Flu Shots
Still Available

Published By Students of Georgia Southern College

VOLUME 36

STATESBORO, GEORGIA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1962

NUMBER 5

SC To Sponsor 'Clean-up' Flu Shot Campaign

As the Student Congress Anti-Flu Drive ended Tuesday, 641 Georgia Southern students had been inoculated, according to Health Cottage staff nurse, Dorothy Wiggins.

"This number is far too small when the size of the student body is considered," she said.

In an effort to see that all students are inoculated the Student Congress will sponsor a "Clean-Up Drive," extending the period during which shots are available to students. It begins Monday, October 29, and runs until Friday, November 2.

That too few students knew that the flu shots were available and being administered is felt to be the reason behind the small turn out, said Nurse Wiggins.

This is the second year these shots have been administered to Georgia Southern students. Last year there was not one reported case of Asian Flu on campus, and there were 25 per cent fewer cases of general illness over the preceding year. Georgia Southern was one of the few colleges that did not have to close last winter due to an Asian Flu epidemic, the nurse added.

Students are scheduled for vaccination next week by the dormitories in which they live. The shots will be administered at the Health Cottage by the nursing staff during the hours 9-12 and 1-5.

The "Clean-Up Week" schedule is as follows: Monday, Oct. 29, Day Students; Tuesday, Oct. 30, Veazey Hall and Lewis Hall; Wednesday, Oct. 31, Cone Hall; Thursday, Nov. 1, Deal Hall and Anderson Hall; and Friday, Nov. 2, Sanford Hall.

Class Pictures Distributed Mon.

Reflector pictures are back from the photographer and are in the process of being identified, according to Marie Eubanks, editor.

Miss Eubanks stated that distribution of the pictures will be Monday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. They will be distributed from the Reflector and George-Anne offices.

The complete staff for the Reflector is as follows: Marie Eubanks, Clarkston, editor; Katherine Wellbrock, Savannah, assistant editor; and Danny Bray, Statesboro, business manager.

Student Council Sees Busy Week

The Student Council has made four recommendations, received two recommendations, received one reply to a recommendation, and appointed five committees to probe into various topics this week, while it is seeking 309 more votes to pass its proposed constitutional revision, according to Ray Bowden, president.

The group began patrolling the dormitories Tuesday night in search of students who hadn't voted in the general elections of October 15.

"This is our final area in which we hope to reach the two-thirds affirmative vote necessary to pass our constitution," Bowden said.

"I think we'll eventually make it," he added.

The Council also submitted four recommendations to the Student Personnel Advisory Council this week. They were as follows:

- 1) That Rat Day be kept as a tradition at Georgia Southern. This is on an eleven to one vote.
- 2) That Freshman Talent Night be altered to Freshman honors night, however, the Saturday after registration would be too soon to allow the sophomores time to organize such an event.
- 3) That a new "T Book" be published under a new name to acquaint students with the revised Student Congress Constitution and with new and changed regulations.
- 4) That corsages be banned from the Sweetheart Ball and the Starlight Ball formal dances.

The Committee of '41 had submitted two recommendations to the Council earlier this week. They were:

- (1) Concerning Who's Who: A. That Divisional Representatives to Student Congress be requested to obtain a list of seniors from their respective academic division who are eligible for Who's Who recognition. This would be done early in fall quarter — about the first or second week of school.

B. That student-faculty nominations to Who's Who continue to be solicited during fall quarter.

C. That new students, both freshmen and transfers who are upper-classmen be excluded in soliciting nominations.

(2) Concerning Rat Day: A. That Rat Day as we have known it be discontinued.

B. That certain positive activities of Rat Day be continued under this proposed structure:

1. That the Saturday following registration be designated as a day when a parade of freshmen and athletic events featuring freshmen - sophomore competition be sponsored by sophomores 2. That the freshman Talent Night on Friday evening be modified as a sort of Freshman Honors Day at which time selected talented freshmen would perform. Sophomores would be responsible for organizing this activity.

The Council also appointed the following committees: (1) a "Go Home Weekend" Committee; (2) a committee to consider naming the streets on campus; (3) a committee to probe into possible methods of improving the meal line problem; (4) a committee to consider the possibilities of adding more telephones to the dormitories; and (5) a committee to look into the possibilities of exempting students who have "A" averages in various courses from taking final exams in those courses.

Bowden said that the Council also received a reply to its earlier recommendation concerning the opening of the typing rooms in the Herty Building.

Dr. Paul LaGrone, chairman of the business division, said in a letter to the Council that, "typing rooms are held open during non-class hours only to the extent that the professors of typing deem it necessary. When the rooms are held open, they are under the supervision of the professors of typing."

Dr. LaGrone added that "Two of the professors are currently keeping one typing room open two hours per day. So far, three students have appeared each day to use the typewriters. This indicates that the need for extra practice time is not currently grave. If greater need should be demonstrated in the future, however, other professors of typing would undoubtedly make the effort required to keep these rooms open for their students."

GSC Pres. To Shine Student's Shoes At Fair

Dr. Henderson, Dean Holcomb, J. B. Seacore, and several other faculty members are to be "shoeshine boys" at the Halloween Carnival next Thursday night at the Alumni gym, according to Coach Pat Yeager. The "S" Club is the sponsor of the coming carnival.

