Cielinski Appointed To SUSGA Post

Mike Cielinski, junior political science and history major from Columbus, has been appointed first State Chairman of the Junior College Division of the Southern Universities Student Government Association, effective Feb. 14, by Charles O. Reynolds, vice-chairman of the junior college division.

The appointment came when Reynolds, vice-chairman of the junior college division realized that the demands of his office were becoming too great and there existed a need for local chairmen. Thus, by the power delegated to him by his office, Reynolds appointed Cielinski as first State Chairman.

"My duties are really hard to define," said Cielinski. "I will be working with Reynolds at a continued on page 2

First negative was Jim Schuyler, senior speech major from Milledgeville and second negative was Sue Sims, senior speech major from Albany.

The next trip planned by the debate team will be to the Federal Penitentiary in Atlanta where they will debate with the inmates of the prison.

"Whether we make any more trips after this depends on the amount of funds we receive," said Miss Thomas. "We have already spent two-thirds of our budget on the first trip to cover registration, fees, meals, and rooms while we were in Florida."

'Ondine' Captivates Audience— An Ambitious, Beautiful Play

By DR. MARYLAND WILSON
Professor of Speech

So effectively did cast members of "Ondine" exert magic control over the elements Wednesday night that snow flakes falling outside McCroan Auditorium as we left seemed part of the play — the final gossamer curtain separating the world of illusion from the world of reality.

What the Masquers wrought on opening night of their second production of the season was a magic that bespoke long and painful hours of preparation. Like all anticipated trips, this one to the land of fantasy took a while to reach.

After one accepted the fact that instant and superhuman love had overpowered Ondine and Ritter Hans, subsequent developments appeared skillfully portrayed and quite convincing. Princess Bertha particularly captured our admiration and sympathy in her role as the earth maiden who unexpectedly had lost her lover to the incredible young creature from the sea; while the Old One filled us with admiration, respect, and the feeling that we too would like to have such a wise one watching over us. Spectacular were his feats of magic performed on stage, and spectacular also were the costumes of the three "Other Ondines."

To single out each of the large cast for praise would make this column far too long, yet all were excellent and deserve praise. So do the many unseen workers who created costumes, scenery, sound and lighting effects, as well as those responsible for publicity, programs, and ticket sales. So does the director, Miss Hazel Hall.

When the final curtain goes down Friday night, and before the clean-up work has even begun, she and the Masquers will already be thinking about their spring production. We hope "Ondine" will cause others to think about it also — to the extent that they too will join this group in working, learning, and experiencing the enormous satisfaction which comes when one has contributed to so ambitious and so beautiful a production as "Ondine."

conference concerning the junior college division at the national SUSGA convention in Biloxi, Mississippi, next month. I will be promoting SUSGA in Georgia and representing it, and I will be making several trips to junior colleges. This weekend, I will be at Middle Georgia College, discussing SUSGA."

A definition of SUSGA itself is set down in the preamble to the Constitution. This definition is "to promote better student government, to provide for greater cooperation and exchange of ideas among member colleges."

"Essentially," said Cielinski, "it is a place for exchange of ideas in government and journalism relating to student life."

SUSGA holds one annual state convention and one annual national convention. At the state convention, the organization deals with problems of a local nature but which encompasses ideas for the national level.

The organization now boasts 12 member states which include 126 member schools. "With the formal initiation of junior colleges into SUSGA, I hope we will have approximately 200 member colleges," said Cielinski. The junior colleges have been affiliates but, pending ratification of the constitution, they will become official members of SUSGA.

In conclusion, Cielinski remarked, "It is my strong hope that every junior college in Georgia will become a member of Southern Universities Student Government Association within the next 3 months."

Work-Study Method Initiated by Division

Three junior accounting majors are currently participating in a work-study program at Warner Robins Air Force Base, according to Dr. Paul LaGrone, chairman of the business division.

The three students, Frank Shipes, Waycross; Roger Harndon, Brunswick; Lawrence Collier, Oglethorpe, are presently working in the accounting and finance division of the Air Force base. Next quarter the trio will return here to resume academic studies, thus alternating work and study, as they will do for the remainder of their careers at GSC.

