Work Underway On Lewis Annex; Over 1,000 Applications Received

Three Per Room Seen For Mamie Veazey Hall In Fall

By ROLAND PAGE
News Editor

Ground was broken Tuesday for the construction of an annex to Lewis Hall as applications for 1962 fall quarter enrollment at GSC are swamping the dean of students office.

More than 1,000 applications for admittance to Georgia Southern have been received already, according to Deans Carolyn C. Gettys and W. H. Holcomb. They said that this figure is far ahead of last year's. About 552 women have filed application, including 227 entering freshmen. Dean Holcomb said that approximately 500 men have applied excluding those who are presently students here. He said that there are only 479 dormitory places for men, allowing three to a room.

Deadline Earlier

Dean Gettys said that because of the rush of applications this year, the deadline for presently enrolled students to submit next year's housing applications was set up three weeks earlier than last year.

Those who failed to submit housing applications and reservation fees by yesterday will be considered along with other applicants by the order in which applications come in. In other words, they will not receive priority over new students.

Dr. Zach S. Henderson estimated next year's total enrollment at 1750 to 1800 students. He said that the figure could rise to 2,000 were it not for the lack of dormitory and classroom space here.

Nine Classes Daily

Dr. Henderson announced that there will be nine class periods next year with classes meeting from 4 to 5 p.m. He said that in order to provide opportunities for more students to attend college, there will be three students to a room in Mamie

THE SECOND of the current Residence Hall Culture Series in Mamie Veazey Hall featured Howard Jackson of the business division, Miss Lucile Goughly, home economics instructor and Mrs. Jackie Strange in a program describing "The World of Changing Fashions."

Reflector Deadline Is Met; Now Being Printed

The final copy deadline of the 1962 Reflector left the campus Monday for Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas, according to Midge Lasky, editor.

The completed yearbooks are not expected back on campus until the middle of May. All students who have attended GSC for two quarters will receive an annual. The cost of the yearbook is included in the student activity fee.

All those students who have attended the school only one quarter and wish a yearbook will be asked to pay $3.50. The entire cost of the annual per student is $7.50.

Features Told

This year's Reflector contains 224 pages, a two page color spread and several duotone pages.

Special sections include administration, academics, organizations, athletics and highlights.

Some of the copies of the class pictures of students can still be obtained at the Reflector office, Room 110, in the Williams Center on Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Any pictures of students not picked up by the end of this year will be discarded. These are the individual pictures which were taken at the beginning of this year.

Bills To Be Sent

Bills to the clubs, organizations and business firms for pictures or advertisements in the Reflector will be sent immediately after the beginning of spring quarter.

Cost of the half pages are $12.50 and whole pages, $22.50. Checks should be made out to The Reflector and mailed to Furman Clift, business manager, or Public Relations Office, Box 2047, GSC.

New Catalog Will Soon Be Ready For Distribution

The Georgia Southern catalog for 1962-63 will be available in the dean's office around March 10 according to Paul F. Carroll, dean of the college.

A number of changes have been made in the undergraduate program. The new listings of college degrees include the A.B. degree in French and the B.S. in industry.

Outlines of additional academic courses have been added since the last publication with some changes in the description of current courses.

A master of arts in history has been added to the graduate program, a major in mathematics at the fifth year, and majors in English, Science, and social science at the sixth year. Also included are industrial arts and elementary education.

The new grading system makes provision for pluses. With this new provision new regulations have been made for the dean's list. The ratio is now 3.8.

Slight changes have been made in scholarship standards with clarification of regulations pertaining to the scholarships. Summer school bulletins are now available in the dean's office.

Powell To Give Poetry Talk In Culture Series

Roy F. Powell of the Georgia Southern College English division, will present a lecture in Deal Hall Tuesday night, at 8 p.m., according to Dean Carolyn C. Gettys.

Powell, who will lecture on poetry, will be participating in the current "Dormitory Lecture Series," newly initiated at GSC. The series began about three weeks ago and five lectures have been presented in the women's dormitories since then. Powell's will be the sixth.

Dean Gettys said that a complete roster of topics is now being compiled. She added that it is hoped this series can be planned on a quarterly basis.

Commenting on the success of the series, Dean Gettys said that the number of persons who have expressed favorable impressions on the lectures seems to indicate that they are fulfilling their purpose.

ACE Officers To Be Installed At March 7 Meeting

The new officers of ACE (Association for Childhood Education) will be installed on March 7.

Officers elected for the term of spring, 1962 through winter, 1963 are:

Martha Jane Barton, president; Carleen Rahn, vice-president; Sandra Holt, second vice-president; Mary Kent Gillenwater, third vice-president; Elaine Smith, secretary-treasurer.

Those assisting will be: Madge Surles, Judy Lee, Scottie Hart, Harriet Dopson, Kay Davis, and Kitty Pikulski.

Band Concert Set For Monday In Auditorium

The Georgia Southern College Concert Band and Jazz Ensemble will present a concert of classical, popular, and jazz music in McCroan Auditorium Monday, March 5, according to Fred K. Grumley, conductor.

