Another Registration

Long lines, frustration and confusion is typical of registration day. Some 2,093 students on the graduate and undergraduate level were reported to have registered for classes for the Spring quarter. Spring quarter began at GSC with registration on Monday and will end with the 1964 commencement service on June 6.

Hobbs Receives Woodrow Wilson Fellow Appointment

Joseph P. Hobbs, a senior history major from Savannah, became the first Georgia Southern College student in the school's history to be appointed as a Woodrow Wilson Fellow for graduate study next fall.

Hobbs was one of 1,507 undergraduate students to be selected for the honor. Winners were chosen from over 11,000 nominations from over 90 colleges and universities in the United States and Canada.

David R. Smith, a physical science major, was one of 1,216 undergraduate students to be selected as an alternate.

Woodrow Wilson Fellows are granted to exceptional liberal arts majors who are going into graduate work to become college professors. Applicants are nominated by their respective academic division and school and are subject to strict requirements and careful screening by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation.

"A Woodrow Wilson Fellow is granted full tuition and fees for the first year at the graduate school of his choice, as well as a stipend of $1,800 and dependency allowances," stated Dr. Hans Rosenhaupt, the foundation's national director.

Dr. Jack N. Averitt, chairman of the social science division, termed this as "a signal honor for both Hobbs and Georgia Southern."

"The granting of the Woodrow Wilson Fellow to Mr. Hobbs is a significant recognition of his outstanding academic record at Georgia Southern," Dr. Averitt stated.

"We of the history department believe that Mr. Hobbs will do work in quality and quantity that can be deemed excellent in his graduate appointment."

"This appointment is not only an honor for the recipient, but also for the institution as a whole," he added.

Southern Gets $3 Million For Future Buildings

Georgia Southern's building program received a boost of $3,910,000 which will be used for the construction of five new facilities on the campus, according to Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of the college.

The proposed facilities include two new residence halls, a new dining hall and student center area, a Fine Arts Building, a Science Hall and an addition to the W. S. Hanner Building.

The allotment was made available as a result of Gov. Carl E. Sanders recent program to improve education in the state.

A total of $71 million was allotted to higher education and $55 million was given to public schools. The bulk of the money for higher education went to Georgia, Georgia Tech, Georgia State and Southern Technical Institute.

Dr. Henderson added that all the buildings would not be constructed at the same time, and that there is no priority as to which facilities would be built first.

However, he hinted that the new dining hall and the men's new dormitory and women's dormitory would probably be under construction earlier than the other facilities.

Construction on the first facilities is hoped to be underway early in 1965, and the new buildings will be placed on the back part of the campus, Dr. Henderson said.

This allocation will continue a building program which began in 1951 and has allowed an average of one construction per year since that time.

A total of 18 buildings, including new constructions, renovations and additions have been constructed on the campus since the early 1950's. This has allowed the enrollment to triple since 1958, and indications are that there will be approximately 3,500 students attending GSC by 1967, 5,000 by 1970 and 7,500 by 1975.

In telegrams announcing the allocation to Bulloch County Reps. Jones Lane and Paul Nesmith, Gov. Sanders stated:

Women's Dorm Plans Are Given; Will House 300

A new women's residence hall which will house 300 coeds has been approved by the Board of Regents at their latest meeting and will be under construction soon, according to Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of Georgia Southern.

Dr. Henderson said that bids for construction of the new facility will be let April 2, the same time as the bids are let for construction of the addition to the Rosenwald Library and the new classroom building.

The new residence hall will be constructed on the back portion of the campus and will be built in the form of a square with a court in the center, he added.

"The dormitory will have 150 rooms, will be three stories high and will contain the latest furnishings," Dr. Henderson said.

Henderson Elected President Of GEA

Dr. Zach Henderson, president of Georgia Southern, was elected President-Elect of the Georgia Education Association by an overwhelming majority at the GEA annual convention in Atlanta last week.

Dr. Henderson will serve as president-elect for 1964-1965 and will be installed as president next year at the convention to serve for the year, 1965-1966.

The GSC President tallied 722 votes to defeat J. E. Edmonds, Clayton County School Superintendent, who polled 263 votes; B. B. Harris, Superintendent of Gwinnett County Schools had 227 votes.

It was reported that GEA observers had predicted a closer race and that there would have to be a runoff before any candidate would receive a majority of votes.

Dr. Henderson will be the first college faculty or staff member to head the GEA in several years. He will succeed Judson R. Tripple of Vidalia, the current president of the GEA, next year.

Dr. Henderson has been president of Georgia Southern since 1948.

1948 when he succeeded Judson C. Ward. Prior to that, he was dean of the College.

