HOUSE ON WHEELS

Two frame houses were moved from the campus via trailer this week to allow completion of plans for the proposed science building to be constructed on Georgia Avenue, behind the Herty Building. It was the second move for both buildings, since they were originally placed on the site currently occupied by the Herty Building. Originally constructed as faculty houses about 1927, they have seen occupancy by several teachers and administrators, most recently by Dr. John Boole, science and math division chairman, and Miss Lizzie Norman, secretary to Academic Dean Paul F. Carroll.

Thomas To Assume Fall Editorial Duties For 'George-Anne'

Elaine Thomas, a junior English major from Waycross, has been named editor of the "George-Anne" for fall quarter, 1967, according to Ric Mandes, faculty adviser. Robert Sessions, freshman English major from Milledgeville, has been named managing editor.

Standard Grading Is Here

The Academic Advisory Council decided in a meeting Tuesday night that a standardized system of grades will be implemented starting summer quarter.

Kent Dykes and Sydney Jackson, members of the Student Union Board, had been meeting with Academic Dean Paul F. Carroll, chairman of the Council, for two weeks to discuss the problem.

"It was decided that there will be a standard grading scale and they will use the grading system set up by the Board of Regents for the University System", said Dykes.

Under the new system, 90 to 100 will be an A, 80 to 90 will be a B, 70 to 79 will be a C, and 60 to 69 will be a D.

Caps and gowns for graduation may be picked up beginning Tuesday in the old post office of the Williams Center, according to C. R. Pound, director. Distribution will be during regular office hours, 8:30 a.m. through 4:30 p.m. If no one is on duty, seniors may contact Mrs. Benson or the Williams Center director in the director's office.

Gayle Lawhorn Wins GMI Title

Gayle Lawhorn, freshman-junior - high education major from Dawson, Georgia, was chosen Miss Georgia Military Institute at Forsyth, Ga., last weekend.

Sponsored by Jimmy Page from Swainsboro, Gayle will tour Fort Stewart in July and attend graduation exercises, as part of her duties as Miss GMI.

Other editorial board members on the fall quarter "George-Anne" will be Pat Groover, junior math major from Savannah, news editor; Sandra Dykes, sophomore English major from Savannah, feature editor; Tom King, junior English major from Macon, sports editor and Dan Stiles, junior English major from Thomasville, assistant sports editor.

A freshman edition will be the first paper of fall quarter. It will be a four page special consisting of a message from President Henderson, deans, and Student Congress officers. A map of the campus will also be included in this edition.

Asked to comment on her plans for next year, Miss Thomas said, "I plan to continue the present 'George-Anne' policies. One of the main problems I'll have to cope with will be inexperience. The paper will be a lot of hard work, but I think we can make it."

"We're going to have to be careful to keep the paper from getting too witty because everyone on the staff has a tendency to get funny. I feel that we have had an exceptionally good paper this year, and I hope we can do as well next year. I only wish I didn't already know how much work the editor has to do. It bothers me."

2100 Expected Summer Quarter

Summer quarter 1967, with a predicted enrollment of 2100, will officially begin with Registration Day, June 8, and classes Friday and Saturday, June 9-10, according to Registrar Lloyd Joyner. Final examinations will be given Aug. 10-14, with summer commencement Aug. 15.

Of the predicted 2100, approximately 1800 former students are expected to enroll, in addition to over 300 new students consisting of 94 beginning freshmen, 75 freshmen accepted on trial basis, 50 transfers, 90 graduates and 10 unclassified, he added.

This will make the second year for the freshman trial program, by which a student must pass at least 10 quarter hours with an average grade of C in order to return. According to Joyner, 42 of 121 students successfully fulfilled requirements last summer for fall quarter admission.

Registration for classes will begin at 8 a.m. Thursday, and will run as long as necessary for completion.

Duncan Takes Office

By ELAINE THOMAS
Managing Editor

Larry Duncan was sworn in as president of Student Congress Saturday, May 20, culminating the end of the annual two-day Student Congress Spring Retreat.

Congress members met Friday night, were assigned to various groups, including Executive Committee, Organizations Committee and Constitution Committee; members then met to discuss various problems in their areas of concern.

