Don Cossack Chorus And Dancers To Be Here Mon.

The Statesboro Concert Association will present the Original Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers, at the Georgia Teachers College Auditorium on Monday, January 29, at 8:15.

The Original Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers, conducted by dynamic, pint-sized Serge Jaroff, are currently on their 21st tour of the United States and Canada. On the tour they will cover over a hundred American and Canadian cities and round out an all-time record of over 7,000 concerts given in these countries.

The organ-throated Americans of Slav origin are as familiar to music audiences in Wenatchee, Wall-Walla, and Tampa, as to their fans in Carnegie Hall. United States citizens since 1936, they have been responsible for the addition of the word "Kazatski" to the American Lexicon, and the transformation of the "Volga Boatman" into an "American" folk song. Commenting on this, Jaroff replied laconically, "To us it used to mean a song of planery, but now as Americans it means a song of free work—we like to sing it now."

Sarah Denham, And Fleur Powell Vie For East, West

By MARTHA WOOD

In case anyone has wondered about the even more than usual amount of whispering and babbling among the girls in East and West, I think I can supply the answer to all this excitement.

Why, it is the annual beauty review, of course. The halls of East and West are literally running over with prospective beauty queens. West Hall will sponsor the "mighty mite with the cute bow lows," Sara Ann Denham, and East Hall has selected a black-eyed lass with a big smile, Fleur Powell. Besides these two good-looking, many more of our girls are being sponsored by various other clubs on the campus. I heard one sweet young thing say she has been nominated by the I. N. G. Club. I wondered why she had not accepted the nomination until I found out that I. N. G. stood for "I Need Glasses."

So Pat Meeks "wants to be loved, poo-poo-pe do," eh? Well, maybe Jimmy can oblige later. However, I think Pat Kilpatrick did a good job of filling his shoes in the talent show last Wednesday night, don't you?

Miss Veazey and Dean Carroll may have gotten together to stop sunbathing (brr-r-r-r) on the roof, but the girls in East do not seem to mind so much. Judging from the color of those in the Talent Show, they do not need any more sun tan. However, they really did a good job, and we are proud of them.

GEORGIA, Fulton County:

Coach J. B. Searce Praises Students' Conduct at Game

To the Students of Georgia Teachers College:

I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for your response to the request I made concerning our cordial treatment of our visitors from Macon who were here for the basketball game on January 20.

You are to be commended for your excellent sportsmanship and your conduct in an overcrowded gymnasium. Those of us connected with the athletic department feel that the students and our fans did everything possible to create good relations between Georgia Teachers College and Mercer University. I regret that some "reliable informer" who told someone else, did not state the facts. We trust that none of you will hold a grudge against anyone from Mercer University for the unfavorable comments which were made about your conduct, as their authorities regret this incident as much as we do.

J. B. SCEARCE,
Athletic Director.

Lewis Hall Girls And Miss Veazey Win Talent Show

The Lewis Hall girls, along with Miss Veazey won first place in the I. R. C. talent show last Wednesday night. Lewis Hall girls won with a presentation of the "Thing." Much to everyone's surprise, Miss Veazey made a very good showing in her first stage appearance.

Second place went to the Student Council. Marjorie Jones and Billy Moore turned in a wonderful arrangement of the beautiful "Begin the Beguine" and "The Sabre Dance."

The Home Economics Club captured third place with a sideshow act that featured Harry James (Sonny Hawkins), Betty Hutton (Loretta Green), Lauren Bacall (Betty Parrish), and Eleanor Powell (Gloria Anderson).

The show this year was one of the best that has been seen at Teachers College. It is indeed a fine tradition that the I. R. C. has started.

Kappa Delta Pi Names Members

Those violet and green ribbons about the campus that students have been gaping at have a simple explanation. This week end, the local chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary fraternity for persons entering the field of education, will be installed by the national vice president, Dr. Kathryn Vickery. The ceremony will take place during the afternoon, with a banquet following tonight.

The purpose of the fraternity is to encourage high professional and intellectual standards in the field of education. To become a member a student must be in the upper fourth of the college scholarship, have worthy educational ideals, and must exhibit commendable personal qualities.

Charter members of the new chapter are: Marilyn Barwick, Margaret Harrison, Grace Ann Hill, Louis D. Hodges, Fred M. Kennedy, Alvin Moreland, A. J. Morris, Idus A. Newby Jr., William (Bill) Pharris, Earl M. Reynolds, Alan W. Rodgers, Murray A. Rogers, and Dr. Fielding Russell.

