On The Night After Rat Day Not A Creature Was Stirring...

By BOB SPELL

A 1959 GTC Graduate

'Twas the night after Rat Day
when all through the dorm
Not a creature was stirring,
not a mortal form.
The rat caps were abandoned by
all of the boys,
And for once the house was free from noise.
The freshmen lay tossing and
squirming in bed,
While visions of Rat Day
danced in their heads.
They dreamed of the day filled
with such clatter,
That they hardly knew what was the matter.
Sleeping on their tummies, for
their backs were sore,
They dreamed of events of the night before.
For at that time in the halls
outside
They felt they were more dead
than alive.
For what to the freshmen's eyes
should appear
But a group of sophomores with a mean ugly leer.
More rapid than eagles their helpers came
And shouted, screamed, and called them by name.
"Get Jerry! Get Billy! Get Jit
and Sonny!
Rat James! Rat Clyde; Rat
Jim and Johnny!
To the top of the stairs, to the front of the halls,
Now get 'um, get 'um, get
'um all!"
As dry leaves before the wild
hurricane fly,
The rats scattered before they should die.
So up to the dorm-tip the sophomores they came Screaming, shouting and calling them names.
And then with the banking they heard on the door,
The stomping of feet on the outside floor.
As a rat threw back his head
and was turning around,
In the door they came with a bound.

They were dressed all right, from their heads to their feet.
One looks on their pans.
feel very weak.
A pair of gloves they had on their hands.
They were all devils from the looks on their pans.
Their eyes; how bloodshot! Their mouths; how leery!
Their cheeks were like calves,
their eyebrows; how scary!
Their ugly little mouths were drawn up in a sneer,
And the rats shook because of their fear.
The stubs of cigars they had
clenched in their teeth,
And the smoke was like a funeral wreath.
They had long faces and big round muscles,
And told the rats that they must hustle!
They were big and strong, right
mean old elves,
The rats were afraid in spite of themselves.
A glance of their eyes and a twist of their heads Soon gave them to know they had everything to dread.
The sophs spoke not a word, but went straight to their work.
Grabbed the rats quick and
turned with a jerk,
And laying their hands on the
wrists of their arms, Dragged the rats out and gave the alarm.
They had to wash and scrub and sweep with might,
To clean the dorm that dreadful night.
Yes, the freshmen dream of the
dreaded day gone past,
But they knew all along it wouldn't last.
A smile begins to creep across their lips,
When they think of not having any more moonlight dips.
And in his sleep one exclaimed
loud and clear,
"Just you wait, brother, until next year."

Installations Of Student Council Members Held

Installation of Student Council officers was held on Monday, October 5 as part of this week's assembly program. Those installed were Dickie Baker, president; Albert Burke, first vice-president; Charles Ragsdale, second vice-president; Vivian Blizzard, secretary; Susan Brandon, treasurer; Miriam McClain, Pelham, and Hubert Manning Patterson, senior representatives; Mary McGregor, Garrard, and Dean Akin, Martin, junior representatives; Diane Brannen, Statesboro, and Milton Callaway, Sylvester, sophomore representatives.

Baker, the new president and chairman of the executive committee, is a senior social science major from Cordele, Georgia.

Albert Burke, a junior pre-law major from Wadley is first vice president and chairman of the social committee.

Charles Ragsdale, second vice president and chairman of student organizations committee is a junior health and physical education major from Milledgeville.

BLIZZARD IS SECRETARY

Vivian Blizzard, a senior from Tennesse is secretary for the coming year. Miss Blizzard is a social science major.

Susan Brandon, who will serve as treasurer and chairman of the financial committee, is a sophomore elementary major from Decatur.

Dr. Ralph K. Tyson, dean of students, was in charge of the morning's proceedings. The program was begun by Willis Moore, a Methodist minister from Deepstep, Georgia, who charged the Student Council and student body with a reading from Corinthians 13 and 14.

SAI ENTERTAINS

Sigma Alpha Iota, a women's music fraternity, sponsored the musical portion of the program. Thelma Mallard played on the piccolo "Piccolo Polka" and was accompanied by Mary Frances Monroe on the piano.

