"Anybody Got Beard Fertilizer?"

Jerry Kight, publicity chairman for the "Old South Ball" measures the progress made by one GSC man who hopes to contest for the "longest beard of the Ball." Tickets are still on sale at $3 per couple. The traditional dance gets underway at 8:30 in the National Guard Armory.

Dr. Robins Speaks For Honors Day

The Honors Day Convocation for Georgia Southern College students will be held on May 13 at 10:15 a.m., in McCroan Auditorium and the speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Gerald B. Robins, who is President of Augusta College.

Dr. Robins has been President of the college since 1957, and prior to this time, he was a member of the faculty of the University of Georgia, where he was chairman of the Executive Committee of the College of Education.

Dr. Robins, a native of Salem, Arkansas, graduated cum laude from the University of Arkansas in 1948. He received his M.S. from Arkansas in 1950, and he was awarded the Ed. D. degree from the University of Georgia in 1954.

While in college, Dr. Robins was a member of Kappa Sigma, social fraternity; ODK, leadership organization; Psi Chi, honorary, psychological society; Kappa Delta Pi, honorary educational society; Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholastic organization; Phi Delta Kappa, honorary society of men in education. He was the charter president of the campus Phi Delta Kappa and received the coveted service award key of the organization in 1961.

Dr. Robins was a combat navigator during World War II, and he is now serving as a Major in the Air Force Reserve.

He is active in church, community, and civic work, and is presently serving as President of the Augusta Rotary Club. He is a mason, and was a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. His religious preference is Methodist, and he is a member of the Trinity-On-The-Hill Methodist Church.

Dr. Robins is married to the former Fay Ann Kennan, who is a native of Little Rock, Arkansas, and they have two children, Gerald Robins, 13, and James Robins, 10.

Augusta College has tripled its enrollment and the quality of the instructional program has been upped under the leadership of Dr. Robins.

The purpose of the Honors Day program is to recognize and commend students meriting scholarship honors; senior students who have exhibited constructive leadership in the advancement of the college program or who have rendered unselfish service in an outstanding manner during their college experiences; and students who have been designated as recipients of specified awards given for participation in certain phases of the college program.

Nominations for the Leadership Service Awards are made by the administration and faculty of the divisional groups. Members of the Honors committee, which are selected by President Zach Henderson, are Dr. Burton Bogtish, Dr. William McKenny, Miss Has-sie McIveen, Miss Jane Barrow, Mr. Lloyd Joyner, and Dr. Ralph Tyson.

The cumulative data on all nominees is reviewed by the Honors committee, and nominees are screened for academic standing, evidence of constructive leadership, and evidence of service to the college community.

To be eligible for the excellent scholarship award, students must maintain a 3.5 average for five consecutive quarters.

The Sunday preceding Honors Day is Parents Day, and the parents of all students are invited to visit the campus.

Antebellum Class Sees Charleston For Study

The Ante-Bellum South history class will leave Friday, May 17 at 6 a.m. on a chartered bus for a weekend tour of historic Charleston, S. C., according to Dr. Jack N. Averitt, chairman of the social science division.

The biennial pilgrimage led by Dr. Averitt will include a visit to Middleton Place Gardens, a tour of a few homes of the antebellum period including the Heyward-Washington house, the Joseph Manigault house, and the Nathaniel Russell house.

Also to be toured on Friday afternoon will be the St. Michael's and St. Philip's Episcopal churches. The group will later check into the St. John's Hotel and attend a play at the Dock Street theater that evening.

Saturday the group will be the guests of Archibald Rutledge at Hampton Plantation located about 40 miles north of Charleston at McClellanville, S. C. Returning to Charleston they will take a tour of the harbor and visit the island fortress of Fort Sumter.

Sunday the group will worship at St. Michael's and visit the Charleston Museum before returning to Statesboro.

$6,880 GRANTED TO BIOLOGY DEPARTMENT

The Biology Department of Georgia Southern College has just been notified if its being selected to receive $6,880 for the purpose of offering an In-Service Institution to secondary high school teachers of biology. This award was issued by the National Science Foundation to Dr. Richard P. King, associate professor of chemistry.

Two courses will be offered during the 1963-64 school year: General Physiology and Plant Anatomy. They will be instructed by Dr. King and Dr. John F. Boole, department chairman. The first course will be taught from September to February.

According to Dr. King, not more than twenty people will be entered in this institute. Travel expense and book allowance will be given to those students participating in the study. Anyone interested may write Dr. King, National Science Foundation, In-Service Institute, Georgia Southern College.

Language Arts Awards Dinner Slated May 23

The first annual Language Arts Awards Dinner will be held May 23, at 7:30 p.m., at the Forest Heights Country Club. Dinner will be served followed by an awards program.

Under the direction of Clyde J. Faries, assistant professor of speech, and Ric Mandes, director of Public Relations, honors will be presented in the areas of drama, literature, and public speaking. Tickets are $2.00.

During the program, Robert Overstreet will present the drama awards; Roy Powell, the "Josh Lanier Literary Awards;" and Clyde Faries, the "Bullock Herald Public Speaking Award."

After the presentation of the literary awards, excerpts from the prize-winning short story and poem will be read. Next, those attending will see the finals of the public speaking contest. Faries states that the entire program will last about 45 minutes.

Anyone desiring tickets should contact Faries, Powell, Overstreet, or Mandes. The deadline for purchasing tickets will be May 20.

Music Division Buys New Organ

The music department has purchased an electric organ, costing approximately $1,000, to be used in the recital hall of the music building as well as in McCroan Auditorium.

The organ will be delivered in about 2 weeks, and will remain in the music building for student practice and recitals until needed in the auditorium.

"Old South Ball" Tickets Still On Sale At $3

Beards, Belles, rebel flags, and "Top Hats" will flood the Statesboro National Guard Armory Saturday night at 8:30 as the 1963 annual "Old South Ball" swings into motion.

Tickets are $3.00 per couple and are now on sale in the lobby of the student center. Donald Westberry, Junior class president and chairman of the dance, urges that all students buy tickets in advance in order to avoid a rush at the door.

The "Top Hats," a five piece band from Valdosta who will provide the music, performed at GSC for the homecoming dance and have performed at all the major colleges in Georgia.

Their style of music, according to Westberry, ranges from Rock and Roll to that of the "Four Freshmen." The instruments used are a piano, guitar, bass, drums, trumpet, saxophone, and a valve trombone.

Westberry added, "The theme for this year's ball is entitled 'Southern Spring,' which will be designated to portray a typical springtime in the antebellum South."

Prizes will be awarded to the boy who possesses the longest and "most southern looking" beard; and to the girl who best typifies the "Southern Belle" look, according to Jerry Kight, publicity chairman.

Robert Manley, a photographer from Augusta, will be on hand to take pictures of couples. Westberry said, "Manley will have some of his pictures on display in the student center on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday so that students may see the quality of his work."

Prices for the picture will be $4.00 for two 5"x7" photos in a plastic frame, plus two 2"x3" and wallet-sized pictures. Both sizes will be in color.

Chairmen of the different committees are as follows: decorations, Marie Eubanks; Publicity, Jerry Kight and Linda Scott; Refreshments, Fran Skelton and Brenda Goswic; and tickets, Laura Faye Abney.

The APO pledges are helping with decorations. The Armory will be decorated in a typical Southern atmosphere. Dress has been designated as formal.

ALPHA GAMMA PHI

Ten freshman men have been invited to become members of Alpha Gamma Phi, an honor fraternity for freshman men who maintain an overall B plus average during their first two quarters at college.

Small Crowd But Interested

This was the scene in McCroan Auditorium Tuesday night as approximately 75 students heard the ten candidates for Student Congress offices lay out their platforms. The candidates commented on issues ranging from the honors system to supervised parking for dating couples. For pictures of all the candidates, plus their answers to some GEORGE-ANNE questions, see page 3.

'Brigadoon' Set For May 9 - 10

The GSC Music Division's production of "Brigadoon" is set for appearance in McCroan Auditorium on May 9 and 10, according to Dr. John P. Graham, director.

The rehearsals are being conducted nightly from 6:30 until 8:30 p.m. in Marvin Pittman Auditorium. Rehearsals will continue to be held there until the McCroan stage can be procured for rehearsals, said Graham.

"The Learner and Lowe musical which was first produced in 1947 received much acclaim and is recognized as a general favorite among musicals," added Graham.

The production is centered around the strange little Scottish village of Brigadoon, which comes to life for twenty-four hours only once in every hundred years. Two American hunters of the present suddenly stumble upon Brigadoon on the one day of its existence. "The events that follow are interesting and entertaining," said Dr. Graham.

The musical score for this production includes such songs as "Almost Like Falling in Love," "Heather on the Hill," "Come To Me, Bend To Me," "I'll Go Home With Bonnie Jean," and the title song "Brigadoon."

The cast, which is made up entirely of GSC students, includes: Amelia Robertson as Fiona McLaren, Price Chapman as Tommy Albright, Bob Fullerton as Jeff Douglas, Jackie Comer as Meg Brookie, Harry Briner as Charlie Dalrymple, Pat McMillen as Mr. Lundie, Gail Means as Jean McLaren, Lloyd Williamson as Angus McDuffie, Billy Wilson as Andrew McLaren, Joe Johns as Frank the Bartender, Linda Gillis as Jane Ashton, and Jamie Arnold as Meggie Anderson.