Yeager also said that this year's carnival will offer a larger variety of entertainment than ever before. For along with the traditional events such as a door prize, a cake walk and a "go fishing" booth, there will be a large number of unusual booths offered. The Shoeshine stand where students can have their shoes shined by a faculty member and the foul shot booth are some examples of the entertainment which will be available at the carnival.

However there will be a charge for the various booths.

WEEKEND EVENTS

Friday night: Movie — "The Mating Game," 7:30 p.m.
Saturday night: Dance featuring "The Rockets" in National Guard Armory, 8:00 to 12:00 p.m.

DR. ZACH HENDERSON and Dr. Jack Averitt are pictured looking over the 290 page Georgia Southern report, the result of an institutional self-study and evaluation that is rapidly reaching a climax. An evaluation committee will be on campus November 4 to observe the information presented in this report.

Frat. - Sorority Group Submits Proposal

The Fraternity-Sorority Fact Finding Committee presented its recommendation to the Student Personnel Advisory Council this week concerning the establishment of social fraternities and sororities at Georgia Southern.

The recommendation presented reads as follows:

"We, of this committee, sincerely feel there is no further need to consider the question of whether or not to implement national fraternities and fraternities at Georgia Southern College.

We personally feel that the student body of Georgia Southern is of sufficient size and maturity to determine that which is best for them and this institution under the guidance of its capable administrators.

We therefore recommend:

- (1) That Dr. Henderson state definitely to the Student Congress whether or not his office will permit the implementation of national fraternities and fraternities at Ga. Southern College.

(2) If yes, that the Student Congress should be in a position to properly expidite this matter.

(3) If no, further action on the part of any member of the student body would be entirely unassumptious.

(4) The student body of Georgia Southern should be the determining factor in any event. The instigation of several national organizations of this type

H. H. Humphrey Blood Drive Set For November

The H. H. Humphrey Blood Drive will be sponsored by the Student Council in co-operation with the Red Cross Program and Dr. Samuel Tillman, Chairman for Bulloch County, on November 20, according to Faye Parker, chairman of the drive.

The blood drive is in honor of H. H. Humphrey, who was critically injured in the bus accident last spring when the baseball team was returning from a trip in Florida. Humphrey had been driving the bus for the college for 12 years with no previous accident.

The bloodmobile will be at the Army Reserve Armory in Statesboro on November 20. A prospective donor must be at least 18 years old. Regulations of the American Red Cross require all persons under the age of 21, who are not veterans of the armed forces or who are not married, to obtain written permission from their parents. Permission slips will be made available through the House Council in the dormitories two weeks prior to November 20.

Prospective donors will receive a free physical examination. Anyone not physically fit to donate is not allowed to do so. Donors receive entitlement cards which allow the donor or any member of his family to receive blood any time or any place within 6 months of his donation.

Dr. Tillman, Bulloch County Chairman, said that "Donors 18-21 are healthy and make ideal participants in the program."

Further information on this drive will be announced later, according to Miss Parker.

The "Committee of 41," whose name has been brought up in numerous conversations at GSC this quarter, has recently been described as an organization for the purpose of bringing outstanding leaders on campus together to evaluate and make suggestions to improve student life, according to Delle Boykin, recording secretary for the committee.

In addition, members of this committee will provide student leadership in orienting new students to the traditions of Georgia Southern.

The members chosen for this committee were selected because of their particular values to the college. The faculty advisors for the committee are Dr. Zach Henderson, president of the college, and Dr. Ralph K. Tyson, Dean of Students.

Choir Announces Events for Fall

The Georgia Southern College Choir plans to participate in several events fall quarter, according to an announcement made by Dr. John P. Graham, a new member of the Music Department.

The choir is planning a Lighting of the Christmas Tree program on campus, to participate in a Christmas program at Country Day School in Savannah, and to participate in a Christmas television program over an Augusta television station.

In 1953 he received his Doctor of Education from the University of Oklahoma. Dr. Graham has conducted opera and oratorio performances. He is a member of Phi Kappa Delta and is included in Who's Who in American Education and the Directory of American Education.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS

Ray Bowden, Student Congress president and campus coordinator, is selecting capable and interested students to help with the formation of a Young Democrat's Club here.

The club is proposed to be formed by the end of the first quarter. Anyone interested in helping with the project may contact Bowden.

Committee Rates College Nov. 4-6

A 290 page Self-Study report on Georgia Southern College has just been completed in preparation for a visit of the Visitation Committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The Committee will be on campus November 4 to view GSC and talk with the faculty and students for the purpose of evaluating the college.

Dr. Jack N. Averitt, Chairman of the two-year Self-Study project stated, "The basic purpose of the Institutional evaluation is to conduct an examination of that which exists and analyze the results in such manner that recommendations and projections will improve the total effectiveness of the college program."

This Institutional Self-Study is conducted primarily to fulfill the requirement of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, but the self appraisal will also serve as a guide in making changes as the College seeks to fulfill purposes and meet the needs of its constituents.

