Increase in arrests may not reflect an increase in crime

Some students and faculty believe that the increase in arrests indicates a better policing of campus

By David Hillis Staff Writer

The statistics previously released by GSU's Division of Public Safety clearly show that much of the crime at GSU is alcohol-related.

However, many of the faculty and personnel at GSU feel that alcohol is not the only problem. Richard Waugh, associate professor of criminal justice at GSU, is one of these believers.

"From what I read in the paper and talking with students, I think most of the problems we have around here [regarding crime] are related active campus police, who try to alcohol," Waugh said.

Waugh added, however, much as they can." that alcohol-related offenses weren't the only problems. "The majority of the crime offcampus where the students live seems to me to be thefts such as house and car breakins," Waugh said.

Waugh continued, "I think we have a campus that is as sure the department of Public puses that I am aware of." He believes this is because of the rural setting of GSU and the superb performance of the campus police. "We have an to stay on top of things as Many students share the beliefs of GSU's faculty and staff regarding campus crime.

Jodi Spires, a criminal justice major and senior at GSU, says, "Though the problem of crime at GSU has probably gotten somewhat worse, I'm safe or safer than most cam- Safety is doing all it can to curb the crime where it lies."

> Spires also showed enthusiasm toward the service officer program now being offered by the campus police. Spires remarked, "The escort service currently is a good first step toward significantly reducing crime on the GSU campus and is to be commended.'

The service officer program is offered by the campus police and may be used by anyone living on campus or in the noncommuter zones at GSU. With just a simple call to Campus Security at 681-5234, anyone within the zone can have a uniformed service officer escort them to wherever they need to go. This service is offered from 6 p.m. to 2 a.m., Sunday through Friday.

College Republicans attend Vice-presidential debate in Atlanta

By Ken Ward Staff Writer

GSU's College Republicans attended a debate watch and rally in honor of Vice President Dan Quayle on Tuesday evening on the campus of Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

The group of approximately 25 was taken to Atlanta in a chartered bus funded by the Bush/Quayle '92 General Committee.

"The event held at Georgia Tech was the best experience of my life," Nicky Jones, a GSU sophomore and College and all of us understand what debate was really 'pumped-Republican stated. The banner read "The Feud Begins." The likeness of both the GSU Eagle and the University of Georgia Bulldog were imprinted on the visual display. But the Saturday gridiron was not the only place in Athens where a conscious effort for victory was happening.

Outside eight gates to Sanford Stadium, the East Georgia Chapter of the American Red Cross was collecting donations from the sellout crowd in an effort to gain a victory over some of the despair that came from Hurricane Andrew.

In cooperation with UGA and its athletic association, the East Georgia Chapter volunteers collected donations from 11 a.m. until halftime. After considering which UGA home game would be the best choice for the fund-raising effort, the "all-Georgia" game with GSU prevailed.

Tom Leigh, Chairman of the East Georgia Chapter, stated, "You can tell from the blue and yellow and from the red and black that you are getting money from both sides,"

According to Leigh, the organization had a fund raising goal of $10,000, but there was no count immediately after the game. He felt that the total would probably be in the $8,000 range

TWO MORE CANDIDATES ENTER TODAY'S ELECTION

Patrick Harrison and Regina Zimmerman have added their names to the list of candidates vying for the position of Vice President of Auxiliary Affairs with the Student Government Association .

Zimmerman and Harrison join seven other candidates in today's election which will be held from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Union rotunda.

The position involves working with GSU staffon such matters as parking, food services and the publication of the "Who's New on Campus" directory of incoming freshmen.

WALKER NAMED PRESIDENT OF OLYMPIC COMMITTEE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) -LeRoy Walker was elected as the 23rd president of the U.S. Olympic Committee on Sunday, and George Steinbrenner was re-elected as a vice president during the organization's final day of meetings.

While Walker ran unopposed, the election of three vice presidents wasn't such a sure thing. After a secret ballot, Steinbrenner, the New York Yankees' exiled owner, was reelected.

Walker, 74, of Atlanta, is the first black president in the group's 92-year history. NASA BEGINS SEARCH FOR SPACE ALIENS MONDAY

GOLDSTONE, Calif. (AP) -The biggest search for aliens in space began Monday as NASA celebrated Columbus Day by turning on giant radio telescope "ears" in California and Puerto Rico.

The space agency's 10-year project, budgeted at $100 million but facing cuts, seeks to answer a profound question: Are humans alone in the universe?