Dean Tyson then stated the purpose of the Student Council as, "The purpose of this organization shall be to render maximum service in promoting the general well-being of the college community. This may be accomplished by providing authorized leadership in all functions concerning the student body other than classroom activities and problems of discipline and administration. These functions shall include, but not be limited to such activities as:

1. Supervision of student elections.
 2. Planning and executing college social activities.
 3. Planning and executing, in conjunction with the college administration, such events as freshmen Orientation Week, the athletic program, the artists series, and similar events."
- He also added that a Student Council member must be prepared to receive criticism for if he did nothing for people to comment about, then 99% of nothing would get done. He said that a Student Council member is representing the entire student body and not just himself or a small group of people.

Weaver Holds Tuesday Night Graduate Class

Dr. Bill Weaver, professor of education, is holding a class for graduate students on Tuesday nights during the hours of 6 p.m. until 10 p.m. with a break halfway. Although this class is for graduate students, under graduates may join.

The name of the course is Psychology of Exceptional Children and deals with all children that deviate from normal to the extent that they need special help to achieve their potential.

This course was offered because so many graduate students requested it, and it could not be worked into the Saturday class schedule.

The success of this class depends upon student acceptance and approval of the administration.

Ed Hale, Dean Akin And Rick Osburn Elected To Serve As Presidents Of Senior, Junior And Sophomore Classes

The GTC Rosenwald Library received its first foreign magazine recently when, as shown above, Dr. Milton J. Farkas, professor of modern languages at Georgia Teachers College, presented "The Paris Match" to Mrs. Bobby Cobb, assistant librarian. The campus French Club is a member of a world-wide organization called, "The Federation des Alliances Francaises" through which it receives this French magazine.

The election of class officers ended Wednesday after almost a week of campaigning on the part of all candidates. Results of the election are as follows:

Radio Club Plans Year's Activities

The Radio Club is hoping to expand its activities to include tours of radio and television studios in the area, talks by personnel in the radio and TV fields, and to again produce its weekly "On Campus" program.

Willis Moore, president, said that the club hopes to visit a radio station during the winter quarter and a television studio during the spring quarter. Plans for this year's activities also include inviting radio and television personnel to visit the campus and conduct talks on all phases of radio and television work.

Toward the latter part of October the club plans to again present its "On Campus" program. The program will be heard each Sunday afternoon on WWNS. This show is designed to interest not only Georgia Teachers College students, but also anyone within the WWNS listening area. Various types of shows will once again be presented. Campus news, interviews, dramas, and music head the list of program events.

To become a member of the Radio Club it is only necessary to work with the members of the club and earn points. Points are awarded to members according to the amount and type of work that they do for the club. Any student can become a member of this organization. The fact is stressed, however, that the club is not a club for "Joiners."

Woodrow Wilson Foundation To Give Fellowships

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation has announced the opening of competition for its fellowships for the academic year 1960-61. The chief purpose of the fellowship program is to offset the critical shortage of qualified college teachers by encouraging college seniors of outstanding ability to consider college teaching careers.

To this end the Wilson Foundation annually awards 1,000 fellowships for first-year graduate study at any university of the recipient's choice in the United States or Canada. Woodrow Wilson Fellowships carry a stipend of $1,500, plus full tuition and fees, and in the case of married Fellows, a dependency allowance for wives and children. The program is open to college graduates in the natural and social sciences and in the humanities. Both men and women are eligible, and there is no limit on the age of the candidate or the number of years he may have been out of college. Those who receive awards are not asked to commit themselves to college teaching, but merely to "seriously consider" it as a possible career.

The Woodrow Wilson Foundation does not accept applications directly from students. Candidates for the award must be nominated by a faculty member. Nominated students are invited to declare themselves as active candidates for the award by completing necessary application forms.

Winners of the award are selected through screening of the applications and personal interviews by regional selection committees, made up of faculty members from the regions' universities and colleges.

The closing date for nominations for the academic year 1960-61 is October 31, 1959. Nominations should be sent to the Chairman of the selection committee for the region, Professor Charles D. Hounshell, Emory University, Atlanta 122, Georgia.

Dean Paul Carroll is the college representative of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Foundation.

The Circus Has Come To Town For Rat Day

By GERALDINE SHELLEY

The Sophomore Circus Association has made it possible for "The Big Top" to be at Georgia Teachers College!