The report includes studies on purposes of the College, Administration and Organization, the Faculty, the Program of Graduate Study, Curriculum and Instructional Program, Research, Special Activities, the Library, Financial Resources, Plant and Physical Facilities, Student Personnel, and Alumni.

Dr. Averitt further added that Georgia Southern College was first admitted as a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in 1935. "Once an institution has been accredited by the Southern Association, it is necessary that the institution undergo a self-study every ten years," he said. This period-visitation program is designed expressly for the reevaluation and reaccreditation of GSC. For the past eighteen months, members of the faculty of Georgia Southern have been engaged in a thorough examination of the academic program and the services of Georgia Southern College.

On November 4, five members of the visitation committee, President Leo Jenkins, Chairman, East Carolina College; Dean Etter Turner, Dean of Women, Stetson University; Mr. S. B. Gribble, Assistant to the Director of the Library, University of Kentucky; Dean Jack W. Rollow, College of Arts and Sciences, Florida State University; and Dr. George N. Dove, Director of the School of Arts and Sciences, East Tennessee State College; will observe the campus of Georgia Southern three days.

After the visit, the members of the Committee will make a report to the Southern Association from which recommendations concerning the accreditation of the College will be made.

Dr. Averitt, chairman of GSC's steering committee, said that recommendations produced by this program of self-appraisal have emerged from careful analysis and meticulous consideration by the group, other members of the committee are: Dr. Ronald J. Neil of the Music Division, Roy Powell, English instructor, Howard Jackson, Business instructor; Dr. William Hitchcock, Education Division; and Dr. George Stopp, Health, Recreation, and Physical Education Division.

Deadline for purchasing Georgia Southern College Student Insurance is Wednesday, October 31, according to the comptroller's office.

Sinfonians To Have Pledge Car Wash Saturday

The Pledge Class of Phi Mu Alpha is sponsoring a car wash, Saturday according to pledge president, Wendell Strickland.

The car wash will take place at the Ranew and Mikell Shell Service Station on Highway 301, South, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The purpose of the car wash is to raise money to cover initiation costs during the fall quarter pledge period, Strickland said.

Librarians Form Student Club

All students are invited to attend the organizational meeting for an association for student librarians, according to Hassie McElveen, librarian.

The meeting will be held Tuesday, October 30th, at 7:00 p.m. in the "Classroom" downstairs in the Rosenwald Library. Students who are interested in becoming assistant librarians, teacher-librarians, and part-time or full-time professional librarians will find this new organization not only interesting, but also very valuable. So that no one is left out, all who are interested in learning more about libraries, how they operate, and how they serve, will receive a great benefit, too.

DON'T BURY THE ISSUE

The fact-finding committee on fraternities and sororities that was organized last spring submitted a recommendation this week to be considered by the president of Georgia Southern College.

The question as to whether or not fraternities and sororities should be sanctioned on the GSC campus became an issue of quite lengthy and sometimes heated conversation on campus last year.

The controversy culminated in the Student Council's recommendation that a committee be appointed to study and gather the factual pros and cons of social fraternities and sororities thus insuring a more "educated" decision on the matter.

The committee's present recommendation is essentially a call for the president to give a "yes" or "no" on the matter.

Should the reply be yes, the recommendation suggests that the student council be "in a proper position to expedite this matter".

If no, the committee feels that "further action on the part of any member of the student body would be entirely assumptious."

It was The GEORGE-ANNE's understanding that the student council last year was looking for facts from other institutions, and sources that could give a clearer picture of the effect of fraternities and sororities on various campuses.

Apparently, the committee has not gathered those facts.

Should any group of students be dissatisfied with the president's decision, which has not yet been announced, The GEORGE-ANNE would like to suggest:

That said students gather the facts favorable to their cause (positive or negative) and compile them into a form of recommendation.

And that they pass that recommendation on to the Student Council to be passed to the president.

We feel that this alternative should have been inserted in the committee's recommendation as the president has not been supplied with any further information than was on hand at the beginning of this issue.

Whether the president says yes or no, we feel that further research into the matter should not be completely discontinued should some persons deem it necessary.

ON 'RAT DAY'

Rat Day is a tradition at Georgia Southern College. The same activity, or its equivalent is a tradition at most colleges and universities throughout the land.

We feel that its abolition as such on the GSC campus would be a mistake. We also feel, however, that strict regulations and safe guards should be administered each fall to guard against any forms of "Rat" activities that may endanger the participants' health and well-being.

With such regulations and safe-guards, the activity could be of nothing but benefit to most college students.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

A committee to name the streets on the Georgia Southern campus has been formed by the Student Congress. The GEORGE-ANNE feels that correcting this situation that has long existed is an excellent idea.

As conditions now stand, if one would attempt to direct a visitor to the Carruth Building he might say, "Well, it's across from the Student Center. Huh? Oh, the Student Center? . . . Well, it's down this road, turn left. It's the first corner you'll come to. Take the turn and go until you see it. . . ." If he is lucky, the visitor finds the Carruth Building.

How much simpler directions would be if the streets were named and clearly marked.

In addition, naming the streets would give the college an opportunity to honor various individuals. For example, the road in front of the Music Building might be called "Hooley Lane" for the late Dr. Dan Hooley, who contributed vastly to the music department of Georgia Southern.