The three students are part of a program recently started at Robins Air Force Base to help relieve the critical shortage of accountants, according to Lt. Col. C. J. Cross, one of the men directly responsible for the program.

So far Air Force officials have been pleased with the new program and have been liberal in their praise of both the program and the three GSC students participating in it.

WHO'S WHO

A currently controversial topic on campus concerns the qualifications for and selection of "Who's Who" nominees. "Who's Who" constitutes national recognition for scholarship, leadership, and co-operation in educational and extra-curricular activities."

In the past, "Who's Who" has been severely criticized. Criticism ranged from ideas that nominees were unknown on campus, came from the same division, or had helped with the nominations. Then more criticism was heard concerning activity points, and how many points should be allotted to which activities. So "Who's Who" has been revised, reconsidered, and discussed.

Presently, the matter of a specific grade point is under consideration. Some persons believe that anyone whose average is below 3.0 should not be considered for "Who's Who." Herein lies the controversy.

It seems that a 3.0 average is reasonable, but it seems rather unreasonable to believe that a person whose average is near 3.0 might not be considered, even if he had made outstanding contributions to the campus. It seems unfair that a person with a 3.0 average and 50 activity points should receive the honor, while one with a 2.9 average and 72 activity points is not considered. In all fairness, a person's overall record should be studied in detail. His performance should be studied, including notice of improvements made during certain quarters.

There are numerous factors which could lower a person's average. It is distressing to think that sickness might prevent a deserving person from being honored.

If professors feel strongly enough about an individual to nominate him for "Who's Who," then the "Who's Who" committee should study the individual and his activities. It seems that there should be a way to honor persons who have maintained above average grades and have made significant contributions to the college.

Individuals who devote time and energy to the college and who maintain above average grades should be honored. Their professors honor them by nominating them for "Who's Who," their peers honor them by recognizing them as campus leaders, and the "Who's Who" committee should honor them by studying them carefully and individually.

With individual consideration and a concern for above-average grades and activity points, "Who's Who" would not become merely a title for those who joined the most clubs, or those who memorized textbooks. It would be a well-deserved honor for those who have shown a balance of above average scholarship and extra-curricular activities.

SCARISBRICK LECTURE

Contrary to some opinions, the college is not composed entirely of persons who are of mediocre intellect, low interest, and little maturity. This was illustrated by the over 600 persons who attended the second lecture of the Marvin Pittman Lecture Series.

Dr. Jack N. Averitt, division chairman, commented, "I was not only very pleased, but I felt a genuine sense of pride in the students who attended the lecture. In the same degree of excellence in which the lecture was presented, there was an equal degree of scholarly maturity demonstrated by students. I consider that a high compliment."

In a letter to Dr. Averitt, Scarisbrick stated, "I found the GSC students academically alert. I enjoyed myself immensely. I am most grateful for the invitation and thoughtfulness in extending the proverbial southern hospitality."

The comments speak for themselves. They should attest to the fact that the college does possess intelligence and maturity.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I VERY SELDOM HAVE A STUDENT PLEAD SO ELOQUENTLY JUST TO GET A GRADE RAISED."

Make The Bed, Take Out Trash, Finally A Moment For Education

By SANDRA DYCHES
New News Editor

The clock registers 8:30; the radio announcer states that it is now 8:28 and the student rushes hurriedly, knowing in the deep labyrinths of her thoughts that it is only 8:23 1-2 by Hollis time. She makes a quick pass to her lips with coral lipstick and grabs her roommate's "Bic" pen. Her mind reviews the material she has studied all the previous night for an important examination.

She descends three flights of stairs, pushes her way toward the Williams Center and passes the Herty Building in two and a half minutes flat. She is about to congratulate herself for breaking her track record when suddenly an awful, agonizing thought jolts the very depths of her student soul! She has committed the worst of crimes. Friday has descended upon the week again, and she did not empty her trash.

She recalls the rumors of the dorm restriction martyrs and fear seizes her. She deliberates returning to the dorm, but decides that her education is more important at the moment.

Hours later, test and classes completed, the student returns to her dorm to face an enraged house director. The lady stands waiting, calldown-in-hand.

