Enrollment Topples Record; Student Council Submits Revision Reaches New High of 2,122 Of Constitution; Seeks Radification

Final registration figures released this week by Dean Paul F. Carroll reached an all time record for fall quarter with an enrollment of 2,122 students at Georgia Southern College.

This is an increase of 358 students over last year's fall quarter enrollment of 1,764. President Zack Henderson announced that for the last three years the fall quarter enrollment has exceeded that of the year before, indicating the college's tremendous rate of growth.

The breakdown figure by classes is: freshmen, 568; sophomores, 495; juniors, 471; and seniors, 410. There is one student auditing a course, and one special student. In addition, there are 176 graduate students.

The record breaking total includes 972 men and 974 women undergraduates. This excludes the 176 students attending Saturday morning and Tuesday evening graduate classes.

There are 1185 students living on campus, and 937 day students. The dormitory breakdown is: Cone, 228, three students per room; Sanford, 252, three per room; Veazey, 240, three per room; Lewis, 189, three per room; Deal, 111, two per room; and Anderson, 165, three per room. The last day for enrollment was Tuesday, October 2. Fall quarter classes began Monday, September 24, and will end December.

To accommodate the soaring number of students an extensive building program is underway. An annex to Lewis Hall housing 73 women students was completed this fall quarter. Two other dormitories, one for women and one for men, are expected to be completed by the end of May, according to Ed Eckles, Statesboro architect.

Work on the buildings was halted recently due to an area-wide carpenter's strike. An agreement was signed September 17, and work was resumed after a lay-off of 23 days.

All campus roads, with the exception of the newly surfaced circle in front of the Frank I. Williams Center and Alumni Building, will be re-surfaced during October, according to William Dewberry, comptroller. This will amount to approximately two miles of roads.

In addition the basement of the Herty Building is being remodeled into classrooms and offices, according to Dr. John Boole, chairman of the math and science department. This includes three laboratory-lecture rooms, two research-office combination rooms, six offices, and a preparation room housing the air-conditioning unit.

Due to the great number of students the rooms are already in use, though work will not be completed for another estimated three to four weeks.

Funds allowed for the remodeling amount to twenty-five thousand dollars. This does not include equipment and furnishings, added Dr. Boole.

Veasey, Lewis, Cone Halls Hold House Elections

House council elections were held at Cone, Lewis, and Veazey residence halls early this week, while Deal and Sanford Halls plan elections soon. Anderson Hall announced no immediate plans for an election.

Elections for the Cone Hall president and vice-president have not been completed. Nominees for the office of president are: Billy Martin, Al Walls, Dent Purcell, and Denmond Exley.

Nominees for vice-president are: David Barber, Cecil Martin, Clifford Bobo, and Don Westberry. The newly elected secretary-treasurer of Cone Hall is Jerry Kight.

House Councilmen for Cone Hall are: Bob Suber, Charles Exley, William Smith, and Mac Clements for the first floor, and Joe Sears, Eddie Rogers, John Twigg, Hubert Whidden, and Jerry Gibson for the second floor.

Lewis Hall elected these officers to their house council: President, Betty Yeomans; Vice-President, Lynn Storey; Secretary, Rosemary Bailey; Treasurer, Lou Gassett; and Social Chairman, Amelia Robertson.

Monitors for Lewis Hall are: Glenda Hartley, Donna Freeman, Jerry Clark, Larue Sims, JoAnna Bennett, Phyllis Frazier, Jane Moore, Barbara Sandifur, Ginger Blackman, Janice White, Maxine Sheppard, and Peggy Exley.

Officers elected at Veazey Hall are: President, Katherine Wellbrock; Vice-President, Barbara Brown; Treasurer, Grace McClelland; Secretary, Dale Byrd; and Social Chairman, Beth Deen.

Monitors for Veazey Hall include: Marinell Henderson, Clovis Biggers, Kaye Taylor, Rene McClary, Joan Lockett, Jody Suttle, Carol Cross, Maxie Payne, and Carolyn Edenfield.

Peace Corps Representative On Campus Soon

Georgia Southern College has been selected as a test and information center for the Peace Corps, according to Samuel F. Babbitt, director, University Division, Office of Public Affairs.

Dr. Guy H. Wells, Peace Corps representative, will be on campus October 17 to provide information concerning the Peace Corps to all interested Georgia Southern students. His purpose will be to inform as many students and other interested persons as possible about the peace corps service and to meet with interested smaller groups.

Dr. Wells will be fully informed on future Peace Corps opportunities and will have with him a film on Peace Corps training. He will also explain the procedure for applying for examinations.

All interested chairmen of instructional divisions and any faculty or student groups whose subject matter is related to Peace Corps skill needs are encouraged to meet with Dr. Wells.

WEEKEND EVENTS

The scheduled events for the weekend of October 5-7 include a movie for Friday night and a dance for Saturday, according to George Thomas, vice-president of the student council. At 7:30 on Friday night, "Captain's Courageous" will be shown in the auditorium of the Administration Building. On Saturday night at 8 o'clock, the French Club will sponsor a dance in the Alumni Building, as a segment of its French Week activities.

The churches of Statesboro welcome the new students to their churches, and urged students to church of their choice on Sunday.

DINING HALL SCHEDULE

Monday through Friday
6:45 - 7:45—Breakfast
11:50 - 1:15—Lunch for regular students
11:20 - 11:50—Lunch for students with 12:00 and 1:00 classes
Saturday and Sunday
8:00 - 8:30—Breakfast
12:30 - 1:15—Lunch
5:00 - 5:45—Dinner
If a student cannot eat lunch at either 11:30, 12:00, or 1:00 on Mondays through Fridays, he may contact C. R. Prund, director of the Frank I. Williams Center, to make arrangements to eat.

Class, "Congress" Nominations Slated

Nominations for 1962-63 class officers plus division representatives to the "Student Congress" are set for Monday and Tuesday with elections scheduled for October 15, according to Ray Bowden, president of the student council.

Bowden said that in accordance with the proposed constitution on which the council has been working, division meetings will be held Tuesday to nominate division representatives to the "Congress."

He added that the winning candidates will not assume their positions until the new constitution is ratified.

Meanwhile, the freshman class will nominate officers Monday night at 7 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium. The freshman class president will also become a member of the "Congress" when and if the constitution is ratified.

GSC Fact Book Now Available

The 1962-63 Georgia Southern Fact Book has just been completed and published. This pamphlet covers factual material of the college and of Statesboro.

Its distribution is planned for fall quarter "college days." During this time some 3000 Georgia Students are contacted personally by representatives of Georgia Southern College.

The new black and white booklet is available for anyone who wishes a copy. They may address the request to: Ric Mandes, Public Relations, Georgia Southern College.

Fullerton Named To SC Position

Bob Fullerton, Thomasville, was appointed communications coordinator of the student council last week.

Fullerton, instrumental in creating this new position during the constitutional revision sessions last spring, has already begun assuming his duties.

As communications coordinator he will: submit a weekly report to students and administration of all deliberations and action recommended by the student council; have access to all minutes of the student council; have the privilege of attending without note or vain all committee meetings; serve as chairman of the communications committee, and have authority to require periodic progress reports on committee action.

Group Makes Several Changes

The Georgia Southern College Student Council last week finished a long range project to revise its constitution and is now awaiting the approval of its faculty advisors, according to Ray Bowden, council president.

Bowden said that the revision was proposed at a meeting last May of this year's and last year's student council, the Student Personnel Advisory Council, the present and former editors of THE GEORGE-ANNE, and any interested students.

For a copy of the student council's proposed revision, plus background information and editorial comment, see pages two and three.

That meeting had been called to discuss "current student problems" and ended with the group remaining on campus after final examinations to consider a constitutional revision.

They stayed on campus for four or five days completing major changes that they thought should be made.

Bowden said that the present council reviewed the work done.

'Anne Frank' Cast Announced

The cast for "The Diary of Anne Frank" has been chosen. This play will be the Masquers' Fall Quarter presentation. Production has been set for the 15, 16, and 17 of November, which is the week-end before Thanksgiving.

Judy Mercer, a freshman from Eastman will play the title role of Anne; Hayward Ellis, a junior from Blakely, will take the role of Mr. Frank; Mrs. Frank will be played by Jackie Vaughan, a sophomore from College Park; and Angela Whittington, senior from Savannah will play Margot Frank.

Others in the cast will include Wendell Ramage, a junior from Chester, who will play Mr. Van Deen; Linda Welden, a junior from Senoia, will appear as Mrs. Van Deen; Billy Felder, a sophomore from Waycross, will appear as their son, Peter Van Deen.

William Cadwell, a junior from Moultrie, will play Mr. Kraler; Carson Overstreet, a freshman from Odham will play the part of Miep; and Tom Wilkerson, senior from Augusta will appear in the role of Mr. Dussell. Production is under the direction of Mr. Robert Overstreet, speech instructor at Georgia Southern.

This year's student editor is Randall Bacon, Glennville, a senior English major.

