•With finals approaching, Statesboro spas look to alleviate unwanted stress

PAMPERING PLEASURES: The Pampered Peach Day Spa and Salon is one of Statesboro's most popular places to go to relieve the stress brought about by midterms, finals, and research papers.

A SOOTHING MESSAGE: A massage specialist at The Pampered Peach Day Spa and Salon relaxes the muscles of a satisfied customer.

The mere utterance of the words "final exams" can bring on a migraine. There is nothing quite so nerve-racking as spending hours pouring over books and notes, pulling all-nighters at the library, not to mention awaiting the final grade. A student strained with finals anxiety might give anything for a day at the spa, which may not be as far-fetched of an idea as many think.

Statesboro is home to two full service spas, and a therapeutic massage parlor is located in neighboring Metter. How about finishing off a semester of hard work by rewarding a frazzled friend and/or yourself?

Pampered Peach Day Spa & Salon, which can be found nestled in a little shopping center on Zetterower St., offers complete spa services and a relaxed and friendly atmosphere.

The Pampered Peach facility is decorated with the Fung Shui principle, an ancient art of placing decor that is said to promote a spiritually balanced ambiance. The front lobby holds a fountain, and placid music plays throughout the building. Their slogan is "Superior quality with a little southern hospitality."

Pampered Peach offers three different types of manicures, pedicures, and facials. Express manicures or pedicures are just $20. Hot oil manicures and pedicures are 10 bucks more than express. The spa manicure or pedicure costs $35 and includes a hand massage, herbal soak, and of course, polish. A regular facial is also $35, and an anti-acne facial is available for $45. The royal treatment is the spa facial. In addition to the regular facial, it includes a neck, shoulder, and arm massage for $65. If the spa facial seems like a tease, complete massages are also available. A 30-minute full body massage is $45, an hour is $60, and a 90-minute massage runs for $90.

Pampered Peach handles hair with a top-notch hairstylist and colorist specializing in highlights, glazing, and foils. As far as unwanted hair, they also do waxing. Half a leg costs $40 to wax, eyebrows are $10, lip and chin are $7, and the bikini line can also be waxed. The Peach sells hair care, nail, and bath and body products. Their hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. The Pampered Peach can be reached at 489-8704.

Serenity Day Spa & Salon is hiding away by the Statesboro Herald at 8 Proctor St. This cozy facility wants to "Offer you a better tomorrow by giving you a piece of serenity today." They even have a mission statement: "To provide education and professional service that nurtures the whole person, which consistently enhances inner and outer beauty. Each guest will enjoy a healthy and relaxing environment that promotes our loyalty and to fulfill the greatest expectation of a day spa/salon experience."

Serenity offers hair designs including shampoo, blow dry, and set from $8 to $25. Special event hair designs are priced at $20 and up. A wide variety of coloring options are available including clear glazing, all-over color, and cap highlighting by an intern for their lowest price of $30. Services range to dual coloring processes for $75 and up. Serenity also does wraps/permanent waves starting at $35. "Serenity on the run" includes express manicures for $10 and pedicures for $20. A regular manicure is $17 at Serenity, and a spa version of the service is just $22. Pedicures are $30, with a spa upgrade for ten dollars more. Waxing services start at $5 for a lip wax and range to $40 for a full leg wax.

Serenity definitely has a great deal on massage therapy. A half-hour massage is just a dollar per minute, an hour costs $40, and a 90-minute full body massage is just $55. A "feet first into serenity" foot massage is $25, and aromatherapy can be added to any massage for $5.

A single session of tanning at Serenity costs $5, five sessions are $20, 10 sessions are $25, and a month of unlimited tanning can be bought for $30. Perhaps the best bargain at Serenity are the half and full day packages. A half-day package includes lunch and your choice of two combinations for $100. Combination one is a spa facial, spa manicure, and a 30-minute massage. Combination two is a spa hair wrap, facial, and a one-hour massage. A full day, including lunch, costs $150 and entails pedicure, manicure, a one-hour massage, facial, spa hair wrap, and shampoo with style. Call 489-3883 for answers to any questions or to make an appointment.

If you want to skip all the frills and get down to a simple but strong therapeutic massage, Power of Touch in Metter is the perfect place. Power of Touch is located on South Broad St., and has over 30 years of experience in massage therapy. They specialize in treating chronic muscle and joint pain, Fibromyalgia, stress, and headaches. There, certified licensed therapists will treat you to a traditional Japanese massage, an energy massage, and for those who like it rough, a deep-tissue massage. Power of Touch is also renowned for accupressure therapy, magnet therapy, aromatherapy, and reflexology. Clients are seen by appointment only, and their phone number is 685-2418.

Pampered Peach, Serenity, and Power of Touch all offer gift certificates, and Serenity offers gift baskets. Pamper yourself or someone you know this exam season. Their nerves will certainly thank you for it.

