Congressman Fowler Visits Armstrong

Wyche Fowler, Jr.

On December 3rd, the students and faculty of Armstrong State College will have the opportunity to listen to Congressman Wyche Fowler, Jr., a U.S. Senate hopeful, at 12:30pm in Jenkins Hall. Wyche Fowler, Jr., a second-term Democratic Congressman from Georgia, represents the 450,000 people in north Fulton County and Atlanta.

Born in Atlanta on October 6, 1940, Fowler is a graduate of Davidson College and Emory Law School and a veteran of the U.S. Army. He was a practicing attorney for seven years prior to his election to the U.S. Congress.

Wyche Fowler began serving in the U.S. House of Representatives after winning a special election on April 5, 1977, and was reelected to that seat in November, 1978.

Fowler currently serves on the Committee on Ways and Means and the Select Committee on Intelligence. Because of the importance of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, Fowler was required under House rules to give up his positions on the Committee on Small Business and the Committee on International Relations after being elected to Ways and Means.

Citing his dual responsibility in Congress, Fowler said, "My role is to represent the people of the Fifth District in the U.S. Congress and at the same time present to my constituents the resources and services of the government."

Fowler served as president of the Atlanta City Council from 1973 until his election in 1977 to Congress. He was elected to the Board of Aldermen in 1969 (before a change in the city charter made it the City Council) at the age of 28.

While in law school at Emory University in 1967, he

Concert Earns Money For Cambodians

On Monday, Nov. 19, a concert was held for the starving Cambodians. The concert, which was held on the patio, was organized by social work major, Leslie Thorsen. In talking with Ms. Thorsen, we found her inspiration came from Time Magazine. "I read about the people starving in Cambodia and my first instinct was to go to Cambodia and volunteer my services. But being in the middle of school, this idea was unrealistic. I thought to myself that there must be something we could do at Armstrong to raise money for these hungry people."

On the advice of some friends, Ms. Thorsen went to Al Harris, who in turn advised her to get the student government involved. Ms. Thorsen presented her idea to the SGA and gained their support. She

Dance-Concert Features Catarro

On Saturday, Dec. 8, a dance will be held at the Savannah Civic Center immediately following the ASC vs. Berry College game. The music will be provided by Catarro, a five member band from Gainesville, Florida. The band specializes in the latest dance music and is noted for its tight rhythm and brass sections.

Performing out of town as well as locally for the last 5 years, the group has played high school and college engagements as well as clubs such as Dubs, the Hilton, and Big Daddy's Lamplighter Lounge.

Catarro's members are Vic Micolucci, Bruce O'Dowed, Mike Fitzgerald, Jeff Floyd, and David Sloane. Vic Micolucci, leader of the band, is a pre-med student at the University of Florida. Vic formerly played with the Steve Morris Band. Bruce O'Dowed, a senior at Santa Fe Community College, plays drums, does lead and back-up vocals, and doubles on guitar and bass. Mike Fitzgerald, lead guitarist and vocalist, was formerly with the Bionic Funk where he produced and recorded two singles. Jeff Floyd, who plays trumpet and saxophone, also does vocals.

The band's repertoire of danceable music promises a night of fun. So after the ASC vs. Berry College game, stay for the dance and enjoy Catarro.

Parking Poses Problems

By KAREN WARD

For many A.S.C. students part time jobs have become a part of life, and for those students who work in the downtown area, there are often unpleasant aspects involved, mainly parking. Free and easy parking is something that we southside dwellers take for granted, but working downtown gives one a quick lesson in the hazzards of parking.

The first task in parking downtown is actually finding a space in which to park. After cruising a five block area for fifteen minutes, the frustrated driver finally finds a space and must then deal with further dilemmas.

First there is the ever popular parallel parking dilemma. Unlike the drivers tests in which one must park within four cones, the downtown parking requires positioning the car between two other cars. This task is basically simple, except that the drivers of the other two cars usually have no conception of parking in their allotted spaces. Of course as the exasperated driver begins to back into his space, he usually glances in the rear view mirror and notices the city police car at the head of the line of traffic that is backed up for two blocks waiting for him to park.

