Two former art students sentenced for bombings

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Saying neither posed danger, a federal judge sentenced two former Savannah College of Art and Design students to a minimum 24-month sentence for making and igniting bombs last spring.

William Connor Tindal Jr., 19, of Lancaster, S.C., and Robert Eugene Carson II, 19, of Blaine, Wash., pleaded guilty Oct. 1 to charges they built and detonated the bombs between last February and late June.

"These people pose no danger, nor are they violent," U.S. District Judge B. Avant Edenfield said Wednesday in choosing the bottom end of a 24-to-30 month sentence range. In federal court, a judge is bound by the federal sentencing guidelines unless he finds specific reasons to reduce or exceed them.

Edenfield said he wanted Tindal sentenced to a minimum-type institution where there are no violent offenders.

"I don't think he can cope with violent offenders," the judge said.

Carter says he would mediate for peace if asked

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Jimmy Carter says that if asked, he would serve as a mediator in peace talks between Israel and Arab nations.

"I am not asking for a job," he said at an appearance Tuesday. "But if I were asked to help and thought I could play a constructive role, I would do it."

Carter, 62, who as president brokered the Camp David accord between Israel and Egypt, said that since he left office in 1981, Middle East peace has remained a top priority for him.

He said the first stage of his effort would be quiet, unofficial conversations with leaders in the region. He also said some kind of elections in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip would be a necessary intermediate step.

Bobby Brown cited on sex simulation charges

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Augusta police cited singer Bobby Brown for simulating a sex act in front of an underage audience during a Wednesday night concert at the Civic Center.

Police spokesman Mark Cowan said Brown and Queline Young, a female member of his group, simulated copulation in a bed on stage during the fifth song of the concert.

After the concert, Brown and Ms. Young were cited for simulating sex in front of an audience with members less than 18 years old, in violation of a city ordinance, Cowan said. Neither was taken into custody.

Cowan said they have the option of returning to Augusta to face the charges or forfeiting a municipal bond of $577.

A simulated sex act on stage also got Brown arrested in Columbus in 1989. He had said in a December interview with The Atlanta Journal-Constitution that his current tour would be worse than that performance.

Animal shelter holds grand re-opening

New animal shelter to provide better standard of care

By Selena E. McKinnon
Assistant News Editor

The Statesboro/Bulloch County Animal Shelter held a re-opening ceremony Friday, Jan. 15, at 10 a.m.

The shelter, formerly operated by the Statesboro Humane Society, was closed in November due to sanitation problems and a shortage of funds. The shelter will now be operated by the city with support by the county.

"This is another project where the city and the county are working together," announced Mayor Hal Averitt.

Two checks were presented during the ceremony. The University Optimum Club, represented by Viki Bostwick and Linda Paige, donated $440 raised during the club's Christmas drive. In addition, Mike Kennedy of Kennedy's Concrete presented a $300 check.

Donations of food and supplies for the shelter were made by the University Optimum Club and the Statesboro 4-H Club.

"We hope to make it an ongoing project, and to continue the donations next Christmas," Linda Paige said.

Officer Shannon Strickland will act as supervisor. She will work with both city and county appointees to keep the animal shelter up to state standards.

"We are really pleased with the shelter, it is a vast improvement."

Carter Crawford,
City Administrator

"An advisory board, consisting of Humane Society volunteers, professionals and veterinarians, will oversee the operation," stated Police Chief Malone.

During the three months the shelter was closed, city and county officials were busy revamping the shelter. An observation area and cages were added, ventilation was improved, dog runs were lengthened, and an extensive amount of cosmetic work was done.

"We are really pleased with the shelter," commented Carter Crawford, City Administrator. "It is a vast improvement."

Residents who wish to drop animals off at the shelter can do so during business hours, 10-5 Monday through Friday and 10-12 on Saturdays. Extra holding pens have been added for use after hours.

"People should be aware that there is a fee of $5 to help with the food and care of the animal," Strickland stated.

'Bells for hope' ring-out at GSU

By Enoch W. Autry
Assistant News Editor

Tomorrow our country will ring in the inauguration of the President of the United States, Bill Clinton. As the nation rings in the new leader, so does the GSU campus.

