Georgia Southern Division of Continuing Education, Department of Public and Nonprofit studies to offer new certificate program

May 19, 2020

A new certificate program will be offered on the Georgia Southern University Armstrong Campus as part of a partnership between the Division of Continuing Education and the Department of Public and Nonprofit Studies. The certificate will be awarded upon completion of the Nonprofit Management and Leadership Workshop Series, which will take place October 5-9, at the Armstrong Center.

The five-day program focuses on practical skill building and covers a range of management principles including board governance, budgeting, grant writing, strategic planning and volunteer management, among others.

“As we work through the COVID-19 crisis, the nonprofit sector landscape is experiencing dramatic shifts in a number of key areas such as service delivery, fundraising and philanthropy, and volunteer management,” said Trent Davis, Ph.D., chair of the Department of Public and Nonprofit Studies. “This strategic partnership will allow us to bring practical, relevant and timely skills based training to nonprofit professionals in Savannah and surrounding areas.”

There are also drop-in rates available for those looking to hone a specific skill to better serve their organization and hardship rates for those who qualify. ## BFA senior exhibition to be showcased online

May 19, 2020

The Betty Foy Sanders Department of Art (BFSDoArt) is hosting its “BFA 2020 Senior Exhibition” this spring, but for the first time it is appearing online. The exhibition features student work from the BFSDoArt senior class. The “BFA 2020 Senior Exhibition” is usually held on the Statesboro Campus, however the COVID-19 pandemic changed exhibition plans. The exhibition is available to view online through May 22.

The exhibition showcases the portfolios and capstone projects of Bachelor of Fine Arts graduating seniors in a variety of media including ceramics, digital and traditional painting, mixed media, photography, printmaking, sculpture and video. The department’s exhibition is a cohesive record of the ideas and images that each student has investigated throughout the last semester of their academic pursuits.

“Regardless of the venue, it is important for artists to share their work with the public,” said Assistant Professor Matthew Mogle. “We make work to share our expressions of humanity. Even though it isn’t ideal, I believe this online exhibition is a great opportunity for students to reach beyond the gallery walls to a much broader audience. Art not only exposes our great capacity to create but makes us feel present, helping us endure times like this.”

For more information on the art exhibition and to view it online visit georgiasouthern.edu/digitalgallery.