Powell urges all students, especially freshmen, to attend the Miscellany literary sessions which are held twice a month on the first and third Mondays.

Powell stated that to be a member of the Miscellany Club did not necessarily mean that one had to be a writer. He need only be interested in writing to be eligible.

At the literary sessions the stories, poems, etc., are discussed and selections for publication are chosen. Final selection is made by the selective editor. Previously, only poems, stories, and various literary articles have appeared in the Miscellany. This year, however, it is possible that outstanding pictures will be included.

Cost of the magazine is fifty cents per copy.

made grammatical corrections, and added some minor changes at a meeting last week.

"We are now waiting for the faculty advisor's approval of our work," he stated.

Where the proposed constitution must go from here before being declared official has caused a certain amount of confusion.

Dean Ralph K. Tyson, the faculty advisor, said that he must review it and "look for any irregularities." He added that he will consult several persons and groups that would be affected by the changes proposed.

"Then it must be ratified by two-thirds of the student body," he said. He quoted the article in the present constitution concerning ratification and the student body.

The proposed constitution printed on page three, however, says that ratification will become effective after it has been adopted by the "Student Congress and the faculty advisors." He used the word "Congress" as the proposed revision calls for such a name change.

Bowden said that he planned to meet with Dr. Tyson concerning this matter.

Bowden added that they launched into the revision because "many parts of the old constitution are outdated. This is a growing school, a change is needed."

He also said that they have proposed changes that would aid in solving student problems such as those encountered last year.

He cited some of these changes as: the switch from class to division representatives; the addition of a communications coordinator; and the reconstruction of certain committees.

Med. School Test Set For Oct. 20

Students planning to apply for admission to medical colleges in the fall of 1963 will be able to take the Medical College Admission Test on Saturday, October 20, 1962.

The test will be given at the Georgia Southern College testing center. For information or application, write to Dr. Ralph K. Tyson, Dean of Students, Georgia Southern College.

Hypnotist Coming, Tickets Available

Tickets will be available Wednesday in the Dean of Student's office for "Miracles of the Mind," a presentation of psychic phenomena, mind reading, photographic memory, and hypnosis by Dr. Franz Polgar, according to Jack Broucek, chairman of the newly organized Campus Life Enrichment Committee.

Students may get reserved tickets upon presentation of their ID cards free of charge. Those students who do not do so before the night of the performance must pay full admission charge of $1.50.

The performance will be given at 8:15 p.m. on October 24 in McCroan Auditorium.

The Campus Life Enrichment Committee, a standing committee of the student personnel advisory council, is sponsoring the show.

This group was organized during the summer to bring cultural and informative programs to the campus.

Polgar is one of three attractions that have already signed a lecture in February by columnist Drew Pearson and a performance in April by the famed actor Basil Rathbone.

Broucek said that that the committee hopes to sign at least two more varied attractions for this year.

Various classes, divisions, and organizations are represented on the Campus Life Enrichment Committee. Members are: Frieda Gernant, art division; Fred Wallace, science division; Robert Overstreet, division of languages; Dr. David Ward, social science division; Broucek, music division; Ric Mandes, public relations; and Dean Carolyn Gettys, representing the student personnel advisory council.

ALSO: Don Nelson, student council; Jane Weatherly, freshman class; Sallie Bradford, sophomore class; Jo Carol Gettys, junior class; and Harry Reece, senior class.

Comptroller's office hours for Student Banking are scheduled for 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

THE VALUE OF THE REVISION

The student council has, in the past, been formally referred to as the organization to which students can voice their problems and seek action on them.

Its effectiveness on this matter, however, has been somewhat limited. The "limitation" is partially the result of the council's restrictions as to how much say so the organization can exercise on campus matters.

But the student body itself has also played a part in keeping its representative "assembly" out of things. Problems have seldom been brought before the council for action.

We feel that two important factors have accounted for this situation—lack of interest in the council's affairs, and ignorance as to what the group can do and will do.

The GEORGE-ANNE further feels that the greatest value of the proposed revisions on page three lie in the areas which could foster interest and stamp out ignorance.

Indeed the very fact that the present council is attempting to revise its entire constitution is already stimulating interest. The group is trying to do something, and people are hearing about it.

Should certain points in the proposed revision be approved, and then followed to the letter, people will continue to be aware of the council's (Congress's) action, and interest should gain momentum.

For instance: a switch from class representatives to division "Congressmen" could result in politicking for a greater amount of mutual interests.

It's evident that students take far greater pride, and achieve a higher degree of unity among their respective divisions than in their classes.

The communications coordinator could be a key man in informing the students (and the administration) of the action the "congress" is taking, or attempting to take.

This, we feel, is a very important since the more the students know what the "congress" is trying to do, the greater the possibilities they may express their views on the matters.

Should those "views" prove favorable to the "Congress" purposes, the representative organization's recommendation will be that much stronger.

The proposal on page three also calls for an annual revision of the constitution. This is probably the most valuable provision in the entire work.

It could open the door to "Congress" elections next spring based on the candidate's answers to a question such as, "If elected, what changes will you propose in this year's revision?"

For the first time, the "Congress" elections can be based on real issues. Hence more interest and more voters.

At the time this editorial was written, it was unclear as to what procedures the proposed revisions must go through before becoming valid.

The changes proposed are numerous and complex and to say that all of them would be to the best interests of all concerned would be foolish.

We do, however, feel that it should be passed with the understanding that improvement will be made each year as cited in article VI section I.

IMPROVEMENT IN McCROAN

As many Georgia Southern students have noted, a new green curtain now graces the stage of McCroan Auditorium. No one could deny that this addition has vastly improved the appearance of the all-purpose auditorium.

An editorial appeared in last year's GEORGE-ANNE, which called attention to the deplorable condition of McCroan, especially of the faded, torn curtain. The editorial stated that "A dirty, actually ugly, drab curtain covers the stage. The original curtain which was a deep purple, has long since rotted away. So—this dirty gray curtain hangs—forlorn and out of place."

Indeed, the drabness of the curtain was incongruent with the natural loveliness of the campus grounds and the beauty of the new buildings. Visitors who toured Georgia Southern were undoubtedly impressed with the campus and its facilities—that is, until they entered McCroan and beheld this antiquated monstrosity.

The excellent performances of many well-known persons have ended with the hesitant drawing of the curtain—hesitant because it was never quite certain that the old "rag" would make it.

Naturally the change that has been made is a welcome one. We heartily thank and congratulate the persons responsible for the replacement.

We would like to add, however, that further additions of this nature may make the old auditorium "feel young again."

For instance, similar draperies could be purchased to hang from the presently bare windows.

College Comptroller William Dewberry's financial comments indicate that funds are not presently available for this addition.

He said that the money with which the new stage curtain was purchased came from 1961-62 surplus funds. He added that use of such money must be approved by the Board of Regents.

We recognize these obstacles to immediate improvement. We merely suggest that a great deal of priority be given the McCroan problem with the next decision concerning the use of available finances.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"QUIT WORRYIN' ABOUT WHAT KIND OF A COURSE IT IS! WITH A LINE THIS LONG IT MUST BE A 'SNAP!'"

By WINFRED L. GODWIN
Director Southern Regional Education Board

Shortly before packing its bags to go home, the 87th Congress apparently has dealt another blow to increased federal support of higher education.

This time the legislation seeking more support for colleges and universities seemed to have an auspicious beginning. But House rejection of the Senate-House compromise aid bill shows there is still misunderstanding, disagreement and opposition over new federal assistance to colleges and universities.

While arguments about the bill shuffle back and forth in Congress, the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare released a report about the National Defense Education Act and its support of higher education through four programs. The report gave significant evidence that students and institutions in the South profit from this program of assistance to colleges and universities.

During a four year period from 1959-62, the NDEA has provided a total of $327,000,000 in support of higher education. The funds were given under four titles, "Student Loans," "Graduate Fellowships," "Counseling and Guidance Institutes" and "Language Development." Of this amount, nearly $89 million went to Southern students and institutions.

Some $59 million of this was given in student loans, with $10 million going to Texas alone. Only New York and California received larger amounts.

Graduate students in Southern states received about $19 million in fellowships during the four-year period. This was 32 per cent of the total amount given in NDEA fellowships—a handsome figure considering that the South has only 16 per cent of the nation's graduate students in its schools.

Texas, Tennessee and North Carolina have received more than $2 million each in graduate fellowships and Louisiana ranks fourth with nearly a million and a half in grants to graduate students.

Counseling and guidance institutes are held each summer in colleges and universities of the region. High schools and colleges counselors attend these NDEA study sessions to keep themselves up to date on techniques, materials and methods which will help them on the job. More than $5 and one-half million was given to Southern institutions to support these institutes. Schools in Texas, Florida and Georgia received the largest amounts from this particular title of the NDEA. Texas received $1 million plus; Florida, $881,000 and Georgia nearly $775,000.

Another area of the NDEA program provides funds to improve the teaching and know-

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

During a meeting with the student council and Deans Tyson, Holcombe and Gettys last May, the president and vice president of our fraternity were asked to bring as many Phi Mu Alpha men to this campus as soon as possible to help with orientation this September.