In addition to the students playing in the band, the concert will feature solos by Georgia Southern music instructor Robert Gerken and Ralph Montgomery, of the Savannah Symphony.

The band presents a concert once a quarter. A schedule of the numbers to be played at this winter quarter production follows: "El Conquistador" by Tarver, "First Suite in E-Flat for Military Band," by Holst, "Concertino" by Weber (a clarinet solo by Robert Gerken), "Water Music Suite" by Weber, "Czardas" by Monti and Mendez (trumpet solo by Ralph Montgomery).

Also: "Beguine for Band" by Osser, "Percussion Espagnole" by Prince, and "Symphony No. 1 in G Minor" by Kalinikov.

Following intermission, the Symphonic Jazz Ensemble will take the stage. The band will be assisted by the brass choirs from Statesboro and Effingham County High Schools. There is no admission fee.

Ham Radio Club Seeking Letters To Heart Patient

By PHYLLIS ANDERSON
Staff Reporter

A seventeen year old girl, living in Albuquerque, New Mexico, is dying of an incurable heart disease. There is little to do to occupy her mind during the last trying days of her life. She is able to perform only one normal activity, that is, to enjoy reading.

Georgia Southern's ham radio club, station WA4TDF, makes contact with other college stations all over the United States. On February 21, the story of young Nancy Norris was learned when WA4TDF made contact with W5MYM in Truth or Consequences, New Mexico. The New Mexico station is making an attempt to contact stations wherever possible to relate Nancy's plight and to bring interesting, cheerful, and informative mail to Nancy's home in an effort to provide reading to occupy her mind.

W5MYM asked that Georgia Southern convey this information to other stations over the country as well as to GSC students, according to Vernon Ownbey, president of the WA4TDF club. Students who would like to write Nancy may send their letters to: Nancy Norris, 3908 Goodrich N.E., Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Flu Shots Given For Second Round

Ninety-three students from Cone and Sanford Halls were given influenza shots as of Wednesday as the second round of the student council's anti-flu drive went into action.

This second round of vaccination began Tuesday morning with Cone Hall and will end next Wednesday at 5 p.m. with the day students.

The shots are being administered in the health cottage between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Nurse Muriel Bryant said that the vaccine cuts to a great extent the chances of catching Asian Influenza of the Types A and B.

Nurse Bryant said that in order for the vaccine to be effective, persons must be vaccinated twice the first year, and then renew the shots once per year after that.

All students of Georgia Southern College are eligible to receive these shots which are financed through the student health fund that was paid at the beginning of the quarter.

The student council began this drive to have all GSC students vaccinated last October. Those who didn't receive their first shots then, may do so now.

The vaccine being used is not to be confused with the cold vaccine that has been used on campus. After effects from the Flu vaccine are very rare and very slight.

Students in Anderson Hall received their shots yesterday. Deal Hall students are being vaccinated today. The remaining students to receive shots are scheduled as follows:

Monday, Lewis Hall; Tuesday, Mamie Veazey Hall; Wednesday, day students.

Nurse Dorothy Wiggins at the health cottage stated that while vaccination is not compulsory, all students are urged to take advantage of this rare opportunity.

HERE IS HOW THE NEW RADIO program "This Is Georgia Southern" is taped before being broadcast of WWNS radio in Statesboro. In the above scene, Ric Man'ez, public relations director, Jack Broucek, music professor and interviewee, and Ed Abercrombie, are taping a recent program in the film library.

Recital Features Composition Of Late Dr. Hooley

Tuesday night, fifteen GSC students performed in the winter quarter music recital. The highlight of the recital was the debut performance of a composition written by the late Dr. Daniel S. Hooley.

Rod Medders, Brunswick, played the composition which was a selection for flute. The recital began at 7:30 in the recital hall of the music building.

Other students who performed are as follows: Noel Benson, Statesboro; Liha Gillis, Waycross; Rosemary Bailey, Tifton; Quinette Douglas, Macon; Wendell Lewis, Statesboro; Charlotte Rogers, Jacksonville, Fla.

Also: Tommy Fouche, St. Simons Island; Jack Myers, Washington; Robert Murff, Statesboro; Janette Waters, Savannah; Jayne Bragan, Brooklet; Bill Lawson, Ball Ground; Patty Jo Aaron, South Bend, Ind.

Students of music present a recital once a quarter. This was the winter quarter production.

Two Divisions Make Changes For Spring

Course changes in the business division and a course offering in the science division for the spring quarter were announced this week by Dr. S. L. Loumey, chairman of the business division, Dr. John Boole, chairman of the science and math division and Paul F. Carroll, dean of the college.

The changes were necessary because of space and instructor scheduling. Changes include one cancellation, one addition, and seven changes.

Business 201, Accounting, originally scheduled for the second period, has been cancelled. Business 202C, Accounting has been added and will be taught the first period.