On Sunday evening in the Williams Center lounge area, Bells for Hope: Uniting America's Campuses, took place as a simultaneous nationwide event.

In reference to the symbolization of the ringing of the bell, President Nicholas Henry said, "[It is] To celebrate unity, to celebrate a system of government that has a peaceful transition which is increasingly rare in the world."

As he began to ring the bell located at the crosswalks near the center, Henry said, "Let us ring this bell for hope and the last time it was rung when Georgia Southern College became Georgia Southern University."

A nationally televised speech from President-Elect Clinton was scheduled as a part of the ceremony, but was not telecast because of the Iraq conflict.

At the time of the ceremony, the U.S. military was making intermittent bombing on the country.

Andy Mealor, Student Government Association Vice-President for Finance, added that this past year has been exciting for GSU as well as SGA.

"We have played a real instrumental part in trying to get the students to turn out, and I think that it went over as a big success last year," Mealor said.

Mealor said that over 600 students were registered for the election through SGA booths, and the organization will continue to do this in the future by setting up booths all over campus.

In addition, Mealor said that SGA was able to furnish a shuttle bus for those people who had no transportation to the Grady Street Gym for the first time this year.

Advisor of the year to be decided by students this year

By Kim St. Hilaire
News Editor

This year the nomination process for the Advisor of the Year Award has been opened up to GSU students for the first time since the award was implemented in 1984. In addition, two students will serve on the selection committee.

"I'm really hopeful that students will see this as an opportunity to get involved in this process - really to reward good advisors," said Dr. Michael Moore, director of advisement.

Moore stated that in the past the entire selection process for the Advisor of the Year was an "administrative function." Advisors were nominated by department chairs, then a selection committee consisting of deans made the final decision.

The new selection committee will be more representative of GSU. The members include Dr. Moore; Mrs. Marinell Armstrong, coordinator of the advisement center; Student Government Vice President for Academic Affairs Jerald Carter; and a student from SOAR who will be appointed by Dr. Nolen.

The SOAR member is an important link according to Moore because the SOAR team works closely with advisors during summer orientation.

After the campus winner is selected, that advisor's materials are submitted to the national competition.

The materials that person must gather include: letters of recommendation from the department chair, faculty and students, a statement of philosophy, and records indicating the number of students that person advises.

"The student evaluation is probably as important as anything," Armstrong stated.

GSU's Advisor of the Year receives a lot of local recognition as well.

"We do a lot of publicity with it so that it is publicized in the community - in the Statesboro and Savannah papers and on campus," Moore said.

In addition, the campus winner gets to attend the National conference on Advising. Over the last two years, GSU's Advisor of the Year has gone on to become a regional winner, [this region includes all of Georgia, Mississippi, Florida and Alabama].

In 1992 Mr. Lloyd Dosier from the business department was a regional winner, following the path of 1991 winner, Sara Bennett, from the biology department.

Regional winners are awarded $250 and a walnut plaque.

Any member of the GSU community who wants to recognize an outstanding advisor can pick up a nomination form from the academic advisement center in the blue building. The deadline for submitting the nomination is Jan. 22.

What are these kiosks doing here?

Little blue buildings will provide computerized information

By Kim Wagner
Staff Writer

What are those little blue buildings scattered around campus? This is a frequently asked question, and the answer is that they are kiosks.

"The kiosks will have telephones mounted on them, and then there will be a computer system mounted in them to provide information to the students and visitors," explained Mr. David Hainley, campus landscape architect.

The telephones mounted on the buildings will have pay telephone systems rather than campus systems. The pay telephone system will enable 911 calls to be placed and traced to the exact kiosks locations. The kiosks will also have handicap accessible telephones.

"The kiosks plan came out of the 1990 Master Plan as a suggestion to aid in the information distribution," explained Hainley.

The construction and painting of the kiosks has been put on hold until the rain stops.

"I would say the initial set-up, which are the phones, should be in operation for spring term, given the weather we're having right now," Hainley said.

Hainley stressed the point that the kiosks building will be painted Georgia Southern blue as opposed to their present shade of baby blue.

