STATESBORO, GEORGIA, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1961

Final Performance Of "Streetcar Named Desire" Is Tonight In Aud.

Ward Heads '62 Pageant; GSC Coeds Can Enter

Robert D. Ward, professor of history, Georgia Southern College and chairman of the 1962 Miss Statesboro Beauty Pageant announced that Mr. Bucky Akins has been appointed entry chairman for the pageant. The pageant is to be held in McCroan Auditorium March 31.

The Entries Committee will contact civic clubs, high schools, and Georgia Southern for selection of eligible contestants for the Miss Statesboro Pageant. Those assisting Mr. Akins will be Fred Hodges for the high schools in Bulloch County and Ric Mandes for Georgia Southern.

Akins has requested that every Statesboro resident who knows a personable, talented and beautiful young lady to suggest her to the committee as a possible contestant in the local pageant.

Winner of the Miss Statesboro title will qualify for participation in the Miss Georgia contest to be held in Columbus in May. The girl crowned Miss Georgia will travel to Atlantic City to vie for the Miss America crown.

Members of the Entries Committee will interview each young lady and ask her to fill out a standard form. She then will be eligible for the auditions to be held in January. These auditions will determine final selections of contestants to be entered in the contest.

To be eligible for the Miss Statesboro Pageant a contestant must be between the ages of 18 and 28 on September 1. She must be a high school graduate and must be a high school graduate never married.

She must possess talent, either trained or potential, which may include playing a musical instrument, dramatics, dress designing, singing, or any of the fine arts. If she wishes to pursue a professional career, she may present a three-minute talk on her reasons for selecting such a career.

Library Compiles Handbook; Now Being Circulated

A "Rosenwald Library Handbook" has been published and is being distributed among GSC students this week, according to Hassie McElveen, librarian.

The handbook, which was prepared by the entire library staff, will act as a guide and reference for students unfamiliar with the library and its system of organization.

The book is being distributed to students in their dormitories and may be acquired by day students at the library. Highlights of the handbook include floor plans of the library, an explanation of the card catalog and the Dewey Decimal Classification. Also included are topics concerning locating periodicals, additional library services (film library, microfilms, pamphlet file, interlibrary loans, etc.) and all of the library rules and regulations.

Actual printing and composing work on the handbook was done by industrial arts students. Miss McElveen stated that this is a preliminary edition and that they hope to increase its size and scope in the future.

Information Given On Teacher Scholarships

According to figures released by Dean Ralph K. Tyson, a total of $30,814.00 has been invested in students attending GSC under the Georgia State Teacher Scholarship Plan.

To be eligible, an applicant must be in the upper 20 percent of the high school graduating class, a citizen of Georgia for at least one year and in good health. The applicant signs an agreement to teach in a public elementary, secondary school, or college in the state.

Applications must be accompanied by College Board Test

ELEMENTARY ED. MEET

Students with freshman and sophomore classification who are majoring in elementary education and who are interested in entering the program in early elementary education are requested to meet at 4:00 p.m. Monday, November 20 in Room 8 at the Marvin Pittman School.

scores, high school record, recommendations of three faculty members, and a health certificate. The need of the student for the scholarship will be determined by the College Scholarship Service.

Students already in college must be interested in teaching and in maintaining a "B" average. They must be recommended by appropriate college officials.

Scholarships recipients must pursue an academic program satisfactory to the head of the department, the dean, and the head of the college. This program must meet the requirements of the Georgia State Board of Education's regulations concerning teacher education and certification.

Students holding the scholarship must maintain a "B" average. Those failing to meet this requirement will be placed on probation for the following quarter. While on probation, the student still receives the scholarship funds.

'Miss Starlight' To Be Crowned At 'Starlight Ball' Tomorrow Night

BA In French Ok'd By Board Of Regents

The Board of Regents granted permission for GSC to offer a major in French leading to the Bachelor of Arts degree last week, according to Dr. Zoltan Farkas, head of the foreign language division.

Nine quarters of French have been offered here but never on an AB program. Eight quarters of study are required for a degree.

Dr. Farkas went on to say that as a result of the Board of Regents action, more French books will be added to the Rosenwald Library.

He said that the new A.B. degree can be used for credit toward an M.A. in French which would qualify the graduate for college-level teaching.

With the A.B. program, it is possible for the student to have two majors at the same time, he added.

Dr. Farkas also stated that while GSC now carries a German minor, it is hoped that a German program similar to the new A.B. in French will soon be approved.

The Board of Regents also authorized GSC to develop programs for teachers, in cooperation with the state department of education, for the training of high school principals, the education of high school teachers of mathematics at the fifth year level, and the education of English, science and social studies for high school teachers at the sixth-grade levels.

The teacher-education programs will be submitted to the state board of education for approval. It is hoped that this may be achieved in time in order that these programs may be offered during the 1962 summer session.

Georgia Southern began the fifth year program in 1958 for elementary and high school teachers leading to the Master of Education degree in business education, elementary education, English, health and physical education, industrial education, music, science, and social science.

A sixth-year program is now offered in elementary education and will be offered in administration when approved by the state board of education.

Choir Sets Date For Concert; To Be In McCroan

The GSC Philharmonic Choir will present a concert Thursday night, December 7, at 8:15 in McCroan Auditorium, according to Mr. Robert Gerken, director. There is no admission fee to the concert, which will feature music by Palestrina, Bach, Haydn, Brahms, and other composers.

The choir will also sing a group of folk songs, Negro spirituals, and Christmas carols. Gerken said that a soprano, tenor and bass trio will sing "The Heavens Are Telling" by Haydn.

Sandra Bacon, Hinesville, will accompany the 56 member choir during the concert. This will be the first concert to be presented by the Philharmonic Choir during the 61-62 term.

Miller To Head Group Studying Code Of Ethics

A state-wide study for a more effective code of ethics is being undertaken by the Teacher Education and Professional Standards Committee of the Georgia Education Association. Dr. Starr Miller of Georgia Southern College is chairman of this committee.

This study will provide an opportunity for units of the Georgia Education Association to offer suggestions for a more effective code of ethics to govern their professional actions.

District representatives of the Teacher Education and Professional Standards Committee are sending GEA units copies of the present National Code of Ethics for their suggestions and revisions.

Mrs. Eleanor Newton, Wadley, is chairman of the sub-committee of the study effort.

Alpha Phi Omega Elects Officers

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, elected officers for the coming year, recently. The installation ceremony for these officers took place on Wednesday.

Officers are: Jack Smoot, President-elect; Jerry Trollingier, 1st. Vice President; Ernest Davis, 2nd. Vice President; Jimmy Carlton, Recording Secretary; Robbie Powell, Correspondence Secretary.

Other officers elected are: Tommy Sandefur, Treasurer; Bill Abbott, Historian; Ray Bowden, Sergeant of Arms. Dr. B. Weaver was elected Faculty advisor. Alpha Phi Omega holds their elections twice a year, each term last six months. These officers will be held until spring quarter.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY

Thanksgiving holidays will begin at noon, Wednesday, November 22. First, second, third, and fourth period classes will meet that day. Classes will resume on Monday, November 27 at 8 a.m.

There will be no GEORGE-ANNE next week. The next issue of GEORGE-ANNE will be out on Friday, December 1.

THIS STRANGE SCENE was noticed in front of the student center Wednesday night. What is it? The best guess is that it must be the work of Alpha Rho Tau publicizing Starlight Ball. The "Aquamara" has sailed in, bringing with it a skeleton of a whale.

Hartley, Kicklighter, Evans, Clifton, Nash Capture Freshman Positions

Brad Hartley, Jesup, was elected to head his class in the freshman election held Tuesday, November 14. A total of 246 ballots were cast in the student council-sponsored election.

