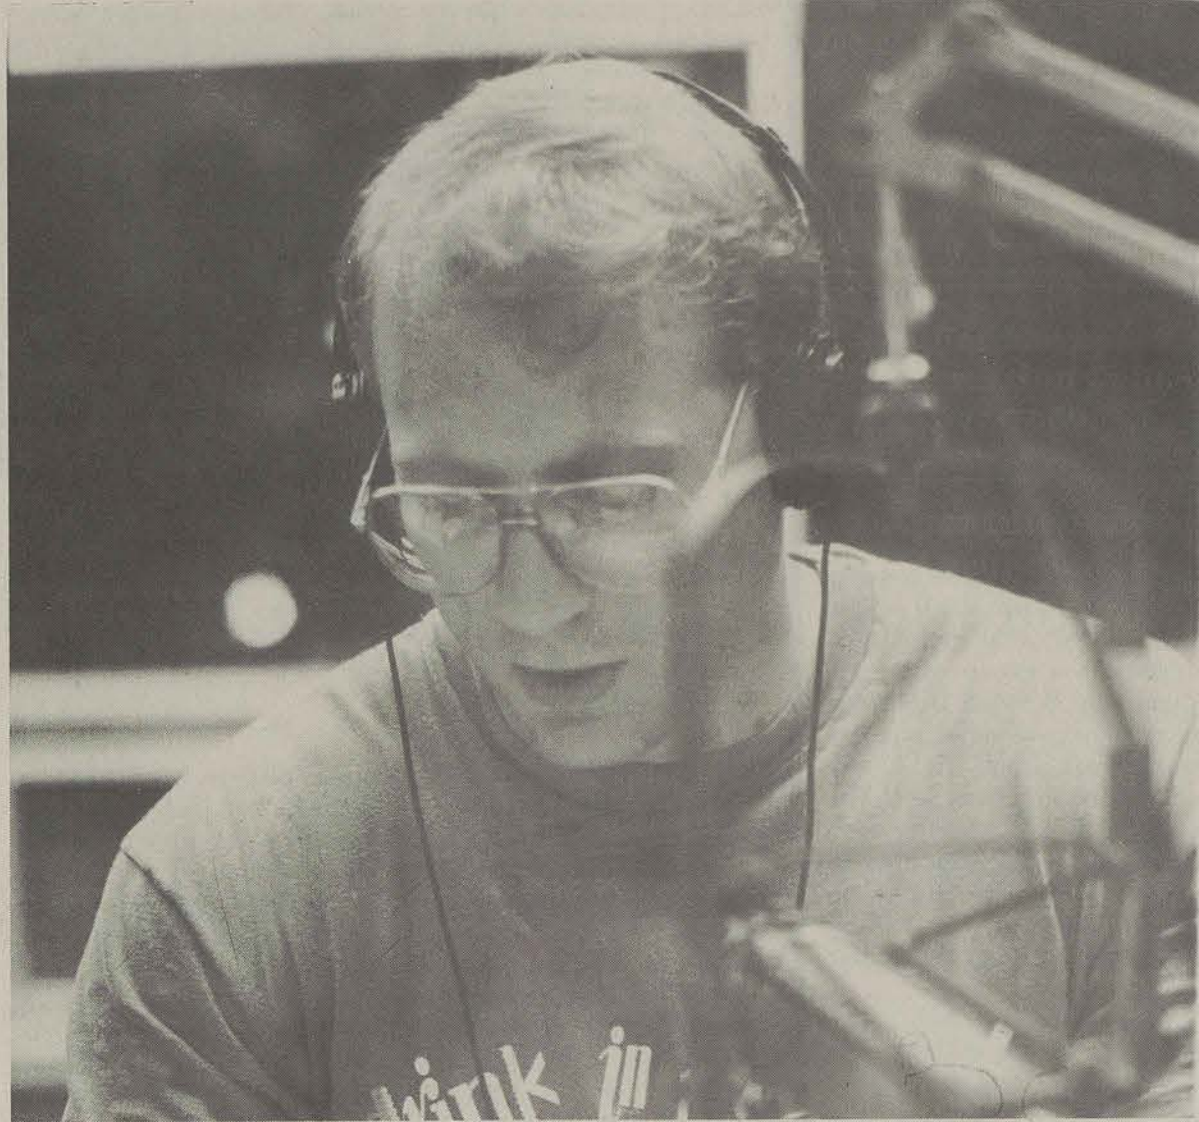

David Williams, better known as Dreyfus, began his radio career in the summer of 1983. Like many other students, Williams first became involved with the station through his friends. Since there is usually a natural shortage of summer DJs, it was easy for Williams to break in with his new show.

Although Williams graduated in 1985 with a degree in accounting, he admits that music is his true passion. Luckily for his listeners, his accounting degree has kept him employed here at GSU since he graduated. Before Lakeside, he worked at Sarah's and The Pines. All this time, Williams has manned the radio as Dreyfus, a name taken from the Chief Inspector on the Pink Panther movies.

Like all WVGS disc jockeys, Williams is not paid for his time spent on the air, but he feels that there are other rewards. He has been spinning the records at Georgia Southern for the last ten years because he loves the freedom it involves. Besides a few restrictions, DJs are allowed to play whatever they wish.

Even though David Williams loves running his radio show, he explains that he has no interest in working at a commercial radio station. Z-102 or I-95 is too mainstream for ol' Dreyfus. He would rather kick back at WVGS for two hours a week and play his favorites from groups such as Soundgarden, Alice in Chains, or Suicidal Tendencies.

Besides being a die-hard DJ, Williams is a long time fan of the college radio station. Like many others, Williams is not entertained with the average Top 40 music. He likes the freshness and the cutting edge of the musical agenda of WVGS.

Often a song premieres and is already out of airplay before it booms as an MTV and commercial radio hit. Williams cites bands such as REM and Depeche Mode as some examples of this phenomenon.

If anyone knows how college radio music has changed in the past ten years, it is David Williams. He has observed that the music that he plays now has a harder edge than the sedate music of the mid-eighties. REM, Love Tractor, and Lord of the New Church are some of the bands that he remembers spinning when he first began this musical pastime. In the eighties, Williams recalls that there was more focus on the "heroin acts" and European and English bands.