The organization came about through Dr. Ashmore, who has been working for some time getting the fraternity extended to this school.

"MISTER 880"—Georgia Theatre, Sun. & Mon.—This is a wonderful, heart-warming story about a kindly counterfeiter who kept the U. S. Treasury baffled for years. It seems that, unlike most counterfeiters, "Mr. 880" printed only one dollar bills and then only when he needed them. Burt Lancaster is the Treasury Agent who finally tracks down the counterfeiter, and Dorothy McGuire is the girl who helps him. And Edmund Gwenn is "Old 880," who wouldn't harm a fly. This is not a crime picture, but a human interest story.

"IN A LONELY PLACE"—Georgia Theatre, Tues. & Wed.—Humphrey Bogart plays a Hollywood screenplay writer with a brilliant creative mind and a streak of sadistic brutality in his nature. Gloria Grahame is the girl he loves but wants to strangle. Not the usual type of Bogart movie, but full of suspense.

"THE STORY OF G. I. JOE"—State Theatre, Mon. & Tues.—A re-issue. This was Eisenhower's favorite war movie, and it's pretty human and realistic, based on Ernie Pyle's "Brave Men." Burgess Meredith is the beloved war correspondent, Ernie Pyle, and Robert Mitchum is Captain Walker, loved by all his men. If you've seen this before, it was years ago—and a picture like "The Story of G. I. Joe" doesn't get old, because Ernie Pyle wrote it—and he was there.

Rabbi Starrels To Speak In Chapel January 29

Monday, January 29, Rabbi Solomon E. Starrels from Savannah will be guest speaker in chapel. He is visiting Georgia Teachers College through a special arrangement with the Jewish Chautauqua Society. His subject will be "Our Greater Need."

CHAUTAUQUA SPEAKER—Rabbi Solomon E. Starrels of Congregation Mickve Israel, of Savannah, has been selected by the Jewish Chautauqua Society as speaker for the annual Jewish Chautauque address at Teachers College at 10 a. m. Monday. A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., he received the doctorate in comparative religion at the University of London and was formerly a teacher of philosophy at the University of New Mexico.

Rabbi Starrels, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., was graduated from the University of Cincinnati and was ordained by the Hebrew Union College in 1922.

Rabbi Starrels served as assistant rabbi of Temple Sinai in New Orleans, and subsequently was called to serve as spiritual leader of the Jewish congregation in Lincoln, Neb. He resigned this post to go to England for further study and to accept a position in the London rabbinate. He received his Doctorate in Comparative Religion at the University of London. After serving abroad for a number of years, Rabbi Starrels was then called to Albuquerque, New Mexico, where he served from 1938 to 1948. At the present time Rabbi Starrels is spiritual leader of Congregation Mickve Israel of Savannah, Ga.

Having taught at the University of New Mexico in the department of philosophy, Rabbi Starrels is a member of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, and is active in civic and social welfare work in his own community and state.

WSB Platter Party To Salute G. T. C.

The South's most widely heard disc jockey, Bob Watson, begins a week long salute to Georgia Teachers College next Monday night (January 29) and the music is to be chosen by students here on the campus.

Watson urges that G. T. C.'ers get their song requests in right away. The address is "The Platter Party, WSB, Atlanta."

The G. T. C. salute on the Platter Party will be heard for five nights at the familiar 750 (WSB) spot on the dial.

All week long, Bob will intersperse notes on the school's history and achievements in sports and scholarship. The president of the student body, Spencer W. Overstreet, Jr., will be interviewed by Watson on Monday night's opening show.

Don't miss the Platter Party next week!

ELLSSASSER, "The Paginini of the Organ," returns to Teachers College Auditorium Monday, February 5, 1951.

Alpha Rau Tau Sponsors Beauty Revue; Committee Already Working On Plans

The Beauty Revue, which is to be held on the evening of February 14, is well underway. For the past four years, the event was staged by Mr. Jack Averitt. This year, for the first time, the affair will be sponsored by the Alpha Rau Tau Club.

Since the revue falls on February 14, the Teachers College campus is noted for its heart-shaped campus, the theme this year will be that of campus sweethearts.

Directors and committees have already been chosen. Miss Dorothy Stewart is the director of acting. Mr. Jack Broucek is in charge of musical arrangements, and Miss Roxey Remly is directors of staging.