These officers agreed to do just that, and they notified the rest of the fraternity. Our president wrote and mailed out postcards to every member during the summer, reminding them of the service they had volunteered.

It seems, however, that someone in the Dean's office had seen fit to bring about a change in plans. They decided not to use our help. They further decided to deny our members food and lodging until five or six days after said members were planning to arrive.

Furthermore, the person or persons, who made the change, failed to notify our president of the situation. As a result, our members planned to arrive early—as they were told.

Phi Mu Alpha men were quite frankly informed of the change when they began arriving on campus early and were refused admittance into the dormitories. Some of these men had traveled anywhere from 50 to 400 miles to help the very people who were now telling them to either go home or find their own room and board off campus.

To bite the hand that is trying to feed you is bad enough, but to provide an encore by pouring salt on the wound is unbelievable.

When asked why we weren't told of the situation before travelling that great distance, Dean Gettys referred to the formed letter sent to all incoming students.

The letter said that no student will be admitted until such and such a date. That same type of letter was sent out last year, and was ignored by the people planning to help with orientation because they "knew" they were an exception.

If they hadn't "known" and had stayed home, last year's orientation activities would have been a mess. Likewise, we ignored the letter this time. We had been told that we were needed, and we were coming.

Phi Mu Alpha is not the only organization peeved with this sort of treatment. We've talked with others who also had to scour Statesboro for places to sleep and eat. This, by the way, runs into money—something which many college students carry in a very limited supply.

A member of one of these organizations, said that Dean Tyson asked him to meet his fellow members as they came in at the front gate and tell them to "go back home." Ridiculous! They were tired, hungry, and dirty—and they had come to serve.

Though it was not admitted by the responsible persons, a mistake had been made. But instead of an apology, or consideration for the plight into which the erring party had placed us, we were treated like "rampants" trying to break some "holy rule."

For as long as we can remember, organizations such as ours have been strongly urged to aid and participate in campus activities.

The behavior which we have seen above seems to discourage rather than encourage organizational initiative.

Sincerely,
Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Fraternity
Zeta Omicron Chapter.

Paging Southern

By ROLAND PAGE, Editor

This column may seem somewhat self-centered to you as it is principally concerned with what is presently my major interest, The George-Anne.

I feel, however, that with this first regular issue of the paper, some points concerning the editorial policy, news treatment, and purposes of this year's campus weekly should be opened to you.

I've always felt that a newspaper should never let itself become identified as an automatic supporter of any group or faction.

Localizing this statement, we'll never condemn or support the administration in itself. We'll never condemn or support the student body in itself.

We will, however, comment on individual situations, attitudes, or actions which we feel deserve praise or criticism.

Regardless of the parties involved, we'll try to open up unfavorable situations and search for logical solutions.

The fight for right yes that's an aged cliché. But did you ever stop to think how a cliché becomes tagged as such?

A cliché, of course, is a phrase that has been repeated over and over again. Such extended use may indicate that the phrase does have some value behind it.

I'd like to point out that the editorial policy of the George-Anne is not the decision of one person. We have an editorial board of four who meet and discuss all controversial issues before a word is printed. If the board cannot reach unanimous agreement, the possibilities of an editorial will be dropped.

This column, in fact, was read by all the board members before taken to press.

The George-Anne will not criticize without giving its readers the opportunity to speak for themselves.

We will print any "Letters to the Editor" that are signed and submitted to us by the writer. The use of foul or profane language, however, will be edited.

The only event in which we may neglect to print a letter, is when we simply have too many, thus producing a lack of available space.

The problem of which news story should be printed and which should not is a tricky one. There are such instances as the scandalous story which may make trouble for the persons involved. And there is that journalistic call to "print the truth and keep the public informed."

When confronted with such a questionable bit of information we'll omit any story in which we fail to see how its printing could possibly be beneficial to anyone.

As for our purpose, we will primarily try to keep our readers informed of campus news. We will also attempt to interpret this news through our editorials and news analysis.

And we will strive for the ideological goal of bringing all Georgia Southern personnel together in a drive to continuously improve our college and the life we lead within its gates.

Fullerton's Fables

By BOB FULLERTON

Once upon a time, there was a student at GSC who had so little creative ability and so little creative imagination that he could only think of one way in which to begin his column in the campus newspaper.

He always wrote, "Once upon a time . . ." He named his column "Fables" thereby giving him an excuse for beginning in that way.

It wasn't very original, but it did give him something understandable with which to begin his column, and an understandable beginning was necessary since not even he understood what he was saying by the time he finished. His name was Fullerton.

"Radical" Fullerton was what is considered to be a "radical" because he wrote nasty letters to the editor of the George-Anne, criticized the administration, criticized the students, and in general made too much embarrassing noise.

As everyone knows, today radicalism is out of style, and radicals are to be treated like dimwitted relatives who are embarrassing but still relatives—that is, put them someplace where they can spout off, but do no harm.

Therefore, the editor of the George-Anne gave Fullerton the job of writing a column, which is supposedly humorous so that anything he said could be laughed off.

Humor Besides, the editor knew that the students never read anything but the sports page and the "Inquiring Reporter."

Seriously, this column is supposed to present campus life from my point of view, and my point of view is supposed to be humorous. I do hope that you get a laugh from my column occasionally.

But if not, get someone to point me out to you, and you'll have to laugh when you see me. If you're especially morbid and sober, try to catch me with Bermuda shorts on. No one could see these legs without laughing.

Welcome Let me take this opportunity to welcome you freshmen and transfers to GSC, and to welcome you oldtimers back. You new students will find this to be the friendliest campus in the world if you let it be.

GSC is already a fine school, and it has the potential to become one of the greatest (if we can get rid of those radicals). GSC isn't perfect for the same reason that none of us are perfect (of course, that excludes you personally) that is, it is growing.

I know most of you have no faults, but if you did happen to find one, you wouldn't condemn yourself, you would correct it like the mature adult that you are. Try to regard GSC in the same light.

Moral I know you couldn't find a lesson in all that rambling on, so I'll tack one on the end. LESSON: Don't look for faults, but if you happen to find one, correct it yourself, whether it's in you, the college, or in others. And by the way, don't forget—watch out for radical newspaper columnists.

Inquiring Reporter

By JOHNNIE KICKLIGHTER

Most students, no doubt, have probably noticed the length of the breakfast, lunch, and dinner lines lately, and are wondering if they will get shorter or longer as the days go by. If so, then we thought they would be interested in reading what some of their fellow classmates had to say when they were asked the following questions: Do you think something should be done about the meal lines, and, if so, what?

Carrie McCallum - Jeffersonville — "Yes. By giving one group blue cards, and one group red cards, etc., and designating a certain time for each group to eat."

Linda Bell - Toombs County — "Yes, something should be done, and I agree with Miss McCallum."

Riley Brantley - Wrightsville — "Yes. I think the line should be divided into groups so only a certain amount of students would be eating at one time."

Velrecc Moran - Manchester — "Yes, by eating in different shifts."

John Burton - Orient, Ill. — "Yes. Have two lines, instead of the present one, going into the dining hall."

Gail Harper - Garfield — "Yes. Maybe if we keep our eyes open, we will find a solution some day - soon, I hope."

Fred Higginbotham - St. Marys — "Yes. By serving earlier, hiring more dining hall help and by stopping some of the students from eating."

Dennis Meadows - Atlanta — "Yes. By building another cafeteria."

Gail Chapman - Hartwell — "Yes. I don't know what, but something should be done."

Richard Epting - Hilliard, Fla. — "Yes. By staggering the line and letting the upper-classes, beginning with the seniors, and so on down the list."

Joe Buck - Atlanta — "Yes, and Richard is absolutely right."

Claudena Delk - Ludovici — "Yes. By having split sessions for serving."

Josh Lewis - Swainsboro. — "Yes. By increasing the help and building an annex in order to have a larger serving area."

Burl Patterson - Lafayette — "Yes. Two lines would help, plus longer serving hours."

each side of the serving table."

Dent Purcell - Glennville — "Yes. I agree with Louise, and I think somebody should be stationed downstairs to prevent line jumping, too."

Jo Ann Parham - Twin City — "Definitely. How about a new and larger dining hall."

Harris Smith - Atlanta — "Yes. If 'student-specials' at the Paragon would go down to thirty-five cents, the line would be shorter."

Pam Hutto - St. Simons Island — "Yes. Have a longer time to eat so everyone doesn't have to rush in at the same time."

Alfred E. Neuman - East Podunk — "No. I dearly love long lines."

Constitution And By-Laws Of The Student Congress Of Georgia Southern College "As It Now Stands"

EDITOR'S NOTE: This revised constitution is not officially approved and must travel through several mediums and possibly be further altered before becoming law. The copy printed below is drawn up and agreed upon by the student council and is now being reviewed by faculty advisor Dr. Ralph K. Tyson. See next week's GEORGE-ANNE for additional changes that may come up.

