Smith Talks On Paper Industry

Mr. J. W. Smith, conservation forester for Union Bag Camp Paper Corporation, was guest speaker at assembly Monday, April 18, in conjunction with National Pulp and Paper Week.

The objective of this special week is to focus attention on man's dependence on paper production. A series of cartoon slides, entitled "Care of the Forest: Help Paper Have Its Day," depicted how much man uses paper in everything he does.

In introducing Mr. Smith, Dr. Jack N. Averitt, chairman of the social science division at Georgia Southern College, stated that this college is very much connected with the pulp and paper industry. Dr. Charles Holmes Herty, a pioneer in the turpentine industry, worked on a turpentine cup in Bulloch County in 1901.

GSC 7 MERCER 6

The Eagles whipped Mercer 7-6 in 10 innings Thursday at Macon.

Miller Finley's No. 5 homer of the year, a 340 footer in the 10th inning, won the game for reliever Clyde Miller.

Don McDougald Addresses Lead And Ink Club

Don McDougald, president of the local radio station, WWNS, spoke to the new pledges and veteran members of the Lead and Ink Club at their meeting last Monday evening.

McDougald, who for 8 years was comptroller at Georgia Southern College, discussed various aspects of radio and television work.

He was introduced to the members by Joe Axelson, advisor to the organization, as a man who "previous to 1958, knew little about radio except how to turn it on and off." Mr. McDougald is a graduate of Emory University with a degree in accounting.

193 Applicants Are Accepted As GSC Newcomers

Two hundred and eighty applications for entrance to Georgia Southern for fall quarter have been received already and of this number 193 have been accepted according to Miss Viola Perry, registrar.

Thirty-four men and 127 women are beginning freshman. A comparison of these figures with those of other years is: on May 1, 1958, there were 110 applicants, on May 1, 1958, 142 persons had applied, and on May 1, 1959, applications numbered 172.

"At the rate applications are now coming in we may have to stop freshman women applications within six weeks," states Miss Perry.

Housing Is Problem
This flood of applications has increased the already existing problem of inadequate housing. The normal capacity of the residence halls with two to a room is: Deal Hall, 110; Anderson Hall 110; Lewis Hall, 72; Cone Hall, 152; and Sanford Hall, 168.

The new dormitory, if completed in time, will house 160 more women. At this time many of the rooms have three or four occupants and Ralph K. Tyson, dean of students says, "If we go back to putting only two to the room we will still have space for new people even with the new dormitory."

In view of this situation Dean Tyson states, "In order to avoid crowding, consideration is now being given by the administration to reducing the number of applicants for housing over the capacity of the dormitories."

Drop Outs Decreasing
In the past we have been able to accept many applications above our housing capacity due to so many dropouts but this has changed now. With requirements more difficult, the $25

Will Your Vote Be Counted On May 12?

A little over two weeks from now we'll all know the answer. The Student Council elections for 1960-61 are scheduled to be held on Thursday, May 12. This year we'd like to see a record turnout and have a greater percentage of the students than ever before cast their ballots.

Contrary to general opinion, the Student Council is not necessarily a governing body. It is a coordinating body for all student activities. At the helm of the numerous activities, which take place on the Georgia Southern College campus, are a group of student leaders chosen by the entire student body.

Or at least our entire student body has the chance to nominate a candidate and then vote in the most qualified person to fill the Council position.

Also contrary to general opinion, the election for Student Council officers is not a popularity contest. The persons elected must be responsible and have an interest in Student Council. When we say responsible we mean he must readily accept responsibility of his own free will and complete any jobs that he undertakes. He should have consideration for the general welfare of the entire student body and not just for his own benefit or for a small minority of the student body.

One of the qualifications necessary to any Council member is that he be able to work well and cooperate with other people. If each member tries to work on an individual basis, the Student Council will be very ineffective. The Student Council, in order to accomplish anything, must be a unified group.

Every person, who is registered as a student here, will be allowed to give his opinion, by voting, as to the person he wants to win this race. Whether he knows the candidates personally or not, every student should go to the polls and VOTE.

If you don't know any one of the candidates, there are a few ways to get to know them before election day. Talking is a very useful means of communication and has been used for many purposes! Ask some of the people around you. Surely, a few persons among the ones you ask will know the candidate and will give you their opinions as to his fitness to fill a Council position.

Try and meet the candidate you don't know and talk to him. Listen and try to learn some of his views and the platform on which he stands. Sometimes in this way, you can learn the good and bad qualities of a person.

We have suggested only a few qualities which you should look for in a person when voting for Student Council officers on May 12.

Our first point is that everyone should exercise his right to vote. A remark frequently made is, "I'm going to vote so that later on I will have the right to gripe about what the Student Council does." This is not the best reason for voting but if it will instill in every voter that he should cast his ballot, then perhaps this is a good reason as any.

Our second point is that the voter should vote for the most qualified person and not for any candidate just because he's a "great guy" or she's a "swell gal". We hope you won't vote for a candidate just because he's your friend. But if the best qualified is your friend—Good—support your friend!

There Is Much Cause For Concern!

What's the use? The majority of the students in this school is positively disturbing! Almost all of them gripe about the candidates who are running for Student Council offices. Yet, when they had the opportunity to nominate persons other than the students which the Student Council nominating committee chose for office, the Georgia Southern College student body didn't bother to attend a meeting.

Perhaps eighty persons, if that many, cared enough to spare 15 minutes of their valuable time to go to the meeting last Wednesday morning. Those who didn't go seemed to feel that the short time which the meeting took was better put to use for smoking, drinking a Coke, playing a game of pool or a quick game of poker, or just gabbing.

What would this school be without its students? Nothing! But we sometimes believe that Georgia Southern College is nothing because some of the students can be classified as the most disinterested, laziest, and worthless persons in any school in the State of Georgia.

But how could the Student Council be expected to get a good response to this called meeting of the entire student body when the separate class officers couldn't get a majority of the members in any one class to attend the meeting to nominate class representatives?

The only class, perhaps, that could possibly qualify as having any class spirit whatsoever, is the freshman class. The George-Anne was given to understand, according to reports from members of that class, that about half of the class membership attended the meeting called by their president, Travis Houston. This response was wonderful related to the other classes, but it seems to us that after being through so much this year as freshmen, these first year college students would be closer, and more than just half of the students would attend a class meeting.

The junior class was forced to call two meetings in order to nominate their class representatives. There was a "great" turnout at the first meeting. They had approximately 43 persons to attend. Dean Akin, president of the junior class, should have felt very lucky to have that many, who think enough of their class to come to a meeting. Ah, but the second meeting was a different story! Only about 25 came to this meeting. Besides selecting candidates to run as Student Council representatives in the election, Dean announced that the class ring situation and the "Old South Ball" would be discussed. Even these enticements didn't register with the class members enough to bring them to the meeting.

The members of the sophomore class shouldn't feel too proud of themselves either. We left them until last because they deserve the "booby prize" in this little attendance race. Only about 23 of their "esteemed" group saw it fitting to attend their class meeting. If this is a preview of the future, then what can we expect in the next two years from this class?

What's the answer to this problem? How can pride in one's class be instilled in a person? It can't! But these class meetings and student body meetings can be made compulsory just as are the assemblies. They aren't called that often that they would be a burden upon a student to attend everyone called.

What happened to the quality of the student's who are now attending Georgia Southern? In past years the school spirit has been overwhelming in the hearts of the students who came here. The proof of this is that they come back year after year for the Homecoming celebration.

One of the most wonderful things about graduating is the pride a student can have in his school and his class. Can there be a class pride when a student graduates, if no class spirit is shown while the student is still in school?

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I THINK HE GIVES HER LOW GRADES ON PURPOSE! HE LETS HER TALK HIM INTO RAISING THEM."

'Miss Jorie' Dedicates Life; Recipient Of Many Honors

By CAROLE JEAN COLLINS

"I was so surprised!" This was Miss Marjorie Crouch's reaction to her election as second vice-president of the Georgia Branch of the American Association of University Women. Miss Crouch was elected Saturday, April 22, at the State AAUW meeting. She will be in charge of the program at the state convention for next year.

Miss Crouch teaches social studies, math and the core program at the Marvin Pittman School, and most of her students call her "Miss Marjorie" or "Miss Jorie." She is called the "Pied Piper" for all seventh and eighth graders at the Marvin Pittman School.

For eight years she has been the director of Camp Labjoy. At camp it is nothing unusual to see her "baby-sitting" with some child's pet lizard, flying squirrels, or owls while its owner plays a game of table tennis, or sets the table. But she was a bit squeamish about the snake which one boy begged to leave in her room. Because of her recent illness, Miss Crouch will not join the campers in their outdoor escapades.

Her record of such high achievements, Dr. Ralph M. Lyons (head of division of education during his work at GTC) said, "Miss Crouch does more guidance and counseling with college folk than any college teacher." Her door (both at home and at school) is never closed to high school or college students.

Teaches 40 Years Miss Marjorie's life has been a quiet, unostentatious one that spans forty years of teaching. She was raised as one of seven children in a Christian home. Many interesting traditions and customs of the South were passed on to her along with the culture and sentiment of the times.

Her impact on young minds has been powerful. She taught not so much by books and drill as by living examples. People are willing to give to you — money and books, but so few are willing to give time and example.

Known World-Over She has meant much to thousands of young people from all over the world; from Brazil, Mexico, South Carolina, and Bulloch County. One Bulloch County boy stopped by her desk on the last day of school and said, "Thank you, Miss Marjorie, for making a human being out of me."

"Miss Jorie" believes that life must be dedicated, just as hers has been dedicated to youth and to the Master Teacher.

Receives Honors "Miss Jorie" has done many wonderful things and received many honors. She was editor of the bulletin for the Association of Student Teachers of the Southeastern Region, Georgia representative for the Association for Student Teaching for three years, and president of First District Teachers of Social Studies for two years.

She is core consultant at Mercer University Summer School. She is an active member of the First Baptist Church of Statesboro. Miss Crouch was included in the 1960 "Who's Who in American Education," and she is president of the Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary teachers society. Out of 29,000 teachers in Georgia, the Supreme Court Judges selected "Miss Jorie" as Georgia's First Teacher of the Year in 1956. Students at Marvin Pittman School had already chosen Miss Crouch as their "Teacher of the Year."

Joins GSC Staff She became associate professor at Georgia Teachers College in 1956. In 1958-59, she was the only woman classroom teacher on the Georgia Nuclear Advisory Commission Task Force on Teacher Education. She is also a member of the Georgia Association and the National Education Association. You may well realize the ability and greatness of this teacher by

Here Are Hints To Aid You In Cultivating Tan

By BETTY JEAN BRYANT

"O mighty Sun! Send down thy rays To tan my arms, my legs, my face."

This is the cry of the campus sun worshipper. At about this time each year they don their bathing suits, playclothes, etc. and spread themselves out on blankets, towels, and bedspreads to bask beneath the warmth of that bright star known as the sun.

According to the members of this group, there are various methods by which one may cause his skin to take on that golden color denoted as a sun tan. The one most widely accepted is simply to lay out in the sunshine.

Precautions Necessary There are, however, certain necessary preparations and precautions. First, a suitable place has to be selected. The most popular ones are the beach and swimming pool; but any sandy spot around a river, lake, or other body of water may be substituted. The grounds behind Lewis and Cone Halls are also regular haunts of the sun worshippers here on campus.

Second, the sun bather clothes himself in not too much to prevent him from getting a tan, but in enough to be decently dressed.

Tanning Agent Applied The third requirement is that some sort of agent must be applied to the skin which will facilitate the tanning process and prevent the dreaded condition called sun burn. This procedure is repeated by each individual until the desired depth of color is obtained or until it is felt that further exposure would be to no avail.

There are those among the sun worshippers who seek to combine physical exercise with obtaining a tan. For them, the tennis courts and golf courses offer unlimited opportunities. Off they go to these places whenever they have a free period or a spare hour after class. Any day, especially Saturday and Sunday, you can see them walking about the campus, armed with tennis rackets and golf clubs and wearing a confident smile.

Artificial Methods Used There are certain artificial methods advocated by sun worshippers to which they resort on cold or rainy days or at the beginning of the spring when one's skin seems to be unbearably white. A device resembling an oversized light bulb is often employed. If you look in the dormitory rooms at almost any time now, you may see creatures wearing sunglasses and bathing suits. They spread themselves out on the floor, lay on beds, or sit on their desks while all about them shines blinding light which comes from a sunlamp.

Perhaps lately you have noticed some of the female sex on campus whose limbs seem particularly brown for this time of year. You may have thought that they tan very easily and quickly. In some cases this is true, but you may have been one of the ones fooled by the use of a preparation known commercially as "Man Tan." Upon application of this liquid, which is really an after-shave lotion, the skin turns a golden hue. Care must be taken to registration fee, and the personal interview causing greater consideration to be given to college, the percentage of people who apply and drop out is decreasing.

Dean Tyson continued, "Probably the best indication of the seriousness of our housing situation would be an analysis of Anderson Hall. Heretofore, this dormitory has housed both transfer and freshman women but beginning fall quarter, 1960, no one but freshman will be housed there and it will be completely full."

Present Students Apply The deadline for room reservations for students now living in residence halls is May 15. An application must be filed with a $25 reservation fee. Dean Tyson explains, "The reason for this deadline is twofold—to give our students a preference and to give the applicants an answer so that they can make their plans."

Dean Tyson concluded by saying, "This whole problem of crowded facilities at Georgia Southern is just part of a larger problem facing many colleges today. Shall they become more selective and remain at their present size or shall they continue to admit larger numbers, create crowded conditions, and hope that these conditions will result in provisions for more facilities."

Editor's Desk

Educators often criticize the situation of student cheating in our nation's public schools and colleges, both in oral and written form, and this is as it should be.

Just two weeks ago The George-Anne published an article reprinted from The Atlanta Journal-Constitution headlined "Is Cheating Increasing In Colleges?" The article, written by Dr. Benjamin Fine, stated, "The recent expose of the use of 'ghost writers' by students to get their college degrees brought into the open a situation that had existed undercover for some time. Many school and college officials have been aware that there has been a growing laxity in the moral tone of their students."

But what if the tables are turned and educators are found guilty of cheating? This week Time Magazine published a short article relating to this very subject. In it, the following statement was made, "In New York City last week, six professional ghostwriters were arrested on grand jury information that they cheated on behalf of 25 clients at 14 institutions of higher learning. Of the 25 clients, all granted immunity, nine were New York public school teachers. To 'earn' higher degrees and raise their status, they hired hacks and thought nothing of it." One surprising incident happened right here on our college campus. One Saturday morning last spring your editor was walking through the Marvin Pittman School just as a graduate class was over for the day. The class had obviously just completed a test and a few of the women students were standing in the corridor expressing how surprised they were to see a number of their fellow graduate students cheating on the test.

One woman stated in a rather loud tone and in approximately these words, "How can we expect honesty in the schoolwork of our young people if some of us are guilty of cheating ourselves!" And how right she was.

These are just two examples to prove my point that some educators are as guilty as the students they accuse in this distressing situation. Perhaps they are even more guilty! If each of us looked around we could probably find ample evidence that would make us wonder what has happened to that "fine example our elders are supposed to be setting for us."

Every generation follows in the footsteps of its elders. We as the new generation, and each succeeding generation, should try to be better and more honorable persons in everything that we do.

European charm and courtesy are exemplified in the personality of Elna Kofeod, Bornholm, Denmark. Recipients of such charm have been Rotary Clubs of Statesboro, Swainsboro, Waynesboro, and Claxton; Future Homemakers Clubs of Statesboro; Georgia Education Association of Lyons and the Kappa Phi Kappa and Kappa Delta Epsilon Fraternities of Georgia Southern. Elna has spoken on the educational facilities and life in general in Denmark.

While living here in America, Elna confesses she has been "taken in" by our customs and fads and has adopted many of them. Girls in Denmark would not think of wearing Bermuda shorts; however, Elna has found this fad quite delightful. Even spread the product evenly upon the area or a weird streaked appearance may result. Regardless of the choice of method, there is but one thought foremost in the sun worshipper's mind. What is it? Why to get a suntan, of course!