Miss Frieda Gernant and Miss

Professors Lead NAIB In Scoring

The Georgia Teachers are leading the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball in scoring with an 83-point average.

Figures by the NAIB are based on the first 10 games, but the Professors have maintained their average through 16 contests. Their captain, Scotty Perkins, is listed as ninth in individual scoring with a 22-point standard.

The Teachers, who last year led the association in total offense and emerged second in game scoring with an 80-point average, also head the Georgia-Florida district of the NAIB in power rating. They are just ahead of Florida State and Tampa. In comparison with non-association teams in their own state, they are ranked second to the University of Georgia.

National ratings make them an underdog to the Quantico Marines, opponent here today, as they seek their 30th consecutive victory on the home floor.

Helen Poppell are co-directors of the Beauty Revue.

Cherry White is chairman of advertising with Claire Thomas, Kathryn Floyd and Mary Ann Carter as her aides.

Beth Wimberly will be in charge of tickets. Those working under her are: Sarah Ann Denham, Boots Beasley, Bobbie Jones, Rosalyn Brantley, and Ann Daniels.

Peggy Dobbs, chairman of the staging, will work with June Cantrell, Robert Saunders, Lonnie Ladson, and Louis Winter.

Things are underway and working smoothly, so we predict that the event will be as great a success as ever. Get in the line for tickets, for St. Valentine's Day isn't very far away from the Sweetheart Campus.

This Is Your College

By DR. LITTLE

THE REASON that a student chooses a particular college to attend usually can be attributed to one or more of the following reasons:

1. The school is recognized as an institution that offers a superior program in the field in which the student desires to major.
2. The cost of attending the chosen school is within the means of the student.
3. The school is recognized as being a place where a happy and sociable school experience can be expected.

As a teacher training institution, Georgia Teachers College is a school that is recognized as offering a superior teacher training program. One has but to talk to the administrators who hire our graduates to know that T. C. graduates by and large make superior teachers.

As for the cost of attending T. C., it is but a fraction of the cost of attending most professional schools. Without doubt, T. C. is within the financial means of any high school graduate who desires a college education.

As for being a place where students enjoy going to college, we believe that T. C. also meets the requirements. However, there are a number of things that could boost us in this category. Chief among these things is the need for a student center. A place students can call their own; a place where the social functions of a college can be carried on; a place where clubs can meet; and a place for dances and other social gatherings. A presentable bookstore, an attractive grill and snack bar and a faculty lounge would make the college more attractive. Definitely, it is our opinion that the thing T. C. needs most is a good five-cent cup of coffee.

A Student Center is in the plans for a T. C. of the future. How far in the future will depend upon finances, building conditions due to war restrictions, and the amount of push by the administration, the faculty and the student body. Just how much pushing should be done right now, we are not able to say. However, we are all aware of the fact that a happy student body is the college's best instrument of public relations and it is a good bet that too much pushing would not be necessary to make a student center a reality.

If I Had Lived 100 Years Ago

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO it might have been possible for me to meet many great men. I might have met Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, and many others; but the one I would have chosen to meet does not have as much space in history given him as Webster or Clay. My choice would have been Alexander Hamilton Stephens, Representative of Georgia for sixteen years. Alexander Hamilton Stephens was a handicapped person; his body was frail, and he never weighed over ninety-six pounds. He was not handicapped in the power of thinking because he was blessed with a great mind which seemed to offset his frail body.

If I had been able to look in on the Georgia Legislature in the year 1860, I could have seen a man sitting at the speaker's desk waiting his turn to speak. I could have seen his claw-like hands push back his untidy, chestnut-colored hair. I would have noticed his feverish black eyes staring out of his ashen face. His clothes hung loosely on his frail body, giving him the appearance of being tall. This was Alexander Hamilton Stephens.

As he was introduced to the House, tremendous applause greeted him. He waited nervously for the applause to die away; then he spoke. His voice was shrill, yet there seemed to be a musical quality about it that made him easy to listen to.

Alexander Hamilton Stephens was making the greatest speech of his career. This was a speech aimed at preventing the people of Georgia from withdrawing from the Union. Alexander Hamilton Stephens pleaded with his friends to be cautious. He asked the people to wait and watch the developments. The people listened and applauded, but he saw them leave the Union. There was nothing for him to do now but follow, and later lead them.—Anonymous.

