Original Works Will Highlight Ceremonies

FOY FINE ARTS BUILDING
Dedication to be held Nov. 4, 5

Halsey Stephens, conductor-composer from the University of Southern California, will conduct an original work for the dedication ceremonies of the Foy Fine Arts Building here, Sat. evening, Nov. 4. Stephens, who will conduct "Te Deum," was commissioned by the University System Board of Regents.

Dedication of the one million six thousand dollar structure will begin with formal ceremonies for invited guests only at 8 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 4. Preceding the presentation of "Te Deum," Dr. Sheldon Nodelman, professor of history of art at Yale University, will present an illustrated lecture. Following this lecture will be a brief intermission and a program by Southern Singers.

The finale of the evening performance will be the performance of "Te Deum," written for chorus, organ, brass choir and tympani. "Te Deum" is a

Baroque Concert Slated To Perform In CLES

The University of Georgia Baroque Ensemble will appear next Monday night, Oct. 30, at 8:15 p.m., in the Foy Fine Arts Recital Hall as the second program in the 1967-68 Campus Life Enrichment Series.

The University of Georgia Baroque Ensemble was originated the fall of 1966 by a group of interested performing artists on the faculty of University's Music Department. The purpose of the group is to perform representative chamber music works of the 17th and 18th centuries.

After its successful first year of programs on the Athens campus and throughout the state, the Georgia Baroque Ensemble has embarked on an even more ambitious concert schedule this year, with concerts scheduled throughout the southeastern states. This talented group of five instrumentalists and one singer rarely perform together in one work as each composition has its instrumentation requirements. Thus the tone, color and style results in a display of chamber music.

Because this year marks the 200th anniversary of the death of Georg Philipp Telemann (1681-1767), each concert presented by the Georgia Baroque Ensemble will feature works by Telemann.

To be performed in this program are: Telemann's Trio Sonata in A Minor for flute, violin and continuo; Cantata, "Ihr Voelker, Hoert," for soprano, flute and continuo; and Concerto in A Minor for flute, oboe, violin and continuo.

Other composers represented on the program will be George Frederick Handel, Jean Baptiste Loeillet, and Jean-Marie LeClair.

The members of the Georgia Baroque Ensemble are: Judith Berman, violin; Ronald Waln, flute and bassoon; John Corina, oboe and recorder; James Leland, harpsichord; and Eckhart Richter, cello. Assisting in this concert will be Charlotte Reinke, soprano.

Students may get tickets in the lobby of the Williams Center during lunch or in the office of Mrs. Adyle Hudgins, director of Student Activities.

Masquers Complete Planning For 'Servant of Two Masters'

Final plans for Masquers fall production, "Servant of Two Masters" have been completed, according to Hazel Hall, advisor. The play will be presented Nov. 8-9 in McCroan Auditorium. Season tickets will be sold by Masquers members for $2.50. This ticket entitled the student to attend all three plays produced this year.

When asked to comment on the play, Miss Hall replied, "Servant of Two Masters" was written just for fun and should be performed the same way. The cast includes; Lee Hunter, Greg Premo, Alan Milton, Sue Sims, Bill Bishop, Jan Smith, Gil Hargett, Dot Bennett, Jim Schuler, David McArthur, Durwood Fincher.

Many of Goldoni's light-hearted comedies are concerned with the character Pantalone. In this play, Pantalone is a Venetian merchant bent on marrying his daughter to the wealthy Federigo of Turin.

Basically, the story is of two frustrated pairs of lovers who cannot work out their own affairs. Silvio loves Clarice, and she loves him. On learning that Federigo has been killed, Pantalone reluctantly agrees to let Clarice marry Silvio. But at this moment, Federigo appears with a raffish servant he has picked up. Federigo, however, turns out to be Beatrice, disguised as her brother—and for good reason. The brother is dead and Florindo is accused of killing him.

DIGEST

The work of four internationally acclaimed artists and sculptors will be on display in the Foy Building, Oct. 25. The story on page 1.

In answer to many questions about how the "George-Anne" got its name, feature editor, Sandra Dyches probes into old issues for facts and excerpts. See story, Page 2.

Georgia Southern will be visited by representatives of government agencies. These representatives will be available to answer questions and give information on employment with federal agencies, Page 3.