He stated that he will try to work with and solve the problems that come up during his administration with the GEA.

He added that he hopes to attend district and affiliate meetings "so I would know what immediate problems there were in the association."

After graduating from Maysville high school in 1918, he attended Piedmont College, receiving the Bachelor of Science degree in 1922. He began his professional career as a high school teacher of science and mathematics in 1923.

He later attended the University of Chicago and the Teachers College, Columbia University, receiving the Master of Arts degree in 1928. Piedmont College awarded him the L.L.D. degree

Student Activity Fee, Room Costs To Increase In Fall

An increase in the Student Activity Fee and Room Rent will be put into effect with the beginning of fall quarter, 1964, announced Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of Georgia Southern.

The Student Activity Fee will increase from eight to ten dollars per quarter and room rent will increase from $66 to $69 per quarter.

This will put the quarterly costs at $248, and yearly costs will be $744. The new figures will be in the new addition of the Georgia Southern College catalog, which is now available for students.

Dr. Henderson added that the rise in the Student Activity Fee will be used for athletics as well as other areas. He said that by this increase it is hoped that the Student Congress will be able to attend some national meetings and that a track team might possibly be established.

He stated that room rent at GSC would still be approximately the same as room rent in other four-year institutions in the state system.

Room rent was increased this year from $60 to $66 per quarter and was increased in 1959-60 from $45 to $60. Board was increased this year from $99 to $105 last year, and the cost is still cheaper than in any other state institution, Dr. Henderson said.

Prominent Exile Leader To Speak Here April 7

By HALLEY FENNEL
NEWS EDITOR

Dr. Enrique Llaca, a veteran of the ill-fated "Bay of Pigs" invasion, will speak in McCroan Auditorium on Tuesday, April 7, in the Campus Life Enrichment Committee's final presentation of the academic year, according to Dr. Jack Broucek, chairman.

Tickets are now available to all students at the Student Personnel Office upon the presentation of their student I.D. cards. All seats will be reserved and the presentation will begin at 8:15 P.M.

Dr. Llaca is a prominent exile leader and is a pioneer in the struggle to liberate Cuba from Communism. He received in 1957, at the age of 21, his doctorate in Law "summa cum laude," and a B. S. degree in Economics.

Dr. Broucek of the music department stated, "Dr. Llaca is an outstanding representative of the new Cuban generation."

Fidel Castro in 1959 offered Dr. Llaca the post of Ambassador to Belgium. He rejected the position in a widely publicized letter to Castro stating: Those who like me strongly opposed Batista's dictatorship and therefore indirectly favored you raising to power, did it because of our democratic convictions.... Now we must not commit ourselves, but rather remain vigilant until the time Freedom is secured, the 1940 constitution fully restored...I urge you to immediately call free elections, stop the firing squad..."

He published a series of articles in the "Diario de la Marina," a Havana newspaper, in which he sharply criticized the avowed economic policy of the Castro regime. After their publication accused by the Communist newspaper "Hoy" of being a "tool of Yankee imperialism."

In addressing the Cuban Bar Association, the lawyer made the following statement in reference to the Communist attack: "new form of tyranny, very well known to the peoples captive of Communism, is being subtly implemented in our Country while the hysterical masses enjoy Castro's demagoguery... I have strong reasons to believe we are approaching the darkest period in our History..."

In June of 1959 Dr. Llaca was arrested by the Cuban Police, but was soon released. He left the country and was granted political asylum at the Embassy of Chile.

Peace Corps Deadline Set

Applications filed as late as June 1, can still be processed in time for entrance into one of the Peace Corps training program which begin in middle and late summer.

In addition to turning in a completed questionnaire, an applicant must take the Peace Corps Placement Test. These aptitude tests will be administered nation-wide at Post Offices in principal cities March 14, April 11 and May 9.

The same test is to be given on many college campuses on a certain day between April 19-30. Interested seniors should inquire of their college Peace Corps liaison.

Peace Corps teams from Washington will still be visiting many more colleges and universities this spring and will be administering the Placement Test on campus. Peace Corps officials emphasize that this is a non-competitive test, with no failing grades.

The production is based on the humorous antics of the zany darkies from the "Henderson Plantation."

Staff Writer

The Georgia Southern Debate Team will meet the Harvard University Debate Council Wednesday, at 10 a.m. in the audio visual room of the Frank I. Williams Student Center.

The subject under debate will be: "Resolved: The Congress of the United States should eliminate the policy of appointing committee chairmen by seniority."

Harvard will take the affirmative stand, and Georgia Southern will debate the negative side.

Debaters for Georgia Southern have not yet been selected.