Dr. Graham stated that dialogue and chorus parts, including solos have been combined, and the show is beginning to show signs of shaping up into a real production.

Dr. Jack Broucek and Joy Letchworth will accompany the production on piano.

Announcements were made concerning preliminaries of the GSC registration for summer school work by Lloyd Joyner, director of admissions.

Joyner states that students planning to enroll in summer work with the college must fill out a "former student application." The student must present a registration permit at the time of registering for his course work. This permit will be mailed to each student after completing the former student form.

Applications may be picked up from Joyner's office between now and the end of spring quarter. This procedure will allow the office of the registrar to know how many students are planning to attend summer school.

If a student has not filled out a former student application at the time of registration, he will be required to complete one before he is officially accepted in school. Anyone interested in receiving additional information about summer school matriculation may write Joyner, Georgia Southern College.

Applications For MP Scholarship Due Saturday

Applications for the Marvin Pittman Scholarship to be awarded on Honors Day, May 13, must be submitted to Dean Carroll not later than midnight, Saturday.

The Scholarship, established in 1955 by the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Statesboro in memory of Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, provides tuition and fees for the academic year, beginning in September and concluding in June. For the 1963-64 year, it is valued at $216.00.

Present juniors are eligible. Selection of the recipient is made by a committee appointed by the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Statesboro on the basis of scholastic rank, character, qualities of leadership, achievement, physical health and vigor, and promise of future distinction.

Additional information and application blanks may be obtained from Dean Carroll.

Polls Open 8-5 As Ten Names Appear On Ballot

Student Congress elections of officers for 1963-64 will get underway Monday morning at 8 a.m. with ten candidates seeking five different offices, according to Ray Bowden, Congress President.

The week-long campaign began on Monday of this week, and the ten candidates presented their campaign speeches before the student body in McCroan Auditorium Tuesday night.

The polls will be closed at 5 p.m. Monday afternoon, but Bowden stated that there is a chance that they will be open longer if student support demands it.

For the candidates' statements concerning some of the issues which they will be facing, see page three. For editorial comments see page two.

Bowden went on to say that a request was made to Rockwell Manufacturing Company for the use of several voting machines which "will be used on the same basis as last year's election."

However, he explained that to obtain the machines, Rockwell would have to clear it with the home office in Jamestown, Virginia, and the machines would have to be shipped to Southern from Jacksonville, Florida. But official word as to whether or not the machines will be used in Monday's election had not been received as of Tuesday night.

Bowden further stated that he expected approximately eighty-five per cent of the on campus students to vote in the upcoming election.

He went on to say that another time may have to be set up for the election of division representatives if all the division nominees are not selected by the Tuesday night deadline.

The ten candidates for Student Congress positions are as follows: Don Westberry of Odum, who has been a member of Gamma Sigma Upsilon, the Baptist Student Union Council, Alpha Gamma Pi (freshmen honorary fraternity), and was an officer of SNEA. He is a social science major, and is currently President of the Junior class.

Politics At Georgia Southern College

Those who failed to attend Tuesday night's campaign rally, at which Student Congress officer candidates revealed their platforms, missed what may possibly have been the most interesting session of its nature on the GSC campus in years.

With favorable surprise, the GEORGE-ANNE listened to congressional candidates not only talk but SAY SOMETHING while in the process. With equal satisfaction, we noticed that some quite opposite viewpoints on several issues were presented — the most striking of which would have to be the opposing viewpoints of the two presidential candidates on the honor system.

A glance at page three of this week's GEORGE-ANNE should give first hand insight as to how their ideas differ on this and other points. All the candidates have said more than "I'd like to serve you." We urge all voters to study the answers to the vital questions on the opposite page given in the candidates' own words.

Study those answers, and not only vote Monday, but vote for or against something more concrete than a "friend" or an "enemy."

As for The GEORGE-ANNE's stand in the election — We had courted the idea of coming out openly in favor or in opposition to one candidate or the other (which hasn't been done in quite some time).

But since we've been so intent on basing this election on issues rather than personalities, we decided against that. The GEORGE-ANNE'S feeling on most of the ideas brought forward have been expressed on this page quite often in the past. Needless to stay we support the candidates who seem to most closely coincide with those feelings.

Responsibility Limited??

Sometimes life can be simple in a coed dormitory, and at other times the meaning of life in such a dorm can be misleading. For, by some strange coincidence they are told to act as mature college women and not irresponsible girls. However, to this end, their rules and regulations leave much to be desired.

One in particular is that rule about lights having to be out by midnight in the freshmen women's residence halls, and then having someone check the rooms a few minutes later to see that none of the girls are staying up late studying in their rooms, thereby disobeying regulations.

Why not go a step further and tuck them in ?? Or station someone at every room to make certain that no "hanky-panky" is going on. It is understandable that strumming a uke, playing a stereo, or merely talking loud after the witching hour is bound to disturb more than one coed's sleep, but it is inconceivable that someone staying up studying or finishing a research paper is going to arouse

In recollection, we quote briefly some passages which have appeared in earlier issues of The GEORGE-ANNE:

February 7 — "... one can usually find a student condemning one GSC rule or the other as 'outdated, puritanistic, unfair' and so forth. There are also a few students who feel that present rules and regulations are 'too lenient and too liberal.' We found that a few of the stipulations within (The T-Book, ARE outdated, and some haven't been enforced for years."

April 4 — "This proposal (an honors system), as seemed at Thursday's meeting, could be one of the wisest moves made in recent years concerning student affairs, or it could turn out to be another loud flop." (It all depends on the manner in which it's organized.)

April 4 — "Wouldn't the chances of any unforeseen happenings be greatly reduced if this school were to set up a sanctioned on-campus parking area for dating students."

November 8 — "However, The George-Anne cannot see any validity in the fact that the number of automobiles on campus would have to be restricted (for freshmen) when sufficient space could be made available without much difficulty."

The candidates have commented on these issues either in Tuesday night's speeches or in today's paper. Find out what they have said, and vote as you see fit.

One more thing. We'd like to see GSC's elections conducted on a mature political basis, and it seems this week that the college may be maturing politically. We feel that professional politicians, however, display immaturity when they resort to attacking their opponents' personal lives. Let's keep that phase of professional politics out of the GSC picture.

the slumber of all the girls on her wing.

After all, if someone is going to stay up late and disturb someone else's sleep, they will find some way to do it despite "lights out" rules and periodic room checks.

It is quite obvious that no such rule is prevalent in the freshmen and sophomore men's residence hall, and it is equally obvious that no such rule could be enforced without some sort of major uprising. Now, if freshmen men are supposed to be more responsible than freshmen women, why has the GEORGE-ANNE received so many complaints about loud stereos, guitars, fireworks, and thievery in Sanford Hall?

The GEORGE-ANNE feels that some arrangement should be made on a trial basis whereas girls should be given the right to stay up later if they wish, as long as there are no unnecessary disturbances. However, before this is put into permanent practice, these coeds must prove that they are capable of accepting this responsibility, or the status quo will remain with adequate justification.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Novelist William March stormed the Broadway stage and left a mark of gold on commercial publishing with "The Bad Seed" and other best-sellers.

But one of his most significant manuscripts—a collection of 99 fables—was not considered a good venture for commercial publishing. The fables later appeared under the imprint of the University of Alabama Press. When they were published, Harper Lee, one of Alabama's favorite writers, said:

"Now, thanks to Dr. William T. Going and the University of Alabama Press, William March's Fables are where they should be: in print, for the delight of anyone who enjoys a noble sentence, an astringent and unique personality, and wisdom born of worldly knowledge."

University Presses Serves Many Functions

University presses of the nation serve many functions — to publish significant works not profitable to the commercial press; to publish academic books which contribute to an understanding of human affairs in the arts or the sciences; to publish results of scholarly research; to encourage scholarship in the region served by the university and to serve the university in many ways.

Some 75 university presses now produce nearly nine per cent of the 18,000 new books issued each year in the United States. In 1961 their sales totaled $12 million, according to the American Book Publishers Council.

Most university press publications come from 41 presses which belong to the Association of American University Presses. Among these are 11 presses at Southern universities — Duke, Florida, Georgia, Johns Hopkins, Kentucky, Louisiana State, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Southern Methodist, and Texas.

The University of Virginia has established its new press "a true academic press for publication of scholarly works in Virginia."

Purpose Given

One of the first purposes of the university press was to keep alive regional culture and regional points of view in this country.

Most of the university presses still publish valuable regional materials. As an example, the University of South Carolina Press recently released the second of two volumes of "The Papers of John C. Calhoun," a collection of papers and documents contributing to the histories of several states, to the stories of 30 different Indian tribes and to the biographies of national and state leaders. Louisiana State University and the University of North Carolina presses also publish many historical and cultural studies of the South.

