U.G.A.'s Present Interesting Program

It was a treat to the people of Statesboro and neighboring towns to have the U.G.A. Glee Club stop in Statesboro Wednesday night. They rendered a pleasing, interesting program in our auditorium between the hours of 8 and 11. Statesboro felt highly complimented in having Prince Preston, Jr., in the club as its leader. Hugh Hodson, an accomplished pianist, has charge of the club this year, and for the most part presided at the piano.

The program opened with a number of college songs by the club. These were very interesting. Next, the instrumental club gave a "Medley of Old Waltzes". Mandolins, guitars, bagjos, and violins each had a major part in this. A comical and interesting "chalk talk" was given by Jack Parr. The Glee Club then favored us with two or three selections, one being the German Student Song. We don't know what it all meant but we suppose it was all right. Something unique and very original for a Glee Club was staged when the "Great Nebo" performed works of magic, bringing silk handkerchiefs, etc., from nowhere. The "Pritland Trio" showed their ability to handle arms when they presented the "Fancy Manual". It seems as if we were seeing double when we looked at the two performers, each in harmony with the other. For encore, one of them turned into a raw recruit.

Part Two was in charge of the Four Horsemen Orchestra. Talent and skill was shown. Every comic and interesting number was the "opera" number, "Down by the Old Millstream" sung with gestures. Jazz, sentimental, and dance songs were played. The orchestra banjos, drums, piano, and euphones.

Three was the Royal Court the Red and Black. The two black-faced comedians played a short part and---their jokes had a comedy in them, too. The Club rendered several sections, and solonumbers were also.

Auditorium was filled, including the balcony seats. The program was a big success.

only hope to be visited by them again.

Portal High School and Warnock Junior High winners on field day.

Portal high school in the senior division and Warnock school in the Junior group won the Bulloch county field meet conducted here Friday.

The contest was held under the supervision of the Georgia Normal School. All literary events and part of the Athletic events were held at the school. Every school in the county took part and over 500 school children took part. The schools were divided into two groups. The high school in one group and the Junior high in another.

Warnock had a total of 263 points which won first place in Junior groups, 119 of these were literary and 108 were athletic.

Denmark was second with 168 points, 89 athletic and 79 literary.

Middle Ground was third with 123 points, 53 athletic and 71 literary.

In the Senior division Portal had 144 athletic and 121 literary.

Brooklet was second with 151 literary and 39.5 athletic.

Register was third with 123.5 athletic and 28 literary.

A literary cup is given each year to the winning school. It was estimated that 2000 people witnessed the events.

The day was enjoyed by everyone present.

"New Girls" on Campus.

Friday morning we discovered we had a number of "new 'Girls'" on our campus. They appeared first Thursday night and became very popular immediately by having escorts to the "Toby" show which is now on display at Statesboro. After a very embarrassing situation there they returned to the dormitories.

The Ideal Hypocrite.

Leonard Powell.

Generally speaking a hypocrite is a person who is to be greatly shunned and avoided, but, as in all other cases, there are exceptions to this rule, and some hypocrites are the embodiment of ideal manhood. Webster tells us that a hypocrite is one who feigns to be that which he is not--one who tries to hide or cover up his real self.

It is a self-evident truth that we are bored when we hear some one who is always complaining of being sick or tired, as who persists in talking about the dark and gloomy side of life. No matter how unpleasant we feel or how discouraged we are, we should strive to be pleasant. Then we will get more out of life and we will mean more to our friends.

It is human nature for us to become blue and discouraged when we meet with failure and disappointment, but here we should take the advice of the poet, who said,

"If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one game of pitch and toss,
And lose, and start again at
your own beginnings,
And never breathe a word about your loss
-----You'll be a man my son."

Another way in which we can suppress our inward feeling is through the attitude we show to those whom we think have done us wrong. When some one does something that makes us angry, our first impulse is to pour out a volley of wrath and fuss against the offender. Of course, we know, that it would be much better for us not to give vent to our feelings, but to strive to be just as considerate as our adversary is inconsiderate. In this way we might show that person his wrong, and finally cultivate a sincere and lasting friendship with that person who might easily become an enemy.

