Children's Book Week observed at G.N.S.

In all parts of the United States schools and libraries are observing "Children's Book Week". Although the main emphasis for the week is upon children's literature, interest in books and reading is not limited to the tiny folks; hence we call this week "National Book Week".

So delightful is the literature for every young people today, those of us who are older are enthusiastic readers. We can assist the charm and humor of A. Milne in "When We Were Very Young" and "Now We Are Six?"

Halfway up the stairs
Isn't up
And isn't down.
It isn't in the nursery,
It isn't in the town.
And all sorts of funny thoughts
Run round my head:
"It isn't really
Anywhere!
It's somewhere else
Instead!"

One of the most charming features of children's literature today is the illustrating. The leading artists of today visualize books for children by spirited and colorful illustrations. Such drawings grip the imagination and almost tell the story themselves. Ernest H. Shepherd's expressive line drawings of Christopher Robin, Pooh, and the other Milne people, have come to be a real part of the books.

With such imaginative new books for children and such charmingly illustrated editions of old books, it should be easy for childhood today to acquire that most valuable asset, the reading-habit.

A visitor of interest, to all the students was Miss Ethel McConnel. She is South wise Secretary for Baptist Students Union headquarters at Nashville. She does work in eighteen states.

The girls were delighted to have her talk to them Sunday afternoon in the lobby of East Dormitory. She gave many splendid ideas for Christian work on the campus.

We hope that we may have the pleasure of another such visit from her again soon.

Dr. Clark lectures to large audience.

Dr. Harry T. Clark, Dean of Furman University, gave a splendid talk in the auditorium on Sunday night. He used as his subject; "The World's Greatest Seller."

Dr. Clark began by saying that the world's greatest seller has been translated into 780 languages. The speaker stated that many of our poets and political men exhibit their knowledge of the world's greatest seller in their most famous work. "In the modern novel as well as the best of the old English novels there is always found some reference to the world's greatest seller", said Dr. Clark. "Regardless of a man's profession to-day he must have some knowledge of the Bible,--the lawyer, the soldier, the man of action, the historian, the poet, the man in the streets, the infidel, and the physician," Dr. Clark said, and quoted from a representative from each field to prove his statement.

Dr. Clark asked the audience clever questions concerning the Bible, that were simple, though very few knew the answers. He stated that Harvard, Yale, and other colleges have put the world's greatest seller on their entrance requirements. The average great seller today, after three or four years is soon forgotten, the world's quoted seller has survived thousand of years, and has been a profound influence on the literature, not only of the past but of today.

Rev. W. R. Mackey speaks at chapel.

Last Wednesday morning we were delighted to have with us Rev. Spence Minister of the Presbyterian Church who was thoughtful of the student body of Ga. Normal in bringing and introducing to us a delightful speaker at the chapel hour. Rev. W. R. Mackey, of Macon, Ga., who is assisting in a series of services at the Presbyterian church. His talk was such that should have inspired anyone and given him higher ideals.

After having read several scripture from the Bible and linking them up with statements from some of our great men of the past he left with us many impressive thoughts.

One of the most striking things he mentioned was the various ways we communicate our thoughts, and the various ways we speak. By gestures, suggestions and through a smile is a great way to communicate. Music,

I'd Like To Have a Corner.

I'd like to have a corner
Of some heart to call my own,
Ah, just a little corner
That belonged to me alone;
A spot of tender beauty,
A place of quiet and rest,
Where lights came dim and misty
To cheer my sheltered nest.

I'd not disturb a memory,
Or move the dreams about;
Nor would I seek to banish
Or crowd an ideal out.
I'd not attempt the building,
But I'd choose the furniture,
And the things within my corner
Would be cozy and demure.

I'd guard my every movement;
I'd be sure of every act;
I'd move aside the barriers
With most diplomatic tact;
I'd try to keep the owner
With gladness quite content,
For love and peace and friendship
Is all I'd give for rent.

Sidney Boswell.

Mother.

Who, when she's laid to rest away,
Shall yet among us ever stay,
And smile upon us from above
At those made better by her love?

Georgia vs. Florida

Quite a number of students from Georgia Normal attended the Georgia vs. Florida game in Savannah last Saturday. It was a game which has been looked forward to by many. Even though this game was a "Thrill" to many we feel sure that we get a quarter thrill in seeing our own Blue Tide play. So come on Blue Tide, Let's go!!! Make these last games the very best.

We were very sorry indeed to hear of the accidents which happened to several of our faculty members this week.

On Monday morning Mrs. Bell was in an accident four miles this side of Macon. She was badly bruised and the car she was in was badly damaged.

On Monday night Mr. Wells, Mr. Singley and Mr. Carruth were in an accident. Probably Mr. Wells "got the worst of the bargain there", receiving a slight cut over the eye.

In a Rosy Fog.

Foots: "Next to a beautiful girl, what do you think is the most interesting thing in the world?"
Gordon: "When I'm next to a beautiful girl. I'm not worrying about statistics."

JOKES

The Last Straw.
Mrs. Singley: "Is my hat on straight, Alvin?"
Mr. Singley: "Quite straight, Now do hurry. We're late already"
Mrs. Singley: "Well, I shall have to go back then. This isn't the kind of hat that is worn straight."

When Wife Goes Away.
Ralph: "How are you getting along since your wife went away?"
Zack: "Fine. I've reached the highest point in efficiency. I can put my socks on from either end."

"Say, Rastus," exclaimed the visitor in town, "I hears you have the ~~best~~ balkiest mule in the whole state."
Rastus scowled at his interrogator. "Parden me, sah, but ah nevah discusses mah wife's stubbornness wif strangers."

Taking His Medicine

My room-mate takes my cigarettes,
My razor, and my socks;
He takes my money in our bets,
As high as fifty rocks.
He even took my girl away
(That caused my blood to boil)
I hope he gets confused someday,
And takes my castor oil.

Sam: "Do you like Hamberger Balls?"
George: "Don't think I've ever attended one, are they naughty?"

"Y'know, my girl reminds me of a doll."
How come?"
"Well, everytime I squeeze her she yells, 'Mama'."

"Look at that fellow over there", whispered one guest to another while the hostess sang in an agonizing voice. "He's smiling as if he were enjoying himself. That's hypocrisy for you."
"No," said the other guest with a grim smile, "it's deafness."

"How do you dress so quick?"
"I learned playing stoop porker for four years in college."

"Did you hear the joke about the film actress?"
"No, what was it?"
"Her secretary didn't keep the records straight and now she finds she has two more divorces than she's had weddings."

Miss Clay: "What happens when a man, as Bacon suggests, 'swallows' a book?"
Frank: "He chokes."

Dean: "Oh no, his record shows he's kinda old."