Curt Avery, production manager of WSAV-TV will lecture to the Marketing Club, Nov. 1. Story on Page 5.

Twirp Week's first activity was dampened not only by threatening skies, but also by a lack of participation. The hootenanny held in front of Morgan Hall on Monday night was attended by 150 students, the majority of which were stag.

Those attending were entertained by Mike Brundage, Bob Anthony, and The Amelia Earhart Memorial Bluegrass Band. The music ranged from ballads to folk-rock.

'George-Anne' History Traces To GNS Era

Once there was a small college called Georgia Normal School. It had a president, Guy H. Wells, and a dean by the name of Zach Henderson. It had two dormitories, an administration building, and about 500 students. But it didn't have a newspaper! One day someone in the kingdom of GNS decided that a newspaper was just what the campus needed. Others agreed, and a newspaper was started.

GEORGIA NORMAL SCHOOL

But what would the newspaper be called? "High-Flyer," "Times," and "Blue & White" were suggested, but the students said no. Then someone had an idea. Since GNS was a co-educational school in Georgia, supported by Georgians, the name should pertain to Georgia. It was discovered by some ingenious soul that Georgian could be divided into two names, "George" to represent the men and "Anne" for the women of the campus.

"GEORGE-ANNE"

On April 12, 1927, the infant "George-Anne" made her debut on mimeographed sheets. She had an editor, Hazel Dunlap, to care for her. The following statement appeared in that first issue: "The 'George-Anne' makes its bow to the collegiate world today. We are proud of this privilege, and will welcome helpful suggestions as we, the freshman class, wish to make our paper the best ever; for we have been given the opportunity to demonstrate our journalistic abilities. The rivalry between the sections of the class will be the chief center of attraction, for each is at work trying to out-wit the other in making its issue more original and spicy."

For the next issue the "George-Anne" had another editor to care for her—others followed. Many editors later, the "George-Anne" was a grown-up girl wearing newsprint. An interesting comment appeared in the June 29, 1927 issue. "Dean Henderson leaves Saturday for Eastman, where he is to be married Saturday morning. He and the madam will then take a boat at Savannah for New York, where he will be a student at Columbia for the summer." The "George-Anne" has witnessed many events in her lifetime.

THE JOY OF BEING ON THE STAFF

In the March 17, 1928 issue a statement appeared on "George-Anne" policy that would fit today. It was entitled "The Joy of Being on The Staff."

"Getting out this paper is no picnic.

If we print jokes, people say we are silly.

If we don't, they say we are too serious.

If we clip things from other papers, we are too lazy to write them for ourselves.

If we don't, we are stuck on our own stuff.

If we stick close to the job all day, we ought to be out hunting news.

If we go out and try to hustle, we ought to be on the job in the office.

If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate true genius.

If we print them, the paper is filled with undesirable material.

If we make a change in the other fellow's write-up, we are too critical.

If we don't we are asleep.

Now like as not, some will say we swiped this from some magazine.

We DID."

MEMORIES

The "George-Anne" recalls events that have long been forgotten by others. She remembers the lean depression years when she had to go bi-monthly. She recalls the times when the school changed names. The "George-Anne" even remembers the years when the college had a football team! She has seen and recorded history; she has been a voice for the campus through it all. And she will continue to do so, for she is a newspaper — the "George-Anne."

WHY WE CARRY GANT

There's more than fabric superiority in Gant. In addition, "needled into the warp and woof of every Gant shirt," there's flair, fit and show — three vital ingredients that make all the difference when a man wears a Gant.

We chose Gant because they take shirt making seriously. They're hard to please (like we are) when it comes to fit of collar, its roll, its profile—how much it shows above the suit collar. They're fastidious about the way the body of the shirt drapes and folds. All must integrate to achieve that viable ingredient which gives comfort and aplomb. In substance, Gant shirts are keyed to the discerning tastes of well groomed men who appreciate quality. These men are our customers.

College Press Staffs

To Meet Here, Nov. 4

The Georgia Collegiate Press Association will hold its first formal business meeting here at the college Saturday, Nov. 4, at 11:00 a.m. in the Frank I. Williams Center.

Members of newspaper staffs on all major college newspapers have been invited to attend. Presiding over the meeting will be Richard Binkney, president of the Georgia College Press Association.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the business of the organization and also for the various staffers to discuss journalistic techniques employed on their particular newspapers.