If NASA finds an alien civilization, communication will be difficult. The star closest to Earth is about four light years away 23.5 trillion miles-which means radio signals reaching Earth would have left a planet near that star four years earlier and a response from Earth would take four years to reach that planet.

Astronomers said last month they want the United Nations to help decide when - and how - Earth should respond if alien radio signals are discovered. TEEN PREGNANCY COSTS EXCEED PREVENTION IN GA

WASHINGTON (AP) Georgia spends nearly 50 times as much on public assistance for families started by teenagers than it spends trying to prevent teen-age pregnancy, according to a report released Monday.

The report prepared by the Southern Regional Project on Infant Mortality said Georgia provided $536 million in Medicaid, food stamp and welfare benefits in 1991 to families that were started by teen-agers.

Duringfiscal 1992, however, the state spent just $11.7 million on programs to prevent teen-age pregnancy, such as family planning and initiatives for public health and school health.

The report said southern governments spent $5.7 billion in 1991 to provide Medicaid, food stamp and welfare benefits to families started by teenagers, a 60 percent increase since 1986. The same states spent just $110 million in fiscal 1992 on programs aimed at preventing teen-age pregnancy.

The grand total of $5,806 was short of both the goal and the Red Cross expectations, but the amount will still be very beneficial to the hurricane victims.

Donations were coming in all different amounts, but the normal donation was that of $1.

"It was like everybody was reaching in their pocket for a dollar," added Leigh, "Dollar by dollar, and that is pretty much what you need. If you get enough people to give a dollar, then you have a lot of money."

"We had public service announcements on the radio and the television, and we had a few things in the paper," said Leigh. "Basically Cheri [Ms. Gyergyo, the Executive Director of the chapter] was on several local TV stations in public service announcements."

An amount of about $38,000 had been reached the week preceding the GSU and UGA contest by people sending money to the chapter. Leigh was anticipating that the total would be over $50,000 with some donated can goods.

Speaker addresses issues of ethics and the right to die

Dr. James Rachels from the University or Alabama lectured on " Ethical Issues in Physician-Assisted Suicide" Monday night to a full house in the Foy Recital Hall.

At this special event sponsored by CLEC and the department of English and Philosophy, Rachels discussed the controversial issue of euthanasia or "mercy killing."

Although physician assisted suicide is illegal in every western nation except Holland, cases of mercy killing are still reported. Rachels cited several examples of this, including Janet King George V.

Charges brought against Kevorkian were dropped because Michigan has no law against assisting in suicide. However, Kevorkian did receive bad press over the issue despite his prior efforts to find an alternative solution to Adkins' illness.

A second example cited by Rachels was the April 1992 case of Teresa Ann Pearson. Baby Teresa was born in Florida without a brain. Her parents made a request that the infant's organs be used for transplant to give other infants a chance at life.

However, Florida forbade Adkins, Baby Teresa, and the use of Baby Teresa's organs. In Florida the criterion Janet Adkins, a woman for declaring death is brain

Rachels stated, "I think that it was a tragedy that these organs were not used" because Baby Teresa died, and so did some other babies who could have been saved by the use of her organs.

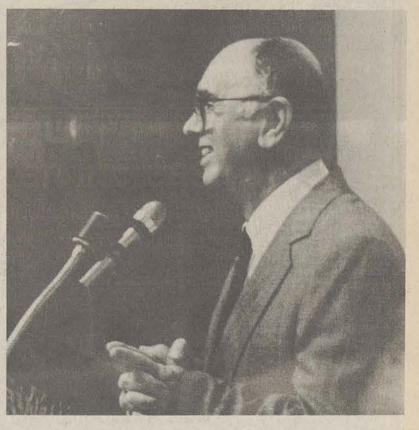

"We certainly can't say we did it for her, [because she died anyway]," Rachels said.

Rachels, an author of several books concerning euthanasia, also cited an example which occurred in 1936 in Great Britain. The story was told that King George V died a peaceful death in his sleep.

However, in 1970 the discovery of papers belonging to the king's physician indicated the king died from a lethal injection. King George V was injected with morphine mixed with cocaine to end the painful death he was experiencing.

Rachels explained that in Holland, the only western nation where mercy killing is

Vote for Vice President of Auxiliary Affairs today

Now is the time for all good men (and women) to come to the aid of their campus.

Today from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., students will have a chance to elect the individual who will go to bat for them with the administration on such issues as parking, food services and bookstore prices.

