Get Your Flu Shot

VOLUME 35

STATESBORO, GEORGIA, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1961

NUMBER 5

THE LINE FORMS TO THE RIGHT. Let's dance over to the health cottage and get our flu shots. The nurses aren't painless, we admit, but most thoughtful students would rather have a few minutes of discomfort than a few days missing classes. See page two for editorial.

Council Members Get Shot; Students Are Scheduled Now

The student council and students in Anderson Hall were shot with influenza vaccine Wednesday and Thursday respectively, in the first phase of the council's anti-flu drive, says Dianne Brannen, president.

The drive, which began Wednesday, Oct. 25, and will run through Tuesday, Nov. 7, is aimed at having 100 per cent of the Georgia Southern students inoculated.

Schedule Stated

Students are scheduled for vaccination by the dormitories in which they live. The shots are being administered in the health cottage between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. The schedule for those remaining to receive the shots is as follows: Monday, Oct. 30—Sanford Hall; Tuesday, Oct. 31—Cone Hall; Wednesday, Nov. 1—day students; Thursday, Nov. 2—Deal Hall; Monday, Nov. 3—Lewis Hall; and Tuesday, Nov. 4—Mamie Veazey Hall.

All GSC students are eligible to receive these shots which are financed through the student health fund that was paid at the beginning of the quarter. Miss Brannen went on to say that while the shots are being administered by dormitories, the various campus organizations are competing for the highest percentage of vaccination. The results will be published in the Nov. 7 issue of the GEORGE-ANNE.

Students Urged

Nurse Dorothy Wiggins at the health cottage stated that while the vaccinations are not compulsory, all students are urged to take advantage of this opportunity. She said that the vaccine is very rare. It is not to be confused with the cold vaccine which has been used on campus.

She said that after effects from the vaccine are very rare and very slight. In addition to curbing the severity of Asian Flu, the vaccine cuts down on the common cold to an extent. According to Surgeon General Luther L. Terry, Asian Flu hits the United States every few years and an outbreak is expected this fall and winter.

The team Coach Searce named as his probable starters consists of Connie Lewis, Millen, and Tony Thomson, Hartford, Kentucky, at the forward position; David Patton, Ashland, Kentucky, and Francis Florian, Orient, Illinois, in the forecourt; and Bill Pickens, Rochester, New York, in the center slot.

Lewis, 6-5, Thomson, 6-6, and Patton, 6-0, are senior lettermen, while Florian is a 6-1 sophomore who transferred to Southern last spring quarter. Pickens, the tallest man on the squad at 6-9, is a freshman. Although this is Pickens' first year as a college basketball player, he played in the college circles as a member of the Camp Lejeune Marines.

Lewis now stands sixth among Georgia Southern's top all-time scorers with 1145 total points, and he should move up to the third position this year. It would take only 374 points to tie him with Whitey Verstraete for that honor, and he has averaged 381

ing member of last year's starters, won the Don Wallen assist award for leading the team in assists as he served up 152 assists to his teammates. He is the number one pick to receive the award this year also.

The only other letterman on the starting five is Tony Thomson, who was used mainly in a reserve as a utility man. He saw action last year as a forward and at center. Coach Searce remarked that he is greatly pleased with the improvement in Thomson's defensive game.

Florian, who is 6-2 and weighs in at 220, may prove to be the workhorse of the team. So far he has been impressive with his passing and is probably the team's best outside shot.

Coach Searce stated that a number of changes could take place within the next five weeks. Terry Grooms, a sophomore from Hilliard, Florida, and Ronnie Maravich, a freshman from Clemson, South Carolina have made excellent showings and could be starters by the time the season opens on December 2.

Ind. Arts Club Elects Officers; Outlines Plans

By ROBERT CONNOR
Division of Arts and Industry Correspondent

The Industrial Arts Club elected officers and outlined plans for the next three quarters at their first meeting of the year held Wednesday night.

The officers elected are: John Tirone, Savannah, president; Jack Anderson, Statesboro, vice president; William Smith, Sylva, secretary; Jerry Walker, Lumber City, treasurer; and Robert Connor, Albany, reporter.

