President Anticipates Outstanding Year Here

To the students of Georgia Southern College:

The school year 1961-62 at Georgia Southern should be one of the most outstanding years in the history of the college. All indications point to an enrollment of more than 1,500 regular students. This will be approximately 250 more than last year and, of course, the largest in the history of the school.

During the summer months much activity has been going on here on the campus in preparation for the new year. The Mamie Veasey Hall for junior and senior women will be open for the first time, the lower floor of the administration building has been completely remodeled and will be used primarily for offices, the new sewage disposal system will be completed by the first of November, and many other improvements in the physical plant have been made during the summer.

It is generally agreed that the faculty is one of the important aspects of a college program and for this new year there will be 42 new faculty and staff members, which includes additions and replacements. The additions include ten teaching faculty members, two graduate assistants, four secretaries, one in administrative personnel, one day patrolman, and one nurse. It is believed that these additions will improve considerably the overall college program. It is a real pleasure to me to welcome you to Georgia Southern for the year 1961-62.

Sincerely,
DR. ZACH S. HENDERSON,
President of GSC.

Ad Building Renovation Complete

Occupancy of the renovated basement of the Administration Building is now underway.

During the summer months the basement space in the Ad Building has been remodeled in preparation as offices, classrooms and guidance and testing facilities.

Formerly located in this area was the art division which has moved to the Carruth Building. This area is now occupied by the division of education, counseling and the office of public relations.

On the west side of the building the guidance and testing center, four rooms, an office and reception area are to be located.

Next to the guidance center is a general classroom to be used by the various divisions of the college.

The headquarters for the division of education is adjacent to the classroom. This area contains space for the secretary, reception, directors office, three additional offices, and a conference room.

On the east side of the hall, looking toward the alumni gymnasium, and next to the recently remodeled Language Lab is another general classroom.

Adjacent to this room is the new location of the office of the director of public relations. A workroom, reception area and open office for the secretary is also included.

Three offices for faculty members are located the public relations office. All of the remodeled area is air-conditioned.

Edwin C. Echols is architect for the project. College workmen did the remodeling. Approximate cost of the project is $15,000.

Masquers' Fall Tryouts Set On Sept. 25-26

Mr. Robert Overstreet, director of Masquers, extends an invitation to all who are interested in dramatics to join Masquers this year. His office is located backstage in McCroan Auditorium.

The Masquers college drama club, presents opportunities for students to participate in and enjoy plays from the classics to contemporary drama.

The purpose of the club is to instill in the audience and in the participants an appreciation for drama.

President's Reception Begins Orientation

First Figures Indicate High Enrollment

August Ends Record Year; More Progress Promised

At the completion of the second session of summer school, Georgia Southern wound up a record year and looks to another such year, with registration estimates on fall quarter enrollment ranging from a conservative 1390 to an optimistic 1660.

New Three Way Bulletin Board In Ad Lobby

A bulletin board announcing scheduled activities on campus will be located in the front lobby of the administration building.

It will be divided into three sections.

The first section will contain all class announcements such as class meetings, graduation, invitations, etc.

The second section will be organizational section. Announcements of club meetings, dances, movies, etc. will be found in this section.

The third section will contain personal information such as books for sale, apartments for rent, and other personal items. Any student desiring to post an announcement should type it on a three by five index card and turn it in to the office of the Dean of Students.

Due to the limited space, no other type of announcement will be acceptable. All students are encouraged to check the announcement boards regularly.

Yearbook Staff Announces Class Pix Schedules

The 1962 Reflector (yearbook) staff will begin taking class pictures next Monday.

All freshmen will be scheduled for appointments in their orientation groups Sept. 25-29.

Required dress for women will be black sweaters and accessories will be supplied by the staff.

All male students in all four classes will be asked to wear dark sports coats and ties.

The pictures of the senior class will be taken beginning October 2 and then the junior and sophomore classes will be scheduled immediately following completion of the seniors' pictures.

All students will be scheduled at specific times between the hours of 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. except for the dinner hour. The staff requests that all students be on time for their appointments.

Appointment times will be posted in conspicuous places on the campus.

