Legislature problems

Monday morning, January 14, the Georgia General Assembly convened for a forty-day session to write its answer to what has come to be known as the shifting "hold-the-line policy" on spending money as announced by Governor Marvin Griffin and his administration.

It's going to be hard to hold the line in the face of the crying demand for a pay raise for our school teachers, the constant pressures of citizens for new paving and the great new program for highways, the requests to enlarge the state's port building. And Governor Griffin has expressed himself as wanting to do something to reduce the slaughter on the highways of our state—and he knows that money will be needed.

And there are other matters our representatives will be confronted with during these forty days. There's the problem of segregation starting them in the face. What to do about Jekyll Island?

Our local representatives will be concerned about securing legislation to amend the Charter of the City of Statesboro to allow our citizens in the surrounding areas of the city to petition for the extension of the city limits and then the election to vote on the question. They will introduce a bill to provide for an increase in the salary of the Deputy Tax Commissioner of Bulloch County and provide the means of payment. They will introduce a bill to change the compensation of the Solicitor General of the Ogeechee Judicial Circuit.

The spending of more money means that the money must come from somewhere. And the citizens of Georgia are not in the mood for paying more taxes.

Our representatives would win the approval of the folk at home if they would devote some time to devising means of protecting the taxpayers' funds and spending it wisely and cautiously.

We recognize the need of the many services provided by our state government, while at the same time know that there are many places where money is spent unwisely and without caution.

Let our representatives devote their interest to the benefit of the people they represent.

Happy anniversary!

On Monday evening, January 23, one year ago, Thad Morris, president of the Bulloch County Development Corporation presented the keys to one of the South's most beautiful industrial buildings over to W. F. Rockwell Jr., president of the Rockwell Corporation, for the plant which is to become the home of the Rockwell Statesboro Corporation.

Next week marks the first anniversary of our community's biggest industry.

Monday of this week Bill Thornton, a member of the staff of our Rockwell plant, reviewed the accomplishments of the Rockwell Statesboro Corporation since the establishment here, for the Statesboro Rotary Club.

There was a period of two months in which the building was being made ready to house the new industry. Then in April a taximeter assembly line was set up and the training of assembly operators was begun, and in May, supporting machines for that assembly line were moved into the plant and installed.

In June, the industrial meter assembly was moved, set up, and operators trained. Also in June the liquid petroleum gas meter assembly operation was moved and installed and training of personnel began.

In July, the gasoline and oil meter assembly was moved, inventory received and training established.

In August and the first of September, all supporting machinery was received and set in working condition, operators were hired and training begun.

And recently the process of installing a parking meter assembly was begun and an addition of 5,000 square feet is now being constructed.

In Mr. Thornton's review to the Rotary Club he praised highly the personnel which they have gathered around them in the plant here. With a policy of promoting from within the plant, your friends and our friends are being given positions of more and more responsibility.

And so on the eve of Rockwell Statesboro's first anniversary there exists a wonderful feeling of community responsibility between the company and the people who are working for them.

We commend the officials of the company and their staff for the way that they have adopted as their own and it's a compliment to them that we have accepted them as our own.

Happy anniversary.

This week we begin a series of "reports" by our senator, Herman Talmadge.

Before Christmas we received word from Mr. Talmadge that he planned such a weekly report on his activities in Washington, asking us if we would be interested in carrying it in our newspaper. We replied that we would like to use it. For he is not our senator, just as he is the senator of every citizen of Georgia? And is it not the responsibility of a newspaper to keep them in touch with what their representatives are doing?

And so this week we use the first of Senator Talmadge's reports. We believe it will be of interest to our readers, to his friends and supporters as well as those who are known as "anti-Talmadge."

So you do-it-yourself

"Reading for Profit" is the theme being stressed this month at the Statesboro Regional Library.

There's a great wave of do-it-yourself sweeping the nation. We are not the type since we like to get someone to "do-it-for-us," however we go along with that vast number who do like to do-it-themselves, and we'll help promote their interest.

So if you like to know how-to-do-it-yourself, go to the local library. You should find there something on "how-to" do what you "got-to-do" if you "hope to do" it right.

BIRTHDAY OF A GREAT AMERICAN

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

OUR CANE SYRUP shelf in our pantry is now in full supply. Back in late 1956 we went out to Nucleo John Rushing's near Brooklet, and he gave us a couple of bottles. Sunday afternoon we visited Paul and Bunny Simmons up at Metter and they gave us another couple of bottles. He knows we are an old syrup shopper so he is careful to never let our syrup supply get very low. He always likes to prove what fine syrup he makes out to Uncle John Rushing's strong light and slowly tips the bottle and there it is—in all its rich, beautiful color which conjures up visions of great stacks of butter cakes and waffles and big round discs of crisp corn bread. So now we're in full supply of syrup for a while.