Today's Birthday (March 30). New insights lead to a change in priorities and perhaps a change in location. In April, something you learn could make you rethink your objectives. Set a budget in May that you can live with. A fierce argument in June leads to confusion, then more of the truth is revealed. A fantasy fades in July, but your faith could become stronger. True love brings security in August. Take a flight of fancy in October. Travel in December is more fun with a loved one, and less tiring, too. Friends fill your imagination in February, but make sure they don't empty your cupboards. It's OK to ask them to contribute.

Saturday's Birthday (March 31). What you learn this year could shake your old beliefs, but don't worry. Something is lost, but something deeper is gained. Worries slow you down in April, but love keeps you going. Expenses are higher in May, but somehow you can manage. You have more information than you know what to do with in June. Let a secret longing lead you in July. Love doesn't ask for money in August, and money isn't based on what you like in September. Progress is natural in December, but it could be thwarted in January. Your friends may seem to understand you best in February, but home is where the heart is in March.

To get the advantage, check the day's rating: 10 is the easiest day, 0 the most challenging.

Aries (March 21-April 19) Today is an 8 — Schedule an outing with friends for tonight. It'll be more difficult to get away over the weekend. Your team is more likely to win tonight, too. You're in control, and they're paying attention. They think you're the greatest, so just tell 'em what to do. You'll all have a marvelous time.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Today is a 5 — If you can keep up with a demanding schedule, including last-minute changes, you'll make a great impression. That could lead to a bonus now, and even more later on. You may feel like you're the only one with any common sense, and that may be true. That's why they need you.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) Today is a 6 — Your luck would be better today if you didn't keep running into so many complications. Carefully explain to an older person what you have in mind. The chances are good that he or she will do something else. Some of your messages get through loud and clear, but others are garbled. Don't give up.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) Today is a 5 — The best deed you do today may not bring in more money. It sure will be appreciated, though. The person who's stressed talks a mile a minute but never asks for what's needed. You can figure it out, though. If you do, and provide it, you'll be cherished forever.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Today is an 8 — Just about everything you try turns out well. Whatever you don't think of, your partners will. That's why you want to make sure you have a good team on your side: The better they do, the better you look. Make sure to share the glory.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today is a 5 — Your boss must think you can do anything, because he or she keeps piling on the work. Are you the one who keeps saying you can, when you've already told others you could? You hate to turn it down, but you do have limits, don't you? Thank heavens it's Friday!

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Today is a 7 — You should be feeling fine, and certainly much better than a 7. But watch out. A misunderstanding with a co-worker could have long-term repercussions. Kidding around with your friends and somebody else leads to hurt feelings. It could happen in a second and take months to mend. Be nice!

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Today is a 5 — You're working hard to make somebody else rich. But what about you? Are you reaping the rewards of your hard labor? Well, some, but you might qualify for more. Offer to do the job faster, and you might multiply your profits. Once you've made the promise, you'll figure out how to do it.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Today is a 7 — The good news is that you feel like staying home and cuddling all day long. You might even have a person you'd like to have share your space with you. The bad news is, it's still Friday; Saturday isn't until tomorrow. Try not to lose your job over this.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today is a 5 — Something you almost threw away could be rather important. It's a coupon, or a catalog, or a flyer for a sale. It might even be a chance to win a million-dollar jackpot. Better scrutinize all those carefully. One of them could make you the lucky winner.

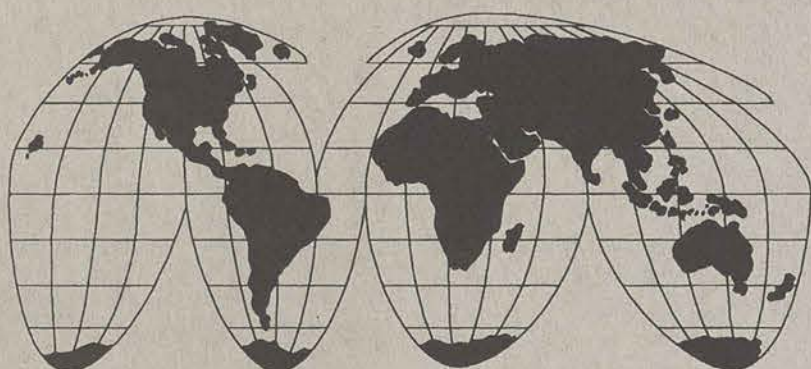

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Today is a 7 — If at first you don't succeed, try, try again. Your peculiar brand of wit will be greatly appreciated by a rather selective audience of one. Timing is crucial, and ambiance is important, too. The privacy of your own home may be best. Arrange to meet there as soon as possible.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) Today is a 5 — An argument could break out between you and a roommate. If it's about your money, it's far from a trivial matter. Fair's fair, and you don't have to carry more than your share of the load. By standing firm, you're empowering the other person.