Nine students have applied for the Student Government Association position of Vice President of Auxiliary Affairs, vacated this quarter by Jennifer Jacobs. It is now up to us to pick which one of them is best suited to represent us on these highly visible and often controversial matters.

Those on the ballot as of press time are: Louis Bridges, Robbie de Rojas, Scott Edwards, Patrick Harrison, Jerrel James, Delores Johnson, David Spran, Andrea Tiggler and Regina Zimmerman.

For some insight into what's on these folks' minds, grab a copy of this past Tuesday's edition of the George-Anne, which includes a story featuring some key thoughts from most of the candidates.

Also, those vying for the position will almost certainly be posted all over campus handing out flyers detailing why you should vote for them. Take a few seconds to compare notes and pick a candidate. Then head over to the Union rotunda and cast your ballot.

Historically, SGA elections have inspired around 10 percent of the student body to get out and vote. Hopefully, we can change that trend today.

Just call it practice for the big day on Nov. 3.

I am a member of the Georgia Southern University Foundation Board of Directors serving a total of seven years to date.

In addition, I have worked as a special resource teacher, and through Georgia Power Company to obtain assistance, most recently the Chair for Economic Development jointly with Savannah Electric Power Company.

I have served on the Board of Directors of the GSU Museum and helped secure the Vogtle Whale for GSU. I've been on the Advisory Board of the School of Technology and helped sponsor the GETIT program.

Most recently, Mr. Jason Becker wrote that my letter implies that supporting the Democratic candidate for president is an expression of Communist sentiments. Where did it say this? My letter was about the George-Anne's biased

As for the rest of your letter, it is full of a bunch of unsubstantiated sentences of mindless blabber that are not deserving of response.

Finally, I would like to take a moment to defend the record of President George Bush, which is so often distorted by the media.

On the economy, President Bush has expanded trade which creates jobs. In fact, America reclaimed the position the position as the world's top exporter, creating 1.8 million jobs and exporting more than $40 billion of American products in 1991 alone.

Between 1988 and 1991 the trade deficit fell 40 percent to its lowest level in nearly a decade. Bush's America 2000 proposal for educational reform provides for school choice, and greater flexibility in the use of federal and state funds.

On the environment, Bush has added more than 1.5 million acres to America's national parks and forests, and has accelerated the U.S. phaseout of ozone harming substances.

Dear Editor,

The Democratic candidate Bill Clinton is a communist robot programmed to subvert our beloved land of two parent families and immaculately conceived children into an American miasma of socialist dogma, flag burning and pornography.

It is no secret now that in the winter of 1969 Bill Clinton flew to Moscow to submit himself to Russian manipulation.

Your history teachers will tell you that during the seventies, Arkansas was infiltrated by Bolsheviks trained to speak the melodious and sensitive language that they speak in that region.

How else can we explain that Clinton was elected governor five times, if not to subvert our beautiful fruited plain of family values and capitalist economic fidelities?

Wake up America! Have you ever wondered why the colors of the University of Arkansas are red? And the mascot is the razorbacks? Read George Orwell! Are you ready for America to become another Animal Farm?

Let's keep everything just as messed up as it is. Vote Republican.

Good food, atmosphere, and service available at Buffalo's Rustic atmosphere provides a welcome dining and drinking alternative in Statesboro

By Carlton Dickerson Staff Writer

Once again, I have been challenged with the task of reviewing one of Stateboro's newest eating establishments. This week's choice was Buffalo's bar and grill. For weeks during the summer I kept reading signs that said Buffalo's was coming. From the sound of the name I didn't around. know what to expect. First I Buffalo's is quite unique. pictured a large barn and sev- The restaurant is placed on eral little buffaloes running the bank of a rather nice size lake. The outward appearance waitress returned with my is captivating and parking is very adequate. The interior takes you back to the olden' days when we were playing cowboys and indians. To some that doesn't sound that fun, but weren't those the days when we could carry toy guns and pretend to shoot our annoying neighbors. All jokes aside, the atmosphere is quite relaxing.

After examining the premises. I decided to place my meal. The service was quite impressive and the food was great. The Maverick Tenders, which are like chicken fingers, were very tasty. So of course. they are my dish of the week. If you haven't tried them, do. The buffalo burgers were also quite tasty and along with every other dish I tried. The food is a little on the expensive side (especially the beer) but it's worth every penny.

