Ten Degree Programs Approved

Masquers rehearse scene from 'Master Pierre Patelin.' From left are Allen Pollard as the Draper, John Toshach as the Judge, Hakon Qviller as the Shepherd, and Wendell Ramage as Pierre. Play directed by William Merriweather also stars Judy Mercer as Guillimette, Patelin's Wife.

Masquers Schedule Final Performances of Comedy

By ROLAND PAGE
Staff Writer

After two postponements the final performances of "Master Pierre Patelin" have been scheduled for Jan. 16 and 17 in McCroan Auditorium, according to the Masquers.

The farce comedy made the first of a planned four performances on Nov. 20 and 21, but the final two shows were cancelled following the Nov. 22 tragedy.

The curtain rises next week at 8:30 p.m. Tickets for students and faculty members are being sold by members of the Masquers at 50 cents apiece. Tickets for adults not affiliated with the college sell for $1.

Tickets may be purchased downtown at Minkovitz, the College Pharmacy, and Henry's.

William Meriweather, director of the Masquers, announced one change in the cast. Allen Pollard, a graduate student in history, will play the part of the merchant which was vacated by Rusty Russell who didn't return to school this quarter.

Other cast members include: Wendell Ramage as Patelin, Judy Mercer as his wife, Guillimette; Hakon Qviller as the shepherd, and John Toshach as the judge.

The plot of the story revolves around the antics of a shyster lawyer (Patelin) in his "gulling" of the merchant. Patelin prides himself on his wit and cunning, and he usually manages to have his own way.

Meriweather had said earlier that he was "pleased with the work students have put into this production." Following the first performances, he received a note from Dean Paul F. Carroll which said in part: "My thanks for a very enjoyable and delightful evening. You and the cast and those in charge of costumes, lighting, and scenery are to be commended and congratulated on a fine production."

Heyward Ellis serves as set and costume director. Serving on the set crew are: Jo Carol Gettys, Mary Ann Addleman, and Carolyn Jenkins.

Costumes were made by Zebe Chestnut and Rusty Russell. The set and costumes were designed and created entirely by the Masquers crews.

Zodiacs Scheduled For Homecoming

The Student Congress Social Committee met Tuesday night and decided that Homecoming Activities will start with the Alpha Rho Tau Beauty Review on Friday night and be followed by the annual Homecoming dance.

A recommendation was passed that the group selected for the festivities should be one of the better known groups. The committee approved the request that the dance be held at the National Guard Armory, and it was recommended that women students be allowed to secure permission to stay out until one p.m.

Three themes were discussed for Homecoming festivities. From these three, one will be decided upon as the overall theme for the weekend.

Plans concerning a big name group for this quarter were discussed and it was decided that the committee would take a poll of student opinions. In the George-Anne there is a box on page 11 containing 4 different types of entertainment. Boxes will be placed in the lobby of the Student Center, into which students may drop their choices of group types.

It was later approved that night that Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs will play for the Homecoming dance which will be held in the National Guard Armory.

The Zodiacs will be sponsored by a unified effort of the Phi Mu Alpha, Alpha Pi Omega, Delta Pi Alpha, and Delta Sigma Pi fraternities.

Speech, Psychology Included; Masters Programs Also Granted

By MICHAELA DENNIS
Managing Editor

Ten new degree programs have been approved for the Georgia Southern College curriculum by the State Board of Regents, according to Paul F. Carroll, dean of the college.

These degree programs will be in effect at least by fall quarter, 1964, and several are already incorporated into the curriculum.

The Board gave approval to the following programs: M. A. with a major in English; M. S. with a major in biology; Master of Education with a major in art education; a six-year program in music for teachers; a six-year program in counselor education for teachers; a B. S. in Education with a major in speech; an A. B. with a major in speech, an A. B. with a major in psychology; a B. S. with a major in home economics; and a B. S. with a combination in medicine.

These programs bring the total number of fields in which one may obtain the bachelor of science degree to ten, and the bachelor of arts degree now has eight areas of major concentration.

The A. B. with a major in psychology will follow the regular A. B. program, except six additional courses in psychology will be offered. The program is presently underway, according to Ira Tillem, assistant professor of psychology.

The six-year program in music for teachers is like the other six-year programs, but six new music courses will be available. Work on this program will begin this summer, with additional courses added to the present five-year program, which has been in effect since graduate work was first offered at GSC, according to Dr. R. J. Neil, chairman of the music division.

The B. S. with a combination in medicine will allow students to enter medical college after three years of pre-med here, or the first year of medical school will constitute the fourth year of work toward the Bachelors degree. This, stated Dr. John Boole, chairman of the divisions of science and mathematics, is an attempt to put the gifted students in medical college early, enabling them to get both degrees in seven years. This program is ready immediately, and there will possibly be a graduate of this program in June.

The M. S. with a major in biology has been attempted for many years. This program, which has a high quality of biology teachers, is backed with

Masquers tryouts for 'The Father' Set January 13, 14

Tryouts for "The Father," a Swedish tragedy in three acts, will be held backstage in McCroan Auditorium at 7:30 next Monday and Tuesday nights, according to William Meriweather, director of the Masquers.

He added that anyone interested, including students and faculty members, is invited to try for parts. The play is to be presented here Feb. 19, 20, and 21.

"The Father" includes five male and three female parts. It was written by August Strindberg, who is considered "the father of the modern theatre," according to Meriweather. He went on to describe the play as a "very demanding and powerful one."

Trying out for plays involves the reading of excerpts from the dialogues of the respective characters. Copies of the play are on reserve in the Rosenwald Library.

Meriweather added that membership in the Masquers organization is still open to anyone interested.

Enrollment Drops By 187 Students

The breakdown of this quarter's enrollment is: freshman women, 297; freshman men, 201; total — 498. sophomore women, 227; sophomore men, 269; total — 469. junior women, 268; junior men, 313; total — 581. senior women, 236; senior men, 261; total — 497. special students: women, 52; men, 11; total — 63.

There are 28 women graduate students and 25 men graduate students, making a total of 53 graduate students.

These figures are subject to change with late registrations.

French Dramatists Here Next Month

A French Dramatics touring group will present "1 Alouette," a French drama, at Georgia Southern on Feb. 28, according to Miss Jane Barrow of the language division.

The performance will be given in McCroan Auditorium, time and place of the ticket sales will be announced later. The group is currently touring the United States and will give Georgians a chance to see them here and in Atlanta.

Their performances are arranged through the auspices of the French Government and its coastal representatives. The group is being brought to Southern through the cooperation of the language division and the Masquers dramatic organization.

Miss Barrow said copies of the play in French have been ordered and will soon be available in the foreign language office in the Administration Building.

The English translation of the play is "The Lark." It is a story concerning Joan of Arc, and stars Luce Vincent as Joan. The play was written by Jean Anouilh.

Renovation Progress Continues In McCroan and Ad Building

Renovations in the offices and auditorium of the administration building were begun last quarter by the GSC maintenance department.

