Will An Honor System Work?

Cheating, lying, stealing, and plagiarism, etc. have long been major problems in colleges and universities all over the United States.

A sufficient means of combating this disgraceful situation has constantly deluded the scores of integrative individuals who have searched for it.

The students at the University of Georgia seem to feel that they have found the ideal solution to this. n a recent issue of THE RED AND BLACK, the University's student newspaper, the constitution of a proposed student Honor Council was printed.

This council was to be the guardian of a new self-imposed honor system suggested by the students. Under this system, students believed to be guilty of the offenses listed above, plus several others, would be tried, heard, and either convicted or acquitted by a student-elected honor court.

If found guilty, the court would have the power to inflict quite severe punishment, such as permanent expulsion from the university.

One of the offenses listed in the University's constitution is "Failure to Report a Violation." In other words, students failing to report persons whom they know have committed an offense, may find themselves being tried before the court.

Ideologically, the University's proposed system seems to be a good, strong plan with excellent possibilities. It could have the potential to unite the school's entire personnel in an effort to give strength to a code of honor. It could unite the honorable students of the school against the already united dishonorable ones.

Georgia Southern, along with most of the other colleges and universities in the nation, is plagued with the problems listed above. Various persons here have also searched for a way in which to combat the decadent behavio

(1) Will elections of council members end up as a popular vote? (2) Will this popular vote guarantee the election of individuals possessing the extremely high degree of integrity and judgment that such a pwerful group must have?

(3) Would the students of Georgia Southern be willing to trust their class-mates with such tremendous authority over them? (4) Shall room-mates and friends be forced to "spy" on one another? (5) Shall a student's honor be questioned before the Honor Council, as a result of every petty accusation possibly made by an envious and vengeful classmate who had been looking for a suspicious move?

(6) Can the members of the council be completely unbiased when trying a friend or an enemy?

(7) Can a popularly-elected group of students exercise their authority with the skill and judgment that it takes members of the gvernment judiciary years of study to acquire?

(8) Should the problem of cheating be a matter to be settled by the offending student and the instructor, or by the said student and other students?

If, after careful consideration and planning, these questions can be answered favorably, and if the student can be considered innocent until INFALLIBLY proven guilty, we feel that this plan could be a tremendous step forward at GSC. "If", however, is a big word.

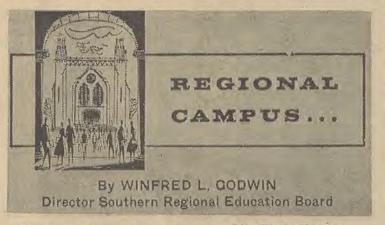

Many students may wonder on what basis they are accepted to Georgia Southern College. This basis and that certain stipulations may fluctuate in any individual case.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"ARE YOU SUME THIS IS WHAT THEY MEAN BY HIGHER EDUCATION ?!!

They were unusual men who conceived of an American Democracy some 200 years ago and then built it on the unshakable foundation of education and public enlightenment. They were idealists who believed in the innate intelligence and ability of men. They were practical men who knew that governing oneself demanded the utmost in trained intelligence and civic sensibility.

April is the birth month of one of the giants among those men - Thomas Jefferson. Here is a man who contributed to the growth of his nation through every conceivable channel, but who wanted to be remembered by three of the contributions: The Declaration of Independence, the University of Virginia and the statute of Virginia for religious liberty.

Thomas Jefferson had almost a religious faith in education which showed up in many of his public and private documents and communications. In one, he said:

Importance Stressed "I look to the diffusion of source most to be relied on for

Not Much Change He picked off the top of his head some of the subjects which were to be taught at the university, and the list reads like the catalogue of a 20th Century state university - botany, chemistry, zoology, anatomy, surgery, medicine, natural philosophy, agrictulure, mathematics, astronomy, geography, politics, commerce, history, ethics, laws, arts and fine arts.

