Band Clinic Welcomed By George-Anne Staff

There are 300 high school musicians here for the annual band clinic beginning December 8. They will pick the best players from each band in the state, and when each section has a practice, they pick the best player to be in the band. This band plays the music that is on the list of numbers for the state festival.

The festival has been held in Athens and Milledgeville in previous years, but this year the Georgia Teachers College band is the clinic band. Mr. King and the band can be given credit for getting the clinic to Statesboro. Most of the credit goes to Mr. King because most people would have been afraid to try it when they had just taken over a new job and had such a small band. The T. C. band has made a lot of progress this year under Mr. King and will continue to do so during the coming years.

The conductor for this year's clinic will be Mr. Clarence F. Gates, from Ollahoma.

The band and Mu Sigma are the hosts this week end and Friday night a dance was given for the visitors. The dance orchestra played and everyone was invited.

P. S. Girls had late leave!

New Slate of Officers for Masquers Announced at Banquet December 4

The results of the recent Masquers election of officers for next quarter were announced at the Masquers banquet held at the Jaekel Hotel on the night of December 4. The new officers are: Dan Biggers, president; Tommie Jean Corbitt, vice president; Shirley Gullledge, secretary; and Ginger Morgan, treasurer.

The theme of the banquet was Christmas and this was amply illustrated by the entertainment committee which put on a pantomime of "The Night Before Christmas," read by Bettye Lewis. The affair was formal and was followed by dancing in the dining room.

Notice

Several organized groups on the campus have been buying things from businessmen downtown and having them charged to the college.

The business office has had to fuse a number of these bills so far this year, and it takes considerable time and expense going around telling these men why the college will not pay the bill. It is all right to use the college as a credit reference because we will always help the businessman collect the bill.

In the future, let your club president or treasurer buy whatever is needed and if he can't pay for it at that time, the businessmen will be glad to charge it to the club. Don't charge anything to the college unless you clear it with us.

A
CHRISTMAS
TO ALL

Pittman Assumes New Duties

Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, president emeritus and extension director at Georgia Teachers College, will visit 150 or more German students in colleges throughout the United States during January and February.

A teacher-training consultant in Germany and Korea in 1947 and 1948, Dr. Pittman will be in the employ of the Institute of International Education. He was appointed while in Washington, D. C., last week and spent this Thursday in New York City receiving instructions.

His assignment is to determine how well the Institute program for German students is meeting its objectives.

GEORGIA—"The Gunfighter" on Mon. & Tues. — Gregory Peck as Jimmie Ringo, the most feared man in the West—and the loneliest; Ringo is portrayed as an aging badman without a friend in the world, and weary of running and killing, only wanting to put away his guns and live in peace. But, because of his reputation as the top gunfighter, he is a target for every smart-aleck kid who wants to be "the guy who killed Ringo." So he has to keep killing in self-defense, and they called him a mean, tough killer. Jimmie Ringo was human, too. Not an action picture, but a sympathetic and suspenseful account of the last hours of a man who reformed too late and denied love too long. Most of the story takes place in an old saloon and concerns his efforts to reconcile the wife who left him—played by Helen Westcott—and to meet the young son who has heard of the great Ringo but doesn't know the gunfighter is his father. Ringo's nemesis, a tough brat who is jealous of his fame, is played by 19-year-old Skip Homeler.

This is truly a great and off-the-beaten-track movie.

Spirit of Christmas

Christmas is almost here again. The tree on the front campus is beautifully lighted, and we are all looking forward to the formal dance, and then the long holiday. The carolers will go from dormitory to dormitory, cards will fill our mail boxes and all the old cherished customs of Christmas will be observed.

Have you ever watched shoppers at Christmas time? The stores are more crowded than ever but, somehow, there is a feeling of courtesy in the air, and we all get a good feeling from watching a trusting child pour out an endless "want list" to a department store Santa. There is a definite spirit abroad at Christmas, and I have often wondered if the basis of that spirit can't be found in the fact that we are thinking of others rather than of ourselves. We are not concerned with our tastes and our likes and dislikes; we are searching for gifts that will bring pleasure to others, and, in doing it, we find that we are somehow enriched.