Church group burns
CD's and Disney
books

Associated Press

BUTLER - As the group gathered around the fire and sang hymns, the event at a Butler County church seemed like a scene from Bible camp, only the participants weren't putting logs on the fire.

Foreigner albums, New Age audiotapes and "Harry Potter" books were the kindling of choice.

About 30 visitors and members of the Harvest Assembly of God Church in suburban Pittsburgh's Penn Township gathered Sunday for what organizers called a demonstration of their devotion to God.

The group stood around a fire in the church's parking lot and threw in material they found objectionable.

The Rev. George Bender said the idea for book, CD and video burning came from some church youths who are studying the Bible's Book of Revelation.

The event, inspired by Acts 19:19, was designed for Christians to burn their own property as a way to demonstrate a commitment to their beliefs, Bender said.

Acts 19:19 describes how former practitioners of magic burned their books in public.

"I would have liked to have seen more visitors," Bender said. "But I think it worked out well. It made us pay attention to what we're doing. It made us think about how to focus on the Lord as we should. I hope people understand our intentions, though I know some won't."

For Dana Schreiber, 44, of Richland, showing her commitment to God meant sacrificing a dozen albums by artists including Foreigner and Joe Walsh.

For Richard Stawewski, 25, of Mars, it meant burning CDs by artists such as AC/DC and Pearl Jam.

"They promote drugs and alcohol," he said.

Participants also tossed in some "Harry Potter" books and Walt Disney videos.

Bender described the "Harry Potter" books and Disney videos such as "Pinocchio" and "Hercules" as containing sorcery and witchcraft.

Lisa Rebmann of Lyndora tossed in a set of audiotapes titled "The Road to Good Fortune." She described them as New Age.

"We didn't have a lot to bring, but there were things that we thought we wouldn't be loyal to God by listening to them," Rebmann said.

No one protested the book, music and video burn.

"We're only dealing with our own stuff, and we're inviting people to see why," Bender said.

Mom stuffs daughter into dresser drawer

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - A pregnant mother who allegedly punished her 5-year-old daughter by stuffing her into a dresser drawer will stand trial on felony child abuse charges, authorities said Tuesday.

Isidra Gomez, 24, and her husband, Juan Medina, 41, arrested March 20, remained in custody Tuesday. Gomez was being held on $100,000 bail; Medina on $50,000 bond.

Police arrested the couple after a man who rented a room in their apartment found the girl in the bottom drawer of a built-in closet dresser and called authorities.

The district attorney filed one count of child endangerment and one count of felony child abuse against Gomez on Monday. Medina was charged with one count of child endangerment. Both are scheduled to appear at a preliminary hearing the first week in April.

"It's such a horrific story of child abuse we had to let the public know about it," said Lt. Daniel Mulrenin of the LAPD's child protective services section.

"The little girl was shivering so bad, he (the man) thought she was suffering a seizure."

Authorities estimate she had been in the drawer for about three hours when she was found.

The child had bruises all over her body, a fractured rib and was dehydrated, Mulrenin said. The girl had recently come from Mexico to live with her mother and stepfather, who are from the central Mexican state of Guanajuato.

Each year, the department investigates about 3,500 child abuse cases, Mulrenin said.

Authorities determined the girl had also endured other forms of punishment, she had been punched, beaten with a belt, hit over the head with a high heel shoe and had food withheld from her.

The couple have two other children, a year-old girl and a 3-year-old boy, and Gomez is three months pregnant, Mulrenin said.

Both children were found unharmed when their parents were arrested, police said, and were placed with child protective services.

Garciaparra to wait out injury

The Associated Press

Nomar Garciaparra said Wednesday that he'll rest his sore right wrist a few more days in a last hope that more time, not surgery, is what's needed to repair the injury.

A day after Garciaparra said the probability of surgery was "extremely high," he and general manager Dan Duquette had a 11/2 hour conference call with team doctor Bill Morgan, and decided to postpone the decision on surgery a little longer.

"It's that last gleam of hope, I guess," Garciaparra said.

If Garciaparra has surgery, he'll likely miss at least 21/2 months of the season. Duquette said it was worth postponing the decision on surgery a few more days, although it might further delay Garciaparra's return.

"If we wait and it responds to the wait, I would think he'd be back quicker than if he had surgery," he said. "We're down to the last few days of waiting. If he doesn't respond to the waiting, then we'll probably have to proceed on surgery."

Garciaparra, a three-time All Star, said he'd wait two or three days for improvement before making a decision on surgery, though Duquette said the wait might be five to seven days.

In the meantime, the team will be consulting with other doctors about additional kinds of treatment to make sure every option has been considered, Duquette said.

The wrist has not responded to treatment since Garciaparra stopped practicing at the start of spring training. The wrist was in a cast for two weeks, then Garciaparra began doing mobility exercises and light tossing and swinging, but still felt significant soreness.