The Student Congress is the coordinating body for all student activities at Georgia Southern College. Its purpose is to foster intelligent interest in all phases of college citizenship and to promote the general welfare of the College by encouraging active and full participation of students in campus life.

Two strong committees serve to coordinate the activities of the student body: (1) the Social Committee, which in cooperation with clubs and other organizations, plans and implements special socials and dances; and (2) the Committee of Campus Organizations which coordinates the activities of clubs and other organizations on campus.

ARTICLE I. Name
The administrative organization of the Student Body shall be known as the Student Congress of Georgia Southern College.

ARTICLE II. Purpose
The purpose of this organization shall be to render maximum service in promoting the general well-being of the College community. This may be accomplished by providing leadership in all areas concerning the Student Body.

Some functions are:
1. Providing a means for direct experience in organizational procedure and leadership activity.

2. Furnishing opportunity for discussing school activities and determining the collective will of the Student Body.
3. Creating better fellowship and understanding between faculty and students and among students themselves.

4. Coordinating college activities and organizations into a collective support of the College community.

5. Planning and implementing in conjunction with the college administration such events as Freshman Orientation Week, the artists series, student elections, social activities, Rat Day, and similar events.

ARTICLE III. Officers
The officers of the Congress shall consist of a President, a First Vice-President, a Second Vice-President, a Secretary, a Treasurer, and a Communications Coordinator.

Section 1. Qualifications
The officers shall be elected from among those members of the student body who will be members of the sophomore, junior, or senior class at the time they assume office; The President must be a member of the Senior Class. They must have been enrolled in this college for at least three quarters by the time they assume office; and they must have, at the time of nomination, and must maintain throughout their tenure of office a scholastic standing at 2.5 (C plus) or above. No Student Congress officer may serve in the same position in successive years, or serve longer than two consecutive years.

Section 2. Nomination
Seven weeks prior to the end of spring quarter, two persons, properly qualified shall be nominated by the senior members of the Student Congress and approved by two-thirds majority of the Student Congress members for each of the six offices of the Council. These nominations shall be immediately presented through the George-Anne to the Student Body, who will be given an opportunity to add other nominations other than Communications Coordinator in open meeting. Nominees posed by the Student Body must be approved by two-thirds majority of the Council and meet conditions of Article III, Section 1. Write-in candidates will not be considered.

Section 3. Election
Election of officers for the Student Congress shall be held during the week following mid-quarter examinations spring quarter. Election of officers shall be by a majority of those students voting for the respective offices. In case there is no majority, the Student Congress shall provide a run-off between the two highest candidates. The voting shall be by secret ballot. The Executive Committee shall investigate and certify the eligibility of elected officers under the conditions of Article III, Sections 1 and 2.

Section 4. Vacancy of Officers
In case of vacancy of the presidency, the first vice-president shall become president, and a new first vice-president shall be appointed by the new president from the Social Committee or the Congress, and must be approved by two-thirds majority of the Congress. In case of the vacancy of the second vice-president or secretary or treasurer, a replacement shall be appointed by the Executive Committee and approved by two-thirds majority of the Congress. Any other appointments necessary will be done in the above manner also.

Section 5. Duties
a. The President shall:
(1) Preside at all meetings
(2) Serve as chairman of the Executive Committee
(3) Appoint all interim committee members and chairmen and serve as ex-officio member of each.
(4) Serve as spokesman for the Student Body
(5) Make announcements in assembly
(6) In accordance with the provisions of this constitution, set and conduct all student elections.

(7) Serve as the executive officer of Student Congress
b. The First Vice-President shall:
(1) Preside at all meetings in the absence of the President and shall have the same powers of the President in the President's absence.

(2) Serve as chairman of the Social Committee.
c. The Second Vice-President shall:
(1) Preside at all Freshman class meetings until the election of Freshman officers.
(2) Serve as chairman of the student Committee of Campus Organizations.

d. The Secretary shall:
(1) Keep a permanent record of the proceedings of the Congress meetings.
(2) File a copy of the proceedings of the Congress meetings in duplicate and deposit at the close of the school year a copy of these minutes with the Dean of Students.
e. The Treasurer shall:
(1) Handle all financial records of the Congress.
(2) Serve as chairman of the Finance Committee.
(3) Perform such other functions connected with finances as directed by the President.

f. The Communications Coordinator shall:
(1) Submit a weekly report to students and administration of all deliberations and action recommended by Student Congress.
(2) Have access to all minutes of Student Congress.
(3) Have the privilege of attending without note or vain all committee meetings.
(4) Serve as chairman of Communications Committee.
(5) Have authority to require periodic progress reports on Committee action.

ARTICLE IV. Members
Section 1. Division Representatives.
Seven weeks prior to the end of spring quarter each academic division shall in general department meetings, nominate two candidates for membership on the Student Congress. Concurrently with the election of Student Congress officers, the Student Congress shall hold a general election. Each student registered in the college shall be able to vote for one candidate in his division. The candidate thus receiving a majority of the votes cast by his division shall be elected members of Student Congress.

Section 2. Freshman Representatives.
In the fall quarter the Freshman class shall nominate members from their class to serve as class officers, a president, vice-president, and a secretary-treasurer. The president will also serve as a representative to the Student Congress. See Article X, Section 5.
Section 3. Vacancy in Membership.
In case of a vacancy of any class president on the Student Congress, the vice-president of the class represented by that person shall automatically become the representative for the remainder of the term of office. In the case of a vacancy of a division representative the Student Congress Executive Committee shall appoint a new representative from the division according to Article III, Section 4.

Section 4. Qualifications.
Each member, elected or appointed, must maintain throughout the tenure of his office, a scholastic standing of 2.5 (C plus) or above.

Members must attend three-fourths of the regularly scheduled meetings or be replaced under conditions set forth in Article VIII.
The Executive Committee is responsible for enforcing the stipulations of this section.

Section 5. Duties.
Members shall serve on committees as appointed by the president, shall carry out all assignments, and shall represent their fellow students with fairness and diligence to the best of their abilities.

ARTICLE V. Installation of Officers and Members
Formal installation of officers, members, and ex-officio members shall be held the week following their election. Freshman members shall be installed at first Student Congress meeting fall following their election. Freshman members shall be installed at first Student Congress meeting fall following their election. The president of the Student Congress shall officiate the installations.

ARTICLE VI. Meetings
Section 1.
Regular meetings will be held at least once every two weeks. There may be called meetings whenever the President deems it necessary. On the weekend following the election there shall be a retreat for old and new Student Congress members at which amendments and revisions of this constitution shall be made.

Section 2.
Student Congress meeting requirement is set forth in Article IV section 4 shall be enforced by the Executive Committee.
Section 3.
Regular Student Congress meetings are open to all interested students.

ARTICLE VII. Committees
Section 1. Standing Committees
The standing Committees shall consist of (1) an Executive Committee, (2) a Finance Committee, a Communications Committee (4) a Social Committee, (5) a Student Committee of Campus Organizations, (6) a Ways and Means Committee.

a. The Executive Committee: This committee shall be composed of the duly elected officers of Student Congress with the President serving as chairman and the Dean of Students serving as advisor when requested. The committee shall meet at the discretion of the President. The chairman and/or members of this committee shall be responsible for providing an opportunity for students and faculty to identify and refer problem concerns for consideration by the Congress. Each quarter this committee will check grades of class officers and Student Congress membership and certify their compliance with qualifications as set forth in Article III, Sections 1 and 4, and Article IV, Sections 3 and 4. The Executive Committee shall rule in all cases involving interpretation of this Constitution.

b. The Finance Committee: This committee shall be composed of the Treasurer, who shall be chairman, senior class president and one member at large from Social Committee. This committee shall be responsible for developing a tentative yearly budget and for requisitioning necessary funds. This committee shall plan ways and means of raising funds and organize the efforts of the Congress in fund-raising activities. The Treasurer shall keep an accurate record of reimbursements for social events.
c. The Communications Committee: This committee shall be composed of communications Coordinator as chairman, one member from George-Anne Staff and three members picked from the representatives of the divisions and classes by the executive committee. The responsibilities of this committee shall be to publicize the work of Student Congress through all communication media available.
d. The Social Committee: This committee shall meet at least twice monthly and be composed of the following: Chairman, First Vice-President of Student Congress; Faculty Advisor, Dean of Women; the Social Chairman from each of the residence halls; two students at large, and appointed representatives of each academic division selected by the Student Congress Executive Committee, according to Article 3, Section 4.

Members are allowed to miss only one meeting unless excused.

The duties of this committee shall be as follows:
(1) Determine the frequency and incidence with which the Dance Band, and Combo will be utilized. This includes:
(2) Plan and implement any special events sponsored directly by the Student Congress.
(3) Plan and implement special receptions and socials.
(4) Plan, publish, and circulate a calendar of events for faculty and students.
(5) Plan and implement the program of free movies and matinee dances.