The projects which the club members discussed undertaking were: sponsoring a formal dance during spring quarter, taking several field trips through Georgia to study the industry in the state and beginning an industrial arts fraternity.

Also they are planning a program of special projects which includes printing stationery and personal Christmas cards for students and organizations, doing photography work and washing and greasing cars.

The club will also sponsor representatives from the fields of industry and education to speak on the campus during the year.

The industrial arts club is open to all students in all major fields. There are approximately 20 members now in the organization.

The club meets the second and fourth Wednesday of every month at 7 p.m. in the Joseph E. Carruth Building.

Concert Series Tickets Will Go On Sale Monday

The Statesboro Community Concert Series will be renewed this year bringing three programs to Statesboro and GSC.

Ga. Medical Heads Here; Talk Of Pre-Med Program

Dr. H. B. O'Rear, president of the Medical College of Georgia, and Dr. David McCorkle, dean of students and director of admissions of the Medical College of Georgia, visited Georgia Southern College Wednesday, October 25. The purpose of their visit was to meet with college officials. They discussed the pre-professional programs now offered at this college and the possibilities of developing in the Georgia Southern curriculum a new medical technology program.

They met with President Zach S. Henderson; Mr. Paul F. Carroll, dean of the college; Dr. J. A. Boole, chairman of the Science and Mathematics department; and Dr. Ralph K. Tyson, dean of students.

Topics of academic program, curriculum of the science division, and methods by which a more effective program in these areas may be developed were discussed.

A meeting was held with open discussion involving students interested in pre-medicine or medical technology, local physicians, college faculty, and these representatives of the Medical College.

According to Dr. Tyson, this type of activity allows officials from other professional organizations to observe and measure our growth in specific areas. In turn it gives the institution a chance to look forward to demands and responsibilities which must be met in order for this growth to continue.

This meeting with Dr. O'Rear and Dr. McCorkle is one of a series of vocational activities to be coordinated and scheduled by the guidance center of the office of the dean of students. These activities are for the school year 1961-62.

Applications For Danforth Fellows Due By Nov. 1

"The deadline for application for the Danforth Foundation Fellowships is November 1," says Dr. Jack N. Averitt, Liaison Officer of the Danforth Foundation.

Each year the Danforth Foundation, an educational foundation located in St. Louis, Missouri, invites applications of students for fellowships in graduate work primarily in the field of liberal arts.

The amount made available to the graduate worker is based on the marital status and the number of dependents of the student. The sum awarded is ample for one year's work, tuition, fees, and salary.

The application requires an extensive self-analysis of individual, religious, and academic interests. The applicant is required to submit a critical analysis of past community service and a report of his intentions in future activities.

Awards are based on the personal essays, applicant's scholarship, and his promise of leadership. Each year 60 to 100 American students receive these fellowships.

In the past, GSC has had several applications made. Other interested students should see Dr. Averitt for the available information needed.

New Dormitories, Paving Planned At Ga. Southern

Future construction on the GSC campus will see the addition of two new dormitories and the paving of a campus road, according to President Zach S. Henderson.

First Debate Is Scheduled Today For GSC Team

The Debate Team of GSC will journey to Mercer University, October 27 and 28, for the Dixie Debate Tournament.

There they will compete with representatives from approximately twenty colleges from Florida, Mississippi, Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee, South Carolina, and Georgia.

The topic for debate will be: Resolved: "That Labor Organizations should be Under the Jurisdiction of Anti-Trust Legislation."

"In my 12 years of work with debate teams, this is the hardest topic I've ever seen to make actual sound proposals because the data is so hard to come by," stated Clyde J. Faries, sponsor of the team.

The debaters have found this a highly complex problem; highly controversial, about which a lot of opinions have been written, but not much valid material. They find the issue more important to the South because we have a greater controversy over labor, added Faries.

Confusion Created By Twins; Not Eyes

By PAT CROWDER

Been having trouble seeing double lately? Don't worry about making a mad dash to the nearest optometrist, because your eyes aren't at fault. It's just that an epidemic of twins seems to have hit the GSC campus this quarter. There are no less than five sets of twins attending GSC.

So you won't get confused, we'd like to introduce them to you two by two.

Hailing from Acworth, Georgia, Roy and Ray Clark are the only two who aren't new to GSC. Roy, a senior, transferred from Middle Georgia in Cochran last fall quarter as a junior. His major is elementary education. Ray, also a senior, transferred from Berry College in Rome at the same time and is majoring in business administration.

These boys have a very unusual hobby—snake hide collecting! They both enjoy athletics and also like to hunt and fish in North Georgia. Ray, unlike his brother, enjoys poetry. He writes for the campus literary publication, Miscellany.

Barbara and Betty Tonge, first quarter freshmen, come to GSC from Bainbridge, Georgia. They are the only set of non-identical twins and say they like it better this way. They are so unlike they have a hard time convincing people that they are twins. Certainly no cause for mistaking identity is present in this case. Barbara is majoring in mathematics and Betty in elementary education. Both of them enjoy skiing and bridge as two of their favorite past-times.

David and Danny Dunway transferred to GSC this quarter from Middle Georgia in Cochran. As students at Middle Georgia, they both played basketball. Danny held the high score record for two years. Some of you may have seen them when they played in the junior college tournament last year at GSC.

As juniors at GSC, they are both physical education majors and even have the same classes together. This can create a real problem to their classmates and instructors because they dislike being labeled "twin" or "Dunways."

David and Danny say all sports are their hobbies. They come from Lumpkin, Georgia.

Helen and Hazel Young, both juniors, transferred to GSC this quarter from Valdosta State College in Valdosta. Coming from Rebecca, Georgia, these two dress alike and also have the trouble of mistaken identity. Some of their lesser problems consist of who writes mamma each week and who picks out what clothes to wear the next day. Their favorite sports include three S's: swimming, skating and skiing.

various Roanoke citizens, who acted as their hosts for the entire weekend.

Saturday morning, the members began teaching sessions for the younger age group. Afterwards, the GSC gymnasts gave individual instruction to the older age group. After the clinic they attended a football game. The gymnasts returned to Georgia Southern Sunday.

Defense Loans Available For GSC Students

Students in need of financial aid for their education may apply now for a National Defense Loan at the office of the Dean of Students.

One of the provisions of the National Defense Education Act enacted by law in 1958 by the 85th Congress of the United States is to set up a National Defense Student Loan Program for any scholastically able students in need of financial aid that wants to attend college.

Georgia Southern College is one of the many institutions of higher learning that is participating in the program.

The deadline for an application for any given quarter is 30 days prior to the date of registration for that quarter. Applications may be filled on a yearly basis.

Preference is given to students who are planning to teach in the elementary or secondary public schools or who will study in the fields of science, mathematics, foreign languages, or engineering. However, consideration is given to all other categories of all able, needy students.

For students who enter public, elementary, or secondary school teaching, half of all they have borrowed is converted retroactively into a scholarship.

Students, Faculty Represent GSC At Savannah Meet

A number of Georgia Southern College faculty members and students participated in the different programs and association meetings at the GEA meeting at Savannah High School Monday.

Dr. Ralph K. Tyson, dean of students, addressed the First Congressional District Future Teachers of America. His topic was "Aims of Education."

Much of the topic was developed within the framework of schools being the best hope for individual attainment and for national strength and welfare.

Goal Given

"The primary goal in the field of education is to train minds in order that individuals can more surely and more fully achieve potentialities," says Tyson.

Miss Frieda Gernant, associate professor of fine arts of Georgia Southern College, has announced plans for the First District Georgia Art Education Association. Miss Gernant is president of first district.

At the meeting there was an exhibit of paintings and graphics by elementary children and exhibits of crafts by junior and senior high school students.

Committee Named

Members of the exhibit committee were Miss Margaret Murphy, Savannah art supervisor; Mrs. Travis Doss, chairman of the elementary display; and Dennis Weldon, chairman of the junior and senior high school display.

Georgia Southern art education students showed several plans for bulletin boards and display units. These students were Sherian Brown, Anne Ed-

Three Way 'Shot In The Arm'

Yesterday the drive for flu shots got underway here at Southern. The object is to have every student vaccinated.