"Congressional Boulevard" a name suggested for the street running past the tennis courts and the Student Center, would commemorate the first actions of the new Student Congress.

We are aware that some of the campus streets are already named. These include the streets that the Health Cottage and the Haner Building face. However, markers for these streets are not apparent, and few students realize that they are named at all.

How many times have one of us tried to direct an out-of-town fan to a basketball or baseball game, and in the process become hopelessly confused?

Having all the campus streets named and clearly marked would be a great service to the student body, the faculty, and to visitors. We hope that this will soon be accomplished.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Once a year the paychecks of college professors are put under an economic microscope and are "graded" by the American Association of University professors.

If the grades were comparable to classroom grades, Southern colleges and universities would be in serious danger of flunking out.

The AAUP offers an "A" for faculty salaries to very few institutions in the nation and to only one in the South, Duke University. The "A" was awarded to universities which paid professors an average of $15,000 or more in 1911-62 and paid instructors an average of $5,800 or more.

The largest number of Southern institutions were listed in the "E" column of the AAUP report, one step ahead of the "F" which means about the same no matter who is doing the grading.

Institutions in the "E" list paid their professors an average of $7,000 plus a year, and their instructors about $4,000.

Southern Universities Pay Less
In spite of a 6.5 per cent national increase in faculty salaries over last year, the AAUP report said this of the general level of teaching compensation: "In the least affluent institutions salary levels for the lowest ranks are not enough to provide for a reasonable degree of subsistence, and the incomes of full professors at these places are not markedly higher than those of instructors."

The AAUP report and other studies of faculty salaries show that, as a whole, Southern colleges and universities still pay far less than those in other parts of the country. In every region of the nation, teachers colleges and church-related institutions remain low men on the salary totem poles.

Although public universities in the South generally pay salaries about equal to private universities, the public universities in other parts of the country have dropped farther behind private institutions this year.

Some Have Made Increases
Despite the generally sagging condition of Southern salaries, the AAUP report lists a number of large institutions, large and small, in this region among those which have made the largest percentage increases in salary between 1959-1961.

Duke University, the University of Florida, Florida A & M University, and Oklahoma State University are among the larger schools who have made outstanding increases in salaries.

Smaller institutions listed with high percentage increases are Knoxville College; Arkansas Agricultural and Mechanical College; Tennessee Polytechnic Institute; Pensacola Junior College; Mary Washington College; Hood College; Maryland and Western Maryland College; Also Morehead State College; the West Virginia Institute of Technology; and Centre College of Kentucky.

Georgia Schools Rated Low
The South is rather sparsely "C" salary rating categories with only 12 or our institutions showing up in the long list of those from other more distant places. These are: Johns Hopkins University; Rice University; Presbyterian College; Goucher College; the University of Virginia; Davidson College; Louisiana State University; the University of Louisville; the University of the South; and Washington and Lee University.

Georgia and Arkansas are about tied for the largest percentage of low ratings in the region. Of 15 Georgia institutions graded, six were rated "F" seven were rated "E" and one each "D" and "C." Only six institutions were rated in Arkansas and of these, four were "F" and two were "E."

Summing up its report, the AAUP authors said: "We can only conclude, then, that on the whole, developments during the past year, both with respect to faculty compensation levels and the operation of our survey, have been encouraging. The rate of progress is surely a tribute to the common efforts and interests of faculty members and college and university administrations." And, it might be added, to the efforts of trustees, legislators, and others who support our colleges and universities.

Help For Needy Freshmen

Editor's Note: During the summer months of this year, The GEORGE-ANNE has been in the process of joining the Associated Collegiate Press, an organization involving over 1,000 college newspapers in the nation. This week, the first parcel of "ACP" features came to our desk. We hope you like this and other features from ACP to be printed in The GEORGE-ANNE in the future.

(ACP) — The MINNESOTA DAILY has advice for freshmen on how to age quickly. Here are the rules from the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, publication:

You are scared. You are apprehensive. You are unsure. You are a freshman attending his first day of class.

If your instructor doesn't arrive when the bell rings, you could sit in class and wait for him until the dismissal bell. You'll be lonely, sitting there all by yourself, but you could wait. Better it is to adopt the standard waiting periods, graduated according to the instructor's rank, thusly:

Teaching assistant — if he isn't there when the bell rings, take a coffee break.

Instructor — Wait five minutes.

Associate professor — 15 minutes.

Professor — anywhere from 20 minutes to the time when h--- freezes over, depending on his temperature.

Girls, you may knit while waiting for your instructor, but as soon as he comes in, put the yarn away. Many instructors get visibly shaken if they have to lecture to half a class of females knitting little things.

Boys, you could play gambling cards during the wait, but it is advisable to put the cards away just before the instructor arrives. He may either report you for immoral conduct or join the game and win your allowance through 1965.

When the instructor asks a question you can't answer, you could say, "I don't know." You could, but that answer immediately brands you as a green freshman. Suggested alternatives are:

1. "I can't remember."
2. "The gentleman next to me."