(6) Coordinate planning and implementing of special activities such as Welcome to new students dance, the traditional formal dances, the lighting of the Christmas tree, and Parents day.
(7) Administer such essentials as are basic to the functioning of the Social Committee under the following framework:
Alumni-Building for Social Functions — Responsibility for the following Student Congress equipment: projector, screen, record player, records, speakers, spotlight, and special serving pieces. Any organization or individual wishing to borrow this equipment must receive prior approval through procedure established by the Social Committee. The Social Committee also has supervisory authority over the paid student social directors who hold Mat Dances, show movies, make announcements in auditorium, and check out the social equipment.

Social Events Involving the Student Body—
(a) Admission Charge: An admission charge to social events involving the entire student body must be considered by the Social Committee.
(b) Procedure for dances:
Chaperons: A minimum of two acceptable chaperons is required for any approved social event. The names of the chaperons must be filed with the Chairman of Social Committee at least four days prior to the activity. Failure to do so could result in the activity being closed to students.

Serving Equipment: Serving equipment such as punch bowls, trays, table cloths, etc., must be reserved at least three days prior to the social activity.
Return of Equipment: All equipment borrowed must be returned to the student worker, room 115, Frank L. Williams Center on the day following the activity, except the table cloths which shall be returned after being properly cleaned.
(8) The Social Committee is composed to appoint interim committees in carrying out its functions.

(d) The student Committee of Campus Organizations: The committee shall meet twice monthly and be composed of the following: Chairman, Second Vice-President of Student Congress; Faculty Advisor, the Dean of Men, and presidents of campus organizations.
Members are expected to attend a minimum of four meetings a quarter to retain membership. This committee shall serve the following purpose:
(1) Meeting during the first week of each quarter. The agenda for this meeting shall be set in advance with the advice of the faculty advisor.
(2) Evaluate and recommend removal or addition of campus organizations.
(3) Recommend to Student Congress a list of clubs to be considered for Student Congress Outstanding Organization Award in Accordance with established criteria.

ARTICLE VII
Removal of Members
Section 1
Student Congress officers, Class and Division representatives or Committee Chairmen shall be automatically relieved of duties upon failure to meet requirements set forth in Article IV, Section 4.
Section 2.
Division Representatives relieved from their duties in accordance with the following:

have a voice in their affairs?"
Jim Pollak, former editor of The GEORGE-ANNE, stated in his column of May 4, 1962, that: "Student leaders have been told that it is not the right for them to question any policy of the administration. Rather they should follow all the policies and rules and thus lead the remainder of the student body down the same path. There is only one way to describe this philosophy — Hogwash!"

The following week Pollak received two Letters to the Editor, both expressing the belief that a bad situation existed between students and administration.

Opinions were beginning to be voiced more freely and "gripes" were coming out in the open. Conflict ensued. Many campaign speeches for last year's student council elections were based on "More voice for the student in his affairs."

Monday night, May 20, the incoming and outgoing student council members, Deans Tyson, Holcombe, and Gettys, the retiring and advancing editors of The GEORGE-ANNE, and a few interested students met to discuss student-administration problems.

As a result of the meeting, the group remained on campus four or five days after spring finals, to begin revising the constitution.

There hadn't been any progress. All that was contained in the May 14th news story was the committee's "plans".
With an eye to this situation, the new constitution provides for a "communications coordinator" who can require periodic progress reports on all committee action.

The fraternity-sorority issue was dying. In its place and possibly stemming from it, came another issue. "Do students without social fraternities and sororities. The college does not therefore sanction the establishment of such organizations, either local or national."

Dianne Brannen, president of last year's student council, told Deal that all the council could do is recommend since, "our constitution says we are only a coordinating body between students and administration."
She invited Deal and his friends to attend another council meeting the following Wednesday and present the goals and purposes of their organization.

She also invited all interested students to that next meeting to "voice their opinions."
Deal had made the statement that "A trial run for fraternities may result in a policy change." He also said that he believed Delta Sigma would continue to exist as is regardless of whether or not the change in policy is made.

President Henderson said that "If a decision is made to continue with the present policy, the club that now exists should be disbanded." The president declined to say whether or not a change were possible.

A feeling was beginning to grow that Deal's group was seeking sanction in the wrong way. The GEORGE-ANNE stated editorially that "Delta Sigma" had failed to take proper steps toward establishing a new campus club or organization as stated in the "T" Book.

Hundreds of students attended the next student council meeting which was held in McCroan Auditorium. At the meeting, Deal announced that Delta Sigma was "disbanding" itself and he apologized for "not following the proper course of action."

He added, however, that the purpose of that meeting was to consider a policy change and that "the time has come for the addition of sororities and fraternities on campus as in other institutions of higher learning."

Twelve students took the floor after Deal, ten favoring fraternities, one opposing, and one suggesting that more thought be given the matter.

A few days later, the student council sent a recommendation to the student personnel advisory council, of which Dean Ralph K. Tyson is chairman, asking that a fact-finding committee be appointed to study the pros and cons of fraterni-

BACKGROUND —

Many And Varied Events Behind Council's Revision

A News Analysis — The revision of the Georgia Southern College Student Council Constitution was not the product of any single force or circumstance present on the campus at the time of its proposal.

It was, more accurately, evolved by a long chain of events too numerous and complex to give 100 percent coverage in this article.

This analysis, however, will try to rehash the more significant situations, attitudes, and actions as they appeared on the campus scene last year.

During Fall quarter of 1961, complaints began to circulate as to the haphazard planning of social events at GSC.

It was reported that dances, planned and announced for certain times and places, often took place at other times and in different places or sometimes not at all.

At the same time, The GEORGE-ANNE was editorially urging students to "stay on campus" during week-ends. Students were heard to reply that there was nothing to do here on week-ends.

This situation, in varying degrees, was present throughout the year and was a great influence in the constitutional change dealing with the Student Council's social committee.

Late in the quarter, faint rumors to the effect that a social fraternity was forming here were heard in small circles.

With the return from Christmas holidays, the rumors were growing in numbers and volume. Fraternities and sororities were becoming a main topic of discussion.

Then, one morning in early February, 1962, scores of students showed up for classes with paper tags attached to their garments. On the tags were printed the words, "I'm For Greek," meaning that the wearers were "for social fraternities and sororities at GSC."

During the same week, Gordon Deal went before the student council as president of a group of men gathered under the name of "Delta Sigma Fraternity." Deal had sent a letter to the council requesting a recommendation that school policy concerning social fraternities and sororities be changed.

It was an effort to have Delta Sigma sanctioned by the school. The school policy read (and still reads)—"It is felt that the college can best serve its purpose without social fraternities and sororities. The college does not therefore sanction the establishment of such organizations, either local or national."

Dianne Brannen, president of last year's student council, told Deal that all the council could do is recommend since, "our constitution says we are only a coordinating body between students and administration."

She invited Deal and his friends to attend another council meeting the following Wednesday and present the goals and purposes of their organization.

Physical Fitness Gets New Approach In "Rat Day '62"

By HALLEY FENNELL
Physically fit (?) Yes, that's our freshmen. After Rat Day, a day of twisting, exercising, marching and running, the freshmen, no longer rats, but freshmen, are undoubtedly the most physically fit students on campus.

At 3:30 A.M., that is in the early morning, the freshmen dorms began to tremble as the sophomores awoke the "rats" by beating on the doors and yelling "rat get out of that bed." After a few moments of delay while the freshmen got into their flattering attire, the doors opened and the dorms seemed to be manufacturing full-fledged "rats." Sanford Hall produced stunning majorettes and ravishing cheerleaders, while Anderson and Deal Halls turned out teams of vigorous football and baseball players. On arriving in front of the Administration building, the rats, already decorated with lipstick and black shoe polish, learned that being such a "lowly soul" was not funny and that those who thought so would be properly punished with a head full of shaving cream or some other concoction.

Then the fun began. The rats were given orders to twist and seconds later to do side-straddle hops. The sophomores also found it amusing for the rats to get on all fours and "flush" or make like a "barn yard."

They also found suitable discipline for those who were so ignorant as not to know the "rat" poem and the Alma Mater. A few choice rats were chosen to perform, while others were duly punished for such offenses as disobeying a rat master or talking back to a superior.

About the time the sun began to rise, the rats were again assembled after playing leap frog and ring around the roses, and cleaning the sophomore's rooms.

In order to see where they had been, they were then herded in a backwards manner to the cafeteria where breakfast was eaten in a standing position with the left hand.

The morning was filled with many competitive activities such as football, basketball, volleyball, and tennis. Those who did not participate in these sports cheered the sophomores even though their efforts failed in several of the events.

At noon the rats again proceeded backwards to the cafeteria, where they were allowed to eat a fairly peaceable meal with only a few interruptions for such chores as carrying an upper classman's tray, proposing to a member of the opposite sex, crawling across the floor, and various other ingenious chores dreamed up by the "clever" sophomores.

After this ordeal, Sweetheart Circle became the gathering place where the various groups planned and concocted their schemes to be carried out in the rat day parade.

The parade, which was led by the glamorous homecoming queen, was comprised of boxers, golfers, football players, cheerleaders, and various other athletic groups. A "rat" band provided the music for this affair.

