President Henderson Addresses Freshmen

Dear Freshmen:

In my experience time has a way of seeming long and also seeming very short. In thinking of writing a letter of welcome to the freshmen I was reminded that a year ago they were addressed as new students at GTC. Since that time the name has been changed to Georgia Southern College, and the time from last year until now seems to be a long time, when one thinks of the changes that have taken place. For most of us the time from the first year in high school until going to college seemed to be long as we entered high school, and for many college freshmen the road between the first day as a freshman and the last day as a senior seems to be far off. However, I hope that for you life at college will be so full of good things that the days will pass very quickly. It is good to welcome you to Georgia Southern knowing that many opportunities lie ahead.

The person who continues his formal education finds it necessary to continually make adjustments in his thinking as well as in his relationship with people. Each of us is inclined at times to feel that he knows about all there is to know, but each new experience in learning opens up many vast unexplored fields and this feeling of knowing it all changes to one of frustration because there is so much more to learn. The same is true in the realm of friendship. You leave some very close high school friends and at first your feeling is that the friends of high school days will continue to be the major persons in your living but the opportunities at college encourages people to become interested in many different people and, therefore, the whole realm of social relationship enlarges. This is just a part of living, and for the person who is interested in making life worthwhile these experiences become the building stones for bigger and better experiences with other human beings.

It is our hope that while you are here your experiences will make it possible for you to grow intellectually, socially, physically and spiritually.

Zach S. Henderson, President
GEORGIA SOUTHERN COLLEGE

Jayne Ames

The featured vocalist of the fabulous Dorsey Orchestra, which will appear here on Tuesday, September 27, is Jayne Ames. THESE THREE freshmen girls find the newly installed mailbox in front of the Administration Building convenient for mailing letters. Sara Adams, Statesboro, left; Martha Johnson, Stillmore, center, and Jo Carol Gettys, Statesboro, are mailing the first of many letters they will write to family and friends. A second mailbox was also placed in front of the downstairs entrance of the Frank I. Williams Center.

Schedules of Operation for Center Facilities Are Released By Pound

The daily operating schedules of the facilities located in the Frank I. Williams Center have been announced this week, according to C. Robert Pound, director of the center.

The center opens at approximately 7 a.m. and closes at 11 p.m. The students may secure one of the study rooms by signing out for it with the evening hostesses. Maximum time for reserving a room for any occasion is one month.

The meal schedules are as follows:

Breakfast
Monday-Friday
7 a.m. until 7:30 a.m.
Saturday and Sunday
8 a.m. until 8:30 a.m.

Lunch
Monday-Friday
11:40 a.m. until 1:15 p.m.
Saturday and Sunday
12:30 p.m. until 1:15 p.m.

Dinner
Monday-Friday
5:15 p.m. until 6:30 p.m.
Saturday and Sunday
5 p.m. until 5:45 p.m.

The weekly menus will be posted on the bulletin board by the dining hall entrance.

The snack bar will be open from 7:30 until 5 p.m. and from 8 p.m. until 11 p.m. on weekdays and from 8 a.m. until 12 noon on Saturdays.

The college bookstore will be open from 8 a.m. until 12 noon and between the hours of 1 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. On Saturday the bookstore is open from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

The Williams Center personnel includes: C. Robert Pound, director; Mrs. Martha Benson, secretary to the director; Mrs. Sarah Savage, manager of the snack bar; Mrs. Mae Webb, dietitian; Miss Marjorie Jones, bookstore manager; and Mrs. Mary Farr, evening hostess.

Axelson Edits Newly Published College Brochure

This is Georgia Southern College, an informative 36 page booklet concerning the college, will be published next week according to Joe Axelson, public relations director and compiler of the brochure.

One thousand of the 2500 copies printed will be distributed to prospective students of GSC. Copies will also be sent to Georgia senators and representatives, politicians representing GSC out of state, members of the Board of Regents, high school counselors and GSC faculty members as an aid in preparing speeches about the college.

An eight page picture section contained in the booklet helps to depict the world of Georgia Southern College.

Barbecue, Dances, Tests, Movies Are Included In Week's Program

Freshman orientation week opened on Sunday, September 18, with the President's "Come As You Are" reception for beginning freshman and parents at President Zach S. Henderson's home from 2:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. This was the first of a series of week long events to acquaint freshmen with college life and the policies of Georgia Southern College.

This morning all beginning freshmen attended a Freshman Assembly in McCroan Auditorium.

The schedule for the remainder of today's activities calls for a 10 a.m. meeting with student advisors at McCroan Auditorium, a barbecue by the lake from 5 p.m. until 6 p.m. and a "Welcome to GSC mixer" at the Alumni Gymnasium from 7:30 a.m. until 10 p.m. sponsored by the Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity.

ed by the Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity.

Freshman Tests

Freshman testing heads off the Tuesday schedule of events beginning at 8:30 a.m. until 12 noon in McCroan Auditorium. Testing continues at 2 p.m. following a one hour information session for transfer and 1960 first summer school session freshmen.

The student council will sponsor a "Get Acquainted Matinee Dance" in the recreation room of the Frank I. Williams Student Center from 6:30 p.m. until 8 p.m. Following the dance, a free movie will be shown at 8:30 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium.

Freshmen registration will begin the activities of Wednesday,

GSC Post Office Becomes Branch Of Statesboro

Collegeboro is gone but Georgia Southern College keeps going and growing! Since August 1, 1960, GSC's post office became a branch of Statesboro's according to Statesboro postmaster Reppard DeLoach.

Known officially as Georgia Southern Branch, the new recommended address for students is:

Name.....
Box..... Georgia Southern Branch
Statesboro, Georgia
Mrs. Z. L. Strange, Jr., will be in charge of the Georgia Southern Branch postoffice.

P. O. Hours Listed
The hours of operation for the post office, which is located in the Frank I. Williams Center, will be: 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays and 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays.

An additional service was also started on August 1. New mailboxes were placed in front of the Administration Building and at the downstairs entrance of the Williams Center. The mail is collected from these boxes at 6:50 a.m., 2:27 p.m., 5:01 p.m., and 6:32 p.m. on weekdays, Saturdays, and holidays. On Sunday the mail is picked up at 6:50 a.m. and 2:27 p.m.

Approximate times for mail departures are: 7 a.m., 2:30 p.m., 5 p.m., and 7 p.m.; arrivals: 7:10 a.m., 2:40 p.m., 5:10 p.m., and 7 p.m.

Change Is Economic Move
The change, according to DeLoach, was made in the interests of economy, and will serve to simplify the college postal operation. No loss in service will be incurred by the change.

Georgia Southern College is not included in the city limits of Statesboro, lying entirely in Bulloch County. Collegeboro was only the name of the post office, and did not apply to any geographic location.

The GSC student body and faculty will have the opportunity of swaying with the rhythm produced by the fabulous Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra conducted by Lee Castle when they appear here next week.

The group includes 15 musicians and featured vocalist Jayne Ames, and will appear at Georgia Southern College on Tuesday, September 27, to play for the annual "Welcome Back" dance.

Under the sponsorship of the social committee of the student council, the orchestra will present a concert in the Alumni Building.

To Give Concert
The concert is open to the general public, but the dance is restricted to students and faculty of GSC.

Tickets are on sale at the public relations office at GSC. The concert, starting at 7:30 p.m., is priced at $1.00, and admission to the dance is $2.50 per couple.

First "Name" Band

This is believed to be the first "name" dance band to appear at Georgia Southern, Lee Castle was a featured trumpet player and arranger in both the Tommy Dorsey and Jimmy Dorsey bands, and upon Jimmy Dorsey's death was the logical choice to lead the group.

PUBLICATIONS' STAFFS TO MEET

All students interested in working on either the George-Anne or the Reflector, the college yearbook, are invited to attend the first meetings of the year of these two publications.

The George-Anne staff will meet on Wednesday, September 28, at 4:15 p.m. in Room 108 of the Frank I. Williams Center.

The Reflector staff will meet on Thursday, September 29, at 4:15 p.m. in Room 110 of the Williams Center.

Even though many talented performers achieve stardom in show business, the entertainers that can excite and delight fans over a two decade period are very few and far between. Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey were two such performers. Together, or with their own individual orchestras, they delighted audiences from coast to coast with great music.

Gains New Fans

Reunited a few years ago, an entirely new generation who had known of "The Fabulous Dorseys" only by reputation saw and felt for themselves the same great band that delighted their older brothers and sisters, and in some case, parents, years before. And now, carrying on in the same tradition, is the great Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra.

The first Dorsey Brothers Orchestra was formed in 1922, a small group called the Dorseys' Novelty Band which played local dates in and around their home town of Shenandoah, Pa. Then, for nearly ten years, they performed as top instrumental soloists for the leading orchestras of the period.

Make History

In 1934, they organized their own orchestras and began to make musical history. Bob Crosby was their vocalist, Ray McKinley played the drums, and the late Glenn Miller played second trombone in this great musical aggregation, which in two years established musical tradition for an entire generation. Finally, Tommy and Jimmy decided to go their individual ways, and two fine orchestras emerged.

For nearly 17 years, the Dorsey Brothers carried on a friendly feud which ended at the Hollywood Palladium.

Eagle Baseballers — Slow Starters, Fast Finishers In 1960 Season

If the 1960 basketball season ended sooner than expected, the baseball team more than made up for it.

Coach J. I. Clements underrated Eagles started slowly in March, winning only two of their first seven games, but three months later finished as runner-up in the nation (NAIA) to Whitworth College of Spokane, Washington.

Georgia Southern was an explosive team, capable of breaking up a game with a big inning at any time. Five regulars batted over .300, and the team average was a good .280. The team won 21 and lost 11, against the toughest competition available.

Cage Squad Has Fine Year; Must Renew Strength

"The best team I've ever coached" is the flat summation of Georgia Southern College's 1959-60 basketball team by the coach, J. B. Searce Jr.

The Eagles won 19 and lost only six, but fell victim to a gigantic upset at the hand of an unheralded University of five in the Georgia - Florida NAIA play-offs.

"This is the sort of experienced team that would have done well at the national tournament in Kansas City," says Coach Searce, "and it was tragic that they didn't get the opportunity."

GSC trailed Tampa in the play-off held on their floor by 14 points with just 7:40 remaining. Senior Chester Curry poked-in a 15-foot jump shot with five seconds left to pull the Eagles within one at 69-68 and the clock ran out with a Tampa player in possession in the end zone.

Four seniors were included in the starting line-up—co-captains Chester Curry and Whitey Varstraete, Eddie Owens, and Denney Bureau, Connie Lewis and Carlton Gill, both sophomores, shared the fifth starting post.

Wins during the season were over Georgia, Presbyterian, Frskine (twice), Pembroke State, Stetson, Spring Hill, Newberry (twice), Rollins (twice), Jacksonville, (twice), Tampa (twice), Mercer (twice), Belmont Abbey, and Oglethorpe. Losses were to Georgia, Georgia Tech, Presbyterian, Stetson, Pikeville, and Tampa.

The basketball schedule for the current 1960-61 season is printed below. The Eagles open this season with a home game opposing the Georgia Bulldogs on December 3.

GSC earned the right to represent the Southeastern states by defeating Carson Newman College of Jefferson City, Tennessee, two games out-of-three. The two teams had been picked by a selection committee to play-off for the Area 1 NAIA championships.

Opened With Omaha
GSC's first opponent at the national tournament in Sioux City, Iowa was the defending runner-up, Omaha University. The Eagles won 4-2, and then ran afoul of the eventual champion, losing to Whitworth 1-0 despite a brilliant one-hitter by junior Tracy Rivers of Omega.

GSC remained alive in the double - elimination tournament by beating Indiana State College, 5-2, and then Whitworth, 12-1.

Three-Way Tie
This created an unprecedented situation in the four-year history of the NAIA baseball championships, three teams with one loss each — defending champion Southern University, GSC and Whitworth.

An all-important coin toss was held to determine the team with the bye, and Whitworth — a team with only two proved pitchers — won the toss.

The Eagles got Rivers some runs this time and he went the route, defeating Southern University 3-1.

In the final, played before, during, and after a rainstorm, Whitworth blanked Georgia Southern 4-0 for the title. Inning after inning the Eagles left men on base, but no one was too disappointed, because it's not hard to settle for second place in the United States.

Only Five Seniors
Only five seniors are lost from the squad, co-captains Ray Mims (pitcher) of Augusta and third baseman Bill Mallard of Sardis; rightfielder Dan Stipe of Baxley, second baseman Tom Moody of Dixie, and catcher Wayne Smith of Lyons.

During the season GSC defeated Davidson (twice) Parris Island, Kentucky, Erskine (four times), Newberry (twice), Florida State, Mercer (twice), South

The Dean and An Eminent Professor

DR. FIELDING D. RUSSELL, chairman of the languages division at GSC, right, has seen many students come and leave GSC and many quarters since becoming a member of the faculty. How many fall quarters? Twenty-eight, to be exact, since he came to this college in September, 1932. Dean Paul F. Carroll congratulates Dr. Russell as being the faculty member who has served at GSC for the longest time. Dr. Russell is a native of Winder, Georgia. He received his A.B. and M.A. degrees from the University of Georgia and his Ph.D. from George Washington University. Mr. Carroll, dean of the college, came to this campus in September, 1948. Dean Carroll received a B.A. degree from Wofford College, and an M.A. degree from Peabody College.

LARGE FRESHMAN CLASS EXPECTED

Pre-registration figures showed a total of 321 beginning freshmen planning to attend Georgia Southern College this fall.

This is one of the highest totals in years. By divisions:

Carolina (twice), Carson Newman (twice), Omaha U., Indiana State, and Whitworth. Losses were to Clemson, Furman, Amherst (twice), Parris Island, Kentucky, Newberry, Florida State, Carson Newman, and Whitworth (twice).

Leading hitters were shortstop Bill Griffin of Augusta (331); center fielder, J. E. Rowe of Jacksonville, Fla. (321); left fielder Miller Finley of Augusta (320); Moody (315); and first baseman Bill Robinson of Savannah (312).

Story Behind College Of Your Choice Is Described

By ROBERTA HALPERN

The time-February 7, 1908; the place-Statesboro, Georgia; and the event - the opening of the First District Agricultural and Mechanical School which marked the beginning of the colorful story behind one of the fastest growing educational institutions in the state today, Georgia Southern College.

Recognizing a distinct need for better educating the rural youth of the state at about the turn of the century, Joseph S. Stewart, professor of education at the University of Georgia, proposed that district high schools be created. Highly endorsed by Governor Joseph M. Terrell, the proposal became law in August.

Throughout the years, a number of significant personalities have served as president of Georgia Southern College. Ernest V. Hollis, one of the four presidents of the First District Agricultural and Mechanical School, proposed the idea of establishing the normal school in 1922 and was later named president of Georgia Normal School. In 1926 Guy H. Wells, then dean of Georgia Normal School, became president. During his administration in 1929 the name of the college was changed to South Georgia Teachers College. As a result of the efforts of Marvin Summers Pittman, the teacher training program was expanded, soon after he was named president in 1934. The Marvin Pittman School on campus was named in his honor.

Henderson Eminent in Growth
Georgia Southern College's president, Dr. Zach S. Henderson, was another prominent man in the school's growth since 1927 when he became Dean of Georgia Normal School. Holding that post for 21 years, he became president of the college in 1948.

In only half a century Georgia Southern College has become a widely recognized and quickly expanding college; a school that students anywhere would be proud to call their Alma Mater.

University System Organized
In 1931 the tax-supported institutions of higher learning in the state were organized into the University System of Georgia and placed under one Board of Regents, replacing the separate Boards of Trustees.

The name of the college was changed for the fourth time in 1939 when the Board of Regents dropped the word "South" from the name of the school and renamed it as Georgia Teachers College. At about this time too, the academic and professional growth of the college could be keenly felt; major academic divisions had been organized and the teacher training program was expanded.

History was again made on December 9, 1959 when the Board of Regents approved a request made by school officials here to change the name of the school to Georgia Southern College. No longer exclusively an institution for training teachers, the college now offers an expanding liberal arts program.

Time Out with The Editor

ENJOY THE LIMELIGHT WHILE YOU CAN

Freshmen, now is your time! This week, you are the stars, the center of everyone's attention. We welcome you and offer our congratulations.

You are at the beginning of a very important period in your lives. We believe you have made a wise choice when you decided to continue your schooling at Georgia Southern College.

Life is like a great edifice to which a strong foundation is necessary. Formal schooling provides an indestructible basis upon which you can build. You begin the groundwork in the first grade and each year, for the past 12, you have strengthened it. As you have lived through each experience during each day, you have reinforced your foundation.

It is only in the "structure of life" that you can add to the foundation as you use it. What you will do with the next few years is up to you, whether it weakens or fortifies you will depend upon your attitudes and ambitions.

By this time you are considered adults; men and women mentally, physically, and emotionally. You will have to use all your facilities to break through the many barriers which will face you before the building is completed.

You will soon discover that the undertaking of obtaining an education is a difficult one and in no way insignificant and simple.

In your studies more will be required of you than in your high school classes. The work load will be greater and sometimes you will feel as though education isn't worth so much labor. But, it is! Believe this fact and accept the work as a responsibility which must be fulfilled. This you can do if you are a true student.

Remember that your instructors are interested in you and doing what they consider best for your development as an individual. Consider that they, too, were once college freshmen and have proven themselves by having endured the same difficulties that you are now experiencing. Georgia Southern College has acquired the nickname of "the friendly college" and everyone from President Henderson down through the ranks to the individual students lives up to this reputation. If ever you need aid for any reason, there is always someone who will gladly help; either a faculty, staff or a fellow student.

This air of friendliness provides a proper atmosphere for procuring your education as well as for having fun and gaining many new friends. There are numerous organizations for you to join, very fine athletic teams which need your support and an active social life for you to live as a student at Georgia Southern College.

Three Represent GSC At Mercer Yearbook Meet

Three members of the Reflector staff will attend the Third Annual Mercer Yearbook Seminar to be held on Friday, September 23 at Mercer University.

Roberta Halpern, Statesboro, 1961 Reflector editor; Midge Lasky, Savannah, associate editor, and Jerry Aldridge, Blackshear, business manager, will represent GSC at the Macon convention.

The program will be divided into three lecture sessions. The speakers and the main topics will be: Dr. William H. Taft professor of journalism at the University of Missouri, will lecture on "What Makes An All-American Yearbook?"

"WE AIM TO SERVE you to the best of our ability," seems to be what the five 1960-61 student council officers are saying. In the front row, left to right, are Patsy Ginn, secretary Guy Weatherly, president; and Diane Brannen, first vice president. In the second row, from left to right, are Milton Callaway, treasurer; and Rick Osburn, second vice president. These council members feel that they can best serve the student body if the students will support them in their endeavors. Freshmen class representatives to the council will be elected before the sixth week of the fall quarter.