Following adjournment, members of the GCPA will go to Howard Johnson's for a luncheon.

Government Representatives To Conduct Program Nov. 4

Representatives of various government agencies will conduct a Federal Employment Outlook Program on campus Nov. 1. They are to meet with various classes and provide individual consultation pertaining to Federal offices in about 60 occupational fields throughout the U.S. and overseas. Information, brochures, applications, and specific answers to personal questions can be obtained from the representatives.

Students may ask the agents questions in the conference room or in room 111-113 of the Williams Center.

Coffee will be provided by Phi Beta Lambda in the conference room (second floor) of the Hollis Building.

Federal agency representatives will include: Civil Service Commission, Bureau of Public Roads, Defense Supply Agency, Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Internal Revenue Service, National Labor Relations Board, Social Security Administration, Veterans Administration Center, Warner Robins Air Material Area.

About half of the positions for which the government recruits college graduates each year are filled through the Federal Service Entrance Examination. This year Federal agencies need a large number of college graduates in physics, chemistry, mathematics, and other physical science specialties. Prospects are good for graduates qualified in accounting, auditing, forestry, and law also.

College Housing Office Releases Student Residence Percentages

Figures released by the Housing Office of the Student Personnel Service Division, show that 3337 or 76 percent of the student enrollment required college approved housing for fall quarter. Twenty-four per cent commute from local residences.

Eleven college dormitories permit forty-four per cent of the total enrollment to reside on campus. Off-campus housing and private dormitories allow homes and apartments accommodate nine per cent.

The college's growth within its student enrollment during the past ten years has demanded off-campus housing to become an integral part of the campus operation. In 1957 there were 914 students enrolled. This quarter there are 4407.

The building program has provided four new housing units during the past five years. Additionally, new classroom structures have been completed in an attempt to meet the growing enrollment.

This year another dormitory will be started and three more classroom buildings begun; a science center, professional education facility, and a field house with a 6500 capacity.

Beauchat To Lecture

The French Club will hold its next meeting Monday, Oct. 30, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be at the residence of A. MacGrath Beauchat, 109 Benson Drive, Statesboro. All persons who are interested in the French language are urged to attend. Those who need transportation should meet at 7:15 p.m. in front of the faculty lounge in the Williams Center.

Gernant, Graham Attend Workshop

Dr. Frieda Gernant, prof. of visual arts and Dr. John P. Graham, professor of music, are working in a Workshop in Bluffton, South Carolina for a 12 week period. This program will enable teachers in the Bluffton Elementary-High School to meet the cultural needs of the students in a culturally deprived area. This program is made possible by a Mini-Grant which comes from the federal government under the Elementary and Secondary Act of 1965.

The goals of this program are: to provide teacher training in skills necessary to the development of a curriculum which is art oriented; to help teachers overcome a feeling of reluctance to participate in innovative procedures in education; and to plan an integrated curriculum which relates the arts to subject areas in the present curriculum.

Both professors will hold two workshops in their field, each consisting of six sessions for elementary teachers and six sessions for junior and senior high teachers.

Dr. Gernant's workshop topics include: design fundamentals; drawing; painting; water color; sculpture; ceramics; printmaking; lettering and display.

Dr. Graham's workshop topics include: the importance of music in the school; a review of musical skills such as singing, use of classroom instruments, and teaching music theory; the science of sound; musical instruments; mediums of expression; and representative works from the different periods of creative activity.

WOMANLESS WEDDING

One of the most entertaining highlights of Twirp Week was the Womanless Wedding co-sponsored by Gamma Sigma Upsilon sorority and Delta Pi Alpha fraternity.

Two elements essential to success in such a program were abundantly in evidence; these two elements being hard work and talent.

One of the most welcome sights however, was the way in which faculty and students co-operated and worked together in providing a much needed break during fall quarter. The necessity for students and administrators to establish some type of relationship outside of class cannot be stressed too much.

The Womanless Wedding provided just such an opportunity for students and faculty to work together in successfully producing an entertaining program for the college.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The "George-Anne" receives numerous letters to the editor during each week which contain student's views, opinions or criticisms. These letters are very important since they mirror the attitudes of students.

Many letters received are unprintable for several reasons, therefore, the following is the procedure for submitting a letter to the editor for publication.