Following are the seven schedule changes: Business 304, Advanced Accounting from fifth period to third period; Business 415, Business Law I from fifth to third period; Business 416, Business Law II from first to fifth period; Business 342A, Office Machines from first to second period; Business 442, Office

Practice from fourth to third period; Business 318, Business Correspondence from first to fourth period; and Business 202A, Accounting from third period to fourth period.

All of the Accounting courses numbered in the 200's also require a laboratory period immediately following the designated period the course will be offered.

In the division of math and science, Qualitative Analysis, Chemistry 300 will be taught spring quarter. The number of students which can be accommodated for this course is limited. For that reason and also because the course is only offered once a year, students will be pre-registered for this course only. Mr. J. C. Wilber will teach the course and will pre-register interested students between now and the end of this quarter.

Students who failed the course in the past, but have passed the laboratory portion need only to sign up for the lecture.

Week Of Religious Emphasis Altered

Religious Emphasis Week has been replaced by a program of lectures by well-known scholars, according to Dr. Samuel T. Habel, chairman of the committee on religion at Georgia Southern.

At a recent meeting, the committee on religion, composed of Dr. Habel, Mrs. Marjorie Guardia, and Dr. George Stopp, recommended the following changes:

(1) The abolishment of Religious Emphasis Week because of the poor attendance of students in preceding years.

(2) The inauguration of a new plan whereby the committee annually invites an outstanding scholar in the field of religion or philosophy to conduct one or more seminars for those wishing to attend. That students attending be excused from conflicting classes, and that one open evening lecture to which all religious and professional leaders of the outlying community, the general public, and faculty and students be invited, be held.

(3) That the religious groups set up an annual program of activities to be approved by the committee.

These plans have been approved, but the dates that they will go into effect have not yet been determined.

INTERVIEWS SET

Three representatives of DeKalb County Schools will be on campus Tuesday, March 6, to interview prospective teachers for the 1962-63 school year. Interested students may contact them at the Student Center, Room 114, between the hours of 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Sweetheart Ball Is Tomorrow

The Sweetheart Ball will be held tomorrow night at the alumni building at 8 p.m., according to Joe Patti. This dance is most important of the winter quarter. It is sponsored annually by the sophomore class.

Patti added, that the entertainment of the evening will be presented by "The Wayne Tones" from Jesup. Surrounding the atmosphere of the band, will be miniature sweethearts dangling about overhead. Another highlight for the evening includes a "Twist Contest."

Dress for the evening will be semi-formal. According to Patti, admission for the ball is $2.00 per couple or $1.00 stag.

Exam Schedule

The winter quarter examination schedule will run from March 9 through March 13, according to Dean Paul F. Carroll.

The recently released schedule runs as follows: Friday, March 9, 8 a.m., first period classes; 1 p.m., second period classes; Saturday, March 10, 8 a.m., third period classes; 1 p.m., fourth period classes; Monday, March 12, 8 a.m., fifth period classes; 1 p.m., sixth period classes.

Also: Tuesday, March 13, 8 a.m., seventh period classes; 1 p.m., eighth period classes. The winter quarter term will end on March 13. Dormitories will open for spring quarter activities on March 18. Registration will be held from 9:30 a.m. until 12 p.m., and from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. March 19.

Saturday Tests, Classes Need Routine Schedule

Well, they've done it again. Finals are scheduled on March 10 — a day like all others except for one small detail. It's a Saturday and supposedly one of a student's and teacher's two days of REST.

The student body really thought things couldn't get any rougher when classes were held on Saturdays at the beginning of this quarter. But—leave it up to some persons and they'll always do their best to cause others to suffer. Now we're to have tests on Saturday. That is really scraping the bottom of the barrel to find ways to keep students on campus over the weekend.

As long as tests are to be given on a Saturday and it is written in the catalogue that classes will be held on Saturday, March 24, a suggestion seems to be the order of the situation.

We'd like you to think back to those weekends at the beginning of this quarter when classes were in session. Friday night students were using the facilities at the Rosenwald Library. At about 9 p.m., all of a sudden, the lights went out. Why? Because the library was observing its regular weekend rules.

After the 12 noon class was over the next day, as usual, some students headed for the snack bar, for the book store to get some paper, or to cash a check in the business office. These were closed. Why? Because they were observing their usual weekend schedule.

Saturday night at suppertime we had some students who went to the dining hall at their usual time. If they went over there after 5:45 p.m., they found the doors closed. Why? The dining hall was observing its regular weekend schedule.

It only seems logical that it the students and instructors are required to maintain their usual routine on the weekend, then the facilities on campus which fulfill their needs should also observe a weekday schedule.

Serve Our Day Student -- Provide Lockers

The problem of having a place to leave books during the day has become a pressing one which definitely needs immediate attention and action.

Day students, especially, need a safe place to leave their books for two reasons: first, the parking areas are often too far away from the classrooms for the commuting student to go to his car between periods. Also the student usually has so much material to use throughout the day that he cannot carry it with him at all times.