Taking for granted that the driver does park the car, the next obstacle on this course has to be dealt with. The person who has never ventured past Victory Drive has never come in contact with an evil creature called the parking meter. Parking meters are creatures that have long skinny bodies and wide flat heads. They line the downtown streets in a rather orderly fashion, yet they give one the errie feeling that they will someday uproot themselves from their stony bases and form a motley horde that will run rampant through the streets of Savannah.

Parking meters eat coins and must be fed often. Of course, not all meters eat the same size coins. Some two hour meters eat quarters, in which case the poor fool parking usually has nickles and dimes. Some meters eat only nickles and dimes, in which case the driver usually has quarters. The real shock is when one steps out of the car only to discover that he has parked at a 30 minute meter in which case he must start all over again.

Problems such as these tend to make the average parker arrogant and self-centered. But, occasionally something happens to bring him back down to earth. Such was the case with one driver, (one shall remain nameless, to protect the guilty), last week. This driver received an anonymous Citizen's Parking Ticket which read:

This is not a ticket, but if it were within my power, you would receive two.

Because of your Bull Headed, inconsiderate, feeble attempt at parking, you have taken enough room for a 20 mule team, 2 elephants, 1 goat, and a safari of pygmies from the African Interior.

The reasons for giving you this is so that in the future you may think of someone else, other than yourself. Besides, I don't like domineering, egotistical or simple minded drivers and you probably fit into one of these categories.

I sign off wishing you an early transmission failure, (on the freeway at about 4:30 p.m.). Also, may the Fleas of a thousand camels infest your armpits.

Parking problems downtown are not decreasing, but this driver may indeed "think of someone else in the future."

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I am writing the following in response to your article "A Martyr in Our Midst." I am a student who feels that there should be more respect for the staff at this college regardless of position. It appears that just because the Student activities head may ask for promotion in the Inkwell for the films shown here on campus or whatever, kinds of discussions you have with him, should not make him a target for insults of any (sophisticated) kind. I trust that no other member of the faculty will have to expect such insults or students for that matter.

I considered you an up and up type of person. Try and keep it that way.

Laurentia Owens

I read your letter to the editor with a certain amount of shock and a definite measure of amusement. As a qualified editor of a college newspaper, I believe, amidst the "business as usual" news we are often forced to print, that there is a place (on the editorial page — editorial page meaning opinion page) for humor. Considering the editorial was a sarcastic attempt at laughing, not only at my seriousness, but at the seriousness of those around me. I feel you missed the point in your petty profile of my personality, especially in the fact that I have met you approximately twice. As an "up and up" person, I am trying, in desperation, to remain that way and will welcome any constructive criticism you have to offer.

Dear Editor,

In response to your request for student ideas for the Inkwell, I would like to point out that the student Senate has regular meetings during the quarter. I attended one of these meetings and found it unsettling. It was my impression that they had spent money with little information or discussion.

I am not opposed to the SGA. I know that most of the members do the best they can. There are those members, however, who do very little and do not look out for the best interests of the school. These individuals should be weeded out so that our government can do its job.

I think that our school paper should look into such matters as a protector of our rights as students at this college. Other newsmen have found the wrongs in our government. I hope that you will be as brave as they were in your search for truth.

I read your paper regularly and hope to see something done about this matter soon.

Chris Bronson

Dear Mr. Bronson,

Prior to your letter and in response to a request made by Al Harris, Director of Student Activities, the Inkwell will now have a representative at every SGA meeting. We apologize for not having made this information available earlier.

Wreck Room

By ANDREA MITCHELL

Sometime between Summer and Fall quarters the Video Beam Room at the side of the cafeteria became something called "The Wreck Room." My first reaction was one of dismay. I thought of it as a playtoy and a distraction to students who need to study. But after pondering it a while, I realized that game playing is a relaxer for some people. It eases some of the tension that builds up in a heavy academic schedule. Lately, however, I

I've written articles for the "Inkwell" in some extremely strange places, but I've decided I've managed to beat even my own record. Amidst the confusion of entering the hospital, I was forced to call Andrea Mitchell and relinquish much of my responsibility to a very competent assistant editor, and once her panic subsided, Andrea organized the paper and sent it to the printers in its normal fashion.