Pictures will be taken in the Reflector office, Room 110, in the Frank I. Williams Center.

The largest number of students in the history of the college is expected to complete registration procedures this week. A freshman class of approximately 400 and an anticipated 300 transfer students may help raise the total enrollment to a figure more than 200 higher than in any previous session.

More than 1000 students will be housed in the five dormitories on campus. Veasey Hall, a new dormitory for senior women, was completed this summer and will house 160 women.

Annex Planned

Authorization was also given during the summer for an addition to Lewis Hall, previous residence for senior women. The Board of Regents approved a $125,000 annex to the dormitory which, when completed, will house 50 additional students.

The Community Facilities Administration also approved a $900,000 loan for buildings at Georgia Southern. These funds will be used to construct two additional dormitories, one for men and the other for women.

Other records set during the summer and progressive steps taken during that same time include a record first summer session enrollment of 1193. Second session enrollment reached the third highest ever record for a second term with a total of 782.

Grad Students Increase

The number of graduate students attending Georgia Southern also increased considerably. Beginning in the summer of 1958 with 207 students, the 1961 summer graduate program had a total of 319 students at the beginning of the first session. The second master's degree class graduated August 17 with 50 members in the class.

At the end of the first session, 50 students from seven states completed work in the summer science institute, sponsored by the National Science Foundation with a $48,200 grant.

The 1961 summer session also marked the completion of the first summer's work in two newly-initiated sixth-year programs, one in industrial arts and another in elementary education. The sixth-year program of industrial arts at GSC is the only one of its type in Georgia.

Remodeling Done

The basement of the Administration Building, previously used for classrooms, has also undergone extensive renovation during the summer. Much of the area has been modernized and converted into office space and is completed air-conditioned.

Work is now almost complete on a new sewerage system for the college. It is being connected with the city system and will afford a more uniform disposal system for the school.

Looking none the worse from all that "wear and tear" are Amelia Robertson and Kay Preston. Both are 1961 graduates of Statesboro High School and will be first quarter freshmen this fall. This shot was taken after the girls had finished their preparations and stayed on campus to help with other preregistration matters.

Self-Study Reveals Larger Program

Georgia Southern College is presently doing a two-year self-study required by the Southern Association of Colleges and secondary schools.

One aspect of the study thus far reveals many areas in which the college is expanding its services for people in surrounding areas and for in-service teachers.

Services available to people in the college area include the piano clinics, music festivals, international relations seminars, evaluating committees, science fairs, summer science institutes, and luncheon workshops.

Also cooking institutes and cooking schools, basketball coaching clinics, gymnastic clinics, cheerleading clinics, dramatic clinics for the one-act play and for debates, and industrial arts fairs.

For the in-service teacher, the college provides regional art fairs and festivals, one-day institutes and social science, inter-library loan service, seminars in education for improvement of the teaching or reading, conferences for supervising teachers, and conferences for teachers of language and special programs for language teachers.

Orientation week activities got underway yesterday with the traditional President's "Come As You Are Reception for Beginning Freshmen and Parents" and will continue through the week to acquaint all new GSC students with the college and its policies.

Residence hall orientation was also a part of yesterday's program. A Freshman Assembly was held this morning in the McCroan Auditorium. Following the assembly an orientation preview and meetings with student advisors capped the first morning of activities.

Meetings with faculty advisors are slated for this afternoon from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m.

The first mat dance for new students will also be held tonight from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Williams Center.

Transfer freshmen and 1961 summer school beginning freshmen meet with faculty advisors on Tuesday morning while testing gets underway for beginning freshmen. Library orientation is also set for Tuesday morning.

Registration for all freshmen will be held on Tuesday in the Hanner Building from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m.

A "Welcome to Statesboro Dance" sponsored by the Statesboro-Bulloch County Chamber of Commerce is set for tonight at 8 p.m. at the Statesboro Recreation Center on Fair Road. Bus transportation will be provided for this event.

Testing and library orientation will head Wednesday's schedule. At 2 p.m. on Wednesday Student Health Assemblies are planned for both men and women students. All men students will meet for this assembly in the Marvin Pittman School Auditorium while women will gather in the McCroan Auditorium.