Many Fields Are Served

Specialized publications from every academic field roll off the presses bearing a Southern university imprint. One mammoth production is the University of Texas publication, "Trees, Shrubs and Woody Vines of the Southwest," 1,104 pages holding 1,240 illustrations. Four other University of Texas Press books were named on the "Southern Books of the Year" list last year.

Lockheed Aircraft Corporation's Technical Information Center in Palo Alto, California, buys "everything university presses publish in science and technology," according to its manager.

In 1947, Thomas J. Wilson, director of the Harvard University Press, said, "The university press publisher has as his objective the publication of the maximum number of good books this side of bankruptcy."

His description of purpose was limited, but it gives one of the basic premises behind the university press—that part of a university's job is wide dissemination of knowledge without profit, but with benefit to all.

Letters To Editor

Dear Editor,

I see the first letter I wrote infuriated a young lady. Good! I was hoping it would step on somebody's toes, but Miss McKnight stepped on mine when she said, "Try your own advice and perhaps you won't have such a complaint." I can assure you Miss that if I ever gave any advice or if I ever give any advice on a matter such as this, it's a dead certainty that I have been practicing and I will practice what I preach. In other words, I do definitely speak first (that is, if I can do so before the person looks the other way.) In fact, I even speak to some people who have their heads turned just to see the look of surprise on their face when they turn around.

Before I wrote my letter, I also asked the opinion of several people and they all agreed with me, so I suppose the conclusion to be drawn from that is that it depends on who you ask as to whether or not people at GSC are friendly.

I didn't intend to write about unfriendliness again this week, Mr. Editor, but a lot of times I have to do things I didn't intend to do so please excuse me. I am not going to be surprised if my letter about girls smoking incites a riot among the female population of this school. Girls really do hate to be laughed at about things of that nature.

I remain
Amused

WHY DO THEY DO IT?

(ACP) - Merchants whose stores line the campus of North Texas State University, Denton, Texas, estimate that each time the cash register rings up a $1 sale, three cents will have to be used to pay for merchandise stolen by students.

Why do students steal? THE CAMPUS CHAT, university newspaper, quoted one dealer as saying: "I think a lot of kids just want to see what it's like to take something home without an explanation of how they bought it."

Another said he considered stealing an act of immaturity and that he expected a certain amount of it among freshmen.

What do students steal? Suits, shoes, dresses, coats, salad bowls, carving knives, lamps, steaks and innumerable foodstuffs.

"These students," one businessman said, "are like little kids and they have to have their hands slapped once or twice before they really learn right from wrong."

By ROLAND PAGE, Editor

"So we've got problems—so the school needs this and should do that—so that term paper is due next week. Right now, I give a—"

This is a tragic attitude and a disheartening one to take at GSC or any other college. And yet, it seems to be the overriding theme of student sentiment every year at this time.

Summer is near and perhaps no one on this campus is happier to see it come this year than yours truly. I don't know if all students are the same, but to me, the three terms that make up a school year here inevitably lead to three different attitudes toward campus life.

Fall quarter I'm full of energy, ready to renew old friendships, fling into extracurricular activities, fight for whatever is worth the effort, and break all records grade wise. It's a healthy, novel atmosphere.

Winter quarter some of the novelty has worn off. The "new" old faces have grown old again. I've been disillusioned as to the practicability of some of my plans, the "fight" was not of the most glorious or successful nature, and grades—well not exactly what was hoped for.

And then comes the Spring. Those old faces are approaching the category of "eyesores." The great set of plans has somehow been buried as deeply as possible. The "great" fighter has taken the appearance of a "new-born lamb with ulcers," and final exams are looked upon as "one more pain for the conclusion of a nine-month period of agony."

The phrase "just four more weeks" keeps rampaging through my brain (although at this point, I'm no longer sure I even have a brain).

I wonder if I'm an "odd one" or if others feel the same way. From the conversation floating around I'm beginning to feel I'm not so odd after all (and whether I'm being optimistic or not, it's a comforting thought).

If you join me in these feelings — I don't quite know what to say—except that we're in bad shape. This is, perhaps, the most crucial point of the year as far as student affairs are concerned.

This week's GEORGE-ANNE is filled with Student Congress election news. If this is to be a genuine election, those of us who entered fall quarter with the "great plans" mentioned earlier should use elections as one means for fighting for said plans.

One group of individuals at GSC who don't seem to alter their ideas just for the sake of "summer hopes" is, of course, our dear professors. Tests, term papers, and other such "goodies" are just as prevalent now as in October.

I'm tired, you're tired, and it's so tempting to throw up our hands and call it quits. Yet if the fight doesn't continue, if we don't continue, a dark, unproductive shadow will have darkened all the accomplishments made earlier in the term. And, as often happens, the "shadow" will have a regressing effect on the year ahead.

If there's one tenth of one ounce of spirit left in us (and there must be somewhere) let's burn it up in a fiery ending. It seems a little "disturbing" to some tired old molecules to say this but I must:

"Only four more weeks to go — Let's make the most of it!!!" Merrily... we trudge along. Really, I mean it.

SAME OLD SHILLELAGH

By PATRICK KELLEY

Dear Mom and Dad:

Well Spring is at its fullest. The birds and bees are fluttering all over campus. Students are also enjoying all the beauties that Spring brings such as walking and talking.

Dr. High Life has a new method of testing. Students of Education are now taking tests on how much they don't know. The Dean's List should increase this quarter.

Dr. Ruffy has a new girl friend. Her name is Elizabeth and she is a living doll. She is so refined that she almost looks like a picture.

Dr. Sour Kraut has a sore throat. His students are quite upset over the fact that they are not having class this week.

Mrs. Baggage of the Snack Bar states that a new brand of coffee is going to be used starting this week. She promises that this coffee will be made fresh every week.

Dean Get-Us has been working overtime the last few days. It seems that her co-eds have been studying too much and she wants to know if they are sick.

Dean Run-Around states that male students must not wear their bermudas a half inch above their knees.

Dr. Bibliography received a shovel from his class the other day. This shovel is to help him dig up those questions that he asks on his tests. Oh yes, this smiling professor is installing a rumble seat in his Valiant so that he can feel young again just like his youth on the plains of Alabama.

Dr. Britain is setting up his own bakery so that he will have fresh crumpets for all of his tea parties. All history majors are making appointments two months in advance so that they can pre-register for next year.

Dr. Pun has a new recipe for bean soup. Also this professor says that one should eat three burnt meals a day to keep in shape.

Well this campus is alive with political activity. Mud is being slung. Robby Red is showing his ears. I am voting for Eastgrape, because he is a good tea drinker. I am going to buy some shovels for these candidates so they won't strain their backs. Dr. Anatomy and his Crayons class are doing quite well in their drawings, but their late hours are costing the school a great deal of money in electricity.

Dr. LaFox states that he is now enjoying fauna better than flora. Out House Dining Hall never burns anything; our meals are just charcoal.

Miss Alley has a new course for next year. The name of this course is How Not To Keep a Neat Home.

Miss McAstor has put one new chair in the library. This now makes two chairs.

Dr. Milk Bottle has a new form of recreation. He has become an avid hunter of rabbits. He is now eating carrots so he can be as lively as his rabbits.

Well I must close so I can go to sleep for the first time this quarter.

Your Son,
Moon

P.S. — Dr. Bibliography has a new symbol of authority. This is Dr. Britain's red pencil. People will do anything to get ahead in this world.

To give the candidates for student congress a better idea of what the student body expects of them, the question was asked, "What do you look for in your choice of candidates for Student Congress?"

Jerry Bundy, Decatur: Someone who has an interest in the school, who is sincere, and someone who has the ability to get along with other officers.

Arthur Jean Nessmith, Newton: Someone who would give their time unselfishly to the job and try to attain the things that are best for the college, as a whole.

Patsy Symons, Lakeland, Fla.: I think it should be someone who will stand up for what he believes and not be unduly influenced by conformity.

Harriet Westberry, Odum: Someone who has a sincere desire to serve the student body and keep up the standards of Georgia Southern.

Ellen Roberson, Odum: A person who is willing to devote their time and effort to making Georgia Southern a better college.

Sandra Buchholz, Waycross: Someone who has a real interest in helping the student body progress.

Jerry Daniel, Waynesboro: The main thing I look for in a candidate is leadership. He must also have a high average, have a good personality, and he must be honest.

Pat Camp, Jonesboro: Honesty, individualism, and a sincere concern for the student body.

Al DeLoach, Statesboro: I would like for someone to see that the student congress has more power.

Betty Aikens, Conyers: I look for someone who is honest, reliable, and has a high degree of integrity.

Bill Nash, Kentucky: Huey Long!

Gayle Hollis, North Augusta, South Carolina: I look for individualism and dependability.

Sue Brewton, Pembroke: Someone who is genuinely interested in helping the student body, and is willing to devote their time and effort to the job.

Dinah Odum, Jesup: Someone who is capable of holding the office.

Betty Haren, Epworth: Someone who is willing to work hard and is honest.

Jane Epting, McRae: Sincerity.

Kay Beasley, Statesboro: Dependability and honesty.

Marty Fender, Jesup: Someone who is honest, dependable, capable, and will do the job.

Allen Zeigler, Rincon: Someone who is reliable and efficient.