All the information the computers will contain is questionable at this point, but the computers will be equipped with scheduling and location information.

"The computers will all be interconnected with another major computer set-up so that they can be fed information collectively," Hainley said. "The computers will be able to give general as well as specific information."

Blue/White festival looking for t-shirt logo

By Enoch W. Autry
Assistant News Editor

With the second annual Blue-White Spring Sports Festival coming up at the end of April, the first order of business is to select a T-shirt logo.

A $50 prize will be awarded to the artist that composes the winning logo by the Jan. 29 deadline, said Recreation and Leisure Services professor Linda Blankenbaker.

According to Blankenbaker, the logo should promote the theme of the multi-sport event, be comprised of no more than three colors and be of reducible size for one side of a T-shirt.

"There was a very nice logo on last year's shirt," Blankenbaker said about the T-shirt that showed several athletes in action poses.

The College of Health and Professional Studies' departments of Recreation and Leisure Services and Sport Management along with Campus Recreation and Intramurals were in a joint effort in the promotion and administration of the festival, Blankenbaker said. She added, "The whole thing is to try to get students to stay here that weekend in hopes of increasing attendance at the Blue-White Spring football game on Saturday (May 1)."

The festival that runs from April 28 through the football game will include many different events including an attempt to break the world record for the largest aerobic class, Blankenbaker said.

Students celebrate King's birthday with uplifting ceremony

Various campus organizations and students gather to reflect on the man and his legacy, which continues to inspire people

By Teresa Roach
Features Editor

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. was, doubtless, a remarkable person. His ideals, intelligence, ambition, and confidence led him to pursue something that many people take for granted: equality.

King's words and works inspired many people to believe that equality is the right of Americans, and more importantly, that it is possible. Much progress has been made since the death of Dr. King, yet many impediments remain in the way of true equality among races: white males still hold a disproportionate majority of top professions; the media continually portray black males as perpetrators of crimes, promoting separatism amongst races; the "policemen" who brutally and inhumanely beat Rodney King were freed back into society, as if they had not committed a crime. These examples show the disparity between what should be and what is.

Dr. King's most infectious qualities, persistence and hope, must be embraced by people of all cultures, in order for that difference to diminish. We continue to commemorate Dr. King's birthday not only because of his accomplishments and leadership, but also because, as Dr. King once said, "The battle has been won, but the war is not over."

Last Thurs., Jan. 14, a student ceremony commemorating the birthday of Dr. King was held in GSU's Conference Center. The ceremony, sponsored by the Multi-Cultural Committee, brought forth a nice turnout.

"The commemoration was held for the continuation of King's legacy and dream," says Patrick Harrison, vice president of GSU's Student Government Association.

Mistress and Master of Ceremonies, Tolla Sota, president of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority; and Keith Jordan, president of NAACP, welcomed the crowd. The invocation was performed by Nicole Henderson, vice president of NAACP.

The African American Choir performed several songs following the invocation. This group is a must-see; they sound great and their high spirits are contagious.

A dramatic performance by Umoja, an African American dramatic group, followed the choir. The performance began with King's "I Have a Dream" speech, followed by a reenactment of King's shooting. A response to the Dr. King's death made us realize what an impact he had in the lives of so many people and how tragic it was that his life was cut short. Umoja ended their performance with a dance to Stevie Wonder's version of "Happy Birthday."

Fifteen candles were lit by members of various student organizations in honor of Dr. King's birthday, followed by an inspirational speech by Albert Smith, president of the Black Student Alliance. Smith stressed the importance of helping out the community,

Use caution when freezing and defrosting foods

Hey! How long has that meat been sitting in your freezer? Do you think it is safe to eat? Actually, food stored at zero degrees Fahrenheit will almost always be safe to eat; however, the quality of the food will diminish if it is stored in the freezer for a long time.

Freezing keeps food safe by slowing the movement of molecules, which causes food-borne illness microbes (microorganisms) to enter a dormant stage (Healthline, Feb. 1992). Once the food is thawed, however, these microbes will again become active. Because of this, thawed foods must be handled the same way as perishable foods.