Garciaparra said the current soreness might be a result of scar tissue breaking during rehabilitation, and could improve with rest.

"The more confidence you have (in a doctor), the more comfortable you feel, and I've always felt that with Dr. Morgan," he said. "He's a hand specialist. That's what he deals with every day."

Garciaparra, who hasn't had an at-bat this spring, split a tendon in the wrist after he was hit by a pitch from Baltimore's Al Reyes in September 1999.

The ball that struck Garciaparra's wrist caused swelling in the tendon and the canal encasing the tendon, creating a tightness that aggravated the tendon when it moved up and down. The throwing and swinging motions required in baseball have made it worse.

Garciaparra played with the injury last season and led the league in hitting for the second consecutive year, batting .372.

"As far as filling his spot, it's just not filling the hole at shortstop, you're filling basically our team's offensive leader," said catcher Scott Hatteberg. "A lot of the pressure is going to fall on some other guys. It's not an impossible task, but it's one that some other guys will have to step up."

"We haven't identified any shortstops that we think are better than the shortstops we have in camp," he said.

NFL mascots meet for convention

The Associated Press

A colorful gaggle of costumed characters engaged in a mock football practice, complete with some clumsy tackling, in the final day of a convention of NFL mascots Wednesday.

The Dallas Cowboys' Howdie, big-headed and even bigger-hatted, joined host Swoop of the Philadelphia Eagles and 11 other mascots who clowned before the cameras for a National Football League promotion film.

"They are all here in Philadelphia getting ready for the 2001 season," said Julie Dubin, the Eagles' coordinator of community relations. "This is the first time we've done anything like this."

The gathering had a serious side: The mascots arrived in Philadelphia on Monday night and spent much of Tuesday in seminars and conferences, learning how to better promote their teams in the community.

"The NFL league is built on being in the community and these mascots work 365 days out of the year in their communities," said Dave Rowan, Eagles' vice president of corporate sales. "It's important for the mascots to get together and talk about what they can do in the community."

Ryan Hughes, Eagles' mascot coordinator, said the group talked about having mascots make appearances at charity events, or visit schools to encourage students to get good grades and not drop out.

"We thought it was time for us to meet," Hughes said. "We spent a lot of time talking about how to be more visible and help out in the community as much as possible."

Curtis Dvorak, 26, who works as a Jaxson of the Jacksonville Jaguars, said he joined the Jaguars five years ago after graduating from college. He decided to try his luck at becoming a mascot after speaking with the Florida Marlins' mascot.

"It's a great job, a lot of work but a lot of fun," Dvorak said.

Keeping cool, though, can be a challenge.

"It doesn't matter where you are, it's hot inside" the costumes, he said. "Sometimes, it can get up to 130 degrees."