Frank Chew, Bartow: I look for those who favor free love, high protective tariffs, and are willing to endorse the John Birch Society.

Billy Martin, Valdosta: Those who have their aims and goals clearly in mind and let nothing hinder their attainment of said goals and aims.

John Toshach, Savannah Beach: I'm still looking.

Albert Green, Savannah: A progressive person who represents the students and works hard for them.

Sammy Ensley, Young Harris: Competency, and one who will work for the students.

Glenn Hennig, Orlando, Florida: Personality, dependability, intelligence and general attitude and outlook.

Buddy Jordan, Tirard: My roommate; he's running.

Charles Kea, Albany: Honesty, and a keen mind and sober heart.

Johnny Prentice, St. Simons: I have to rely on their personality and attitude.

Linda Moody, Register: I look for somebody who stands up for what he thinks is right and who respects the rights of others.

Vernon Ownbey, Alpharetta: Somebody who really wants to do a good job instead of someone who is seeking a social position.

L. W. Hartley, Savannah: A person who most nearly represents the majority of people on the campus.

Jerry Kight, Claxton: A capable individual; an individual who will accept responsibility and carries out these responsibilities to the best of his ability; and in summary, I'm looking for a leader.

Marti Stalling, Jacksonville, Fla.: Leadership abilities; dependability, and someone who will accept responsibilities and will put their heart into the job.

Charles Leggett, Savannah: Honest and true representation which will bring about those changes that certainly need to be made.

Joe Ryan, Savannah: I am an intelligent person so what do you think?

Bob Fullerton, Thomasville: Candidacy.

Russell Dasher, Vidalia: Honesty, when you can find it.

Pat Blanchard, Harelin: Someone with a very liberal mind. Well like a member of DPA.

John 'A' Lawson, Warner Robins: 38-22-36.

Elections Monday; Candidates Answer Vital Questions; Opposing Views Evident

For Secretary

JOHN RUTLAND

BARBARA SANDEFUR

John Rutland answers:

1. I favor an Honor System at GSC. The students deserve a chance to prove the honor system will work here. Let the members of the council be elected by the student body. In most cases, the students realize the problems of discipline better and can work them out better for the students and the college.

2. Being unfamiliar with this revision session, I think it would be best that I not comment at this time.

3. Same.

The office of Secretary is a very important one to the students and to our college. The duties of the Secretary may seem small, but his importance reflects itself upon the whole organization of the functions of the Student Congress. I would like to try to fulfill these duties of the Secretary of the Student Congress, and to use my abilities to the office of Secretary an important part of student government.

Lonice Barrett

For Treasurer

Lonice Barret answers:

I feel that if and when an honor system of any sort is installed here at Georgia Southern College, it will have to be with the full agreement of the student body. The student body will have to vote on the issue and agree to abide by the decision that is made. I personally am in favor of the honor system because it would be one of the ways to build character, but I seriously doubt that it would be successful. I would like to see a resolution passed in favor of it and if I am elected I will attempt to carry out its aims.

2. The Student Congress that is about to be revised of its duties has worked diligently during the past year and deserves much praise and thanks from the student body. One minor change that I would like to see made in the constitution provision session at the end of the year is that all officers of the classes be included as members of the Student Congress. I feel that there are some class officers who could contribute to the over-all success of the Congress.

3. Concerning any rules that I would like to see changed, I would like to say this: There is always something that doesn't seem exactly right to everyone; we just have to learn to abide by rules that are set down for us to follow. I do believe, however, that there are some rules that were made years ago that could be altered now. To specify certain regulations that appear to need revision, I will cite the rules prohibiting the female coeds from wearing bermudas on weekdays, the use of various rooms in the Student Center on Sunday's and at other times, and the restrictions placed on both the male and female student body of the school that are not clear and concise. I am not trying to unnecessarily ridicule the administration, but I am merely stating my outlook on the issue.

4. The office of Treasurer, in my opinion, is as important to the school and to the student body as any of the other posi-

Barbara Sandefur answers:

1. I first believe that the honor system is an individual matter. The person who is cheating will be the person to decide whether or not he will cheat. If an honor system is organized, a council for hearing cases and making decisions on punishment will be needed. Since class presidents are to represent their class on Student Congress, this office would be a burden. Perhaps the person who is Vice-President could fill the position. Although the council should be a representative group of the student body, I believe that at least one faculty member should be a member. Of course, in extreme cases, the faculty and administration should make the final decision.

I believe that an honor system in the form of courses taken without a teacher or a regular class would be a definite asset to GSC. A student could truly broaden his own understanding of both his field and the relation of his field to world issues. Students in this honors program would need to be selected from the upper portions of their classes in order to assure the success of such a program. As to exactly how to organize this system, I would like to study the similar setups in other schools.

2. One suggestion I intend to make is the change in the manner of nominating people for Student Congress. Too many qualify by classification and not by capabilities. Many underclassmen would make better Presidents than would the now-required senior. Notification of the nominees should be made in time for them to consider their future responsibilities. I think a resolution should be added to the Constitution that recommendations made should be carefully thought out and not for things of only current interest.

3. I believe that a committee should be set up to sponsor off-campus activities provided they (the activities) are properly chaperoned and are approved by the proper authorities. I think that rules concerning dress of both male and female students should be reconsidered to equalize the amount of freedom students of both sexes have. Some plans for an area to sun bathe need to be made. The denial of freshman ownership and possession of cars on campus should be set up by a grade-standard—perhaps a "B" average.

4. The main duty of the secretary is to record, accurately, the proceedings of the Student Congress, and to submit a copy of these minutes for filing in the Student Personnel Office. The purpose of the office is to represent the students of this college in the Student government. I plan to work for the things that our students need, not things of a fleeting nature or of minor need when more important things should be first.

5. I only hope to do my best, if elected. Student support is important in any matter; support whomever you elect—this is the only way to have a successful Student Congress.

"Fun" Weekend

Sponsored By Methodist Group

The GSC Wesley Foundation will sponsor a "fun" weekend May 10-12 at Wesley Monumental Gardens in Savannah. All persons interested in going should contact Willis Brackett or Jerry Clark by Tuesday, May 7. One dollar pre-registration fee should be paid to them by this date.

The weekend will include a trip to the beach, boating, fishing, skiing, and swimming.

The total cost for the weekend will be $4.00.

I will, if elected, strive for the betterment of the facilities, activities and general welfare of the students with just as much energy and enthusiasm as I would if I were president.

5. In closing, I would like to congratulate the present Congress and Ray Bowden for the outstanding job that has been done and pledge my untiring efforts to the student body whether elected or defeated.

For President

DON WESTBERRY

BOBBY GREEN

Favors Honor System

1. Yes, I favor an honor system with great desire and initiative to do everything possible to get such a system organized this coming year. Students are involved in this system. The students should have authority to set their own rules, as long as these rules adhere to the administration. Not only will the students make their rules; but also, they should have authority to hear cases and to set the regulations on which these cases should be punished. In this way, student would feel more a part of the college and not someone from whom the college wants just to receive their money.

Why Denied A Seat?

2. Article X, Section 3 of the Constitution, states that officers for each class shall consist of a president, a vice-president, and a secretary-treasurer. Their duties shall be those normally performed by such officers, and the president of each class will serve as a representative on the Student Congress. This year I was denied a position on the Student Congress for the simple reason that there was already a representative from the junior class on the Student Congress. If these regulations cannot be carried out right, I say to revise this section so that another person will be denied a position when he is entitled to it.

Rules To Change

3. There are some rules that should be considered for alteration. (1) couples should be allowed to sit in their car for more than five minutes after they come in from a date, without the "campus cop" flashing a light in their eyes. I'm not saying to let couples stay as long as they please. Of course, there would have to be regulation. (2) The rules concerning "on and off limits" for women need to be considered for revision. Definite places should be set up as to whether they are "on-limits" or "off-limits," so when a person is brought before the administration on this account, he won't be able to say merely, "I didn't know." The only way such rules can be altered or revised is through the Student Congress and the administration. If the will of the students on this campus is for alteration of such rules, I feel sure that the Congress and administration can work something out.

4. The Office of President of the Student Congress is one which anyone would take with great pride, because it is the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a student at Georgia Southern. As a candidate for this office, I do not wish to get elected for the mere glory of the office. I accepted the candidacy with intentions of improving the duty and prestige of this very important office. This office is the initiating factor of the Student Congress; and only if a qualified person is its leader, then sufficient action as to the will of the students can be conducted in a manner in which everyone will receive benefit. I feel that I'm qualified for this position and have the ability to carry on its program effectively.

5. If elected to this office, I will carry out the "will of the students" with the utmost of my ability. If enough students want a change in anything, then the administration will probably act. They (the administration) will not act on matters concerning the wants of a few people. If we are to have "student government" on the Georgia Southern campus, a majority of the students must act. If elected, I will initiate student participation in such a way that everyone will be benefited. If you feel that my ideas and plans coincide with those of you, vote for me May 6.

Opposes Honor System

1. No. The purpose of an honor system, as I see it, is to cut down cheating, primarily. An honor system would defeat itself in that it would help absolutely nothing but a person's feelings if he got by with cheating. The only thing that would be changed would be that instead of just hiding your immorality from the professor, you have to hide it from your friends. You wouldn't have to worry anyway, because he wouldn't tell on you.