HEALTH AND FITNESS

Although freezing may keep food safe nearly indefinitely, it does affect the quality of the food. You should keep the following points in mind:

1. Foods frozen when they are in their freshest state will end up tasting better than foods frozen when they are not very fresh. In light of this, if you don't plan to eat a product very soon after purchasing it, freeze it.

2. Food that is not packaged properly runs the risk of freezer burn. Freezer burn does not make food unsafe, only dry in spots. If this happens, just cut away these spots either before or after cooking the product. To prevent freezer burn, store your food in freezer bags.

3. The lower the storage temperature and the shorter the storage time, the better the quality of the food. You should be sure to store foods at zero degrees Fahrenheit or lower to retain the vitamins, color, flavor, and texture.

Here's the dirt on our free dessert

FREE dirt dessert

At Pizza Inn, we want to dish some dirt – that is, our "dirt dessert," a sinfully rich parfait chock-full of chocolate sandwich cookies and creamy dessert.

Dessert at Pizza Inn? Absolutely.

Another favorite is stromboli, a handmade crust buttered and filled with brown sugar, cinnamon and nuts, and baked to a golden brown. And desserts are just the beginning. We also have quesadillas, burgers, homemade soups, an extensive salad bar, vegetarian items, hot & spicy wings, hot sandwiches, pasta, grilled chicken salads and much more – including terrific pizza, of course. In fact, you can check out what we have to offer and get a free dessert. Just look in your paper on Tuesday, January 26, for an insert with our menu and bring it with you on your next visit to Pizza Inn. We'll give you a free "dirt dessert" with your meal purchase. So, whether you want pizza or fajitas or sandwiches, be sure to save room for dessert.

Bad song survey: Part One

Before I present the results of the Bad Song Survey, here's an important: BRAIN TAKEOVER ALERT.

Be advised that this column names certain songs that you hate and have tried to suppress, but as soon as you read their names your brain will start singing "Yoounngg girl, get out of my mind; my love for you is way out of line ..." over and over AND YOU CAN'T STOP IT AIEEEEEEE. Thank you.

First, I have never written a column that got a bigger response than the one announcing the Bad Song Survey. Over 10,000 readers voted, with cards still coming in.

Also, wherever I went people expressed their views to me, often gripping my shirt to emphasize their points. ("You know that song about pina colodas? I hate that song. I HATE IT!") Song badness is an issue Americans care deeply about.

Many people still deeply resent these songs. Many others would not rule out capital punishment for anyone convicted of having had anything to do with Gary Puckett and the Union Gap ("Woman," "Young Girl," and "This Girl Is a Paula' by Paul and Paula."

"Whenever I hear the Four Seasons' 'Walk Like A Man' I want to scream 'Frankie, SING like a man!'"

"I wholeheartedly believe that 'Ballerina Girl' is responsible for 90 percent of the violent crimes in North America today."

"I nominate every song ever sung by the Doobie Brothers. Future ones also."

"Have you noticed how the hole in the ozone layer has grown progressively larger since rap got popular?"

Sometimes the voters were so angry that they weren't even sure of the name of the song they hated. There were votes against "These Boots Are Made for Stomping"; the Beach Boys classic "Carolina Girls"; "I'm Nothing But a Hound Dog"; and "Ain't No Woman Like the One-Eyed Gott."

A lot of people voted for "The Lion Sleeps Tonight," offering a variety of interpretations of the chorus, including: "Weem-o-wep," "Wee-ma-wack," "Weena-wack," "A-ween-a-wap," and "Wingle whip."

Many readers are still very hostile toward the song

"I wholeheartedly believe that 'Ballerina Girl' is responsible for 90 percent of the violent crimes in North America today..."

Woman Now," which some voters argue are all the same song).

Likewise there are boiling pools of animosity out there for Barry "I Write the Songs" Manilow, Olivia "Have You Ever Been Mellow" Newton-John, Gilbert "Alone Again Naturally" O'Sullivan, The Village "YMCA" People, Tony "Knock Three Times" Orlando and of course Yoko "Every Song I Ever Recorded" Ono. And there is no love lost for the Singing Nun.