1. Letters to the editor provides a common meeting place for all opinions on campus; 2. Letters to the editor should be addressed to; Editor, The "George-Anne" Box 2047, Georgia Southern College, Statesboro; 3. Letters may be edited or rejected according to the discretion of the editorial board. Letters may be rejected on the basis of length, taste, obscenity, repetition, libel and slander; 4. Letters must be signed, and the writer's name will be printed along with the letter; 5. Writer's should include return address on the letter. A rejected letter will be returned to the sender, with an accompanying letter of explanation concerning why the letter was not used; 7. Deadline for all copy is noon Tuesday.

It is the sincere wish of the "George-Anne" editorial board, that these procedures be followed so that we may be instrumental in presenting the views of the students to their fellow students and faculty members.

SOCIAL FRATERNITIES

This college is presently undergoing a small but significant revolution. Social fraternities are beginning to take root and grow into effective organizations geared to the betterment of the college.

Three of the fraternities are Tau Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Pi and Chi Sigma. Other fraternities are also formulating plans to establish colonies on this campus.

The rapid establishment of these fraternities is a welcome sight to the students. The growth and expansion of the college is represented in the growth of these social organizations.

The most effective way in which a set goal may be accomplished is through an organized effort provided by these organizations. The editorial board members of the "George-Anne" wish to extend a welcome to the social fraternities and hopes for a productive and eventful future.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I BELIEVE I'VE LECTURED INTO YOUR LUNCH HOUR AGAIN."

Complaint of "Don't Have Time" Replaces Cry of "Nothing To Do"

By ELAINE THOMAS
Editor

Midterm is here. It is evident in that most students have that bleary look which reflects lack of sleep. It is also evident in the fact that Twirp Week, one of the few well-planned social activities, is here. It seems that each time someone sponsors a cultural event or a social activity, the activity is accompanied by something equally as important, like midterms or finals.

On a campus this size, it would be impossible to obtain a schedule of tests to be given during a quarter. And since this is a college, students have to be mature enough to budget their time. But there sometimes comes a time when even the most diligent student yearns to attend an activity which his class assignments will not allow him to do.

This campus reverberates with complaints of "nothing to do." Yet when there is something to do, no one has time to participate. Campus Life Enrichment Series activities are often plagued by embarrassingly poor attendance. And these activities are just as educational as a lecture by any professor.

This is a college. Professors should not have to consult a social calendar before making an assignment. And students should not complain of missing an activity because of a term paper, or any assignment which reflects the students' procrastination. But the last minute, large assignments are the ones which often prevent one's attending an event.

The simple fact that one's education is not entirely from books still holds true. One's education is the result of classes, lectures, activities and the many personalities which compose a campus.

Surely campus organizations' activities would draw more support if faculty schedules could be consulted. If approached, some professors might bear in mind the fact that certain activities were planned and lessen assignments.

Students deserve the opportunity to receive an education in and out of the classroom. This opportunity could and should be the result of careful planning by students and administration.

Mass Migration Is Friday Ritual, And Why Not?

By ROBERT SESSIONS
Managing Editor

It's Friday, Thank God it's Friday! So you run to your room after your last class, or rather after your second class, having skipped your third, rummage through your closet, grab a few mildewed socks and a shirt and make a run for the parking lot.

You see your tenna-topper looming somewhere off in the distance and you make the long journey to your goal, your means of escape, your mode of transportation.

And why not? What's there to do here? Nothing, right? This college has very few facilities as far as student activities is concerned.

The Frank I. Williams Student Center provides students with a reasonable facsimile of a meal and that's all. Downstairs there is, however, a juke box, a television and the snack bar. If one plays the juke box, no one can play the television unless of course he wants to see Walter Cronkite mouthing the words to "Baby, I Need Your Lovin'."

One could always turn up the volume to the television; this, in turn, would constitute a similar reaction on the part of those listening to the juke box. As the noise increases, those who came just to eat have to shout to be heard by someone sitting at the same table. The result? A deafening din of unintelligible noise.

Maybe the Frank I. Williams Student Center should be renamed the Frank I. Williams Center for Continuing Indigestion. This building is not, in fact, a student center, but rather a cafeteria and office building; nothing more.