If a person is going to be dishonest, he will be dishonest although he has to slip around.

More Power

2. I am sure that there possibly should be changes in the Congress Constitution of a minor nature. I helped to revise the constitution at the beginning of the year, and I feel that we have ironed out the problems in it. There is only one complaint that I wish to comment on. We have about one-third the power we should have.

Rules To Change

Girls are not allowed to wear shorts after classes. There is not much difference in wearing shorts and culottes, in my opinion. I believe, since the majority of girls want to wear shorts after classes are over, they should be allowed to.

No parking of couples on campus should be changed. Everybody knows that this would be an aide to morality. It is better to have parking on campus than elsewhere.

The traffic should be made one way around Sweetheart Circle. There is no rule denying it to be one way, but there should be a rule saying that it be so.

The rules in each of the girls' dormitories seem to be unequal. Some are more strict than others. This should be changed. It is definitely unfair.

Due to the fact that the school is growing and that parking is becoming a problem, I feel that freshmen should not be allowed to have cars on campus except for special occasions.

The rooms in the Herty Building should be opened for studying purposes at night.

4. Actually, I think that the job as President will be one filled with work in the interest of the students of GSC. My job should not be one to help make rules to depress the students, but to help make their life in the college safer and more enjoyable.

It is needless to say that the President should never deviate from the constitution that the students have set up.

As for my duties, if I become elected, they are listed in the constitution almost exactly; however, the President, as well as any other member of the Student Congress, should be ready to listen to and to consider any problem that arises with any student.

My aim in general, if I am elected, would be to get a little bit more "say-so" for the Congress, to get more life into the students, and to promote and encourage study habits.

ROYAL BRUSH-OFF

(ACP)—Men's Hall Association, provided the money. West Shaw Hall provided the testing ground. So they built an automatic doormat at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

When people stand on the apparatus, notes THE MICHIGAN STATE NEWS, their weight starts the gears moving and the protruding brushes brushing until all the snow and mud are cleaned off the bottom of the shoes.

It's just in the experimental stage. But if it's a success, automatic doormats probably will be installed at every residence hall.

The Questions

1. Do you favor an Honor System here? If so, what vital points do you feel should be included in its organization? If not, why?
2. What suggestions do you plan to make at the Constitutional Revision Session at the end of the year?
3. Are there any rules or regulations that you feel should be altered? How?
4. What is your outlook on the office you seek? What is its purpose to you?
5. Any other comments?

JOHN WILLIFORD

DANNY BRAY

First VP

1. I am in favor of any such system which gives students a chance to make decisions on problems which have direct effects on their lives at Georgia Southern. I feel that an honor system would be a big step towards promoting more student interest in these problems and, hence, student government.

2. I am not so well acquainted with the Constitution that I can propose any revision. If I am elected, then I will have reason to examine the document more closely.

3. I feel that there should be a very definite change which would exempt students with "A" averages from finals. Also, I would like to see a chance to improve the traffic situation. This could mean some stipulations to regulate the use of cars by freshmen.

4. The job of First Vice-President of Student Congress is one which would pose a serious challenge to any student. In many cases, a Vice-President is not asked to carry much responsibility. However, I feel that the Student Congress would necessitate a very active role for the position. If through being Vice-President, I can help make Georgia Southern the kind of place the students really desire, then I want the position.

5. I just wish they would hurry up and finish the new tennis courts!

For Treasurer

Ronnie Farmer

1. Yes, the stress should be on personal integrity, self-reliance, and the satisfaction that comes from possessing these qualities.

2. The Constitution is sound as it stands, but it needs a stronger application of its principles by the representatives of the Student Congress.

3. There are several rules and regulations that I feel should be changed to make this a better college; however, now is neither the time nor place to discuss them. This should be done on the

BETTY YEOMANS

MARY SHEAROUSE

Second VP

1. I am definitely in favor of the honor system becoming a reality at Georgia Southern. I feel that an honor system is a goal which any student body should aspire. There should, possibly, be two lower councils composed of the presidents of the dormitories and other selected members chosen by the deans or administration. Then, of course, there should be an upper or higher council composed of the administration or a faculty committee appointed by the administration. The lower councils would hear the cases of the violators and would recommend action to the upper council who will have the final decision. I feel that there should be established a strict set of qualifications which the members should measure up to. May be this would give the students a voice in the disciplinary affairs without danger of a radical or unfair group. We, as students, must remember, however, that an honor system will be what we make it. If it is to be successful, every student has a job to do!

2. I have several ideas of my own which I would like considered for revision, but I would like to know how the majority of the students feel about my ideas and then see if they have any of their own. I feel that a revision of the article concerning nomination, election, etc., of Student Congress officers needs to be made. The nominees should be notified a time in advance and given the opportunity to become more familiar with their duties, etc., if they chose to run.

3. I feel that several minor rules could be altered; but, again, I would like to know how the student body feels. I believe that better parking facilities should be provided; I believe that the time of serving breakfast should be extended; I also feel that the requirement of signing in and out for girls during the day should be changed. I realize signing out is a necessity at night, but during the day???

4. The office I am seeking of Second Vice-President, is of supreme importance. My main duties are to preside at Freshman Class Meetings until the election of officers, and to act as Chairman of the Student Committee of Campus Organizations. One of the purposes, to me, is to represent the students with fairness and diligence and to serve as a direct line of communications between the students and the Student Congress.

5. The Student Congress on the campus of Georgia Southern is an important organization, and I feel that this election should not be taken lightly. No election—no issue, regardless of size—is insignificant! We should weigh our decisions carefully in order to attain results which will be most beneficial to the entire student body. Back your Student Congress!

Money "Talks"

When Choosing GSC's Ugly Man

The Nu Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega is sponsoring the "Ugliest Man on Campus" contest, the proceeds of which will go to the campus chapel fund.

Students may vote for contestants by dropping pennies in containers for that purpose in the lobby of the Frank I. Williams Center. Each penny counts as one vote. The winner of the contest will receive a gift certificate and an Ugly Man Watch Chain Key.

Last Friday night, April 26, the Alpha Phi Omega Pledge Class sponsored an "Ugly Man Dance" in the Alumni Gym. According to Jerry Knight, Pledge Class president, the proceeds of this dance will also go to the chapel fund.

1. Yes, I favor an Honor System. I feel that it should consist of three councils, one chosen by the faculty and administration, and two others, one for men students and one for women students, to be chosen possibly by popular vote. I think that these members should be chosen for their honesty, integrity, past leadership on campus, and outstanding grades. Above all they should be persons who are completely trusted by their fellow students.

2. In my opinion, there should be a committee set up to coordinate off-campus activities. The members could possibly consist of the Dean of Women, the Dean of Men and three students. It should not be necessary for an organization to sponsor all off-campus functions. A group of individuals, presumably college adults, should be able to gather at someone's home for a social get-together.

I feel that an area for sanctioned parking for dating couples should be set up either in the area of the Marvin Pittman School parking lot or the area beside the Hanner Gym.

In my opinion, some of the money from the entertainment fund should be used to get so-called "big-name" entertainment on campus. Student support could be shown through the sale of advance tickets.

4. More than anything, I want to help the student committee of Campus Organizations better coordinate the clubs at GSC. I think that this group of presidents serves a very important function in aiding students in their respective clubs. I would like to see, then, opinions of the students carry more weight. Sometimes student requests have a way of being ignored or shoved to the bottom of the heap.

5. If I am elected, I will do everything I can to promote the best interests of the students at GSC. I feel that we must reorganize where we find fault and expand where there is a definite need for it. I firmly believe in the things I have stated and whether I am elected or not, my ideas and wishes for campus will not change.

SCIENCE CLUB

On April 30, 1963, the Science Club of Georgia Southern College was officially formed. The program was given by Bill Wood as "Amino Acid Content of HYMENOLEPIS MICROSTOMA."

Officers were elected as follows: President, Carol Ellison; Vice-President, Sara Wolfe; Secretary, William Willis; Treasurer, Jerry Davis; Reporter, Sandra Vogel.

Sponsors for the club are Dr. Leo Weeks and Dr. Gordon P. De Wolf. There were twenty-nine students present at this first meeting.

Any student wishing to may do so at the next meeting which will be announced.

ENGLISH CLUB

The English Club will hold next meeting Monday night, May 6 at 6:30 in the Student Center according to Al Turner, president.

Turner added further program for this meeting consist of a panel of teachers in the English 1, counting various experiences, countered while teaching, meeting should be of interest prospective student teachers. Especially one majoring in English. All interested are invited and urged to a

DUTCHMAN'S GOAL

By Dutch Van Houten
SPORTS WRITER

A Close Look

There have been many things said concerning the athletic programs of the colleges with a small enrollment. Georgia Southern would fall in the general category within our Southern area which would have a normal program.

Southern emphasizes basketball as the big sport attraction for our college. The most natural reaction stated by observers would be "why not football at GSC?" This question will be covered in another part of this story.

The Eagles have been blessed in the past few years with some colorful basketball teams. There have been few nights when the Hanner building was not crowded for the home games. This student body and outside support has helped to establish the game as "king" on the campus.