I would just like to express my deepest appreciation to all of my friends and "Inkwell family" who covered for me and eased the road for Andrea during this unexpected incident. A special note of thanks goes to Cathy Jones and Mary Gene Murphy, my sister, for temporarily joining the staff and working overtime along with Andrea and two sore-fingered typists, Stephanie Carey and Katie Parks, to publish the paper. As much as my ego would enjoy the boast of being irreplaceable, the rest of me just feels thankful for the dedicated people around me who managed so brilliantly without my assistance.

Apocalypse Now

By ANDREA MITCHELL

Apocalypse Now is Francis Ford Coppola's adaptation of Joseph Conrad's Heart of Darkness. Coppola moves the setting from the Congo to Vietnam. The story, structure and plot, remains intact. The idea of both is taking a normal everyday person, remove him from his own environment, place him in a totally foreign one, set an explosive situation, and then watch what happens.

The story begins with Willard (Martin Sheen) being offered a "special service assignment." He is to find the legendary Col. Kurtz, who has formed his own colony of Vietnamese, and exterminate him. Not exterminate his power, but the man with the power. It is explained to Willard that Kurtz is a threat to military supremacy and he must be taken care of. Willard accepts the job, however to the average movie goer, his motives are not clear. (In fact a lot of this movie is unclear to the average movie goer.) Willard is given a boat with four crew members and a personal biography of Kurtz. Nobody really knows where Kurtz is, but Willard thinks he does. The long trip up river takes us through stages of Willard's power over his men and the advancing nearness of Kurtz. The closer Willard comes to Kurtz, the less humane he is. For example, he kills a wounded Vietnamese so that they would not waste time taking her to a hospital.

The eeriest aspect of the movie is the way Willard "knows" when he is close to Kurtz. Kurtz (Marlon Brando) is introduced in the 1st 15 minutes of the movie. He also "knows" that Willard is coming to kill him.

As Willard approaches, Kurtz's island is surrounded by natives in boats. These natives are covered in white body paint. Even in broad daylight, the awesome sight of these natives, in complete silence, is spine tingling. They slowly make way for Willard's boat and the scenery, draped with blood and dead bodies, is revealed. Willard is taken to Kurtz, and the big meeting is held. Willard carries out his assignment.

Apocalypse Now is not your basic Saturday night, relaxation-have-a-good-time movie. It is a bloody, frightening movie of great depth and symbolism. The cinematography is wonderful and the Vietnamese scenery is beautiful. The attempt to adapt such a long and rich novel to the screen is unthinkable to most directors. But to Francis Ford Coppola it was a possible dream. The film, with all its flaws, is still an admirable effort by the actors and the director.

also contacted the American Red Cross, who encouraged her cause and said they would accept any donations. In an attempt to ask Rosalyn Carter to speak at the concert, Ms. Thorsen made four phone calls to the White House. Getting as close as Mrs. Carter's personal secretary, Ms. Thorsen found that Mrs. Carter's schedule was full. She did, however, get in touch with Savannah's perennial Presidential candidate, Abram Eisenmann, who agreed to speak at the concert. A representative from the Red Cross, Mrs. Margorie Tedwell, also agreed to speak. A band played and contributions were collected at a total of 130 dollars.

Ms. Thorsen was disappointed at the final turnout: but she said "the thought that some Cambodians can be better fed because of the efforts is worth the disappointment. Ms. Thorsen would like to thank all the members of SGA, the fraternities and those who contributed to the cause.

SAVING LIVES

Save-a-life is a statewide non-profit organization which assists people in spaying or neutering their animals. According to Debra Friedman, chairman of the Savannah chapter, millions of animals, strays or just unwanted animals are destroyed every year. The theory of the Save-a-life is to have animals spayed or neutered to prevent this overpopulation, therefore cutting down on the number of animals which have to be destroyed.

Save-a-life is primarily for those who cannot afford the entire expense of having their animals spayed or neutered. Senior citizens, very large families, and students qualify. An average operation, vaccination, and deworming an animal runs about seventy five or eighty dollars. The average pet owner, working with save-a-life, pays about thirty dollars. Save-a-life pays the rest.

Donations, (which are sometimes given in return for boarding animals), is one of Save-a-life's biggest supporters. Bake sales, horseshows, garage sales, and raffles provide the rest. At the moment, a double bed sized, earth tone, afghan, (valued at $100) is being raffled off. It is on display at Sara's Tara, in Trustees Garden and will be raffled off on December 11. Tickets are 50 cents each or 5 for $1.00. Only 700 tickets have been printed so the chance of winning is good. Anyone interested in fostering animals (until homes can be found), adopting animals, or sending donations, can reach Mrs. Friedman at 354-7813 or write to:

HELP WANTED? HELP FOUND.