So ends a case history of a GSC dormitory resident. Other cases are similar, but names have been changed to protect the innocent or...

Students have voiced numerous complaints about house directors. There are house directors who never smile or return a cordial greeting to a student; house directors who eavesdrop at room doors or browse through date cards; and house directors who refuse to see a student who needs help. House directors seem to be a common topic of conversation, like the weather. And, like the weather, there seems to be nothing the student can do but shudder and wish for better.

Surely, house directors do have their good points, and sometimes one might even become a friend. But the general consensus among students is that house directors stress the minute tasks and forget that the primary purpose of college is education.

This is not to advocate dirty floors, overflowing trashbins or never-made beds. It is a statement that college-age students have reached the point in life where personal and moral habits are already formed. Students may occasionally need reminding, but this reminding should not border on the point of absurdity.

I've Been Named To Who's Who--Great Or Not?

By PAT GROOVER
Copy Editor

Nominations for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" are now being made. One might wonder what the qualifications are for this honor.

Some say that a student must have a 3.0 average and a specific number of activity points.

And just what is "Who's Who?" Is it not a way of honoring those who have made contributions to the college? The value of contribution is measured by activity points. The point system has been revised to give points in accordance with importance of the activity and position.

Grade point average is another deciding factor for "Who's Who." A student who has spent more of his time trying to make this college a more worthwhile institution than he has spent cramming for a test might as well forget "Who's Who." It seems that on this campus one must make certain that he achieves the 3.0 average by any method possible, then he must be elected or appointed to a position which carries the most activity points. Then he makes "Who's Who."

What happens to the real backbone of the campus? The students who stay up all night to rewrite constitutions or work on projects when there is a test the next day? Are these hours of toil to be neglected?

A student who has a "C" or "D" average should not be honored for outstanding college work; the student who is serious about his college activities will also be conscious of his grades. And he will maintain an above average grade point.

The subject of "Who's Who" is rather touchy. It is difficult for one to be objective, but he must. Yet with this objectivity, must a decision be made that is so iron-clad that it cannot be flexible? Is any man so perfect and sound in thinking that he can make a solid rule for others to follow? Is any rule so perfect that there will be no exceptions?

Look at past lists of "Who's Who." Should students with 2.9 or 2.8 averages be overlooked, even though they contributed more than any other students on this campus in many cases? Should only those with the very highest academic averages be glorified? There are numerous awards for just scholarship.

"Who's Who" is for the leader, for the intelligent student, and for the student who cares about his school. Can there not be exceptions as far as averages are concerned? There are already too few students who care what happens to this school.

These students who do care should be encouraged and honored, or everyone might as well go back to their dormitory rooms, isolate themselves among their books, and make that 4.5 average, since it is all that matters.

Do you think women should be drafted?

Cathy Arnold, Perry, Ga. - "Yes, I think there is a lot of office work that they can do, and that men have to do now."

Judy Laseter, Covington, Ga. - "No, because I am a woman."

Diane Boyd, Sylvania, Ga. - "Yes, because women want equal rights, therefore, they should have equal responsibilities - and we are capable of doing paper work."

Paulette Williams, Kite, Ga. - "No, to me, most women couldn't stand up under the emotional and physical strain of warfare."

Gloria Lawson, Marietta, Ga. - "I don't think so, because it's not their place."

Linda Hiers, St. Marys, Ga. - "No, because a girl's place is here in the states where she can give more help and a bigger boost of morale by writing letters."

David Smith, Lakeland, Fla. - "Yes, because we are considered equal to men, so why not in that respect. Why is it fair to let our young men die, when we women aren't asked to do anything."

Mac Newbold, Crescent City, Fla. - "No, because I don't feel it is their place to fight, but should support the men and join the womens forces."

Joe Griffin, Statesboro, Ga. - "Drafted no-military service, yes - because a lot of the work that is done by men who could be fighting could be done just as well, if not better, by the female mind which is more geared for paper work, etc."

Cliff Stephens, Madison, Ga. - "Yes, because there are a lot of secretarial jobs that they can do that men have to do."