The sport which would rank second, and seemingly pushing for first place, is baseball. The Eagles are currently enjoying some of the finest hours for some worthwhile play on the baseball field, with a national championship flying high in center field from last season's efforts, and the possibility of a repeat performance this year.

Following in the list of the sports parade, one must place the gymnastics team in the third position. This fastly-developing sport has been given a new life in many college circles. As a whole, many people consider gymnastics as a minor sport, but the past olympics will show that a new emphasis should be placed on this activity. The support which was shown by the loyal fans for the recently-ended season can be safely thought of as to the popularity of gymnastics at GSC.

Tennis and golf are the two remaining competitive sports at the college. The tennis team is only two-years old, and as soon as the new courts are finished, it would seem as if this event would increase its popularity. The golf team has its own self pride as all the aforementioned, but the interest in this sport has been kept to a small portion.

In the opening lines of this article, the question of "Why not football?" was noted. My attempt to answer this question may not be exact, but the reasons behind them speak for themselves.

The main challenge for a football team at GSC is money. The game of football is big business and it would produce a tremendous debt to even get started. The college has no stadium in which to play the games as a college game should be played. A small high-school-type stadium doesn't lend much pride to college football. This problem also involves money.

The final statement as to football at GSC would be local support. I'm sure the students, faculty and residents of this area would be there to see the games, but how about the other three quarters of the stadium? It would take a terrific crowd to make the game work with at least a break-even basis for the early years. So with these personal thoughts, I'll let everyone draw their own conclusions.

It seems as if the support shown for our available sports are good enough for our area at the present time.

GSC Professor Is Senior Author of Book

By HOYT CANNADY
Managing Editor

Dr. Starr Miller, chairman of the education Division at GSC, is the senior author of a book, "Faculty Development Procedures in Small Colleges—A Southern Survey," which he is now proofreading.

The co-author of the book is Dr. Kenneth Wilson, research associate of the Southern Regional Education Board in Atlanta, which is publishing the book, according to Miller.

He stated that this book describes the faculty development procedures based on a survey of 214 liberal arts and science colleges with an average enrollment of less than two thousand students per college. The survey ranged through sixteen Southern states, and out of the 248 small colleges, questionnaires were received from 214; of these, an intensive study by mail was made of thirty-five and twenty colleges were interviewed.

Dr. Miller started the survey in September of 1960 when he was granted out of some Society funds from the Southern Regional Education Board to study the faculty development in these small colleges. He spent 1960-61 accumulating information, and Dr. Wilson in interpreting most of the material. This is to be one of the monograph publications by the board.

Twenty Southern colleges were visited by Miller, where he conducted interviews with the faculty and administrators, but "the visits represent only an intensive part of the survey," he said.

"I received a wonderful grant," he stated. "It made available about $20,000 and included salary as well as expense."

To make the trip to the colleges a more pleasant one, Dr. Miller took his wife and two children along, and had the colleges outlined on the route as he went. "We stayed at motels; this gave us a chance to see the communities as well as the colleges themselves," he pointed out.

He traveled from Baltimore to Texas observing faculties, administrations, students, and student life."

"The year was so enjoyable, it almost spoiled me," he admitted. "It gets into your blood, and you hate to give it up."

Dr. Miller became head of the education division at Georgia Southern in 1961. Prior to coming to GSC, he was dean and professor of education at Tift College in Forsyth, and served as dean of men and acting dean for two years at Young Harris College.

He received his Bachelor of Science and Master of Science in Education degrees at the University of Georgia, and was awarded the Doctor of Education degree at Duke University.

49er Quarterback Works On Masters Degree Here

Considers 1961 As Best Season

By DUTCH VAN HOUTEN

There are a number of students at Georgia Southern who wouldn't know who Bobby Waters is, unless they are avid fans of professional football and the San Francisco 49ers.

Bobby Waters is currently attending school here while he is working on a masters degree in school administration. He is also the number two offensive quarterback for the 49ers.

Statesboro and Georgia Southern are not strangers to Bobby, because he grew up in Sylvania and played high school football at Screven County High. After graduation he went to Presbyterian College and attained the honor of small college All-American rating.

He was graduated from Presbyterian in 1960 and signed a contract with San Francisco. During the 1960 season, Bobby played in only four games, but he said that he received his greatest thrill as a rookie. San Francisco was playing the Baltimore Colts, and with two minutes remaining in the game the Colts were leading by three points. Bobby was running as a tail back under the "shot gun" offense, as Head Coach Red Hickey had named it, and was sent into the game. He completed two passes, the first for a considerable gain and the second for a touchdown to defeat the Colts by a margin of four points.

Bobby considers his 1961 season as his best even though he suffered a knee injury in the final contest. While operating from the "shot gun" offense three quarterbacks are used and rotated on each play. He scored five touchdowns and passed for two others in addition. The 49ers have changed their offense and are now using the straight "T" formation rather than the "shot gun."

Bobby has been playing organized football since he was in the sixth grade of elementary school. While in high school his playing size was 6'2" and 155 pounds, but he said his current playing size is 6'3" and 195 pounds.

He could be considered small when compared to some of his teammates, such as Bob St. Clair who is 6'9" and weighs 275 pounds of "raw meat" as Bobby said, or Leo Nomellini, who stands 6'2" and tips the scales at 280 pounds. Nomellini is a defensive tackle and both of these gentlemen have been named to the National Football League's All-Pro teams more than a half-dozen times.

Bobby takes an optimistic view of the 1963 season, he believes the team could have a very good year. He said that Green Bay or Detroit would have the best chance to take the title for next season. He believes that Detroit could end the Green Bay dominance if they could play consistent heads up ball through the 1963 season.

He plans to play football for at least three more years. He stated that the salary was worth the work involved. The 49ers don't scrimmage after the season starts with only light practice during the week. They don't practice at all on Monday and Saturday and have only Wednesday and Thursday for the hardest days.

They work out without pads through the week and allow Sunday to be the really hardest workout of the week. Bobby said that about 25 to 30 rookies try out for the team during the summer with only four or five making it.

When asked about the 49ers most valuable man, Bobby said that Matt Hazeltine, their defensive line backer, would probably be the most important. Hazeltine calls all the defensive plays and is a full time defensive back.

Y. A. Tittle of the New York Giants is Bobby's pick as the best quarterback in the league, and Joe Schmidt of the Detroit Lions would be the best defensive line backer.

Bobby said he would have to come back to Georgia Southern again next year, and it can be imagined that he will have some interesting information concerning the 1963 season.

Pro Quarterback - GSC Student

Bobby Waters, San Francisco 49er quarterback, attends Georgia Southern in the off-season to work toward his Master's degree in School Administration. He grew up in Sylvania, played high school football at Screven County, and college ball at Presbyterian.

Georgia Freshmen Top GSC Golfers

By ROBERT POOLE

The GSC golf team suffered a 13½ to 4½ setback at the hands of the University of Georgia freshmen last Saturday, according to Coach Frank Radovich.

"Fred Werner, a medalist playing for the University of Georgia team had the best score of the day, a one over par 73," said Radovich.

Bobby Jones was high point man for Southern with 2, Bill Simmons had ½ point and team points amounted to 2 giving a total of 4½ points for the meet.

The low man for GSC was Bill Johnson with 78, followed by Bobby Jones with an 80, and Bill Simmons and Wright North, who both shot an 82.

"There were no excuses this time," said Radovich. "We were just beaten by a better team."

Southern has a home match against the Citadel this Thursday, May 2 at 1:30 p.m. On Friday the team travels to Charleston where they will play the College of Charleston and then on Saturday play the Citadel there.

Radovich concluded by saying "I hope that the match with the College of Charleston will be a victory for us so that we will have one victory this year."

CASWELL SPEAKS

Fred Caswell, superintendent of recreation at Cartersville, Ga., and president of the Georgia Recreation Society, addressed the GSC Recreation Club, May 1.

Caswell spoke on Georgia Recreation, according to Jerry Kight, acting president of the Recreation Club.

Georgia St. Falls; O-U Still Unbeaten

By ALEX GOWEN

The Georgia Southern tennis team suffered a 2-7 loss at the hands of Oglethorpe last Friday, but bounced back on Saturday to blank Georgia State 9-0.

The overall record for the Eagles now stands at three wins and four losses.

Unbeaten Oglethorpe gave up only two matches to the Eagles. Alex Caswell, playing the number five singles, kept his winning streak intact by defeating his man 7-5, 6-3, and the number one doubles team of Steve Wright and Dan Dixon won their match 6-3, 6-3.

The losing column, by playing position, is as follows: (singles) Wright 0-6, 1-6; Dixon 1-6, 2-6; Johnny Williford 1-6, 4-6; Joe Scraggs 6-2, 1-6, 2-6; Johnny Waters 2-6, 3-6; (doubles) Scraggs and Bobby Jones 3-6, 4-6; and Waters and Williford 6-8, 2-6.

Against Georgia State the Eagles lost only fifteen games in six singles matches and three games in three doubles matches to achieve their second perfect victory of the season.