The voters are angry. A typical postcard states: "The number one worst piece of pus-oozing, vomit-inducing, camel-spitting, cow-phlegm rock song EVER in the history of the solar system is 'Dreams of the Everyday Housewife.'" (Amazingly, this song was not performed by Gary Puckett and the Union Gap.)

Here are some other typical statements:

"I'd rather chew a jumbo roll of tinfoil than hear 'Hey

"Wildfire," in which singer Michael Murphy wails for what seems like 97 minutes about a lost pony. (As one voter put it, "Break a leg, Wildfire.")

There was also a solid vote for Gordon Lightfoot's "The Wreck of the Edmund Fitzgerald," a real fun party song. Several voters singled out the line, "As the big freighters go, it was bigger than most."

Speaking of bad lyrics there were votes for:

- Cream's immortal "I'm So Glad," which eloquently expresses the feeling of being glad as follows: "I'm so glad! I'm so glad! I'm glad! I'm glad! I'm glad!" (Repeat one billion times.)

- "La Bamba," because the lyrics, translated are: "I am not a sailor. I am a captain. I am a captain. I am a captain." And he is probably glad.

- "Take the Money and Run," in which Steve Miller at-

George-Anne readers respond to UGA writer

Editor's Note: The following excerpts are from letters run in the Dec. 2 edition of the Red and Black, the University of Georgia's unofficial student newspaper, in response to a story in the Nov. 6 paper which referred to GSU students as "rednecks." The story's message was later reported in the George-Anne.

"We are not cocky rednecks! It seems by the content of his article that [Peeples] is all of the things that he is calling us! He complains that there isn't a Waffle House in Statesboro! The Waffle House? That's a redneck place if I ever saw one!

If the Huddle House was too dirty for you and the service was too slow, then wasn't it rather stupid of you to sit and wait in such a so-called dump for food? You could have waddled over to McDonald's if the Huddle House didn't fit your bill. There are plenty of respectable and fun places to go in Statesboro.

As far as the city of Athens goes, I was not personally impressed on my recent visit there. Greek Row was run-down and poorly taken care of. There was trash everywhere.

Our Greek Row here at GSU has all new houses and neat lawns. As for the people of UGA - ya'll are plain out rude. It looks as if the city and school are being taken over by townies as well. Yuck!

I take offense to the fact that all of the students at Georgia Southern were referred to as "rednecks." No matter what may happen in this lifetime or any other, I seriously doubt that I will be accused of being a redneck. African-American might be sufficient - thank you.

Our I-AA football team has racked up four, yes four, national championships in its 10-year history. These are real championships that were won by hard work and not on the merit of some biased voters in a poll. How many national championships do you have? I can see where someone as insecure as Peeples may find pride in boasting of beating a football team that is a division lower but most schools take the game at what it is - a chance for a Division I team to improve its record and look more favorable in the eyes of those biased voters.

It doesn't surprise me at all that the Red and Black ran this somewhat dubious article. Georgia Southern can be proud that its two student newspapers refused to run the ad stating that the Holocaust didn't happen. One can only surmise that only an institution with a closed-minded, racially slanted paper would run such an ad in its newspaper. To quote one of our student newspapers, "to paraphrase a soon-to-be former vice-president, we here at the George-Anne wear the scorn of the world's largest junior college, where fraternities proudly publish racial slurs and teachers are fired for not passing football players, as a badge of honor."

Those of us in Statesboro and at Georgia Southern University would like for you to know that we didn't appreciate your very crude comments about our school and town. Hospitality can't be shown to those who don't understand what it is.

GSU editor fires back

On account of the fact that them mail carriers ain't too swift in these here parts, we just did get us the Nov. 6 copy of y'all's paper.

I was just wantin' to thank you all for that big ol' story that Mr. Gary Peeples commenced to writin' about our pretty little town of Statesboro, and in particular them parts about our little ol' college, Georgia Southern University.

We's forever hearin' folks say all manner of negative stuff on us, so it was right refreshin' to be noticed by a bunch of intellectuals like y'all, what with y'all's open-minded fraternity men with their strong civil rights stances and y'all's pergressive policy on firin' teachers that don't give good grades to y'all's football players and all.