Floors and walls in the building were improved, and the ceilings were lowered. The offices of the dean of students, dean of women, dean of men, dean of the college, registrar, business and bookkeeping departments were involved in these changes. New draperies and furniture were added.

Completion of McCroan Auditorium will result in tinted glass for all of the windows, new doors, new floors, and additional lighting features. Draperies for the windows will be added, if the accoustical engineer thinks it practical.

It is tentatively planned that an enclosed box office will be cut into the wall of the lobby of the auditorium, and some work will be done on the stage.

The total cost of the remodeling in the auditorium alone is estimated between $18,000 and $20,000, stated William M. Dewberry, comptroller.

Letter to GSC

Dear Faculty and Students:

On behalf of the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce, let me express my appreciation to each of you for your generous donation to the Jaycee Empty Stocking Fund.

I think you are to be especially commended for your part in this since many of you are not year to year residents of Bulloch County. Your donation shows that you are interested in both your college and your adopted county.

Please be assured that your help went a long way in bringing Christmas to the ones in Statesboro and Bulloch County that have not the means to give their families the little things that mean Christmas.

If the Jaycees can ever be of assistance to you in any civic way, please call upon us. We are most interested in the college and the progress it makes.

Sincerely yours,
Paul S. Akins

Famous Historian Is Next In Social Science Series

By PAT McMILLEN
Staff Writer

Dr. Fletcher Melvin Green, eminent historian, is scheduled for appearance at GSC, Jan. 24 and 25 in connection with the current Social Science Lecture Series, according to Dr. Jack N. Averitt, chairman of the division of social science.

Dr. Green is the third scholarly speaker to appear on the GSC campus in a program sponsored by the Social Science Division in connection with the Sears-Roebuck Foundation. The lecture series is an effort to bring graduate and undergraduate students at GSC in contact with the eminent scholars in the fields of Social Science, said Dr. Averitt.

Dr. Green received the Ph.D. in 1927 from the University of North Carolina and now serves as Chairman of the Department of History at that institution. In 1946 Dr. Green was appointed Kenan Professor of History at the University of North Carolina, and has taught at five Southern institutions. He has also served as visiting Professor of History at Harvard in 1945, said Dr. Averitt.

Professor Green is an eminent scholar in the field of Southern History and has written the "Constitutional Development in the South Atlantic States, 1776-1860." He is also the author of "Essays in Southern History," "The Lides Go South . . . and West," "The Feny Hill Plantation Journal," and numerous articles in historical journals.

Dr. Averitt, a former Student of Professor Green, stated that "Dr. Green's most significant contribution to historical scholarship is his distinguished graduate teaching that has helped create a university of national reputation at Chapel Hill."

He went on to add that "Dr. Green has directed more doctoral dissertations than any other professor in Southern institutions. His students are among the foremost scholars in Southern History."

"His meticulous manner and his high standards of work have commanded the respect and admiration of all of his graduate students," Dr. Averitt went on to say.

Dr. Green is preceded in the lecture series by Dr. Carl B. Swisher, eminent political scientist, and Dr. Edward William Noland, prominent sociologist.

AAUW Accepts GSC as Member

Georgia Southern College was officially accepted as a corporate member of the American Association of University Women, according to Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of GSC. Dr. Henderson received the invitation from Dr. Pauline Tompkins, general director.

Between 85 and 90 per cent of the colleges and universities approved by AAUW are corporate members. Among the many interests of the AAUW are the Educational Foundation and other programs vital to American higher education.

Dr. Henderson commented on the appreciation of GSC officials at the invitation of the AAUW. Membership into the organization begins immediately.

Lanier Hall

New Privately Owned Dorm Houses 44 Off-Campus Men

By FRANK CHENG
Staff Writer

Georgia Southern men students now have access to Lanier Hall, a new and modern dormitory facility built by Buford W. Knight of Statesboro which accommodates 44 men students.

Lanier Hall, directly in front of Knight Hall which is occupied by the Athletic Department, is a one-story building located on Chandler Road adjacent to the college campus. It is about four blocks from the center of the campus.

This and other dormitories have been constructed by local businessmen, because the enrollment at GSC increased above that of the available on campus facilities.

Lanier Hall has eight apartments, six housing six students; one housing eight students; and one for the supervisor who is Charlton Moseley of the Social Science Division. Each apartment has a large den adjacent to a spacious kitchen equipped with refrigerator, electric range, and large sink with cabinets. The den has a movable compact TV, two large sofas, a corner table and two desks with fluorescent lamps.

Each apartment housing six has one room with two bunks, another with one bunk, each furnished with two desks with fluorescent table lamps, two large mirrors, a large closet with shelf. A large bathroom with shower and tub is located on the side of the hallway between the bedrooms and the den.

Outside, the building is covered with ivory cream color bricks and the roof has a wide eave (which will be painted in aqua along with the doors) which shades one from rain and sun and keeps the wide cement walks below dry.

Inside, the floor is covered with terrazzo. The bedroom walls are panelled with mahogany panelling. Each apartment also has a front as well as back doors, each with large glass in the center. The back door glass has a ventilating facility.

The cost for each student is $95 per quarter. For this the student also receives free janitorial services as well as washer-dryer service. All apartments are in the process of being wired for telephone. There is adequate parking place also.

Lanier is now fully occupied by 44 students. The dorm will be fully completed as soon as some touch-up work is done and furnishings fully provided.

Although Lanier is an off-campus dormitory, the dormitory rules of GSC are to be fully observed and enforced by the supervisor.

A short cut to Lanier Hall has been provided by a large path through a wooded area back of the Art Building. It is only a five-minute walk to the campus.

Ten Degree Programs . . .

seven Ph. D. degrees. This is an opportunity for GSC to offer graduate-level instruction and to allow the staff to carry out their own research. This program, too, is in effect at the present; but it is very doubtful that there will be a graduate in this program before June, 1965, added Dr. Boole. This program also requires a thesis.

The M. A. degree with a major in English requires the Bachelor's degree from an accredited college with a major in English or its equivalent, an academic average of "B" in the undergraduate program, and other proposed requirements.

For the first five years, in which work will begin spring quarter, it is planned to offer only one graduate course a quarter, the other courses taken are to be chosen from those open to both graduates and undergraduates. As the program expands, other graduate six-year programs will be open to the candidates for the M. A. degree, according to Dr. Fielding Russell, chairman of the division of languages. A thesis is also required.

The B. S. with a major in home economics was requested in order to fill the need for professional education in home economics careers other than that of teaching. The general home economics program is designed to meet the basic training preparatory to helping families through career opportunities in business, social agencies, and consultant services. Four new courses have been proposed in this program, according to Dr. Betty Lane, chairman of the division of home economics.

Two different degrees are now available, leading to an A. B. in Speech, and a B. S. in Ed. in speech.

New Year's Resolutions For GSC

For the past two years the GEORGE-ANNE has printed an editorial suggesting a certain number of New Year's Resolutions for Georgia Southern College. In looking back over the resolutions made in these two years, we found that although many were not carried out to the fullest extent, there was marked improvement made in each.