Secondly, all of us know that when books are just left lying in the Williams Center, they are an open invitation for someone to pick up and not replace.

There seems to be no answer to this problem at present, but for the student to have his books with him at all times which is rather cumbersome.

One other reason which seems to warrant a solution to this problem is that the books cluttering the tables in the snack bar and activity room during the day don't help the appearance of the Center. These books further complicate the problem of keeping the building clean.

A logical solution to this situation would be to place lockers at strategic points on campus. Books and materials belonging to day students could be placed in these lockers thus relieving them of their burdensome load.

Campus students could also take advantage of using these lockers since, as we grow, the dormitories get farther away from the location of the classroom buildings.

The lockers could be rented on a quarterly basis and in time would pay for themselves. After the initial cost purchasing expense is met, the money made from the renting of the boxes could be used for other worthwhile purposes.

How To Ruin An Organization

A few weeks ago the George-Anne wrote an editorial suggesting a way to improve organizations on the campus and at the same time eliminate those campus groups which are existing and hardly doing that.

We are still of the opinion that this campus would be considerably bettered by getting rid of the deadwood and allowing those organizations to exist which really perform services for the school and student body.

The editorial staff of the Reflector found in their search for facts to write a couple of short paragraphs about the organizations that many of them couldn't list activities for the year. Also many of the members and officers couldn't state their purposes without referring back to their constitutions.

Recently we obtained some information stating the steps to be taken in order TO RUIN ANY CHAPTER OR ORGANIZATION. Take a look through them and see how you as a member, or as an officer, are stacking up.

1. Don't go to meetings.
2. If you go, go late and disrupt entire meeting.
3. If weather doesn't suit you, just don't go.
4. If you go, find fault with the officers and all members.
5. Never accept any office.
6. Get sore if not accepted to a committee, but if you are appointed, don't attend meetings.
7. If you are asked to give your opinion, say that you have nothing to say until the meeting is over; then talk.
8. Do nothing to help, but when others use their abilities, say it is run by a clique.
9. Don't pay dues.
10. Don't bother about attracting new members.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

AND, SIR, IN JUNE I EXPECT TO BE GRADUATED. HEY ED, HOW DO YOU SPELL GRADUATED?

In a brightly bordered "Monthly Review" for February, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta has presented some thought-provoking facts about income growth in the South and the changing economic environment which surrounds this growth.

It is required for businessmen, politicians and Southern citizens of all walks who are concerned about the future of the region. By the end of 1961, personal income in the United States rose 3.6 per cent over the 1960 figure. Income in the six Southern states of the Sixth Federal Reserve District increased by 3.9 per cent.

South Still Behind "The similarity between the rate of income growth during 1961 in this part of the South and in the nation means, of course, that at best this area made no immediate progress in solving the long-range problem of raising its income to the national level," said the "Review" writer, Charles T. Taylor.

Per capita income in Southern states in 1961 was 73 per cent of the United States average, the same per cent as in 1960, but less than the figure for 1959.

In the years following World War II, the South was able to ride the crest of national economic developments to greater solvency and wealth. It had abundant natural resources and a large labor force with which to lure industry from other parts of the nation in the general expansion that followed the war. Income in the region rose as manufacturing jobs became available and as industry moved into the region.

But what of the future?

Education Can Help

Southern states are finding "if they are to obtain the kind of manufacturing plants they want, they... have to offer such inducements as high labor skills, research opportunities and educational facilities in addition to the standard attractions of nearness to markets, good transportation and a potentially large labor force."

In short, education is going to play a determining role from here on out in the South's effort to catch up with the nation economically.

Many of the post-war conditions favorable to the South are no longer effective in determining the strength or growth of the economy, and manufacturing employment is no longer expanding vigorously. As a result, the South is finding that it takes more than tax concessions or the provision of plants financed through public credit to attract industry to its borders.

It takes new and better job opportunities, involving more highly trained manpower.

Growth In Professions

"Judging by recent trends, there are likely to be more new job opportunities throughout the nation for those who work with their minds than for those who work solely with their hands," the "Review" continued. "If the pattern of the immediate past continues, the greatest growth in employment will be among professional and technical workers and may take place outside manufacturing itself."

This is borne out by studies from individual Southern universities. At the University of Georgia, a study based on new

SOMETIMES NOT AT ALL

Except for the tournament this weekend, and we hope another tournament soon in Kansas City, the Georgia Southern Eagles basketball season is fast drawing to a close. All during the season Eagle fans have been able to follow the team to all away games via radio.

Radio station WWNS in Statesboro has carried all of the Eagle games this season, both home and away. Although most of the fans were able to see the majority of the home games it was good to know that when the team was on the road a flip of the radio switch was all that was needed.

The radio station could not do the job alone, however. It took sponsors. The following businesses in Statesboro paid to present the games to the fans. They were: Sea Island Bank, Franklin Chevrolet Company, Franklin Day-Night Restaurant, Southern Discount, Trans Oil Company Service Stations, and the Independent Insurance Agencies of Statesboro. These companies have been performing a fine service for the Georgia Southern students.