As Surgeon General Luther L. Terry pointed out recently, Asian Flu hits the United States every few years and an outbreak is expected this fall and winter. That is the main reason for the shots.

Then too, all students have already paid for these shots. They are being financed through the the backing of the entire student body.

Because of the merits of such a program the George-Anne this week joins the student council in urging everyone to take advantage of these shots.

Not only can you protect yourself by "being shot", but you can also boost the clubs you belong to. Clubs will be competing for the highest percentage of shots among members. One shot will be counted for each club you list.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Director Southern Regional Education Board

small wonder that many men see their college campus as a playboy's paradise instead of a center for learning. It's even smaller wonder many who don't see college that way sometimes buckle under the effort to adjust to college as it is.

For months before entering school they have heard the pros and cons of every fraternity on campus. Their upperclassmen friends have told Arabian-night like tales about extracurricular activity, and now and then they've gripped about a professor who is too hard to take. But it is a minority who have talked to the incoming freshman about the serious purposes of a college education.

The playboy impression is only compounded by the student's first week on campus. On many university campuses he walks into an opening week of crowded rush parties, student elections, receptions and football preparations.

Should Know What Counts
All of these are important in their right time and place. But this time and place should follow a quieter period of academic indoctrination during which the student should be exposed to what counts about colleges.

Realizing this, many of the South's honor societies have set up pre-school retreats for their members. During these retreats, the students leave campus for the college camp or a quiet spot in a state park where they meet with faculty members, student counselors and members of the administration. In smaller groups, they are given an academic challenge which helps put things in their proper perspective.

The first few weeks of college are a trying period of adjustment under the best circumstances. They can shape a student's attitude toward his whole college experience, and they can shape the student himself in the way he will go for the rest of his life.

Emotional Upsets Result
In those first weeks the student jumps into new independence, new social demands and greater academic pressures than he has felt before. Some young students are prey to severe emotional upsets resulting from the new demands, and show symptoms of the upsets in poor college work or poor social relations.

The university and college can do much by the way it plans the early weeks of college experience to contribute to the emotional stability and maturity of their students.

Concerned by this question of early college impressions, the University of Florida is conducting research under a grant from the National Institutes of Health to find and help students who have difficulty with the adjustment to college.

Locate The Trouble
Florida researchers are first looking for trouble spots which are common among the student population. When they have found these trouble spots, they can begin looking for the causes of the trouble.

This information about causes comes primarily from the personality and vocational tests which are given to each student as he enters the university. The data from these tests can give a composite picture of interests and emotional patterns of the student body and identify "disruptive" pressure points in the university community. Once these are identified, researchers say, the university can work on situations that cause the most concern.

The university cannot do it all, however. Parents, schools, and the student's themselves must work to reshape the picture of college and its purposes so that conflict does not interfere with the student's ability to learn. For the future of our young people and of the nation, this challenge cannot be ignored.

behind the headlines big and small

SOMETIMES NOT AT ALL . . .

Fellowship aid to students on the graduate level in the South has been declining. This information comes out this week from the Southern Regional Education Board.

One hundred fewer students from the Southern region will be attending graduate school this year than last. At the same time, more and more who do receive these fellowships are using them in schools outside of this region.

"Financial support for graduate education is a vital factor in the South's ability to produce Ph.D.'s needed in the region during the coming years," said Dr. Winfred L. Godwin, director of SREB. "Our responsibility is to build a system of graduate education which will hold our own brightest students and attract those from other parts of the nation."

The growth of the South in the past decade and its promise of future growth make this a real challenge. We, who are still in school on the undergraduate level, can do our part to help meet this challenge. All the work need not be left to the educators.

This week THE GEORGE-ANNE has gained another advertiser. These things happen all the time and we are not really reporting any startling news, but this new advertiser is from Savannah. To our knowledge this is the first retail store from Savannah to advertise regularly in the GEORGE-ANNE. This indicates to us two factors. Not only does it point out the growth and prominence of Georgia Southern throughout the Coastal Empire, but it also shows that businessmen in this area consider our college weekly an effective advertising medium. The new ad, from Michelle's, appears on page two of this issue.