If you can tell the world you are feeling fine when you are down and out, if you can smile at failure and laugh in the face of disappointment, and if you can hear the unfriendliness of foes and friends without a word of blame or censure--you are a man greatly to be praised-- you are an ideal hypocrite.

The Life I'd Like to Live.

Marvin L. Powell.

I'd like to be a guiding light
to some poor wandering soul,
I'd like to lead him from a world of woe to one of happiness untold
I'd like to live a life of truthfulness and prayer.
Some fainting soul I'd like to cheer and wipe away his saddening tear.
I'd like to give some little gift to cheer some drooping heart
I'd like to help some fallen friend to get a fresh and vigorous start.
For every frown I'd like to smile
for every sorrow, sing;
I'd like to tell dejected men that life is always spring.
If I could only live the life that
I would like to live,
And if I could only give the gift that I would like to give
Then life to me would be complete, and life to me would then be sweet.

A Recipe for Happiness.

Sidney Boswell.

You may hide yourself from others
In a shell they cannot break,
You may keep them at a distance
When their friendship is at stake.
You may ignore all advances
Made with good intentions true
But remember when you measure
Shall be measured unto you.

You may sail your boat so lively
With no help from any one
You may feel that you've succeeded
When the longest day is done.
You may keep your inward feelings
Hidden deep within your breast
You may never feel the pulses
Of your heart to love's caress.

But would you know the beauty
And the joy life holds in store
And would you learn the secrets
Concealed with her door;
You must weave your life and others
With threads of cheer and hope
Into a strong but flexible pattern
With love the binding rope.

Wednesday morning at chapel Mildred Garvin and Lucile Futrelle presented a vocal duet-"The Rose of Picardy" accompanied by Mrs. Henderson at the piano. Afterwards we had Mr. Milton R. Little, superintendent of the schools of Jefferson county. He gave us a very interesting talk which everyone enjoyed.

Dramatic Club Meeting.

The Dramatic club met Thursday afternoon, April 4, at the home of Mrs. J. O. Johnson on Savannah Avenue. The program for the afternoon dealt with current writers, Susan Glaspell being the writer chosen for study. Miss Perkinson rendered a very interesting talk on the life and works of our writer and Sara Hartman read a one act play written by Susan Glaspell, entitled "Suppressed Desires" - a comedy in two scenes.

After the program a short business meeting was called by the president. Blanch Parker and Myrtle Freeman were elected to have charge of the program and entertainment of the next meeting which will be held on April 25.

Following the business meeting delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Plans are being worked out for an Oratorical contest between the two literary clubs. In about three weeks the preliminary contest will be held. It is hoped that a good many boys and girls will enter from each society. At this preliminary contest two boys and two girls from each society will be selected to meet the winners, and a public contest will be held two weeks, after the preliminary exercises, at night in the auditorium.

Mr. Wells is offering a prize to the final winners. The selections must be dramatic orations and readings and not to go over ten minutes. Societies get busy and send in the names of the contestants to Mrs. Johnston.

Oglethorpe Society

The Oglethorpe Society held its regular meeting on Thursday night, April 4. In the absence of the president, Walton Usher, Bill Thomas, the vice-president presided. After a short business session the program was presented as follows:

Piano Solo	Annie Ruth Moore
Reading	Dell Hagin
Impromptu Speeches.
Why I like the Oglethorpe Society	Stella Vanlandingham
What I don't like about the Oglethorpe Society	Harriet Roberts
How We may improve our Society	Miss Perkinson.

Stephens Society.

On Thursday evening at seven o'clock the Stephens Literary Society met in the new auditorium. A very interesting program was rendered. After devotional and roll call Mrs. Henderson, Jewell Smith and Jewell Cowart gave several selections of instrumental music. Sidney Beswell gave a splendid Declamation after which Mr. Woodle inspired us with a talk. He showed us the importance of travel.