So in keeping with this tradition set in preceding years, the GEORGE-ANNE once again wishes to express its views and feelings for the betterment of GSC in the oncoming year of 1964.

Being treated like a person making resolutions for the new year, setting new goals, and attempting to make up for mistakes made in past years, Georgia Southern College assumes the title of "Mr. GSC".

"Mr. GSC's" resolutions for the New Year are as follows: "I, Georgia Southern College, in the year 1964, resolve":

1. To continue striving to provide more adequate facilities to accommodate the GSC students this year and those coming next year.

2. To create more classroom facilities and provide more instructors in order to relieve the overcrowded classroom situation.

3. To add more degrees, more courses, and more instructors to the ever-increasing academic program at GSC, but;

4. To look with an equal eye toward quality as well as quantity in the academic program.

5. To establish an intra-fraternity council sponsoring a code of conduct and cooperation between the various fraternities.

6. To always keep my Student Congress strong and driving ahead, even in the final weeks of the school year.

7. To provide more money for the Campus Life Enrichment Committee so that they can continue to recruit top talent and cultural programs at GSC.

8. To encourage other departments to follow in the guest lecture programs introduced by the Social Science Division.

9. To provide a solution to the problems of the meal lines which are getting increasingly longer.

10. To enlist the support of every member of the faculty and student body in making Georgia Southern College a better institution.

Physical Plant Needs To Grow, Too

A major step-up in the academic program at Georgia Southern was launched during the Christmas holidays as the Board of Regents of the University System granted ten new degree programs for this institution.

This step shows that the academic divisions at GSC are ever increasing with the number of students who come here each year; but more than that, it shows that Southern is moving rapidly to provide an education for students in many different capacities. It shows that Southern is quickly becoming one of the largest and best Liberal Arts colleges in the state. It shows that Southern has a graduate program with good potential. And it shows that there's more to come.

Academic division charimen are seeking more degree programs in the area of arts and sciences as well as in Education. Some of the programs sought for include majors in German, Spanish, Political Science, Economics, and Physics.

However, the academic expansion at Southern shows a need for an increase in the physical plant here also. Southern doesn't need just one new classroom building; it needs several. It doesn't need just a library expansion; it needs a new one. The auditorium doesn't need renovating; a new one needs to be built.

But, the needs of a rapidly growing institution such as this one are never satisfied, and they never will be, for no college can offer a utopia.

However, while we feel that the division chairmen of GSC have worked hard to increase the academic programs as well as the academic standing of the college, we believe that some consideration should be given to providing a more adequate and accomodating physical plant.

Candidly Speaking

By HOYT CANADY, Editor

What Price Education??

The Governor's Commission to Improve Education recently introduced a far-reaching plan for the next 10 or more years designed to place the state's educational standards in competition with those of the rest of the nation and keep in step with current social and economic changes.

The proposal called for certain changes at almost every level of education in the state — from elementary schools to graduate divisions — and was presented at the Governor's Conference on Education in Atlanta, Dec. 10. The Commission brought forth almost 100 recommendations in all, much too numerous to mention here, but some startling facts about the present level of education in Georgia became unveiled.

For instance, one out of every four Georgians are illiterate. Forty per cent of Georgia draftees fail service mental examinations. More than half of Georgia's high school students drop out of school before graduation, providing the state with the highest drop-out rate in the nation. Georgia ranks among the lowest 19 states in per capita income; and should the status quo remain, it will take this state 155 years to reach the present educational status of the rest of the nation.

Facts Not Hidden

While these facts may be frightening to the average college student and to the average Georgian, the Governor's Commission made no attempt to hide them in the back of a file cabinet. Instead the Commission showed that a severe educational problem did exist in the state, and that something should be done about it.

The logical step, it seems, would be to increase taxes, something politicians of past decades have tried with limited, if any, success. But the Commission also pointed out that while many local districts (over 100) use the state's funds for educational purposes, use their own for other matters of less significance.

While the Commission recommends no "specific penalties against local districts which do not meet their obligations" it suggests that steps be taken to make sure these obligations are met. The proposal recommends that the State Board of Education be given the authority to enforce the minimum standards by withholding part or all of state funds.

Opposition Ahead

The Commission's proposal to consolidate school districts which will provide for larger high schools, thereby enabling more course offerings and providing for better teachers will more than likely meet opposition from small county school heads who feel the status quo shouldn't be tampered with.

However, some of these small county high schools offer very few courses which would qualify a student to enter college. In some schools physical education instructors teach English and Biology courses. Math teachers coach athletic teams. Courses such as chemistry, trigonometry, physics, government, and others almost required of college-bound students aren't even in the curricula.

The usual complaint from these districts will be that "those people in the capitol" have no business trying to run the local school systems, which would only reveal their ignorance to the educational problem in Georgia.

However, the Governor's Commission apparently realizes that the education crisis is state-wide. It's recommendations reach into every school district in the state and offer a chance for better education for Georgia's young, regardless of class or financial condition. The program will not, as Governor Carl Sanders stated this week, "solve all our problems, nor cure all our ills," but it is a big step in the right direction.

The 13th of January will be quite a great day for GSC. After the Chad Mitchell Trio and the Lettermen, the third wonder of the season is coming—the Italian Olympic basketball team.

Also, this kind of show will be different, and the team promises 90 minutes of interesting and vibrant spectacle. Three years ago in Rome, during the Olympic games, the whole world was watching this team with surprise, since they were semi-unknown and were facing the best formations of the world.

The Italians got to the final tournament with the U.S.A., Russia, and Brazil. After an unforgettable and unlucky match with Brazil, Italy was eliminated and received fourth place.

This event was a great help for basketball in Italy. People became interested in this sport, and as everyone knows, the interest of the people is quickly translated into money; and money is indeed what this game needs in Italy.

Soccer Is Attraction

Basketball games have been known in Italy for a long time, but they were always played with the purest amateur spirit. In Italy, the average soccer player earns about $1,500 per month, which is a great deal of money there. The soccer stadiums of the large cities have from 70,000 to 100,000 people nearly every Sunday.

A basketball player theoretically does not earn anything, and even the most important matches do not have more than 8,000 or 9,000 people.

NOTICE

Notice to all Student Organizations on campus: Please send a representative to the Office of Student Personnel Services and secure a Student Information Sheet to be filled out and returned as soon as possible.

The information requested on the Information Sheet is needed by the Student Committee of Campus Organizations to classify and coordinate activities on campus.

The players, even if they earn little money, must think of their future. Many of them are no longer students, and they are working in some office. So often it is impossible to have all the best players for some important international match, because most of the time, they have—before the sport—some important thing to do in their job, and a player cannot actually afford to think of the sport first.

For the next Olympic games in Tokyo, the Italian Federation of Basketball has planned 135 days for the training and the trip to Japan. This is not a long time, but this worries many players because they will have trouble in asking permission from their working places.