Campus Weekly Staff Publishes Special Edition

The publication by the George-Anne staff of this second annual Freshman issue marks the first of 30 newspapers to come out during the G-A's 35th anniversary year.

The information in the early issue should help the new students to become better acquainted with the college and inform them of the orientation week plans.

A question that is often asked is "Where did the George-Anne get its name?" During the time when GSC was Georgia Normal School a movement was begun to create a school publication.

Such names as "High Flyer," "Times," and "Blue and White" were suggested and failed to meet the approval of the student body. The name finally decided upon was the "Torch" and was printed monthly.

With the advent of co-educational standards it was suggested that the paper should have a name representing both sexes on the campus. Also, since the school was in Georgia, supported by the people of Georgia, and because the majority of students were Georgians, the name should pertain to the state. The word Georgian was divided into two names, George-Anne, hence the name George-Anne for the men and Anne for the women.

Gracious and Beautiful is Miss GSC of 1961, Miss Ethelyn McMillan. Ethelyn, who will be a senior this year is from Milan. Prior to this title Miss GSC has also held such honors as Miss Dodge County of 1957, and was second runner-up in the Miss Georgia Forest Contest in that year.

The courses are introductory in nature. Each will survey the whole area and briefly consider the major related problems. The sequence is: Fall Quarter, Introduction to Old Testament; Winter, Introduction to New Testament; Spring, Introduction to Christian Theology. You may take one or all of these.

These courses are open to any student or faculty member. The class will meet on Tuesday and Thursday at 4 p.m. in class room No. 3 in the Administration Building. Register during registration or at time of the class. The first session is on Tuesday, Sept. 26.

Regents Approve Lewis Hall Annex

Groundwork for the drawing of the plans for the new Lewis Hall annex is now in progress according to Georgia Southern President Zach S. Henderson.

Ed Echols of Statesboro has been named as the architect for the new annex. It is expected that the dormitory addition will house approximately 50 students.

Preliminary plans will be completed by late November, stated Dr. Henderson. The approximate cost of the annex has been set at $125,000. Besides additional rooms, bath facilities will also be included in the plans.

This annex was appropriated for by the Board of Regents during a summer meeting.

Cardell Cowart, the campus policeman is pictured here ready to begin his rounds. During the summer the college purchased this truck for the use of the policeman. Significantly called the Campus Security Truck, this new GSC addition will be used by the policeman when necessary.

Campus Policeman Travels In Style, Maintains Order

By MIDGE LASKY
Managing Editor

The loneliest man on campus, even in the presence of hundreds of students, is Cardell Cowart, campus policeman.

From 8 p.m. every night until 4 a.m. he makes his rounds through wind, rain, etc. His duty calls for him to check the entire campus area once every hour during those long, quiet hours.

Cowart will be much more noticeable during his rounds this year because he will be making them in a new truck purchased during the summer.

A familiar sight on campus will quickly become the "Georgia Southern College Campus Security" vehicle.

It has been rumored around campus that positively no one is allowed to look under the hood of this new truck and speedsters are advised to slow down while on the campus. "Is it souped up?" he was asked. "That's top secret," he seemed to be answering.

It's not such a long time ago that older students won't remember the tapping of the cane during the night which signified the night watchman was making his rounds.

Now students have become accustomed to the snappy black uniform this policeman - type person sports. New students will find him friendly and always ready to say hello or help in an emergency.

A native of Jenkins County, Cowart was a spotchecker in the crop control program carried on by the state. Cowart checked the land allotment and then the higher-ups would check him, he said. "Of course, they were always right."

Although he's only been in uniform for about two years, he has been the campus policeman since 1956.

He first came to Bulloch County and the college in 1956 as a guard over county prisoners who happened to be doing some work on the campus. He met Dr. Henderson who told him a job as campus policeman would be open soon. "I applied," Cowart said, "and here I am."

Although he knows the intricacies of using a gun he doesn't find it necessary here as we've never had any desperate criminal-students yet! "I don't expect to have any," he said.