The programs for this society are interesting and contain variety. We expect to have all members present at the next meeting.

Camp Wilkins

On April 12, 13, and 14th Mr. Wells expects to send a car of students to camp Wilkins near Athens to a religious welfare conference.

Purpose of Conference:

To cultivate and broaden the religious life of the students at the University Of Georgia.

To enlist the more active interests and cooperation of parents, ministers, alumni, and church laymen throughout the state in the work which is being done for the religious welfare of the students at the University of Georgia by the University Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. with the assistance of the local churches.

To direct so far as possible the constructive forces of the state toward the development of the spiritual natures of the young people of the state, and in this way start a counter movement against the wave of materialism that seemingly is engulfing the country.

"Of the agencies making for a realization of what Georgia rightfully expects of the University none is greater than the University Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A.-- Charles M. Snelling, Chancellor.

Work is persistent; it will follow you unless you drive it.

A good think will go a long way, but even rubber tires in the stretch.

Listen, practice teachers, a little studying will keep your conscience clear.

The only thing that beats a good wife is a bad husband.

The more a boy goes to college, the greater is his need for an education.

Jokes.

Mr. Henderson: "Will your folks be surprised when you graduate?"
Shot: "No, they have been expecting it for years."

Miss Newton: "The first date in history was about 4000 B.C."
Clyde: "Who had it?"

Eliz.: Do you like masked balls?
Peggy: Yes, only its so hard to know whom to talk about."

Miss Brannen (in music class)
Let's get some harmony in this."
Montgomery: Is that something to cat?

Miss Robertson: Can any of you tell me three foods required to keep the body in health?"
Carrie D.: Breakfast, dinner, and supper."

Cobbtown: I think the train has just passed.
George: How do you know?
Cobbtown: I can see its tracks.

Frank: Why didn't they play cards in the ark?"
Lucy: "Because Noah sat on the deck."

When telling your boy friend good-night at the gate,
The love is blind, remember the neighbors ain't.

Joe: My girl is divine."
Beaman: Yours may be divine, but mine's de berries."

Mr. Seymour: What effect does the moon have on the tide?"
Mark: None, it affects only the untied.

Suspicious Husband: Who called this afternoon?
Sophisticated Wife: Only Aunt Sophie.
Husband: Well, she left her pipe.

Puzzling Plurals.

We'll begin with box; the plural is boxes,
But the plural of ox should be oxen not oxes.
One fowl is a goose, but two are called geese,
Yet the plural of moose should never be moese,
You may find a lone mouse, or a whole nest of mice,
But the plural of house is houses, not hices.
If the plural of man is always called men,
Why shouldn't the plural of pan be pon?
The cow in the plural may be called cows or kine;
But a bow, if repeated, is never called bine;
And the plural of vow is vows, not vine.

If I speak of a foot and you share no two feet
And I gave you a goot, would a pair be called beet?
If one is a toot and the whole set are toothy, Plurals.
Why shouldn't the plural of booth be booth?
If the singular's this, and the plural is these;
Should the plural of kiss ever be written keese?
The one may be that, and two would be those
Yet hat in the plural would never be hese.
And the plural of cat is cats, and not cose.
We speak of a brother and aosl of brethren,
But though we say mother, we never say nothron.
The masculine pronouns are he, his and him,
But imagine the feminine she, shis and shim!
So the English, I think you all will agree,
Is the funniest language you ever did see.

Miss Benton: "Have you had any experience with gym work?"
New Student: "Well, I've danced with a lot of dumbbells."

It's all right to begin at the bottom except when your learning to swim.

Flapper: I would like to try on that rose frock in the window.
Salesman: I'm sorry, that is a lamp shade, but we could copy it for you.

Mr. Bird: Where is your othics?
Mr. Hunter: Where is what?
Mr. Bird: Your Ethids?
Mr. Hunter: Oh, I traded it off for a Buick.

Bag: Do you love me?
Canly: I'm wrapped up in you.
Bag: Oh, you sweet thing."