In singles Wright won 6-1, 7-5; Dixon 6-1, 6-3; Williford 6-1, 6-0; Scraggs 6-0, 6-0; Caswell 6-1, 6-2; and Waters 6-0, 6-1.

The teams of Wright and Dixon, and Jones and Scraggs had identical winning doubles scores of 6-0, 6-1. The first time-out combination of Caswell and Waters dropped their only game in the first set for a 6-1, 6-0 score. This week the netmen were off to Charleston, S. C. for return matches with the Citadel and the College of Charleston yesterday and today.

FLASH: Bob Fullerton, esquire, caught a five-pound Bass this week and he wants everyone to know it.

Principals Ass'n. Elects Pafford New President

Aubrey Pafford, principal of the Marvin Pittman School of Georgia Southern College, was recently elected as President of the First District Principals Association. Pafford, who has been a member of the association for a number of years, will serve during 1963-64.

An associate professor of education and a member of the First District Television Advisory Council, Pafford has been extremely active in professional work since taking the position at Marvin Pittman. A member of the Statesboro Lions Club, he has also served as delegate to the state convention of the Georgia Education Association and to the national meeting of N.E.A.

He is presently serving on the G.E.A. Public Relations Committee and has held the office of Secretary-Treasurer of the First District High School Association.

STRICKLAND COMMISSIONED

Walter Leonard Strickland, who was awarded a BA degree in social science upon his graduation from GSC in 1962, was recently commissioned as Ensign in the United States Naval Reserve.

Ensign Strickland, son of Mrs. Owen C. Strickland of Rt. 2, Savannah, was among 865 commissioned graduates who completed the intensive sixteen week officer training course at the U.S. Naval Officer Candidate School, U. S. Naval Base, Newport, Rhode Island.

For his first assignment, Ensign Strickland will report to Naval Air Observer School, Pensacola, Florida.

Hagan, Moore Named Speakers For Graduation

Speakers for the graduation ceremonies of Georgia Southern College have been scheduled for the June events by Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of the college.

Congressman G. Elliott Hagan will deliver the thirty-fifth annual commencement address and Dr. Walter L. Moore of the Vineville Baptist Church of Macon, the baccalaureate sermon. Both events will occur on June 2, at 3:30 p.m. and 11:00 a.m., respectively.

Dr. Moore, who once served as missionary in Cuba, has held many stations in Georgia. He has been at Vineville since 1959. Mr. Hagan has served in the Congress of the United States since 1960 as representative of the first district. His residence is in Sylvania, Georgia.

Eagles Move Toward NAIA Berth

Baseball Team In Macon For Game With Mercer

The Georgia Southern College Eagles were scheduled to meet the Mercer University Bears in Macon this afternoon in the first of two games that will be played between the two teams this year.

According to J. I. Clements the Mercer team that his Eagles faced is one that has had "its ups and downs." Clements stated further, "We know nothing whatsoever about Mercer except the fact that they are a young team with one outstanding pitcher. They have been forced to go with a young team, and they have seemed to look good at one time and poor the next. They are a very capable team and by all means should not be underestimated." Slated to pitch for GSC was David Bell.

Commenting on Wednesday's game with Jacksonville University, Clements stated that Pierce Blanchard would probably be his starting pitcher. Blanchard was the winning pitcher in Monday's game with Jacksonville as the Eagles mauled their visitors by a 23-2 margin.

When asked about the rout made of the Dolphins in Statesboro, Clements stated, "We won't win by that margin again in Jacksonville. They committed some errors and bad plays that shouldn't have been made."

Commenting on his own team, Clements replied, "In the game with Jacksonville we seemed to play heads-up ball. We hit the ball good and the boys looked as if they had more spirit and pep than they have had in some games played this year."

Eagles Win 2 Lose 2 On Road

By LONICE BARRETT
Sports Editor

The Georgia Southern Eagles returned from their North Carolina road trip with a record of two wins against two losses in their games with Davidson, North Carolina and Wake Forest.

The Eagles first blanked Davidson 7-0 behind the six hit pitching of Pierce Blanchard. Blanchard showing perhaps his best form of the year walked but two in racking up his fifth victory against one loss.

In the second of the two-game series Davidson clobbered the Eagles by a 13-4 margin to gain some measure of revenge for the previous beatings administered by the Eagles earlier. Errors and below-par play led to the defeat; big E. G. Meybohm was the losing pitcher.

After having split with Davidson in two games, the Eagles next traveled to Chapel Hill, North Carolina, where they pushed across three runs in the last two innings to defeat the Tarheels of the University of North Carolina by a score of 5-4.

The Eagles scored twice in the eighth and once in the ninth to run their season mark to twelve victories and seven defeats. North Carolina's worksheet following the game was eleven wins and seven losses.

Jim Seeley reached first on an error to lead off the eighth. Royce Exley singled and was forced at second by Charles Tarpley. Seeley then scored on Wayne Conner's single with Tarpley coming in on an error by the outfielder.

The Eagles' final tally came in the ninth on singles by Tommy Jones and Bill Griffin, a sacrifice and a passed ball. Tommy Jones led the Eagles with three singles in five trips to the plate.

David Bell hurled the first eight frames for Georgia Southern and was the winning pitcher. He gave up seven hits and all the Tarheel's runs. Pierce Blanchard relieved in the ninth and preserved the victory.

In Thursday's game with Wake Forest, the Deacons emerged victorious by narrowly defeating GSC 6-4. Wake Forest scored in the bottom of the first. The Eagles scored three times in the second only to have the host team come back for three more runs in their half of their inning. The Deacons added two more in the fourth to insure the victory.

Jerry Stephens was the losing pitcher. He pitched three innings, gave up four hits, six runs, walked six and struck out two. Blanchard relieved in the fourth and was in turn followed by Mike Ries who finished the game. Jackie Hammond and Tarpley were the leading hitters for GSC with two hits in four times at bat.

... And The Runs Rolled In

Goose eggs seemed to be deficient as far as the Eagles were concerned Monday as they "whomped" Jacksonville's Dolphins 23-2. GSC collected a total of 22 hits to Jacksonville's 6.

Eagles Rout 3 JU Hurlers With 23 Runs

Monday afternoon the final score of the Jacksonville University - Georgia Southern baseball game looked more like the final score in a football contest instead of a diamond encounter.

The Eagles behind Pierce Blanchard whitewashed the visiting Dolphins 23-2 to run their record to fourteen victories against eight defeats.

GSC collected twenty-two hits with eight of them being for extra bases. Doubles were hit by Bill Griffin, Denny Herb, Tommy Jones, Jim Seeley, and Jackie Hammond. Charles Tarpley and Jones also collected triples with Griffin hitting a tremendous homer over the left field fence.

Georgia Southern collected four runs in the first inning and was never behind. The Eagles added six more runs in the second to take an insurmountable lead that they never relinquished. Jacksonville managed to score single runs in the third and sixth.

In the ninth the Eagles sent fourteen batters to the plate in the big inning which featured a home run and a walk by Griffin, a single and a two-run double by Jack Hammond, a pair of singles by Sandy Wells and two singles by Jim Seeley.

GSC Business Instructor's Book Published Soon

Notification has been received by Miss Jane F. White, assistant professor of business of Georgia Southern College, of the acceptance of her recent transcript, "Teaching Typewriting," which will now be published in book form. Miss White and Dr. Bruce C. Shank, Ball State Teachers College, are co-authors of this text. Publication for this Fall is scheduled.

The first book Miss White and Dr. Shank have written together, it deals primarily with the techniques of teaching typewriting.

Artist Explains Paintings Shown Here Recently

By Halley Fennell

"I make use of expressions and gestures so that there will not be a story involved which will take away from the meaning of the picture."

This was Robert Hodgell's explanation for the "grotesqueness" of his art pieces which were on display in the lobby of the Student Center a couple of weeks ago.

There is a message involved in his art works. For the sake of communicating this message he concentrates on the combining of the artistic elements without involving a story.

Hodgell, who is oriented in the subject of religion and whose works are satires on biblical themes, explained that his art is done by a process of linoleum cutting. It takes anywhere from a few days to months to complete one of these prints. Most of the time is spent on the planning of the design.

Because his works are prints and a number of copies are made, the prices are low. He receives from $5 to $35 for a print.

"Color is also a distraction," commented Hodgell. It takes away from the meaning of the illustration just as beauty and reality do. His prints are done in brown ink because it has more warmth

DRIVER PLAYS TAG WITH CAMPUS POLICE

(ACP)—A man claiming to be an ex-student gambled with the authority of a City College of San Francisco campus police officer. The man lost.

THE GUARDSMAN, newspaper on the campus, says the man, driving on campus at an excessive speed, ignored the officer's attempts to flag him down. The driver then made a U-turn and the officer was ready.

As the car approached, the officer jumped in front, billy-club in hand. The driver swerved. The officer swung, smashing the left rear window.

The driver called the city police. Four city squad cars raced to the scene. The city police obliged with a citation for speeding and failure to comply with an officer's instructions.

As the man left the scene, he mumbled, "Who's going to pay for my window?"

than black. Frequently he uses a single color such as in his illustration of the burning bush.