Other newly elected freshman officers include: Johnnie Kicklighter Jr., Glennville, vice-president; John Evans, Thomson, secretary-treasurer; Elva Clifton, Sylvania, representative; and Bill Nash, Grayson, Ky., representative.

Hartley defeated Danny Bray, Statesboro, in the presidential race with each polling 147 votes and 97 votes respectively. In the race for vice-president, Johnnie Kicklighter Jr. outpolled Lynn Storey, Statesboro, 145 votes to 101.

John Evans, received 131 votes defeating Martha Faye Hodges, Statesboro, with 112 votes in the race for secretary-treasurer.

Two freshmen were chosen to represent the class for the student council. Elva Clifton, defeated Kay Preston, Statesboro, 125 to 119 for the girl representative position. For the boy's post, Bill Nash, defeated James Pasquali, Perry by polling 133 votes to Pasquali's 108.

The election closes out a week of colorful "poster campaigning" by the candidates. A breakdown of the election results follows:

CANDIDATES	VOTES
President
Brad Hartley	147
Danny Bray	97
Vice-President
Johnnie Kicklighter Jr.	145
Lynn Storey	101
Secretary-Treasurer
John Evans	131
Martha Faye Hodges	112
Student Council Rep. (girl)
Elva Clifton	125
Kay Preston	119
Student Council Rep. (boy)
Bill Nash	133
James Pasquali	108

Reflector Staff, Pictures Listed

Work is progressing rapidly on the 1962 Reflector, according to Midge Lasky, editor. Approximately half the book will be completed by the Christmas holidays, she added.

Assistants to the editor are George Thomas, Nahunta; Cecil Martin, Kite; and Harley Davidson Jr., Cochran.

Furman Clift Jr., Fort Valley, is business manager and he will be assisted by James Haymans, Hinesville.

Other members of the staff are Katherine Wellbrook, Savannah; Suzanne Flemming, Waynesboro; Nellie Pate, David-Boyer; Arleen King, Cuseta; Del-Boyer, Savannah; Pat Crowder, Statesboro; Don Gale, Savannah; and Pat Wilcox, McRae.

Also Rowena Dooley, Leesburg, Fla.; Shannon Scott, Augusta; Mary Bagley, Citra, Fla.; Hubert Tankersley, Statesboro; Sally Jane Coleman, Summertown; James Hollingsworth, Conyers; and Wade Gray, Hamilton.

Also Pat Scarborough, Atlanta; Pat Durrence, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Carolyn Herndon, Lakeland; Bonnie Crawford, Savannah; Jenine Smith, Savannah; and Peggy Exley, Garden City; Also Carol Kinard, Dublin; Sallie Bradford, Savannah; Jim Pollak, Statesboro; George Bagg, Claxton; and Katherine Peacock, Eastman.

Meetings of the Reflector staff are held each Monday and Thursday evenings from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. in Room 110 of the Williams Center.

REFLECTOR CLUB PICTURE SCHEDULE

The following organizations will have their pictures made for the 1962 Reflector on Monday, November 27, 1961. No special attire is requested, only that the students be at the announced place at the correct time.

"Miss Starlight" will be crowned tomorrow night at the annual Starlight Ball to be held in the Alumni Building. This is the last day that votes may be cast for one of the 31 contestants.

Today is the last day that students may purchase tickets for the Starlight Ball, according to Walter Strickland, president of Alpha Rho Tau, sponsors of the dance.

Voting began last Wednesday. All students were eligible to vote by balloting with a penny for the contestant of their choice. Total proceeds gained from the voting will be used for future projects planned by Alpha Rho Tau.

Davy Jones' Locker as the central entrance theme will welcome those attending this year's annual Starlight Ball. The main dance floor will be decorated as a tropical ocean floor. Other decorations will consist of fish nets, murals of the sea, a sunken boat, and mermaids and sailors will serve as waitresses and waiters.

Strickland added that plans are being made to convert one side of the bleachers into table space to enlarge the dance floor.

Tentative plans for the floor-show are as follows: a song by Bucky Carlton; a duet featuring Charlotte Ballew and Beverly Webb; modern dance performed by Carol Kinard; a song by Hilda Blanton; a trio consisting of Sammy Prince, Billy Martin and Bob Fullerton. Billy Felder will also act as master of ceremony of the program.

The dance will start at 8:00 and will be semi-formal. A novelty advertisement was placed outside the student center for the Starlight Ball Wednesday night, Ralph Hancock was in charge of the display on the front lawn of the student center. As a part of the display, a genuine skeleton of a whale and a sunken ship were used for publicity of the dance.

GSC Band To Play Concert

The Concert Band, under the direction of Fred K. Grumley, will present a concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium.

Tuesday's concert will be similar to that presented by the band during their recent tour to four Georgia cities.

Larry Philpott will be featured as French horn soloist, and Robert Siefferman as percussion soloist. A woodwind trio made up of Wendell Lewis, clarinet, Floyd Williams, clarinet, and Rosemary Bailey, bassoon, is also scheduled for the concert.

The program will include "Coat of Arms-Concert March," George Kenny; "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral" from "Lohengrin," Richard Wagner; "The Sound of Music" (selections from the Broadway musical), Richard Rogers; and "Lisbon Antigua," Paul Portella.

The second part of the program will feature the "Symphonic Jazz Ensemble" playing selections from their recent recording "Sounds from Southern," and other numbers. There will be no admission charged.

YOU'D BETTER BLOW that grass pledges or WHAP! Your guardian big brothers may inflict a wound where wounds weren't meant to be inflicted. These are two pledges of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Fraternity going through one of the numberless ordeals put to them during the organizations fall quarter pledge period. Phi Mu Alpha is a national professional music fraternity and it initiates pledge classes twice a year. This is the third week of the current pledge period.

THE STUDENTS PICTURED above were installed on November 8 as house presidents. The students standing are Bobby Jones, Cone Hall; and Joe Patti, Sanford Hall. Those seated are: Janet Sikes, Mamie Veazey Hall; Frances Dell, Lewis Hall; Sandra Roberson, Deal Hall; and Carol Green, Anderson Hall. Also shown standing are Dean W. H. Holcomb and Dean Carolyn C. Gettys.

A Trip To The "Student Mess"

Approximately 20 tables fill the game room in the Williams Center and no doubt, there are usually four to six or seven students around each table every minute of the day.

There are only 12 tables in the snack bar, but these, too, are surrounded at all times the concession is open.

It's not very hard to conclude that these facilities are definitely being used by our student body, but that's fine. That is what they were built for.

It is also not too difficult to see that they are being abused in their use. Up until this time students have been allowed to take their refreshments from the snack bar into the game room. They eat and drink and are merry; this we know, because the papers, plates and cups are usually lying all over the floor.

One begins to believe that a new fad has hit the campus; that of "let's not use the trash cans." Also, it is very difficult to dance when having to wade through a few layers of trash and cigarette ashes.

Now, our problem is to provide a means by which the game room and the snack bar can be kept somewhat cleaner than a pig sty.

Probably the first step is for the students to be sure and use the trash cans which can be found in the game room.

Secondly, the students need some help. It would seem logical, that if necessary, the janitors and maids when aren't busy doing other work would constantly stay in the game room. If possible, another maid should be hired especially for the purpose of staying in the game room to clean up.