The Spring Retreat resumed at 9 a.m. Saturday. Members met by committees, where they Committee advisers were administrative officials. The purpose of the Retreat was to evaluate things done in the past, make improvements for the future, and to draw conclusions and make recommendations for next year.

Congress met in a general session Saturday at 2 p.m., when they were addressed by Ralph K. Tyson, dean of students. At the general session, committee chairmen made reports from committee meetings and introduced changes and new activities to be studied next fall.

the dinner James Stapleton, outgoing Student Congress president, spoke on "What Student Congress Has Meant to Me." Dean Ralph K. Tyson then presented Stapleton with the gavel used during his term as president. Hoyt Candy, graduate assistant in the Student Personnel Office, administered the oath of office to Larry Duncan, then to all new Congress members. Dean Tyson presented Duncan with a gavel to be used during the oncoming year in Student Congress and spoke briefly about Student Congress and his hopes for it during the ensuing year.

Joyner Predicts 4,350 Students

By ROBERT SESSIONS
News Editor

Enrollment for fall quarter is expected to reach 4,350 according to Lloyd Joyner, registrar.

Joyner pointed out that this figure may change, however, due to the fact that the University of Georgia has limited its fall enrollment to 16,000 thus creating the possibility of an influx of new students to other colleges in the University System. The final registration figure will be "anybody's guess," he said.

Dates for students to return to the campus have also been announced by the Office of Student Personnel. Student advisers will return Thursday, Sept. 14, for preliminary planning sessions. Student assistants will return Sunday morning, Sept. 17 and report to their respective House Directors for instructions.

Beginning freshmen will arrive Sunday afternoon after dorms open at 1 p.m. Transfer students will be admitted to their residence halls Monday Sept. 18. Orientation will be held at 3:30 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium.

All other former students will be admitted to their residence halls Tuesday, Sept. 19.

Kulhke Co. Is Lowest Bidder

Kulhke Construction Co., of Augusta submitted the winning bid of $156,000 Tuesday for the semi-permanent classroom building to be erected adjacent to the Alumni Gymnasium, according to President Zach S. Henderson.

Dr. Henderson added that five bids were submitted, ranging from the winning estimation to $174,800. All bids came from Georgia firms. Construction will begin next week and completion is expected by Sept. 15, he added.

OLMSTEAD

Gets 'George-Anne' Award

Editorial Board Gives Olmstead Service Award

Robin Olmstead, juniormath major from Brunswick, was named recipient of the first annual "George-Anne" Leadership Service Award at the annual Student Congress Retreat banquet last Saturday night. The presentation was made by "George-Anne" editor Ron Mayhew.

"The award," Mayhew said, "was initiated this year in order to recognize the student who, in the view of the paper's editorial board, makes the most significant contributions to the campus during the year."

"It was originally planned to present the award at last night's leadership banquet," Mayhew added, "but we felt it more appropriate to make the presentation at a Student Congress gathering, since these are the persons with whom Robin works most closely."

THE FAMOUS JIG
Mose Displays His Spry Form

By PAT GROOVER
Feature Editor

"Down through the years as the human alarm clock he has become a tradition . . ."

These words describe a man who has spent 34 years working at Georgia Southern and was the dedicatee of the "Reflector" in 1955.

Mose Bass is not only the janitor of Dorman Hall, but also the counselor and good-will ambassador to many of his "babies" in Dorman.

Mose became a human alarm clock many years ago when he started to wakeup one or two of the boys. Soon many of the students started leaving notes on their doors, and as one of his boys commented, "when you tell him to shake you, he really shakes." But for the last two quarters, he has not been able to preform his usual duty, since he has changed his working hours.

Asked why he calls the boys babies, Mose laughed, "there are so many of them I could not remember all of their names. They gave it right back to me . . . now they call me baby."

Mose came to the college in 1929 when there were only two dormitories. At that time he milked by hand 18-22 cows from the college farm each day. The milk was used in the cafetoria.

Christmas at Dorman Brings Surprises

Hall Christmas party, after being presented with a gift.

Mose is also a GSC baseball fan, but compains that he hasn't had a chance to see a game in about two years.

Married "about 40 years" to the same woman, Mose does not have any children of his own, but has plenty of adopted boys. And will not say anything bad about them.