If you will check the advertisements in the GEORGE-ANNE you will also find that many of these same businesses advertise regularly in our campus paper. The best way to say thanks for what these merchants have done is to patronize them regularly.

Incidentally, the games this weekend form the District 25 Tournament in Atlanta will also be broadcast by WWNS.

Every month the Reader's Digest sends out a college Press Kit with selections from the magazine to college newspapers throughout the country. The GEORGE-ANNE is one of the papers which receives this service. Included in the kit this month are some little known facts from the Reader's Digest. Because they are both interesting and informative we'll pass a few of them along here.

Recent tests indicate that most tivation plays a large part in fatigue, says a March Reader's Digest article. Volunteers who stayed awake for 72 hours at a time became terribly tired at 70 hours as the sleepless period was drawing to a close. But when the test ran 96 hours they did not become tired until 94 hours had elapsed. The figures indicate that the will to finish the test played a role in staying off fatigue until the final sleepless hours.

Most powerful financial institution on earth is the 267-year-old Bank of England, says the March Reader's Digest. Of its 4500 employees, half are women. Many of these devote their time to examining hundreds of thousands of used bank notes in a search for counterfeiters. Reward for turning up a bogus note — the finder gets the afternoon off.

The Soviet Union has used its veto no less than 99 times to block action by the United Nations since 1945. The March continued on page 3

A Square Deal

By BILLY DEAL

The hour was near midnight. It was cloudy and there were no stars in sight. The campus was quiet; the day was dying; it was time for sleep in Cone Hall.

But not for long.

The bewitching tranquility was suddenly shattered by a despicable buzzer, which came forth with such volume that it cracked 23 windows in a downtown store.

Then there was activity everywhere. One guy, broke his leg when he jumped from the top bunk to turn off his alarm clock.

The house mother was covering 25 feet per second in her effort to get everybody out of the dorm.

Finally, somebody slipped up and happened to mention what it was all about. The young men of Cone Hall were going through the rigors of their first fire drill of 1962. It would prove to be quite an experience.

Down on the first floor, four guys refused to leave because they were in the middle of a tied-up Rook game, and everybody had a 13-card suit.

One guy blew some cigarette smoke under the door of one room on the second floor, and all three occupants went through the window at the same time. That was real messy.

The house mother and the house council members were going at full speed now, trying to clear the rooms.

They encountered a second floor resident struggling with a big box as he tried to make it safely outside. One house council member asked the boy what was in the box. He explained that if the dorm was burning, he was certainly going to save all of his Roy Acuff records.

They made it clear that it was only a drill, and the boy fainted from relief.

Back down on the first floor, one guy thought it was time to get up and grabbed his razor and shaving cream and headed for the bathroom. When he got into the hall, he was trampled in the stampede.

But the hour was late. The young men of Cone are usually in bed by 10 p.m., and they weren't exactly awake when the drill started. But 15 minutes of that noise would wake up the Egyptian mummies.

One sleep-loving soul drug himself out, put on his robe and clemmored out toward the fire escape by his window. He was halfway down when he realized there was no fire escape by his window.

Two guys had just walked into the shower and were happily singing as they applied the Palmolive. They heard the alarm but decided by the time they got out it would be all over. So they just added more soap and continued singing.

Meanwhile, four wing monitors were getting ready to carry them out and the buzzer stopped. The men started filing back in. It was all over. Cone Hall chalked up the loss of four wing monitors and two very soapy dissenters.

The march down the halls made a colorful sight. One guy was decked out in a shocking pink bathrobe; another was safely concealed by a bath towel with a map of Walhalla, S. C., on it; one guy had on a shirt, tie, sport coat and one sock. He was obviously caught in a bad moment.

There were polka dot pajamas, red underwear and sometimes no underwear at all. It was a soul searching experience.

But the Cone Hall residents are unanimous on one decision — midnight fire drills we can do without.

Inquiring Reporter

By AGNES FARKAS, Staff Reporter

Which is better, the semester system or the quarter system? This has been a controversial issue among college people recently. The Inquiring Reporter decided to get the viewpoint of a few Georgia Southern students. The following questions were asked: (1) Would you rather be under the quarter system or the semester system? (2) Do you think all colleges in the U.S. should be coordinated under the same system, either quarter or semester? Here are the answers:

Colette Collins, Statesboro — (1) I think the quarter system is best. It's easier to concentrate on fewer subjects. You're less likely to get bored if you change subjects every three months. (2) I think all the colleges should get together one way or another so you wouldn't lose when you transferred from one type to the other.

Charles Thompson, Savannah — (1) I'd rather be on the quarter system. I think under the semester system exams pile up on you too fast. I was under the semester system for two years. There's too much strain at exam time. Besides that you have exams after Christmas. (2) Yes, because when I came here, I lost a lot of hours.