Anyhows, I reckon I'd best be goin' now - I got me a date with my cousin this evening. If Mr. Peeples is ever back around these parts again, tell him to swing on by Bubba's Lounge, home of southeast Georgia's most intimidatin' mechanical bull. A good time will be had by all.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sheriff's political sign not Bulloch County's only eyesore

Dear Editor,

I am in complete agreement with you. Sheriff Akins should have his sign down by now. It has served its purpose.

However, I disagree with you about the sign being an eyesore.

The sign you refer to in your article is still in good shape. Quite frankly, I do not consider it an eyesore.

An eyesore to me is a house across from Hanner Fieldhouse. On the porch is an old sofa with the stuffing hanging out of it. The front yard is littered with bottles and cans. The sofa has been in front of the house since Christmas.

Another eyesore is an apartment complex across from the stadium with trash out in front of it. (I have attached pictures of both places.)

I think all of us want GSU, Statesboro and Bulloch County to be pleasing to the eye. I will try to get the sign that is so offensive to you down over the weekend.

Maybe you can encourage some of your fellow students to clean up some eyesores near the campus.

Although you may be "sick of politics and want a break for a couple of years," I do not think I would like the break that Somalia is having at this time.

Thank you for caring about the appearance of Statesboro and Bulloch County. I just did not understand what you were really complaining about - Sheriff Akins, political signs, politics or eyesores.

SECOND WIND

Chris Sherwood

Talking trash has always been a "serious art" and if you think that this is reserved for the professional athlete then you are grievously mistaken.

There is always going to be somebody who believes that what you say on the court or field is some how going to show up in the newspaper the next day. Until just recently I believed that Deion's touchdown in the humiliating loss to Buffalo would have been tops on my list for "The most asinine taunting plays of the year".

Let's go back in time to that game even though it is so very painful. The scene is a cold and cloudy day and the "mighty" Atlanta Falcons were losing 35-0 or was it 38-0? I can't remember the exact score because I tried to put the Falcons miserable season and that game behind me.

Mr. Sanders thought that he would taunt the "very impressed" Buffalo crowd after a thrilling touchdown. Now I may not be the smartest person around here, but when your team is losing that bad I believe that a little modesty would be prudent. While this particular play might be high on the list, I believe that Mr. Trammel Silvers from East Tennessee State vaulted into the highest spot when his Buccaneers lost to GSU.

I'm sure everybody knows exactly what Mr. Silvers' actions were that prompted me to list him at the top but I will refresh your memories. ETSU was leading and actually starting to pull away from GSU but it wasn't even midway through the first half yet. I was watching with a pleading heart and hoping that the Eagles could turn around this tailspin which they appeared to be stuck in.

Mr. Silvers from mighty ETSU, who just happens to share the same number as "Neon Deion" in Atlanta, has apparently perfected the art of trash talking. Of course his team was playing well at the time, but what he was starting to do was not exactly very athletic. Personally, I have always believed that an athlete should prove his or her worth on the court through his or her actions and not through their ability to talk.

Mr. Silvers seemed to think that just because his team appeared, mind you I did say appeared, to be running away with the game early he could now don a skirt and be a cheerleader. Well Mr. Silvers, I don't think that being a pom-pom girl is your calling and unless I am gravely mistaken I do not think that the fans at Hanner liked it either.

He must have figured that because his Buccaneers were leading 21-10 that he could insult not only the other athletes on the floor but he could also insult the fans who came to see the game. I do not believe that Mr. Silvers nor Deion Sanders will get my vote for the "Sportsman of the Year".

I have a feeling that Mr. Silvers not only irritated me as I sat on press row looking at an athlete reducing himself to the lowest level, but he also hit a spot with the student body behind me as they started calling him "Shazam". This name probably came from the lack of offense he and his teammates displayed in the second half.

Silvers is now qualified to teach other athletes that when you talk the talk you deserve whatever you get and in ETSU's case this was a much deserved loss.

Johnson brings plenty of experience to '93 Eagles

By Chris Sherwood
Staff Writer

The GSU Eagles have added eight new members to their men's basketball team this year. Coach Frank Kerns has recruited five new freshman and he has also managed to collect three junior college players. All of these players will at least see some quality play time during this season to help the transition into Division I basketball.