Masquers Receive Praise From T.C. Faculty Member

In attempting the production of William Saroyan's "Don't Go Away Mad," the Georgia Teachers College Masquers demonstrated their courage as well as their dramatic abilities. The grotesque setting of the play in a ward for terminal cases would challenge the self-control of a professional company. Carefully avoiding the never-absent siren call to melodramatics, the cast maintained emotional intensity without abandoning restraint. Dying men were presented in realistic fashion, with approaching death kept within the realm of the normal human experience.

Saroyan has worked his social and human attitudes into every scene, sometimes adroitly but occasionally crudely. No hint of the maudlin was allowed to weaken the starkly-drawn relations among the principals. And a set of convincing, compelling personalities resulted—personalities the audience will not soon forget.

Staging and lighting effects complimented the work of the cast very effectively. The Masquers and their director have added another strong link in their chain of stimulating presentations. — Tom Alexander.

Honor System Suggested For T. C.

When I saw my assignment posted on the bulleting board, I shuddered at the thought of so many different answers I would receive when I asked the long discussed question, "Do you think T. C. should have an honor system?" Many comments, pro and con, have been made here at T. C. but nothing definite has ever been done. Honor systems work in other schools; why shouldn't one work here?

One of our instructors believes wholeheartedly that we should have an honor system. He believes this because, as he says, "We are a teachers college." The majority of us will be teachers someday and then we will be faced with the same problem that confronts us instructors here at T. C. How would most of us, as teachers, feel if we gave a test and discovered that many of our students were getting their answers dishonestly? You wouldn't like it at all. Now put yourself in your instructor's place while you are in college. He doesn't like to see dishonesty, but, if we had an honor system, his and our own worries would be undone.

A new student on our campus believes that we should have an honor system. She says it has worked in the other schools; why shouldn't it work at T. C. With an honor system it would give everyone a better chance to get what they honestly earn. With such a system, the people who barely pass on what they can copy from someone else would soon realize that G. T. C. was no place for them. The system we have now advocates that the best cheater always gets the best grade. Is this fair to the students who honestly study and try to do their best? I believe everyone would answer no. An honor system would do away with this dishonesty and everyone would be happier. Really the people who cheat aren't happy, because they, too, have such a thing as a conscience. What good does an "A" or "B" on a course do if we have earned it dishonestly? We haven't learned anything of value from the course; we have just killed time.

An honor system at T. C. would have to be enforced by the students and not merely by the instructors.

An honor system was tried in a class here on the campus last quarter. Here is what happened. There were only a few of us in the class and we met in a large room. When the instructor gave a test, he would leave the room and go to his office. If any of us needed any help, we would go to his office and ask him. Was there ever any cheating going on in the room? Definitely not. If an honor system can be practiced in one class, why couldn't it be practiced on the whole campus?

Let's try an honor system here at T. C.—Shirley Shuman.

"Goodness, George, this isn't our baby!"

"Shut up. It's a better carriage."

Professors Tame Bears 69-44; Spirit Is Revived

By ROY McTIER

In a long awaited chance to play them, the Georgia Teachers College Professors displayed the fine basketball game that they are capable of playing last Saturday night when they trounced the Mercer Bears 69-44. It seemed that the spirit that was lacking in the previous games caught up with them in this one.

In a very fine floor game, Sonny Clements took scoring honors with 15 points. Ralph Parsons came into the double figures with 14 points. Needless to say, Scotty Perkins was close behind with 13. Jim Duncan hit for 12, and Johnny Renfro poured in 11. Bill Cross and "Buster" Cartee sank two each.

This reporter cannot finish without saying something about the fine attitude with which both teams played.

The Bears were a clean, hard-playing group of men that cannot be underrated. Several of the Professors made the statement that they enjoyed playing them.

For Mercer, Lamar Clements took top honors with 13 points. Reeder and Cassell hit for 8 and 7, respectively. Bill Harris put in a fine floor game and hooped 6 points. Bobby Wilder, their scoring threat, was held to but 5 points by Ralph Parsons.

One of the finest things that happened was the way in which the ushers handled the overflow crowd of more than 1,400 people. Congratulations are in order for them. They did an excellent job.

Professors Edge Erskine 57-47 In Defensive Game

By HARRY STRICKLAND

Probably one of the slowest ball clubs the Blue Tide will play this season was exhibited last Tuesday night when the Professors played Erskine at Due West, S. C. The first half was nick-and-tuck to a slow but defensive game. Erskine led in the first few minutes, but at the half the Teachers pulled out front 29-23.