The shift in music is a reflection of a shift in styles and college radio is an excellent mirror. What's the similarity between WVGS and GPTV? According to Williams, they are both a form of alternative education. Although you probably won't hear the call of the manatee or information on Cajun cooking on WVGS, you will hear some tunes that you will never hear on any other radio station. Like GPTV, college radio has an alternative format that is designed to broaden it's listeners awareness. This uniqueness is the attraction of WVGS and it's star disc jockey, David Williams.

Are You an Athlete?

Believe it or not, we are all athletes. We all have to walk, bike, or (illegally) rollerblade to class, since Star Trek transportation devices are not yet available on campus yet.

Athleticism can be found in every hall in every building on campus. From the amateur who just goes out and shoots hoops, to the professional waste-basketball player who just as you are reading this set an office scoring record that just might stand for a couple of months.

For some people, even watching a sporting event is considered athletic. The people in this category also like to cuss the respective coach out over such a small maneuver as to put in Rafael Belliard in for Jeff Blauser for defensive purposes at shortstop while the Braves have the late lead.

Others like to simply throw things at their television like the remote control, a stuffed animal, or the nearest small child.

Admittedly, I fall into the irate fan category at certain times as well. If only Bobby Cox could have heard me before he brought Charlie Leibrandt in relief last year against the Twins...

The point I'm trying to drive home here is that while you may think the only athletes you see are on the sports page, you are really seeing them everyday.

You don't have to catch two touchdown passes in a game, score 14 for 15 from the field, hit a home run over the Green Monster in Fenway just to call yourself an athlete.