Christmas originated with the undeserved gift of a Saviour, and, in spite of those who would turn the celebration into another lost week end, or the cynics who continually claim that Christmas has been commercialized, the spirit of Christmas is present and submerges our selfishness into generosity, our thoughtlessness into consideration, and our callousness into sentiment. In the process, it makes better people of us all.

May your Christmas this year be the best ever.

EARLE M. REYNOLDS.

Dear Friends...

Ludwigsstadt, Germany
The Time Before Xmas, 1950

Dear Friends:

Day upon day and week upon week we hurry along through life without clearly recognizing the fact that time is passing on. But once in a while we pause in our rapid strides and wonder. Again Christmas has come, again one year has passed.

Xmas, 1949-50! Still I remember the red and green bubble-candles, the long needles of your pine Xmas trees, and still I can hear the songs, wonderfully sung by you, in English language.

Now, Xmas, 1950-51. Here I am, at home. All the lively brooks are frozen with crystal-like ice, every hill, all the meadows and forests are covered with soft and glittering snow. So we are going to sit real close by the fire and have our eyes on the short-leaf-silver-fir Xmas tree with its flickering wax-candles. We shall sing the same songs you did. The words will sound different, but its meaning will be the same.

You see, the trees may be unlike, the candles be of various kind, and the language confusing, but still there is the same Xmas which we are going to celebrate on both sides of the ocean. Everywhere it will be done with the same tender feelings in the hearts of the people.

May you be happy and may you live in peace to observe the days. With these wishes I call across the ocean: Merry Xmas to you all.

Always your friend,
AL EBER.

Did You Ever...

Notice how much Mr. King resembles Judy Garland?

Take your seat at chapel without looking at the little letter at the end of the row?

Observe the different colors of the mail boxes?

Doubt Miss Stewart's ability to bellow?

Wonder if you were going to be able to live until the next lineup of holidays?

Shoot your best line and instantly swallow a better one?

Get the Christmas spirit while walking through the Elementary building?

Then chances are you're a T. C. student.

The 23rd Slam

"The college professor is my shepherd, and I am in dire want; He preventeth me from lying down in the bed which I renteth; He leadeth me to distraction with his exam questions; He shaketh my resolutions to get a college degree; He leadeth me to make a fool of myself before my classmates. Yea, though I burn up my lamp until the landlady howleth, I fear much evil, for he is against me.

His policies, his theories, and his ranting frighten my wits from me. He assigneth me extra work in the presence of mine enemies. He annointeth my quiz paper with red pencil marks, and my zeros fill a whole column.

Surely, theories, exams, and themes will follow me all the days of my college career, and I will dwell in the bughouse forever;

To the Faculty

The week of February 19-24 is Religious Emphasis Week on the campus. Dr. Bernard Boyd, chairman of the Department of Religion of the University of North Carolina, will be the guest speaker on Wednesday, February 21, through Friday, February 23.

We should like to clear the school calendar of all outside activities during Religious Emphasis Week. Please, therefore, do not schedule events for the week which will detract from the main emphasis.

Christmas

By B. A. BEDINGFIELD

The secret whispers of what who is giving who,
That special thing you hope someone will give to you,
All those little things that thrill you through and through.

That's Christmas!
The programs being carefully planned to have on Christmas nite,
The choir singing carols in the gleaming candlelight,
The children's anxious faces beaming with delight.

That's Christmas!
The happy excited voices when the little ones discover the toys,
That Santa left the night before without the slightest noise,
And when the day is o'er they still sing of their joys.

That's Christmas!

SCOTTY PERKINS has been selected to captain the 1950-51 Varsity basketball team. He is six feet four inches and weighs 170 pounds. Perkins is a deadly shot; you can always count on him to make a good percentage of his shots. He hails from Williamsburg, Ky., and is a senior. He was leading scorer on the team last year. He is good under both backboards and especially adept on tip-ins.