Over 15,000,000 students and teachers will want summer jobs in 1980. Many have started looking already, but even those who begin early may find jobs much harder to come by this year than last. Higher unemployment has made competition for all jobs tighter than ever this year.

If you're looking for a summer job, there's still a shortcut way to find one. That's with the help of the 1980 Summer Employment Directory of the United States (Writer's Digest Books: $6.95) an annual handbook that lists employers with over 57,000 job openings.

For the past quarter century, thousands of students have spent the summer working at exciting places, earning money for next year's expenses, too, thanks to the annual Summer Employment Directory.

This directory is packed full of listings that give you the prospective employer's name and address, a description of the jobs available, employment dates, salaries, and other important information — such as whether or not room and board are available.

This year's version of the annual directory lists 900 summer employers: amusement parks, summer camps, national parks, private resorts, summer theaters, office temporaries, marketing and sales organizations — literally everybody who hires summer workers. Jobs are listed at amusement parks like Busch Gardens in Florida, Disneyland California, Cedar Point in Sandusky, Ohio, and Six Flags Over Texas.

All the listings are checked and updated annually. In addition to the listings of summer jobs, the directory provides tips on applying for jobs, a sample job application and information about the summer job market. The 1980 Summer Employment Directory of the United States is $6.95. For copies write to Writer's Digest Books, 9933 Alliance Road, Cincinnati, Ohio 45242. Copies ordered directly from the publisher should include $1.25 for postage and handling.

Save-a-life is a statewide non-profit organization which assists people in spaying or neutering their animals. According to Debra Friedman, chairman of the Savannah chapter, millions of animals, strays or just unwanted animals are destroyed every year. The theory of the Save-a-life is to have animals spayed or neutered to prevent this overpopulation, therefore cutting down on the number of animals which have to be destroyed.

Save-a-life is primarily for those who cannot afford the entire expense of having their animals spayed or neutered. Senior citizens, very large families, and students qualify. An average operation, vaccination, and deworming an animal runs about seventy five or eighty dollars. The average pet owner, working with save-a-life, pays about thirty dollars. Save-a-life pays the rest.

Donations, (which are sometimes given in return for boarding animals), is one of Save-a-life's biggest supporters. Bake sales, horse shows, garage sales, and raffles provide the rest. At the moment, a double bed sized, earth tone, afghan, (valued at $100) is being raffled off. It is on display at Sara's Tara, in Trustees Garden and will be raffled off on December 11. Tickets are 50 cents each or 5 for $1.00. Only 700 tickets have been printed so the chance of winning is good. Anyone interested in fostering animals (until homes can be found), adopting animals, or sending donations, can reach Mrs. Friedman at 354-7813 or write to:

Over 15,000,000 students and teachers will want summer jobs in 1980. Many have started looking already, but even those who begin early may find jobs much harder to come by this year than last. Higher unemployment has made competition for all jobs tighter than ever this year.

If you're looking for a summer job, there's still a shortcut way to find one. That's with the help of the 1980 Summer Employment Directory of the United States (Writer's Digest Books: $6.95) an annual handbook that lists employers with over 57,000 job openings.

For the past quarter century, thousands of students have spent the summer working at exciting places, earning money for next year's expenses, too, thanks to the annual Summer Employment Directory.

This directory is packed full of listings that give you the prospective employer's name and address, a description of the jobs available, employment dates, salaries, and other important information — such as whether or not room and board are available.

This year's version of the annual directory lists 900 summer employers: amusement parks, summer camps, national parks, private resorts, summer theaters, office temporaries, marketing and sales organizations — literally everybody who hires summer workers. Jobs are listed at amusement parks like Busch Gardens in Florida, Disneyland California, Cedar Point in Sandusky, Ohio, and Six Flags Over Texas.

All the listings are checked and updated annually. In addition to the listings of summer jobs, the directory provides tips on applying for jobs, a sample job application and information about the summer job market. The 1980 Summer Employment Directory of the United States is $6.95. For copies write to Writer's Digest Books, 9933 Alliance Road, Cincinnati, Ohio 45242. Copies ordered directly from the publisher should include $1.25 for postage and handling.