One could always go outside for some type of physical activity. But where? In Sweetheart Circle? Surely not on the tennis courts; most of the time they are closed to students. There are always the courts next to the old gym, but there are only four or five of them, room for only twenty people at the most. One could go bowling, that is if we had a bowling alley. But then there's always football. One could go out on the field with himself (Everyone else having gone home) and pass to himself, and punt to himself and tackle himself and have a lot of fun and get put away.

A few weeks ago, it was announced that the new student center will be opened sometime winter quarter. The opening of this center will alleviate many of the problems concerning the cafeteria, but again, very little space, if any, is being set aside for student activities.

A prefabricated "temporary" classroom was constructed last year on this campus. Why can not we have some sort of prefabricated student center? And a student center in the literal sense, meaning a place where students can go for some type of recreation and relaxation, not a place where one can be fed and then left to suffer boredom. College is a place to study, sure, but even a prison provides facilities for its "inmates."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The purpose of this letter is twofold. First, the purpose is to inform students who are unaware of some of the existing conditions at Georgia Southern College of these conditions; secondly, to encourage students and administration to take active parts in trying to remedy these situations. I believe it is time for all students and administration to stop being apathetic about many campus problems.

The problems facing students are many; the over-crowded housing is on the top of the list. In the past weeks women have been living in study halls; they have had to keep their clothes in storage rooms. In Lynn and Cooper Halls, women are sleeping three to a room which was built for two. In other cases, women are sleeping two to a room for one person. When certain women had to accept three persons in a room for two, some felt they were not getting their money's worth and others even wanted to leave school because of these conditions. When the women requested refunds, the administration, which had initiated the moving, withdrew its supremacy of power and told the women that this matter was between their landlord and them. Why is it that the administration has the power to move these women off-campus housing yet withdraws its power when a refund is requested? It is apparent that poor planning on the part of the administration caused this because of the acceptance of transfer and freshman students. Because of this the upperclassmen are having to suffer. The administration knows, or should know, exactly the amount of space available and should fill rooms accordingly. Women could refuse to move in with others. However, the administration claims a student is insubordinate if he refuses to make such a move. In my opinion, the student is not subordinate. The student is only protecting his money and his rights.

Another problem concerns the dining hall. Last year, due to riots, better food was served and a promise of a better meal ticket system was promised. During the summer, a meal ticket option was set up. There is no option now. These are two existing problems on campus. I feel the administration should look into these problems.

Another problem concerns the menu. The food is still the same, and the menu has varied little. I dare say, that unless something is done now, these same conditions will exist upon the opening of the new dining hall.

Insurrection is not the answer, but students can express grievances. I feel that awareness and interest on the parts of the students and administration can lead to the solving of these problems.

I will welcome comments and other ideas on these topics.

Dear Editor,

My day doesn't begin until I get your paper. Do you think you could start getting it out a little earlier?

Ed. Note - Mine, too! We'll certainly keep trying.

Dear Editor,

There is an old saying that he who has the right to criticize should have the heart to help. I must submit that apparently many of the campus' self-appointed critics do not agree.

May I take this opportunity to commend the job you and your staff are doing this quarter. The "George-Anne" certainly has a distinctive new look and is reflecting originality and hard work.

Having written occasional articles for the G-A myself, I think I am in a position to appreciate your efforts.

Respectfully,

Avery, in his 15th year of broadcasting, is currently producer and co-host of "Three For the Show," a morning variety show, Monday through Friday. He began his career as a high school disc jockey and later majored in speech at Arkansas College, Batesville, Ark.

Exams To Be Given

The History and Constitutions exams will be given in McCroan Auditorium, Nov. 2, from 1:30-4:30 p.m.

All students are required to pass an examination on the History of Georgia and the U.S., and on the Constitutions of Georgia and the U.S., before graduation.

The courses that exempt a student from these tests are as follows: History 250 or History 251, or History 351 and 352.

Students planning to take the exams must sign the roster on the Student Personnel bulletin board downstairs in the Administration Building.

Home Economics Club

By JOY POSS
Staff Writer

The Oct. 24th meeting of the Home Economics Club was highlighted by reports by Rose Dutton, Judy McDonald, and Marilyn Davis, representatives to the 1967 National Convention of the American Home Economics Association in Dallas, Texas.

This month's enrichment course, is cake decorating. It is open to all students and is designed to enable a person to attain a special skill.