A Letter to Santa

Dear Santa,

At sweet sixteen I first began to ask you, Santa, for a man. At seventeen, you will recall—I wanted someone strong and tall. The Christ-when I was eighteen, I fancied someone hard and lean, and then, at nineteen, I was sure I would fall for someone more mature. Then at 20, I still thought I'd find romance in someone with a mind. I retrogressed at 21 and found that college boys are fun, but my viewpoint changed at 22, and I longed for someone who'd be true. I broke my heart at 23 and asked for someone kind to me. Then I begged at 24, for anyone who wouldn't bore! Now, Santa, that I'm 25, I plead—send me a man—any kind, just so he's alive.

Merry Christmas!
I NEED A MALE.

Library Bulletin

For those industrious and diligent students who plan to use the holidays to get ahead in their next quarter's work or catch up on the adventures of Don Juan, the library plans to allow books to be checked out over the holidays.

All books will be due December 12. On and after that date they may be checked out for one day at a time or until after Christmas. Books kept out over the holidays will be due January 3.

After the holidays students will want to begin the new year and the new quarter with a clean slate. So, the library urges all those who owe fines to come by and clear their record before the go home.

Merry Christmas and Happy Holiday Reading.

Orange Whips Black By 18 to 12 Score To Win Intramural Football Trophy

The Orange team won its final game of the season 18 to 12 over the oft-beaten Blacks to clinch the football trophy for the 1950 season.

Led by Fred Pierce and Joe Littlefield on offense, the Orange scored on the first play from scrimmage and were never stopped thereafter.

Wright Wilkins and Gene Kendrick were the leaders of the Blacks throughout the season.

The Orange team displayed the smoothest attack, both aerial and ground, shown all season in their final game.

Gardner passed to Corbitt for the second score immediately after the half, and a few minutes later, Pierce went off right tackle to pay dirt.

Both Black tallies came on passes from Wilkins to Kendricks, one in each half.

Bennet's Blabs

By JOAN BENNETT

The tennis tournament is finally underway. The schedule for games is posted on the bulletin board in the girls' locker room in the gymnasium. Be sure to play off your games as quickly as possible, because there is a limit on them.

The pep club made a mighty good start. The new cheering section added a great deal to the game Saturday night. More people are wanted, so hurry up and join; it's lots of fun and a big help to the squad to hear everyone cheering for during the game.

The "Methods and Materials for Teaching Physical Education" class is getting in a lot of practical experience these days. They are teaching classes in folk and square dancing at the laboratory high school. The boys and girls are catching on fast and should soon be almost professional. But, after all, with such experts to teach them, how could they help it? Did I hear a comment?

Coach Searce wishes to express his opinion that the only thing right about this column is the name. He just couldn't mean that! Or could he?

Good news for all you folks who want to learn to dance or brush up on a few steps. Miss Hilliard is offering social dancing on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights at the gym from 6:15 until 7:00. So far, there are about 70 people taking. It's not too late, and everyone is invited, so come on down and join the fun (it really is fun, as well as educational).

Profs On Road; Clements Ready

The Georgia Teachers College basketball team hit the road this week for a three-day trip.

The Professors will try to continue their winning streak at the expense of the University of Georgia (Atlanta Division), North Georgia College, and Piedmont College.

The Professors were a determined lot of men as they left by car. They are looking forward to these games with the hope of making a clean sweep.

Sonny Clements should be ready now that his finger has responded to treatment. Trainer McTier stated the Clyde Little's back is still giving him trouble but he may be ready to go.

Ralph Parson's legs have responded to the hypo-therapy treatment and he is going full speed again.

Sanford Sidelines

By MAYO HARTLEY

—Sanford weeps,

But weeps for joy.

For at last

We're rid of Roy.—

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 4 p. m. for Roy Rodent, who met sudden death earlier in the day at the hands of Sir Thomas Q. (Tom) Cat, Esquire. Services were conducted in Sanford Lounge by the Reverends Sanford Brown and Willis Harper. The body was placed in "Heaven Help You to Rest Better" cemetery. Mr. Rodent's only survivor is his creator, your columnist.

Elsewhere in Sanford, we are glad to learn that Aunt Sophie is up again after being in bed with a cold. Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday, she directed the decorating of Sanford's Christmas tree.