Mr. Jefferson was arguing for a broad curriculum and for educational opportunity for everyone. But he was not arguing for the same kind of educational opportunity for everyone. He asked his state and his nation to support quality education at every level — but he was the first to say that not everyone should want, or be required, to enter the university.

... I am developing a whole system of general education . never have proposed a sacrifice of the primary to the ultimate grade of instruction. Let us keep our eye steadily on the whole system.'

Numbers Increase

"The ultimate result of our light and education as the re- whole scheme of education would be the teaching of all children writing and common arithmetic; turning out ten annually of superior genius, well taught in Greek, Latin, Geography, and higher branches of arithmetic, turning out ten others annually, of still superior parts, who, to those branches of learning, shall have added such of the sciences as their genius shall have led them to We talk today in millions of students instead of hundreds. We talk of graduate students and scholars in the thousands instead of in tens, but still we aim for Jefferson's ideal. Provide quality education for all at the elementary and secondary levels, diversify educational opportunity in our higher institutions to meet the individual student's talents and needs, and build graduate schools capable of turning out scholars of the first order - if we do this, the day will come when the South and the nation produce in more abundant measure men and women' of stature and wisdom.

Yet no feeling was as great do well to come to Georgia as that of being a part of a winning team. The fourteen awards which were won were not won by a handful of people. Some of the members attended an Atlanta night-spot Saturday and according to them, their local chapter president, Catherine Dixon, ended up a finalist in a "Twist" contest. So the college was well represented in a versatile should be a pertinent question to each of us, as the rating of a school depends on the over-all standing of its students.

The first procedure in gaining admission is the matter of applying. The completed application form, in addition to the college board scores, medical examination record, a photograph and a room deposit, must be received twenty days prior to registration. A formula has been devised for Georgia Southern, as for all colleges in the university system, by which the sucess in academic studies of the individual can be determined. The formula is based upon the high school transcript and college board scores. If the application has been completely made out and the necessary forms have been received and the individual according to the formula, is capable of college work, the student is eligible for acceptance. Emphasis must be placed upon the fact that each perspective student is treated on a personal boom" colleges and universities throughout the nation are faced with the problem of increasing enrollment. Georgia Southern is no exception; we are witnessing an expansion in both facilities and enrollment. The administration has pointed out two definite advantages in this expansion. One is that a greater number of students would enhance the enrichment of the curriculum, providing more and varied opportunities for academic achievement. The other reason is that colleges, like public school, must have an obligation to the state of educating its citizens. These points are undeniable assets. There is one major consideration to be made, however. If the present standards are not maintained or improved, the influx of students would lower the school's standing. This, indeed, is a problem that cannot be ignored. For we, as the future alumni of GSC, will always want to be able to claim our Alma Mater with pride.

That every man shall be made virtuous, by any process whatever, is, indeed, no more to be expected, than that every tree shall be made to bear fruit, and every plant nourishment. The brier and bramble can never become the vine and olive; but their asperities may be softened by culture, and their properties improved to usefulness in the order and economy of the world."

Guided by this philosophy he proposed a system of three distinct divisions of education reaching all classes of the American people.

This system was capped by his concept of the university as the "ultimate grade for teach-ing sciences . . ." To create such a center of the sciences, he began work on one of his favorite projects - the University of Virginia, still referred to respectfully as "Mr. Jefferson's school.

Letter To The Editor

A Veazey Hall House Council committee has drawn up a recommendation, to be sent to President Zach Henderson, that there be only two girls per room in Veazey next year.

The recommendation, written by Helen Leutkemann, Carol Kinard, and Patsy Ginn states these reasons for maintaining the two-girl-per-room status at Veazey Hall:

The ceiling is not high enough to accommodate bunk beds.

2. A bunk bed would obstruct the lighting in the rooms.

3. There is no room for an extra dresser; there is no extra closet space; there is no room for another desk for the third girl.