Two of the following will debate on the Harvard University squad: Laird Kirkpatrick, president; Roger Cohen and Steve Ujlaki.

The decision as to which team is the winner will be made by an audience ballot.

The debate program has been underway at Georgia Southern for seven years and is under the direction of Carole Stein, assistant professor of speech. Debate has been prominent at Harvard since 1725.

During spring vacation, members of the Harvard Debate Council go to various parts of the country to debate. This particular group is debating its way to Florida and back.

ship assistance to "superior students." Now several Southern states provide some measure of general scholarship aid.

These include Louisiana, Maryland, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Virginia. They earmark about $1.75 million annually for this cause.

In 'Critical' Fields

In the past most state aid has gone to students in specialized "critical" fields like teaching, medicine, dentistry and nursing. Florida, for example, gives over 400 nursing scholarships and West Virginia, some 100 teacher training scholarships each year.

Recipients of such aid are usually required to pursue their vocation in their state of residence for a certain time or re-pay the loan.

One of the most striking aid programs ever invented was the Federal G. I. Bill. Proposals for renewed programs of Federal scholarship assistance are pending in Congress, and it is safe to predict that we shall hear much more about this in the coming months.

CONGRESS SHOULD COME FIRST

For the first time in several years, Georgia Southern College will increase its Student Activity Fee, effective the beginning of next fall quarter, and students will more than likely pose questions as to how the school plans to distribute this increase.

President Zach S. Henderson stated that the money for the Student Activity Fee would be divided about the same way, but the increase would permit the organizations presently subsidized by the college to expand their activities.

For example, the Student Congress would be able to participate in state and national conventions and meetings — something the GSC governing body hasn't been able to do in the past because of limited funds.

Also, the athletic department would be able to expand their program by the creation of other sports events, such as intercollegiate track or wrestling.

If this is the true purpose of the increase, then we endorse this program and give it our support. However, we feel that the Student Congress should be given priority if any organization is to have its present allotment increased.

According to the proposed agency budget for 1963-64, the Congress is operating with only $564 per year and receives less than any other subsidized organization (except the cheerleaders, who receive the same amount).

With this present allotment, the Congress must provide for all its operating expenses, plus furnish the president with a quarterly salary. If a Congress committee attempts to solve a campus problem, it must do it by correspondence and wait several weeks for results, which proves to be a time-consuming venture.

The possibility that representatives of the GSC governing body may be able to attend conventions and meet personally with student government members of other colleges is a welcome sight. Discussing and understanding common student government problems would not only benefit the congress, but it would also be helpful to the student body as a whole.

The George-Anne realizes the potential of the GSC athletic department as well as that of other organizations; nevertheless, we feel that the Student Congress should be given first consideration if and when Student Activity Fee allotments are increased.

A SIGNAL HONOR FOR GSC

The granting of a Woodrow Wilson Fellow for graduate study to Joseph P. Hobbs, a GSC history major, marks a new first for this institution, and has been termed by the recipient's major professor as "a signal honor" for Georgia Southern.

While The George-Anne would like to offer congratulations to Mr. Hobbs for his appointment, we would also like to mention the significance of this honor in its relationship to the school.

Though the name of "Georgia Teachers College" was changed in 1959 and the number of degree programs on the liberal arts scale is increased each year, the image of GSC being a one-purpose teacher institution still exists in many areas.

The fact that the nationally-famous Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, which selects liberal arts majors for appointments, has recognized a GSC student speaks well for the liberal arts program here and opens the way for similar recognition in that area.

ATHLETES MAKE FINE SHOWING

Both Georgia Southern basketball and gymnastics teams came within reach of national titles in the NAIA Finals held in Kansas City, Mo., earlier this month, and both teams are to be commended for their fine showing and sportsmanship in the tournaments.

The Eagle cagers were successful in rounding out their season with an impressive 19-8 record, and winning the District 25 NAIA Tourney. Although they did not come out on top in the National tournament, they are to be congratulated for putting forth their best effort in the finals.

The Eagle thinclads closed out their season by taking second place in the NAIA Gymnastics National Championships, losing first place by a mere one-half point.

Five national champions were selected from the Eagle gymnasts: Buddy Harris, All-American on the horizontal bars; Jon Peacock, All-American with free exercises; and D. C. Tunison, Kip Burton and Donnie Maples placed on the second All-American team.

We feel that the accomplishments of these two teams is in keeping with the tradition of athletics at Georgia Southern, and we would like to wish equal success to our athletic teams in the future.