Again, the service and food order. Before I knew it the were just great, but there is no place without fault. The weak point of my meal was that I ordered Sprite and received carbonated water (twice). But, just a reminder to those of you who are picky, it wasn't the waitress' fault that the Sprite machine was having problems. As a matter of fact, my waitress, Jema Talgo, made my meal even more pleasurable. Everyone seemed excited and happy to serve. They are so kind that they even sing Happy Birthday to drunk guys named Bubba.

If you're looking for a cool new place to go out to and you have the bucks to spare, check out Buffalo's.

Internationally acclaimed pianist Peter Orth to perform

GSU News Service

Internationally acclaimed pianist Peter Orth will perform in GSU's Foy Recital Hall on Mon., Oct. 19 at 8 p.m.

Orth's program will include selections from works by Hayden, Schubert and Liszt. Previous performances by Orth have won wide critical acclaim for combining the characteristics of a mainstream musician with a rare individual style.

A critic from The Detroit News wrote, "Had he been born a hundred years earlier, Orth probably would have been lionized." While a New York Times critic simply refers to him as "a major talent."

Recipient of the 1979 Naumberg International Competition First Price, Orth has been a guest soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra, New York Philharmonic and other major metropolitan orchestras across the nation. Orth's international credits include performances at Finland's Kuhmo Festival, Orchestre National de Lyon. Orchestra of Spain and

J. California Cooper provides insight into her work

By Keela Whitest Staff Writer

J. California Cooper, author of Family, read some of her works and talked about their meaning on Oct. 11 in Foy Recital Hall. The program, sponsored by CLEC, was introduced with an excerpt of Family performed by Umoja, an African American performance group at GSU.

The moment Cooper stepped on stage, she warmed the hearts of the audience with her passionate, yet "down to earth" personality. Cooper shared with the audience collections of her stories. Homemade Love (a recipient of the 1989 American Book Award), Some Soul to Keep, A Piece of Mine (one of the American Library Association's Notable Books of 1985), and 17 plays won cooper a James Baldwin Award, also capturing the honor of Best Black Playwright in 1978.

"I was telling stories before I could write," says Cooper. Although Cooper's Family tells the story of four generations of an African American family born into slavery, she comments that "I'm not writing about black people; I'm writing about human beings. Every race has experienced slavery in some way."

Most of Cooper's works are about survival. More interestingly, Cooper is connected more with nature. "I prefer nature to people They [plants, trees, animals] are living stories. I get influences and thoughts that belong to them," Cooper said.

Cooper is from California, and she now lives in a small town in Texas. Thanks to Cooper for her wisdom and her entertaining skill as a magical storyteller. Thanks to CLEC for bringing more culture to GSU.

Homecoming Queen Nomination deadline has now been extended to Oct. 19th. And pictures will be taken on Oct. 20th - details at Union.

Coach Claiborne said that

Congress seeks Title IX support Dear Editor:

My purpose in writing is to obtain public support for holding the Congress and Administration responsible for failing to enforce Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 concerning women's participation in intercollegiate athletics.

On April 9, 1992, Chairwoman Cardiss Collins of the House Subcommittee on Commerce, Consumer Protection and Competitiveness opened hearings on: "Title IX: The effects on Women's Sports and Gender Equity." Copies of the witness list for this hearing and for public review or copying. In this hearing, Mr. Schultz, executive director, National Collegiate Athletic Associate (NCAA) discussed the efforts of the NCAA to assist its membership in achieving gender equity in intercollegiate athletics.

In my opinion, because the NCAA sponsors twice as many male teams in its basketball and lacrosse Division I championship tournaments as female teams and no comparable female team to the large male football teams in these championship tournaments, it is extremely unlikely that the NCAA will be considered a serious factor in the promotion of gender equity among its membership.

If sufficient time is unavailable for enforcement of Title IX by either the Administration or the 102nd Congress; then, the public must demand and explanation from their Senators and Representatives to justify such and extreme delay in view of the enactment of Title IX twenty years ago. In addition to obtaining the positions of candidates for national office, the public is strongly urged to make it clear that any incumbents who thought that after 20 years Title IX should wait more before it is seriously enforced in competitive athletics, will wait more than 20 years to obtain their vote at elections.

If someone desires to discuss these matters further or to obtain additional information, they may contact me at telephone (410)455-9687 or write to P.O. Box 27498, Towson, MD 21285.

you're officiating for organized intramural sports. The abuse is ten times worse in the intramural games than in varsity or even major league games.