Hodgell received his Bachelor and Masters degrees in the applied arts at the University of Wisconsin.

Dates For Area Playoffs Given

"There are two possibilities that might keep the GSC baseball team from participating in the NAIA Area Playoffs which are tentatively slated to be held in Statesboro, May 23-24-25," stated Coach J. I. Clements in an interview Tuesday.

"First, West Virginia State is a possible contender and if they are, the tournament will have to be switched to Fort Stewart because of the viewpoint taken by the administration and its governing body which prohibits us from holding integrated athletic events on the campus."

"Second, we might not be in the tournament. There is a group or board that decides who plays in the area tourney and they might pick some other team, or they might decide that we have to have a playoff with some other team. We will just have to wait and see."

Georgia Southern is slated to play in the Area Playoff here in Statesboro on the afore mentioned dates. Other possible teams include Carson-Newman and Pfeiffer Colleges and a couple of other strong teams. If West Virginia State wins their league crown, they will be included in the pairings.

The Eagles were last year's NAIA Champions and in this same Area Playoff won three games to take the crown and win the right to go out to St. Joseph where they won the championship.

GOOD AND POOR STUDENTS RATE THEIR TEACHERS

(ACP)—Do poor students rate the teacher lower than good students? Not according to an evaluation conducted by Dr. Kenneth Boggs, assistant professor of agriculture economics, Oklahoma State University, Stillwater.

He asked students in his three sections to fill out evaluation forms which were not examined until grades had been sent to the Registrar's office. He had the cooperation of 140 of the 150 students in the classes.

THE DAILY O'COLLEGIAN said Boggs found "absolutely no relationship between the grade the student made and the way he evaluated the course."

He feels this shows that poor students are as capable of rating the course as are good students, perhaps even more so. "They may see the course more clearly," he said, "because it is often difficult for them to learn the material, so they depend upon the instructor more heavily than the good students."

Smith Relates Experiences With Georgia Legislature

By HOYT CANADY
Managing Editor

Former Georgia House of Representatives Speaker, George Smith shared his experiences of being with the Democratic Party and being in the Legislature of Georgia with members of the Georgia Southern Young Democrats Club at their spring quarter banquet last Thursday night.

Smith was born in Stillmore and graduated from Swainsboro High School and the University of Georgia where he was a member of Delta Tau Delta social fraternity. He served as speaker of the House during the administration of Governor Ernest Vandiver.

He stated his belief in the Democratic Party as being "the party of the people" as opposed to the Republicans whose interest is in big business. He also stated that he was a democrat because his forebearers were democrats, but that he reserved the right to criticize his party if he saw fit.

He disagreed with the oft-used phrase that "if Georgia were a two-party state, it would receive more federal aid," by stating that Georgia's Congress members rank high, this state receives its share of federal funds.

Smith was a delegate to the last Democratic Convention held at Los Angeles in the summer of 1960, and met personally such leading political figure heads as the late Sam Rayburn, former Speaker of the House; present Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, and Lyndon B. Johnson.

Vice President.

"They wanted views on how the Southern states were going to vote in the convention," he stated. If anything came up, the Georgia delegate was to contact Tennessee and South Carolina delegates and was the coordinator of votes for the Southern States.

"After the Convention, the campaign in the South dragged because of the Civil Rights plank in the Democratic platform," he pointed out. He went on from there to cite that Georgia's leadership in the campaign helped the other Southern states to "fall in line."

During the campaign, Smith stated that he was most impressed with John F. Kennedy. He met Kennedy in Columbus, and spent the entire day with the future president and his staff; he also presided over the meeting at Warm Springs where JFK spoke.

He also went along with Senator Herman Talmadge and Vandiver to LaGrange along with the Kennedy party. "It was thrilling to watch the people line the streets to see Kennedy," he said. Staying on the state scene, he brought out the fact that Georgia Democrats were becoming too complacent, and that the Republican party in the state was making serious inroads. Georgia now has one Republican in the House and three in the State Senate — one from Chatham, Fulton, and Muscogee counties. "The Democrats must keep working," he added.

He went on to say that under Eugene Talmadge, Georgia really began to move, particularly in its education system. Then he expressed the hope that some day Georgia would have an education system second to none in the nation.

He then pointed out the role of the General Assembly and the many committees in the making of laws and the passing of amendments in the state. He said that Georgia Southern had buildings that could not have been constructed had it not been for General Assembly action. As a result of this action, the Eugene Talmadge Memorial Hospital in Augusta was also provided.

He cited as perhaps the greatest achievement of the assembly was the recently enacted Budget Law. Prior to the enactment of this law, the governor was the head of the budget. "If the General Assembly funds were out, the governor could spend as he saw fit," he stated. "This, however, was not good government."

The Budget Law which was enacted by the 1962 General Assembly, effective in July, will, for the first time, give the assembly the final say so as to how money is spent. However, the governor will have a $2,000 emergency fund, he said.

He lauded the Vandiver administration as being "excellent." "Governor Vandiver met the issues head-on, and his achievements were many," he added.

After explaining some of the House rules, and pointing out the significance of the "Constitution of 1945," he offered a challenge to the Young Democrats of Georgia to "continue being good Democrats, stay interested in government affairs, and keep an interest in state and local matters; doing this would make Georgia a better state in which to live."

GSC Art Show Draws Over

235 Visitors

Over 235 art lovers attended Alpha Rho Tau's Second Annual Art Festival which was held on campus last Saturday in the Caruth Building, according to Miss Freida Gernant of the Art Division.

The exhibits entered in the Festival numbered almost one hundred, and included paintings, sculpture, and crafts. Several of the exhibits were entered by off-campus people from the community of Statesboro and Savannah.

Miss Gernant said that a car from the Statesboro radio station WWNS came out and broadcast a portion of the Festival after lunch.

Miss Jo Carol Gettys, president of Alpha Rho Tau, stated that next year they hope that the exhibits can be left up longer than one day for the benefit of those students who go home on the weekends.

Former House Speaker

George Smith, former Speaker of the Georgia House of Representatives, told members of the GSC Young Democrats Club Thursday night that he disagreed with the phrase that "if Georgia were a two-party state, it would receive more federal aid." Smith's address was given at a banquet sponsored by the Young Democrats at Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen.

Division Changes For Next Year Released

By NANCY PARRISH

Many changes are to be made in various divisions in staff and equipment at Georgia Southern College during the 1963-64 college year. Some of the most significant are listed below:

Language: Four new staff members and a temporary replacement for Robert L. Overstreet, who will be on leave of absence next year, will be added to GSC's language division next fall, according to Dr. F. D. Russell.

The instructors will be teaching in the areas of Spanish, comparative literature, English, and speech.

Dr. Russell stated that some juniors and seniors might remember Miss Esther Kling, who replaced Clyde Farley when he was on leave two years ago. Miss Kling, who will come here from the University of Buffalo, will be an addition to the speech division.

Education: There will be three staff additions made in the education department, in the areas of human growth and development, secondary curriculum and methods, and in the principalship program.

Although the present staff members, with two exceptions, will continue to serve, their assumption of responsibilities will be altered in some cases. Dr. Harold Johnson, former director of student teaching, will serve as director of principalship studies. Dr. Donald Hawk will become director of student teaching and coordinator of elementary student teaching.

John Lindsey, assistant professor of education, will be on leave for the summer to work on a doctorate at FSU. Paul McClelland will go to the Jacksonville University where both he and his wife will be employed. Under the Board of Regent's rule, a husband and wife are not allowed to work simultaneously at GSC.

Physical Education and Recreation: This department will add no new staff members, but two graduate assistants, Miss Virginia Mobly and Ed Thompson, will remain at GSC. Coach J. B. Scarce, chairman of the department, stated that the number of graduate assistants will be increased from four to eight next fall.

Home Economics: Dr. Betty Lane, chairman of Home Economics Division, stated that they planned to strengthen its staff by adding a member who would assume the duties of the food and nutrition division.

A course in nutrition will be a requirement for physical education majors next year, and the course will be instructed by home economics division personnel, according to Dr. Lane.

Dr. Lane said she would like to encourage students to take some of the valuable courses available to non-H.E. majors, and to get them away from the concept that H.E. was only "stitching and stewing."

Science and Math: Dr. John Boole, chairman of the science and math department, said that two new staff members in the fields of math and biology would be added next year.

Dr. Boole said that the department was constantly improving its equipment, but that the latest additions were a refrigerated ultra-centrifuge for bio-chemistry, and 40 microscopes.

Social Science: According to Dr. Jack Averitt, social science division chairman, four new members will be added to the staff next year. The new instructors will be in the fields of American History, sociology, Western Civilization, and in political science and economics.

Business: Dr. Paul LaGrone said that additions to the business division were not yet final, but that he hoped to obtain a Ph.D. from LSU in finance, a Ph.D. candidate from the University of Arkansas in management, and that Edwin D. Davidson would return from the University of Georgia where he has been working on his doctorate.

Dr. LaGrone said that the division had purchased an overhead projector which will be used for the first time next fall. The machine will enable the instructor to cover more material in less time. This will be done by the instructor's previously working long or complicated problems and placing them on a section of the machine which will project an enlarged copy on a screen behind his desk.