Paging Southern

By ROLAND PAGE, Editor

"Fullerton's Fables" has been dropped from The GEORGE-ANNE and many of you have questioned me verbally and through Letters To The Editor as to "why."

When I asked Bob to become a columnist this year, we both agreed that he would express himself in his own way and that I would do the necessary editing of his material.

His second and final column was not properly edited. I had failed to see any lack of journalistic integrity in his words until they were called to my attention by The GEORGE-ANNE's faculty advisor last week.

Indeed I hadn't gone to any great pains in search of journalistic integrity since I had considered the column as Bob's words, and not those of the paper.

During the past few days I have learned this much: While a newspaper columnist is supposedly representing his own views, the weekly appearance of his work in a publication indicates a certain degree of endorsement of said views by the paper.

Consequently the paper must, to a reasonable extent, hold the columnist within the boundaries of its editorial policy.

That "rule of thumb" had not been clear to me before and as a result, the column was printed. I was told that "Fullerton's Fables" must be dropped, and I agreed.

Now let's look at the future. While I disagree with the manner in which Bob presented his argument, I feel that some sort of editorial comment on the subject which he cited was justified.

Some have declared that The GEORGE-ANNE was becoming a "controlled" newspaper. I had courted the same thoughts and after some quite lengthy conferences, the following points were clarified:

The GEORGE-ANNE will continue to hold the editorial policy and freedom of comment with which it began the year. The only change that has been made is that we will embrace all endorsed columns within that editorial policy.

Letters To The Editor do not, of course, represent the views of the paper, but those of the students who submit them. And those views must and will be represented. Whether they conflict with our policy or agree with it, their presentation tends to give a true picture of student sentiment on this campus.

Such a picture should be of invaluable importance to those who are interested in the general welfare of the college as a whole.

I'm sure that before the year comes to a close, we will receive some letters that will have indicated a great deal of responsible thought on the writer's part. We will receive others that may tend to reveal complete irresponsibility of thought.

I feel that the body of readers that comprises The GEORGE-ANNE circulation list has the necessary judgement of character to take each letter for what the writer is worth.

Because I've attempted to cover all questions concerning the matter at hand, and because the letters received on this matter were so great in number, they weren't printed this week.

Let me emphasize once more that no one's right to say what he feels has been infringed upon. A great deal of attention however, as to the matter in which he says it, must be administered.

Roots And Herbs

By Herb Griffin

Someone told me to never begin a column with the capital "I". So last night, after writing six speeches, conjugating 150 German words, reading 22 novels and a book entitled, "College Students Never Study", I began an absorbing program of research to determine how to write a column. Two hours and a pack of cigarettes later, I came to the conclusion that one simply starts and hopes for the best. I must confess that my research was not very thorough because I spent most of the time laughing.

O'clock, two little mice start nibbling at my toes and I have a good two hour laugh. I would have gotten rid of the mice a long time ago, but one of them is a Dorm Assistant and is really "In."

Now that the column has a somewhat dubious start, I can proceed to more lofty things, such as the second floor of the Administration Building.

One of the most pleasant things about the second floor is the view that it affords. One can see the activities that take place in Sweetheart Circle, such as Butterfly Catching, Bird Watching, Plant Identification, and Poetic Recitation. It is, indeed, heartening to see sons and daughters of the Ogeechee and Ohoopie engaging in such creative and stimulating pursuits. However, I must confess that some are not attracted to Sweetheart Circle.

Of course, the Administration Building has little attraction for some of us, particularly if we're majoring in Badminton, Basketweaving, or Fudge-Making.

One student enrolled in the Basket-Weaving Class hoping to find it a crisp course, however when he got to class, he found that 86 percent of the students were Navajo Indians and the teacher graded on a curve. Naturally such an enterprising student wouldn't be outdone, so he enrolled in the Fudge-Making Class. Not having a Business Degree, he became an instant success in the commercial world of candy-making. You probably know him as "Aunt Fanny".

A few days ago I received a letter from Cousin Sut Lovinbad, who is attending Ogeechee University. Just in case you're not "up" on things, Ogeechee U. is that Ivy League establishment located somewhere near Rocky Ford.

Last year they graduated three Gant Shirts and two pair of Gold Cup Socks. Ogeechee U. being much older than GSC has taken pride in its traditions. Having been founded by the Creek Indians and heavily endorsed by John Smith and Pocohontas, it has one of the best graduate schools south of Briar Creek.

Cousin Sut has been in their Graduate School for a few years working on his thesis entitled; "How to take the Rhyme Out of Humpty-Dumpty."

The English Chairman insists that the topic is too juvenile, however the Education Professor has given his approval, stating "It is not what you learn, but how you learn it." Actually Sut should have completed his Master's Degree ten years ago, but most of the courses at Ogeechee U. are only offered in alternate centuries or odd generations, with the exception of Education which is offered every week.

A recommendation limiting the number of offices a student can hold on campus has been brought forward. This proposed plan would be conducted on a point system. Each student would be given a set amount of points for each office he holds, and when he reaches the maximum number he will not be allowed to accept any additional positions. The purpose of this plan is to allow more students to participate in campus activities, but to prevent them from accepting more responsibilities than they can handle.