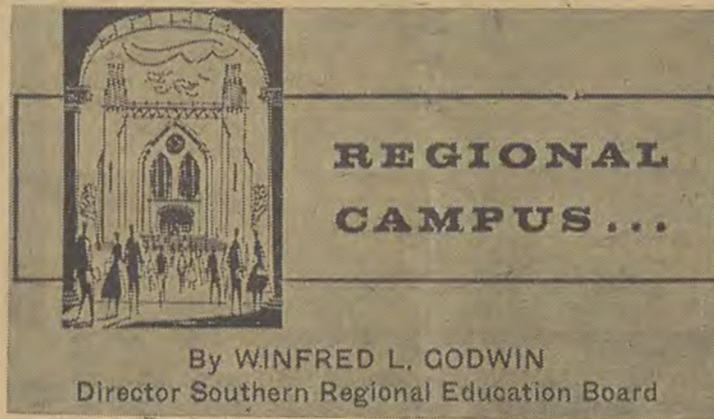

Actually, the only time the game room is cleaned is once a day. Heaven knows, a room that is constantly used should be cleaned and aired out a couple of times during the day for health purposes.

This battle for "keeping the game room and snack bar clean" is old, but for some reason it has always been a losing battle. Help to change the tide of the war which will help us all scream "Victory!"

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

AS PART OF OUR NEW "GET TOGETHER" ACADEMIC POLICY - NOW YOU REALLY MUST FULLFILL THE MINIMUM COURSE REQUIREMENTS OR YOU FLUNK.

A few years ago it made better financial sense to be a skilled mechanic than an associate professor in one of the nation's colleges or universities. And even as late as 1959 a university professor could earn more if he switched to driving a locomotive.

But the situation wasn't anything new. For most of the duration of our history, America has underpaid the people who provide higher education for our younger generations, and the South continues to be the worst offender in this matter.

Fortunately there have been dedicated people to fill the classrooms rostrums anyway—people who would trade financial status symbols for a chance to do research or for the way of life that characterizes the teaching profession.

Some Fared Well Those who made such a bargain back at the turn of the century fared better than today's educators whose salaries are higher but go shorter distances.

The late Beardsley Ruml and Sidney G. Tickton have studied these salaries for the Fund for the Advancement of Education and have made some interesting comparisons with other occupations and industries. Their facts point up a serious consideration for those of us who allocate our taxes for education salaries at all levels.

We can't count on dedication much longer—in these days of competition for trained manpower we are going to have to see that the teaching scholar is given a salary commensurate with his responsibility.

Increase Needed In his comparison of salaries 50 years ago and now, Mr. Tickton says that a salary level of $25,000 to $50,000 is needed today to give educators a standard of living comparable to their predecessors at the turn of the century.

Such salaries are rare. As a matter of fact, there was at the time of the study, just one college president earning as much as $45,000 a year. Fifty years ago an administrator of that rank earned between $7,000 and $10,000 a year, but his real purchasing power was equal to between $30,000 and $50,000 today.

These top salaries have not filtered down into the ranks of college faculty and classroom teachers even in 1961. At the time of the Tickton report, the nation top salary for a full professor went to a man teaching in a private medical school. It was $35,000—about seven times what a full professor in the same type of school made in 1900.

The average salary for full professors in large state universities was $9,820, and a full professor in a Southern university is liable to make some $4,000 less than his counterpart in other regions.

Rises Slowly The top salary in a private undergraduate college was $24,000—it had been between $5,000 and $7,000 50 years ago.

The level of the college salary is even more dramatic when it is compared with other occupations. In 1959 the average salary for an assistant professor in a large state university was $6,299; railroad firemen made an average salary of $8,337 and switchtenders earned an average of $5,819.

Workers in the automobile manufacturing industry made an average salary of $6,397 in 1959, and workers in the electrical machinery manufacturing industry earned $5,533.

High school teachers in urban school districts with more than 500,000 population fared a little better than the assistant professor. Their average salary in 1959 was $6,650. Elementary school teachers in districts of the same size averaged $5,850.

We place tremendous trust and responsibility on those who teach our young people. If we are to attract minds which can prepare a generation for life in the 21st century, we owe them genuine respect and the financial support to make teaching a career and not a sacrifice.

GOES

behind the headlines big and small

SOMETIMES NOT AT ALL . . .

One year ago this week GEORGE-ANNE readers picked up the paper and saw this headline on page one "New A. B. Degree in Sociology is Added to Ga. Southern Program."

The first issue of 1961 proclaimed this, "New B. S. Degree in Secretarial Studies Is Latest GSC Offering." Again last week another headline read like this, "GSC Will Offer M.A. in History," and this week's issue has a story about a new program with a major in French leading to the Bachelor of Arts degree.

These are just a few of the new additions to the curriculum at Southern in the past two years. Six year programs have been added and last year's "Summer Science Institute" was another first.

Not Long Ago

Not too many years ago this was solely a teacher training institution confined to the undergraduate level. It was just in 1958 that the fifth year program leading to the Master of Education degree was established here.

Since then additions have been made one by one, sometimes even two and three at a time. All of this point in only one direction—forward.

That is the picture at Georgia Southern. Time will reveal the course of events to occur here. With the way things have been progressing recently it is not so hard to see another name change within five to ten years.

More Expansion Further division expansion, curriculum additions, new degree programs, physical facilities being increased, and record enrollments could lead to such a change. Already this is the school in south Georgia. We are now looking to the day when it might possibly be Georgia Southern University well-known not only in Georgia, but throughout the South and the Nation.

The road lies ahead. The trip will be long, hard, and expensive, but it will someday be over.

In speaking of progress, it seems right that the GEORGE-ANNE can report some of its own this week. Starting with today's issue there will no longer be a four page weekly at GSC. The expansion of the college mentioned above has led to an expansion of the GEORGE-ANNE.

Now 6 Pages

Six pages a week will be standard now for awhile. Further expansion may be carried out if deemed necessary.

Many people have wondered why this move has not been made until now, but it looks easier than it really is. Increased advertising must be found to cover additional costs. News must be on the upswing so that quality will not be lost in quantity. A larger and hard working staff is necessary. Stepped up deadlines and more time are required just to mention a few things.

Changes Made

These are reasons why it has taken awhile for the GEORGE-ANNE to grow. Because of lack of space recently it has been decided to make the change now. We want to thank those who have stood by and not complained when articles didn't appear. With the increase in size it is hoped that THE GEORGE-ANNE will serve Georgia Southern even better.

This is still a student newspaper and is here to serve the college. Anyone having suggestions or comments of any kind should convey them through a letter to the editor.

Additional changes can always be considered.

Step In Right Direction; Follow Along

The student council has announced tentative plans to conduct an "Operation Spirit" program similar to the "Get In The Spirit" weekend that they sponsored last year.

Because of the many varied complaints voiced last term concerning the lack of school spirit, the GEORGE-ANNE feels that this is an important step in the right direction. We are definitely in favor of any plan that may instill among GSC students the interest and enthusiasm that all campus activities should receive.

If the plan clears red-tape and council is given the cooperation it seeks, "Operation Spirit," like last year's program, will be conducted during the weekend of our first basketball game, (Dec. 2, against Georgia). It will include bon-fires, rallies, and possibly a parade that Saturday.

In endorsing this proposal, we also suggest that it be carried further and not be discontinued after the first ballgame.

This type of program adds to the "go-get-'em" attitude with which we hope to greet those Georgia Bulldogs.

It may also be a big step toward the solution of another problem at GSC: keeping students on campus over the weekend.

Our editorial on the band playing at ball games injects another idea which we feel would add much to the games. We would also like to suggest that GSC somehow acquire a mascot. Perhaps the art division could make a giant paper mache Eagle, or, even better, perhaps a gymnast could be costumed like an Eagle and lead the team out on the floor with flip-flops. This would be similar to FSU's mascot, the Seminole.

Let's get this attitude started now, while the year is still young, and outshine all comers in our support of athletic teams and all other campus activities. Make GSC students grow in loyalty as well as numbers.