No one can emphasize too much the touchy world situation today, and finally an official of the State Department has indicated that the United States may halt all trade with Communist countries. Although this step should have been taken long ago, there may still be time for us to make it effective. The final decision will probably come only if it is established that the Soviets are continuing to threaten our vital interests. Since they have never indicated otherwise in the past and seem to be going right on with all of their bullying tactics this long time hope of many Americans may finally be fulfilled.

The harsh truth about the situation is that since the beginning of 1961 there has been an increase of trade with the Soviet bloc. This has been going on at the same time the Soviet leaders have been undertaking an intensive drive to scare all the peoples of the world.

An Associated Press news story this week revealed that Philip H. Tresize, acting assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, said that all aspects of Soviet and U. S. relations may be reconsidered. A "Get Tough" policy on the part of this country may be a part of the solution to world tensions. It is good to see that the U. S. is considering using some effective, new weapons in the "Cold War."

A Square Deal

By BILLY DEAL

Somebody once said there is no future in history.

I don't guess that's any great shock to the 20th century student, but I'm sure some of the more learned instructors on campus would insist that there is a future in the study of history.

Where would the motion picture industry be without its productions of famous historical events, such as "Ben Hur at Carnegie Hall" or "Son of Spartacus?"

Historical events do lend themselves to simple repetition, and it is surprising to see how closely they parallel people and events of today. Many intelligent men spend their time just speculating what our world be like if various events had taken a different course.

For instance, there is a book on the market entitled "If The South Had Won The Civil War." Many things could have happened, but if we had won, I doubt if U. S. Grant would have ever been president of the United States—which would have actually been the Confederate States.

Suppose we take a look at a famous fact of history and use characters of today instead of the originals. Let's use Washington's river crossing and our cast will be drawn from local celebrities.

The scene: Savannah waterfront; the time: 6 a.m.; the event: Mickey Allen Washington in leading his business administration class on a field trip of the Savannah River harbor. Enter Washington.

"Clay, you guys," he commands, "Hit the boat, Pierce, (first mate Pierce Blanchard) get the motor started. It's colder than a . . . (the sound of the motor drowns out Mickey's metaphor)."

The group is seated along the sleek 25-foot cruiser Little Star of Cone Hall, and Blanchard is at the helm. Mickey is pointing out the spots of interest—the Union Bag, Oglethorpe's first camp site, The Triangle Bar and Grill . . .

Don English, an advanced student, asks a question: "Mr. Washington, sir, how far are we from Louisville, sir?" Of course this brings a laugh from the rest of the crowd, and Mickey, who hails from that fair city, er . . . town, er . . . village, who hails from there, replies with a cold viciousness, "That's about as funny as a . . . (Blanchard guns the motor and once again Mickey's words are lost)."

Just then, Olin Presley, who was recommended by JFK for Who's Who in American Colleges, stands up and recites An Ode to Muddy Waters.

Incidentally, JFK is Olin's brother-in-law, Jarrard F. Krause.

The group is deeply touched by Olin's recitation, and while the women are drying their tears, his accomplices—Earl Carr, William Hinesley and Buddy Gibbs—pass around hats for donations.

Mickey takes charge again. Feeling a sudden urge of power, he jumps up in the boat and yells to Blanchard, "Full Speed Ahead . . . I've not begun to fight . . . Damn the sandbars, full speed ahead . . . Don't fire till you see . . . (Once again Mickey's gems are lost as speed-demon Blanchard pushes his craft to 740 knots (Sounds like a problem for a first aid class, doesn't it?)."

But the sudden lurch throws Mickey from the boat, and before the group misses him he has been rescued by Clyde Williams, a shrimp boat operator. Clyde was on his way to be married—to a beautiful model—and he was just trying out a new fishing rod before the big moment.

Clyde takes Mickey to the Triangle Bar to get warmed up, and who should they see but the sightseeing group! After Mickey's sudden departure, Roy Stewart had taken over and guided the group to better scenery.

The tourists are reunited, and this time Mickey appoints Bonnie Dixon and Melvin Sweat to handle the boat controls and sends Blanchard to the showers. Pierce has had trouble finishing that; he starts lately, but promises, "It'll be different next year."