When asked for their opinion of this plan the following students replied:

Cecil Martin, Kite: I think it's a good idea because it will keep one person from having too much to do and also it will draw more people into major roles of an organization. An organization, however, may not have a qualified person who does not already hold offices.

Gail Nessmith, Statesboro: One person shouldn't hold too many offices. If you divide offices among more people you have a wider variety of ideas.

Johnny Kent, St. Simons: I don't think a student should be limited. He should be able to participate in as many activities as he pleases as long as he maintains suitable academic standards and continues to show qualities of good leadership.

Jane Cooper, Macon: I think that it's a good idea. It will give more people a chance to hold office.

Elizabeth Frazer, Moultrie: The proposal to limit the office-holding on GSC student leaders is one which, if adopted, can improve the quality of every club on campus. More students will have an opportunity to serve their clubs as officers; there are undoubtedly many students on campus whose talents in the field of leadership have not been used. Those students already holding a position of responsibility will be able to devote more time and energy to their jobs.

Ronnie Bell, Warner Robins: I think it's a good idea, because by having different leaders you learn different aspects of leadership.

Julie Hooper, Savannah: In my opinion this is a good idea. By limiting the number of offices one can hold, it will mean that he will have more time to devote to his studies and to the offices that he holds.

Arthur Jean Nesmith, Newington: I think that it is a good idea because it will give a larger number of people an opportunity to participate in the leadership of our organizations.

Jerry Bundy, Decatur: I think it's a very good idea. When a person holds several offices, he is unable to do his best. This also enables more qualified students to work.

Sandra Bucholz, Waycross: In my opinion this is a very good idea, because it will give more people an opportunity to actively participate in activities. Also this will enable active students to devote more time to their studies.

Carol Green, Macon: The point system of holding offices and other major positions on Georgia Southern Campus would benefit the individual as well as the student body, for often we are prone to spread ourselves thinly by "biting off more than we can chew."

Lori Chambliss, Roberta: The point system seems to be a good idea. It would give more people a chance to hold positions of responsibility. Many people don't have a chance to hold an office because someone known to be outstanding in another organization is elected on the basis of other offices held. This would give more free and equal chances for competition for an office.

Eagles Begin Preparation

When basketball practice started last Monday, a certain little man appeared to be beaming with delight over the potentialities of what is hoped to be one of the best basketball teams in the history of GSC. This person was none other than Coach J. B. Scarce.

After all, how many coaches can look over a team composed of a 6' 9" rebounding giant, a sharpshooter that can make the best shots look like beginners and a ball-hawking guard with hands nearly as fast as the great Larry Cart. Add several steady returnees from last year's squad to about ten talented freshmen, and what is the sum? You have what possibly could be another N.A.I.A. champion. Time will tell!

Gymnastic Team Working Hard

One of the most colorful and enjoyable sports in which GSC competes is gymnastics. Those who watched the gymnastic team perform last year will really look forward to this year's competition with eager anticipation. The team has been working hard and is looking forward to the opening match against David Lipscomb College in Nashville, Tenn.

Returning from last year's team are such stars as Sammy Andrews, D. C. Tunison, Larry Bacon, Charles Exley, Jerry Kight, and Robert Smith. According to Coach Pat Yeager, this year's schedule is the toughest ever. Matches are scheduled with such powers as Tech, Georgia, Citadel, Florida State, Florida, Navy, Queen's College and Louisiana State, with the latter team being here for Homecoming.

A New Look In The Pros

Switching from college athletics to the professional scene, the talk of the country seems to be centered on the "new" Washington Redskins. One would find it hard to believe that the team that now rests upon the top of the NFL league's eastern division is the same team that during the past three years has won but three games.

For several years now, the people around Washington have been saying that they soon would have a team comparable to ones on which the great Sammy Baugh played. They appear to have such a team now.

The only thing that could hurt the Redskins now, other than losing Bobby Mitchell or Norman Snead through injuries, is experience. Washington has a very young team compared to the rest of the teams in the National Football League. Their starting team's average age is twenty-eight; most of the players on the team have just a few years' experience behind them.

The thing that has propelled the "Skins" into the spotlight has been the terrific pass-catch combination of Bobby Mitchell and Norman Snead. These two athletes seem to have a phenomenal ability to pull off the big play when Washington needs it.

Mitchell, obtained from the Cleveland Browns, and Snead, the former Wake Forest All-American, are making opposing defensive teams look sad. It is almost unbelievable to see some of the things that Mitchell does. He appears to be just the shot in the arm that the Redskins have needed for so long.

I can think of no better team to win the NFL Championship than Washington; they might have to wait a year or two yet, but the championship flag should be flying over D. C. Stadium in the near future.

THIS WILL BE a typical scene during the fall quarter as Touch Football officially started last Monday in the Georgia Southern Intramural League. The games in league play will begin at 4 p.m. every Monday through Friday.

Thompson Pilots New Frosh Team

By GRANT KNOX

This year Georgia Southern will have a Freshman basketball team coached by Ed Thompson. "The freshman team was formed out of necessity," said Coach Thompson.