Exuberant youth crowded the campus yesterday to behold these restless vitally alive as animals as they performed various tasks for the Sophomores. The Big Top opened that morning at 4:30, and was on campus until 10:00 that night.

It featured an outstanding variety of athletic events and a great deal of hard work for some highly intelligent animals. Rabbits, goats, wildcats, snakes, gorillas, ducks, tigers, lions, monkeys, and numerous other specimens furnished unusual entertainment that seldom comes to public attention.

The talented circus leaders who have tamed and taught the colorful group of animals are all members of the Sophomore class. They have printed articles in the paper for the 300 animals to observe. They have wriggled ponderously through crowded halls to make sure the poor creatures were wearing a cap. They have moved surreptitiously up and down the lunch line in the cafeteria to make it impossible for them to break in line.

The experienced people in this field of entertainment were placed in various positions of honor to direct the activities for the day.

The chairman of the Steering committee is Rick Osburn, from Atlanta, Georgia. Others on this committee are: Norman Jarrard, Alma, Jimmy Hendrix, Macon, Sandra Mobley, Augusta, and Gail Wright, White Oak.

The committee who organized the animals is composed of Diane Brannen, Statesboro, and Milton Callaway, Sylvester.

The animals must go to court if they do not do an exceptionally good job Rat Day. Those in charge of this are: Susan Brandon, Decatur, and Mike Poole, Warner Robins.

The big parade is prepared by Pat Hart, Valdosta, and Olin Presley, Covington.

Athletic events were directed by Pat Hart, Valdosta, and Clyde Miller, Stillson.

People responsible for the wearing apparel and general appearance of the animals were Sally Coleman, Summertown, and Ray Hassett, Harrisburg, Illinois.

Sophomores on other committees responsible for livening the day were: Jimmy Harrell, Warner Robins, Garie Brock, Folkston, Jean Dickerson, Sylvania, Kenny Bishop, Port, Barbara Exum, Edison, and Barbara Eakin, Kingsland.

After yesterday's activities were completed, the circus animals became full-fledged college students at Georgia Teachers College. They are a part of the student body that lives and laughs and learns together in the classroom and auditorium, and on the campus.

If Rat Day failed to catch the sparkle of youthful, fun-loving minds, it will have failed to have fulfilled its purpose.

The Line Breaker Strikes Again!

Have you ever been standing in line for over half an hour—then some wise guy or gal, who really thinks they're something, walks up and goes straight to the front of the line and somehow gets right in? Well, this is the well-known "line-breaker."

Who can we blame? Nobody! Not only is the person who requests this special favor guilty, but the individual who allows him to do this is equally as guilty. If each and every person would accept the responsibility of saying politely but firmly NO! to the request "let me ahead of you," then those little Pests, the line-breakers, would stop asking. Sure, everyone would like to be first in line. But how about those poor, hungry souls who stand in line and end up farther away from the dining hall door than when they first started to wait in line?

The person who is a linebreaker must be inconsiderate, impolite and disrespectful of his fellow students.

Should some of the administrators of our school have to stand and guard the line to see that no line-breaking occurs? We are college students and should be adults.

How many of you linebreakers would break in line at one of the cafeteria-style restaurants in some of our larger Georgia towns? Not many, the American public wouldn't stand for it. Well, the same rules of etiquette should apply here. Nearly a thousand persons are served daily in the dining room and if each person would wait in his place in line to be served—the line would move just that much more quickly for EVERYBODY concerned.

Are You Using Time Wisely?

People who have learned to use their time wisely are the ones who have a real big joy in life and are making a big success in everything they do.

The majority of people who don't use their time wisely usually put too much time on one thing and not enough on the other activities. Such is the case in class work and extra-curricular activities. Every one should know how much time it would take for each activity and then allot his time so as to have enough for them. Students who do not use their time wisely should learn to put the most important things first and then the things they would like to do as pastime second. By doing this a person can learn to put his time to its best use.

Many students when they are studying don't really use the time for real study. They manage to get their homework and all the assignments but after they are through, have they really studied or used their time wisely? Many don't put out the best effort they can while they are studying. In general, a lot of students don't know how to study. Many books and articles have been written on how to study. But just reading them isn't going to help a person until he makes up his mind he wants to study. Many complain that they have to study so long that they don't have time to do anything else. A person can study four or five hours without his best effort and not learn as much as if he studied two hours with his best effort. Then there are others who don't put enough time on studying. They put out a little effort and that is all. The fact is they are plain lazy.