No Amalgamation

Another important thing is that the Italian basketball team does not have amalgamation among the players, which is essential in such a sport. A basketball team is efficient when the men know each other, know all the plays of their team mates, and trust every companion during the game.

This deficiency, of course, is due to the changes that the coach must make, not always having available the same men. The trip to the U.S., however, is supposed to eliminate such deficiency, and to prepare the team for the Olympic games.

The formation coming here is not the best the Italians can offer, but, for sure, 80 per cent of the men who will play in the Hanner Building will be seen next year in the Olympic Tournament. It is a good opportunity for us to have a close glimpse of people whom we shall see in the future on a television screen, perhaps playing against the U.S. team.

The Best Four

Vittori is actually considered the best player in Italy, and Lombardi is a player capable of the impossible, but sometimes indisposes everyone during the game—even his teammates. The reason is that he is a bit impulsive, and in his great heart there is no room for any mistake of anyone, even if the fault is due to the ball.

The director (Captain) of the team is Pieri, who is a very methodic man—cold and exact in his actions. He is able to conduct the play of his whole team. However, the man whom we will notice more will be Sardagna, who, in Italy, is called the "American," because he has an American style of playing, which distinguishes him from his mates.

The coming players are: Pieri, Vittori, Vianello, Sardagna, Gavagnin, Bufalini, Gatti, Flaborea, Bertini, Pellanera, Giomo, Lombardi. The coach of the team is Professor Paratore, who does the same job for the official national team. Cesare Bubini, a great ex-basketball player and olympic champion of water polo, will be with the team. He now directs one of the greatest basketball teams in Milano.

Prepare yourself to see the Italian Harlem (white) Globetrotters Monday night. If you want to say something to the Italians, like "go" or "on the way," say "FORZA ITALIA!" It will be twice as pleasant for them.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Southern Colleges Begin Language Program Growth

By WINFRED L. GODWIN
Director, Southern Regional Education Board

Locked in the languages of the world are keys to human understanding and international compatibility unavailable from any other source.

In recent years, Southern institutions have developed international and area programs involving languages once rarely mentioned on any American campus.

The change began with the post-war years of the 1940's when universities began a great broadening of curriculum and programs to include languages and studies about the old and new nations of the Far East, Africa and the Near East. Prior to that time, most of the academic interest had centered in the Western Culture, and with some complacency, American institutions felt they had given their students an international outlook by introducing them to the languages, literature and politics of such close neighbors as France, Germany, Italy and Spain.

Today this is not enough. Texas Receives Grants

The University of Texas at Austin has received two grants for 1963 under the Language Development Program of the National Defense Education Act to support language programs in Hindu, Telugu, Arabic, Hebrew and Persian. The first is under direction of the South Asia Language and Area Center. The University also has a Language and Area Center for Latin American Studies which will teach Portuguese and Spanish this year.

Publications of India and Pakistan flow into the Center for Southern Asian Languages at Duke University where they are kept and classified for advanced research. Hindi and Urdu, the languages of these two nations, are the specialty of the Duke University Center, which is one of 11 universities in the U. S. classified as Class A members of the American Institution of Indian Studies.

The Duke program focuses primarily on training graduate students in the disciplines of political science, history and economics, but it also contributes to the undergraduate curriculum of the University by providing visiting lecturers and by sponsoring programs related to Southern Asia.

Focus on Latin America

At the University of Florida's School of Inter-American Studies the focus is on Latin America, with emphasis on the Caribbean. Spanish, Portuguese and French are taught as integral parts of this program which offers an M.A. and a Ph.D. in Inter-American studies.

The University of North Carolina, Tulane University and Vanderbilt also have nationally known programs in Latin American nations with each leader university specializing in a given area. The University of North Carolina spotlights Spanish South America; Tulane University, Central America; and Vanderbilt, Brazil.

Vanderbilt University is the only Southern university to receive a grant supporting Russian studies and the Russian language this year.

However, the University of Oklahoma offers a program in Russian studies specializing in Russian history and culture; economic, social and political problems. The program emphasizes study of government, history, language and literature, philosophy and geography. The University offers similar programs in Asian Studies and in Latin American Studies.

Three-Year Program

In 1961-62 the Atlanta University Center began a three-year program in non-Western studies financed by a grant from the Ford Foundation. A special collection of books, periodicals and audio-visual materials has been built up at the Atlanta University library for use by faculty and students in study of the Asian nations. Informal classes in Mandarin and Hindi have been features of the program.

In all parts of the region colleges and universities have awakened to the need for a global education unrestricted by traditional Western horizons. More intimate and practical knowledge of these non-Western languages and the cultures which spawned them is of immense value as America assumes a heavier role as world leader.

What's At Other Colleges?

By MICHAELA DENNIS

The George-Anne exchanges newspapers with several universities and colleges throughout the nation. As an added feature this week, we decided to print a few of the happenings of other schools. However, GSC appears to be right with the rest, thanks to the work of the Campus Life Enrichment Committee, the Student Congress Social Committee, and all others who helped get the entertainment we have had this year.

At Emory University, Atlanta, a non-profit book sale is offered. Each student marks on the book the price at which he wishes to sell it, and the College Council sells it for him. This could easily become a reality at Southern, greatly aiding students during their first week of registration each quarter. Maybe a fraternity on campus will get wind of this and take it as a project. Maybe???

Bill Pickens, ex-GSC basketball player, was named "Athlete of the Week", at Stetson University, DeLand, Fla., after the "tremendous effort that he displayed in the game against GSC," which Stetson won, 57-54, on Dec. 6. Surely, all Southern students are happy to know that his training at GSC had a part in his being selected.

At the University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla., a 40-foot boat was bought, stocked with firecrackers; and it was launched blazing to symbolize Miami's determination to defeat its rival in the homecoming football game.

LaGrange College sponsored a bridge tournament, offering cash prizes. This might give ideas to bridge-game enthusiasts at Southern.

At Washington University, St. Louis, it was announced that products are now on the market to aid those who wish to break the "smoking habit." Judging from the many cigarette butts found all over the Student Center, it would be a wise decision for "smokers" to look into this matter further.

Buford Hall Houses 37; Contains Modern Facilities

By SANDRA RAPE
Staff Writer

Buford Hall, the newest off-campus dormitory for women, has the most modern furnishings and facilities for students, according to several of its residents.

The dorm is built in two wings, with rooms on the suite system. Every two rooms are connected by a bathroom, which contains not only a shower and a bathtub, but also a dressing area. Each mahogany-paneled room contains two bunk beds and three desks, plus dressers and chests of drawers. The heat can be regulated in each room and likewise with air conditioning in the spring.

Besides the two activity rooms and two large kitchens, which contain free washers and dryers, maid service and piped-in music make Buford Hall complete.

Miss Muffett Adams, freshman from Atlanta, commented, "I like it a lot—there's plenty of room. The bunk beds are nice, too, because I can throw all my junk and dirty clothes on the top bunk."