The lack of a large number of upper classmen on the Varsity team makes it necessary to coach and train younger men to fill in when they are needed. This will give the players experience that will help this season as well as next. This building program will help make a better team and in time will improve the won-loss record.

This year's Freshman team is reported to be the best that GSC has ever had. The team has great potential which the coaches hope to develop to its utmost. The players think that they look good as a team and that they work well together to never have played together before. If everything continues to develop as it is now, the team looks forward to a good season.

The Eagle Freshman team aides itself in teamwork and no dependence on any one man. They feel there has been an even development so that one player is not depended upon more than another.

Coach Thompson plans to schedule 14 games for the Freshman this year. For the most part they will travel with the varsity and play the preliminary game.

Here are the players and their home states:
Guards: Don Adler, Indiana; Jim Bellush, Indiana; Ronnie Griffin, Georgia; Glenn Johnson, Illinois; Jim Johnson, Indiana; and Danny Stephens, Kentucky.

Forwards: Bill Johnson, Illinois; Mike Richard, Indiana; Glenn Van Dielingen, Indiana; George Watson, Kentucky; and Jim Sealey, Illinois.

Center: Ronnie Floyd, Ga.

GSC Debaters Debut in Macon Meet Fri. - Sat.

The GSC debate team will take the negative side of "Should the Non-Communist Nations Establish an Economic Community" in the Dixie Debate Tournament on October 26 and 27 in Macon, according to Mr. Clyde Faries.

At the present time the members of this team are Marylenn Addlemen, a transfer student who debated two years at Reinhardt College and Ray Thompson, a transfer student from Brewton-Parker Institute.

To become a member of the debate team a person must be interested in debating and see Mr. Faries, director of the debating team.

According to Mr. Faries, "Anyone is welcome to join. You do not have to have experience; we hope that we will be able to train you.

Eagles Use Pro-type Offense; Open Scrimmage This Saturday

By ALLYN PRICHARD

The GSC Eagles will use a colorful, pro-type offense during the upcoming season, says Coach J. B. Scarce.

Aiding in the implementation of this system will be assistant coach Frank Radovich, whose experience in Professional Basketball should provide many invaluable insights into the intricacies of this complex style of play.

Scarce declined to single out any individuals for special praise. "So far, our practice sessions have been devoted to conditioning and fundamentals, and it's much too early to determine who will be our starting five."

"Several of our transfers and freshmen show promise that should keep them in the fight for the five top berths, and those who don't make it should provide us with plenty of depth."

One problem facing the Eagles concerns the emergence of a floor leader to fill the shoes of the now-departed David Patton.

Defensively, Coach Scarce occasionally plans to utilize a full court, man-for-man press which should fit in well with the Eagles' run-and-shoot offensive tactics.

me and I were discussing that very question just before you came in, but since he expresses it far more eloquently than I, I yield the floor to him."

3. Faint. (Never try this more than once with each instructor.)

4. "Ha, ha, ha. That's what I like about you, professor — your delightful sense of humor." (This usually serves to confuse him until the bell rings or until you can get the answer from someone nearby.)

When the dismissal bell rings do not immediately bolt for the next class. It gives an instructor an inferiority complex. Rather, sigh regretfully and glare in the general direction of the bell to show your displeasure at being interrupted in the middle of a stirring, inspiring lecture. Casually pick up your books, stroll through the door, THEN bolt for the next class.

Recreation Dept. To Offer Bridge Instruction Soon

The Georgia Southern Recreation Department will be offering instruction for beginning bridge players about the week of November 5, according to Mr. Doug Leavitt, head of the Recreation Department.

Mr. Leavitt said that this will be a night activity and will probably be held in the Frank I. Williams Center. There will be six one hour sessions, and there will be meetings twice a week for one hour at a time.

Instruction will be given by campus and Statesboro experts and will be followed by play and a tournament. Mr. Leavitt said, "We will have room and instruction for about one hundred students."

During the week of October 27, the week preceding November 5, there will be applications for enrollment in the student center, according to Mr. Leavitt.

For further information about this activity keep watching the GEORGE-ANNE.

It reflects average scoring margin relative to index of opposition, and is weighted in favor of recent performance. Chinese Student Hails Christianity

By JOHN TOSHACH

Upon his arrival in San Francisco following a long voyage from the Orient, Chao-Fan (Frank) Cheng looked forward to an exciting epoch in his life. After many stimulating experiences, Frank enrolled at Georgia Southern College this fall.

Frank took the Southern route through the United States in order to reach Mount Berry, Georgia. While travelling, he saw the Grand Canyon, passed through Arizona, and saw many other beautiful Southwestern states.

Before coming to Mount Berry, Frank spent five days with Mount Berry, Frank spent five days with a Christian family in Asheville, North Carolina. This and other arrangements for a Christian family in Asheville, North Carolina. This and other arrangements for Chao-Fan to stay with Christian families while in the United States were made by Miss June Lamb, a Presbyterian missionary in Japan.

Chao-Fan Cheng was born in Canton Province, China on January 3, 1939. In March of 1939 the Cheng family moved to Kobe, Japan, Cheng began his education in a privately supported Chinese school in Japan. He remained in this school until the fifth grade. Frank then attended a Japanese school for two years. In this school he had to regress two years as he did not know the Japanese language well.