Possession type ball was played by Erskine the second half to slow the teachers scoring power down. Erskine's guard, Cathers, who scored 19 points, kept the Flying Fleet close behind. Ralph Parsons' dead eye and Perkins' constant drive marched the Blue Tide to a win over Erskine 57-47. Jim Duncan scored 9, Sonny Clements hit 6, Johnne Renfro made 4 and Duck Page 2.

Professors Whip Pelzer 92-81 In Freescoring Tilt

The highly but not underrated Pelzer Bears lost their first collegiate game to T. C. last Monday night at Pelzer, S. C. In the opening of the game Pelzer jumped to a 4-0 lead and this was the only time during the game they were out front. The Blue Tide whipped their shooting into perfect form to lead the Bears at the half by the score of 50-37.

The second half proved to be a shooting duel with Ralph Parsons' push shots and Scotty Perkins' one-hand shot. Wootens' set shot and Beckers' hook shot kept the Pelzer team in the ball game. The Teachers played one of the best games of this season to rack up their thirteenth victory. Scotty Perkins led the Professors with 26 points followed by Ralph Parsons and Jim Duncan, both with 23 points. Sonny Clements made 11 and John Renfro 9.

T. C. Spirit Said To Be the Best In the South

When the team was in Due West last Tuesday night, the statement was made that "you people from Georgia Teachers College have the best spirit that I have ever seen in the South. You people must be real basketball lovers to travel this far to see your team." This was said by one of the merchants in Due West.

The team does appreciate this support that you have shown in the past three years. To some of you new students it may seem a little unwarranted, but to the team it means an awful lot. Last year, at the tournament in Tampa, there were nearly a hundred and twenty-five people at both games.

The team wishes to thank you for all the support you have given and wishes that you keep it up. You can never guess how much it means to them to have several of you students at these away-from-home games. Keep it up.

Don't forget that we have our biggest game in Macon with Mercer on February 10. Now, this is a long week end. So plan to attend this game and give our team the support it deserves.—Your Sports Editor.

Four Teams Tied For Top Position In Basketball Race

The boys intramural program has gotten off to a good start this quarter and we have already started having a race to the finish with four teams tied for first place.

Professors Take On Quantico Marines Tonite

Sam Glassman Deals College Great Injustice

By THE EDITOR

The other day we were all shocked by the statement of Mr. Sam Glassman of the Macon Telegraph. The entire campus was in an uproar, and so was your weekly mistake (The George-Anne). We saw no reason for the untrue statements but we can't attempt to understand other people's way of thinking.

The George-Anne is proud of the way the students conducted themselves at the Mercer game, and only wish that we could have the same spirit at every game.

We thought it would be very appropriate to answer Mr. Glassman in The George-Anne this week, but, after reading his so-called other side, we think that the best way to handle a situation of this kind is simply to ignore the facts entirely wrong. Mr. Melton stated to the head usher after the game that he had never seen a crowd that was any better behaved than the one we had here for the Mercer game. Mr. Melton also stated that in no way did the crowd interfere with the game except for that one unfortunate incident.

We think that it is only just that The George-Anne say that the person who was removed from the gym was not from T. C. or from Statesboro, but from Macon, the home of the Great Sportsman, MR. SAM GLASSMAN.

The Georgia Teachers College Professors meet one of the best, if not the best, basketball teams tonight at 8:30 that they will face this year. In the preliminary game the Laboratory High School takes on Statesboro High.

The Marine roster includes many outstanding stars of the college and professional game. It has been reported to us by a pretty reliable source that they have seven former professionals on the squad.

After seeing the Tide in action against Pelzer, we have no doubt in our minds that it will be a game you cannot afford to miss. We think we have a pretty good chance of taking them.

We will need all the support that can be given by the student body and the fans from the surrounding area. Let's wish them a lot of luck in this tilt Saturday night.

Miss Ann Nevil, of Register, is one of six women named to make up the cheerleading team at Georgia Teachers College.

Miss Sue Simmons, also of Register, is an alternate member.

The girls are busy generating pep for a varsity basketball squad that has won 13 games and lost only one. The college advertises the attractively-dressed cheerleaders as "A Team That Never Loses."

Miss Nevil is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Nevil, of Register. Miss Simmons' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Simmons, of Register.