Miss Paula Fuller, a junior from Dublin, said, "It's so convenient — no running up and down the halls to the bathroom."

Miss Marcia Glover, sophomore from St. Simons, stated, "I like it so far, and I would not move on campus."

Miss Judy Maddox from Ft. Valley explained that she felt more at ease, and that noise was less because of the bathrooms.

The dormitory, built by Buford Knight, rents for $95 per quarter. Space is available for 60 girls, although only 37 occupy it now.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cole are house directors of the dorm, and they can be contacted there for an application for admission.

Coed Discovers Unusual Hobby ... Pipe-Smoking

(ACP) — Volney Walsworth, feature editor of THE FORTYNINER, Long Beach State College, Long Beach, Calif. admitted in print that she was taking up pipe smoking. She soon found herself besieged from all sides.

Said her mother: "It just isn't done, my dear."

"Oh! You're the one . . ." and another feminine acquaintance disappeared as though Volney were the sole carrier of the black plague.

No mandatory "request to leave school" notice reached her desk. But in her mail box she found such notices as "What do you think you are doing?" and "Uncle Sam Does Not Need You."

Fellow staff members also found ways to needle Volney. But she has been able to keep her pipe lit, and so far no store has refused to sell her tobacco.

She looks forward to rocking and puffing and, years from now, giving her secret for longevity.

Three guesses.

Southern Students To Select 'Best Dressed' Campus Coed

Ten Contestants Vie; GSC

Winner is 'Glamour's Entry

A committee of six students will be chosen this week by The George-Anne to select ten contestants for the 1964 "Best Dressed Girl on Campus" contest.

For the second consecutive year The George-Anne is co-operating with GLAMOUR magazine in their eighth annual contest to find the "Ten Best Dressed College Girls in America."

Pictures of the ten coeds, chosen by the GSC committee will appear in the Jan. 23 issue of The George-Anne along with a ballot which students may fill out and deposit at The George-Anne office at times which will be announced later.

The contestant who receives the most votes will succeed Miss Jeanne Brown, "Best Dressed Girl on Campus" for 1963, and she will be GSC's entry in GLAMOUR's national contest.

The winner will be photographed in three outfits, a typical campus outfit, an off-campus daytime outfit, and a party dress (full or cocktail length), and the photographs will be sent along with an official entry form to GLAMOUR for national judging.

The criteria used by GLAMOUR and also the GSC committee for selecting the coeds are as follows: 1. Appropriate, not "rah, rah," look for off-campus occasions; 2. A clear understanding of her fashion type; 3. Clean, shining, well-kept hair; 4. Imagination in managing a clothes budget; 5. A workable wardrobe plan; 6. A deft hand with make-up (enough to look pretty, but not overdone); 7. Individuality in her use of colors, accessories; 8. A suitable campus look (she's in line with local customs); 9. Good grooming, not just neat, but impeccable; and 10. Good figure, beautiful posture.

The young women selected by GLAMOUR as the "Ten Best Dressed College Girls for 1964" will be photographed for the August issue of GLAMOUR and will be the guests of GLAMOUR in New York for the weeks of June 1 to June 13, 1964. The June trip will include a presentation of the winners to over 1,500 members of the fashion industry at GLAMOUR'S annual College Fashion Show, visits to cultural centers in New York including the World's Fair, entertainment at the theatre, luncheons, receptions and dinners given the editors and friends of GLAMOUR.

The trip was described by the 1963 winners as, "A lifetime of fond memories."

Up to twenty young women will be chosen as Honorable Mention winners and will be pictured in a fall issue of GLAMOUR.

In answer to the question "Why is GLAMOUR interested in finding the 'Ten Best Dressed College Girls?'" Kathleen Aston Casey, Editor-in-Chief, replied: "We feel the years when a young woman is in college are the most formative of her life. The education she gets during these years should mold her into a well-rounded, intelligent, independent, interesting, attractive person. Through the contest it is our hope to show that being well-dressed and well-groomed is an integral part of an education that develops the well-rounded mind."

"We also hope to show that these attributes are not a question of money or an extensive wardrobe. They depend, rather, on the development of good taste and an intelligent interest in one's appearance."

We hope, too, to make known our sincere interest in all young college women by showing them how to enjoy their looks without being preoccupied with them . . . and to impress upon them that good looks, good grooming and a good mind are all important goals to reach for in these highly competitive times. It is only through your interest and cooperation that we can fulfill the aims of the contest and we welcome your participation in the 1964 competition."

Alpha Gamma Omicron, honorary society for women, has elected Jay Norman Wells, assistant professor of mathematics, as assistant advisor for the organization. He will assist Dr. Betty Lane, professor of Home Economics, who is currently serving as faculty advisor.

LAST YEAR'S 'BEST-DRESSED' CAMPUS COED

Jeanne Brown Of Garfield Was 'Glamour's' Entry.

Procedure Given For Establishing New organization

The Office of Student Personnel Services is issuing a statement which outlines the necessary procedures for establishing a new organization on the GSC campus.

The first step is the submitting of a letter to the Student Advisory Personnel Council stating the name of the faculty advisor, a list of proposed charter members, and a request for permission to organize.

After this has been completed, a statement is required from the faculty advisor stating his willingness to serve the organization for a period of not less than one year following the official acceptance of the organization into the college.

When permission to form a new student organization has been granted, an official or proposed constitution and by-laws of the organization must be filed with the Office of Student Personnel Services. A Student Organization Information Form must also be furnished within two weeks after the club's formation.

All clubs will be reviewed annually by the Student Personnel Advisory Council to evaluate whether or not each organization is functioning according to purposes set forth in the constitution.

To remain active the organization must send a representative to at least one-half of the meetings of the Student Committee of Campus Organizations. A copy of the constitution and a Student Organization Form must be filed no later than two weeks after the fall quarter starts each year.

Ten new degree programs have recently been made available at Georgia Southern. When asked what other new degree programs students would like to see added, an interesting variety of replies was given.

They are as follows:

Tom W. Brown, Dalton: I would like to see a Masters and Ph. D. in Recreation be offered because I intend to get both of these degrees, and I would like to get them here.

Randall Shaw, Omega: Ph. D. in Industrial Arts.

Buddy Coarsey, Tifton: A degree in law.

Jimmy Ginn, Statesboro: A degree in commercial art.

Judy Odom, Folkston: I'd like to see the two year secretarial science program resumed.

Jeanne Brown, Garfield: A degree in interior design.

Carolyn Edenfield, Portal: A degree in accounting.

Linda Coalson, Cartersville: A degree in journalism.

Kirk Beckham, Thomasville: The business department should offer majors in accounting, marketing, economics, etc, instead of options under a general degree in business administration.

Jacky Jackson, Savannah: I think a degree should be offered in aerodynamics.

Wayne Conner, Augusta: I think a degree should be offered in accounting.

Winston Pittman, Gainesville: I think a degree should be offered in speech.