Intra-mural football and tennis being over for the year, most of the teams are preparing for basketball. Captain Thomas J. (Tommy) Wren and his Purple Hurricane held practice Thursday afternoon. All the teams, which are composed mostly of Sanford men, are expected to get going soon.

Sanford has lost two men in the past few days. Reverend J. D. Corbitt Jr. seems to have business elsewhere since he was married during Thanksgiving holidays, and Jack Wade has moved into Statesboro.

Stockings have been hung and letters to Santa have been written, so I'll sign off for now as I Wish everyone a VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Holiday Chatter From West Hall

Since some people seem to think we West Hallians are unpredictable little—or not so little, as the case may be—bundles of humanity, we decided to decorate this year in accordance with their opinion; hence the big "Surprise Package" door at West. The only thing we are afraid of is that it will be opened before Christmas. We will not mind that too much, though, as long as all the openers are pleased with the contents.

Yes, Christmas is really in the air. There are the usual whispered secrets, the name drawing, and the plans for a big time that always comes with this jolly time of year. The only dark clouds on the horizon are those finals that will begin next week. Yes, there is a lot of suspense in West, and it is not all over what our boy friends will give us for Christmas, either. There will be many a light, not of the Christmas variety, burning way into the wee hours during the next week. Let us hope Santa, alias our instructors, is in a good mood when he hands out our grades.

West Hall is making big plans for the Christmas party next Sunday night. We are going to have "genowine" Santa, too (Joanne Darden, to her friends) to hand out presents under the tree. We drew names Monday night; so, there will be a present for everybody. That is, unless everyone had the same luck I did. I bought a box of candy for my gift, but Millie, or somebody, ate it all up. Oh, well, I guess I could give the box so the girl will know I had good intentions.

Oh, yes, there is one last thing before I go. Mrs. Jackson, the girls in West, your reporter, and Millie want to take this opportunity to say to everybody, "A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR!"

Belflower Misses This One

HORACE BELFLOWER (4), of Cochran, Ga., goes in for a lay-up shot against the Marines Saturday night. The Professors won to the tune of 77-59 to ring up the '51 basketball season.

Campus Hi-Lights

By GENIE OWEN

The basketball games last week were really sensational. All the boys really seemed to put their hearts into both games.

We are all glad to see that Aunt Sophie is well and out again. She and the boys did a fine job decorating that Christmas tree in front of the library also. That seems to have started the Christmas spirit; now all of the girls' dormitories are being decorated, and beautifully, too.

Gay Kimbrough and Sanford Brown are attending the National S. C. A. Conference at Miami University during the holidays.

Tuesday night many of the students who have taken music this quarter gave a recital. Everyone who participated did a fine job. (That took a lot of nerve. Good going).

Glenn Hitchcock and Vonda Weaver seem to have had an accident on the way from the 301 one night last week. I wonder if the water in the cesspool was very cold.

The Christmas dance should really be beautiful this year. So many of the girls have gotten new formals, and they have been running around in the dormitories and comparing them. Here's where the boys come in—most of the girls have hinted that they want orchids—in fact one girl even wants green orchids. (What more could you ask for?) The faculty has gone to lots of trouble to plan this dance for us, so let's all go and have a wonderful time.

Eastern Slants

By BETTY ANN WITHROW

"Does this look all right?" "What needs to be done here?" "Turn it around just a wee bit more." "Can't ya' do sumpin' about that bare-looking space?" "Don't tell anybody, but I think I see stars." "I'm really getting the Christmas spirit!" "Sammy, will you help here just a minute?"

Ah, yes, we're all getting ready for Christmas again. Doesn't Christmas bring back pleasant memories, thoughts?

There are so many things to remember—carols, fruit cake, parties, trees, mistletoe, good eats, and, above all, Santa Claus and his contagious, jolly spirit. Gifts are given and cards are sent.

Christmas is not only a season of giving and receiving—it is a great religious season.

We, in East, plan to celebrate by having a party. We'll have good eats, a planned program, cards, a Christmas tree with all the trimmings, and most everything one would like to have at a Christmas party.

Yet, there are other things which draw our thoughts away from the Yuletide Season. Exams are the things of which we speak.