Having taken the fourth and fifth grades over in this school, Frank then went to an English speaking school, Saint Michael's Episcopal School, which he attended until the ninth grade.

War sometimes bring good things. One of them is that Chao-Fan is now attending Georgia Southern College. After the Second World War, the vogue for the students in Japan was to learn the English Language. This was especially true of the Chinese students residing in Japan. Frank was one of these Chinese students.

At first, Frank was learning the English Language so that he could be "part of the gang." His quest for the comprehension of English brought him into contact with some Christian Missionaries stationed in Japan. Ten years ago Frank was baptized a Methodist. Soon thereafter, a Presbyterian missionary came to Kobe and, under the influence of this person, Frank became a Presbyterian.

Chao-Fan has remained a Presbyterian to this date. He said that if it were not for the fact that he was converted to the Christian belief, he would have had no desire to come to this country.

He added, "The influence of Christianity on the belief in the brotherhood of mankind is indeed great."

Frank's main interests at this time are: Christian theology, Christian philosophy, and psychology. Frank said, "The world should be a better place in which to live when young people like ourselves should take more interests in these areas."

He is now planning a double major in French and English. Frank finds people in America especially friendly and in Statesboro and GSC he finds people are even friendlier. The sophomore said that the most interesting event that he has been a part of in the United States was when he "thumbed" from Savannah to Rome.

The trip of ten hours interested him most because of the intimate contact that he made with so many people.

Frank worked as clerk at T.S. Chu's department store at Savannah Beach last summer.

He said that these experiences were priceless to him in that they put him closer to the mainstream of American life.

Cheng finished his high school education at Mount Berry High School with honors. From there he went to Berry College where he finished his freshman year of college. He is now a sophomore here at GSC.

After going as far as he can in college, Chao-Fan plans to go to Formosa in order to be a missionary to the Chinese people there. Frank said, "I think that the belief in the Christian God, Jesus Christ, is an important factor in living correctly and being just to one's neighbor."

Cheng To Speak To Presbyterians

Sunday evening at the 7 p.m. worship services of the First Presbyterian Church, Chao-Fan Cheng will be the guest speaker.

Frank Cheng, as he is known locally, is a student this year at Georgia Southern College. He is a sophomore and a language major. Mr. Cheng is a native of Canton, China.

Before coming to the United States he had for some time been a practicing Christian. His coming to study in our country was in part made possible by Presbyterian missionaries in Japan. Since being here he has been an active participant in the program of the First Presbyterian Church.

On Sunday evening he will give a personal testimony of his contact with and conversion to the Christian faith. The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

CHAO-FAN CHENG discusses his home, his aspirations, and his present activities with GEORGE-ANNE staff reporter, John Toshach. Cheng, born in China and a resident of Japan, is attending GSC with the hope of becoming a missionary in Formosa.

Social Security Representative Here Tuesday

The Social Security Administration is recruiting for college seniors to fill positions as Claims Representatives Trainees in district offices throughout the southeast.

These positions are filled with graduates who have passed the Federal Service Entrance Examination. Since January of this year over 32 recent college graduates have been hired in the southeast.

J. W. Overstreet and Carl Walker from the Savannah office will be on campus in conference room 106 of the student center Tuesday, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., for the purpose of interviewing and receiving applications for these positions.

Selected applicants enter service as Claims Representative Trainees, grade GS-5, $4565 a year. After six months of training, and some practical experience on the job, the Trainee is promoted to the GS-7 grade at $5540 per year. After twelve more months of experience and training, satisfactory employees are promoted to the full grade of the Claims Representative job, GS-8, at a salary of $6090 per year. Promotional opportunities to the higher grade Field Representative, Claims Supervisor, Assistant Manager, and District Manager positions are good.

There are 65 social security offices located throughout the southeast. One of the requirements for employment is that the applicant be willing to take assignment to any one of these offices. After approximately 18 months on the job, employees can request transfer to local-

Dr. Franz J. Polgar, noted hypnotist, scheduled to appear in McCroan Auditorium, yesterday, was forced to cancel his performance because of a severe attack of the flu, according to Jack Broucek, chairman of the Campus Life Enrichment Committee.

Broucek urges all students who hold tickets for Polgar's performance to keep them for these tickets will be good when the performer is able to come, probably in early November.

Students who do not have tickets may still obtain them at the Dean of Students' office, Broucek said. However there are only a few tickets left, and interested students are urged to secure them as soon as possible.

OWMBEY ELECTED

Vernon Owmbeey, Alpharetta, was elected recording secretary of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Fraternity Monday, according to chapter president, Joe David.

Owmbeey will assume his duties this week, and will fill the vacancy left by the outgoing secretary.

Other officers in the fraternity are Joe David, Washington, president; Pat McMillen, Ring-Fouche, Brunswick, corresponding gold, vice-president; Tom Tifton, treasurer; Billy Martin, Valdosta, warden; and Earl Collins, Lyons, warden.

tions of their choice. As openings occur, the Social Security Administration makes every effort to fill these requests.

Though the examination is given every month from October through May. Those who take the first examination usually stand a better chance to be selected.