Money-raising projects are the annual construction of lab aprons to be rented by the Food and Nutrition classes, cook book sales and a car wash. The proceeds will be used to send girls to the 1968 National Convention to be held in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and to the State Convention in Athens, Ga. A $100 scholarship will be presented at the end of the year to the most deserving Home Economics Club member.

Future Business Leaders

The Future Business Leaders of America held their annual planning conference on campus Saturday, October 14. About 300 students from all over Georgia attended the conference.

Dr. Paul LaGrone, head of the Business Division gave the welcome address, and Dr. Jack Averitt, head of the Social Science Division, was the keynote speaker.

Johnny Hathcock from Marvin Pittman Laboratory School entertained the group with a variety of songs. Phi Beta Lambda members assisted the group during the conference.

Newman Club

The old Newman Club has changed its name to the Newman-Federation and elected officers for this year, according to Father James, the Pastor advisor of the Federation.

Officers for this year include Jamie Emery, president; Tommy Jenkins, a freshman from Macon, Vice-President; Ann Hogan, a senior Home Economics major, sec.-treasurer; and Kip Kautzky, sociology professor as faculty advisor.

Meetings are scheduled for the 2nd and 4th Tuesdays and all interested students are encouraged to attend.

The Looking Glass

By JANET HENRIKSEN

"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved."

And in my heart I find a need Of Him to be my Saviour.

—Greenwell

When a miner looks at the rope that is to lower him into the deep mine, he may calmly say: "I have faith in that rope as being well-made and strong." But when he lays hold of it and swings down by it into the tremendous chasm, then he is believing on the rope. It is not mere opinion—it is an act. When a human soul lets go of every other reliance in the wide universe, and rests entirely upon the atoning Jesus, that soul believes on Christ.

I take Him at His word, indeed:

"Christ died for sinners," this I read:

In regard to salvation, procrastination is the door of "Too Late!"

Man needs more than a new START: He needs a new HEART!

Some people shake out their salt on Sunday, but have little spiritual savor the rest of the week!

OFF THE KING'S

CUFF

By TOM KING, George-Anne Sports Editor

The players were winded. Some were gaping for air. Some were leaning against various things, such as each other. Some walked off breathing hard and some just slowly plodded to the dressing room and the relaxing ecstasy of a warm shower.

Radovich

"How else do you play basketball?" These were the words of head basketball Coach Frank Radovich after Tuesday's workout of the GSC cagers.

Radovich, who is substituting for Coach J. B. Searce, simply watched and offered encouragement after the practice session had ended. During the workout you could hear an occasional remark or either a whistle from the tall coach.

In answering his own question of "How else do you play basketball?", Radovich stressed the importance of each player being in top physical condition. "It's the only way to play basketball." If you're not in shape, you can't enjoy or play the game the way it's supposed to be played," he commented.

FAST MOVING GAME

Basketball is a fast moving game. The players have no breaks in the action except for time-out and free throws. Run, fake, shoot and run some more. To run and to keep running demands a basketball player to be in top physical condition. Coach Radovich is getting the players in shape, to say the least.

One drill that is used by Radovich requires the players to run to the first free throw line, back to the base line, then to mid court and back to the base line. From the base line the players then have to run to the free throw line at the opposite end of the court and back and finish up by running the length of the court and back to the original point.

THEY'RE IN SHAPE

All of this has to be accomplished in just 29 seconds. He (Radovich) wants the boys in shape. They make the 29 second limit. Need we say more?

Usually you watch an athletic team practice and running is the first exercise the team will do. Not so with Radovich.

"The only way to get in shape is to run when you are tired. You push yourself. You don't get in shape running when you are fresh. All of our drills are designed to be as close to a game type situation as possible. You don't play ball standing still," Radovich said.

The running and rigorous conditioning that the players are being exposed to indicates the type of ball that Radovich intends the team to play. "We are going to run this season. If we think we are in good enough shape to run, we'll run," Radovich remarked.

If the practice sessions indicate at all the type of ball the Eagles will employ this season and if Radovich sticks to what he says, indeed the basketball team will run. Sound exciting. Fast basketball is always exciting.

GSC Basketball Team
Waits As Dust SettlesBy DON STILES
Assist. Sports Editor

Down by the Hanner Gym, there is a lot of digging and re-shuffling of the hilly surface. After the dust settles, what we once saw on the top has been covered by the lower dirt. This same process of reshuffling and digging is also going on within the gym in the afternoons.