Many people spend more time socializing than they do on studying or anything else. On June 5, a boy graduated from high school. In September he went off to college. He intended on going for an education. Deep in his mind was the thought of being well liked and popular. While there he was very active in all the organizations and various social functions. He put more time on extra-curricular activities than anything else. A year went by and he managed somehow to get by in his grades. Finally he became so involved in his activities until he flunked out of school. After being rejected by several colleges he realized that popularity wasn't everything. Education goes along with participation in social functions only if you use your time wisely.

Josh Billings said, "Time is like money; the less we have of it to spare, the further we make it go." We are living in an age in which every second is of utmost importance. The free world is having a hard struggle competing with the "Russian" world. The Russians have learned to use their time wisely. We should consider ourselves lucky. In Russia the people's time is already mapped out for them. What little free time they do have for themselves they use it to the best advantage. They don't waste it like many of us do. They consider time a priceless jewel.

Someone has said that life is like a great play. The earth is a stage. The people, the actors. The environment, its props. Any play that is successful at all depends largely upon the time used in preparing it. A person's life span is considered very short and the way he uses his allotted time determines his success, happiness and contentment. Remember whenever you have any spare time, use it constructively and not destructively.

Let's Keep Georgia Teachers College Clean

"Let's keep GTC clean!"

This might well be the theme of the Student Council as they sponsor a clean-up campaign at Georgia Teachers College. Every student is encouraged to back up the Student Council and clean up the campus.

GTC possesses a beautiful campus, but the student body often makes it an ugly campus by discarding their trash anywhere they please. The students have blamed this on the fact that they have no place to put their trash, but the Student Council has secured large waste disposals to be easily accessible and conveniently located.

Many students seem to forget that they do not "own" the college. These students will throw their discarded cigarettes into the beautiful flowers in the Frank I. Williams Student Center or just crush them on the floor when they have finished. Others tend to stick chewing gum to anything that happens to be handy.

We, the staff of the George-Anne, would like to join forces with the Student Council and urge your support in keeping Georgia Teachers College campus clean. GTC is our home away from home, and we would not desire to have the reputation of being untidy housekeepers.

Without the support of the entire student body, the clean-up campaign will be of no avail. Let's keep GTC clean!

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"ONE CONSOLATION ABOUT TEACHING FRESHMEN—WITH ANY LUCK YOU WON'T HAVE THE SAME GROUP NEXT YEAR."

-- Moore Or Less --

By WILLIS MOORE

One of the new students on campus was heard to remark, "This place is really getting bad. I'm afraid to leave my car parked, a peccatrian might run over it."

Here are some gems of wisdom heard in the show line: "... everything you do here you have to stand in line for it. ... we ought to have greens today—they have just cut the lawn."

By now most of us are aware that the "T" books are not out yet. Since they are not out there are a few changes in rules that we aren't aware of. Many students have found out about this the hard way—trial and error.

After discussing this problem, we feel that we need a published list of rules by which we should abide. These could be photographed to be handed to students or published in the George-Anne, which everybody reads. Although rules have a negative effect it is better to have them than to feel that they are being made up as we go along.

It might also be possible that the rules of last year's "T" book be used until they are published in the new edition. After all, they aren't THAT obsolete. We love our campus and hold it in high esteem. We do not want the "sweetheart campus" ruined by a bunch of rule-breakers.

We tip our hats to the "Sin-fonians" of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, for the wonderful assembly program they presented recently. Long has it been since an assembly program had so many sincere compliments. We give you our best wishes "Sin-fonians," on your tour and what ever may follow.

GTC Maintenance Crew Helps Keep Campus In TipTop Shape

By JIM BRANDON

Some guy in Sanford Hall leans against his sink. Something pops, and water comes gushing forth. Panic! What to do? Who will come to the aid of this poor distraught fellow, and the other residents before all are lost in the swirling tide?

The college is the brunt of the tail end of a hurricane. Tree limbs and other debris are strewn about the campus. Within a day, the grounds are at their usual "Sunday best." Are we host to a tribe of leprechauns as was the cobbler of old?