Greek News

Sigma Nu

by Brian Corbett

The Theta Psi chapter of Sigma Nu Fraternity is active in many community and off-campus projects. In addition to being the leader of the Miller Pick-up contest, the brothers and pledges are also in charge of the Mall Christmas decorations once again this year.

The Brothers and pledges would like to express their appreciation to the Greek's sympathy of the death of brother Steve Lynn. Your condolences were deeply appreciated.

We would like to announce the marriage of brother Jack and Mary Fowler, the engagement of brother Matt Dixon and little sister Susan Kass, and the pinning of Brother Phil Skinner and Sharon Dixon. Finally, Sigma Nu would like to express its deepest and warmest wishes for a Happy Holiday to all the Greeks, students, and faculty of Armstrong State.

Sigma Kappa

by Cathy Jones

The month of December is going to be quite busy for Sigma Kappa.

The first big event is the marriage of sister Stephanie Carey to big brother Bob Bridges, of Phi Kappa Theta, on December 8, 1979. All our love and best wishes go to Stephanie and Bob.

The week of December 10-15 will be Inspiration Week for all Fall 1979 pledges. This week will end with an Initiation Ceremony on Sunday December 16.

On Tuesday December 18 the annual Sisters Christmas Dinner will be held at the home of Mary Gene and Josie Murphy. The annual Christmas Party is being planned for Saturday December 22.

In conclusion, we would like to congratulate the Brothers of Pi Kappa Phi on celebrating their tenth anniversary on the Armstrong Campus.

Phi Mu

by Karen Meinert

Phi Mu sponsored a Casino Night and covered dish for all the Greeks, November 20 in the New Student Center. There was plenty of gambling and lady luck was a favorite companion. Prizes were auctioned off and everyone left with a big smile. Phi Mu would like to give Al Harris a big thanks for all his help. We also thank Coach Bedwell for being our guest speaker.

On Wednesday November 21, the Phi Mu sisters took can goods to the poor and needy. They were received with great appreciation. It sure makes one feel good after helping another in need.

The Sisters of Phi Mu will once again perform their washboard band. This time the big event will take place on River Street for the first Saturday celebration in December. There will also be baked goods on sale. Phi Mu invites everyone to nibble and listen to that good ole hillbilly music.

Pike invited the Phi Mu's to a hillbilly social. Each girl was greeted at the door with a mason jar to drink her moonshine. The fun and laughter really started when the brothers of Pike thought they could make up a washboard band.

Needless to say, Phi Mu has the only washboard band on campus. Good try anyway.

 find that I keep seeing the same faces everyday, either going in or coming out of the Wreck Room. Also, it seems very male dominated. Very seldom have I seen a female entering the room, much less play the games.

The games themselves are pretty nice. Backgammon is fun and if you don't know how to play, someone will eventually teach you. (Backgammon players are always looking for suckers). Monopoly is great, but who wants to start a game if you only have 45 minutes to play. (Ever wonder why they call it Monopoly when you have to have to have at least two people to play?) Fond memories are brought back with games like Parchesi and Yahtze. Remember playing these with your family when you were a kid? I prefer "billiards" to "pool tables." "Billiards" sounds more equal to both sexes. Somehow playing pool sounds like A Man's Sport.

The Student Government Association appropriated the money for the Wreck Room. We now have a unique addition to our college. So for those of you who haven't been in the Wreck Room, check it out. And for those who go all the time, give the rest of us a chance, will you? As I was told in elementary school — you abuse it, you lose it.

STUDENT BASKETBALL TICKETS

Although the majority of Men's Basketball games will be played in the Civic Center, the Pirates will play host to three teams in the campus gym. Students will be admitted to the Civic Center games free by simply presenting a validated I.D. Admission to the campus games will not be that simple. IF YOU PLAN TO ATTEND ANY ON CAMPUS GAME YOU MUST PICK UP A FREE STUDENT TICKET AT LEAST 48 HOURS PRIOR TO THE GAME FROM THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES OFFICE. Otherwise, you'll have to drop a few bucks at the gate to get in.