The GSC basketball players have their own digging to do in order to stay up with the fast, weary paces set by the coaches. There's the re-shuffling of talents, too. One day Bob Bohman may look like an All-American and the next day, it's John Helm's turn to act the part. Or Roger Moore may seem like rebounding king until Larry Prichard has a good day and takes his crown away.

This digging and re-shuffling will be going on for about another month, but then the dust will settle, and the 1967-68 cagers who will represent Southern will come into clear view, and they will be the ones whose names will be shouted in excitement when the season starts.

JOKE

While basketball at Southern is serious business, there are times when a humorous joke can be told or a witty story finds some listening ear.

Even remembering the first tiring week of practice, which was nothing but two hours of conditioning drills. Rob Bergbom, a 6-3, 185 lb. guard-forward from Barrington, Ill. was able to be a little sarcastic:

"The first week of practice? Ah. It was an enjoyable experience. I thought we were at a country club the first few days as the coaches merely talked to us and we shot a few free throws. Run too much? No. The only running we did was to see who would be first in line at the coke machine," he grinned.

Bergbom, this blonde-headed Northerner was MVP at Barrington and also All-Conference selection and All-Chicago Area Honorable Mention his senior year, but this doesn't mean that he isn't susceptible to ridiculous situations that all basketball players find themselves in some time. He explains it like this:

"Once when I was a senior I got injured in the first quarter with an elbow to the head. It was bleeding so the athletic director took me to a local doctor in my uniform. I got a couple of stitches and returned in time to make a superman entrance back in the gym, and hustling back into the ball game. I proceeded to throw away two passes, missed a couple of shots, and almost lost the ball game for us."

TOBOGANNING?

But take a player like Bergbom, who is able to hitch-hike all the way across the United States like he did this summer, and you have more than a basketball player. He's interested, for example, in baseball, and touch football and his real "loves for sports can be found in tobogganning and body surfing."

Bergbom isn't the only player who is confronted with doing stupid things during a ball game. Consider Scott Waters, a 6-4, 185 lb. forward from LaGrange, Ky. He has an incurable habit of "watching cheerleaders during the game." What other stupid thing? Just the usual—like arguing with the referees and getting into fights," Waters answered.

Scott Waters

Waters, who worked in Cumberland Falls State Park as a recreation leader this summer, enjoys and participates in other things besides basketball. "I love to hunt, camp, drag race, and swim," he commented.

Waters describes the first week of practice as "just about the most tiring practice session I have ever been through including all the football practices I've been through." But although he thought "That was a heck of a way to spend two hours," he realizes that in a couple of weeks we'll know how much good it did us."

In high school, he was selected to All-Regional Tournament team, North Central Ky. Conference team, and All-State Honorable mention.

FOUNTAIN

For John Fountain, a 6-6, 190 lb. forward from Bedford, Ind., basketball isn't always a serious business either.

He can remember when ridiculous things have happened too. "One thing that I did that was stupid was at one ball game a referee and I didn't hit it off too good. Later in the season, the same referee called another game for us and he remembered me. The same thing happened again."

Probably the most embarrassing—and spastic—thing Fountain did was "kick the ball out of bounds from mid-court accidentally while driving for a lay-up."

But Fountain can be serious and in being so, he is determined to improve his defense and shooting. "I think this is the part of my game I want to improve the most," Fountain said.

These three players — Bergbom, Waters, and Fountain—are involved in this digging and re-shuffling that is going on in practice in basketball practices. They consider basketball a serious business, but also, they can see and enjoy the humorous side of it. They too will be awaiting the dust to settle so that they can see where they stand for this 1967-68 season.

Bergbom Is Winded

Men's IM Crown
Is Up for Grabs

Both races for the intramural football crowns remained tight as the intramural season heads down the stretch.

Action on Oct. 18 saw the Rebels remain in a tie for first place in the American League as they defeated the Blue Ribbons 26-12. The National League game of the day was a defensive battle as Alpha Phi Omega and Sigma Epsilon Chi fought to a 0-0 deadlock.

On Oct. 19, the Falcons were overpowered by the Rhodents. Phi Epsilon Kappa stayed in the running for first place, in the National League, when they eked out a 7-2 verdict over winless Dorman Hall.