The maintenance crew, normally composed of about fifteen men, makes all repairs, and maintains all of the buildings and grounds of the college. In addition to the crew for repairs and ground work, there is also a bevy of janitors and maids under the supervision of Mr. Taylor.

During the summer, the number of employees grew to about sixty, for the job of preparing the school for another year of hard use. The halls of Anderson (old East), Lewis and Sanford were painted, and all of the bathrooms in Sanford were remodeled. The music building was painted. The Health cottage was painted, and had the floors refinished. In like fashion was the Alumni building treated. The home management house was painted and moved. One major accomplishment was the laying of a fifteen inch sewer line from the new Cafeteria for over a mile out into the woods for the proper disposal of sewage from the kitchen.

The man in charge of this very large-scale operation is Mr. Ben Taylor. Mr. Taylor came to Georgia Teachers College in 1948. At that time, he was not only in charge of regular maintenance, but also the college's dairy farm, which have lately been discontinued.

the Apache Indian reservation. The country had changed from a dry, hot atmosphere to a beautiful, green and cool one. I learned that the Apaches are more advanced than the Navajo's. The Apaches live in one room houses made of wood.

I went by bus to the Indian mission in Sante Fe, New Mexico. Here I was surprised and everjoyed at the opportunity of again working with Judy Jarrett and Carl Archbold. The Vacation Bible School was the largest one I had worked in and I had to teach 40 primary children myself for one week. It was a great challenge but I was able to do the task.

My summer was filled with many exciting experiences which have and will continue to enrich my life.

Campus Capers

MARY ANN HARRELL

Many things have happened around campus since the last article, so we should have lots to talk about this week.

The Zeta Omicron Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha entertained freshmen and transfer students at a "Smoker" last Thursday evening in the Recital Hall of the Music Building. Those young men who were there said they had a most enjoyable evening.

Along the same line, the Gamma Theta Chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota entertained new students at a rush party in the Faculty Lounge of the Student Center. Approximately twenty students were present.

Monday in assembly, Speck Clifton, Statesboro photographer presented the school several portraits of the baseball and basketball teams. These are displayed in the trophy cases of the Student Center. Those of you who haven't seen these pictures yet, should certainly stop by and see them.

Many amusing things happen in the dining hall, but I thought this story topped them all. Early one morning several weeks ago, a bleary-eyed sophomore stumbled through the serving line. The student who was serving eggs asked the young man whether he wanted his eggs scrambled or fried. The sleepy young man stopped and considered the question several seconds then replied, "yes."

As well as being known as the "Sweetheart Campus" this school is often called the "Suitcase Campus." The reason obviously being that most of the students leave the campus early on Friday afternoon. Now don't get me wrong, for I like home just as much as anyone else, but may I offer a suggestion. Student Council goes to quite a bit of trouble planning activities for the students to participate in and to enjoy. Why don't you try staying here at least occasionally—you'll have more fun than you had realized.

May I congratulate all you freshmen for showing such good sportmanship yesterday. We are proud to have you as part of our student body. I believe the sophomores also deserve a pat on the back for their part in Rat Day.

That's all for now. See you next week.

Miss Holmes Enjoys Closeness Of Georgia Teachers' Campus

By SANDRA COX

"GTC's reputation as a friendly campus attracted me to teach here," remarked Miss Martha Emma Holmes, new assistant professor of business education.

She added that during her attendance at the University of Georgia, she felt that her professors regarded her as a number rather than an individual, but that the smallness of our campus enables the faculty and students to become better acquainted.

A native of Athens, Georgia, Miss Holmes attended University High School, a privately supported institution, until her senior year. She then transferred to Athens High where she completed her secondary education.

Later she became a student at the University of Georgia, and received her BBA and MS degree in business there. Miss Holmes did general business work until three years ago, when she acquired a position at the University of Georgia off Campus Center in Waycross, Georgia.

She is now teaching Money and Banking, Business Law, Beginning Accounting, Business Statistics, and other subjects that are required for the new BBA degree that is now offered at Georgia Teachers College for the first time.

Miss Holmes enjoys spending her spare time reading and listening to "good" music. She also does amateur art work as a pasttime.

Inquiring Reporter

By "MURRY HENDRICKS

Most of you students who have been here before have noticed the new size of the George-Anne. By new size, I mean that it is wider and also contains more pages. This week, I asked some students "What do you think of the new George-Anne." Of course, some of them stay so buried in their books that they had not noticed, but here are a few of the more intelligent (?) answers.