Former T. C. Student Sends Letter

Dear Friends,

Looking at the calendar today, I realized that exactly a month has passed since I left T. C.'s campus. Four short weeks only? It is almost unbelievable, because so much has happened in such a short time. I have seen Washington, New York; there was the marvelous experience of a flight across the ocean and the great event of coming home one day before Christmas. There were old friends I had to see and a new job to get ready for.

An enormous change has taken place in these four weeks. My surroundings are no longer skyscrapers, television, air conditioning, but an odd mixture between a medieval cloister and a castle. These lines are written in a former mon's cell with walls three feet thick and a key too big to be put into my pocket.

The Comburg was built on a steep hill above the village of Sleibach as a knight's castle and became a cloister in 1078 A. D. In 1803 the state took over. Today the walls with all the towers and above all the three steeples of the Romanic Church are still in good shape and the ancient buildings house a Pedagogical Academy. Teachers from all types of schools have conferences to discuss their problems or may attend courses ranging from one to six weeks to keep abreast with recent developments, to hear distinguished scholars. For practical demonstrations and experiments there are two laboratory classes in the abbey. There I am teaching 50 boys and girls in the fifth grade. We are getting along fine. It is a rather episoid and by no means an easy job, but also a challenge.

Of course, it takes time to get readjusted. I am still shivering in our rough climate and just the other day I got a blank, bewildered stare when I greeted somebody absentmindedly with a contraction of "How are you?" instead of Goup-Lott! Apparently, my thoughts wandered again to America, as they do quite frequently.

And then it seems to me that I had been with you just yesterday. Right now I can see you wandering in the chow-line, joking or grumbling about some notorious line breaker. I can visualize many of you in your typical positions in the classroom, alert or sleepy. I almost miss the noise in Sanford Hall when I get up late and everything is quiet.

Yes, I came to like your country and especially T. C. too well; how could I forget it and my friends here, who made me enjoy this year so much. When I look upon 1950 in respect I can only be grateful because it has been one of the greatest and most pleasant years of my life.

Nobody can tell yet what 1951 has in store for us. I hope, however, that after the pleasant holidays, you have made a good start. May it bring the very best of luck to every one of you. May it help you to realize your plans and fulfill your wishes. May it spare us all from another world war.

In closing, I would like to add to my own greetings the best wishes from Gerd, whom I met in Shutgoot the other day.

Sincerely yours,

HANS.

Pres. Henderson At AACTE Meeting

President Zach S. Henderson has just returned from the University of Alabama, where he participated in the Training School Accreditation held there January 21, 22 and 23.

The American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education is embarking upon a program of re-visitation of all member institutions during the coming three-year period. The plan is to revisit approximately one-fifth of the membership during 1951, two-fifths during 1952, and two-fifths during 1953.

In order to carry out this program, it is necessary to have a supply of specially trained visitors who will be able to apply the new standards and schedules of the association in a manner which will provide comparable data from the various institutions visited. The committee on accrediting met in Baltimore October 6 and 7 to lay plans for this program. At this meeting the committee appointed an instruction team composed of Dr. E. S. Evender, Dr. E. J. Ashbaugh, Dr. W. W. Wright, Dr. M. R. Trabue, and Dr. Charles W. Hunt to carry on training schools for visitors.

Visitors who accept the assignment to participate in this program commit themselves to a three-day training session in January, 1951, and to approximately three visitations per year during the next three-year period. Each of these visitations will require from two to four days work.

ELLSASSER, "The Paginini of the Organ," returns to Teachers College Auditorium Monday, February 5, 1951.

1951 MARCH OF DIMES

THE MARCH OF DIMES for sufferers of infantile paralysis is January 15-31. Here General Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., director of the March of Dimes for Georgia is talking with little Charles Spicer, of Ocilla, at the Warm Springs Foundation. Standing behind young Peggy Dobbs, of Athens, also using the facilities of the polio center, is Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, in Georgia for the polio fund-raising campaign.

Since 1910, more than 17,750,000 American boys and men were active in the Boy Scouts of America.

The seventh World Scout Jamboree will be held this summer about 35 miles south of Salzburg, Austria.

The largest encampment in the Western Hemisphere was held in 1950 when 47,163 Boy Scouts and leaders held their National Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa.

In 1916 Congress granted a Federal charter to the Boy Scouts of America "to promote the ability of boys to do things for themselves and others."