Eagles slam Charleston Southern

•Baseball boosts record to 17-10 overall

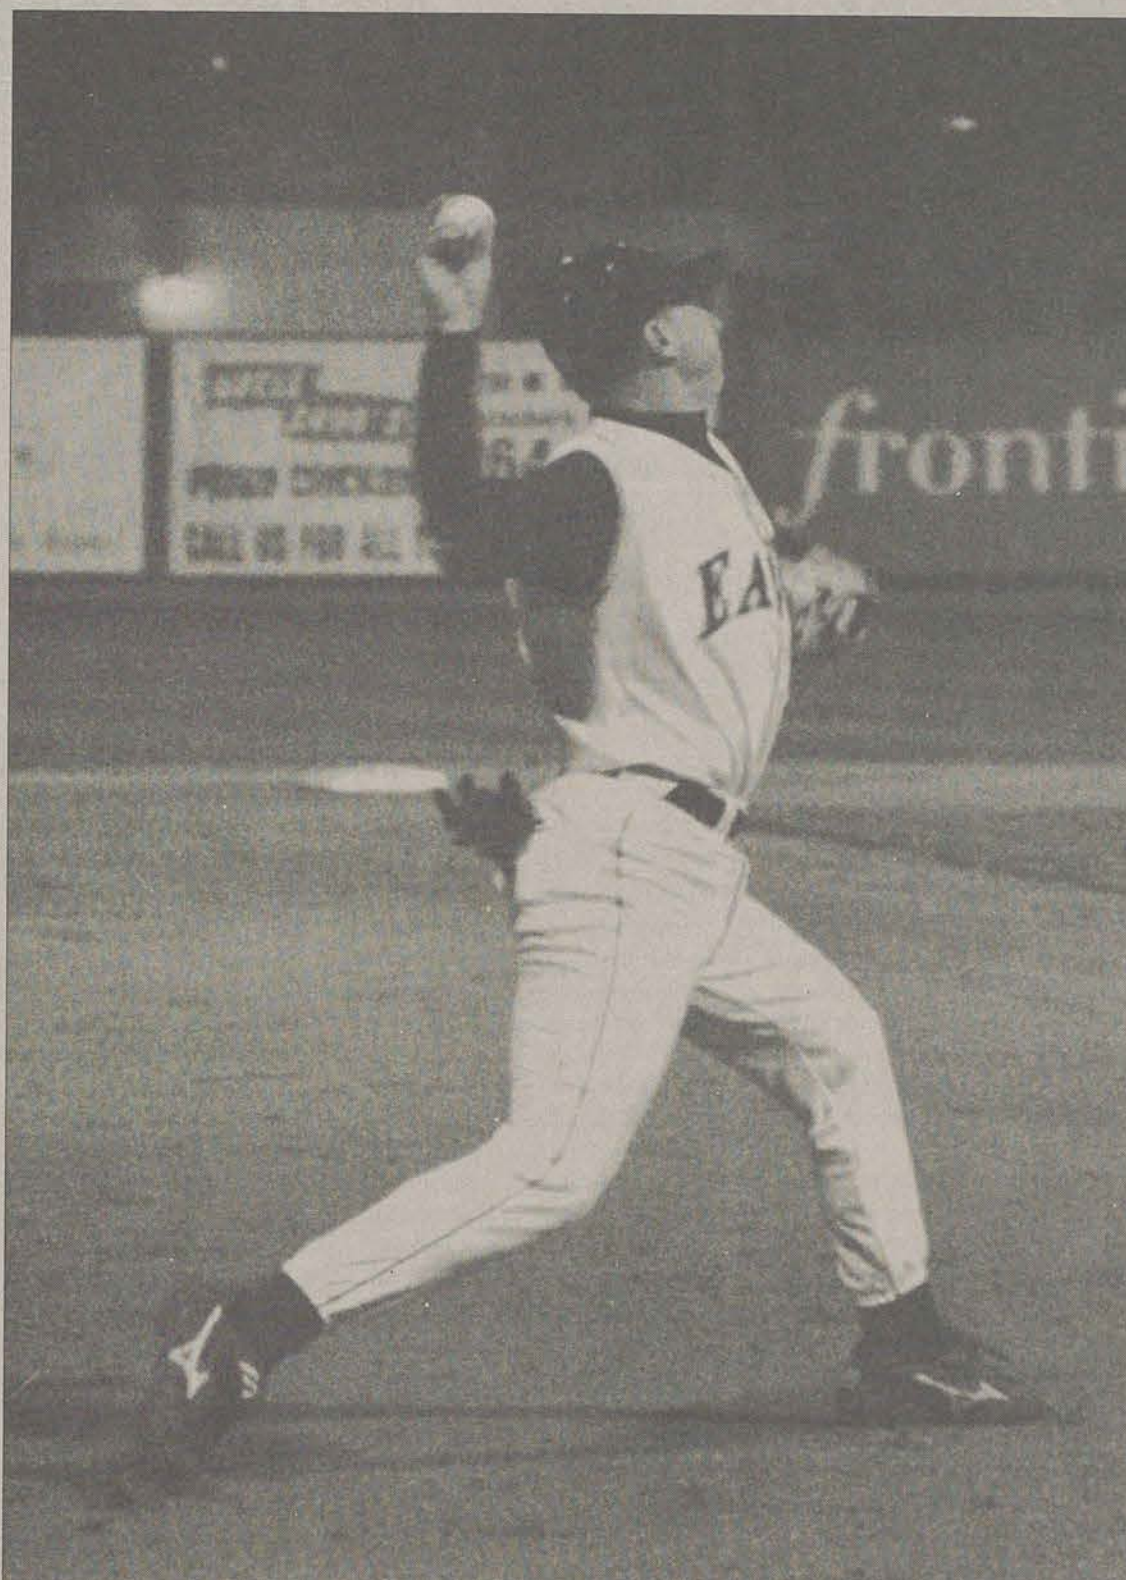

By Nick Fierstos
Sports Writer

On a chilly Wednesday night in Statesboro, the Buccaneers of Charleston Southern University were delivered a 9-1 spanking at the hands of the Eagles. A powerful offensive attack led by Eagle designated hitter Scott Henley smashed through the Charleston Southern pitching and showed that the Eagles have improved since their last outing against the Buccaneers. "We beat them 2-1 earlier in the season," said Henley, "and we were looking for something a little more impressive."

It was more than just a little bit more impressive. The Eagles began the scoring attack early in the second inning. After singles by Henley and right fielder Matt Herring, CSU catcher Chris Kellett made a sharp throw to second to pick off Henley, who was taking a long lead. GSU third baseman Carlos Love then knocked a ball into the air in right field. On what would have been a great catch, Buc right fielder Scott Thacker dropped the ball and allowed Love to advance to second, while Herring crossed the plate for the first run of the evening.