Warren Johnson played for two years in the junior college ranks perfecting his game until becoming a GSU Eagle. Johnson played for Kathleen/Polk Community College after having an illustrious high school career at Kathleen High School in Lakeland, Florida.

In high school, Johnson earned all-conference and all-state honors his senior season as he led his team to a 32-5 state runner-up record. His team had a combined record of 75-22 over three seasons as he was voted the MVP for his team two times.

After high school Johnson had offers to play at the Division I level, but decided to sharpen his game and play for the local Community College.

It did not take Johnson long before he made his impact on the junior college level. In his freshman year he contributed to the teams overall record of 31-6 which finished ranked fifth in the nation. His team won the conference, region, and state championships while making it to the National Championships during his freshman year.

Guard Warren Johnson transferred to GSU from Kathleen Polk Community College where he averaged 17.6 points and 6.5 rebounds a game. (Photo by Jesse Stribling)

As a sophomore he only improved as he averaged 17.6 points a game as his team managed to win 27 games while only losing 5 times.

Fellow coaches and players definitely felt his impact in the Suncoast Conference as he was named the "Newcomer of the Year" in 1991.

As for his time here at GSU, Johnson is already making an impact for the Eagles both offensively and also on the defensive side of the ball.

On his arriving here at GSU, Johnson was told that he could possibly start for the Eagles. "Coach Kerns told me that I had a good opportunity to start."

Johnson has already brought strong inside play to the Eagles this year which has increased the offensive threat of an already talented team. Warren is averaging just over 13 points a game and leads the Eagles with nine double-digit scoring games.

Warren believes that part of the reason for his success at

Swimmers dive to victory over University of Tampa

By Devonie Hiers
Staff Writer

The GSU men's swimming and diving teams put together a close victory over the University of Tampa in a home meet at Hanner Natatorium January 6. The men really pulled together, literally sacrificing life and limb in the 120-109 win.

According to the men's coach Bud Floyd, the Eagles started with six divers, yet lost all but one due to injuries in practice before the meet. The Eagles then called in a diver and pulled two swimmers to take the empty diving spots.

"We are trying to break the world record which is over 700", Blankenbaker said. "So we are shooting for 800 people and that is why it is going to be in Paulson Stadium."

Also included in the planned activities will be a homerun bonanza, an aerobic competition, a golf tournament, a road race, and volleyball, softball, basketball and tennis tournaments. Softball, basketball and tennis will take place on the weekend of the festival, Blankenbaker said.

Every participant will receive a T-shirt, but each event does have prizes for the winners, Blankenbaker added.

Last year, 600 students and friends participated in at least one event, and this year the organizers are hoping for over 2000 if the aerobic record can be broken, Blankenbaker added.

KIOSKS

This will allow each computer to give directions to the user in respect to the user's location.

There are three Kiosks located on campus. Two are planned as part of the Pedestrium, and the third (located outside the public safety building) is planned as a supplement to the welcome center. There are future plans in adding more Kiosks as GSU's campus expands and the Pedestrium is completed.

not just fending for one's self. Doing small deeds of kindness, he said, brings us all together.

The crowd joined together to sing "Reach Out and Touch Somebody's Hand," a song which expresses what we all need to do in order to "make this world a better place."

"We want to promote peace throughout the world," Harrison says. Thursday night's ceremony was a small step in achieving peace. Now it's your turn. Everyone must do his part in ending racism. Reach out and touch somebody's hand; don't just sit back and let the disparity continue.

4. Color change during freezing may occur. This is likely a result of improper packaging or unusually long storage.

When defrosting frozen foods, it is best to have a slow, safe thawing in the refrigerator. Never leave foods out on a counter to thaw! Most foods require a full day to defrost, and having the meat thaw in the refrigerator allows the food to remain safe for several hours before use.

Some individuals may want to use water to thaw food. If you choose to do this, use cold water. When you immerse the food into the cold water be sure that there are no holes in the package, because the water may carry harmful bacteria which can be transmitted to the food easily. After the food thaws, put it in the refrigerator until it is ready to use.