The climax of the day was reached, after a tension mounting session in front of the Administration building. The rats were led (backwards of course) into the long dreaded Rat Court.

After entering through a tunnel filled with unknown contents, rats accused of various faults, such as not wearing rat caps, being campus lovers, and trying to butter up sophomores, were summoned before the jury. After the punishments were doled out many a rat returned to his place covered with eggs, menthol shaving cream, or peanut butter.

After all these trials and tribulations, "Hi, freshman" were welcomed words to the worn out "used-to-be" rats.

'Too Fired to Walk. Here is a typical member of the female rat football team as she looked after a morning's "practice". Obviously she wasn't headed for the lockers, but to have a morsel of a "square meal."

A whole lotta woman. Leading the rat parade last Monday was this lovely example of freshman femininity with her train of devoted followers. Possibly the sophomores were not so devoted?

"One-Two-Three-Four. Who're you going to yell for? S-o-p-h-o-m-o-r-e-s, that's who". No football parade is complete without band and cheering section, and the male rats generously supplied both, while upper classmen looked on.

Here's Dad performing a chore that he will probably repeat for the next three years; carrying

TWO FRESHMAN "Whoop it up" at one of the many campus-wide dances held in the Alumni

Ah, grim realization strikes and classes begin. Receptions, dances are forgotten as a hurried

Student Makes Western Tour; Sees Seattle Fair

By MARIE EUBANKS
Managing Editor

At the first of July, GSC junior Jerry Davis, Jessup, left on a 41 day tour of the United States that carried him through the Southwest to the World's Fair in Seattle, Washington, and into Canada, before swinging home.

This fabulous trip occurred because Jerry was the possessor of some rather unique qualities that met the requirements of a particular lady in Jessup. She needed for the tour she planned a young man who could drive, set up open campsites in any section of the country, and who was going steady. The last was to insure her sixteen years old daughter's freedom from any romantic entanglements during the trip. Thus, Jerry found himself the head of a party of six, carrying the World's Fair.

Heading through the Southwest the group crossed Texas into New Mexico. At one point they were only fifteen miles from the Mexican border. Near Cadillac, N. M., they visited the famous Carlsbad Caverns, and the twelve-year old member of the party became lost in the traditional manner that included a grand search and safe discovery.

Other scenes visited in this section of the nation included the Painted Desert, the Petrified Forest, and the Grand Canyon. Viewing the canyon without doubt was to Jerry, the most impressive experience he had. "It's impossible to describe. I couldn't comprehend its size or beauty."

Swinging northward from New Mexico they traveled through Arizona on to Utah and then to Washington.

Spending four days in Seattle, Jerry visited the Fair every day looking at the exhibits and meeting the people from all over the world. In fact, the thousands of visitors is the thing he best remembers. He believes that the American exhibit was by far the most outstanding.

Leaving the Fair, the party went up into Oregon and the Olympian Peninsula where they saw the Rain Forest and Mount Rainer. Then they went to Vancouver, British Columbia. This unusual city is renowned for its many varied flowers. These even hang in pots from each lightpost. The city is quite British, feels Jerry. "There is no rush or hurry, and the citizens rival Southern in their hospitality."

GSC Faculty, Staff Total 177

The statistics have been received relative to the number of the faculty and staff members of Georgia Southern College employed for the 1962-63 school year.

The breakdown is as follows: 1961 faculty and staff members: 10 graduate assistants; six members on leave of absence and one doing part-time teaching. This makes a total of 177 members of the academic and administrative division of the college.

Compared to the number of faculty and staff of 1953 which was 66, these figures give some indication to the growth of the college. In addition to an increase in faculty members, the institution has averaged an additional building a year since 1953, allowing the college enrollment to grow from 628 students to 2,107, according to Dean Paul Carroll.

Here the group began the trip home, visiting other national parks on the way. These included Glacier National Park, Yellowstone, and Grand Teton. While he was indeed impressed by Glacier and Grand Teton Jerry was disappointed in Yellowstone. It was too commercialized.

Touring the Western sections of the United States, spending each night in open campsites, and meeting people from all regions is an experience not to be missed, says Jerry. "I have come home a more tolerant person, and one much better educated. The things you learn! I found that Texas is not all flat cattle ranges, but has much rolling farmland. And while most Americans are very friendly, I found that Southern hospitality is no myth."

Jerry has also come to believe "that camping out is the only way to travel. "You see so much more of the country, and really find out what the people are like." When asked for further comments about the trip his answer was, "Boy, I sure would love to make another one!"

Burnsed Is Cited For Salesmanship

Alwyne Burnsed, a GSC Business Administration student, has received recognition in a national magazine, according to Howard Jackson, of the business division.

Burnsed was featured in a summer edition of the "Aristocrat," a national magazine published by Aristo Craft Cookware.

Professor Jackson explained "that the Aristo Craft Area Manager, Jim Fowler, spoke to his classes several times. According to the "Aristocrat," Burnsed is considered one of Fowler's most promising Aristo Craft salesmen.

Dr. John Graham, GSC choral director, said that any student interested in singing with the Philharmonic Choir is welcome to enroll and that none will be turned away.

Show Features Remley Paintings

A show of paintings by Roxie Remley, assistant professor of art at Georgia Southern, has been planned for the fall quarter, according to Dr. Donald F. Hackett, chairman of the Arts Division.

The showing will be opened on Sunday at 3:30 p.m. with a reception which will last until 5:30 p.m. in the Carruth Arts Building on the campus. Miss Frieda Gernant, associate professor of art, will be staff consultant for the showing.

For Miss Remley, this is her second showing this year. Her first was at Pratt Gallery in Brooklyn, New York, where she studied and was awarded the Master of Fine Arts degree with a major in painting. Miss Remley will exhibit sixty works in the Statesboro show, demonstrating a wide range of techniques and media.

Among the group will be oils, some as large as 48" by 60," water color, graphic prints, and collages painted with ink on rice paper. Her paintings can best be classed as abstract impressions with strong rhythmic movement across the canvas.

Miss Remley, who hails from Indiana, has been a member of the Georgia Art Association and College Art Association. Her paintings have been exhibited in galleries in Chattanooga, Atlanta, Winston-Salem, New York, and Palm Beach.

For the past three or four years the BULLOCH HERALD has published a special edition during the opening week at Georgia Southern College. I would like to express my appreciation to the management of the HERALD for this issue, and their fine cooperation throughout the year.

Through the years the college has grown from a very small high school to a multiple purpose college with an enrollment of approximately 2,000 for the year 1962-63. Those of us who live in the Bulloch County area know something of the history and the purpose of the college. We realize the objectives of the college have changed during its fifty-four years of existence. In 1908 there was a real need for a district high school; during the early twenties it was felt by the people of the community as well as the administration of the college that this need no longer existed. In its place the need for the training of teachers had arisen and the function had changed from that of high school to a two-year teacher preparing Georgia Normal School. By the end of the twenties the college had changed from a two-year teacher preparing institution to a four-year teachers college and remained a single purpose college until 1959 when the name was changed from Georgia Teachers College to Georgia Southern College. In making the change to Georgia Southern, teacher education remained an important part of the college, but the curriculum was enlarged to include many additional programs.

For the 1962-63 term the college will have on campus approximately 1,200 students with a much larger number than ever before commuting or living in the city of Statesboro. Conditions on the campus will be crowded. There will be three students to a room in each of the rooms except in Deal Hall. The college day has been lengthened with classes beginning at eight o'clock and running continuously until five o'clock in the afternoon. All of this points to the fact that within the next three years there should be a new building program of at least six million dollars to provide additional classroom space, dormitories, and dining facilities.

In the state of Georgia in 1960 there were approximately fifty thousand people attending college. Predictions call for at least one hundred thousand by 1970. It seems to me that the state must accept its responsibility of providing higher education facilities for the young people, who are now in the public schools, and will be knocking at the doors of the higher education institutions in greater numbers each year. All of us realize that to provide facilities for these young people will require additional money and I am sure that the leaders of our state will find some way to provide an opportunity for higher education for our young people.

It is a thrilling experience to have in this community 2,000 young people from age seventeen to twenty-two, ninety full time college teachers, and twenty staff members in the Marvin Pittman School. These with the administrative personnel and maintenance workers gives a total of 263 people employed by the college with a yearly payroll of $1,172,995.00. It is good for Statesboro to have this large group of people from all over the state as well as from states outside of Georgia living from one to four to ten years longer, with us.

I would like to express my appreciation to the people of the community for their interest and support of Georgia Southern College.

ledge of foreign languages in this country. Money from this title is used to support summer sessions of study in foreign languages for teachers; language and area centers, which teach a critical foreign language and the geography, history, economy, sociology and literature of the people who speak that language; fellowships for students studying modern foreign languages and language research and studies projects.

Only 12 per cent of the national total for this title was spent in Southern states which meant a total of $5,134,829 came into the region to support foreign language instruction. Again, Texas received the largest single appropriation, $739,000. Others near the top of the Southern list were Georgia with $719,000 for language development and Louisiana with $632,000. New York and California topped the national list—New York received $7,426,000 and California $4,900,000.