A RARE PEACEFUL MOMENT
Mose's First Choice Is the Comics

Starting his janitorial duties, first at Sanford Hall in 1947 under Miss Sophie Johnson, house director, he then went to Cone Hall when it was completed. Mose again moved when Dorman Hall was opened in the fall to work under Mrs. Maude Davis.

Mose is not looking forward to his retirement in June. He proudly states that he has been at GSC longer than anyone, except President Henderson.

When one of the men have a birthday, someone always finds the "ear." Mose is called this by one of his favorites, who always finds in him a listening ear to his problems, giving pretty good advise. He always gets in his birthday licks. Mose has had his share of birthdays, too, 67 of them.

He is also known for his "jig" which he preformed at the Dorman

Asked about any trouble they might have caused him, became very serious and said, "what little bit don't amount to much. They've been mighty nice to me."

Small in statue, about five feet, but looking well-fed, he lives near Lynn Hall and enjoys his private vegetable garden. Instead of the conventional scraecrows seen on Southern farms, Mose uses aluminium foil pie pans cut in strips and strung on the bean trellises.

Other traditions follow Mose Bass. Many years ago students would search the bulletin boards for a new announcement so they could sign "Approved by Mose Bass". The act thrilled Mose and for many years, "Approved by Mose Bass" was as famed as the man himself.

Mixed Emotions Epitomize Year

By JAMES STAPLETON
Student Congress President

It has been a privilege and a pleasure to serve as Student Congress President for this year. It has been a year of both frustration and satisfying rewards.

We have made mistakes. There are things which should have been tackled from a different viewpoint or a different attitude. At the same time, our experiences have been good for us. Next year's Congress can be better than this year's as a result of these experiences. Students are beginning to realize what student government means.

This year I have been fortunate enough to have worked with some of the greatest people in the world. People who have had the best interests of students foremost in their minds. Also, I have had the pleasure of closer contact with our faculty, staff and administration. As I think back over the school year I have regrets, mixed emotions and happy experiences. It means a lot when you devote your time, energy, and intestinal fortitude to an idea you think might work. It means a lot when you have to make a decision knowing you must answer to 3500 people. It means a lot when you skip class and homework in order to attend five or six meetings.

A lot of progress has come to Georgia Southern. Some has been very sneaky and slow although some might not recognize it. Other progress has been turbulent and noisy with divided opinions.

There are many people who are interested in GSC and its problems. Any solutions or forward steps will be made only as a result of hard work, determination and cooperation.

When you become a senior, you may understand. Some people never will. It's part of growing up. Each culture has its own value system. GSC has its own.

Faculty Publications Committee Apologizes

To The Editor:

This is a public statement declaring the regret and apology of the Faculty Publications Committee for the publication of a letter of student expressed grievances concerning an alleged dormitory situation in the Letters-to-the-Editor section of the May 19 issue of "The George-Anne."

Such complaints should have been expressed in the confines of the administrative office in charge of dormitories and not through the medium of a college newspaper.

This committee would be the first to protest and the last to impose any act of suppression of the press; but it must point out that the very existence of any freedom of the press is predicated upon its operation within the ordinary bounds of responsibility, conscience and good taste.

And so, to the House Director of Cooper Hall, we offer our sincerest and deepest apologies.

Mr. Billy Deal
Mr. William Dewberry
Mr. Ric Mandes
Dr. Fielding Russell
Faculty Publications Committee

Dear Editor,

The request to help DPA with a gift of $200 was changed by Congress to a loan. This loan would be for one year with no interest. As yet, the administration has not passed it. If they don't, then DPA will still be $200 in the hole. If they do, then DPA will be out of debt.

If any organization makes a profit on any campus activity, they deserve to keep it. Few people realize the work that goes into providing services for the school.

Robin Olmstead
Student Congress
2nd Vice President

(Ed. Note: Point well taken, Mr. Olmstead. We agree with the loan idea. But where do you draw the line on gifts?)

I am a computer card-punched.
I'm told what to think,

What to hate,
And who to love,
And who to be indifferent to.
I am told what to sing,
And what to say,
What to bring,
And what to take away,
And when to study,
And when to pray.