Monday, Oct. 23, play resumed with the Hawks and the Blue Ribbons battling to a scoreless tie and Sigma Epsilon Chi downing Cone Hall, 14-0.

The Unknowns really threw the American League race into a wild scramble for first place as they pinned the Rhodents with an impressive 13-7 win on Tuesday. Delta Phi Alpha defeated Dorman Hall in the other game. The victory gave DPA sole possession of first place with APO, Sigma Epsilon Chi and PEK close in the race.

Oertley Stresses Conditioning - Gym Meet Set for Savannah

The Georgia Southern Gymnastics team will hold an exhibition meet Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in Savannah as part of the dedication ceremonies of the Savannah YMCA, according to Coach Ron Oertley.

The team will perform from 3:30 to 5 p.m. and the program, according to Oertley, will include routines of relative difficulty.

"The boys are beginning to put new tricks together and we are continuing to stress conditioning, form, and execution," Oertley said.

Bill Godwin, who suffered a leg injury on the trampoline, was expected to be out of action for three months, but will return to practice next week. "We were happy to learn that Bill will be able to resume workouts next week. It will help us and it will certainly be to his advantage," Oertley said.

Gary Barnett, leading scorer from last year's squad, was out due to a back injury but has now returned to practice and is progressing day by day. "Gary is not going full speed yet. He is beginning to work, but not real hard," Oertley commented.

According to Oertley, the team will begin work on routines Nov. 1. "The boys should be in condition to begin work on their routines. If they are not we are still going to begin," Oertley concluded.

Wesley Foundation

Wesley Foundation will sponsor a retreat at Epworth-by-the-Sea, Nov. 4-5. The guest speaker will be Dr. Bill Mallard, Professor of Church History at Emory University.

The total cost is $7.50 per person; there is a registration fee of $2.50 to be paid to the dorm representative. The remainder will be collected upon arrival.

Deadline for registering is November 1. Applications are available in the Religious Activities Trailer or from dormitory representatives.

Basketball practices will be closed to everyone Monday through Friday, and the Hanner Gym will be closed on Saturdays until 12 noon for varsity basketball practice, according to J. I. Clements, athletic director. Coach Clements requests that everyone cooperate.

Tigers Roll; Ray Leads Way

By LINDA JORDON

G-A Sports Writer

The Tigers defeated the Panthers 23-17 Tuesday in DIA action and gained a birth in the championship game to be played Tuesday Oct. 31.

The Tigers first win was Tuesday over the Yellow Jackets by a score of 18-8. Sandra Ray's field goal kicks and Mary Hurst's fingertip touchdown catches led the Tigers offensive drive. The Yellow Jacket's defense was unable to contain the Tigers smooth, tough offensive line.

The Mustangs overwhelmed the Python's by a margin of 35-5. "Teamwork was the main key to the Mustang victory," said Mustang captain Cheryl Pense. Outstanding offensive players were Carol Moore, "Ducky" Duckworth, and Roslyn Hall, with Margie Davis and Joy Dyson leading the defensive play.

Forfeits by the Termites and Panthers were caused by an insufficient number of players and led to the unscheduled meeting of a quarter final play-off between the Tigers and Panthers. The Mustangs were fired up and played a good game, but could not cope with the strong offensive game of the Tigers.

Brown, Buckner Leading Frosh

After one week of pre-season practice, the GSC freshman basketball team continues to have the same problem that it has faced from the start, a serious lack of height.

According to Coach Alan Johnson, the problem was made worse when 6-6 Roger Moore was moved up to the varsity. Johnson has only one cager taller than 6-2, that being Phil Sisk at 6-5.

"I was fairly pleased with the first few days of practice, although most of the time was devoted to conditioning and fundamentals," said Johnson.

Johnson singled out several players as "looking good." Among these were scholarship players Gene Brown, Steve Buckner, Mike Ujlak, and Marvin Stevens.

According to Johnson, the freshman team has "a lot to work on and a long way to go" before it will be ready to begin its 17 game schedule. Johnson stated that because of the lack of height, he would probably use a fast-breaking type offense, one that makes for an exciting ball club with plenty of action for the spectator.

Tim O'Leary has Miss Cheryl Wilson sign his S-Club initiation poster. S-Club, GSC's athletic lettermen's club, had all pledges secure 2000 student signatures for initiation requirements.

EXPLANATION — The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 30.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.