Mike Josebury, Thomson, Ga. - "No, because we don't really need them. Maybe during the war, if it is necessary."

Joe Fincher, Culloden, Ga. - "No, because there are enough things for them to do without being drafted."

Governor Announces Intern Program Plans

Governor Lester Maddox announced plans for the 1968 Governor's Summer Intern Program in Georgia State Government.

The primary purpose is to provide the intern with a more comprehensive understanding of his state government by allowing him to work on selected research projects in state agencies. All students attending Georgia colleges and Georgia residents attending college out-of-state are eligible to apply. Although no particular academic majors are required, preference will be given to students having completed at least their junior year and no more than one year of graduate or professional studies.

A special "Government Intern" classification has been established by the State Merit System. Students who have completed their junior years will be paid $326 a month, and college graduates will be paid $359.

Those interested in applying should contact their college placement office or the State Merit System. The deadline for receiving applications is March 11, 1968.

Kelly Jones, Statesboro, Ga. - "No, because someone has to stay home and raise families."

Billy Griffiths, Waycross, Ga. - "Yes, because they could do office work and provide entertainment for men."

Lenny Passink, Savannah, Ga. - "They do it in Israel and they win their wars much quicker."

Asking, seeking, knocking, finding,
What have I to feat?
He who bids me to His presence,
Fills my heart with hope and cheer.

The spiritual soul is more prayerful because it is then most occupied in heart and desire about the things of God. Our prayers will be few and feeble, if our walk with God is of low character. If we have narrow views of God and His purposes our prayers will be also narrow and confined. If we are unstable, unbelieving, and unspiritual, our prayers may return unanswered. Faith, a good conscience, a large heart, knowledge of the mind and will of God (which comes through studying His Word), and a sense of our utter weakness, are the proper requisites of prayer.

"TERMITES AGAIN?"

Dr. Russell observes work being done in the administration buildings to replace the termite-infested beams. The termite infested beams are to be torn out and replaced by steel supports.

Letters To Editor

Dear Editor,

It's ball game night at Georgia Southern College! College students' spirits are very high! There is much excitement and enthusiasm in the air.

On the west side of the gym sits the excited citizens of Statesboro and their families. Down on the front row sits the President-elect, Dr. John Eidson and his wife.

The game starts and progresses very quickly with the feelings of everyone rising higher as the score gets closer and the time starts to run out. A referee makes a call, which is against the Eagles. A loud roar filled with vulgar and profane words comes from the student section.

It is evident that some of our so-called mature college students take no pride in themselves and care nothing for their school's name or the influence they make on other people. They drag themselves and others down when they speak in this vulgar and obscene manner.

What would you think if you were a small child at a GSC ball game? What would you think if you were the President-elect? What would you think if you were a citizen of Statesboro? Answer these questions and think before you speak! It's great to have school spirit, but obscenity is certainly not indicative of a mature college student—spirit or otherwise.

Scarisbrick Speaks On English History

John J. Scarisbrick, lecturer in history and specialist on Tudor history, presented his lecture "Henry VIII and the Protestant Reformation" in McCroan Auditorium last week.

The lecture centered on the ideals of the Reformation in England and the role of Henry VIII during the Reformation. Dr. Scarisbrick stated that the Reformation, led by anti-clerical clerics, made Christianity available to all and emphasized the priesthood of all believers and the utter helplessness of man. The Reformation called all laymen to full participation in religion.

According to Scarisbrick, Henry VIII's role was not intentionally that of a reformer. He described Henry as a politician concerned mainly with governmental problems. His reforms were only for state purposes.

Scarisbrick is a visiting scholar in the United States under the Fulbright-Hays Act. Currently, he is a visiting professor of history at Wellesley College. He received the B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees from Christ College, Cambridge University.

Professor Scarisbrick was a visiting professor at the University of Ghana, during the academic year 1959-60. His publications include numerous articles in the Cambridge Historical Journal and other noted works. A biography of Henry VIII, which he has recently completed, will be published in May, 1968, in England and the United States by the University of California Press.

The lecture was the second in the Marvin S. Pittman Lecture Series sponsored by First Federal Savings and Loan Bank of Statesboro.