I am a computer card-punched.
I have been programed to think
In a certain automated way;
And I don't give a damn.

Dean Rusk Invites Averitt To Conclave

Dr. Jack N. Averitt, social science division chairman, has been invited to attend a National Foreign Policy Conference for Education June 19-20, in the U. S. Department of State, Washington, D. C., by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The invitation came through a personal letter last week.

Preliminary plans call for a welcome by Under Secretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach, and opening programs to be presented by Henry D. Owen, Policy Planning Council chairman, and Walter J. Stoessel Jr., deputy assistant secretary for European affairs.

Round table discussions will follow Monday afternoon, with a reception Monday evening. After a Tuesday morning general assembly, optional-choice discussion groups will follow in the afternoon.

Seniors Cancel Lantern Walk

The senior class voted not to have a lantern walk due to lack of support, according to Mack Poss. Graduation rehearsal will be June 3, at 2:30. Baccalaureate services are scheduled for June 4 at 11 a.m. with graduation at 3:30 p.m.

Worthy Wudie 'Wonders' Work, Win

By JOAN JORDAN
and ELAINE LEWIS

Many students were surprised and somewhat puzzled Saturday, May 6, when Wudie Hall's house director, Mrs. Estelle Strickland, was presented the first place award for the 1967 Spring Swing Scavenger Hunt.

The main reason the reactions were so varied is that so few of students know there is a Wudie Hall and fewer know where it is. Even though the dormitory has been a part of the college community for four years, the girls in Wudie are still confronted with reactions such as: "Wudie Hall? Where is that?" or better yet: "What is it?"

Wudie Hall is owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Anderson, Jr., of Statesboro, and is located on South College Street - only a block from the Eagles' front gate. Although Wudie is hidden from the bustling campus, her coeds, frequently referred to as the "Wonders," are busily involved in campus activities. The girls maintain the title of "Wonders" by their individual and collective efforts and achievements.

The residents of Wudie Hall keep her alive and literally "popping" with excitement. Consequently, Wudie is a friendly and pleasant dorm. Although it is a small dorm, only two stories tall with a capacity of fifty girls, it is an integral part of GSC. Wudie is often forgotten, but the "Wudie Wonders" never forget.

The girls participate in many phases of the campus life. They support their alma mater with an unfaltering spirit and many times these "wonders" soar to the top.

Still they have often been unnoticed and forgotten. These coeds attribute much of their determination and success to the encouragement and support of their house director, Mrs. Strickland (affectionately referred to as "Strick" by the "wonders").

The "Wonders" also received the first place trophy for their Homecoming display. During Spring Swing they won the Scavenger Hunt award; individuals achieved first place positions in the music, spanish and math divisions, in swimming competition, and in track and field.

Payne To Attend NDEA Institute

G. Fred Payne, instructor of geography, has been selected to participate in an NDEA Institute for Advanced Study in Geography at the University of Minnesota this summer.

The institute is unique, being the only one designed specifically for teachers of college geography who are currently training future teachers. The Institute will include seminars led by outstanding geographers, headed by Dr. Fred E. Uker-mann.

Payne is one of 25 participants chosen from several hundred applicants to attend this Institute in Minneapolis, Minn., June 19-Aug. 4.

The Looking Glass

"What you are thunders so loud that I cannot hear what you say."

—Emerson

A sorrow shared is always halved;

A joy shared is always doubled.

If you wish to be healthy morally, mentally and physically, just let go of the little bothers of everyday life, the irritations and petty vexations that cross your path daily. Don't take them up and nurse them. They are not worthwhile, let them go. That little hurt you get from a friend: perhaps it was not intended, perhaps it was. But never mind; let it go; refuse to think about it. Let go of the feeling of hatred you have for another; that jealousy, envy, the malice — let go all such thoughts. Sweep them out of your mind and you will be surprised at what a cleaning-up effect it will have on you both physically and mentally. Let them all go; you house them at a terrible risk. But the big troubles, the bitter disappointments, the deep wrongs and heart-breaking sorrows, the tragedies of life — what about them? Why, just let them go; drop them, softly perhaps, but surely. Put away all regret and bitterness, and let sorrow be only a softening influence. Yes, let them go, and make the most of the future.