Nancy Pocock, Warner Robins — (1) I definitely prefer the quarter system because I think it's more profitable to have concentrated study in a few subjects over a shorter period of time. (2) Yes, because so many students lose credits by transferring from one system to another.

Sonny Strickland, Moultrie —

(1) I definitely like the quarter system better, but I haven't been under the semester so I can't really say. I've heard exams under the semester system are definitely harder because you have many exams over maybe a three day period. (2) No, because every school is an individual school.

Lois Faith, Dalton — (1) Quarter system. I went to high school under the semester system, and I didn't like having exams twice a year. It covered too much territory at once. (2) It would help transferring.

Phil Russell, Dublin — (1) Quarter system. Who wants to come back to school after Christmas and take tests. (2) Yes, I want to go to Ft. Lauderdale when everyone else is down there.

Katherine Peacock, Eastman — I'd rather have the semester system because I feel you'd spend more time on some subjects and get a little more out of them. I feel that I'm just getting interested when the quarter is ending. (2) Yes, it would make transferring easier.

Herbert Williams, Sylvania — I think the semester system would be better because a student could get settled down with his subjects. He could get more benefit that way than by taking three different groups of subjects through the year. (2) I don't think it matters.

Jeannie Hodges, Statesboro — (1) The quarter system. Most colleges are on the quarter system, and it's easier for students to transfer if they're on the quarter system. (2) Yes, it would be easier for students to transfer from one college to another.

Chris Fuse, Augusta — The quarter system because you don't have to worry about exams during the Christmas holidays. (2) It would be a good idea because if you moved out of state and wanted to transfer to another school, you'd have the same system and wouldn't lose any credits.

Madge Surles, Preston — The quarter system because you don't have to have so many subjects at one time and no Saturday classes. (2) I think all schools ought to be on the quarter system, and then it would be easier to transfer if you were interested in transferring.

Jimmy Hollingsworth, Atlanta — (1) I think the quarter system. It's not so monotonous; it gives you a break. (2) Yes, if I wanted to transfer to another school, I wouldn't lose credits.

Deryl Summerall, Augusta — (1) I'd rather be on the semester system. You have more time to learn; you can get more done. And in the quarter you don't have time to get things done. (2) Yes, a lot of people get real messed up if they want to transfer from one system to the other.

Joe Coursey, Lyons — (1) I think I'd rather be on the quarter system because under the semester system you'd have more subjects to take, and under the quarter system you have less subjects to concentrate on. (2) Yes, I think that would be good, but I don't think they ever will.

Scoring WITH Scott

by Johnny Scott

LET'S GO TO ATLANTA

The Eagles take on Stetson University, a team they split with in their two regular season games, in the first round of the NAIA District 25 Playoff this Friday night in Atlanta. If enough GSC students can make the trip, the moral support will help the Eagles in their quest of the title. Everyone who can get a ride to the games is urged to come up and support the Eagles. Should GSC win the first game against Stetson, they will meet the winner of the Jacksonville-Oglethorpe fray, probably Oglethorpe. The tournament is being played on Oglethorpe's home court and the Petrels will surely have plenty of support from their fans. We cannot expect to match the Oglethorpe following, but at least we can support the Eagles as well as possible.

JU TOPS EAGLES

The Eagles lost their final season appearance last week, falling to Jacksonville University, 118-102. Roger Strickland, the Dolphins' uncanny scoring ace, zipped 52 points through the nets as he took over the first-place position among scorers in the nation's small colleges.

I hate to say "I told you so", but my prediction some weeks back turned out to be precisely correct. The forecast made before the final four games of the season were played, predicted that we would win three of the final four season, losing to Jacksonville, and our final record would be 14-12. I told you so!

Fifteen junior college basketball squads invaded the GSC campus last week for the State Junior College Tournament held here annually. GSC students who went to the game saw a different brand of basketball than they are accustomed to watching, as the fast-breaking, foul-filled tourney progressed. Although the first two nights produced mostly mismatches and run-away games (winning margins of 52, 46, and 41 points), the last two nights furnished a little better competition. The top four teams in the tourney turned out in this order: (1) Young Harris; (2) South Georgia; (3) Norman; and (4) Brewton Parker.

SPRING IS IN THE AIR at Georgia Southern and everyone knows that in the spring a young man's fancy turns to... Well the students pictured above have their fancy turned to tennis. These students are taking advantage of the six tennis courts on the south side of the campus. If you look closely you may be able to pick out the members of the tennis team who will soon begin to represent the college in matches. Their first appearance will be at Fort Gordon where they will participate in exhibition matches over the spring holidays.

Eagles End Season With 14-12 Record; Florian is Top Scorer

By DON GALE

The Eagles of Georgia Southern finished their regular college season last Saturday in a race-horse game that saw a total of 220 points scored by both teams.

Even though the Eagles broke the 100 point mark that all colleges seek, they lost to the Dolphins of Jacksonville University, 118-102.