Barrett Reveals Buy Back Policy For Used Books

Policy for the buying back of textbooks by the Landrum Center Bookstore has been announced by Paul F. Barrett, manager.

A textbook of current copyright and which has been approved for use the following quarter has the highest market value. The bookstore offers 50 percent of the current list price for copies in good physical condition. If the bookstore has an ample stock of the textbook, the student will be offered a wholesale price.

Some of these books may have torn bindings, loose pages or other physical defects. If such is the case, the student will be offered 50 percent of the list price less $1.

Each quarter various professors decide to change texts for a given course. If the dropped title is of current copyright, is authored by a professor of stature in his field and is published by a reputable and well-known publisher, the dealers offer the bookstore 25 percent of the current list price.

Old editions of books are of no use to the bookstore, except for use in a "special sale."

The bookstore will pay approximately 10 percent of the list price for all paperbacks in good condition only. Books which are damaged will not be purchased.

Wash. State Adopts New Grade Scale

Ellensburg, Wash. — (I.P.) — A plus and minus elaboration of the traditional 'A' to 'E' grading scale is now being used to gain more precise measurement of student achievement at Central Washington State College.

The plus-minus change is actually a compromise between grading revolutionaries who favored a detailed decimal system and stand-patters loyal to the old "A" to "E" scale.

Under the new grading system, a professor may give his students more precise grades—'A'-minus, 'B'-plus, 'C'-minus, etc. However, top and bottom grades will still be 'A' and 'E'. There will be no 'A'-plus or 'E'-minus.

With the new scale, a 'B'-plus will be worth 3.3 points, a 'B'-minus will be worth 2.7 points. A flat 'C' will be worth 2.0 points as always.

Johnston College Inaugurates New Type Of Dormitory Living

REDLANDS, Calif. (IP) — An entirely new type of dormitory living will be inaugurated with the opening of Johnston College on the campus of the University of Redlands in the Fall of 1969.

Miss Sharon Parks, assistant director of UR housing, commented on the plans: "One of the primary considerations in planning Johnston College is the hope that it will be constructed in such a way as to offer many natural opportunities for students, faculty and administrators to interact with one another."

The curriculum at Johnston College will emphasize the social sciences. Ideally this emphasis will extend beyond the classroom.

The commons will be constructed with numerous alcoves that will provide a more casual and personal atmosphere. The dining facility may have round dinner tables which would provide a setting consistent with the atmosphere.

Covered walkways will connect the central commons and the dormitories. The dorms will be four stories tall and will hold 112 people each. There will be 40 people to a floor, which will be sub-divided into two groups of 20.

Johnston College residences will be different from UR housing not only in its tower architecture, but also in its interior decor. There will be no long hallways as in most UR dorms. Rooms will be centered around a central lounge on each floor.

"The absence of long hallways seems to be a new trend in university housing across the country," said Dr. L. Theron Pace, director of housing.

Rooms in the Johnston dorms will be mostly doubles and a few singles. There will be no suites. All rooms will have sinks, study areas, bookshelves, beds and possibly individual phones.

Furniture will not be built-in but will be movable.

Mailboxes will be in the dormitories. Each floor of the dorms will have four study rooms, four bathrooms, and a meditation room. There will be sun deck balconies on each corner of the dorms.

Dorm lobbies will be smaller than those in UR dorms. Johnston dorm lobbies will have three date rooms in addition to an entrance lobby. The reason for the smaller lobbies in Johnston is because of the inter-dorm lounge and because of the larger floor lounges.

THEY WON

Everyone talks about basketball at Georgia Southern. They talk about Moore, Westerfield, Carmichael, etc. Let's talk about Bond, Sisk, Gordon, Brown, etc. These are just four names on the GSC junior varsity. They finished with a 11-5 record this season and were the epitome of a running, pressing basketball team. You could give credit to one or two of the players or to the coach, Allan Johnson.

But to do this would be a mistake. This was a TEAM effort. The majority of the spectators that saw any of the freshmen games quickly tell you these guys never gave up. This was perhaps the one characteristic that marked this team. They wanted to win, for themselves and their coach.