Norma Rushing—It makes you think you're going to a bigger school.

Beverly Joyner—If it keeps on, it'll soon be up with the "New York Times."

Charlie Griffin—I think it's a big improvement.

Bo Snell—It ought to have more jokes.

Jackie Gamadanis—I like it bigger and it has more news.

Denzil Sellers—If I ever learn to read, I'll love it! Carlene Leaptrott—It's so big you have to lay it down to read it.

Prissy Robertson—I'm crazy about it. It has more news of interest to the students in it.

Ray Belue—Pretty nice. Much more to read.

Jack Willis—Unless we have some articles on segregation, I don't think it's an improvement at all—well, you asked me what I thought.

Ed McClesley—Since it's bigger, it should be able to cover activities in all departments of the campus rather than just sticking to the same few departments week after week.

Betty Sue Mashburn—I like it better small. I just can't control those big papers.

Gerry Bailey—Since they made the paper bigger, they should make the words bigger—I have bad eyes.

Miller's Highlights

By CLYDE MILLER

Every year the sports world focuses its attention on the greatest of all sporting events—the World Series. Baseball fans ranging from eight to 80 gather in front of television sets and radios to pull for their favorite teams. The following is a brief summarization of world series stars since 1954.

The New York Giants, winners of the national league pennant in 1954, went into the World Series against the champions of the American League, the Cleveland Indians. The Indians, winners of 111 games, were rated strong favorites, mainly to the pitching staff known as the "Big Four." The "Big Four" consisted of Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia, Early Wynn, and Bob Feller. In the first game, with the score tied at 3-3, the Giants called upon Jim "Dusty" Rhodes to pinch hit. "Dusty" promptly smashed a home run to win the game. In the second game, he delivered a run scoring single, and in the third game, he again delivered a timely home run. The Giants took the fourth game without the aid of "Dusty" to capture the series in four straight games. "Dusty" Rhodes, the country boy from Rock Hill, South Carolina, trying to fight back against Alcohol, had vaulted himself into the national spotlight.

The 1955 World Series was played between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees. Again, a mediocre performer named Johnny Podres, had emerged the hero. He defeated the Yankees in the third and sixth games to give the Dodgers their first world championship.

The World Series of 1956 will be remembered by all baseball lovers as the one in which Don Larsen pitched his perfect no-hit, no-run game. This was the first no-hit game in World Series history, and the first perfect game in nearly 40 years.

The Yankees battled the Milwaukee Braves in 1957. Lew Burdette of Milwaukee, downed the Yanks 5-2 in the second game, 1-0 in the fifth game, and 5-0 in the seventh game.

Once again in 1958, it was the Braves versus the Yankees. The Yankees, down 3 games to 1, called on "Bullet" Bob Turley for excellent clutch relief pitching, to win the series.

Who will it be in 1959? No one knows, but you can rest assured that each player will be giving his best performance in each game. That's what makes baseball the wonderful sport that it is.

"There is always a first time" is an old remark used by young and old. Monday, Coach J. B. Secaree, chairman of the health, physical education, and recreation department at Georgia Teachers College, discovered this to be a true statement. He was SPEECHLESS when "Spec" Clifton of the Clifton Photo Service presented him with four beautiful pictures of past GTC championship teams at assembly.

Coming as a complete surprise to Coach Secaree, the presentation left him with very few words. He expressed his gratitude to Clifton and further stated that the gifts would enhance the new gymnasium, where they will be put on permanent display.

Making up this group of champions were 1955-56 Professors, who went to the second round of the NAIA Tournament at Kansas City, Missouri, as they closed out a successful season of 22 victories and only seven losses. "Mr. Basketball of Georgia" referred to this particular team as his best.

Other included are the 1957 GTC baseball team which won third place in the NCAA play-offs at Gastonia, N. C., and the 1957-58 District 25 Champion Profs. Rounding out the four-some was the 1958-59 District 25 Champion Profs who played their way to the third of the NAIA Tournament.

Students may share some of the enthusiasm with Coach Secaree by visiting the lounge of the Frank I. Williams Center, where they are being temporarily displayed. As soon as a place is prepared all of them will be transferred to the new gymnasium.

