How would you like to not only go to the beach this summer, but also explore the rain forest, volcanoes, and go river rafting while earning college credit for it at the same time?

This summer GSU is offering these things and more in their study abroad program to "the Switzerland of Latin America"- Costa Rica. This four-week program offers intensive Spanish language classes as well as cultural education, awareness, and appreciation of another country.

From June 2-30, students will not only have the opportunity for field trips and excursions led by GSU professors, but they will also be able to earn up to six undergraduate or graduate credits. Classes will be taught in the Forester International Institute in San Jose, consisting of twenty hours of intensive language courses taught by Costa Rican professors.

Outside of the classroom, students will be housed by local Costa Ricans. Thus, further enhancing their cultural education of the country.

Eligibility requirements include having a 2.5 cumulative GPA, completion of intermediate university-level Spanish or the equivalent, and a personal interview.

Program fees consist of a $100 non-refundable application fee due no later than March 1, $1300 by March 15, and another $1300 by April 15. Costs include round trip airfare from Atlanta, housing with a local Costa Rican family, two meals a day, laundry facilities, field trips, and excursions. Fees do not, however, include technology or tuition.

Financial aid for tuition and program fees are available to those who qualify. Students should apply for summer financial aid no later than March 17.

Students from another school in the University System of Georgia are also eligible for enrollment, but must apply as transient students at GSU for the Summer 2001 semester.

Out-of-state students will pay regular program fees plus a $250 out-of-state assessment. Both transient and out of state students can also apply for financial aid at their home institutions.

Scholarships for the GSU students are available in the Department of Foreign Languages and the Center for International Studies.

All participants are required to bring a valid passport and complete medical and liability documents prior to leaving for Costa Rica. Overseas medical insurance is also available for approximately $20.

For more information on studying abroad this summer in Costa Rica, contact co-directors Dr. Antonio Serna at 681-0652 or email him at antoserna@gasou.edu, or call Dr. Doralina Martinez-Conde at 681-0119, or email her at dormarco@gsaix2.cc.gasou.edu.

Today's Birthday (Feb. 16). Explore new territory and start where others have given up. You and your friends are fearless, so nothing can stop you. You're in charge of preparing the agenda in February and reminding others of their commitments. Your charm attracts the best in April and gets you what you want. If you can't overcome a barrier in May, use it as a building block. Talk about a problem with your loved ones in June, and the love becomes much stronger. Your struggle in July is worth the effort, provided you're helping others. Commit to a partnership around August, and invest in your own future in September. Receive accolades from far away in October. You and your team push over the top in December.

Saturday's Birthday (Feb. 17). Don't do it for yourself this year; do it for them. Ultimately, the rewards will outnumber the ones you think you're after. In February, follow through on plans you've already made. New research leads to new understanding in April. In May, it seems like rules are slowing you down, but they're actually making you stronger. Rejoice in what you achieve in June by taking time off and sharing it with a loved one. In July, prove you care with an unexpected gift. Find the money to make your home safer in September. Look further away to find love in October. Confess the whole truth to your friends in December, and rest easier than ever in January.

To get the advantage, check the day's rating: 10 is the easiest day, 0 the most challenging.

Aries (March 21-April 19) Today is a 9— If you leave today, you'll beat the traffic. Well, some of it, anyway. Others have the same idea, and some of them are going with you. So you'll be in a crowd, but you'll be the life of the party. Enjoy!

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Today is a 5— You're not much of a gambler, but today you could get lucky on a get-rich-slow scheme. If you can make do with less now, you could benefit from a deal that promises more later.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) Today is an 8—

Let somebody else take control of the situation and treat you like royalty. Let them wait on you hand and foot. Somebody else wants to give the orders, so let them have the responsibility, too. Relax and enjoy it.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) Today is a 6— Continue to save your pennies for an outing this weekend. If you don't already have one planned, schedule something for Sunday. You'll have something to celebrate, you know. And if you can't think of anything now, don't worry; you will have by then.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Today is a 10— Your sweetheart may surprise you with a bold suggestion. You're up for just about anything. But a lifetime commitment? More kids? This is a great weekend to talk it over. The outcome looks great.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today is a 5— Your place looks as if it's been hit by a cyclone. Are you doing any spring cleaning? Looks like you're throwing out a bunch of stuff. Anything in there you could sell or trade? At least donate it to a worthy cause and get the tax write-off.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Today is a 10— Every so often you get in the mood to snuggle in bed all day with a really good friend, a really good book, or both. And that's all the suggestion you need. You take care of the rest.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Today is a 5— If you're not already a fine craftsman, you can be by the time this project is over. Go find the perfect thing for your home—a treasure that just needs a little work. You can get a lot for it once it's done, although you may not want to part with it.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Today is a 9— Your own curiosity is the spark, as you keep putting clues together. You can solve this puzzle, too, even if it takes all day and nearly all night. Better pack a lunch.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today is a 5— You keep taking on more jobs, but, are you doing them efficiently? Look for ways to cut the waste: wasted effort, wasted material, wasted time. That's money down the drain. Plug the leaks and save a fortune.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Today is a 9— You and your friends ought to have a big party tonight. The project you've been involved with is almost finished. Sometimes you lost and sometimes you won, but you always had a great time. Celebrate!

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) Today is a 6— You may be undergoing a rigorous test, possibly self-imposed. You're thinking about everything you've done, and how well you've done it. Just remember that you're your own worst critic. Give yourself the benefit of the doubt.

• Hopkins hungry for more 'Hannibal'

Associated Press

BERLIN—Anthony Hopkins hasn't lost his taste yet for doing another turn as Hannibal "The Cannibal" Lecter.

"I would like to do one more sequel, which is being discussed," the actor said Sunday at the Berlin international film festival after an out-of-competition showing of "Hannibal," the sequel to 1991's Oscar-winning "The Silence of the Lambs." "Hopefully, that will be fairly soon, maybe next year," he said.

Audiences in the United States also apparently haven't tired of the blood-hungry genius, the film made $58 million at the box office this past weekend.

Hopkins said the enduring appeal of a character like Hannibal comes from the inner conflict within all people.

"We are fascinated by the darkness in ourselves," he said. "It's part of our mechanism, the duality in our psyche, the light and the dark. Hannibal Lecter—he is the pure paradox of human nature."

1 Oklahoma Ouija board kills man

Associated Press

MINCO — Relatives say Carol Sue Elvaker had no history of mental illness or odd behavior. Police investigating the stabbing death of her son-in-law found no signs of alcohol or drug use, or even domestic problems in the home.

Instead, they say a Ouija board is what drove Elvaker to fatally stab 34-year-old Brian Roach as he slept.

"Something like this, it's unbelievable. I guess it's everywhere," said Joe Gilbert, mayor of the Grady County town of 1,400 located about 30 miles from Oklahoma City.

Elvaker, 53, was charged Monday with first-degree murder, said Brett Burns, assistant district attorney.

Police found Roach dead at his home Sunday from one stab wound to his chest, said Kym Koch, spokeswoman with the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation. It initially was viewed as a domestic violence episode, then police learned other details.

Burns said Elvaker, her daughter Tammy Sue Roach, and Tammy Roach's two daughters, ages 15 and 10, were playing with the Ouija board while Brian Roach was asleep. Elvaker then attacked Brian Roach, he said.

"This is basically the grandmother saying that Brian Roach needed to die," Burns said.

Elvaker also is suspected of trying to kill the 10-year-old daughter.

"She thought the 10-year-old was evil and thought the father was evil," Burns said.

Tammy Roach, 34, took the knife away from Elvaker and hid it in the house. She then left the house with Elvaker and the two children, Koch said.

Elvaker drove the four toward Tulsa on Interstate 44. She eventually crashed the car into a road sign in an attempt to kill all of them, Burns said.

Elvaker broke both ankles in the wreck. The others were injured slightly. After getting out of the car, Elvaker tried unsuccessfully to push the 15-year-old into traffic, authorities said.

Despite her injuries, Elvaker ran from the scene, shed all her clothes, jumped over the highway median barrier and ran into a wooded area north of the interstate, Koch said. Police found her hiding in the woods.

Tammy Roach was arrested Monday on a complaint of being an accessory to murder.

Burns said Brian Roach begged for help, but was allowed to bleed to death. Tammy Roach also hid the knife, supplied the getaway vehicle and didn't try to get away from Elvaker when she had the chance, Burns said.

"It's amazing how the grandmother was able to let this Ouija board consume her life and how she was able to brainwash her daughter and granddaughters," he said.

Brian Roach ran for mayor of Minco in 1986, when he was 19. He won by eight votes. He unsuccessfully crusaded for more police officers during his first year as mayor. He finished his public office career in 1991 as a city councilman.

2 Pennsylvania Love 101

Associated Press

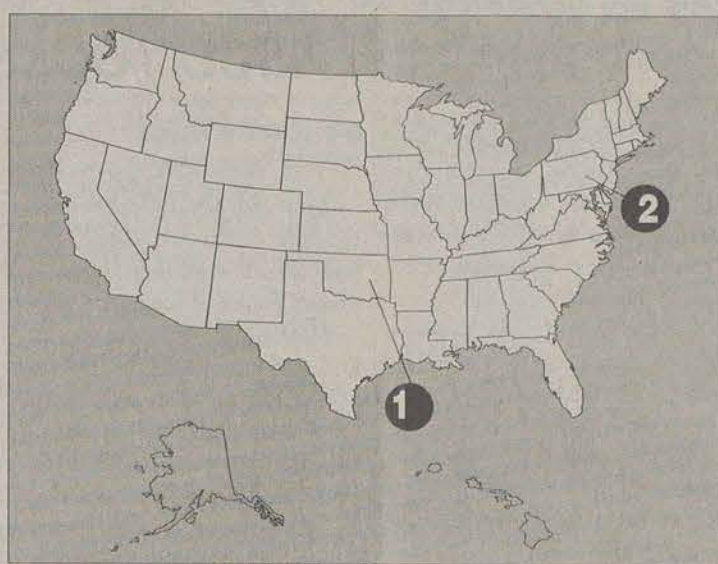

RADNOR — Love. Whether true or tragic, unrequited or eternal, it has been the subject of artists and writers for thousands of years.

But when students in professor Harvey Lape's "Philosophy of Love" class at Cabrini College discuss matters of the heart, it's closer to Descartes than Dame Cartland.

"Love doesn't come with an operating manual," Lape said. "Everyone's going to have failures in relationships; maybe it's something they won't feel so bad about if they have a little more understanding of how views on love have changed over time."

For the past eight years, students have flocked to Lape's "Philosophy of Love" class. The course is so popular that two classes, each with 30-plus students, are held each spring semester at the 2,000-student Roman Catholic college in suburban Philadelphia.

In what the school says is one of the fastest-filling classes on campus, students discuss desire from the viewpoints of Plato, Sappho, Dante, Ovid, Freud, Fromm and others.

Students learn in Plato's "Symposium" that the path to eternal happiness was not love of another but of all things. In "La Vita Nuova," Dante waxes poetic about his love for his mistress Beatrice — a relationship that was never consummated because of the strict societal rules of courtly love and arranged marriages.

Freud conducts a scientific analysis of love, which he sees as surrounded by various neuroses that need to be overcome in order to have healthy relationships. And Eric Fromm's "The Art of Loving" discusses how a desire to be "upwardly mobile" has led to commodification of love — that is, getting the best deal in a partner.

"I always had a sort of idealistic notion about love, but I learned that it's not so concrete," said Cabrini senior Leigh Ann Tenore, 21. "There are so many gray areas, because real love isn't like this perfect ideal that everybody carries."

Lape hopes that's just what students will take away from the course.

"I try to show them that the human condition is fairly consistent over time, but our views are shaped by the society we're living in," he said. "Certainly I don't want them to become cynical, but maybe they'll come away with a less fantastical view about love."

Perhaps not surprisingly, female students outnumber men in Lape's love class, generally, the ratio is about 3-1. Though women outnumber men at Cabrini 60 percent to 40 percent, Lape is uncertain why the scales are still tipped more toward female students.

IN DEEP THOUGHT: Philosophy Club forms at GSU for the deep-thinking

By T. McDonald
Staff Writer

Last semester marked the recognition of the Philosophy Club, a brand new student-interest organization at GSU.

The Philosophy Club caters to students who enjoy media, debate, and intellectual conversation.

Although the fledgling club is just getting off the ground, its members have high hopes for the near future.

Brandy Nelson, the Philosophy Club secretary, promises a newsletter, "Politically Incorrect with Bill Maher" style debate forums, and periodic movie screenings (the most recent of which was "Fight Club") for members.

Nelson also expressed great interest in the potential presentation of a talk on Nietzsche by Dr. Weiss, a professor here at GSU.

Every Wednesday night, the Philosophy Club attends the "Philo Cafe" in the Starbucks section of the Savannah Barnes & Noble bookstore.

The "Philo Cafe" is a discussion among those who enjoy philosophy over espresso drinks and snacks.

The Philosophy Club has approximately ten members and its officers include Josh Chambers - President, Laura Rushing - Vice-President, and Brandy Nelson.

The club is actively searching for new recruits and is open to anyone, not just philosophy majors.

Dues are ten dollars per semester.

Any interested people can e-mail membership requests, ideas, questions, suggestions, or comments to Brandy Nelson at belyne@hotmail.com.

Math tournament to be held on Saturday morning

G-A News Service

The GSU Mathematics and Computer Science Department will host its 13th Annual Invitational Mathematics Tournament Saturday, February 17. Middle and high school students representing more than 50 schools and 20 countries throughout Southeast Georgia will compete in the regional tournament. More than 750 students participated in last year's event, and a similar number is expected this year.

The tournament is designed to recognize students' accomplishments in mathematics, to allow outstanding mathematics students to meet and compete with each other and to promote public interest in mathematics.

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. in the Russell Union with a written test to follow at 10 a.m. The most exciting part of the competition, the ciphering round, begins at 1 p.m. in the Hanner Fieldhouse. This part of the competition features teams scrambling to compute problems with speed and accuracy for bonus points. The event will conclude at approximately 2:30 p.m. with an awards ceremony honoring the top three individual and team finishers in each division.

Capital-city based Dog Fashion Disco rocks out on art-metal tunes

By Kurt Briggs
WVGS Program Director

I am extremely impressed by Dog Fashion Disco. All fans of art-metal should be on the lookout for this band.

Hailing from Washington D.C., Dog Fashion Disco crafts songs that will grab your attention from the opening riff and refuse to let go of your head until the fading note.

Dog Fashion Disco blends influences like Mr. Bungle, System of a Down, and the Melvins without ever allowing their audience to doubt their originality and creativity.

The tracks are loaded with quirky transitions and mesmerizing hooks that sway your conscience.

The entire time that Dog Fashion Disco is entertaining the listener with their avant-garde style, the band never sacrifices intensity.

All of their songs deal with nightmarish themes that paint vivid soundscapes of psychotic imagery.

I guarantee that you will be singing along with the recording after listening to it a few times with lyrics like, "We'll [expletive] you with prosthetic limbs," from a song called ROCKIN' FROM THE CAPITAL: Dog Fashion Disco calls Washington D.C. home, and play tunes influenced by acts like the Melvins, System of a Down, and Mr. Bungle.

"Leper Friend."

This album is a must have for anyone that can appreciate songwriting that defies every genre.

Dog Fashion Disco has already gained the attention and praise of the likes of Nothingface and System of a Down.

GSU Botanical Garden celebrates Arbor Day

G-A News Service

Come to the GSU Botanical Garden on Saturday, February 17, for our Arbor Day Celebration. It's free and open to the public.

Arbor Day celebrates the importance of trees in our lives and encourages people to plant a tree.

The trees we plant not only add beauty to our neighborhoods, but also help clean the air, provide homes for wildlife, help stop erosion, and help keep the atmosphere in balance.

At the Garden's celebration, you'll learn proper tree pruning techniques from David Knox, a Certified Arborist from Rincon, Georgia; take home a free tree to plant (while supplies last); enjoy children's activities, and see wildlife native to the Longleaf pine ecosystem from GSU's Center for Wildlife Education.

Longleaf pine forests, now a threatened ecosystem, once covered over 90 million acres in the southeastern United States.

The Garden is located at 1505 Bland Avenue. For more information, call 871-1149.

Eagles defeat host Jacksonville 9-7

Luke Renfro

WIN ON THE ROAD: The Eagles proved they could win both in Clements Stadium and away with a 9-7 win over Jacksonville at Brest Field.

G-A News Service

Sophomore catcher Brendan Gilligan contributed two hits, drove in three runs and keyed a two-run 10th inning rally with a run-scoring single to lift Georgia Southern to a 9-7 non-conference win over host Jacksonville Wednesday afternoon at Brest Field.

The Dolphins, who trailed 7-1 after six and a half innings, scored six unanswered runs in the final three to force the extra stanza. However, two errors by relief pitcher Casey Shumaker (0-1) and some timely hitting by Darryl Stephens and Gilligan led to a pair of unearned runs which provided the winning margin for the Eagles.

Jason Cadenhead (1-0)

picked up his first victory of the season after giving up three hits, three runs and striking out five in two-and-two-third innings of work. The win also kept GSU undefeated on the year as the Eagles are off to their best start since 1982 with a record of 4-0.

Jacksonville (0-1) drew first blood in the first inning when second baseman B.J. Weed scored on an RBI single by catcher Chad Oliva to give the Dolphins a 1-0 lead off Georgia Southern starter Dennis Dove. The lead was short-lived, however, as the Eagles used an RBI-double by Stephens and a run-producing single by Gilligan to claim a 2-1 lead in the second inning. Back-to-back bases loaded walks and a hit batsmen extended GSU's advantage to 5-1 in the third inning before Carlos Love drilled a two-out, two-run double in the sixth to give the Eagles their biggest lead of the contest at 7-1.

The Dolphins slowly chipped away at the lead, adding a pair of runs in the bottom half of the sixth, a solo tally in the eighth before tying the game with a three-run ninth.

The Eagles bounced back in the top of the 10th inning when Stephens led off the inning with an infield single and advanced on Shumaker's bad throw after a sacrifice bunt attempt by Jason Hinely.

Gilligan plated Stephens with an RBI-single to give the Eagles the lead for good. Hinely, who reached third after Shumaker's throw to third pulled JU's Billy Kickham off the bag, scored the final run of the game on a groundout by J.R. Revere.

Scott Henley, Chad Hall and Stephens also contributed two hits each to lead Georgia Southern offensively.

The Eagles will return to action this weekend, hosting the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets in a two-game series beginning Saturday at 1:30 p.m. GSU's Brett Lewis will earn the start against Tech's Steve Kelly in the opener of the series before David Ray and Rhett Parrott will face each other in Sunday's finale at J.I. Clements Stadium.

Ga. St. sweeps Lady Eagles in double header

G-A News Service

Georgia State used come-from-behind efforts in each of the two games in claiming a sweep of Georgia Southern Tuesday afternoon at the Panther softball complex by scores of 4-3 and 5-3.

Trailing the majority of game one, Georgia State benefitted from two Eagle errors in the bottom of the seventh to score three runs and claim a 4-3 win. The Eagles were one out away from the win, but Buffie Chournos smacked a two-run single up the middle to cap the come-back win.

The Eagles had jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the second inning when a Janice Savage double to left-center set up Julie Peel's RBI single. After the Lady Panthers tied the game in the bottom half of the inning, Georgia Southern responded in the fourth when both Stacie Cooper and Shannan Hoobin singled and scored to give the visitors a 3-1 lead.

Savage, Georgia Southern's starting pitcher, gave up only three hits — all singles — in the final four innings, but the Eagles committed five errors in those innings to allow the hosts scoring opportunities.

Georgia Southern finished with six errors in the game, hence denying Savage's bid for her first career win. The freshman hurler allowed eight hits, four runs (none earned) and struck out three.

Hoobin's 2-3 effort paced

Georgia Southern's offensive effort, while Chournos' 1-4 performance and game-winning hit led Georgia State. But Chournos wasn't finished yet.

After the Eagles jumped to a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning of game two, the Lady Panthers responded with five runs in the bottom half of the frame after Chournos connected on a two-out grand slam that catapulted the hosts to the eventual win.

Georgia Southern attempted come-from-behind heroics of its own, as freshman Rianne Harper doubled hard to left center in the top of the fifth to score Meghan Correia and Cooper. But that was all the Eagles would get as Lady Panther shortstop Corrie Roberts snagged a Suzanne Pansulla line drive out of the air to thwart any further scoring.

Georgia State starter Lee Quattrocchi earned her first win of the season by allowing seven hits, three runs and striking out seven. The Eagles actually out-hit the Lady Panthers in the game, 7-4, with Georgia State getting three of its four hits in the five-run first.

Aimee Littlejohn relieved starter Lacey Kammerer in the second inning and gave up only one hit — the very first batter she faced — en route to a three-strikeout performance in relief. Cooper led the Eagles by going 3-4 with one run, while Harper's 1-4, two RBI effort also guided the visitors.

SWEPT AWAY: The Lady Eagles were unable to pull ahead of the Panthers on Tuesday in a double header played at Georgia State. The final scores were 4-3 and 5-3.