Candidly Speaking

By HOYT CANADY, Editor

That Capitalistic Palm

Some brave soul (through the efforts of Saturday Evening Post) has finally spoken out fluently against tipping, and most will agree that it's high time something was said about this "out-stretched hand" fallacy.

No matter where one goes these days, he is constantly plagued by the "obligation" to place a coin or bill in the out-stretched palm of the waiter, cabbie, doorman, delivery boy and just about anyone else who lifts a finger of assistance.

In some places it has reached the point where a person is asked how much he will tip before any service is rendered. If the guest replies that he usually tips heavily, he receives a little better than adequate service. If he replies otherwise, he's lucky if he receives any service at all.

For Better Service???

The philosophy (if it can be called such) of the tip was that it insured better and more prompt service. Today, it seems as though the tip is only a token to prevent name-calling, embarrassment, bad service and, in some cases, no service at all.

The worst part of this tipping mania is that the customer feels obligated, and believes the bigger he tips, the more he is respected by those rendering "service" to him.

In keeping with standard forms of etiquette, it was once felt that a reasonable tip was 10 per cent of the customer's bill. Now the figure has jumped to 20 per cent, and that's often regarded as a minimum. How much will a person have to pay to insure good customer-service relationship in the future?

Another strike against tipping is the fact that it has produced a situation where employers hire people to work for wages which, in many cases, come only from tips.

Customers are usually made aware of this, and they feel more obligated to leave a bigger tip than they would if the employee's salary was supplemented by a steady income.

Many times employees who depend solely on tips make just as much or more than the workers of the same business who are paid regular salaries. However, the idea of hiring people who must depend on the generosity or extravagance of the average customer is wrong, both in theory and practice.

"No Tipping" and Service Charges

Some business establishments have countered this problem by adopting a "no tipping" policy, and others have included a small "service charge" along with the customer's bill. The general trend, though, still leans toward the 20 per cent tip in most places.

Actually, about the only way to eliminate the problem of feeling obligated to tip would be some kind of full-scale customer protest against this evil. It would be more practical if businesses would adopt the "no-tipping" or "service charge" policies, but neither of these is likely to come about on a large scale.

Meanwhile, people will continue to supplement salaries of cab drivers, delivery boys, grocery clerks, waiters and doormen with the usual tips; or they will refuse to do so and provoke insult and embarrassment.

Can Anyone Go To College Now?

By WINFRED L. GODWIN
Director, Southern Regional Education Board

Anyone who really wants to, can go to college these days. Or can he?

Even if he's a good scholar, ambitious and energetic enough to secure a part-time job, can he raise the necessary $1,500 for a year's total expenses at a public college, or $2,000 to attend a private school?

Working your way through college continues to be an American tradition. More than half of the students in Southern colleges and universities are earning part of their school expenses.

But in many cases, a job is no longer enough. Scholarships and loans — plus family help — are frequently necessary to make the financial outlay for a single year of college today.

Growing, But . . .

Scholarships are growing in availability in the South and the nation. But they are not keeping pace with the need, particularly in this region. Family incomes run about 25 per cent lower in the South than in the nation and college costs run as high as in the rest of the country.

To get specific, Southern students received some $20 million in scholarship aid from their respective institutions in 1959-1960, the latest figures available. This compared with about $100 million for the nation, not counting non-campus resources like industry and government programs. While the region has about 20 per cent of the nation's total scholarship funds, it has 25 per cent of its enrollment.

Of the top 50 institutions giving the largest amount of scholarship aid, only 10 are in the South.

Not Making It

A large number of the high school graduates of our area and the nation who want to go to college and have the aptitude are not getting there, strictly for lack of funds. U. S. Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel estimates that 100,000 U. S. high school graduates highly qualified for college are not entering our institutions of higher learning each year.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation is the largest single national agency currently awarding college scholarships. Approximately 500 of our one million Southern college students receive these awards each year. They bring about $1 million in funds, from the Ford and Carnegie foundations, to institutions of our region.

The extensive screening process used to select the Merit Scholars produces a pool of qualified candidates much larger than the number of scholars who are appointed. Many students for whom business and industry provide scholarships are chosen from this group of amply qualified runners up.

States Help

Including these, business and industry provide at least $17 million annually in this form of student assistance nationally, about $4 million to the South. But much of this is restricted to employees' children. General Motors and Westinghouse Electric lead in this field.

State governments are beginning to play a bigger role each year in the college scholarship scene. A 1959-1960 survey showed that only 11 states in the nation were giving some form of scholar-

Letter Clarifies Purposes And Problems Of Masquers

Dear Editor:

First, let me thank you for your continuous support of Masquers this year, including your fine editorial which has attempted to bring many of our hopes and promises to the entire student body. The support of the college newspaper is not only very welcome, but extremely valuable. We attempt, in our productions, to bring to this campus, not merely entertainment but theatre of high quality.