With the Professors opening the season against Georgia December 2, Secaree is doubly excited. "The Profs can have a good season if they don't get senioritis" said Coach Secaree in a personal interview. One of the big games (other than the Georgia game) will be the one against Georgia Tech.

Although the schedule isn't definite as of now, the Professors will have a tough season. A returning first string and an experience bench may send the Profs back to Kansas City for the fourth time in five years.

The Statesmen Coming To GTC

The Number One Gospel Singers in the United States—The Statesmen with Hovie Lister—will appear in GTC's McCroan Auditorium at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, November 3.

Advance admission will be $1.00 for adults and 75c for students. At the door, tickets will cost $1.25 and $1.00.

The GTC Athletic Association and tickets are now on sale at the athletic office in the physical education building.

GEORGE-ANNE SUBSCRIPTIONS

If any GTC student wishes to have the George-Anne mailed each week to their home, contact Al Burke, business manager.

Subscription price is $1.50, and this includes the cost of mailing.

PLAYBOY, the entertainment magazine for young men, is seeking student representatives to work for its College Bureau on campus.

The PLAYBOY College Representatives act as reporters for the magazine on campus life and trends. They also act as a direct liaison between PLAYBOY's national advertisers and local outlets, and pre-test merchandise, conduct surveys, and promote the magazine's campus circulation. The five-year-old publication now has a circulation of over 850,000.

Work on PLAYBOY's College Bureau provides practical experience for anyone interested in public relations, journalism, merchandising, advertising, and sales techniques. There is also financial remuneration for this work.

Any student interested in representing his campus should write for complete details to: Anson Mount, Director, PLAYBOY COLLEGE BUREAU, 232 East Ohio Street, Chicago 11, Illinois.

Dunkel: Georgia By 21 Tennessee Over Tech

Northwestern, Louisiana State, and Iowa continued to top the Dunkel Ratings following last Saturday's games.

But Texas, Southern California, Mississippi, and others, were moving up rapidly.

In defeating Iowa, 14-10, Northwestern (2-0), brought its average scoring superiority to 18.0 points over opposition indexed at 96.8 for a total rating of 114.8. LSU (3-0), was 18.3 over 93.3 for a total of 112.2.

Other leaders, their records, and last weekend's scores are: Texas (3-0), 33-0 over California; So. With the exception of Purdue, Army and Tennessee, college football leaders would appear to have fairly easy assignments this week.

According to the Dunkel Ratings, most of the top echelon have ranked themselves in double figures over their Saturday opponents.

Intramural Roundup

By JOYCE RAHN

Well since this column concerns intramurals, they tell me, I had better tell you intelligent college students about the intramurals on GTC campus.

Mr. Jess White began the program Tuesday. His assistants are Travis Doss and Billy Secaree. The team sport was volleyball for both men and women. The other sports will be announced at a later date.

The women's teams and managers are as follows: Yellow-jackets, Lane Hartley; Bluebirds, Eloise Minton; Troopers, Norma Rushing; Cardinals, Wylene Fendley; Eagles, Vinda Purcell; Hawks, Glenda Rentz; Falcons, Betty Hand; Rebels, Diane Brannen.

The women are playing by national rules, or better known by boys rules. It's a little different from last year's playing, but we girls can adjust to new rules.

The Bluebirds played the Yellow jackets and won with a score of 28-15. High scorer for the Bluebirds was Eloise Minton and for the losing team was Shirley Kent. The game between the Cardinals and Troopers was a forefeit because the Troopers didn't have enough girls to fill the team. All I can say to the Troopers and all the other girls who don't come out to participate, is that you don't know what fun you're missing. And while I'm on the subject, intramurals isn't for the physical education majors only. It's for the enjoyment of the students of GTC. Your team is like a club. If a club you belong to has a party and you go and have fun, you can certainly come and participate in the intramural program for 45 minutes, which, by the way, is as long as it takes. Congratulations to all you fine girls and boys who came to the games Tuesday afternoon.

The boys intramurals also began Tuesday. They are playing volleyball, the best two out of three games. The teams, managers and assistant managers are as follows: Panthers, Whit Reeves; Richard Doublerly; Bobcats, Stanley Simpson and Tommy Matherison; Tigers, Dahl McDermitt; Wildcats, Wayne Smith and Billy Mock; Bears, Charles Ragsdale and Maurice Herndon; Leopards, Jackie Jones and Ben Benton; Cougars, Donald Crump; Lions, Jimmy Oates, Billy Kitchens and David Patton.