Linda Gillis, Waycross: An A. B. in drama and a Bachelor of Music.

Sharon Foxworth, Brunswick: I think the present ones should be improved before additional degrees are established.

Perke Robinson, Jacksonville, Fla: I think more options should be offered in the business department; for example, an option in public relations.

Jerry Robinson, Carrollton: A masters in physical education should be offered.

Patty Stacey, Hinesville: A degree in pharmacy.

Sue Catt, Lakeland, Fla. A B. S. in Animal Husbandry.

Mary Bailey, Sylvania: I think they should institute a medical degree, although it might not be practical for a school this size.

Jon Peacock, Aberdeen, N. C.: Degrees in law, architecture, optometry, and agriculture.

Donnie Maples, Tuscaloosa,

Ala.: A degree in driver education, especially for basketball players — seriously!

Tom Anderson, McRae: A degree in the business department that Ann Jenkins can graduate in.

Ann Jenkins, Thomson: A degree should be offered in retailing.

Frank Tison, Ashburn: I think they should offer graduate courses in nuclear physics so I could change my major.

Annella Davis, Jesup, and Carson Overstreet, Odum: We think degrees should be offered in psychology.

Gene Nesbet, Bainbridge: I think a minor should be offered in physical education.

Earl Bagley, Hinesville: I agree with Gene.

Rick Van Brunt, Jacksonville, Fla.: A degree in law should be offered.

Athlete's Feats

By LARRY BRYANT, Sports Editor

In athletic contests many players are said to have what is called "rabbit ears." That is, the players can hear what their supporters are shouting even though they may not know the actual words they hear. However, it is this shouting which stimulates the player to perform his best rather than to play with an "I don't care" attitude.

Unfortunately, the Georgia Southern Eagles haven't had much reason to be "stimulated." The school spirit at Southern could not be much worse. More spirit has been shown by high school teams losing by forty points. No team can be expected to play their best without the support of its fellow classmates.

Actually, the student body should realize that the basketball team spends many hours a week preparing for games while most people are using their spare time to study or just plain goof off. The GSC cagers should be shown some respect for their efforts.

The Carson-Newman game on Jan. 4 is a classic example of our school spirit. There were very few people who expected GSC to win that game. However, as the Eagles jumped to an early lead, enthusiasm mounted. Several times the GSC cagers walked off the court during time-outs leading by several points. While they were ahead, students rose to give them a standing ovation. As the Eagles walked off the court during a timeout trailing by one point, no one rose to give them a standing ovation. There was hardly a word of encouragement given.

The student body should support the Eagles regardless of whether the team is winning or losing, not because they are representing GSC, but because they are student, our classmates, and supposedly, our friends. It would be nice to have a winning team every year, but the odds do not work that way. This should be no reason to turn in our Eagle feathers at short notice.

SPORTS HIGHLIGHTS OF 1963

Professional Football

Jimmy Brown of the Cleveland Browns demonstrated his amazing ability as he led Cleveland to a 37-24 victory over the seemingly invincible New York Giants on October 13. In this game Jim ground out 123 yards rushing, went 86 yards from the passes he received, and scored three touchdowns.

Baseball

Sandy Koufax, who plays for the Los Angeles Dodgers, set a new record on October 2 as he struck out 15 men. The Dodgers won the opening game of the World Series, 5-2.

College Football

Roger Staubach, one of college football's finest quarterbacks, led Navy to a surprising upset over the third-ranked University of Pittsburg on October 26. Roger put on a terrific performance by completing 14 of 19 passes for 168 yards. Staubach also scored the winning touchdown for Navy. Since he's a college junior, he should set a few records next year.

Baseball Practice Scheduled

All students who are interested in trying out for the baseball team are to report to the Hanner Building at 4 o'clock on January 13. Official baseball practice will begin then.

Eagles Return Home; Face Tampa, Italian Cagers

By PAUL HALPERN
Staff Writer

Georgia Southern's Eagles will play two of their most interesting games in the space of three days as they clash with the University of Tampa on Saturday night and take on the Italian National Olympic Team Monday evening.

The Eagles visited Tampa Dec. 7 and won a wild overtime game 101-95. According to Coach Ed Thompson, this was the Eagles best game of the year to date.

The Spartans of Coach Bob Lavoy will play without the services of senior guard George Sherry. Sherry was the team's field general and led their scoring attack with 34 points in the first meeting. He was recently injured and will be out indefinitely. Tampa still has Chuck Andrews, a 6-5 senior who scored 15 points against the Eagles, and Jim Stephenson, a 6-2 guard who is expected to take Sherry's place.

Tampa has a big ball club this year and is much taller than the Eagles. They are strong on the backboards and have scored highly this season, but they will have a big hole to plug with the loss of Sherry.

Coach J. B. Searce is planning to platoon the Eagles against Tampa. According to the coach, the boys have been pressing too much on offense. The team will put on a full court press the entire game with a new platoon taking over every seven or eight minutes to keep the players from getting too tired. Searce feels this will help the club both offensively and defensively.

Eagles Face Italians

Monday night the Eagles will play host to an Italian Olympic Team. Not much is known about these foreign visitors. Their trip is sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union. The AAU got in touch with Georgia Southern and asked that the team be put on the Eagles' schedule.

Seven members of this team were on the 1960 Olympic team that lost two games to the American teams in Rome. The Italians arrived in New York City on Dec. 26 and will leave from there Jan. 19. They play Jacksonville tomorrow night (Friday) at Jacksonville before coming to Statesboro. From here they travel to Nashville, Tenn., to do battle against Tennessee A & I. Other teams on their schedule include North Carolina State (Raleigh), Georgetown College (Georgetown, Kentucky), and Highpoint College (Highpoint, N. C.)

Slight changes will be made in the playing rules as the game will be played under Olympic regulations. One shot free throw will not be permitted; the ball will instead be brought in from out of bounds by the team that was fouled. If a player is fouled in the act of shooting, however, he will be allowed to have his two charity tosses. Hollering at an opposing player will constitute a technical foul. One of the most recognizable changes will be in the width of the foul lane.

These two basketball teams have never seen each other in action and this game should provide more than the usual interest and excitement.

For information on the Italian Olympic Team, see page five.

Eagle Ten-Pins Bowling Every Tuesday Night

The Eagle Ten-Pinner league started winter quarter action Tuesday night at the Skate-R-Bowl. The league, which operates during the fall, winter, and spring quarters, includes eight teams comprised of two boys and two girls each.

The league was organized by Georgia Southern students and will operate Tuesday evenings from 6-8 p.m. until Mar. 3.

That night will climax play and trophies will be given to the first and second place teams. Individual trophies will also be given for the highest game, highest game average, and highest series.

First night action saw Jimmy Schofill bowl 203, the highest boys game. Martha Lansford took girls honors with a 168 total. High averages went to Russ Melroy (183) and Martha Lansford (150). The Alley-Katz bowled the highest team game (674) and rolled 1963 to take series honors.