The Athletic Office has reserved 250 seats for ASC students at each of the campus games. An average of 225 students per game used advance tickets last season. The 48 hour deadline is necessary in order for the Athletic Office to determine the number of remaining seats available for sale at the door. Refer to the following schedule for each game's ticket distribution dates:

Game	Game Date	Ticket Distribution Dates
Lee College	Monday, January 14	January 7-11
Georgia College	Wednesday, Jan. 23	January 15-21

Whelan's Wide World Of Intramurals

by Mary Ellen Whelan

As the fall quarter regular season intramurals comes to an end, sports participants look forward to the upcoming tournament play-offs. Final league standings in bowling show Pike I and Alpha Gamma Delta in the number one spot with Pike II and Phi Mu following close in line. In flag football, the Stealers lead the women's division with a perfect 6-0 record while the undefeated Baseball Bums roll past all contenders in the men's division. In the Intramural Cross Country Race Alpha Gams Amy Grimm captured the women's title while Scott Pearce took first place in the men's division running the course in 16 minutes and 2 seconds.

With one week left in regular season football, the Stealers remain on top defeating Dental Hygiene 33-7 in game 7 of the year. Stealer Quarterback, Cathy Burke, led the powerful offense scoring two TD's and two conversions.

In women's play Alpha Gam received the league champs title with a 5-3 record and a 128 average. Phi Mu, BSU, Dental Hygiene Sigma Kappa and Dental Hygiene II and III followed. Carol Hendry claimed series with a 532 and average 154.

The second match was held two weeks ago in the Savannah Invitational and Armstrong placed an overwhelming fourth with John Ibarra, one ASC member, holding third high average of 201.

Willie Tuten is the team captain and other members include John Ibarra, Ricky Banbackie, Howie Atkinson, Earl Rogers, Curtis Thompson, and Chris Lightel. The B team also participated in the tournaments.

The next team competition will be held against Florida State on December 2.

The ASC Lady pirates won their first game Monday night against the Savannah State Tigerettes. Cindy Powell led the Lady Pirates with 38 points and 11 rebounds to an 80-71 victory over the Tigerettes. Coming off their best season ever with a 21-6 record, the Armstrong State College Running Pirates return nine players, including five seniors with valuable experience and an aura of optimism.

"With the more challenging schedule," Coach Bianchi says, "this experience should result in both poise and leadership on the court."

Heading the list of senior lettermen is all-South Atlantic Conference selection Mike Pringle. While leading the team last season with a 19.6 scoring average, one will agree that the 6'4", 185 lb. standout plays equally well at the other end of the court. Pringle amassed 67 steals, including a record-tying eight, versus upper Iowa. Consistently he made the big defensive play and for his efforts received Armstrong's best defensive player award.

On the opposite side of the court, Joe Henry fits the role of the Pirate's exciting style of play. Henry, a 6'4", 190 lb. guard, scored 17.4 points per game last campaign and his .567 field goal percentage led the team. At the free throw line, he was second only to junior Foy Ballance, with a .833%. In the conference tournament against league champion Valdosta State College, Henry kept the Pirates in the game single handedly by scoring 38 points in a losing cause.

leaper, is back to defend his conference rebounding crown. His 11.8 caroms per game ignited the fast break of the nation's leading scoring team (97.3). Hill also did some of that scoring himself pouring in 13.3 points per game. When his shooting touch went astray, Hill still contributed to defense by blocking 48 shots all against Clearwater who set a new Pirate record.

Strength and desire Luke Ludwinski's for. These ingredients helped earn him the Running Pirate's Hustle award. Standing 6'6" and weighing 220 lbs., Luke has the determination and quickness to retrieve the rebound most players quit when blocked out. Ludwinski averaged 7.5 rebounds and 7.7 points while shooting an excellent .563% from the field.

Tony Katsorelos is yet another of Coach Bianchi's high physical specimens. At 6'8", 230 lbs., Katsorelos is ideal to prevent passing lanes in the middle of the zone defenses. He is very unselfish, giving up the ball to hit the open man. One of two players to see action in every game, Katsorelos had a high game against Lee College, while connecting on a .481 field goal percentage for the year.

With the returning experience and the addition of three other lettermen, a trio of promising freshmen and a red-shirt now ready to suit up, there is little need for Coach Bianchi to panic about inexperienced substitutions.