The Bears won over the Wildcats with a score of 29-17 and 21-12. The Tigers won over the Bobcats with a tight score of 25-22, 16-15 and 17-14. Congratulations boys!

Super Sub!

It's been said that the atomic submarine "Nautilus" stays submerged so long that it only surfaces to let the crew re-enlist. Perhaps for this reason, the Navy has taken valuable space aboard the "Nautilus" for the only soft-drink vending machine in the entire submarine fleet.

Naturally (or you wouldn't hear about it from us) it's a Coca-Cola machine. And not unexpectedly, re-enlistments are quite respectable.

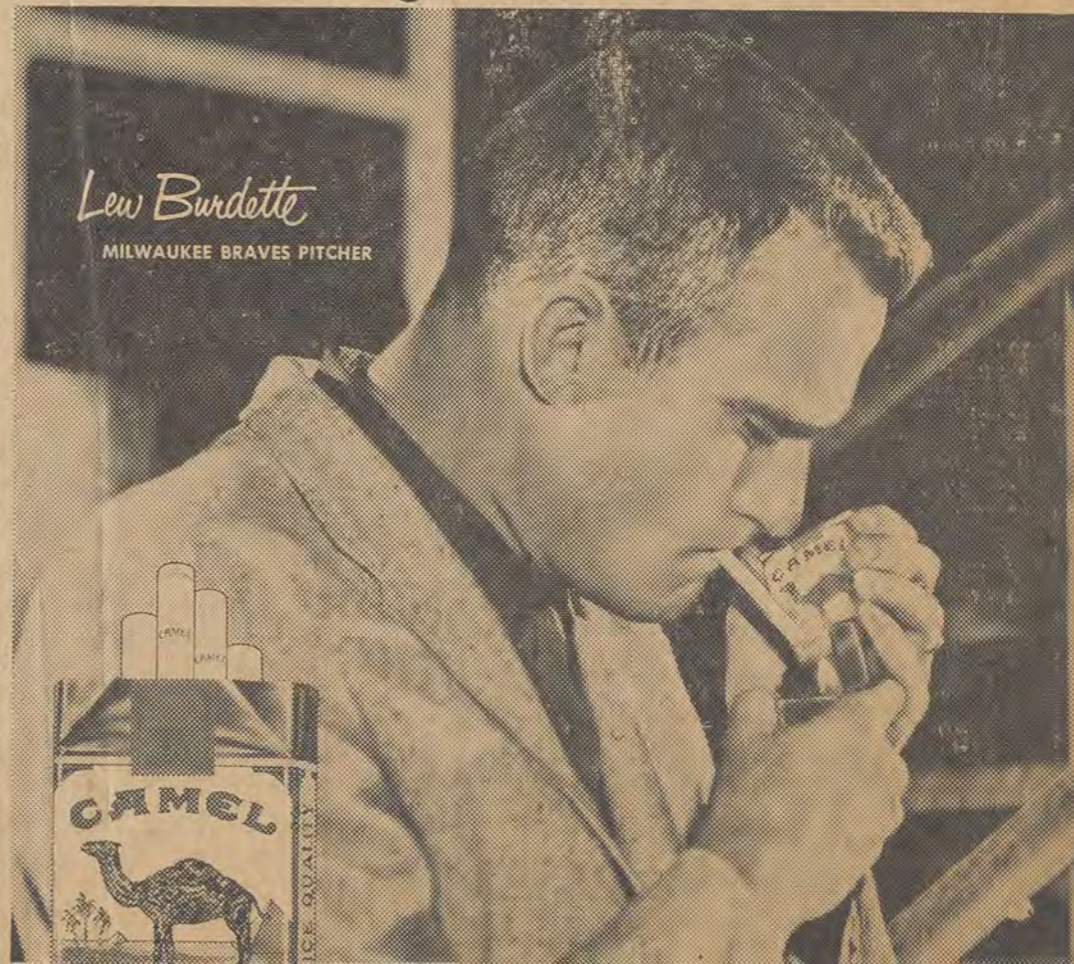

Rugged lot, those submariners. Great drink, Coke!