You don't even have to play well. As long as you enjoy what you are doing, that's all that matters. But don't tell Erk I said that.

Football-Alive and Well

For those of you who have been snoozing over the past few weeks, have I got some news for you. The football team has run their record to 2-1.

They defeated the Furman Paladins 21-0 in Paladins Stadium over the weekend. Furman was ranked thirteenth in the nation in last week's division I-AA poll.

This resounding win over the highly touted Paladins should, in all certainty, lead to another season on the polls for the troops of head coach Tim Stowers.

The team was ranked in the 20th slot in the preseason polls and now occupies that slot in a tie with Eastern Washington.

Stowers has taken a lot of criticism lately for his handling of the two-quarterback situation.

He is correct in the fact that the system of using two quarterbacks will confuse the opponent, in the sense that they must prepare for the eventuality that either quarterback could possibly start or play the majority of the game.

However, at least in my opinion, the juggling of quarterbacks also serves to confuse the team. Most, if not all of the successful teams in college football, have one main starter that they depend on.

What will happen if Bostick or Dupree get hurt and the "other guy" has to take over in the middle of a crucial series?

Let's hope, for the team's sake, that we don't have to find out. Football is a brutal game and injuries are far too commonplace to be taken lightly.

The problems that could create could throw the whole football team off. We'll have to wait and see.

Braves slay Giants

First to first: Atlanta takes West

By John Munford
Sports Editor

The Atlanta Braves sealed up their second consecutive National League West title in a row Tuesday night, defeating the San Francisco Giants 6-0.

Atlanta starter Charlie Leibrandt went all nine innings for his 14th victory of the season as he got all the support he would need off of Ron Gant's solo home run that gave the Braves an early one run lead.

Atlanta got the help they needed from the Dodgers, who went on to defeat the hapless Cincinnati Reds by a score of 5-0. L.A. starter Pedro Astacio went the distance as the Reds couldn't collect but one base hit for over five innings.

After the game the entire team, including disabled catcher Greg Olson, made the trip out to congratulate Leibrandt. Olson, who rode out on the shoulders of his teammates, was escorted around the bases on crutches, ending up at home plate as his teammates and the fans cheered him on.

Here are the Braves' comments from the locker room after the game:

Terry Pendleton: "This is sweet because no one expected us to do it. I put up the numbers I thought I was capable of. The guys in front of me gave me plenty of opportunities."

Leibrandt: "It's a great feeling. We came out with a lot of intensity tonight. It's a first for me to close such an important game out."

Tom Glavine: "I'm looking forward to getting back on track. I felt good in San Francisco and hope I'll do better against Pittsburgh."

Steve Avery: "It [the NLCS] should be fun. Pittsburgh is a good ball club. Deion's jealous that the Falcons can't do this."

Otis Nixon: "To come back again is real tough. No one is more satisfied in this room than I am."

Greg Olson: "You'd have to have two broken legs and one broken arm to miss this celebration."

Bobby Cox: "It wasn't any easier... you never get enough games ahead of the competition. We'll have a little fun tonight and get down to business tomorrow."

The business of searching for a set of World Series rings.

Baby Eagles lose to North Greensboro JC

By Laney Nelms
Staff Writer

Statesboro, Ga.- North Greenville Junior College came from behind to defeat the Georgia Southern Baby Eagles Monday afternoon in junior varsity football action.

With only 4:52 into the game, North Greenville Junior College took the opening kickoff and drove the length of the field to score on a 22 yard scramble by Timmy Dorsey. Georgia Southern quickly responded with a scoring drive of their own. Carlos Parker broke free and scored on a 4 yard touchdown run. With both teams missing the extra point, the first quarter ended in a deadlock tie at 6.