I play a Varsity sport here and we have had, in the past, some of, what we thought, were the worst umpires on the face of the Earth. There was a particular incident during a pre-season game where a ball got past the outfield and I was on third. I slid into home plate and the throw from the outfield to home was later than I was.

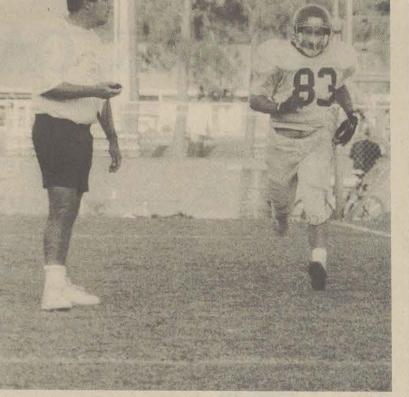

In my mind, I was safe and there was no question about it. Not to mention, when the catcher caught the throw from the outfield, she caught it over her head. By the time she tagged me I was on the ground and sitting on the plate. The official called me out. Our coach came out of the dugout like a rocket, yelling all the way.

I did not agree with the call, nor did anyone else on our team. The other team probably didn't think it was a good call, but didn't say anything because they were losing and got a lucky break. It didn't matter because the official had the last word.

I've attended soccer games and basketball games where the players stood on the sidelines cursing the officials under their breath. I'm guilty of being angry at an official once or twice in my life, but I try to keep in mind that no matter what these interpreters do, they are always fiftypercent wrong.

In my opinion, the referees to go through the clinics and take the tests to qualify to call games do not always learn 🗙 what it takes to actually know the game.

conflicts with our own experiences and that of others which we have observed. For example, two staff members (one whose arms were filled with papers) have been bitten by the geese with sufficient force to leave large bruises on their legs.

We have observed students (one in a wheel chair) being aggressively pursued and also watched as young children, the people we would most like to see develop an affinity for animals, were struck by the geese.

Several students have indicated that they now reticently make the trip to the Counseling Center due to a history of unprovoked incidents. Can one logically conclude that all of these incidents were the result of mean-spirited individuals determined to invade the "territory" of the geese (a territory which is growing rapidly and may soon extend outside of the Statesboro city limits)?

Additionally, the notion that one should "simply walk away" suggested in the article fails to consider the logistical situation in the pond area (The staff at the Counseling Center could probably have come up with this insightful strategy without the help of the article).

If a counselor needs to go to Lakeside Cafe for a quick lunch before his or her next appointment and finds the path blocked by patrolling geese, for example, is it reasonable to expect the counselor to take some circuitous route merely because the geese may view his or her presence as a violation of their self-established territory?

And once the staff member does arrive with the goal of eating a meal, is it reasonable to expect this person to eat with their feet afoul of the feces of fowl? The word "reasonable" is purposely used in the prior two sentences. At some point, rational thought must come to dominate over the agitated and temperamental appeals of individuals who's personal involvement with the geese precludes objectivity.

In closing, we applaud the efforts of people to confront those problems which cause them distress. Our encouragement stops short, however, of a myopic approach which gives the impression that the geese are kindly creatures who suffer from the misunderstanding of all around except for a chosen few

The geese have been and continue to be aggressive animals whose behavior exceeds the tolerance level for most of the campus community.

A preferred response to the "geese problem," from our perspective, would be either to transfer them to a habitat where they would not annoy anyone, or place them on a platter on a needy family's table for a holiday meal. Bon Appetit! The Staff of the Rip Us Off. Name: That's right - you heard right. Rip us off. Get something for nothing. Say hello to a friend. Find a roommate. Get a job. Find a home for a litter of kittens. Buy a wombat. Or sell your Beamer (right, like you expect us to believe you-and not your folks-actually have the title to that BMW). Regardless of your purpose (or even if you are a congenital liar like the Beamer owner), Georgia's liveliest classified ad section is for you. Students, faculty and staff can have 25-word action ads published for nothing. Fill out the little rectangles at left, and send your ad to G-A Action Ads, LB 8001, GSU or drop it by the Williams Center, Room 111. You MUST include your name and Landrum Box number to qualify for a freebie. Remember, keep it short: students, faculty and staff will be billed at 10 cents a word for words in excess of the 25 word limit.

Submit additional copy for ads exceeding 25 words. Students, faculty & staff will be billed 10 cents a word for words in excess of the 25 word limit for free ads.

Send free Action Ad to George-Anne, LB 8001, GSU or bring by Room 111, Williams. You MUST include your name & Landrum Box number to qualify.