Any boy bowling a 500 series gets his name on the week's honor roll. This week six members made the list. They are: Russ Melroy (549), Bob Jones (541), Bob Armenio (533), George Lumpkin (533), Paul Allen (513), and Bobby Freeman (500).

Girls must roll 400 to qualify. Martha Lansford (452), Mary Nell Pharr (443), and Doris Madison (430) were the three to make the list.

Georgia Southern's Gymnasts Will Meet University of Georgia

The Georgia Southern Gymnastics Team is about ready to begin competition for the 1964 season. Coach Pat Yaeger states that the team is coming along very well. The events are set up and the boys know what positions they will occupy.

The big guns this year will be Buddy Harris, Don Maples, Jon Peacock, D. C. Tunison, Bill Aldrich, who is only one second away from the world's rope climbing record, and Kip Burton, if his shoulder gets better. The rest of the team will consist of Jimmy Allen, Dupont Hancock, John Prentis, Al Jamison, Mike Stevens, and Charles Eunice. Perry Wright, a former member of the team, is ineligible this quarter.

The first meet will be on January 18 with the University of Georgia. VMI cancelled its Jan. 11 meet with GSC because of financial difficulties.

The Merchant Marine Academy, which was originally scheduled for homecoming, has been cancelled because the Merchant Marines cannot play outside a 500 mile radius. Plans have not been completed for homecoming.

As for Yaeger's opinion of the up-coming season, he stated, "This will probably be the best team ever at GSC. We have made great improvements since last year. But on the same basis, other teams are also much better. LSU was an easy team to beat last year. This year they will have a ready-made team. Also, they have Guy George, who is rated as one of the top gymnasts in the South. Florida has improved tremendously since last year. West Virginia has the best team they have had in ten years. The day of romping over people is over."

Yaeger also said, "We have a couple of weak spots. We also have a number of freshmen on the squad this year that look very good. We hope to give them some competitive experience this season."

The boys' spirit is as high as it was last year. They are eager, hardworking, and driving. We hope that many students can follow us to the University of Georgia. We really need some support up there."

Referees Needed For Intramural Basketball Tilts

Men's and Women's Intramural Basketball will begin Monday, Jan. 12. A schedule of the games will be posted by Monday morning. Games are to be played in both the old and new gyms. Participants are to please check the schedule as to time and place of each game.

Referees for these basketball games are badly needed. There will be a payment of 50 cents a game for each referee. There will be two to three games each night with each game not lasting more than 45 minutes.

Other activities, the time to be announced later, are: Badminton for men and women. Singles and doubles for men, singles and doubles for women, and also, a mixed singles and doubles. A bowling tournament for men and women will also be held.

For the faculty there will be Faculty Night which will consist of half-court basketball, badminton, volleyball, tennis, and handball.

GSC Pulls Upset To Humiliate C-N

All-Court Press Proves successful To Searce's team

By LAMAR HARRIS

Staff Writer

Georgia Southern fell for the second time to Stetson but pulled an upset by defeating Carson-Newman since the beginning of winter. The Eagles have split two road games also.

On Jan. 2 Stetson University invaded the Hanner Gym and took a 69-59 decision from the Eagles.

Fran Florian led the Eagles with 24 as he sank 10 field goals and three of four free throws.

Bill Hester sank 16 to lead Stetson. He was aided by Jim Jarrett with 13 points and Bill Clark with 11 points.

Bill Pickens, the big 6'10" center of the Hatters, was held to two of three free throws in the first half for only two points. The big Pickens, whose average is well up in the double figures, closed out the night with only nine points.

Revenge is sweet and the Eagle cagers enjoyed it as they upset Carson-Newman College Jan. 4 by a score of 86-78.

GSC used a press the entire game on defense. The press was very effective causing Carson-Newman to lose the ball on numerous occasions.

The Eagles jumped to a quick 6-1 lead. They held the lead until the Carson-Newman Eagles pulled ahead 16-15 with 11:04 left in the first half.

But the GSC Eagles stormed back and ran away to a 41-28 first half lead.

Raymond Reynolds had eight points to lead GSC's first half scoring.

Coach J. B. Searce manipulated the team so as to keep a fairly fresh quintet in the game at all times, so the press would be 100 per cent effective at all times.

Don Adler led GSC with 23 points, 17 in the second half. Fran Florian bagged 19 points.

For Carson-Newman, Jerald Ellington took scoring honors with 23 points. Roy Hill sank 18 and Vice Arwood scored 16 to help Ellington. But all this was not enough as GSC downed Carson-Newman.

On Jan. 5 Troy State College felled GSC 107-92. Florian sank 23 points to lead Southern. Adler tossed in 19 points and David Owens and Mike Richard each sank 15 points.

Ray Duce led Troy State with 42 points. Duce sank 14 field goals and 14 out of 18 gratis tosses.

Troy State led all the way and held a 56-41 half time lead.

On Tuesday, GSC took a thrilling 83-80 victory from La Grange College in La Grange.

Florian led the Eagles with 28 points, 24 in the second half. Owens sank 16 points and again was the rebounding ace for the Eagles.

Hugh Corlis led the Panthers with 27, 23 coming in the second half. T. J. Thompson tossed in 17 points for La Grange.

The Eagles never lost the lead, but it was threatened at several points in the game. GSC led by 15 points in the first half, but had this lead cut to 39-32 at intermission.

GSC again used the press on defense with very effective results.

GSC Loses Four Big Contests Over Holiday Season

By LAMAR HARRIS
Staff Writer

The Christmas holidays proved disastrous to Georgia Southern, in the way of basketball. GSC could manage only a single win, while suffering four setbacks.

On Dec. 14, GSC dropped a 76-60 defeat to Oglethorpe University in Atlanta. Fran Florian sank six of 19 field goals, and three of four free-throws for 15 points to lead the Eagles. Mike Rickard and Bill Johnson each dropped in ten points.

Billy Parker of Oglethorpe took high scoring honors, as he poured in eight of 11 field goals, and five of seven free-throws for 21 points.

As a team, GSC hit 22 of 69 field goal attempts for 31.9 per cent, and 16 of 24 free-throws for 67 per cent. Oglethorpe sank 23 of 39 field goals for an amazing 59 per cent, and 30 of 35 free-throws for 85.7 per cent.

The Eagles were able to pull down only 25 rebounds, while Oglethorpe was taking 40. Oglethorpe led 36-23 at half-time.

Two nights later the Eagle cagers saw their record fall to 2-3. Carson-Newman College rolled to a 73-70 win over GSC to raise their record to 7-1. Terry Grooms hit eight field goals for 16 points to lead GSC.

The Carson-Newman defense cooled off the hot shooting arms of the two GSC sharpshooters, Florian and Rickard. Florian scored only two points, being two for two from the foul line. He did not hit any field goals. Rickard sank three field goals and three of three gratis tosses for nine points.