Eagles Fall To Jax In Final Tilt

The 1961-62 version of Georgia Southern's basketball Eagles ended their regular court play Saturday night as they fell before the scoring onslaught of Roger Strickland and the Jacksonville University Dolphins. The final score was 118-102, and it was the second time that the Eagles had broken the 100 mark.

Top Eagle scorer Fran Florian scored 26 points and Bill Pickens hit 24 markers. John Burton added 14.

Although two Eagles hit for over 20 points, Roger Strickland carried off top honors as he broke his old scoring record and poured in 52 points. He hit 18 field goals and converted 16 foul shots. Ralph Tiner carried off second honors with 35 points.

Friday night the Eagles will face Stetson University in the first round of the District 25 NAIA playoffs.

For the season, the Eagles had a bright record on the home court with a 11-1 mark losing only to Tampa University, but on the road the story sang a sadder tune for the GSC group with the final tally being 3-11 to give the Eagles a 14-12 total.

Georgia Southern still managed to end up in the top-seeded spot for the NAIA 25th District and now will be going to Atlanta for the District Championship play-offs on March 2-3. Stetson College will be the first opponents for the Eagles in the play-offs while Oglethorpe will match talent with Jacksonville. The Georgia Southern-Stetson contest will start off the tournament at 7:00 p.m. Friday, March 2nd.

The entire season has been marked with a series of close ones. The Eagles were involved in nine games where the margin of victory was 2 points or less. Two overtime games enter the record book this year. A double overtime game was played at Oglethorpe with the Eagles dropping that one 67-77 and a single overtime game with the Indians of Newberry College had the GSC team on top 59-57.

Team wise the Eagles hit their field goals at a 42% clip while tallying the free throws at a 66% mark. For the season the Eagles just outscored their opponents 1943-1905.

Georgia Southern Accepts Bid To Play In New Ga. Invitation Classic

The Georgia Southern Eagles have recently accepted an invitation to participate in a basketball round-robin tournament to be held in Savannah next December 27, 28, and 29.

Georgia Southern will represent one of the four teams scheduled to be in the cage event. The other teams will be the University of Georgia, the University of Alabama, and Florida State. The event is the first of its kind to come to Savannah, and in future years it is expected to become a six-team tournament.

The three day affair will be held in Savannah's new Sports Center at the National Guard Armory. The name of the event will be called the Georgia Invitational Classic. It will be held in memory of the late Joseph S. Espy, a prominent Savannah businessman-sportsman.

Coach "Red" Lawson's Georgia Bulldogs will be the host team annually in the event.

In addition to these, the Peace Corps can draw on some 18,000 applications in its files.

Reader's Digest reports this figure and compares it with those of other major powers: France has used its veto four times, the United Kingdom twice and China just once. The United States has never used its veto.

Gymnasts Defeat La. State And Texas Aggies

By HOYT CANADY

The Georgia Southern Eagles gymnastics team captured two victories and lost one on their recent road trip to the Southwest.

The Eagles defeated Louisiana State, 64½-47, on a Friday night, lost to Southwestern Louisiana, 29½-32, the following night, and trounced Texas A&M, 56½-29½, on the following Monday. The team returned to the campus last Wednesday and will begin preparing themselves for the Southeastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics meet which will be held here on March 24.

Thus far, D. C. Tunison leads the Eagles in scoring with 145 points; he is followed by Raymond Majors with 126 points. Peder Lunde is third with 72 points, Stanley McCallar fourth with 62, Sammy Andrews fifth with 52, and Robert Smith has 41.

The Eagles' record now stands at seven wins and two losses. Coach Yeager and his squad are to be commended for the fine performances the team has shown so far this season. In only their second year of intercollegiate competition, they have proven themselves to be one of the South's finest gymnastics teams.

In their seven wins this season, they have defeated by large margins some of the best gym teams fielded in this section. A seven point loss to Georgia Tech in Atlanta which was evened when the Jackets came here, and a defeat at the hands of powerful Southwestern Louisiana, the only team showing any superiority to the Eagles, have been their only setbacks of the season. On their recent trip to the Southwest, the gymnastics coach of the Louisiana State Tigers stated in the school's newspaper, "The LSU Daily Reveille," that Georgia Southern has one of the most up and coming schools in gymnastics. Those who have seen the Eagles in action this season can certainly agree with this statement.

Y-H Beats South Georgia For Title

Sparked by the dazzling passing and superb dribbling of Larry Cart, the Young Harris Mountain Lions downed the South Georgia College Tigers and emerged as the 1962 Georgia Junior College Champions. The Lions averaging 101 points per game were held to only 64 points by Scottie Perkins' Tigers, but South Georgia could only score 54 as they received their first defeat of the year.

In the consolation game Norman College's Hamill McNair poured in 29 points as Norman College whipped Brewton Parker 67 to 63.

Don Rowland had 16 points for the losers and Bill Sutton added 11.

In the finals Cart was the scoring leader for the Lions with 25. He was followed by Gene Lewis with 13 and Phil Meadows with 10. Meadows scored all of his points in the last half.