Georgia Southern took control of the ballgame in the second quarter when Tyrone Stephens scored on a 1 yard run to give the Baby Eagles a 12-6 lead and with the extra point, the lead was 13-6. Tyrone Stephens had a great day by carrying the ball for 109 yards on 17 carries and one touchdown. After a couple of defensive stands by both ball clubs, North Greenville Junior College put a drive together and Timmy Dorsey ran a 1 yard score and by missing the extra point, the Eagles still led 13-12. Late in the quarter with the Mounties driving, Derrick Treadwell picked off a Dorsey pass and rumbled 90 yards to put the Eagles up 19-12. Brian Labella added the extra point and the Eagles had a 20-12 lead going into the locker rooms.

The third quarter was all North Greenville Junior College with the Mounties scoring twice. Reggie Gilliard's touchdown reception from Dorsey pulled the score close at 20-18. Having not converted on an extra point attempt, the Mounties went for the 2 point conversion and made it to tie the score at 20. With the momentum against the Eagles, North Greenville Junior College scored again on a 2 yard run by Novel Waller to give the Mounties a 26-20 ad-

Starting the final quarter down by a touchdown, Georgia Souther came out and put an impressive drive together. With 7:28 left in the game, Ryan Traylor scampered 7 yards for the touchdown to tie the game at 26-26. Brian Labella came through once again to convert on the extra point to give the Eagles 27-26. With only 1:16 left on the clock and the Eagles with the ball, the game seemed to be under control. On third and 11 from the 44 yard line, Ryan Traylor rolled out to attempt a pass, but was hit from behind and fumbled the ball. Brandon Medlin scooped up the fumble and galloped 42 yards to the winning touchdown. After a 2 point conversion, North Greenville Junior College had pulled an upset by defeating the Eagles 34-27.

The Eagles are now 1-1 on the season and are off until October 11, when they travel to Milledgeville to face the Cadets of Georgia Military College.

Lady Eagle winning streak ends with loss

By Teresa Hensley
Staff Writer

After a strong showing last Tuesday night against South Carolina State, the Lady Eagles faltered this past weekend. Friday night at College of Charleston the Lady Eagles' perfect 5-0 record slipped away in straight games. Although Nicci Borisek and Alexis Dankulik each had 11 kills and Alexis also contributed ten digs, College of Charleston prevailed none the less.

The Lady Eagles, accustomed to winning in straight games as they did in their first three matches, had to come off this disappointing loss to continue on the road for their next three matches.

With a still impressive 5-1 record intact, the Lady Eagles traveled Saturday to Jacksonville University. They lost the first game 8-15 but rallied and took the next 15-7 and battled to top Jacksonville in the third game 15-13.

Soccer team wins first Conference matchup

GSU's soccer Eagles traveled to Huntington, West Virginia, on Sunday to defeat Marshall University 1-0 for their first Southern Conference game and win of the season.

Steen Larsen scored the only goal of the game when he jumped on a loose ball and landed it in Marshall's net. Larsen was assisted by Jeff Heidt with a cross kick from the right side. Marshall had Saturday's match was hard-fought with Jennifer McNally's team effort of 30 assists helping to keep the games close. Although they put up a good fight, they fell the next two games each 12-15 to wind up with a 5-2 overall record after the weekend.

Another match was scheduled Saturday against Florida International but was canceled, leaving the Lady Eagles plenty of time to look ahead to Monday's match at Mercer, which promised to be a challenge. The mental preparation aided the Lady Eagles as did Nicci Borisek and Lucy Brown each with ten kills as they overcame Mercer in four games. Lucy, in her first start, also had eleven digs.

The Lady Eagles took their 6-2 record Tuesday night to South Carolina and tonight are back home at 7:00 against Charleston Southern looking to preserve a still perfect home record of 3-0.

an opportunity to score in the second half, but the shot was stopped by the crossbar.

GSU had six shots, three saves, three corner kicks, and fourteen fouls. Meanwhile, MU came up with seven shots, one save, three corner kicks, and seventeen fouls.

This win improves the Eagles record to 4-4-1 and 1-0 in the Conference while Marshall drops to 2-5 and 0-2.