Back at the campus, Mickey settles down for a nap, but the refrains of band practice put an end to this. He moseys over to the dining hall, spots a friend in line, but is cornered by Big Bad John as he makes his approach. Dejected, Mickey walks to the end of the line, muttering to Blanchard, "You know that girl Williams is gonna marry is ugly as a double . . . (The six o'clock bell finished the sentence)."

There you have it. A day in the life of a college student who may someday go down in history.

What kind of day was it? A day like all days, filled with those events that fill our history books—and you were there.

In The Spotlight Again

Georgia Southern was well represented at the First District Georgia Education Association meeting in Savannah last Monday.

Approximately 50 students and faculty members attended one or more of the different departmental and organization meetings. These people represented the Student National Education Association, the Georgia Business Education Association, the Georgia Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation and Alpha Rho Tau among others.

The SNEA from Georgia Southern was in charge of the entire program for the SNEA meeting at Savannah High. Credit for a successful program, as a number of those attending described it, goes to Margaret Akridge, assistant first district director, and Judy Chandler, who presided over the meeting.

Our college was very much at the forefront in many of the departmental meetings and exhibits displayed.

Dr. George H. Stopp, associate professor of physical education, was chairman of the health, physical education and recreation association meeting. Pat Yeager, gymnastics coach, spoke to this group on "gymnastics clinic."

Dr. Ralph K. Tyson, dean of students, addressed the Future Teachers of America on "Aims of Education."

Dr. Lloyd Toumey presided at the GBEA meeting. Our Art Club made up posters and the speech department gave a demonstration on speech technique.

What does it mean that Georgia Southern was so well represented at this meeting? As we've brought out before, this is a growing institution. The activity of our students through organizations in their district, regional and state affiliations are signs of our growth. Anything that is done by our students does receive recognition for them as well as the school.

It means that the people on this campus, students and faculty members, have a genuine interest in their work. They are willing to learn at these meetings and apply new methods and techniques.

Yes, we would say that last Monday meant a great deal.

Marterie Band To Play For Concert

Ralph Marterie and his orchestra will definitely perform at a concert and dance at GSC on December 5, says Rick Mandes, public relations director.

The concert will be held in the McCroan Auditorium from 7:30-8:30 p.m. It will be followed by a dance in the Alumni Gymnasium from 9:00-11:30.

Ticket prices will be as follows: Concert, $1.00 for adults, 50c for students; dance, $2.50 per couple.

ALWAYS AROUND

By JACK SMOOT

There seems to be a great deal of talk about the difficulty the Art Club is in over the Starlight Ball. Alpha Rho Tau has looked over the space available for the dance, and as everyone knows, found it too small. Finding a place to have this dance is a major problem this year for the population of Southern has increased by close to five hundred students.

As past students know, the dances held at the old gym have been crowded and the only dance held in the past years that wasn't packed was last year's Old South Ball. This was held at Brannen's Warehouse, but due to the time of year, this site is impractical for the Starlight Ball.

There have been other places brought up but due to some reason or another these places are unavailable.

Instead of complaining about the events going on, students should submit their ideas and suggestions. If you have an idea about a good place to have this dance, give your suggestion to some member of Alpha Rho Tau or address it to the GEORGE-ANNE, and it will be delivered.

The more participation the student body contributes to the social events on campus, the better the project and the better satisfied you-the student-will be.

Eagles Are Impressive

After a brief, but eye-filling look at the 1961-62 Eagles in a practice session this week, the least I can say is simply this: It was impressive.

This year's squad appears to have the potential to rate among the best of GSC's in many years. Only four lettermen are returning from the 1960-61 group, but there are five players returning who were either on the varsity last year or played extensively for the "B" team. Add to these a total of seven talented transfers and freshmen, and you have the ingredients for a fine, well-balanced squad.

Depth—one of the biggest reasons, along with inexperience, for the poor showing of the Eagles last year, will not be a problem this year.

Another factor that makes the squad look good for this year and for the coming years is youth. Only four of the sixteen members of the team are seniors. Two juniors, six sophomores, and four freshmen complete the squad.