Charles Carmical was top man for the Tigers with 16. Raymond Reynolds had 12 and R. L. Dixon added 10.

Young Harris placed four of its five starters on the All-Tournament team. Larry Cart, Phil Meadows, Roger Arington, and Gene Lewis were the Lions to make the honored team.

Ed Clark was the only member of the All-Tournament squad he did not see action in all the games. His team, Armstrong, was eliminated in the second round. Raymond Reynolds, R. L. Dixon, and Everett Copeland were members of the South Georgia team that made the squad. McNair of Norman College and Rowland of Brewton Parker round out the team.

Little Known Facts

From The Reader's Digest

A program of "dollars for scholars" started in Fall River, Mass., is helping thousands of students through college, the March Reader's Digest reports. It is supported by private contributions, makes small grants to needy and deserving students. Founded by the Citizens' Scholarship Foundation of America in 1958, the program will have an estimated 100 chapters in 30 states by next June and will award some 1500 scholarships with a total cash value of $750,000.

Veazey Hall. That dormitory presently has only two to a room.

Meanwhile, ground was broken Tuesday for the construction of an annex to Lewis Hall which will house 78 women. Dr. Henderson said that the annex, when completed, will consist of 26 student rooms, a house director's apartment, and an activities room.

Cost Is $150,000

He estimated the cost of the annex at $150,000. He said that it is hoped the annex will be ready for use by fall quarter, 1962. Alford and Liles Construction Company of Fitzgerald is building the annex.

Dr. Henderson also stated that bids were opened February 20 for the construction of two new dormitories on the Georgia Southern Campus. The new dormitories, one men's and one women's, will consist of 75 rooms apiece. He said that present hopes are that construction of these buildings will begin by April 1 of this year.

SUMMER JOBS

Dr. George Stopp, Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, has received several answers in reply to the letters sent out regarding camp jobs. Please contact Dr. Stopp in his office in the Alumni Building immediately if interested.

These camp jobs are in the southern states and a couple in the mid-west.

Jobs are available for anyone who wants to work and can meet the requirements; let Dr. Stopp prove this to you.

Job Openings Of 26 Firms Listed For Students And Graduates

Approximately 26 business firms have contacted the GSC Student Placement Center and expressed a need for college students and graduates for summer employment, according to Dean W. H. Holcomb, co-director.

The correspondence with the firms followed a recent letter sent by Holcomb to every industrial concern in the state. The letter informed them of the trained personnel from this college that may be available to these firms.

Some of the employment opportunities include the following:

For Summer Employment: One firm wants 50 college men to work with civic clubs in organizing charity campaigns. It offers $40 per week plus $10 per day for expenses. This is a nation-wide program and 30 positions are still available for GSC men.

Regional Campus...

census figures estimates that in the '60's seven out of every ten new jobs in Georgia will be in "service" industries—jobs other than agriculture, manufacturing, construction and mining.

Florida alone will require three times as many engineers and scientists by 1980 as it had in 1958, the University of Florida reports.

Education Is Improving
The region's economic future depends upon our ability to train Southern workers for the economic environment of years to come.

"The South has demonstrated in the past that change is possible," said Mr. Taylor. "Previous efforts toward improving education are beginning to appear in the form of a better trained labor force. With the renewed concern for improving the South's education systems, especially higher education, and an extension of technical and vocational training in many areas, the South is apparently preparing itself for whatever the future may bring."

It's worth saying again: Education is an investment. And it's time to increase the number of our shares.

For The Graduates: Twelve college graduates are needed for work in the fields of science and industrial technology, by one company.

Another is looking for a district manager who will assist in the management of five plants.

Graduates in Physical Education and recreation are needed by the Veteran's Administration.

Another company needs graduates in chemistry and also has business management vacancies.

A sales company reported a need for five graduates in accounting.

A Chemical Company would interview chemistry and secretarial science majors whom it could employ by April 1.

Other openings included opportunities for architectural draftsmen, mechanical technologists, mathematicians, quality control technicians, and graduates as trainees for supervisory positions.

Holcomb said that most of these firms expressed a desire to visit the campus and interview prospective employees. He said that any student interested in these and many other job opportunities, should contact either him or Dean Ralph Tyson, in the Student Placement Center located in the Administration Building.

The dean also stated that students may consult a summer employment directory now available in the Center. It contains 15,000 job opportunities.

Alumni To Hold Luncheon Soon

The Georgia Southern alumni luncheon will be held in Atlanta during GEA week according to plans released by the Public Relations Office.

The luncheon will be held in the Sky Room of the Dinkler Plaza Hotel on Friday, March 23 at 12:30 p.m. It will coincide with the GEA convention March 21-24.

Tickets 2.50 per person, may be purchased now by writing the Public Relations office. They will go on sale Thursday afternoon and Friday morning in the Lobby of the Municipal Auditorium. They will also be available at the luncheon site.