NOT MANY

How many teams can you think of that would win a game by three points after being down by 27 early in the second half. Not many. The J-V team did just this against ABAC last week. They trailed at Halftime 60-39. On one occasion in the second half the Baby Eagles were down 75-48. But they weren't to be denied.

Johnson called a timeout. A full court press was employed and a fast break used. The result: a 89-89 tie with six minutes remaining. In a span of eight minutes they scored 41 points to ABAC's 14. Not bad.

LOST BUCKLER

The starting lineup at the beginning of the season listed Danny Gordon, Phil Sisk, Gene Brown, Tommy Bond and Steve Buckler. Buckler was promoted to the varsity. He was the "shooter." But to Johnson and the others this did not make any difference. Buddy "Hondo" Pinkston took up the slack and led the J-V in scoring for the next few games.

Then things seemed to balance or click. The "team" began to score. One night Sisk was high man. Next night it would be Gordon, Bond, Ujlaki, or Brown. We could even go so far as to say that Wysong (Phil) or Jim Veryzer might even score.

There was also the blond bomber, Rob Bergbom, who came on strong at the close of the year. We couldn't forget the J-V's "Big John" Fountain. In the ABAC game Sisk fouled out with 14 minutes on the clock. Fountain came in and did what Johnson called a "fine job coming off the bench cold."

The frosh were exciting. If they instill anything in our varsity next year it would be the desire to win. They did a good job this year. So did their coach. They were a good group.

They won.

Eagles Close Out Season With 69-68 Overtime Win

By TIM O'LEARY
Assistant Sports Editor

The Georgia Southern Eagles closed out their season with a 13-11 record with a 69-68 overtime victory over Wilmington College after having dropped a 77-74 decision to Atlantic Christian College on their home court. Coach Frank Radovich seemed pleased with the results of the season, especially with that final win over Wilmington Tuesday night.

"It was a barnraiser. Carmichael (Elden) put up a fantastic shot with two guys hanging all over him and put it through the hoop with a second remaining. Bob Bohman, five minutes later in the overtime banked a jumper to win it with just seconds remaining."

Coach Frank Radovich had much praise for Carmichael who bowed out with a final game output of 24 points. Roger Moore also did a fine job in that final game with 17 points.

John Helm scored fifteen points for the Eagles "Dave Westerfield moved the ball well and kept the team moving as well as scoring ten points," Radovich said. "It was a sweet victory."

The night before was a different story, however.

"Atlantic Christian got a lot of breaks which we felt just shouldn't have happened. They got nineteen foul shots to our five in the first half. This is a definite indication of homecooking to me."

Senior captain Elden Carmichael scored one less than his seasonal record with a total of 27 points. John Helm scored 11, while Larry Pritchard dumped in nine markers.

"That final victory is a fine way of beginning another season," Radovich concluded.

J-V Finishes 11-5

The Georgia Southern Junior varsity closed out a very successful season with victories over Abraham Baldwin and Southern Tech. They squeezed by ABAC 103-100, and beat Southern Tech 116-104.

Thursday night Southern rallied from a 60-39 deficit to win. ABAC shot a sizzling 71 percent in the first half. But Southern's zone press kept ABAC making careless floor mistakes. At one time Southern trailed by 25 points, but finally caught ABAC at 90-89 with about three minutes to go.

The Baby Eagles had six players in double figures, led by scrappy Tommy Bond with 21 points. Phil Sisk and Danny Gordon each added 16, Rob Bergbom got 17, Mike Ujlake 14, and Gene Brown 12. ABAC was led by Odell Pack with 27.

Saturday night, the Eagle yearlings led all the way to a 116-104 victory of Tech. It was a free scoring affair, as Coach Johnson's Eagles ended their season with a 11-5 record. Gene Brown's 28 and Rob Bergbom's 22 led the Eagles. All ten players on the squad scored in the finale. Southern Tech was led by George Lamant, who bombed the nets with 52 points.

Eagles Defeat Tenn. Wesleyan; Helm Gets 23

By GIL WERMUTH
Sports Writer

Senior Elden Carmichael led the Georgia Southern Eagles to an upset victory over Tennessee Wesleyan, 79-73 here Saturday night.