4. The beauty and comfort of Veazey Hall would be marred by crowding three people in a room that is only large enough for two.

Miss Leutkemann and Miss Kinard stated that they have measured the rooms in Veazev and the bunk beds in the other dormitories, and have found that there is not enough room for the beds. According to their measurements, the ceiling height at Veazey is 94 inches; the bunk bed is approximately 60 inches high; the average girl, sitting down, is 33 inches.

As the height of the bed and the girl added together is 93 inches, there would be one inch between the top of her head and the ceiling in Veazey. The ceiling is definitely too low for a girl to sit on the top bunk of a bunk bed according to the committee.

The GSC Student Council is sidents of Statesboro, but had also sending a recommendation to Dr. Henderson to the effect that there is no room for a third girl in Veazey Hall,

Dear Editor:

The students at Georgia Southern are missing what should be possibly the most important part of their education. This valuable lost substance is culture, and on this campus, culture has been knocked for some back flips that would make the gymnastics team envious.

Guitars, rock and roll, and other primitive forms of culture do exist here, but it seems that a college campus is the place to find some more advanced form. Civilization has struggled for quite a while to bring the arts to the high place they now occupy in our society, and our college is going to turn out an educated, (I use term loosely) preson who works all day with a slide rule and goes home the night of a symphony concert to listen to the latest rock and

The students here have been presented with the opportunities of exposing themselves to some of the better things in life, and their interest has been pitiful. Such an example was the appearance of the Savannah Symphonette on campus. The concert was successful thanks to the non-college re-

it been left up to the students to fill the first three rows in the auditorium, there would have been some gravely disappointed musicians who would have felt, like they were completely wasting their time. At the Symphony concert in Sa-vannah, the auditorium is filled, but if Georgia Southern is responsible for turning out the future patrons, the musicians will have to forget Bach and learn Chubby Checker.

Walking through the dormitory, you will find such literary masterpiecess as Hot Rod Review and Mighty Mouse, while Hemingway and Freud take a back seat along with Mr. Bach. Maybe in the new era of machines, a thorough knowledge of hot rods will be more valuable than understanding fellow human beings. Besides, Hemingway didn't draw as funny characters as Walt Disney does. Our library should install a comic book section maybe?

This school has been very fortunate in obtaining fine performers. Such was the case in the recent appearance of Dame Judith Anderson. The students who missed her performance are probably not losing any sleep over the fact, and they may be perfectly content with what they are getting from college, but are they getting what they should?

Maybe the whole world is out of step, but it seems pretty unlikely.

Rain Plagues Eagles

Rain, rain, go away; come again some other day. The GSC Eagles want to go out and play.

This just about sums up the picture for the last couple of weeks as far as the Georgia Southern Eagles baseball team is concerned. Rain has brought itself uninvited to the campus of GSC at the most inopportune times and has seemed to follow the Eagles around, even into other states, causing cancelled ball games and leaving rain-soaked fields.

Trombone Trio Sets Concert For MP Auditorium

A trombone trio, consisting of faculty members from Indiana University, will present a concert Thursday night in the Marvin Pittman Auditorium.

The production, which is sponsored by the Statesboro Community Concert Series, will begin at 8:15 p.m. Tickets will go on sale Monday at $1.00 apiece. Phi Mu Alpha is in charge of sales on the camus.

The concert will be preceded by a Conn Brass instruments clinic. The clinic will begin at 4 p.m. in the Music Building. All high school band members and conductors in the area have been invited to attend.

The trio was organized in 1959 under the direction of Dr. Thomas Beversdorf, and since that time, they have presented concert and clinics in colleges, high schools and universities all over the United States.

The group is conducted by Dr. Beversdorf, symphony solo trombonist. Other members include. John Rehm and Edwin Baker.

This is the third and final production of the Community Concert series for the 1961-62 season. Previous presentations included the iNna Dova concert last fall, and the Tuscon Arizona Boy's Chorus during the winter.