There are few who would argue that in the case of the NDEA, federal aid has distorted the picture of local self-determination about education. In this case, the support of areas vital to the national safety have been of substantial benefit to the people and colleges of the South.

Lutheran Group Organized Here

The organizational meeting of the Georgia Southern College Lutheran Student Association was held Sunday night in the Frank I. Williams Center. Twelve Lutheran students were present for this initial meeting.

Plans for the ensuing year were discussed and the club decided to hold meetings the third Sunday night in each month. At these meetings, various speakers will discuss pertinent topics within the church and world affairs. The first speaker will be Rev. Griffin, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Savannah. Pastor Griffin will speak on the recent merger of the Lutheran Church.

The club also decided to visit Lutheran Churches in the area on the first Sunday of each month. They plan to be the guests of the Lutheran Church of the Ascension on the first Sunday in October.

Another policy accepted by the group was to open its meetings to all Georgia Southern students, especially urging those whose religious denomination is not represented in Statesboro or on the Georgia Southern campus.

Canady's Corner

By Hoyt Canady

The curtain has long been down on the 1962 baseball season at Georgia Southern. The Eagles opened on a chilly day in March with South Carolina, played through a rainy April and May, and went out to St. Joseph's Missouri to win the NAIA National Championship. To those of us who weren't on the team it may sound just as simple as that.

Just a few months ago, when academic life at GSC was coming to a close, the Eagles were fighting hard for a bid in the NAIA District playoff. They had played good baseball all season long; they had beaten some top-ranked teams; and in the eyes of many a fan, they had what it takes. But on an ill-fated road trip from Florida after a game with Florida State, a bus accident injured the bus driver and several players, and just about buried any hopes the Eagles had to winning a title.

Determination

A few days later, after all injuries were checked, the team voted unanimously to play in the district tourney. Of course, they realized that their chances weren't as good, but they were't relying on chance to get them through. These Eagles were playing on determination, a determination that separates great players from good ones, a determination that separates great teams from good ones.

After losing a game in this tourney to a strong Pfeiffer College of North Carolina, the Eagles dramatically bounced right back to sweep three games in one day to qualify for a crack at the National title.

Determination had brought the team this far, now they were even more determined not to meet with the same fate that befell them just two seasons earlier when they lost in the 1960 finals to Whitworth College and Ray Washburn (now pitching with the St. Louis Cardinals). There were six members of this team that played in the 1960 finals.

A Tremendous Victory

This time the Eagles were not to be denied. They had come for a title and were not going home without one. Thus, they became the first team to go through this double-elimination tourney unbeaten since 1958 when San Diego State accomplished the rare feat.

Two Eagles captured individual honors also by being selected to the 14-man all-tournament team which was chosen by the 32 major league scouts present and by the press and tournament committee. These were Tommy Howland, catcher, and Bill Griffin, short-stop.

This marked the first time that any Eagle team has captured a national title, and it goes without saying that this team will be remembered not only as being a great team, but they will also be remembered as a great group of boys who never gave up.

Tennis, Golf Teams To Be Continued Here

The GSC tennis team will be continued here next spring according to Coach Richard Stebbins. Stebbins remarked that prospects of the team seem favorable.

The team wound up last year's season with a record of one win and seven losses. Literally the record does not show a true indication of the team.

The coaching staff was favorably impressed with the showing of the team, according to Stebbins.

This year's squad is essentially the same as last year's, losing only one man in graduation.

The team, coached by Dr. Robert Ward and Richard Stebbins, will be captained this year by Steve Wright.

The net men are having difficulty in scheduling home meets because of the condition of the courts, Stebbins added.

GOLF

The golf team will also be continued this spring under direction of Coach Radovitch. Prospects indicate that the golf team will have a favorable season Stebbins said.

He went on to say that the coaching staff will hold a 72 hole tournament to determine the members of the squad for next spring.

Last year's team met with a fair degree of success considering their schedule. They rounded out their season with an invitation to the Miami Intercollegiate Invitational Tourney.

Stebbins also remarked that anyone wishing to come out for either of these sports is welcome and that the field at present is wide open.

Dunkel Rating

By DICK DUNKEL

Alabama and Texas will get to go fishing again this week while the rest of college football's Top Ten cuts bait.

Only 'Bama and the Longhorns appear to have it easy in the big tests of next Saturday. Rice seems to have the roughest assignment, against Penn State, although Ole Miss, LSU, and Arkansas could be headed for real trouble.

Here's how the leaders have paced themselves to date over this week's opponents, according to the Dunkel Index.

Alabama 45 over Vanderbilt Ohio State 21 over UCLA Texas 34 over Tulane Wisconsin 19 over Indiana Ole Miss 1 over Houston Arkansas 8 over TCU LSU 6 over Ga. Tech Rice 1 over Penn State Minnesota 20 over Navy

If they improve upon the above differences, their ratings will rise. Otherwise, their figures will deflate.

In the Dunkel system, a progressive index of difference by score, the higher rating teams have won in 78.1 percent of the 434 games, exclusive of ties, covered here this season.

Index differences of other big games of this week.

Friday Night
Miami, Fla., 6 over Florida State, G. Washington 2 over Furman.

Saturday
EAST: Boston College 10 over VMI, Villanova 7 over Buffalo, Holy Cross 23 over Colgate, Dartmouth 23 over Penn, Princeton 4 over Columbia, Harvard 1 over Cornell, Yale 2 over Brown.

MIDWEST: Purdue 6 over Notre Dame, Iowa 2 over So. California, Mich. State 6 over N. Carolina, Army 6 over Michigan, Kansas 9 over Colorado, Nebraska 12 over Iowa State, Northwestern 12 over Illinois, Missouri 14 over Arizona.

SOUTH: Tennessee 8 over Miss. State, Duke 5 over Florida, Auburn 9 over Kentucky, Clemson 9 over Wake Forest, Georgia 2 over S. Carolina, N. C. State 2 over Maryland, W. Virginia 14 over Boston U.

SOUTHWEST: Air Force 1 over SMU, Texas A&M 12 over Texas Tech.

FAR WEST: Washington 27 over Kansas State, Pittsburgh 20 over California, Oregon 33 over San Jose State, Stanford 8 over Oregon State, Wyoming 1 over Utah, Washington State 4 over Arizona State.

Schedule, with ratings, follows:

EXPLANATION — The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin relative to index of opposition, and is weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: A 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of equal strength. It was originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Gym Team Faces Tough Schedule

By GEORGE BAGGS, Staff Writer

The Georgia Southern Gymnastics team will be meeting many new rivals and facing a year of tough competition.

Among the new rivals are: Navy, at Annapolis, Queens College in New York, Merchant Marine Academy at Long Island, N. Y., plus many others.

Georgia Southern will also be competing in the NAIA championships for the first time this year. These championships are to be held at Eastern Illinois University. No date has been set at the present for these championships.

Coach Pat Yeager says the team is stronger than last year and will have a greater depth in all events.

To add to the team's strength, D. C. Tunison, co-captain, and last year's highest scorer, will be competing in all-around events again this year. This is Tunison's third year with the GSC team.

Puddy Harris, a sophomore and a native of Atlanta will be performing in all-around compe-dition in this year's meets. He worked with the team last year and showed good potentiality in all events.

Sammy Andrews a senior and this year's co-captain, will also be entering all-around competition for the GSC team. This is his third year with the team.

Robert Smith, a senior and a third year worker with the team, will be competing along with the team against this year's tough teams. Smith has been working the sidehorse and parallel bars in intercollegiate competition.

Charley Exley, a senior, and Larry Bacon, a sophomore, will also be entering sidehorse competition in this year's events.

The team will be boosted by a newcomer, Jon Peacock, a native of South Carolina. Peacock will be entering all-around competition, but will concentrate his skills in tumblings.

Coach Yeager said the team should have a pretty good season even though there will be rough competition. He went on to say that the schedule is incomplete and will be given at a later date.

Georgia Southern Clinches National Title; Returns home For Tremendous Reception

The Georgia Southern Eagles, after sweeping a three game set in one day in the district tourney here last May, added the perfect finishing touches by taking four games in a row for the NAIA crown, at St. Joseph's, Missouri.

The final victory came on Saturday night, June 9, over a game Portland (Oregon) State nine. With this win, the GSC Eagles became the first team to complete the double-elimination tourney without defeat since 1958.

Downed Minot State
The first team to fall victim to Southern was Minot State by an 8-3 count with Pierce Blanchard going the distance for his seventh win of the year. Next on the list was Winona State, who finished fourth in the tourney. In a hard-fought contest, David Bell picked up the win for the Eagles, 1-0.

The third team the GSC nine faced was Portland State. The Eagles snatched this one, the eleventh of the tourney, by a 5-2 margin. This time Coach Clements called on E. G. Meybohm, and the big right-hander came through by going the route for his second win of the year giving up six hits.