This gentle policeman is no foreigner to the type of student characters we have on this campus. In fact two of his daughters went to school here.

Is he really lonesome, some may wonder. "Sure, I get lonely some during the long hours," he said. "But I have a lot of time just to think and let my mind drift," he added.

Life's actually not too exciting on the GSC campus for the campus security guard. Once in a while a couple of anxious young men might get into a hot argument which Cowart may be called upon to settle. Then again, he may stand by while two female students await a repairman to answer their distress call to change the flat tire on their car.

The greatest excitement he's had was a couple of years ago when he was called by a house-mother whose dormitory had been invaded by a man in the middle of the night. The man was frightened off by the "quiet" screaming of some of the residents and has never been found.

Even though it's a pleasure to drive his new truck, Cowart doesn't ride around all during the night. He has been given special headquarters so he made them for himself. Usually he can be found on the steps of the Administration Building.

When basketball season is in progress he frequently stops by the Hanner Building to check on the progress of the Eagles during a game.

What does Cowart think of Georgia Southern students? He appreciates their good behavior in past years and considers them a "pretty good group."

Miller, who was the big winner for the Eagles last year, posted a record of 2-0. These victories added to nine straight wins last year gave Miller a school record of eleven consecutive wins.

For the fans that liked to see spectacular fielding plays, Charlie Tarpley provided plenty of thrills around the first base side of the infield. Tarpley handled over 130 chances before he made an error against Davidson. He, then, went on to handle a total of 198 chances with only one error. He was closely followed by Tommy Howland the big Eagle Backstop. Howland accepted 200 chances with only five miscues to post an average of .977. Rowe, an outfielder, handled fifty chances without an error to field 1.000.

Of course you haven't. But you will. These are just a few of the moments that you will experience as a college student. But for those with strong backs and open minds, it all ends well. No matter what they throw at you, just grin and bear it.

Unless, of course, the PE coach throws the medicine ball - then I suggest you duck.

Two National Awards Won By PBL Chapter

Phi Beta Lambda Chapter 78 at Georgia Southern College won two awards at the tenth annual convention of the Future Business Leaders of America held in Washington, D. C. this summer.

Georgia Southern's chapter, which won six awards at the state convention, followed through by placing second nationally for the "Most Original Chapter Project."

This project was a "Mr. Preferred" dance held on the campus in April. The women students voted for "Mr. Preferred" candidates who had been nominated by different campus organizations.

The second award given the chapter was a Gold Seal Chapter Award of Merit. These certificates of merit are awarded by the United Business Education Association to local chapters with outstanding programs that contribute to better education.

The selection of award winners is made from the information obtained in the files at the FBLA National Office.

Jim Pollak, state president of Phi Beta Lambda and a member of the Georgia Southern Chapter, represented the college and state at the convention and received the awards for the college.

Hitchcock Writes Testing Booklet For Publication

Dr. William L. Hitchcock, professor of education and director of counselor education at Georgia Southern College, is the author of a booklet entitled, "Selection and Use of Standardized Tests."

This booklet was published by the Oregon State Department of Education. Dr. Hitchcock was formerly consultant in guidance for the system of higher education in Oregon.

The booklet, in its five chapters, covers the values in testing, administering a testing program, using test results, ethical practices in testing, and a glossary of measurement terms, and would be valuable for school administrators and teachers.

It is written in non-technical language and was designed for school personnel to get the most from their present testing program.

Dr. Hitchcock also feels that school personnel could profit immeasurably through the use of the booklet in the initiation and or evaluation of the school's testing program.

Baseball Team Finishes Season With 15-11 Mark

The Georgia Southern Eagle baseball team wound up the 1961 schedule with an overall record of 15 wins against 11 losses.

The big spark in the hitting attack was furnished by fleet-footed center-fielder J. E. Rowe who led the Eagles in hitting along with freshman outfielder Mike Keasler. Both Rowe and Keasler belted the ball at a .354 clip.

Mike Keasler, a husky freshman from Illinois, was tied for highest average with Rowe.