The soccer team will resume play at home on Wednesday, September 30 against Charleston Southern at 4 P.M.

Living off-campus gives a person more responsibility for keeping their own smoke detectors in working order.

"The main thing is most of them [smoke detectors] have a test button on the detector itself," Burdett said. "You can simply walk up to it and test the little test button, and it should activate. If it does not activate, you should change the battery."

Most smoke detectors also have an indicator light that glows when the detector is operating properly. Batteries should be changed when this light goes out.

"Once a year you should take that smoke detector and try to blow the dust that has accumulated," Burdett said. "Another thing is you should set up a regular schedule to check your detector once a month."

Burdett also said that it is wise to pick a holiday, anniversary, or another important date to change the battery in your smoke detector each year.

"What you want to do is have a detector located near where people actually sleep," Burdett stated. "You also want to have one [smoke detector] on every level of your house, if you have a multi-story home. You need to be careful to place it [smoke detector] at the highest point in the room."

Burdett also revealed some bad locations for the placement of smoke detectors. For example, smoke detectors placed in kitchens are likely to give frequent false alarms, making them unreliable as indicators of actual danger. Placing a smoke detector near a fireplace is impractical for the same reason. Air vents can also affect the accuracy of smoke detectors by diffusing the smoke and delaying the alarm sound.

Fire prevention must include an evacuation plan.

When in a residence hall or a campus building, you should follow this established procedure in the event of a fire. First, turn off all the lights, televisions, etc., except for the ceiling light, and raise the blinds. Second, stay beneath the smoke and crawl out if necessary. Third, close the door of the room or area of the fire. Finally, exit the building via the designated fire exits.

"You need to actually sit down and say 'if there is a fire in the house, this is what we are going to do,'" Burdett said. "We want to have at least two ways out and have a common meeting place outside. We can take a quick and accurate head count to make sure we have everybody accounted for, this is real important."

If a fire does arise, then there are fire extinguishers located throughout every building on campus.

Burdett mentioned that over the summer, the fire extinguishers were checked, serviced and tested, and they are all in working order.

Multipurpose extinguishers capable of stopping computer fires, electrical fires, flammable liquid fires and ordinary combustible fires are being put in soon.

Rip Us Off.

That's right – you heard right. Rip us off. Get something for nothing. Say hello to a friend. Find a roommate. Get a job. Find a home for a litter of kittens. Buy a wombat. Or sell your Beamer (right, like you expect us to believe you – and not your folks – actually have the title to that BMW). Regardless of your purpose (or even if you are a congenital liar like the Beamer owner), Georgia's liveliest classified ad section is

"I did, I considered going to college in Florida. Hey, but then I wouldn't have the opportunity to be snowed in, in of all places, the Physics building. Just me, some perpetual motion geeks and an electrostatic generator. With only a candy machine and my calling card for recreation."

Whether you're on-campus or off, even if you're studying abroad, the AT&T Calling Card helps you keep in touch.

It's the least expensive way to call state-to-state on AT&T, when you can't dial direct. With the new AT&T Call and Save Plan, you'll get special discounts on AT&T Calling Card calls*. And once you have your card, you'll never need to apply for another.

Get your Calling Card now and you'll get your first call free. You'll also become a member of AT&T Student Saver Plus, a program of products and services that saves students time and money.

So as you can see, the AT&T Calling Card can do an incredible amount of things, for a 1 ounce piece of plastic. So much for the theory of relativity.

To get an AT&T Calling Card, call 1 800 654-0471 Ext. 852.

© 1992 AT&T. *Pending FCC approval. Please call above 800 number for details. You'll receive one $1 AT&T L.D. Certificate equivalent to 22 minutes of card or direct-dialed, coast-to-coast, night and weekend calling based on rates effective 6/9/92. You could get more or fewer minutes depending on where or when you call. Offer limited to one certificate per student.