Area 7 Play-Off Continues Today

ALLEN SIMMONS: "HERE IT COMES"
Simmons Relieves O'Leary in Saturday Game against W. Georgia

Nationals

The winner of the area VII baseball tournament here Thursday through Saturday will advance to the N.A.I.A. finals at St. Joseph, Mo., June 5-10.

Southern won the national championship in 1962, and the Eagles of Carson-Newman won the title in 1965.

Southerners Enter With 26-15 Record

Georgia Southern Baseball Eagles played Wilmington College, N. C., in the first round of the NAIA Area VII Tournament held at the Eagle Field Thursday through Saturday.

Carson-Newman, Tenn., and Livingston State opened the action yesterday followed by the Southern-Wilmington game. The losers of the two contests played each other afterwards.

The double-elimination tournament will end with three games today, but if needed a seventh game will be played tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

Southern, the District 25 representative, carried the most victories into the tournament on basis of its 26-15-1 record.

The Eagles of Coach Bill Spieth also have the most losses among the four teams.

Wilmington College, coached by Bill Brooks, defeated High Point in the District 26 elimination series. The Seahawks slipped past High Point, 1-0, in 17 innings in the deciding contest. Wilmington boasted a 22-10 record prior to the play-off.

Carson-Newman, a perennial brought a 25-9 record into the tourney. Much of the Golden Eagles' success lies in the right arm of pitcher Mike Levi. Levi won both games in the District 24 play-off hurling a no-hitter against Cumberland in the title game. Levi has a 13-2 won-loss record for Coach Bobby Wilson's team.

Livingston State, the District 27 entrant, has an 18-4 record, and the Tigers of Coach James Gray were the first teams to qualify for the area play-off. Livingston won the Alabama Intercollegiate Championship for the third straight year.

B.J. ON SPORTS

By BJORN KJERFVE
Sports Editor

Another school year is about to come to an end. It has been a year of many changes for the school as well as varsity athletics. It hasn't been the most successful of years, not the worst either; but success or failure are but subordinate details. Instead you look back, as I do, on what happened then, how busy you were, how happy, how... Yes, that is what I will do when my two years as sports editor now have come to an end. I remember it all, and will always do so.

I remember that night, 15 months ago, when I cheerfully rang the victory bell on the library porch. Sweetheart Circle was filled with cheering students. Southern had just made it to the national NAIA basketball championship game. I'll never forget that proud feeling or the spirit of that night.

This year was different, but not really. It was a year of rebuilding; it was an end of the epoch of Jimmy Rose and other greats. That the season record was 17-11 will soon be forgotten, but who can forget that unbelievable night Robert Jordan poured in 51 points on a startled Wilmington team? Who can forget Jim Seeley's solid rebounding, Jimmy Rose's breathless fakes, or Ken Szotkiewicz' flashy shots? Who can forget the moments of patriotic devotion when "Star-Spangled Banner" rang out in the darkened gym turning the spectators heads toward the spotlighted flag on the wall? Who can forget the cheerful spirit of "Dixie" sounding from Dr. Broucek's organ?

But Southern is more than basketball. The gymnastics team ended the season 7-5. Coach Ron Oertley's Eagles are in a rebuilding period too, but next year Southern should approach the gymnastics class of Pat Yeager's days here.

With spring came baseball, tennis and golf. The linksmen had the only losing season of five varsity squads, 6-9. Baseball season is yet not over, therefore I find it proper to save my comments. It is, however, a season of records, and Coach Bill Spieth has done a tremendous job in his initial year.

But to me Southern athletics is tennis more than any other sport. I will never forget the tiring practices, the cold showers, the long road trips, the many wins and losses. I will never forget having the first and only tennis scholarship at Southern, being a part of the first winning Eagle team, serving as co-captain. These are memories for life; as well as teammates and opponents will remain my friends for life.

My teammates are characters with whom I have shared perhaps my most memorable time at college: Mack, 'Possum, Eddie, Buzzard Beak, Wally, Jerry, David, James, Bob and all the rest.

No I will not forget these two years.

Eagles Nip Braves in Play-Off

By JOHN ECKENROTH
Assistant Sports Editor

Georgia Southern Baseball Eagles spotted the opening game, 3-4, of the best of three series to the West Georgia Braves, then came roaring back to win two games Saturday, 5-4 and 7-0. The wins put Southern in the District playoffs which opened here yesterday.