The Eagle pitching was taken care of for the most part by four members of the staff. Tracy Rivers, Ed (Doc) Brown, Clyde Miller, and Larry Crouch compiled between them a record of 15 wins to 7 setbacks.

Tracy Rivers led the staff as he collected six wins while he lost three games. He was followed closely by Doc Brown who posted a 5-3 record. Brown led the Eagle hurlers in earned runs allowed as he racked up an earned run average of 2.11.

Larry Crouch and firearm Clyde Miller saw most of their action in the latter part of the games as they came on to bail the starters out of trouble. Crouch was the big stopper for the Eagles as he appeared in eight games as a pitcher. In his relief appearance, he had a record of 2-1.

Miller, who was the big winner for the Eagles last year, posted a record of 2-0. These victories added to nine straight wins last year gave Miller a school record of eleven consecutive wins.

Sewerage Job Now Underway; Connects To City

Work on the new college sewer system is expected to be completed by November 1 or earlier according to Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of the college.

The contract for the installation of the new system was let several weeks ago to the Satterfield Construction Co. of Greenwood, South Carolina.

The work on the system has been divided into three phases. First phase of the job includes joining the following buildings into the new system: Veasey Hall, Cone Hall, and the Marvin Pittman School.

The second phase includes Sanford Hall, the Hanner Building, the President's home, the health cottage, the home management house, the Herty Building, and the music building. These two phases are almost completed, stated Dr. Henderson.

The third phase, which has not yet been started, will pick up Anderson Hall, the Williams Center, and the remaining buildings on the west side of the campus.

Jim Pollak behind the headlines big and small

SOMETIMES NOT AT ALL...

Progress. For years that has been the big word at Georgia Southern and this year is far from an exception.

In fact, one of the biggest signs of progress here this year concerns you. Never before has a Georgia Southern editor had a chance to welcome so many new students. As of now it looks as though there will be about 200 more new students this year than last.

For each of you there is probably a different reason or motive for coming to Southern.

Some of you may be here because the courses and degree programs suit you fine. Others may find it more convenient, or more economical; but whatever the reasons, when all grouped together they point to the growth of the college.

Your Efforts Count

Present students and former students alike have probably already told you that GSC is a fine place. Very few people who now have or have ever had any contact with the college would argue that fact. Whether you will be able to make that statement someday depends on you.

An Alumna's Outlook

By ROBERTA HALPERN

Take the twenty-six letters in our alphabet, shake well and from the mixture can be sifted thousands of words that convey the ideas and thoughts of one person to many others. This recipe can only be a success if you the reader "chew well and digest" the message therein.

I have found that the best way to realize the full value of an endeavor is to reflect back upon it after it is over and this I have done several times since graduation last June 5.

You've heard people say over and over again "You only get out of something what you yourself put into it." This truism is most applicable when speaking of college and what it has to offer.

If you came to college with the idea of making Georgia Southern a real part of you and you a genuine part of it, then nothing can stand in your path to four successful and rewarding years of school.

Succeeding academically at college is of primary importance, but this phase does not compose the complete picture. Extra curricular activities also take a front row seat in rounding out the college scene.

Here you are at the beginning of a new year. What will you do with it? Georgia Southern has so much to offer you. Are you ready to take full advantage of it? They're rolling out you. You can make the college what you want to make it by what you do while here. Things can only be done when plenty of planning and worthwhile effort have been applied.

These first few weeks here are planned to give you the opportunity to get in the groove as far as learning, adjusting, getting acquainted, an having a "college time." Adaptability and friendliness are two of the most important qualities. It's easy to go on from there.

To welcome you is the first of my duties. It is a duty only in a vague sense, however. It's really good to see that so many people have chosen this as their college. We are glad to have all of you. Because so many have decided that Georgia Southern is for them, congratulations are also in order. You have all made a good choice. We hope that you find that out like we did when we first came here.

So as you begin your career at GSC "the sky is the limit." While here do not ask "What can Georgia Southern do for me?" rather "What can I do for Georgia Southern?" Someone else seems to have used these lines before, but they mean a lot in our case too. In the end you will find that Georgia Southern has done more for you.

the welcome mat for you now. Hop aboard!