Another essential factor to all basketball teams, height, will be no problem for the Eagles. The probable starting lineup submitted by Coach Searce has an average height of 6-4. Big man for the Eagles is center Bill Pickens, 6-9. Other starters and their heights are: Connie Lewis, 6-5; Tony Thomson, 6-6; Francis Florian, 6-2; and David Patton, 6-0.

This season will be the fifteenth with Coach J. B. Searce at the helm for the Eagles, and it could turn out to be one of his best. Needless to say, it will take a fine effort from this talented team to achieve this feat.

We'll just have to wait and see.

For The Record

Perhaps it's carrying it a bit far to hope for this year's cage team to break any all-time GSC records, but for those who are interested, here are a few individual and team records set by teams and players of the past.

Individual

Most points scored (one game) - 47 (Chester Webb, 1956); Most points scored (one season) - 883 (Webb, 1956); Most rebounds (one game) - 33 (Carlton Gill, 1959, Ronald Rush, 1957); Most rebounds (one season) - 524 (Webb, 1956); Most assists - 223 (Don Wallen, 1955); Most consecutive free throws - 31 (Webb, 1956, Chester Curry, 1959); Best free throw percentage - .861 (Whitey Verstraete, 1960); Best field goal percentage - .486 (Garland Campbell, 1956).

DUNKEL COLLEGE FOOTBALL RATINGS

EXPLANATION — A Dunkel is a comparative strength rating based on the season's record to date. It reflects average scoring margin relative to rating of opposition. Example: A 50.0 team scores 50 points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of relatively equal ratings. The system's operation has been continuous since its origination in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Eagle Basketball Practice Began Last Week; Searce Names Probable Starters

Sixteen Report As Eagles Prep For Tough Slate

The Georgia Southern College Eagles began basketball practice last week in preparation for the 1961-62 season. Head Coach J. B. Searce is said to be anticipating a much improved squad this year despite the loss of three of last year's starting five, which posted a disappointing record of 11-20, one of the worst in the school's history.

Gone from the 1960-61 starters are 6-8 center Jim Long, guard J. E. Rowe, and forward Tracy Rivers. Together, this trio accounted for 1245 points and 566 rebounds last year, while the entire team scored only 2301 points and grabbed only 1219 rebounds. Long led the Eagles in rebounding with 265 and posted a scoring average of 9.6 points per game. Rowe and Rivers led in the scoring department with 502 and 450 points for averages of 16.2 and 14.5 points, respectively. Rivers was also an outstanding rebounder, pulling off 250 rebounds.

Returning lettermen from last year's team are Connie Lewis, 6-5 senior forward from Millen; David Patton, a scrappy guard from Ashland, Kentucky, also a senior; Tony Thomson, 6-6 senior from Hartford, Kentucky; and John Burton, a flashy guard who hails from Orient, Illinois.

Lewis, who will be starting for the Eagles for the fourth year after winning the N.A.A.U. District Freshman of the Year award three years ago, scored 443

GSC Gymnasts Teach In Va.

Members of the GSC gymnastics team, acting as instructors, attended a clinic in Roanoke, Virginia. This clinic brings the number of students taught by the GSC instructors, to a total of 621 in an eight day period.

The members left GSC Friday morning at eight and arrived in Roanoke at about five in the afternoon. After taking a brief pause for supper, the members presented an exhibition before local fans. At the conclusion of this exhibition, members of the team went to the homes of various Roanoke citizens, who acted as their hosts for the entire weekend.

Saturday morning, the members began teaching sessions for the younger age group. Afterwards, the GSC gymnasts gave individual instruction to the older age group. After the clinic they attended a football game. The gymnasts returned to Georgia Southern Sunday.

Coach Pat Yeager said that plans for clinics at GSC are now being discussed. A preview exhibition of this year's team will be held in the near future for all the residents of Bulloch County as well as college students.

Lewis, Thomson, Florian, Patton And Pickens Picked To Start

According to Coach J. B. Searce Jr., if the 1961-62 basketball season were starting this week, the starting lineup for the Georgia Southern Eagles would probably find three seniors lettermen, a sophomore, and a freshman getting the call.