IF YOU HAVE kinkof to visit in Metter if you are just out driving, you'll keep your blood pressure normal by going by way of Upper Lotts Creek Church. The road is paved all the way and it's exactly the same as the drive on West Main Street and out by Bethlehem Church and West Side School and turn left at the junction of Upper Lotts Creek Church. The drive is lovely. It's quiet. Just a little local traffic, just enough to give you the feeling that you are still in 1957. There's no tourist traffic. People using that road are in a hurry to get something serious in a hurry. It's a nice trip.

STATESBORO young people did themselves proud on the March of Dimes Television on Sunday morning. The Eight Sharps, a double quartet made up of Statesboro High School boys, several high school soloists and the high school chorus appeared to represent Bulloch County's segment of the appeal for funds for the annual March of Dimes. Mrs. Nona Quinn Bunce was in charge of the program. Mr. O. Granger, director of Bulloch's March of Dimes drive, was master of ceremonies. If you did not make your contribution during the Telephone, then do so now.

MRS. L. M. DURDEN, president of the Statesboro Woman's Club was wearing a gorgeous Donatelli camellia at the meeting of the Recreation Board last Friday. It was presented to her by the Junior Women's Club at their meeting the day before when Mrs. W. K. Taylor, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs spoke.

MR. W. C. CROMLEY, official weather observer for the Weather Bureau, came in to see us last Friday. He brought us several copies of "Weatherwise," a weather magazine which gives us something about which to talk.

FARMERS interested in their fight for 90 per cent parity for major agricultural products should have heard Jerry Dickerson, son of Mrs. Frank Dickerson, and Christine Clayton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Clayton, both of Port Jervis School, debate the subject, "Resolved: That the Federal Government should sustain the price of major agricultural products at not less than 90 per cent parity." They won the debate representing the affirmative side, against the negative team from Darien. It was enlightening and they knew their subject.

HERMAN TALMADGE Reports From WASHINGTON

WHILE THERE NEVER will be a substitute for the personal visit and face-to-face talk, it is my belief that this column can be the next best thing during the six to eight months each year when I will be here in Washington, representing the people of Georgia.

Through this medium I shall be my purpose to report to Georgians on events and developments as I see them from the United States Senate and to keep them abreast of my activities and thinking. I wish to keep me advised of their wishes and thinking through their letters, telegrams and phone calls.

MY FIRST WEEK in the Senate has been one of frantic activity to get my office established and prepared to serve the people of Georgia and to get my family settled and my boys enrolled in school. This was complicated by a siege of virus which put Bobby, Lowell Conn and me in bed.

Fortunately, my case was a light one and, after medical treatment I was able to attend the Caucus of Southern Senators on January 2 and appear at the opening session of Congress to take my oath of office on January 3. MY STAFF AND I are now

Meditation for This Week

BY THE REV. TED PAGE

OUR BEST FOR THE MASTER

John 12:1-8 Where in the Bible can we find a more beautiful story than the one of Mary anointing the feet of Jesus? Next to his own home in Nazareth, Jesus perhaps loved the home of Mary and Martha in Bethany best of all. Whenever he could get away from the crowd he always availed himself of the privilege of spending the night in their home. The story tells us that Jesus loved every member of the family.

On Saturday before his crucifixion Jesus visited in the home of these much loved friends. Mary seemed to know that his enemies were plotting to put him to death, and she decided to show her love for Jesus before he should die. For months Mary may have been saving money from her meager income, planning all the time to do something to show her appreciation of the Master. Seeking out a shop where perfume was sold, she bought a pound of spices.

Much consideration will be given to an increase in teacher pay. Conscientious legislators will find little money available if the Minimum Program for Education is to be financed as it was originally planned. A compromise here will be in all probability be one hundred dollar increase across the board. Many legislators say they are opposed to this type increase, but that it is so necessary that they should be made for those teachers who do superior work as opposed to those who simply hold a teaching certificate and actually do below average work.

AFTER EDUCATION, the department of roads comes in for the second largest appropriation from state funds. Governor Marvin Griffin will be successful in his bid for no new appropriations bill this year. It seems good judgement on his part to keep finances much as they are and not get into a wrangle over how much money to what department. All departments seem to be receiving a fair share under the present plan with the Highway Department having all present projects being in advance of current planning.

Much speculation will revolve around the political plans of some of the department heads two years hence. The new legislation passed recently will make it mandatory for them to resign a full year in advance of any political race centered around their personal plans. Thus the heads of departments

There are many lessons we might get from this beautiful story. I mention just two. The first is that Mary did not wait too late to show her love for Jesus. What a tragedy it is when we give so much of our life to things of the world and give none of it to Jesus! So many people seem to think they can afford to wait and give their lives and best to Christ when they grow older. They seem to want to give their best to the world and keep for Christ the worst. As we think of Calvary and the cross, is it not a shame to give Christ our worst? Christ left the glories of heaven and gave the best of human life, the best of his heart, the best of his mind, and the best of his body. He gave them all for us. And we are not going to give Him our best?