Friday afternoon was a time of frustration, as the Eagles lost a heartbreaker in 11 innings, 4-3. The Eagles, with Jimmy Dobson at the controls, led 2-0 into the 9th, when the West Georgia offense and the hot sun got to Dobson. Max Braun finished the game and took the loss. Rick Ward led the Southern batting with one home run.

Saturday, the Eagle defense led by shortstop Ken Szotkiewicz and catcher Vic Correll came up with one great play after another to help starter Tim O'Leary. When the 100-degree-weather tired O'Leary, Allen Simmons came in to save the win, 5-4. Nobody was sure what Simmons threw, but it sounded hard and fast and the win went to the Eagles.

In the last game, Jim Nevin threw a two-hitter. The Eagles got Nevin four runs in the bottom of the first and after that Nevin only gave up only one hit. Nevin had complete control of the game, never getting into trouble and never allowing a runner past second base.

Butch Davis took hitting honors and Ralph Lynch knocked out the started with a booming double in the first. The final score was 7-0 in favor of the Eagles.

Judy McDonald Wins State Post

Judy McDonald, a junior home economics education major from Jesup, was recently elected first vice-chairman of the college chapter of the State Home Economics Association.

Election of officers for next year was held at the Georgia Home Economics Association meeting in Atlanta, May 5-7.

The local organization had 13 students and six professors as representatives. Theme for the convention was "Reflection of a Professional." Dr. Thomas R. Bennett, director of Graduate Studies at George Williams College was featured speaker.

Miss McDonald's duties will consist of setting up the program for next year's convention.

The college dining hall will operate through lunch Sunday, June 4, according to Williams Center Director C. R. Pound. Serving hours will be posted on bulletin boards and dining hall doors.

PDK Members Attend Conclave

Six members of the local chapter of Phi Delta Kappa attended a leadership conference last Saturday in Athens.

The six local representatives attending were Donald Whaley, president; Dr. Frank Ramsey, vice-president; Larry Davis, secretary; Shelton Evans, historian; Dr. Harold Tyre, faculty advisor; and Dr. Arthur Justice.

Hogan To Head Home Ec. Group

By SHARON BOHLER
Staff Writer

A new honorary fraternity for Home Economics majors, Phi Upsilon, has been formed at the college. In order to be considered for membership each candidate must be in the upper one fifth of the home economics division academically, and must be at least a third quarter sophomore.

The new officers who will be installed are: Ann Hogan, president; Diana Thornton, vice-president; Terry Tillman, recording secretary; Judy McDonald, corresponding secretary; Linda Findley, treasurer; Florence Ann Robertson, rituals chairman; and Harriet Hopkins, historian.

The group plans, within the coming year, to petition the national honorary fraternity in home economics, Phi Upsilon Omicron, for affiliation.

There will be an initiation of the charter members as well as installation of the new officers at an installation brunch Saturday, May 27, at 10:30 a. m. at the Holiday Inn. The members who will be initiated include: Ann Hogan, Gail Elkins, Gale Paulk, Linda Findley, Harriet Hopkins, Sandra Jennings, Julie Banks, Judy Slater, Diana Thornton, Terry Tillman, Janice Rach, Dondra Tra-wick, Ann Vaughan, Jennifer Williams, Wanda Widner, Elizabeth House, Florence Ann Robertson, Kay Ellis, Judy McDonald, and Diane Black. The advisers for the fraternity are Miss Sharon Smith and Miss Mary Marshall Pruitt from the home economics faculty.

The End...A Letter To Ric Mandes

Dear Mr. Mandes,
Well... it's over.

Here I sit, officially in the editor's chair for the last time. This letter has intentionally been put off until everything else is typed, edited, and taken down for printing. The linotype machine is waiting like a grim reaper to cast these, the last inches of my last issue.

I well remember that three-hour talk in your office last year, when I told you that we would put out the best college newspaper in Georgia — and the biggest. We have unquestionably succeeded in the size aspect. If we weren't the best, we were real close.