Elna, being a girl, is naturally interested in the opposite sex. She says the custom of "going steady" is almost unknown in Denmark. Even if a girl dates only one boy, she seldom wears anything signifying it as a close ring or pen. Even though Elna feels some of our customs are old fashioned and different, she finds "going steady" a happy experience. She says, "I kind a like the custom."

When asked about her opinion of religion in America, Elna stated, "The church is a greater influence here in America than in Denmark; it has more branches and has a better organized program for the youth." Elna feels that the American people go to church more for the "show" than for worship.

New Golf Course Now Opened; Rules Listed

Georgia Southern College has a golf course. A new par-30 course was opened officially last week, and is now open to the students, faculty, and their families.

There is no green fee. The greens are in admittedly rough shape, but it was decided to go ahead and open up the course for play and attempt to bring the greens along as fast as possible.

The first six holes are par threes, and can be reached easily with an iron. No. 7 is 288 yards long and will require a wood unless you're George Bayer. No. 8 is only 194, but it rated a par 4 because a penalty ditch runs directly in front of it. No. 9 is 325 yards long.

Scorecards are available at the physical education department.

The holes, distances and pars:

No. 1	106	3
No. 2	115	3
No. 3	135	3
No. 4	109	3
No. 5	89	3
No. 6	105	3
No. 7	288	4
No. 8	194	4
No. 9	325	4
		1466 30

Regulations concerning the new course are:

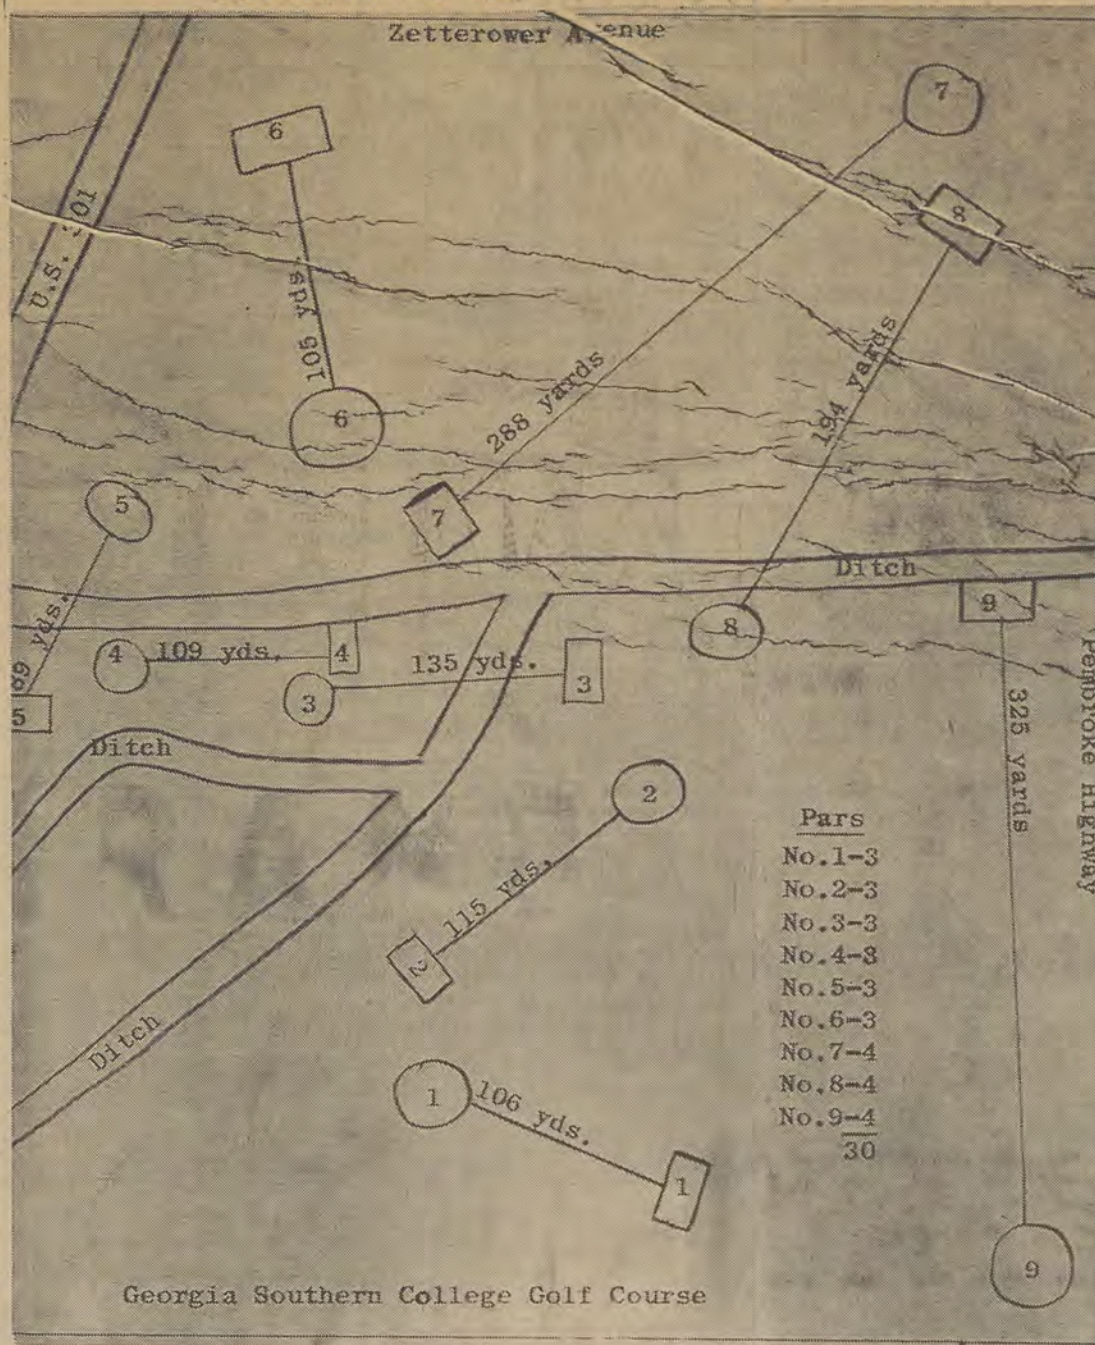

- Do not hit tee shot on holes 1 through 6 and 8 until players in front of you have left the green.
- Do not drive on number 7 and 9 until players ahead have reached the green.
- Drop back of casual water without penalty.
- Winter rules apply.
- Bathing suits and gym suits will not be permitted.
- All ditches on course are penalty ditches. Play out if possible without penalty. Dropback with one stroke penalty.
- When in trees on the left of number 4, lie may be improved but not position.

GSC Gains One Win, Loses One With Newberry

Georgia Southern College went on a hitting spree here last Friday afternoon to trounce Newberry College 11-4.

Ray Mims, a lefthander, went the distance for GSC, fanning 11 and walking three, to pick up the victory, his second in four decisions.

Miller Findley with three for five, including a homer and three RBIs, was the big stick man for GSC. Tom Moody and J. E. Rowe each had two doubles for GSC.

The victory was the seventh of the season for GSC, making the Eagles record 7-6. The loss was the third in 11 games for Newberry.

Indians Are Victory
The game was halted in the bottom of the fourth inning for 16 minutes because of a heavy rain.

Newberry College backed pitcher Wyman Taylor with four doubles plays here Saturday as the Indians defeated Georgia Southern College, 5-3.

Taylor, a slightly built senior lefthander, allowed men on base in every inning but got all the runs he needed in the first, when his mates knocked out GSC starter Tracy Rivers before he could retire a man.

Third baseman Max Knowlton started three of the twin killings and the other involved a fly ball to the outfield and a rundown.

Bill Griffin, GSC freshman shortstop homered over the left Centerfield fence in the sixth inning with a man on to pull the Eagles within one run. But Newberry added a run in the seventh on two infield errors, and Taylor blanked GSC the rest of the way.