Fund Drive For All Faiths Chapel Begins At GSC

Tentative plans have been set by the Student Council to sponsor a fund raising campaign next week for the Chapel of All Faiths in Milledgeville, according to Virginia Morgan, chairman of the project. The Chapel is to be built for the State Mental Hospital and will be for Protesta and Catholics. President Zack Henderson is chairman of the Bulloch County district for raising money for the Chapel.

All House Councils will be asked to select a dormitory chairman who will be responsible for contacting all members of their respective dormitories. A collection box will be placed in the Student Center for day students.

The campaign will begin Monweek.

Recently I talked to a man who had some family problems typical of those which have become widespread across the nation, causing despair and financial worries to young and old. "My wife and the children are fine," he said, "but my father has been in and out of the hospital for the past two years, and now my mother is seriously ill." He said he had not only spent his savings-close to $2,500-for his aged father's hospital and medical bills, but had also been forced to borrow money and to dip into the fund he had and to dip into the fund he had set aside for his son's education. "The truth is," he said, "I'm broke. My wife and I will man-age somehow, but it's my son I'm worried about. He wants to be an engineer. I can no longer afford to send him to collece."

college. Then he asked, deeply trou-bled, "What am I supposed to do? Forget I have parents? Neglect them? Forget I love them? Forget what I owe them? What's the answer?" Fortunately for him and for so many others like him, there is an answer. President Ken-nedy provided it when he pro-posed a Health Insurance Plan for the Aged through Social Security. The President's plan will help the whole family, as well as benefit those over 65. It is a plan for "family security." It will on the more easily to will enable us more easily to carry out our responsibilities to our parents, to our children and to ourselves and, at the

and to ourselves and, at the same time, lessen the drain on the family budget. I will tell you more about how this "family security plan" works and about the legislation now before Congress after I available why it is needed and explain why it is needed-and why the time has come to do something about it. Back in 1935, Congress passed the Social Security Act—a tremendous step toward relieving the American people of the fear of economic insecurity in old age. Now we must move another step forward. Because medical science has lengthened the lifespan, there are today 17 million people in this country

Too often, however, it is the grandchildren who suffer most, and it is their future which is at stake. Today there are some 75 million children in this country who are under 21. By 1970, this figure will rise to 95 mil-lion. None of these children should be deprived of the educational opportunities to which he is entitled.

Who, then, will pay the major hospital costs of our parents? Under President Kennedy's program, it would be the 75 million wage earners who, in the course of a year, contribute to their own retirement bene-fits through the Social Security system. For only $1 a month for the average worker and an equal amount from his employer, these persons not only would make it possible for their parents to receive immediate health insurance benefits, but would insure their own health benefits after they reach the age of 65 and, in turn, make certain they won't have to de-pend on their children to pay their hospital bills when they get old. This is a sound and simple proposal which makes sense for of them more than once. And the entire family. In a subse-quent article, I will give you the details of the President's Health Insurance Plan through Seciel Security and through their stay in the hospital will average 15 days, which is longer than the average hospital stay of younger people. Who must pay these hospital Social Security and show you why is it the best answer to the bills? Surely not our old folks. Half of them have less than biggest national issue facing our country today. In a third report, I will tell you why I con-sider existing legislation deal-ing with health care for the $1,200 a year. This is scarcely enough to cover their food, housing, and a few other essentials. Private health insurance polaged wholly inadequate.

Your Congressman wants to know how you stand on the Kennedy Program for Health nsurance through Social Se curity.Write to him.Also,for further information about President Kennedy's proposa for health care for the aged, write to the National Council f Senior Citizens,200"C"St., SE, Washington 3, D.C.

A new insecurity is gripping our old folks and affecting the lives of younger members of their families. How can they pay the rapidly mounting costs of hospital care for the elderly —costs that have gone up fast-er than any other necessities of life and far more than reof life, and far more than retirement incomes. A look at the figures bears out their fears:
