

Newsroom

February 4, 2019

Georgia Southern University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/newsroom>

Part of the Arts and Humanities Commons, and the Higher Education Commons

Recommended Citation

Georgia Southern University, "Newsroom" (2019). Newsroom. 1616.
<https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/newsroom/1616>

This article is brought to you for free and open access by the Office of Strategic Communications & Marketing at Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. It has been accepted for inclusion in Newsroom by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@georgiasouthern.edu.

Georgia Southern production invited to Kennedy Center American College Festival Region IV

FEBRUARY 4, 2019

Save

Georgia Southern University Statesboro Campus students perform in a production of "Emilie."

The Georgia Southern University Theater and Performance Program's fall 2018 season opener on the Statesboro Campus, "Emilie: La Marquise Du Chatelet Defends Her Life Tonight," has been selected to perform at the Kennedy Center American College Theatre Festival (KCACTF) Region IV on Feb. 7 at Converse College in Spartanburg, South Carolina.

"One of the truly great things about 'Emilie' being selected is that the show has three student designers whose work is being honored," said Lisa Abbott, M.F.A. "We take pride in the high quality of our productions and it is great when the work is recognized for its quality."

Georgia Southern Theatre's production of "Emilie" is one of only six plays invited to perform during the festival out of 145 shows entered throughout the year. The show is the fourth production Georgia Southern has been invited to perform at the festival since 2014.

KCACTF is a national theater program involving 18,000 students from colleges and universities nationwide which has served as a catalyst in improving the quality of college theater in the United States. KCACTF has grown into a network of more than 600 academic institutions throughout the country, where theater departments and student artists showcase their work and receive outside assessment by KCACTF respondents.

The festival is a year-round program with eight geographic regions in the United States. Regional activities are coordinated through faculty from member colleges and universities. Region IV consists of schools and theatre programs in 10 states throughout the southeast stretching from Kentucky to Florida and two territories, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

The regional festivals celebrate the work of student artists in playwriting, directing, acting, design, management, dramaturgy, arts administration, and journalism and advocacy. Students participate in fellowships and auditions, and some students are invited to attend the National Festival at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., in April.

Georgia Southern University, a public Carnegie Doctoral/R2 institution founded in 1906, offers 141 degree programs serving nearly 26,500 students through nine colleges on three campuses in Statesboro, Savannah, Hinesville and online instruction. A leader in higher education in southeast Georgia, the University provides a diverse student population with expert faculty, world-class scholarship and hands-on learning opportunities. Georgia Southern creates lifelong learners who serve as responsible scholars, leaders and stewards in their communities.

Visit GeorgiaSouthern.edu.

Tags: College of Arts and Humanities, Department of Communication Arts