Later, in the bottom of the fourth inning, the Eagles started off with two quick base hits by infielder Jemel Spearman and, once again, Scott Henley. After a groundout, Eagle catcher A.J. Zickgraf lifted a high fly ball to center field, deep enough to score Spearman. Zickgraf's sacrifice fly was followed up by a base hit by Carlos Love. With two men on base, freshman Brandon Burnsed calmly strolled to the plate. Burnsed knocked a homer over the fence in center field off CSU starting pitcher Ryan Smith. With the Eagles now up 5-0 the inning came to a close with a groundout by Rocky Baker.

It would not be long, however, before the Eagles' offensive continued. After Eagle pitcher retired three out of four batters in the top of the fifth, the Eagles batters came out swinging with a vengeance. With one out in the bottom of the fifth, Eagle outfielder Chris Walker slapped a fly ball into right field for a hit. The Buccaneer right fielder mishandled the ball, however, and Walker ended up on second base. Jemel Spearman followed up with a base hit to center field. Then, with men on the corners, Scott Henley slammed a home run for his third hit of the evening. The Bucs then substituted in NIGHT EAGLES: The baseball team slammed Charleston Southern University Wednesday night 9-1 to bring their overall record to 17-10. The Eagles will compete in a SoCon series against Furman at Clements field this weekend.

Andrew Viars to pitch, but it seemed as though the Bucs had lost hope, and their defense began looking sloppy. GSU right fielder Matt Herring then singled to right to start off against Viars. Viars then threw a wild pitch to allow Herring to advance to second. Carlos Love smacked the ball toward third base. On what should have been an easy out, CSU third baseman David Martindale fumbled the ball and was unable to throw to first before Love had arrived safely. Love was credited with a hit, one of three for the first baseman on the evening. Herring scored on the play to raise the score to 9-0. The Eagles would not score again, but they hardly needed to.

Scott Tolbert recorded three strikeouts in the sixth inning. The freshman pitcher recorded four strikeouts on the night in only two innings pitched. The winning pitcher for the Eagles, however, was starter Daniel Wheeler, who pitched two innings, allowed one hit, and struck out two. The only point for the Buccaneers on the night came on an RBI base hit by left fielder Brandon Massey in the seventh inning.

The Eagle baseball team has a big weekend coming up, with a three-game series against Southern Conference rivals Furman beginning at 1:30 on Saturday. "It's a big weekend coming up for us," noted Brandon Burnsed, "Furman has beat some pretty good teams this year."

With Wednesday's win against Charleston Southern, the Eagles have improved to 17-10 on the season.

Rape prevention: A growing concern at GSU

By Teresa D. Southern
Staff Writer

With the recent events that have been happening on the GSU campus and Statesboro, rape prevention has been a hot topic. Many students don't know about the services that the Counseling Center on campus provides for victims of sexual assault.

Tracie Edwardson, Assistant Director of Training at the Counseling Center, is the chair of the Sexual Assault Response Team. The Sexual Assault Response Team focuses on two main areas. They work to provide education and prevention at GSU. The other area they focus on is making sure all areas on campus respond to the given situation to help the victim, such as the Counseling Center, Health Center, Public Safety and Judicial Affairs.

There are two student groups that work with this organization. Advocates for Sexual Assault Programming (ASAP) is the women's group, who is applying to be a student organization. The men's group is SAFE who's approach is to be a part of the solution. The group advocates education and prevention about sexual assault for men.

Students can get involved by joining either of these groups.

"Students need to know about the resources available on campus to help them if they are ever in this situation," Edwardson said. "Many assaults are not reported, not because we don't want students to know about them because there are certain places we can't legally report incidents. For example if a student was assaulted in an off-campus apartment complex we can assist the victim but we can not report it because into Sexual Assault pamphlet.

If you believe you may have been sexually assaulted....

1. Call University Police at 681-5234 or call 911.

2. You may call the Counseling Center 24 hours a day at 6815541.

"STUDENTS NEED TO KNOW ABOUT THE

TRACIE EDWARDSON, ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF TRAINING AT THE COUNSELING CENTER

it's not on Georgia Southern University's campus," Edwardson said.

"We are also obligated to keep everything confidential if the victim tells us to do so. Less than 10% of sexual assaults are even reported for various reasons. Questioning makes many victims not want to report the accident," she added.

"They also don't want to assign blame to anyone. The number one reason is the situation that a rape happens in is not acceptable. Some situations such as an anonymous attacker in the bushes is acceptable but most of the time it's someone the victim knows and alcohol is involved," Edwardson said.

Here are some guidelines from the Counseling Center's Respond-

3. Call a close friend.

4. Seek medical attention immediately. Call the GSU Health Center at 681-5641 from 8-5 weekdays or call the Bulloch Memorial Hospital Emergency Room at 486-1111.

5. Do NOT bathe, shower, douche, or change clothes until you have talked with the police.

6. You have the right to file a complaint with the Office of Judicial Affairs at 681-5409.

7. You have the right to seek civil action by contacting an attorney.

If someone you know is sexually violated:

Do be supportive; don't blame the victim, and don't discuss the incident without permission from the victim; don't ask how you could "let this happen."