You no doubt remember my naive idealism upon acceptance of this chair. I had a plan for every problem that could arise. As you have seen, we have failed miserably on several occasions.

I remember subsequent three-hour late-afternoon talks in your office, whether they were about the paper or just the two of us talking about nothing in particular. You persuaded me not to quit several times. The first time was the time I saw what happened to our 44-page homecoming edition between this office and the press. Another was the last of winter quarter, when I was in one of my despondent moods.

The real inspiration, especially during the past three weeks, has been Dr. Henderson. His 40 years make our paltry few look like nothing. It's hard to believe what kind of an attitude can come from 40 years of loving a school.

A lot of others have helped too. Dean Boger and Mrs. Hudgins have been wonderful. Durwood's weekly invasion of the office has lifted moods on many occasions. I'll miss them.

The cooperation of my teachers has saved my academic life on several occasions of tardies, absences, late assignments, and (despite all efforts to the contrary) sleeping in class. Two in particular have been most understanding. They know who they are.

I've made up a list of "George-Anne" definitions for you. Several of them are: the smell of the honeysuckle as I drove back from the Herald in the convertible, drinking hot tea with Richard and the irrepressible Swede at 4 a.m. (just before taking the copy down), and the way the campus looks at 5 a.m., with a misty fog making halos around the street lights as I hear the clicking echos of my footsteps, going back to the dorm for two hours sleep.

There have been light moments too, like when Security nabbed us for shooting Southern Belle pictures on top of the water tower. Dean Maguire saved our skins that time.

I can't fully express my eagerness to be just a student next quarter, and not "athlete," "editor or critic." It will be my first time experiencing this. The first two quarters it was the gymnastics team. It's been the paper ever since. I'll enjoy Fridays too, being able to just read the "George-Anne" instead of worrying about what I'll catch, and from whom.

No doubt you have a few more grey hairs as a result of our stormy little publication. Hopefully someday you'll realize that I have a few too.

Now let me quit, go back and proofread this letter, then send it down. I hope you won't mind sharing it with the readers who have been so patient for so long.

There are still several days in the quarter, still time for another three-hour talk. Maybe we can have one more before I give you the office key which symbolizes over two years of my life. I'd like that.

Respectfully,

Editorials

THE OLD CONGRESS

It has been a landmark year for Student Congress. Dr. Ralph K. Tyson, dean of students, affirmed this and other aspects of the year to old and new Congress officers and members at the annual retreat last weekend.

Evaluation, he also said, is impossible for a single individual to administer. The "George-Anne" adds its agreement but with the comment that taking both good and bad into account, this year's Congress has far exceeded others during the past few years.

If the 1966-67 Congress' goals were to drastically increase dances, concerts, and other social functions, then it was a failure. If however, it sought to expand and improve communication between the Congress and the student body, few could deny its dynamic success.

If, in addition, this year's Congress wanted to revolutionize campus life, it fell far short of its goal. If, furthermore, it wished to restrict itself to programs and changes which it could effectively undertake, the objective was definitely accomplished.

Student Congress has made a good many mistakes, but likewise has established some sound principles. Viewing the year as a whole, one could attribute much of the success to the executive committee who, despite lack of previous experience in such capacities, ably filled their offices.

Next year will be the same in several ways. Certainly the new officers will make mistakes. Judging from their experience and qualifications, however, we anticipate another good year if they maintain the tone of free communication with the student body which was so well established by the outgoing Congress.

THE YEAR

The 1966-67 school term has been a stormy one. One has only to look briefly back on the past nine months, the past three weeks in particular, to recognize this.

From all indications next year will bring many more changes. The new art and music building will be finished, so will the new dining hall... bringing most of this year's construction to an end. During 1967-68, however, construction will begin on the new gym and, hopefully, the new science building.

It has often been said that Georgia Southern has growing pains. We submit that such pains are good for the institution if they are kept within reasonable bounds. The spirit of growth is healthy and maintains one of the unique features of the school... a lack of physical space restrictions that plague many of today's colleges.

Relief and Nervousness Accompany Last Issue

By ELAINE THOMAS
Managing Editor

When this issue of the "George-Anne" leaves the press, many people will experience different reactions. The 1966-67 editor, in whatever state he may be, will doubtlessly be relieved. For him, a tiring and long year as editor of the "George-Anne" will be ended. Other staff members realize that they will be able to live as normal students for a few days. The tasks of compiling news, devising headlines, drawing up pages, and pasting up proofs will be finished until fall quarter.