The team Coach Searce named as his probable starters consists of Connie Lewis, Millen, and Tony Thomson, Hartford, Kentucky, at the forward positions; David Patton, Ashland, Kentucky, and Francis Florian, Orient, Illinois, in the forecourt; and Bill Pickens, Rochester, New York, in the center slot.

Lewis, 6-5, Thomson, 6-6, and Patton, 6-0, are senior lettermen, while Florian is a 6-1 sophomore who transferred to Southern last spring quarter. Pickens, the tallest man on the squad at 6-9, is a freshman. Although this is Pickens' first year as a college basketball player, he played in the college circles as a member of the Camp Lejeune Marines.

Lewis now stands sixth among Georgia Southern's top all-time scorers with 1145 total points, and he should move up to the third position this year. It would take only 374 points to tie him with Whitey Verstraete for that honor, and he has averaged 381 points per season over the past three years. Last year he hit his highest total as he threw in 443 points.

Patton, the only other returning member of last year's starters, won the Don Wallen assist award for leading the team in assists as he served up 152 assists to his teammates. He is the number one pick to receive the award this year also.

The only other letterman on the starting five is Tony Thomson, who was used mainly in a reserve as a utility man. He saw action last year as a forward and at center. Coach Searce remarked that he is greatly pleased with the improvement in Thomson's defensive game.

Florian, who is 6-2 and weighs in at 220, may prove to be the workhorse of the team. So far he has been impressive with his passing and is probably the team's best outside shot.

Coach Searce stated that a number of changes could take place within the next five weeks. Terry Grooms, a sophomore from Hilliard, Florida and Ronnie Maravich, a freshman from Clemson, South Carolina have made excellent showings and could be starters by the time the season opens on December 2.

Campus Clubs Asked To Sponsor Candidates For 'Miss Starlight Ball'

According to present plans, the annual Starlight Ball will have Davy Jones' Locker as the central entrance theme, and a tropical ocean floor as the interior theme, says Walter Strickland, president of the sponsoring club.

Plans have also been made for the second annual Miss Starlight contest. All campus organizations have been requested to enter a contestant. Any club that has not received an entry blank is asked to write Alpha Rho Tau, Box 2092.

Deadline for entry in November 6. Voting will be held in the Frank I. Williams Center on November 15, 16, and 17. Penalties will be used for votes.

Decorations at the ball, which will be held November 18, will consist of fish nets, murals of the sea, a sunken boat, and mermaids and sailors serving as waitresses and waiters.

Strickland went on to say that plans are being made to convert one side of the bleachers into table space to enlarge the dance floor.

The entertainment program has not yet been completed but so far will include: Hilda Blanton, Lakeland, acting as emcee and singing "Bali Hai" and "Ebb Tide"; and the trio of Bucky Carlton, Moultrie, Bob Fullerton, Thomasville, and Billy Martin, Valdosta, will also perform.

November 6 is the opening night of the current series at the Marvin Pittman Auditorium and will feature folksinger, Nina Dova.

A second concert is scheduled for January with a performance by the Tucson, Arizona Boy's Choir.

April will see a trombone trio with a music clinic following the concert, closing out the 1961-62 series.

Georgia Southern's chapter of Phi Mu Alpha-Sinfonia will direct the ticket sales at the college. Tickets will go on sale Monday, a week prior to the concert. They will be sold in the Williams Center during the lunch and dinner hours, and will also be available at the door on the night of the concert. Tickets for each concert will sell for $1.

The members of the fraternity will also serve as stage crew for the performers.

300 students. The road between the Joseph E. Carruth Building and the Frank I. Williams Center will be paved as well as the parking lot between the Williams Center and the Herty Building.

The construction of the dormitories will cost approximately a half million dollars each. Construction will begin early next year and will be completed in 1963. There will be one dorm for men and one for women. Each will consist of 75 rooms housing two to a room.

President Henderson also stated that the paving of the parking lot will be completed in approximately 30 days. Plans for the paving of the road between the Frank I. Williams Center and the Joseph E. Carruth Building have also been made.

Another construction project underway is the installation of new sewage lines which will also be completed in about 30 days.