The Student Conduct Policy at Georgia Southern University states, "Sexual Assault is defined as sexual penetration, no matter how slight, of the genital, anal, and/or oral opening of the victim by any part of the perpetrator's body or by use of an object without the victim's consent or against the will where the victim is forced, incapable of giving consent or prevented from resisting due to the influence of drugs or alcohol or the victim has a mental or physical handicap".

Sexual Misconduct is defined as the intentional touching of the victim's intimate parts without the victim's consent. This touching is either directly on the body part or on the clothing covering it, or the victim is forced to touch the intimate areas of the perpetrator.

Georgia Southern University will adjudicate sexual assault and sexual misconduct cases by employing one of the following options:

1. With the consent of the victim, an informal meeting of the accused with the Judicial Officer.

2. With the consent of both the victim and the accused student, a mediator appointed by the Judicial Officer may mediate the incident.

3. A formal hearing before the University Judicial Board or a Hearing Officer appointed by the Vice President for Student Affairs.

New GSU SOAR team awarded at regional contest

By Andrew Foard
Guest Writer

Where did you spend your spring break? Panama City? Cancun? Murray, Kentucky? If you answered "yes" to that last place then you are probably one of the 25 members of GSU's new SOAR Team who spent the last weekend of spring break at SROW (Southern Regional Orientation Workshop).

SROW, this year hosted at Murray State University, is an annual workshop held by NODA (National Orientation Directors Association) for Region Six, which consists of Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Louisiana. The workshop has many events that are both fun and educational. There are performances of songs and skits put together by each school to represent their orientation program, educational workshops presented by different schools dealing with problems that orientation teams might face, and of course there is the social on Saturday night where all of the 1200 students at the conference sit back, relax, and dance the night away.

GSU has a long and storied tradition at SROW as well. GSU has always been well represented and there has only been one year since 1988 that the school did not leave with an award. This year was no different; of over 100 schools present, GSU left with more awards than anyone else.

"The Special Georgia Southern Edition of TRL" skit secured a 3rd place award behind Pedro Martorell's stunning performance as Carson Daly. The freshman T-shirt, given to all of the incoming students, took home a 3rd place award in the T-shirt competition, and last but not least, the SOAR Team's banner walked away with a 2nd place nod, beating out schools like Savannah College of Art and Design.

Once again, SROW was a major success. "It was a fun experience and I'll never forget it," first-year SOAR leader Shana Bridges said. "It also brought me closer to my fellow SOAR leaders. I am really proud of our team."

The SOAR Team left accomplished and decorated, and the other schools left knowing that GSU is the crème de la crème of orientation programs. For the freshman of 2001, you're lucky, you have a great team awaiting you.

Miramax to offer world film series

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Miramax plans to launch a film series that will feature at least 10 films a year from around the world in top U.S. markets.

The company's World Film Series will run in about 20 markets at cinemas owned by Landmark Theaters. Disney-owned Miramax, founded by brothers Bob and Harvey Weinstein, plans to start the series later this year.

Films selected might include foreign-language films along with English-language productions.

"Bob and I have loved the excitement of discovering new and interesting films since we were kids," Harvey Weinstein said. Miramax's program follows the success of the Shooting Gallery film series at Loews Cineplex theaters. Launched last year, Shooting Gallery's series gives six movies a two-week theater run in 14 U.S. markets each spring and fall.

Shooting Gallery's first film series a year ago included "Croupier," which became an independent hit that played in 150 markets and took in $6.2 million.

Like Shooting Gallery, Miramax plans to line up corporate sponsors to help underwrite the film series.

Essence Awards held to honor students with outstanding leadership and academics

By Jessica Garcia
Staff Writer

The Black Student Alliance, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and the Multicultural and International Student Center honored students of outstanding leadership and academics at the 7th Annual Essence Awards Wednesday night.

Students maintaining cumulative GPAs of 3.0 and higher for the 2000-2001 term received award certificates and recognition, while those students earning a 3.5 GPA and above received a certificate and a crystal award.

After presenting awards, students were given a delicious banquet held in the Union Ballroom that included fried chicken or turkey, green beans or macaroni and cheese, and fruit or cake for dessert.

In correspondence with this year's theme was "Celebrating Excellence: Honoring Our Ancestors, and Recognizing Tomorrow's Leaders." The evening's keynote speaker, Stephanie Ray, gave an enthusiastic wake up call to GSU Students to keep climbing "life's crystal stairs," as stated in the famous Langston Hughes poem. Ray's speech was incredibly dynamic, motivating, and inspiring. Ray worked at Georgia Tech before coming here to GSU.

Entertainment was provided by "Voices in Ministry," as well as dancers known as "Queen." Both the singers and dancers provided the evening with energy in their explosive performances.