Our philosophy, as you have accurately noted, is that all forms of art are an integral part of a liberal arts education. We are committed to the art of theatre, not to the business of entertainment. This has been true at GSC long before my coming here, and will, I am sure, continue to be true long after I have left.

For all the pleasure your support and articles have given me, I am reluctant to have to note that there has been some misunderstanding of your comments and your motives. I hope you will allow me a little space to try and clear the air.

Your editorial, fine as it was, did contain a few minor errors, and, through no fault of yours, omissions. The auditorium has been a matter of concern to the faculty and administration for several years now. There is a faculty committee, the "Auditorium Renovation Committee," which has long been studying our problems. This committee, composed of Dr. Broucek, Miss Gernant and Mr. Overstreet (whom I am replacing this year), filed a report in February, 1961. The report was based on their findings during a study of colleges in our general areas which had solved auditorium problems similar to ours.

This report is on file in Mr. Dewberry's office. The problems you mentioned (windows, auditorium beams for front lighting, acoustics, etc.) were all examined in this report. The committee recommended action — this is in 1961, remember — which is identical to the action you mentioned in your editorial. This is nothing new, but something which has gone too long unheeded.

Many of the problems are now being dealt with. Acoustically, designed, light-proofed curtains are being considered to cover our new windows (the curtains would not have been necessary if the windows had been sealed as the 1961 committee recommended). We have two professional lighting consultants studying our lighting needs. We have a report already from one of the best acoustical engineering firms in the country, and the recommendations of this report are being studied.

As far as the inadequacies of our auditorium and stage are concerned, the problems are not new nor have they gone unstudied. We now have money to work with, however, and so this year we will see changes in McCroan. Our main concern is that these changes are for the better, and I am fairly certain that all future changes will be initiated only after careful study of the problem of our specific situation.

Although I personally interpreted your editorial as a statement of concern and support for the Masquers and their work here, it seems that there has been some reaction different from mine. I am quite concerned, and displeased, that there should be any element of competition implied or stated between the work of my predecessors here and my work. Speaking for myself, and I am sure I am also speaking for Mr. Overstreet here, the purpose and duty of the theatre program on this campus is the same today as it was last year, or three years ago, or probably, ten years ago.

We are concerned with producing drama which will enrich and broaden the awareness and sensibilities of the college community. We are dedicated to producing deserving plays in the best manner we can, given our physical plant. We are not and never have been in competition with athletic events, free flicks on Fridays, or professional entertainers.

We, as well as these other activities, fill a need on this campus, and all of these activities are not only justifiable, but also desirable contributions to college life and to the educative process. There should not be, and need not be, any competition between singers and actors, movies and plays, music and drama. Rather, there should be organized planning to allow for the maximum attendance of all at each of these.

I have, as does every director my own methods and techniques of staging. These are not "better" than any other "different". This year we have used three full backdrops in our drop - and - swing settings for Pierre Patelin. It is my understanding that this form of scenery had not previously been seen here.

In "The Father," I used 42 lighting instruments, 18 of which were crude tin-can spot lights built by our students. This allowed me to have more than 10 lighting cues during the performance. We also constructed a cyclorama and used various step-units and levels to achieve an expressionistic, space - staging form of scenery for this production. These techniques too, I understand were not previously used here. This fact — that my manner of staging is different — creates an impression of newness for our production. But this is not at all an indication of value; it does not mean our productions were better, nor that the plays we produce are of more artistic value.

As a previous writer has mentioned, "Agamemnon," "Don Juan in Hell," "Anne Frank," and "A Stretcher Named Desire" are plays of high merit and undisputed artistic success. Rather than promote a meaningless and rather inane feud, I think it is necessary to return to original purposes. There is in the making at GSC a tradition of fine and healthy theatre. This was duly noted in your editorial and subsequent developments should not obscure this basic fact, nor should they drag something of great value to the campus down to the level of personalities. We have no need for that here at all.

There is one more matter that I think needs to be brought up again here. This is the "controversy" over the advisability of subsidizing a college theatre. I do not know first hand the opinions of Mr. Overstreet concerning subsidization. I understand that he is not in favor of it. May I point out that he, much better than I, is aware of the unique problems of GSC and theatre at GSC.

I am sure that his opinions are well - grounded in close observations of existent conditions here. However, I came here to find a total operating budget for the year of $40. I notice, in glancing through the account books, that often the total funds of The Masquers has amounted to less than twenty dollars.

Theatre costs money, no matter where it is produced. One of the finest professional theatre in New York, recently closed down because it could not raise $50,000 to pay its debts. (A musical comedy costs somewhere near two million dollars to stage in New York City.)

I need money, yes. I also need support and cooperation. This is going to be a busy quarter. DeLand O'Cotton, the Masquer's fund-raising vaudeville show, the music department "Oklahoma!", The major production (still hopefully Frisch's "The Firebugs"), and evening of one-act plays, and much more is scheduled for this quarter.

Not only will I be in some way involved with most of these, but so will you and every student here. We need support at the box-office. We also need support behind the scenes. This, too, is nothing new this year.

Thank you for the space. I hope you will continue to point out the problems and achievements of all activities on campus. And thank you again for your support.

Signed,

William L. Meriwether

Tryouts Set For Masquers' Play

Tryouts for the Masquers' spring quarter production, "The Firebugs," will be held backstage in McCroan Auditorium on Monday and Tuesday from 3:30 to 5:30 and from 7:30 to 9 p.m., announced William Meriwether, director.

Meriwether said that word has still not arrived from London, despite frantic cables, granting permission to present the play; nevertheless plans for the production have been carried out. If the play is not available, Meriwether said he has an alternative in mind, which he prefers not to disclose at this time.

"The Firebugs" is a "morality play without a moral" by the contemporary Swiss-German playwright, Max Frisch. The production has a cast of three women and six men, plus a chorus of firemen consisting of four to twelve men and/or women.

Meriwether added that a script is available for examination in his office backstage, and he urged all members of the college community, including faculty, to read for roles in this production.

He stated that as this is an involved technical production, as many as 40 backstage workers may be needed, and technical crews will also be organized at tryouts.

Meriwether pointed out that course credit is available, through Theatre Practicum, for students participating in dramatics productions.

Dormitory Life Good--- On Or Off The Campus

By LOUISE COX

College life consists of more than the academic oriented pursuits. Extracurricular activities, cultural aspects, and communication and relations with other young people are vital parts of the education college students receive outside of the classroom and in lessons not found in the scope of the text.

OFF-CAMPUS

Dormitory life is the central point of congregation for this part of "education." With such an upsurge in enrollment beyond that of facilities as Georgia Southern has seen, the school has not been able to accommodate all the students who must have lodgings at or near the campus. As a result of this lack of housing units, several (five in number) private, off-campus dormitories and many private homes in the Statesboro area are hosts to the new breed of "off-campus students."

A more understanding relationship between the house director and students provides for liberties to be taken concerning the enforcement of rules and regulations. With fewer students to manage, the house directors and students have opportunity for a more relaxed relationship. The house director can get to know his charges as individuals, not merely room numbers or vaguely familiar faces and names. This is beneficial to the students when he seeks some special arrangement.

The entire atmosphere in these private dorms is much more casual. Here students are more on their own concerning such matters as keeping clean rooms, establishment of quiet hours, and call down regulations. (Some of these residence halls have a-boised call downs and use extra desk duty as a means of punishment instead of the other system which can result in restriction.)

The facilities of all these dorms are the newest and most modern. One dorm offers free washing machines, baths connecting each two rooms, and has plans for a swimming pool which will be constructed soon. Another boasts of a chauffeur driven Cadillac and access to a summer home on a nearby lake. All five residence halls are air conditioned, have abundant closet and shelf space, janitorial services, convenient washers and dryers, kitchen facilities, and all modern furnishings. (All except one hall have recreational rooms, and that one will soon have one built.)

These places range in capacity from 40 to 80, so the students living there have no less acquaintances than those on bounds of the campus.

Another advantage of living outside campus regulations is that it is not compulsory to buy a meal ticket. There is kitchen equipment so the students can cook for themselves or eat anywhere else without a loss of the money that would have to be paid for a full meal ticket. Punch meal cards can be bought so students can eat in the school cafeteria when they want to or find it convenient.

The only disadvantage of living off-campus seems to be the distance to the school. It is only fair to say, however, that in most cases this disadvantage is due to laziness rather than real inconvenience since the approximate distance from all five housing units is approximately three blocks.

ON CAMPUS

By HALLEY FENNELL

Sore feet, trouble finding a parking space, and forgetting a book that's three blocks away when there's only ten minutes till class—none of these are problems of a on campus dormitory student.

Those living on campus have one advantage which surpasses many of those of off campus housing. There is time between classes to go to the dormitory between classes (this is especially convenient for those students who like to sneak a nap between classes), and there is no problem of finding a parking place in time to get to class. The short distance to class is also a convenience when the alarm clock doesn't go off (or was maybe just neglected).