J. E. Rowe led off the GSC ninth with a bunt single but Dan Stipe flied deep to center and Knowlton turned Miller Finley's ground smash into the last double play.

Clyde Miller, the second GSC pitcher, working nine innings in relief, allowing five hits and no earned runs.

The win gave Newberry a split in the two game series and a 9-3 season record.

GSC Defeats Seminoles In Last Of Two-Game Series This Week

Florida State University made merry in the fourth inning, blending four hits with three Georgia Southern College errors to score six runs en route the Eagles Monday.

With the score deadlocked at 2-2 when the Seminoles came to bat in the fatal fourth, the hosts drew two walks, loaded the bases with an infield hit and then scored three runs on two successive GSC errors. Still not finished, the Seminoles got two more singles, and picked up three more runs on Doug Walker's triple.

Walker's big bat made the difference in the hitting as he drove in four runs with his triple in the fourth and a two-bagger in the first inning.

The Eagles, failing to get an extra-base hit, were led at the plate by Bill Griffin, who got loaded the bases and almost saw the tide take an abrupt turn when Miller Finley slammed a ball 400 to left field. But the ball was caught and instead of a grand slam homer Finley only had a sacrifice fly that scored one of the Eagles' two runs of that inning.

Jim Daniel (1-1) was the winning pitcher, but he needed relief in the eighth. Pierce Blanchard (0-2), the starter, was the loser.

Miller Finley's three-run home run in the first inning staked Georgia Southern College to a 3-0 lead and the Eagles went on to edge Florida State, 10-9, in a baseball game Tuesday.

Tom Moody, who went three for five and hiked his batting average to .364, lead off the first by hitting the first pitch of Ronnie Davis to left field for a double.

The Seminoles struck lack for three runs in the bottom of the first as Jack Dull hit a homer with two men aboard, but the Eagles got three more in the second and led the rest of the way. The Seminoles battled furiously in the ninth, got two more runs on Dull's second homer and made eight substitutions in an effort to catch up. But relief pitcher Ralph Miller came in to relieve starter Ray Mims and put out the fire.

The victory went to Mims, who is now 3-2. It was Davis' second loss against six wins.

Choose A Profession To Suit Your Fancy As A Graduate

Juniors and seniors: Are you in doubt about what profession or vocation you will follow after graduation from college? The best way to choose a profession is by working at it awhile to find whether you really like it and are suited to it. And here is a chance for you to do just that.

South Carolina public libraries this summer are offering ten internships to be awarded on a competitive basis to college juniors and seniors who are in search of a profession and who meet certain other qualifications. The internships are work-training positions in county and regional public libraries which have been selected for the quality of guidance and work they can offer.

Hours Are Given
 The interns will work full-time work for two and one half months at a salary of $150 per month.

The work will be planned as an introduction to the various phases of public library work with the purpose of giving the intern an opportunity to find out from firsthand experience what a public librarian is and does. The libraries sponsoring the program hope that some of the interns may decide to become librarians, but there will be no obligation entailed in acceptance of an award.

Qualities Needed

Internships are open to rising juniors and seniors, and graduating seniors who: (1.) have decided on a major subject; (2.) either have not yet chosen a vocation or profession, or are interested in librarianship; (3.) have done, or plan to do, the greatest part of their college work in the liberal arts; (4.) have at least a C or B-average; (5.) have an inquiring mind, enjoy reading and sharing it with others, like working with people, and are stimulated by the vast treasure house of knowledge found in books; (6.) are in good physical and mental health.

Libraries to which applications should be addressed are as follows: Aiken-Barnwell-Edgefield Regional Library, P. O. Box 909, Aiken, S. C.; Calhoun County Library, St. Matthews, S. C.; Charleston County Library, 94 Rutledge Avenue, Charleston 16, S. C.; Chester County Library, Chester, S. C.; Colleton County Memorial Library, Walterboro, S. C.; Greenville Public Library, Greenville, S. C.; Greenwood City and County Public Library, Greenwood, S. C.; Horry County Memorial Library, Conway, S. C.; Laurens County Library, Laurens, S. C. More information may be obtained from the S. C. State Library Board, 1001 Main St., Columbia 1, S. C.