When using a microwave to defrost foods, plan to cook it immediately afterwards. It is safe to refreeze food that has been thawed in the refrigerator, although there will generally be a loss of quality.

Be conscious of how you treat your foods to assure your personal safety and well-being.

tempts to rhyme "Texas" with "what the fats is," not to mention "hassle" with "El Paso."

- "Torn Between Two Lovers." (Reader comment: "Torn, yes, hopefully on the rack.")

- "There Ain't Room In My Fruit of the Looms To Hold All My Love For You." (This might not be a real song, but I don't care.)

Certainly these are all very bad songs, but the scary thing is: NOT ONE SONG I'VE NAMED SO FAR IS A WINNER. I'll name the winners next week after your stomach has settled down. Meanwhile here are some songs you should NOT think about: "Baby I'm-A Want You," "Candy Man," "Disco Duck," "I Am Woman," "Itsy-Bitsy-Teeny-Weeny Yellow Polka Dot Bikini," "Last Kiss," "Patches," "The Night Chicago Died," "My Ding-A-Ling," and "My Sharona." Just FORGET these songs. Really.

P.S. Also "Horse With No Name."

the Division I level has come from his junior college experience. "I feel that I am ready for this level, I was on a JuCo team that made it to the National Championships my freshman year and that kind of exposure definitely helped my play due to the great players which do play in the JuCo ranks like Darren Hancock, who now starts for one of the top ranked teams in the nation with the Kansas Jayhawks," commented Warren.

On his thoughts toward the new season for the Eagles, "I believe that our bench will have to play well and we as a team. It's important not only to win our home games but also the road games are of vital importance."

Johnson and his Eagle teammates will be back to take on the University Tennessee-Chattanooga this Saturday at Hanner Fieldhouse at 2 p.m.

SWIMMERS

Paul McCoy, Casey Samford and Casey O'Rear placed first, second and third in the one-meter dive and three-meter dive. Other men obtaining firsts in the meet were the 400-yard freestyle team of Mike Hill, Avery Fogg, Crandell Ryles and Mark Brown.

On the ladies side, Sherlonda Pitts broke a Hanner record in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 53:55. This performance led the Lady Eagles to a somewhat more comfortable victory over the ladies of the University of Tampa by a 126-85 margin.

Other Lady Eagles capturing firsts were the 400-yard medley team of Karen Brewer, Stacey Schieble and Vickie Haklin. Amanda Nixon took the 200-yard freestyle and 200-yard backstroke as teammates Courtney Mixon took the one and three-meter dives, respectively. Brewer also took the victory in the 200-yard backstroke.

The next home meet for the Eagles will be Friday, January 29 as they will host rival Davidson College.

Astrologist Ruby shares the secrets of the universe with anyone who cares

Libra: (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You attempt to aid in the Somalian relief effort, but are cut to the quick when your offering of taffy is flatly refused.

Scorpio: (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) Count on a busy weekend when Grandpa arrives at your home with a cord of wood and twenty cans of varnish.

Sagittarius: (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) This holiday season, give the gift of tongue depressors.

Capricorn: (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't make any long term plans. You will be filtered by the week's end.

Aquarius: (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You'll drive dozens of consumers crazy when you write a check for two small items at the local market.

Pisces: (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) You will be hired to join the Defense Department when a deposit of Uranium-235 is discovered in your briefcase.

Aries: (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) Good fortune comes your way this week when you find the Dead Sea Scrolls in your crawl space.

Taurus: (Apr. 20-May 20) Travel will figure prominently in your week when you are arrested for a series of kidnappings. Enjoy the prison food while you still have teeth.

Gemini: (May 21-June 21) Touch base with distant friends. Dial their numbers and yell obscenities into the phone.

Cancer: (June 22-July 22) While taking out the garbage, you'll be ripped to shreds by a wayward puma.

Leo: (July 23-Aug. 22) For a cheap alternative to expensive perfumes, scrape off the dried shaving cream collecting at the spout of the can and smear it on your privates.

Virgo: (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Improve your health this week by dining on the stomach lining of a bulldog.