When the weather looks like rain, a student can more easily acquire an umbrella from a room in the dorm, than he could from an off-campus room which is three blocks away. This could save many wet feet and hair-do problems.

Some on-campus students have the same modern facilities if they have acquired a high enough classification to be placed in one of the new dorms. Study rooms, activity rooms with a television and kitchen, utility rooms with irons, washing machines, and dryers, and modern heating facilities are available.

The library is also close at hand for on campus students, as well as the post office, snack bar, and nearly any person—faculty member or student.

FORT STEWART TOURNAMENT

Eagles Fall Twice; Win One In Meet

The Georgia Southern baseball Eagles captured one victory over the South Carolina Gamecocks, but lost to the same squad and the Carson-Newman Eagles in the Ft. Stewart Tournament over the spring holidays.

The combination of Jerry Stephens and Larry Crouch gave the Eagles their first win of the 1964 campaign with a 3-0 victory over the Gamecocks.

Stephens picked up victory number one as he hurled the first five innings of the contest striking out eight and walking one, while being tagged with three base hits.

Crouch came on to pitch two perfect innings to finish the game.

Shortstop Royce Exley led the Eagles at the plate in the three-

Scearce Named 'Coach of Year'

Coach J. B. Scearce has been chosen "Coach of the Year" for senior college basketball by the Atlanta Tip Off Club.

The organization goes through the ranks of college and university basketball and chooses the outstanding coach and player in both junior and senior colleges.

Coach Scearce finished his 17th season at Georgia Southern with a 19-8 won-lost record. The Eagles won the district NAIA tournament and went on to the national tournament in Kansas City, Mo.

game tourney with three safties for nine trips to the plate for a .333 average.

The other team in the tourney was the University of Kentucky Wildcats, whom the Eagles did not meet in the round-robin affair. The GSC batsmen fell to the Carson-Newman Eagles by an 8-4 count.

GSC will meet South Carolina later in the season when the Gamecocks come to Statesboro for a two-game series on April 10-11.

Eagle Netters Open Season; 'Round-Robin' Tourney Set

The Georgia Southern tennis team takes on Georgia State College, Appalachian State Teachers College, and Amherst College in a round-robin tournament slated for Friday and Saturday, according to Richard Stebbins, GSC tennis coach.

The Eagles open the action against Appalachian State Teachers at 2:30 Friday afternoon at which time the singles matches will be played. Friday night the same teams tangle in the double matches.

Saturday morning the Eagle netmen meet Amherst College for the first time. "But, to give you some idea of the kind of team they have, last year they played the Citadel and won 9-0; and the Citadel beat us 9-0," commented Stebbins.

Saturday afternoon the Eagles will play host to Georgia State College, a team that Southern downed 9-0 last year. Stebbins added that Georgia State has already played matches this year.

Stebbins said the first four men, in no particular order, are Joe Scraggs, David Hall, John Williford, and Alex Caswell.

Louis Miller is the number five man and Gordon Blackwell and John Fishback will battle it out for sixth position.

Stebbins added that Amherst is supposed to be "a real fine tennis team." Appalachian State beat the Eagle netters last year 6-3. Georgia State is about comparable to GSC, according to Stebbins.

Paced by impressive pitching and some forceful hitting, the Georgia Southern Eagles routed Malone College of Ohio in the first two games of an extended seven-game home stand.

The Southern diamond men were scheduled to meet LaSalle College of Philadelphia, Pa., in a double header this afternoon and will face Davidson College and Wake Forest College in games tomorrow and Saturday.

Monday's action calls for a double header with the Eagles going against the Amherst Lord Jeffs in the first game and the Michigan State Spartans in the second. The Spartans and Jeffs will battle it out in the first game of twin bill Tuesday afternoon, and Southern will take on the latter in the nightcap.

Eastern Kentucky will visit Statesboro for a three game series with Coach J. I. Clements charges during the latter part of next week.

Loren Abshier and Larry Crouch combined to pitch a one hitter at Malone in Monday's game, while Royce Exley and Dallas Perry blasted home runs to lead GSC to a whopping 25-1 victory.

Shortstop Exley, Southern's most consistent batsman in the early season, collected five hits for 15 at bats for a .333 average. The Savannahian also drove in five runs, scoring three himself, and clouted a grand slam homer.

Perry, in addition to his round tipper, had a single in two trips to the plate and drove home three big runs.

Second baseman Jackie Hammond, playing his first game of the season for the Eagles, collected three safties. Jim Seely and Stan Sumner each had two hits.

The following afternoon saw the Southerners greet the visitors with more of the same, this time trouncing Malone to the tune of 12-3.