As this feeling of relief accompanies the last issue, a feeling of nervous anticipation arises on the part of those who will guide the "George-Anne" next year. Next year's staff members may pour over the paper and wonder if they will remember all the jump lines, masts, and other innumerable details which are necessary for a good paper.

With the transition from one editor to another, the "George-Anne" may be subject to some changes. A new editor may list lengthy changes for the paper and its procedure, and some of these may actually get carried out. But the wise person quickly learns that improvement and smoother procedure come as the year progresses and as the editor and staff learn to work together more effectively. It would be useless for an aspiring editor to expose his ideas for the "George-Anne" before he begins his term. While the position of editor is important, it is a position which entails frantic last minutes of changing layouts and switching stories.

An editor cannot follow a pre-planned schedule, and it would be useless for him to try. He must hope for a good staff, look for news, and develop a constitution which can withstand little sleep, criticism, and ulcers. Also, the editor needs a very reliable sense of humor.

The "George-Anne" staff experiences a certain bond which is unknown to most students. The only people who can sympathize with staff members are other staff members. Next Year's staff is blessed with wit and talent, an unbeatable combination for those who work at a rapid pace in close quarters.

Since one year is the limit of time allotted to each editor, spring quarter brings about the end of a year for a weary editor and introduces a new one. Logically, a year is about all that a person's grades and nerves can stand of the title. There will be staff jokes that no one except the staff will know. And there will be fears on behalf of the new editor that the campus will hopefully never know about.

So when this issue is out, there will be a new editor. The famous daisy will be moved from a corner desk and will be placed upon the editor's desk, and a heart will ascend to a throat. There will be changes in the office and in the "George-Anne" itself. A new editor should not be foolish enough to believe that he can be idle and honored, nor should he allow the "George-Anne" to dwindle to a bimonthly two pages. A new editor, like many other people, eagerly anticipates next year.

Netters Boast Best Season Ever

Crush GSWC, Augusta College

The net Eagles closed out the 1967 season with a four-match-winning streak to boast the best season record in Southern's tennis history: 12-8 for a .600 mark.

Friday the Southerners stomped Augusta, 6-0, here, and Saturday visited Americus and Georgia Southwestern College. Supposedly GSWC had come a long way since the Eagles won in Statesboro, 8-1, in the beginning of the season, but the improvement was nonexistent; Southern won a superior 9-0 victory.

Three-year letterman and co-captain Mack Poss played his last varsity match for Southern, when he outclassed Mill Simmons, 6-1, 6-0, Saturday in Americus. Poss, more than any other netter, has earned the name, "GSC's Mr. Tennis." He has played more matches for Southern than any previous netter during the six years that tennis has been a varsity sport.

The best season prior to this year's was last season, when the Eagles scored a new record, 8-9.

Southern Belle

Leigh Essex

Staff Photos — Björn Kjerfve

"I love to go for walks: I just love to be outside," smiled Leigh Essex. The chilly wind made her long, dark-brown hair flutter in the breeze, but she only smiled, "I don't mind cold weather." A 5-4 freshman art major from Atlanta, she wants to go into commercial art. She also plays the piano, "hates" science, and "just loves" Southern. She flashed another timid, enchanting smile and was gone.

Campus Colony

(Formerly Knight Village)

We at Campus Colony are most anxious to have you live with us this summer.

WE ARE PROUD OF OUR NEW NAME AND MORE PROUD OF THE WAY WE ARE STARTING TO LOOK

The management of Campus Colony has many years of experience in college housing and we are a proud organization.

YOU AS STUDENTS ARE OUR BUSINESS AND WE WELCOME THE OPPORTUNITY TO HAVE YOU AS OUR RESIDENTS.

Among the facilities being offered to our summer occupants is a membership in the Campus Colony Private Swim Club. The pool will be available only to the Colony residents. In addition all our dormitories are central air-conditioned and this will insure your comfortability during the hot summer months.

We are currently taking applications for the summer and fall school terms. Thank you for your consideration.