John Helm and Carmichael each canned 14 apiece to lead the Eagles to a narrow 39-38 lead at the half. The score exchanged hands or was tied 19 times and Helm made two charity tosses with three seconds left.

The second half saw Southern maintaining a lead from two to ten points throughout. Dave Westerfield's floor play and shooting was the key in the second half as Southern kept in front despite surges by Wesleyan.

Southern was led by Helm with 23, Carmichael added 20, and Westerfield was close behind with 19. Wesleyan was led by Bob Ferguson and Bob Davis, with 22 and 20 respectively.

Coach Frank Radovich was extremely pleased with the win. "It was the first time in two years that we beat them, and the last home game victory was rewarding." He also stated that the last five games were the best games played as a team this year. He also had praise for Helm and Carmichael in the Wesleyan game.

Georgia Southern's Eagle gymnasts boosted their record to 8-1 last Friday night in the Hanner Gymnasium as they won their tightest meet of the year over strong David Lipscomb College, 173.40-172.05.

"Boy that was a close one. Our guys never quit and they performed well under the tremendous amount of pressure they were under," commented a jubilant Coach Ron Oertley.

To say the meet was close is an understatement. Neither team had more than a one point lead after each succeeding event was completed. Southern managed a one point lead on three occasions with Lipscomb holding the one point advantage only once. At intermission the score was 96.45-96.60, Lipscomb.

Capturing first places for the Eagles were Billy Godwin in free exercise and trampoline, Jimmy Kirkland in the long horse vault and Tony Blasko on the parallel bars.

"I can't say enough of these guys. They performed well and held their own with a team that topped the fifth ranked small college gymnastics team (Eastern Michigan) in the country. They did an excellent job, especially Godwin and Barnett," Oertley added.

Clements Cuts; 'Progress Hard To Pin Down'

The Georgia Southern baseball team is still working to reach its maximum amount of ball players, even after one player cut. Coach J. I. Clements still feels that there yet remains much evaluation of the material on the diamond and is therefore giving much more consideration before he commits himself to a final numeration.

"Progress is hard to pin down at the moment. Everything is so indefinite. We still have so many infielders and nine outfielders. With the exception of one or two, no one has shown anything flashy as yet," Clements said.

The infield does not seem to be set as yet. Coach Clements feels that he has the boys who can field the ground ball but the key to a player occupying an infield position will be whether he will be able to hit better than his competitor.

Moore Fires For Two

Rose Rambles As Southern Falls To Oilers, 93-81; Moore Shines

By TOM KING

Georgia Southern fell to the Phillips 66 Oilers last Thursday night in the Hanner Gym, 93-81 as Eagle three time All-American Jimmy Rose led the Phillips team to their 25th win of the year.

Rose, returning to GSC for the first time since last season, was the same Jimmy Rose that led the Eagles to the runnerup spot in the NAIA in 1966 and to a 17-11 record last season. He connected on 9-16 from the field and finished with 18 points, tops for the Oilers along with Harold Sergeant.

The former GSC great was not the whole show as Southern trailed only two points, 37-35 at the halfway point behind Roger Moore's 18 points. The big center led both teams in scoring with 27 points and also captured the battle of the boards, pulling down 20 errant shots.

Dave Westerfield, who had the tough assignment of guarding Rose, scored 25 points to take runnerup honors for the scoring. The little guard poured in 10-23 from the field and was 5-7 at the free throw line. Moore was 10-15 from the field and 7-9 at the gratis line.

"We played a fair game. We stayed close at the half but their outside shooting and the fast break killed us in the second half," commented Eagle Coach Frank Radovich. "Moore, he continued, "did a great job against their big man Schull (Gary). He beat him on the board and had a good night."

Oiler Coach Gary Thompson had high praise for Moore: "He charges the boards well. He's not aggressive enough but I understand he's only a freshman. He'll learn. He'll be tough. Well, he's already tough. He'll get better."

Georgia Southern connected on 31-77 from the field for 40 per cent and hit true on 19-26 from the line for 73 percent. The Oilers cashed in on 41-92 field goal attempts and 11-20 gratis tosses.