Other awards presented included Organizational Awards, Outstanding Community Involvement Awards, Distinguished Faculty and Staff Awards, African American Caucus Awards, Multicultural and International Students Center Awards, and Dalmyra Price Student Leadership Awards.

THE CREATOR OF A LEGACY: Erk Russell spoke Tuesday about his leadership in starting GSU football

By Jason Kemp
Assistant News Editor

A crowd of GSU students and faculty waited anxiously Tuesday night in the new College of Education lecture hall. They were waiting to hear a speech on leadership and be inspired by a man whose face is recognizable to anyone who has ever attended GSU or lived in Statesboro. This man is Erk Russell, and at 7 p.m. he obliged his crowd as he spoke on the foundations of leadership.

Russell spoke of his 40 years of coaching as if they had just happened last week. He told the crowd about what he had learned in his early days, when he coached at Grady High School in Atlanta.

"I learned from those kids that if I worked hard, they would work hard," Russell said. "If I wanted success, then they would want to be successful."

Russell felt that while coaching was a "dangerous and hazardous profession," he still learned a lot from his early days at Grady, a job that paid only $188.50 a month.

"I felt like I had a leg up on college coaches who didn't have that experience," Russell said, referring to his tenure at Grady.

After Russell discussed his early years, he mentioned a young man who had played for him and taught him the concept of "intelligent fanaticism." This anecdote quickly became the theme of his speech.

"What intelligent fanaticism is all about is enthusiasm tempered with good judgement," Russell said. Russell next spoke of his 17 years at the University of Georgia and how he began the program at GSU. He recalled many vivid and entertaining details, including the fact that an ad was placed in The George-Anne to recruit players for the first season of GSU football.

"We put our first announcement in The George-Anne and before we knew it we had 126 enthusiastic non-athletes," Russell said.

Russell accredits the main reason for his success at GSU and life to timing.

"The difference between lettuce and garbage is timing," Russell said.

He also urged everyone in the audience to remain encouraged and to develop a sense of humor, which would help them become a "people person."

After the completion of his speech, Russell answered several questions from the audience. Questions ranged back and forth from football to life, and almost every response received an elegant anecdote from the retired coach.

Russell was the fourth speaker in this semester's continuing leadership speaker series, sponsored by the first year experience and Omicron Delta Kappa, a leadership and honors society.

Dr. Fred Richter, the director of the first year experience was elated about the response the coach's speech received.

"I think it went real well. We expected a big crowd and of course we got one," Richter said. "It is nice to see all of these young folks who didn't know him as the coach of Georgia Southern still know of him. I couldn't have been more pleased."

Gino Tuter, a senior nose tackle on the GSU football team and a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, introduced Russell.

Overall, the crowd that gathered last night witnessed an electric performance by one GSU's living legends. Everyone from freshman to current head football coach Paul Johnson were completely drawn to the man who started GSU football and put a small rural community on the map.

Center for Irish Studies welcomes visitors to Irish Music and Arts Festival

By Jessica Garcia
Staff Writer

From the same organization that brought you "Cherish the Ladies" and poetry readings from Irish men and women, came GSU's Second Annual Irish Music and Art Festival, sponsored by the Center for Irish Studies. The event took place this Wednesday in the Henderson Library.

Beginning at 10 a.m. and lasting until 2 p.m., all people affiliated with GSU and the Statesboro community were welcomed into the basement of the Henderson Library for an assortment of Irish foods, music, and a film.

"The purpose of the festival is to promote an understanding of traditional and modern Irish culture, as well as to demonstrate that it's not all about St. Patrick's Day," Susan Moody, an avid student of Irish Studies, said.

The Irish food served included the popular Irish dish of salmon, as well as soda bread, hot tea, and a decorative green cake.

The music, donated by the Center for Irish Studies, included modern and traditional Irish artists like Harry O'Donoghue, who has played at Archibald's Irish Pub Nights in Statesboro.

The arts display committee, co-chaired by Susan Moody, donated many interesting Irish paintings and books, which are currently displayed on the second floor of the library.

Separated into different eras, display cases included works from Prehistoric Ireland such as a "Petrie Crown" tomb ornament dating from the first century A.D., as well as Early Christian Ireland with crucifixes and chalices dating from the late seventh and early eighth centuries.

Other cases include work from the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries featuring artists such as James Barry, Susannah Drury, and Matthew James Lawless, as well as twentieth century artists and their work.

Examples include George Russell's "Potato Gatherers," and William Orpen's "The Holy Well" from 1916, a celebration of miraculous well sites in Ireland once used by saints.

Another exceptional work is Rita Duffy's "Segregation" from 1989. Her piece is a commentary on the division between Protestants and Catholics in Northern Ireland.

For upcoming events celebrating Irish heritage and culture, stop by the Center for Irish Studies located on the third floor of Newton.