Jim Hill of Carson-Newman really stole the show, as he sank 11 of 13 free-throws for 84.6 per cent, and three of four free-throws for 75 per cent. Hill, who scored 25 points, was helped by Arwood and Luttrell, who scored 17 and 16 points, respectively.

As a team, GSC sank 24 field goals and 12-17 free-throws for 60 points. Carson-Newman scored 29 field goals and 15 of 21 free throws for 73 points. At half time, GSC trailed 43-25.

On Dec. 18, the Eagles fell 92-81 to East Tennessee State University.

Florian again led GSC with 21 points, 12 of them coming in the first half. Florian hit seven field goals and was seven for seven from the foul line. John Burton scored 11 to assist Florian.

Willie Malone sank 29 points and Virgil Frazier tossed in 17 to lead East Tennessee.

As a team, Southern sank 31 of 76 field goal attempts for 41 per cent, and 19 of 26 free throws for 73 per cent.

East Tennessee sank 35 of 76 field-goal attempts for 46 per cent, and 20 of 27 free-throws for 74 per cent.

The Eagles were down 40-38 at the half.

The following night GSC lost their fourth in a row to Middle Tennessee State College, and returned home to meet Macalester College on Dec. 30.

The Southern cagers, led by Florian and Don Adler, gave Macalester their first setback in seven games, 79-60. Florian and Adler each scored 18 points.

The first half was a nip and tuck battle, with the lead swapping back and forth. GSC, down 25-24, pulled away to a 35-31 half-time lead.

Raymond Reynolds scored 13 points and pulled down 11 rebounds. David Owens led the Eagles in rebounds as the jumping "cornhusker" gathered in 14 rebounds.

Frat System 'In Trouble'

ARE THE GREEKS
HERE TO STAY?

(ACP)—The Greek system of social fraternities and sororities, long a part of American college life, is in trouble on campuses throughout the country, notes the NEW MEXICO LOBO, University of New Mexico, Albuquerque.

It is doubtful that any of the Greek brothers, relaxing in their houses on that fateful day in 1957 when the Russians put the first satellite into orbit, had any idea of the wrath this achievement would bring down around their heads.

This space shot was a slap in the face of the U. S., long self-considered to be the most scientifically advanced nation in the world. It poked us in the you-know-what and put our education system into a high gear never before used.

Suddenly the purpose of attending school, especially an institution of higher learning, became getting a superior education. The American student, kicked by Sputnik and increasingly pressed by the numerical competition of his fellow war babies, found himself in a tough academic world. He had to quit partying constantly and start studying if he was going to stay in the good old ivy-covered halls. He suddenly had to worry more about exams than about his Saturday night bashes.

Let's face it—party and studying don't mix. Fraternities, long tolerated by administrations simply because they kept the student in identifiable, governable units, began to find out that they would no longer be even tolerated as long as their primary goal was fun and not education.

Is there any chance of the Greek system surviving? Definitely not if it remains stagnant. University administrations, under tremendous strains, can no longer afford to tolerate anything which is not helping them achieve their goals. But the system can survive if it changes.

The basic idea of the Greek brotherhood undeniably is good. If the Greeks begin to use their brotherhood to stick together in the quest for knowledge, making fun a secondary objective, there is no reason why they should become extinct. But those groups which refuse to change will eventually find themselves out in the cold, cold, cold.

Honored Students State Plans, Goals

By MICHAELS DENNIS
Managing Editor

The 11 GSC seniors named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" this quarter shared a feeling of considering this award to be "quite an honor."

The recipients' hometowns, majors, and extracurricular activities were listed in the George-Anne at the time of the announcement.

Because this was the first announcement and even the recipients themselves did not know until the paper was released, the candidates were not interviewed.

Since that time, each of the elected students was asked what degree he expected to receive, how he felt when he discovered he had been named to "Who's Who," and what plans he had for the future.

Anita Ambrosen

Miss Anita Ambrosen will receive a B. S. degree in mathematics. She hopes to receive a scholarship or a fellowship enabling her to attend graduate school (preferably at the University of North Carolina), where she will work toward an M. A. degree in math. Possibly obtaining her Ph. D. degree, her ultimate goal is to teach on the college level.

Miss Ambrosen said that she felt this award to be a tremendous honor.

Ray Bowden

Ray Bowden will receive a B. S. degree in education, with a major in industrial arts, and a B. S. degree in industry. He plans to continue working toward a Ph. D. and to eventually teach in college.

Bowden felt this to be an honor, especially since he believed recipients of this award also won the students' confidence.

Frances Dell

Frances Dell plans to receive an A. B. degree in English, and plans to begin graduate work at the University of Georgia in the fall, to get an M. A. degree in English, to teach literature in college, and to eventually be married.

Miss Dell stated that this is the highest honor she has received. She was surprised, thankful, and extremely pleased.

Wayne Ellis

Wayne Ellis will receive a B. S. degree in education, with a major in social science. His plans include entering the University of Georgia Spring quarter to work on an M. A. degree, teaching secondary education, and eventually teaching on the college level.

Ellis said that this was the primary goal within the area of extracurricular activities that he had always hoped to achieve during his college career.

Pam Hill

Miss Pam Hill expects a B. S. degree in education. Other than a summer wedding, her plans are to teach elementary school in Birmingham, Ala.

Miss Hill said that she was surprised but very pleased.

Grace McClelland

Miss Grace McClelland will receive a B. S. degree in education, with a major in health and physical education. She plans to obtain her M. A. degree, and to teach in high school.

Miss McClelland stated that she was surprised, yet happy, and that she felt deeply honored.

Roland Page

Roland Page will receive an A. B. degree in history. He plans either to obtain an M. A. degree from the University of North Carolina or to go into the service, hoping to go to Europe. He plans to go into the newspaper business, and eventually to be a creative writer.

Page said he felt that everything he has worked for these three years at GSC haven't been totally in vain.

Elaine Walden

Miss Elaine Walden, who is a home economics major, will receive a B. S. degree in education. Her plans include a summer wedding, and teaching in Augusta next year.

Miss Walden said that her first feeling was one of great surprise, but that she also felt very humble. Her hope is that she may be of service to someone wherever she may go.

Thurmon Williams

Thurmon Williams will receive a B. S. degree in business administration. He plans to attend graduate school at Georgia State College Spring quarter, to teach for two years on the college level, and to work where he "can get the most money for work that nearly satisfies me."

Williams stated that he was very surprised and happy.

Don Westberry

Donald Westberry will receive a B. S. in education, with a major in social science. He plans to teach next year, to work on an M. A. degree during the summers, and to eventually work on the six-year degree.

Westberry said that this was the highest honor to receive on the college level; and that this has been one of his goals, since coming to GSC. He said that he is very happy, and extremely thankful for having been chosen.

Betty Yeomans

Miss Betty Yeomans plans to receive a B. S. degree in junior-high education. She hopes to get married during the next year, to teach math or science, and to continue her education during the summer quarters.

Miss Yeomans said that she never thought she would be one of the few selected for this award, and that this is the greatest honor of her life.