Southern again faced Portland State, this time for the championship, and again, Pierce Blanchard registered a victory. Blanchard, who pitched in the final game two years ago as a freshman, gave up five hits, but still managed to shut out the Portland State Vikings in the finale, 2-0.

Eagles Scored In The Fifth
The first Eagle tally came in the top of the fifth with two out. Outfielder Mickey Allen walked, Miller Finley was hit by a pitch, and the Viking catcher fired the ball into right field in an attempt to pick Finley off first. The second-baseman for the Vikings scooped up the ball and threw to the plate to stop Allen, but the throw was late and Allen scored.

The Eagles came through again in the ninth inning, again after two were out. Tommy Jones walked and successive singles by shortstop Bill Griffin and Allen brought him a round, to wrap up the game and the NAIA Championship for determined GSC team.

Griffin and Howland Shined
In addition to this, shortstop Bill Griffin and catcher Tommy Howland were chosen for the 14-man all-tournament team, selected by thirty-two major league scouts present and by press and tournament committee.

Pitching for Eagles Great Experience

By Lonice Barrett
Staff Writer

"With no outs, two men on base, and a potential slugger at bat, I thought that I was about to let the National Championship slip through my fingers." This was said by Pierce Blanchard, the ace of the GSC baseball pitching staff.

Blanchard, who at one time last year had the second lowest ERA (earned run average) in the nation, truly did not let the championship slip through his fingers. He went on to retire the next three batters in order, thus giving GSC the championship of the NAIA.

"Playing on this GSC baseball team has meant more to me than words could ever express. I have played with boys from all over the country and have learned a great deal about sportsmanship, fair play, and the qualities that help to make a fair athlete a great one."

"With a team such as the one that I had backing me last year, a fair pitcher could win 20 or more ball games. For example, in the National Tournament, they set all kinds of records for fewest errors, and most assists. Not only were they superb in the fielding department, but they also had the best team batting average."

"While the infielders and outfielders were making themselves known, the rest of the pitching staff was also compiling the lowest ERA in the nation. I consider it a real honor to even be associated with a team of the caliber of the one that won three games on Saturday last year and then went on out to Kansas City and brought the championship back to Georgia."

"Last year is now just a pleasant memory. We are going to have some hard work and toiling if we hope to succeed ourselves as national champions; but, with the team spirit, hustle and wonderful coaching shown to us last year by Coach Clements and his staff, I think we will make ourselves known again."

So says Pierce Blanchard, one of the most personable and talented young athletes GSC has seen in a long time. Much will undoubtedly be heard from Blanchard as he completes his senior year at GSC this year.

THE JUBILANT GSC EAGLES return to the campus on a drizzly June night after they had just captured the NAIA championship at St. Joseph's, Missouri. Here, President Henderson congratulates coach Clements and everyone is in good spirits despite the overcast weather. Holding the pennant are Clyde Miller (1) and Buzzy McMillan, and displaying the plaque are Larry Maurer (1) and David Bell.

Cage Tryouts Oct. 15; Asst. Coach Appointed

Head coach J. B. Scearce has announced that October 15 will be the date for official tryouts for this year's basketball team. This season all freshman candidates will be eligible for the varsity as well as the freshman team.

Coach Scearce stated that he expects all men to be ready and in good physical condition before practice starts. "Those not in shape will suffer," says Scearce. He also said that this year's team "should be improved."

The freshman team will be coached by Ed Thompson, a graduate assistant who played for Transylvania College in Lexington, Kentucky. In his senior year he made the All-Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletics Conference Team. After this, he coached for four successful years at Owen County High in Kentucky and one year at Fort Stewart, according to Coach Scearce.

Frank Radovich will be this year's assistant varsity basketball coach. Coach Radovich made High School All-American in his senior year, and in 1960 he was captain of the Indiana University team. The same year he made the All Big Ten Section second team. He played one year with Goodyear Rubber Company in the National Industrial Basketball League, and after a season with the Philadelphia Warriors, he gave up playing to coach at Georgia Southern College.

Intramural Plans Are Announced

The GSC Recreation Department, under the direction of H. Douglas Leavitt, has assumed control of college intramurals, which are now officially known as the Campus Activity Program.

Leavitt said that students will be organized into three leagues. The Dormitory League, composed of different sections of each dormitory, the Organization League comprising representatives from each campus society or club, and the Independent League giving students an opportunity to select their own teammates for the activities.

Each person who represents his team at any event is guaranteed an opportunity to participate, Leavitt said. The only exceptions are physical education majors, who will be used primarily as officials and coaches.

Leavitt added that entries in the touch football leagues (men) and volleyball leagues (women) should be turned in to him in the old gymnasium any day from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Cheering Squad Tryouts Tuesday

Tryouts for Georgia Southern cheerleaders for the 1962-63 season are to be held Tuesday, October 9 at 6 p.m. in the Hamner Gymnasium, according to Peggy Exley, a member of the '61-'62 squad.

All GSC students are being asked to be present for the tryouts, she said. Judges for the event will be Ruth Green of the Physical Education Division, Mrs. Carolyn Gettys, Dean of Women, and Coaches J. B. Scearce, Pat Yeager, Richard Stebbins, and Reba Barnes, also of the Physical Education Division, will be the cheerleader advisor for the coming season.

Last year's cheerleaders have been in charge of practices, which are being held each afternoon at 5 p.m. in the Hamner Gymnasium, for those girls wishing to tryout. Approximately fifteen girls have participated; the group is composed mainly of freshmen and sophomores, with one junior and one senior.

Woodrow Wilson Fellowships Up For Nominations

Competition for the 1,000 first-year graduate study awards offered by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation for 1963-64 is now under way.

Faculty members have until October 31 to nominate candidates for the awards. All nominees will be notified by the Foundation's regional chairman to return an information form immediately after receipt and to file other credentials no later than November 20, 1962.

Eligible for nomination are: men and women of outstanding intellectual promise, graduates of or seniors in the colleges and universities of the United States or Canada, and at the time of nomination, not registered in a graduate school.

Candidates who have done graduate work in the past in any of the fields supported by the Foundation may under exceptional circumstances be ruled eligible by the National Director.

Mid-year graduates should be nominated in their senior year. College graduates now in the armed forces are eligible if free to enter a graduate school in 1963-64. All candidates must be citizens of the United States or Canada, or aliens in the process of becoming citizens.

Requirements of nominees are: solid foundation at the undergraduate level for study leading to the Ph. D. degree; competence and facility in foreign languages and other subjects required in the pursuit of the discipline, such as mathematics, ability in the writing of essays and of reports on independent work accomplished in undergraduate years. Regional Committees will weigh a candidate's potential as well as the quality of his preparation for graduate work.

The regional chairman for Georgia is Professor Charles D. Hounshell, Room 402 Administration Building, Furman University, Atlanta 22, Georgia.

News Briefs

All students owning automobiles must register their car and attach the decal to the windshield within twenty-four hours after their arrival here, according to Howard Merriman, the Campus Security Officer.

Failure to comply with this regulation will result in a five dollar fine for the offender.

At the present time, there are about 900 automobiles registered. Of these, 448 belong to day students, 471 belong to dormitory students, 201 belong to staff members, and 33 belong to maintenance workers.

Several changes have been made in relation to cars on campus: the entire area in front of the Alumni Building is to be used for staff parking only; there is a yellow curb around Sweetheart Circle; and the new side walk on the road in back of the Frank I. Williams Center has a yellow curb.

Merriman stated that a copy of the traffic control regulations was available in the Dean of Students office.

FRENCH WEEK

French Week, which began Monday, October 1, will come to a close tomorrow night with a dance for the entire student body in the Alumni Building.

"Headlines 1962," the French Week theme, has featured displays in the Frank I. Williams Center and library, and a lecture with slides, with Mrs. Sam DiNitto, Brooklet, a native of Algeria, as the principal speaker.

Plans for French Week were made when the French Club met Thursday, September 27. Meetings will be held the first Wednesday of each month. Officers for 1962-63 will be elected at the November meeting.

MEMBERS WANTED

In a meeting this past Wednesday night, Phi Beta Lambda Officers announced that it would start its membership drive Monday, October 8.

Representatives of the club will be stationed in the Herty Building and the Frank I. Williams Center during the day to collect dues. All business majors are eligible for membership.

The Officers for the coming year are: Patsy Ginn, President; Harry Reese, Vice-President; Sandra Shugart, Secretary; Ellen Glisson, Treasurer; and Mary Nelson, Reporter.

The officers of Phi Beta Lambda, Georgia Southern business club, met recently to make tentative plans for a fall social in which all business majors, old and new, are invited to join, according to Betty Claxton and Howard Jackson, co-advisors.

BASEMENT HERTY BUILDING — The above (pictures) the basement of the Herty Building as it now looks with the recent addition of classrooms and offices. The renovation is not expected to be completed for several weeks. However, classes are already being held in the new rooms.

Well, freshmen, those hours of orientation, tests, meetings, lectures and tests. And you will remember that first week with fond nostalgia as being an all-fun and games of classroom