P. S. BEAT GEORGIA! !

Band And Basketball?

"Having a band at the basketball games this year would be great," one student remarked.

A band to play at games would be great. We agree. It has been almost two years since any kind of band has played at an Eagle game on the GSC campus.

The students enjoyed it. The band members enjoyed it. Why did it cease?

The presence and support of a band would help the atmosphere at the games immensely. The peppy music keeps up the morale of the students and players. Also, a band would be of invaluable aid to the cheerleaders in their efforts to extract cheers from the student body.

In the past two years we've had the Franklin Organ played by Dr. Jack Broucek. There's no doubt that he's the finest.

We are not asking that Dr. Broucek not play because we feel that his talent definitely adds much to the games. But we also would like a band to play at the games.

Georgia Southern has some fine bands representing it. But the only problem is the students very seldom have the opportunity to hear them.

ALWAYS AROUND

By JACK SMOOT

The game of Bridge is becoming one of the most frequently played sports on campus this year.

This game consists of a few basic items that can be found around any student center: one deck of cards, two sets of players (four players), (for obvious reasons it is best partners should not sit next to each other and remain unknown to each other).

Also: two or three kibitzers per side, at least two packs of cigarettes (to be used to bribe kibitzers, one full ash tray, and one table, four chairs, and no class cuts.

Bridge begins with the dealing of cards to each player. The number of cards dealt to each depends upon the dealer and what he needs for the betterment of his hand.

Trump is the suit of cards in which the bidder is strongest. The bid is determined by the person that can successfully count highest without passing.

At this point the game can be confusing. The partner opposite the one that took the bid puts his cards down, gets up and leaves. This gives him a head start if the play isn't successful.

The bid winning partner places a card down in the center of the table and if he takes the trick (undefined) he puts them in a pile in front of him.

The winner in Bridge is determined by the number of piles in front of the players. The teams add up their piles and if they equal their bid plus four divided by two, they win. For the best result one of the kibitzers should be a math major.

A Square Deal

By BILLY DEAL

The history books tell about it. Hollywood has made a movie about it. A beautiful song has been written about it. What is it?

Exodus, of course.

The year of 1961 has seen Exodus become a household word in America. And that's not all. The move has spread to college campus that's plural for campus), including good ole GSC.

That's right. Every weekend the Georgia Southern students stage their own rendition of the Great Exodus of 1961.

Big Day Begins

Friday dawns on a peaceful and serene campus, and the usual courageous few make it to breakfast. About 8:30 the others begin to stir, and once again the buildings are buzzing with busy students. All goes well until 11 a.m.

Then a car is spotted entering the front gate. It is not a campus vehicle, so everybody stops to follow the foreign visitor. It winds its way to Anderson Hall. There a freshman coed is waiting with packed bags, and when the auto halts she rushes out, throws in her bags and tires squeal as she makes her getaway with her roommates trying in vain to overtake the car.

A kidnapping? No, it's just another case of a student going home and leaving her roomies here to face the vacuum of another dead weekend.

Extra Police Needed

Soon after this first brave soul makes the initial step, other students follow suit. After lunch, the big move starts and 23 policemen are stationed at both gates to prevent outgoing traffic jams.

By 4 p.m., classes are over and all those who are going have gone. By 5 p.m. all is quiet on the western front—and the eastern, southern and northern, too.

Cars are lined up bumper to bumper along the streets of Statesboro—all racing madly to get home in time to see the old high school football game, or the hometown girl friend or the draft board. Every road in Georgia is filled with cars, trucks, motor scooters and pogo sticks—every device that can be used to transport a human being across country is employed. The scene makes one think that Statesboro is being evacuated—or that Gen. Sherman is coming again.

Silence Is Noticeable

But there is a noticeable silence back on campus. You see one young man playing solitaire on the steps of Cone Hall; there's a young lady picking up pecans in Sweetheart Circle; another male is sitting alone in the library reading a copy of Alone in the World by I. M. Alone.

If there are any more permanent personnel left on campus they are most certainly sacked out somewhere with the stereo giving out lonesome sounds of beer-drinking music.

But we must find a solution. What can be done to prevent this astronomical loss of students every weekend?

I think I'll stay up here one weekend and see if I can't come up with something.

Critic Acclaims Masquers Play; Ranks Leading Performers High

By MR. CLYDE J. FARIES

The Masquers scored a hit last night with their opening performance of A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE.

Before an almost capacity crowd the GSC thespians turned in a performance that would have been applauded in professional theater as it was roundly applauded here last evening. An ingenious setting and the artful direction of Mr. Robert Overstreet made obvious contributions to the sterling presentation.

Blanche, a lonely woman who knew no love and whose desires for a place even in the animal-like lives of people without standards in the "low" society of New Orleans drove her to insanity, was brought to life by Dreena Sealy. She won the sympathy of the audience in her vain effort to clothe herself in a facade of magic. If Williams is a social reformer; if he says anything worthwhile in the play, he says it through Blanche. The lines "how strange that I should be a destitute woman when I have all these treasures locked in my heart" were delivered so well by Miss Sealy that one wanted to fling her a handful of truth we hope is cleaner than she was likely to find in her surroundings.

The part of Stanley was no less believably portrayed by Frank Chew. He was as Blanche described him—something less than civilized, an animal-like madman—but "real" as Williams sees reality.

The roles from the neighbors down to the sailor and his sexy girl friend were well done in this most popular of Williams' windfalls. It is a play of too much twisting of too twisted minds. One is led to wonder if Williams could not make whatever point he is trying to make and still write a good play and keep a somewhat higher tone of dialogue and action. Whatever his point and whatever his style, this critic believes he would have applauded with the rest last night at the excellent production of the Masquers.

Inquiring Reporter

By JOHNIE KICKLIGHTER JR.

This week, for the first time this year, we are featuring an Inquiring Reporter column. This article will consist of actual questions and answers from the student body. Therefore, if you are asked some questions by someone who says he or she is the Inquiring Reporter, be ready to give your most honest answers and opinions. Your cooperation in this program will be appreciated.

During this week, we asked a few members of the freshman class what they have been "most" impressed with and the "least" impressed with here at Georgia Southern. We have listed their answers in this column.

Jeanne Broyles, Gordon — "I have been most impressed with the friendliness of my fellow students and least impressed with the lack of space in the dormitories."

Sam Lewis, Albany — "The cleanliness of the campus is the most impressive thing, so far. I am not impressed with the way most of the students try to snow (try to impress by being something or somebody they are not) each other."

Janet Kraft, Statesboro — "The most impressive thing to me is the friendliness of the students. I am least impressed with the fact that most everybody goes home on weekends."

Louis White, Jesup — "The large quantity and fine quality of the girls on campus is most impressive. I have no other impressions."

Lawrence Rogers, Manassas — "I was, and still am, most impressed with the amount of homework and studying required in each course. I have no bad impressions."

Julie Kirbo, Camilla — "I'm impressed most with the fine group of boys on campus and least impressed with lack of social activities on weekends."

Dennis Meadows, Atlanta — "I am impressed with the difference between college classes and high school classes. My only gripe is the crowded dormitory rooms."

Betty Jean Hall, Swainsboro — "The most impressive thing to me is the interesting people you meet on campus and, at the same time, the least impressive thing would be some of the uninteresting people you can, and do, meet on campus."

Elaine Anderson, Cedartown — "The attitudes of the students in general impresses me most. I am not at all impressed with the heating and plumbing systems in Anderson Hall."

Alumni Corner

By ROBERTA HALPERN

Following graduation, when a class is together for the last time, alumni venture out into numerous fields. You, who are presently students at GSC, will also be out in the world as alumni in the not too distant future.

Where are some of Georgia Southern's most recent alumni now? What are they doing?

Ralph Bowden is now teaching Algebra II in Needham Broughton Senior High School in Raleigh, North Carolina. Bowden, who was president of the Senior Class last year, finds the most interesting part of his work to be the challenge involved in teaching 165 students in a large high school.

Stacy Wells is teaching at Bradwell Institute in Hinesville, Georgia. Teaching French and eighth grade English, he says, and coordinating the social and professional aspects of teaching is the most interesting part of his work.

Danelyn Lee, now Mrs. Edwin E. Akins, is also teaching. At Southeast Bulloch High School, she teaches eighth graders English and social science. Danelyn states that watching young minds grow and develop is the most interesting aspect of her career.

Mary Rivenbark, who was a social science major at GSC, is now at the University of Georgia on a teaching assistantship. In addition to the courses she is taking, she teaches one freshman Political Science course each quarter.

Robert Snipes, who is teaching English at Russell High School in East Point, Georgia, finds satisfaction in seeing his students understand their work.

Sabard Woods is now teaching English, World History, and Glee Club in Wayne County High School in Jesup, Georgia. He finds observing learning responses from interested students a most outstanding aspect of his work.

Next Miscellany Staff Meeting Is November 27

The next meeting of the Miscellany staff is scheduled for November 27. The meeting will be held in Room 115 of the Student Center at 8 p.m. This is an open meeting and all interested students are invited.

Preparations for the publication of the Miscellany have begun for the 1961-62 school year.

Miscellany, Georgia Southern's literary magazine, is published twice each year by the division of languages. Its aim is to publish and encourage serious literary efforts on the part of students and others.

The Miscellany staff meets twice each month. The purpose of the meeting is to give each student a chance to read his contribution before the group. A critical discussion follows each reading, and each literary work is evaluated by the group.

Hackett Becomes Member Of Ga. Advisory Council

The newly formed Georgia Advisory Council on Education for Industry has appointed Dr. D. F. Hackett, chairman of division of arts, Georgia Southern College, as a member of this council.

This committee has been established by the Associated Industries of Georgia. It will be their purpose to study the need for increased and improved industrial education. They will review current efforts and plans being directed toward meeting those needs.

It is the council's belief that if education and industry become partners in meeting this challenge and building this opportunity, Georgia and its citizens will be greatly benefited.

Hackett has been asked to meet with the council for an organizational meeting November 21 in Atlanta.

"From the standpoint of education, this council should become one of the most important influences our school curriculums have known," says Hackett.

Home Ec Receives Tupperware

MRS. RITA HALL of Savannah, the wholesale distributor of Tupperware, presented the home economics department of Georgia Southern College with an $80.00 complete line of tupperware. She was on campus to give a demonstration of this product November 10 to the classes of this department. During her demonstration, Mrs. Hall spoke of the many values of tupperware. She gave examples of its many uses in the home. Through this type of program, the home economics students are given a chance to hear representatives of technical organizations and see new products which are being developed in this field. Pictured with Mrs. Hall are Gloria Wilkinson and Melba Paulk.

This means you must know all the lyrics to the songs Ralph, as he is drolly cleft, will be playing, for there is nothing more pleasing to your dancing partner than singing loudly in his ear during a number.

In case you should forget all the lyrics, don't be dull about it. I mean, don't just sing old Hitchcock Named To Ga. Guidance Advisory Comm.

Dr. W. L. Hitchcock, director of counselor education, Georgia Southern College, has been appointed to the State Guidance Advisory Committee.

Twenty-six members form the public schools, colleges, and state department make up this committee. Their responsibility is to study the high school guidance program in the state.

Recommendations are presented to the guidance and testing section of the state department of Education. These recommendations are based on a thorough study of public school guidance service.

"Through this type of study," says Hitchcock, "a more effective guidance program will be developed. We not only attempt to recognize weaknesses but will commend and further develop the strengths seen in public school guidance programs."

The state advisory committee held its first meeting October 19 in Macon.

Lynch Instructs Radar Squadron In Mathematics

Mr. J. Walter Lynch, assistant professor of mathematics at Georgia Southern College, is teaching a college algebra class to approximately twenty men in Detachment 3, 12th Radar Bomb Scoring Squadron, according to 1/Lt. Dwane Twitchell, Education Officer for the detachment.

The classes are held for four hours each Saturday morning and began November 4. They will continue for twelve weeks in the Charles W. Herty Building at Georgia Southern. The Air Force will provide the lesson materials including film strips for the course.

The Air Force detachment in Statesboro is part of the Strategic Air Command and performs training missions of scoring simulated bombing attacks against this city.

Mr. Lynch received his A.B. and M.A. degrees at the University of Georgia. He came to Georgia Southern this fall after serving as a mathematician for the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, Huntsville, Ala., and a mathematical statistician in Ballistic Research Laboratories, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

Lunde Is Guest Of Dutchman Fleet

Pete Lunde, a 1960 Olympic gold-medal winner and a Georgia Southern College exchange student under a Rotary Scholarship, will be in Atlanta as guest of the Lake Lanier Sailing Club, Flying Dutchman Fleet, today and tomorrow. He will discuss the 1960 Olympics and show color slides of his gold medal won in the Flying Dutchman sail boating class.

Tomorrow morning, he has been asked to participate in a discussion and demonstration of the Dutchman, and to have an open race with all types of boats competing. The expected time will be 10:30 or 11 a.m.

While traveling to Georgia Southern from his home in Norway, Peder entered and won the Canadian Sailing Championship. He has been invited to enter the World Championship Races in St. Petersburg, Fla., in March.

A European boatmaker is sending Peder a vessel for the International Championship Regatta and the sails are being presented by Great Britain.

In discussing his travels through representing Norway in sailing contests, Peder says "the experience of meeting competitors from other countries is very interesting." He gave one instance when talking to a young Russian who was a gold medal winner in Rome, but who had performed badly in Finland. "He was terrified at the thought of returning home to Russia. I do not see how this can be happiness, living in such a country."

Peder feels there is a great difference in the United States school system to that of Norway's. "There is more incentive to pass in Norway for the fear of failure is greater."

In talking about Southern girls, he says "I had heard a lot about Southern girls before I came — that they were pretty nice, and they sure are."

Big Weekend For Jackets, 'DOGS

Next weekend could be a great football weekend or a mediocre one for both Georgia Tech and Georgia with important games coming up for both squads. Depending on the outcome of the games are Tech's chance for a bid to a post-season bowl game, and a successful season for Bulldog Head Coach Johnny Griffith in his first year at the helm.

Georgia Tech could have completely lost its chance for the Orange Bowl bid last weekend when they were beaten by Tennessee's Volunteers, 10-6. The Yellow Jackets face their toughest opponent of the season Saturday when they journey to Birmingham to meet nationally-ranked Alabama.

Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide, rated second best in the nation behind powerful Texas, are undefeated thus far in the season, and an upset by Tech could clinch the Orange Bowl for the Jackets. The win would also reinstate the Jackets in the Top Ten of the nation, a position they lost last weekend at the hands of the Vols.

Needless to say, the Bulldogs also have a tough battle on their hands when they meet Auburn. The War Eagles will undoubtedly be "up" for the contest, after being shocked last week by surprising Mississippi State.

As usual, Griffith has his work cut out for him. The loss of a few players due to injuries does not help matters for the Bulldogs, either. A win here and a good showing against Georgia Tech later in the season would make Griffith's debut as Bulldog head coach a success.

In releases to the press, Dodd has stated that Alabama may have the best team in the nation, but he wanted his men to play their best game of the year Saturday, after playing one of their worst last weekend. You can bet the Yellow Jackets will be in their giving their best for Dodd, and for the Orange Bowl.

Former Eagle Stars To Perform

Several basketball alumni of GSC will be seen on the hardwood of the W. S. Hanner building once again on Monday, November 20.

An All-Star squad has been formed with the likes of Jim Long, Ronnie Rush, Paul Ross, John D. Akins, Tracy Rivers, and J. E. Rowe, to face the Eagle varsity in a benefit game. All of the aforementioned players were once outstanding hoopsters for GSC. Everyone is urged to come out and take in the game. It's sure to bring back memories, and it promises to be pretty exciting too.

Phys. Ed. Dept. To Participate In Fitness Program

The Georgia Southern College department of health, physical education, and recreation will participate in Operation Fitness — USDA for the first time this year according to J. B. Searce Jr., chairman of the division.

The program, which was initiated less than three years ago, is designed to evaluate the fitness of the American youth and to evaluate the contribution of the service courses in physical education. Searce stated that this testing program will be adopted to all physical education activity classes.

Searce added that the physical education department is planning to make physical fitness a part of all activity classes, and that any class that is not serving the true purpose of physical education will be dropped from the curriculum. The first step in this direction has already been taken as individual games has been removed from the course has been changed to Track and Swimming.

The seven part physical fitness test was developed from over 50 different single tests for physical fitness. The seven items that were chosen were picked to give a complete picture of the fitness without repeating the same test.

The events that were picked are: pull ups, sit ups, shuttle run, standing broad jump, 50-yard dash, softball throw and 600 yard walk-run. These events will give an indication of how the participant would do in almost any test that could be given.

David Patton Is Named Captain Of 61-62 Eagles

David Patton, senior guard from Ashland, Kentucky, was named by his teammates to captain the 1961-62 Georgia Southern basketball team.

Known mainly for his defensive abilities and his knack for setting up scoring plays, Patton had an average of 8.1 on last year's team.

He received the Don Wallen Assist Award last year when he led the team in assists with 152.

SHOWN HERE are three promising freshmen who play an important part in basketball coach J. B. Searce's plans for the upcoming cage season. All three are expected to be valuable additions to the team. They are (l-r): Jamie King, Largo, Fla.; Bill Pickens, Rochester, N. Y.; and Ronnie Maravich, Clemson, S. C.

Eagles Meet Local All-Stars In Benefit Game Monday

Basketball fans in the Statesboro area are in for a real treat November 20 when the Georgia Southern Eagles will face the newly-formed Statesboro All-Stars in a benefit game to be played in the W. S. Hanner gym.

Proceeds from the game will go to the Statesboro High School Band.

The game will give basketball fans their first look at the 1961-62 Eagle squad, reputed to be one of J. B. Searce's best in many years. Probable starters for the Eagles will be Tony Thompson (6-7) and Connie Lewis (6-5) at forwards, David Patton (6-0) and Francis Florian (6-2) at the backcourt positions and giant freshman (6-9, 235 lbs.) Bill Pickens at center.

Other players who are expected to see plenty of action in the game, which will be a warm-up for the Eagles' opener December 2 against Georgia are forwards Ronnie Maravich, Harry Werner, E. G. Meybohm, and Ronnie Patton. The guard positions will be ably backed up by Terry Grooms and Jamie King. Chuck Bonavitch will back up Pickens at the center post.

Many of the members of the eight-man All-Star roster are quite familiar to Georgia Southern fans. Ronnie Rush, Jim Long, Tracy Rivers, J. E. (Go-Go) Rowe, Paul Ross, and John Donald Akins were all members of GSC teams of the past. Rounding out the squad are Buddy Grimes and W. L. (Nig) Hall. The All-Stars, coached by Clyde Miller and Oliver Rissell, will probably choose either Rush or Long to start at center, Rivers and Rowe at the forward positions, and Akins and Hall at guards. Rivers, Rowe, and Long were all outstanding members of last year's Eagle team. Long led the team in rebounding while Rowe and Rivers furnished the 1-2 scoring punch.

Although the Eagles will be heavily favored in the game, the All-Stars should put up a very interesting and thrilling battle. The GSC squad has four weeks of practice under their belts, but the All-Stars have also been working out, although for a much shorter period.

The admission for the game will be 50 cents for students and $1.00 for adults. A sixteen gauge Browning Automatic shotgun will be given away at the half.

Intramural Roundup

By ANNE HEDDEN and JOHNNIE KICKLIGHTER JR.

Tuesday, Nov. 7, the Rams defeated the Stallions by winning two out of three games. In the first game the score was 21 to 7 Stallions; the second and third games went to the Rams 21 to 9 and 16 to 10. The Leopards and the Cougars also played three games. The Cougars won the first game 21 to 16 and the Leopards won the last two 20 to 14 and 7 to 4.

On Wednesday of last week the Colts were victorious over the Gators, winning two out of three games. The Panthers defeated the Tigers 21 to 10 and 21 to 11.

The Men's Volleyball Championship game was played Tuesday, Nov. 13 between the Panthers and the Rams. The Panthers barely managed to defeat the hard playing Ram team. With scores of 22 to 21 and 21 to 19, both games were very close. We salute the Panthers as the Men's Volleyball Champions.

INTRAMURAL ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Has anyone noticed a BLOND hurrying here and there or seen a blue streak fly by? Well, think nothing about all the rush, she is an active senior from Dublin. This week's Woman Intramural Athlete, Carol Kinard, has been very active in campus life since a freshman and still going strong as a senior.

This gal is a member of Kappa Delta Epsilon, a national honorary educational fraternity for women; Organizational Presidents; Science Club (1961); and on the 1961 Reflector's organization section. Carol was 1960 Table Tennis Champion for Women at GSC and acted as president of the Modern Dance Club last year. She has taken an active part in the Intraural Program again this year.

The volleyball courts have been stomped on well by this week's Man Intramural Athlete, Sammy Price from Wrightsville, Georgia. Sammy is a senior at GSC who plans to enter the business profession. He is a tough guy to beat in a volleyball game. Sam likes all sports and can

Track And Field Club To Meet On November 29th

It was announced this week by Pat Yeager, Georgia Southern gymnastics coach and author of a new drive to form a track and field team at GSC, that the newly organized track club had thus far turned up forty volunteers and was still looking for more men to help in the organization of the squad.

At a meeting held last week, the members of the club elected officers elected were: President, Andy Pittman, Blackshear, Ga.; Vice-President, Ronnie Hodges, Louisville, Ga.; and Secretary-Treasurer, Roland Lance, Savannah, Ga.

The club is presently still in its planning stages and meets once every month. This month's meeting will be held on November 29th. The meetings usually consist of the showing of movies and discussion of track events. The exact time and place of the next meeting will be announced at a later date.

Yeager stated that the team is still in its preparatory form and that nothing definite can be announced as yet, but urged that anyone interested in joining the club come out to the next meeting. All new members will be welcomed.

Eagle Coach Ranks Pickens All-American

Is Bill Pickens to be Georgia Southern College's next basketball All-American? It is possible that Pickens will take his place in the GSC record books with the fine centers of the past years, Eagle Coach J. B. Searce Jr. says, "Yes".

Pickens, 6-9, 235 pound center from Rochester, N. Y., has played three years of Marine basketball while he was serving in the Corps. He first came to Georgia Southern last year as a member of the Camp LeJeune Marine squad. After he was discharged from the Marines he chose GSC from over 100 schools where he had scholarship offers. Coach Searce stated that the freshman has all the necessary potential to become one of Southern's all time great players.

Present day Georgia Southern became known for its fine centers back when it was known as Georgia Teachers College. In the '49 and '50 seasons, Bucky Helton was performing at the post with grace and skill that caused Searce to call him "one of the finest centers I've seen". Jim Duncan followed Helton at the center slot and he lettered at that position in 1951. The 1952 post man, Charles Whaley, was named to the all-state first team.

For the next four years the center position was played to near perfection by All-American Chester Webb. As Webb performed on the hardwood at Georgia Southern (then Georgia Teachers), he left a trail of records behind him that has not been threatened since. He became the only person to make the All-Georgia Collegiate team for four years. He was twice named to the Helms Foundation All-American teams, and for his outstanding play in 1955, he was selected as the NAIA Player of the Year. Nineteen individual Webb marks are on the record book at GSC, and there are 11 team records in the book that followed in the aftermath of Webb's uncanny scoring. No one has been able to hold the center position for two consecutive years since Webb ended his fabulous career.

To attempt to compare anyone with the almost incomparable Webb is in itself an honor, but Coach Searce stated that Pickens is a "much better player at this time than Webb was during his freshman year". Searce added that Pickens is much stronger than Webb (Pickens is three inches taller, and 50 pounds heavier), but he is not as fast.

"Bill can break Chester's records", stated Searce, "if anyone is going to break them in the near future — it will be Bill". The Eagle mentor added that he expects Pickens to improve on at least five major records before he ends his career at Southern. These records are: single game score (Webb - 47), single game rebound (Carlton Gill and Ronnie Rush - 33), season total points (Webb - 883), career total points (Webb - 2,540), and single season rebounds (Webb - 524).

In the four pre-season intra-squad games Pickens has pulled off an average of 33 rebounds and has scored an average of 39 points, scoring 48 in one game. Of course, the real test cannot be met until the season starts and Pickens steps onto the court where Webb set his all-time marks.

World's Strongest Man To Appear At Georgia Southern November 28

Paul Anderson; A Weakling At The Age Of 16

Winter of 1961-62 finds Paul Anderson of Toccoa, the Georgia weight lifter who beat the Russians, still in tip top shape and devoting his time to public appearances and efforts toward opening in 1962 of the Paul Anderson Boys Home near Vidalia, Ga.

Today Paul and Mrs. Anderson, the former Glenda Garland, a hometown girl, reside in their beautiful new home in Pine Valley, a rolling wooded area of Toccoa in the foothills of the Blue Ridge mountains. Paul spends considerable time away, but makes Toccoa his base of operations.

Paul Anderson was a weakling as a youngster, and was stricken with Brights disease at the age of seven. By high school he was the picture of health, and engaged in all competitive sports. In 1950 at the age of 16, and weighing in excess of 200 pounds, he entered Furman University, Greenville, S. C., on a football scholarship.

Begin in College

It was while in college he was encouraged by fellow football players to try his hand at weight lifting to better his physical condition for the gridiron. After only 60 days his strength completely baffled his teammates and coaches, and careful checking of the records indicated he was exceeding world records.

He gave up football temporarily to enter into weight lifting competition, a minor sport in the U. S., but a major sports activity in other parts of the

JAYNE MANSFIELD — PAUL ANDERSON

Paul Anderson, the undisputed "world's strongest man," is scheduled to appear on the Georgia Southern campus Tuesday, November 28 at the Hanner Gymnasium at 8 p.m.

Appearing with Anderson on the program will be an exhibition by the Georgia Southern gymnastics squad.

Anderson, a graduate of Toccoa High School, attended Furman University on a football scholarship.

At Furman he was introduced to weight lifting, and after less than two months training had unofficially surpassed a world's record that had stood for 30 years.

That was the start of a career that saw him defeat the Russians, travel throughout the world as a goodwill ambassador for the U. S. State Department, win the gold medal in the 1956 Olympic Games, win the professional weight lifting championship every year since 1957, and today take the lead in directing our youth in patriotism, physical fitness and high moral standards.

Anderson holds some 52 world records including the most weight lifted ever in history, an amazing 6,270 pounds. Paul Anderson weighs 360 pounds and is 5 feet, 10 1/2 inches tall. Other statistics include neck, 24; chest, 60; waist, 47; thigh, 36; calf, 22; biceps, 24; and shoe size 10 1/2.

Title Holder

He is identified as the world's strongest man, and many authorities are now calling him the strongest man who ever lived.

Anderson is not what would be called a heavy eater. He prefers Southern food, is fond of vegetables, milk, fruit juices and meat of all kinds. He is avid reader, and when not working is frequently hunting or fishing.

Paul Anderson will have a dream come true when the home is finally realized. After gaining world-wide fame and attaining ambitions of years standing, Anderson started thinking in terms of how his Godgiven talents could be directed toward helping his fellow man. As a world champion he has visited hundreds of hospitals and brought smiles to the faces of many a youngsters who were hopelessly crippled.

Several years ago he vowed that he would attempt a project of major proportions looking toward help for the physically handicapped. His idea for the Paul Anderson Boys Home is that it be started in his home state of Georgia, but eventually be national in scope. It is his feeling and that of the home's board of directors that after the home is in full operation clinics may be opened in other areas of the state.

Plans Made

Plans now call for the formal opening and dedication of the Paul Anderson Boys Home in the Spring of 1962. The Toombs County Board of Education provided a building, formerly used as a school, and this will serve as the main building for the home. It is located a few miles south of Vidalia, Ga., and officials feel it will initially accommodate almost 100 boys.

The home is to be a temporary home for physically handicapped boys; a place they may go for a limited period of time and receive the finest in physical therapy and proper exercises. Most hospitals are crowded, and a major purpose of the home will be a place a youngster may go and receive proper care after he is released from a hospital but still needs constant attention which may not be available in his own home.

Dunkel Chooses Winners Of Top Games For Week

By DICK DUNKEL

That Texas-Alabama horse race for No. 1 grid ranking will come down to a hot wire this Saturday.

Both are undefeated 8-game winners and Bama trails the Longhorns by only three-tenths of a rating point.

Much depends on how well they will handle a couple of rambunctious opponents this Saturday. The same applies to other ambitious leaders who are ready to move up should the leaders sprawl.

Here are Dunkel Rating differences showing what top teams must do this week in order to maintain the pace which they have established to date:

Texas 33 over TCU.
Alabama 16 over Ga. Tech.
Ole Miss 18 over Tennessee.
LSU 20 over Miss. State.
Minnesota 7 over Purdue.
Ohio State 22 over Oregon.
Mich. St. 15 over N'western.
Michigan 6 over Iowa.
Arkansas 18 over SMU.

Each team sets its own power index through average scoring margin relative to rating of opposition. The higher rating team has won in 76.3 percent of the 1,540 games, excluding ties, covered here so far this season.

Pars in other big games this week:

Friday Night
Vanderbilt 1 over Tulane.
Saturday
EAST — Penn State 11 over Holy Cross, Navy 14 over Virginia, Army 1 over Oklahoma, So. California 5 over Pitt, Rutgers 10 over Colgate, Dartmouth 10 over Cornell, Princeton 3 over Yale, Columbia 22 over Penn.
MIDWEST — Syracuse 3 over Notre Dame, Colorado 3 over Nebraska, Missouri 16 over Kansas State, Wisconsin 12 over Illinois.

DUNKEL COLLEGE FOOTBALL RATINGS

EXPLANATION — A Dunkel is a comparative strength rating based on the season's record to date. It sets average scoring margin relative to rating of opposition. Example: A 2- team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40-0 team against opposition of relatively equal rating. The system's operation has been continuous since its origination in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

world. After two years competing against the best in America, he joined a group and went to Russia for international competition in 1955.

When he completely outclassed the great Russian weight men on their home grounds in Moscow and Leningrad and set three brand new world's records, he was quickly tagged as "The World's Strongest Man".

Toured Under Flag

This was a great thrill to the genial and quiet-spoken Georgia youth, but even remarkable accomplishments were to follow at a fast pace. Our State Department urged that he tour the world under the banner of the Stars and Stripes and show those in distant lands our brand of sportsmanship, courage and stamina required of a truly great champion of the world. In a way it was a great contribution to his country since Paul Anderson by then was turning down the most flattering commercial offers ever accorded a strong man.

All amateurs usually join the professional ranks and Paul Anderson gracefully wrote climax on his career by winning the gold medal in the 1956 Olympic Games in Melbourne. In 1957 he turned pro and immediately performed feats of strength never before attained by man. Among these was the amazing lift of 6,270 pounds in a special back lift harness.

Anderson has appeared on The Ed Sullivan Show as well as several hundred local and network TV shows, and a motion picture for Universal-International.

The volleyball tournament has been completed. For the women, the Aces beat the Bobettes for the National division and went ahead to capture the tournament championship by defeating the Misfits of the American League. The Men's tournament volleyball champions are the Panthers of the National League. The Panthers defeated the Rams of the American League to become the victors.

Men's Leagues — Bears 248; Bobcats 148; Colts 160; Gators 108; Rams 232; Cougars 106; Leopards 72; Lions 124; Panthers 318; Tigers 152; and Wildcats 130.

Women's League—Felines 106; Belles 132; Cardinals 236; Falcons 0; Misfits 206; Ramblers 56; Hornets 96; Bobettes 280; Ponies 64; Cubs 74; Aces 202; and Rebels 56.

Tag football and speedball are now underway. Everyone is urged to get out and support your team. You need not know how to play the sport to take an active part. The rules and explanations of the game will be given before each game. The time is 4:16 behind the new gym and the schedule is as follows:

Bowling will be continued on Tuesday and Monday nights at 5:30. There has been good participation and results in bowling and a new league will be formed winter quarter. It is too late in this quarter to try and start another league. New handicaps will be figured over the Thanksgiving holidays. The point system is kept like this: 2 pts. for winning each game and 2 pts. for high score of the night. Why don't you and your friends plan to bowl next quarter? If you do not know how, now is an excellent time to learn.

Tea Tags Tell Tasters To Try Taking Treasured Time

Gypsies aren't the only people who find profitable messages in teacups. Millions of average Americans have found a laugh and occasionally a lift in the one-sentence tag lines attached to one brand of tea bag.

The messages range from rife humor — "Time tells on a man, especially a good time" — to pointed advice — "If you want to keep your friends, don't give them away" — to the inspirational prod — "Plan for the future. That's where you'll spend the rest of your life."

Love and marriage, driving and dieting, are just a few of the subjects "tagged" by the tea makers. Those melba toast with their tea may get amusement, if not comfort, from the thought that "A" diet is something to take the starch out of you." Teasing motorists are brought up short by the observation that "Everybody should learn to drive, especially those who sit behind the wheel." For romantic souls, there's a whole range of remarks, not altogether starry-eyed.

More Philosophy
"A kiss that speaks volumes is seldom a first edition."
"Stealing a kiss may be petty larceny, but sometimes it's also grand."

"Marriage is like a tourniquet — it stops your circulation."
Interested in success? Remember that "you can't keep a chip on the shoulder you put to the wheel." Friendship? "The time to make friends is before you need them." Some tag lines are pithy pointers to the straight and narrow: "Always put off until tomorrow the things you should not do today;" "If you can't write it and sign it, don't say it."

Universal Advisor
Like readers pouncing on the latest installment of a serialized story, many tea drinkers reach for the tea bag — and the next — just to see what the tag will say. But they like being kept on a string, judging from the letters that reach Salada, the company that makes the tag lined tea bags. Some teachers read the tag lines to their classes; ministers and public speakers have occasionally used them to make a point. Kids collect and trade them. An airline pilot wrote in to say that he reads a few tag lines each time he talks to his passengers over the plane's public address system!

Housewives use them in scores of different ways. Many women enclose them in letters to friends and relatives; others use them as dinner time conversation pieces. Some people paste them on cards for party place settings; for a benefit bridge party, a Michigan housewife stapled a different tag line on each tally card.

Perhaps the most unusual testimonial was given by an ambulatory patient in a large Boston hospital. He liked tag lines so much that he once sneaked out of the hospital to buy Salada Tea Bags at a nearby supermarket (the hospital used another brand). In answer to his request for some appropriate tag lines, Salada sent him a batch. Among them he found these words of hope and cheer: "A sick man who takes a turn for the nurse is getting better."

The Great Evolution
Though tag lines are relatively new, the idea has been brewing for several years. At first, Salada printed brief hints about correct tea-making on the Salada tag. In time, this gave way to advertisements, and then came the idea that has caused such a tempest in a teapot (or teacup).
John W. Colpitts, the man chiefly responsible for the new popularity of tea-reading, is anything but gypsyish in his habits. The writer and compiler of the tag lines is an advertising man who has been with Salada for 26 years, and a reserve officer in the Army and Air Force for 31. A prominent church layman, he is also director of his local bank. Long before he began to write the tag lines, he was interested in pithy sayings, mastering the art of capsule comments that aren't bitter pills.

Of course, as even Mr. Colpitts will admit, he sometimes gets carried away. Thus the tag line, psychologically sound, but anatomically difficult: "Always hold your head up, but keep your nose at a friendly level." Just try it!

On the other hand, who can quibble with a man and a company who have produced in millions of tea drinkers the warm, happy feeling that "my cup runneth over."

GSC Is Site For Grant-in-aid Test

Ralph K. Tyson, dean of students, Georgia Southern College, announces that the State Administration for grants-in-aid certification examination will be given at this college on January 20. The National Administration examination will be February 10.

Applicants for the state administration examination should write to Mrs. Sara Devine, State Department of Education. Those intending to take the National Administration test should write directly to Educational Testing Center, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey.

Suggestion Box Ideas Are Used

The student council has read and is working on several suggestions that were placed in its suggestion box in the student center, says Dianne Brannen, president.

Miss Brannen said that all students are urged to write down any constructive ideas they may have as to campus improvements and place them in the box. They will be read and discussed at the following meeting of council.

Scholarships ...

If the student fails to meet the scholastic requirements for two consecutive quarters he must forfeit the scholarship immediately. The aid the student has already received will become due at once to the State Board of Education.

Under this scholarship plan at least one student from each school system will be allotted the aid if the applicant meets the criteria above.

The amount of money appropriated each academic year (per student) does not exceed $750. If scholarship is approved by the Georgia State Board of Education, $1,000 is the maximum amount allotted.

Bogitsh Receives Additional Grant

Dr. B. J. Bogitsh, associate professor of biology, Georgia Southern College, has been awarded a grant for 1961-62 by the National Institute of Health. This is his third consecutive year for this grant.

Under this allotment, Bogitsh will be studying the "host-parasite" relationship. This is a continued study being conducted by him in the division of Science and Mathematics at Georgia Southern.

Council Pushes Operation Spirit; Awaits Approval

Tentative plans have been made by the student council to launch "Operation Spirit" Saturday, Dec. 2, according to Dianne Brannen, president.

Miss Brannen said that because this will be the day of the first GSC basketball game of the year, the council hopes to sponsor get-in-the-spirit bonfires, a parade, eagle pins and other activities.

She went on to say that tentative plans have also been made to request the cooperation of other campus organizations in this project. Patsy Ginn is acting as chairman of the committee on "Operation Spirit."

Other plans scheduled for the same weekend include the campus film Friday night and a dance following the ballgame Saturday night.

Miss Brannen stated that the plans to begin work on "Operation Spirit" are presently indefinite and will not go into effect until passed through the proper channels.