Pacing the Eagles was sophomore righthander Jerry Stephens, who went the distance while hurling a five-hitter and surrendering three unearned runs and fanning 13 opposing batsmen.

It was the second victory of the season for Stephens. Earlier in the campaign he went five innings and gave up three hits in chalking up a win over the South Carolina Gamecocks in the Ft. Stewart Tourney.

He has also pitched 14 complete innings this year allowing no earned runs and giving up only eight hits. He has fanned 21 batters and walked three.

Leading the Eagles at the plate was Seely with four hits for four times at bat. The big Malone, Ill., star played for the Eagles last season and returned to the line-up this year after being out of school for the previous two quarters.

High Point Drops GSC from Tourney

By PAUL HALPERN
Sports Editor

The 1963-64 basketball season came to a close at 3:35 p.m. Wednesday, March 11, as the Eagles lost to High Point College of High Point, N. C., 85-76 in the second round of the NAIA national tournament in Kansas City, Mo.

The Eagles reached the 2nd round by defeating Dakota Wesleyan March 10 by a score of 86-72 with all five starters hitting in double figures, led by Fran Florian's 24 points.

The Tigers of High Point jumped to an early 10 point lead, 21-11, and seemed to have the game in control when the Eagles put on a spurt which saw them come within five points, 26-21, midway of the first half.

GSC tied the score with three minutes left, 35-35, only to see High Point take a 43-37 half time lead into the dressing room. The Tigers were never headed after that and, while Southern put on a spirited battle, High Point slowly moved away in the final moments to capture the 85-76 victory.

Mike Rickard and Don Adler shared scoring honors with 17 points apiece. Ten of Adler's points came in the second half. David Owens and Ray Reynolds bucketted 12 points to round out the double figure tallies.

Also scoring in the final game of the season were James Thomas, Fran Florian and Bill Johnson with five points and John Burton with three.

Four Eagles averaged in double figures during the regular season. Florian led the squad with a 22.1 average, followed by Rickard's 15.6, Adler's 11.9 and Owens' 10.8. John Burton, the outstanding playmaker, averaged nine points an outing.

A look at the statistics chart shows Fran Florian led the team in field goal attempts (663) and field goals made (269) while Burton led the Eagle starters in percentage with an even .500 from the floor.

In the free throw department, Florian made 100 out of 120 attempts for an .833 percentage to lead the team in all three categories.

David Owens picked off 108 offensive rebounds and 109 defensive rebounds for a total of 217 to head the squad. Mike Rickard grabbed 210 and Florian took 179 stray shots.

Don Adler led the field in assists with 130, followed by John

Eagles Place Second In NAIA Gymnastics Finals

By LAMAR HARRIS
STAFF WRITER

The Eagles of Georgia Southern College amassed 156 points in the National NAIA Gymnastics Championship held at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston, Ill., but it wasn't enough as the Eagles placed second to Western Illinois University by one half point.

GSC placed second in the nine team event. Other schools and number of points include: 3. Eastern Illinois, the host team, with 62 points, 4. Fort Hays State University, 48 and one half points, 5. Demidji State College, 34 points, 6. University of Southwest Louisiana, 25 points, Northwestern Oklahoma State, 11 points, 8. (tie) Stout State College and Grambling College, four points each.

GSC's Jon Peacock took the leading individual scoring honors as he received 49 points. Buddy Harris, Southern's captain, tied for second with Roger Hollinga of Eastern Illinois as each received 39 points.

Harris and Peacock both made the first squad of the National All-Star Team which was chosen following the championships. Peacock won honors in the free calisthenics, and Harris was top man on the high bar.

Three Eagle gymnasts placed on the second team. They were: Donnie Maples on the side horse, D. C. Tunison on the still rings, and Kip Burton in tumbling.

The all-around individual leader was Hollinga, who rolled up 40.57 points. Harris placed second with a total of 40.27 points, Peacock took third with 40.05 points, and Maples finished sixth with 37.80 points.

Peacock won the free cal and the long horse vault, placed second in the trampoline and tumbling, third in the parallel bars and eighth in the still rings.

Harris won the high bar and parallel bars events, and placed third in the free cal.

Maples finished second in the side horse event, took sixth place in the still rings, seventh in the parallel bars and eighth in the long horse and tumbling.

Burton took fourth place in the free cal, fifth in tumbling, sixth in the high bar, and ninth in the parallel bars.

Tunison took second place in the still rings event.

Assistant gymnastics coach Gordon Eggleston praised the officiating of the meet and singled out Burton as perhaps the steadiest competitor for the Eagle squad for his "almost flawless" floor exercise.