The second lesson we can get from Mary's gift is that nothing is too good for Jesus. Mary was not satisfied with anything but the best, not even the second best. What is called upon in these words to:

Thru the Ps of Virginia russell

Had you been in the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning and listened to the sermon, "Confessing Our Responsibility," you might have had to squirm as I did.

What the preacher had to say wasn't something startling new as it seems to me. In fact I've been doing a lot of soul searching and worrying and seeking for a remedy.

THE TEXT for the sermon was found in the verses, one through eight, and verses fifteen through twenty-four of chapter thirty-two of Exodus. You remember the story of Aaron's yielding to the pressure of the Israelites' demand for an idol god, even though he disapproved, while Moses was on the mountain top getting instructions from God.

This was brought down to the twentieth century to you and me. The minister, Mr. Miles Wood, then took up our responsibility to the home, to the children, to the school community and to the church.

HE DISCUSSED the necessity for obedience (and that to begin early) from the children to the parents. Else how will one ever be able to obey social, moral and spiritual laws?

It Seems to Me...

max lockwood

The gavel has sounded and the 1957 session of the Legislature is now in session. Some stiff decisions face our state senators and representatives as they consider the many pieces of legislation being presented for consideration by most of the departments of the government.

MORE AND MORE will be asked of Federal aid to education. The argument is that about evenly split with those in favor working hard to help bring it about while those who are opposed work equally hard to bring about its defeat.

The Federal courts have already ruled that the Federal Government has the right to supervise those projects into which Federal funds are poured through this Federal aid to education means Federal control. There seems to be little room for worry on this score as of today, for there is little doubt as to the intent of the Supreme Court, not only as concerning education but any other "right" previously held by the state governments.

With the onward march of farm machinery and its resulting increased output of one man, there has been demand for terraces which will fit mechanized farming. The Soil Conservation Service has been experimenting for several years with what is now called parallel terraces, that is terraces which are the same distance apart and require no short rows, of hogs and cattle, or cotton or any other crop if the timber owners desired and that it could mean a lot more money to the growers for their timber.

Timber should be marketed and handled like other crops in the county. It is under the cloud, according to the information he gathered at the short course held here Tuesday afternoon of last week.

All if these short courses lined up for local farmers are designed to bring the latest research information and experience from farmers carrying on demonstrations to those interested in the particular crop enterprise. One was held on forestry last week, one this week on tobacco, and one next Tuesday on corn, cotton, soybeans, grain sorghums, and fertilizers, and then another one on peanuts February 11. Extension specialists and research workers have been procured to conduct these clinics.

George H. Miller, Ogeechee president, designated the service committees for his chapter for the rest of the year and stated that J. A. Hart would be well worth your time.

Your responsibility did not end when you cast your ballot. This was only the beginning of the effort which you as a citizen are morally bound to make if you would deserve the title of "Good Citizenship."

Willie Wirehand Says

Nothing can dampen the housewife's spirits more than cold and dreary winter days than washday. That is, unless you have an automatic laundry.

Those days of trying to outguess the weatherman are gone forever. With an automatic laundry there's no cold and frost bitten fingers, no worries about the wash getting wet in a sudden rain, and best of all, no logging of heavy wet clothes out to the line and back again.

Willie Wirehand's rural electricity can do a better job of washing for you in just a few minutes with an automatic laundry.

Today with the electricity supplied in farm areas by the 41 Georgia rural electric cooperatives, any housewife can keep the family in clean fresh clothes in snow or rain, in any kind of weather with a modern washer and dryer and ironer.

The modern Georgia farmwife of 1957 can enjoy any of the home conveniences of urban dwellers because of the job done during the past 20 years by the rural electric co-ops in bringing to the farm areas all the wonders of low-cost abundant electricity.

YOU HAVEN'T yielded to social pressure of allowing son and daughter to do this and that—drive the car before he's sixteen because "everybody else is doing it," or if you stick by your guns on many issues, even though you're terrifically unpopular with your children—well, it's time to do it. You've got to do it. You've got to do it. You've got to do it. You've got to do it. You've got to do it.

IT'S STRANGE that children love to do little things if their folks are around doing other things. The fault of our system seems to lie in the fact that we're all away from home too much.

Many times we're trying to do good but let's watch lest we dilute our goodness entirely.

OUR SOIL IS OUR STRENGTH

By E. T. "RED" MULLIS Soil Conservation Service

Terraces are becoming increasingly important in the minds of cooperators of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District who want to conserve their soil and water and increase their yields and income. Properly run and constructed terraces will do all of these things.

With the onward march of farm machinery and its resulting increased output of one man, there has been demand for terraces which will fit mechanized farming. The Soil Conservation Service has been experimenting for several years with what is now called parallel terraces, that is terraces which are the same distance apart and require no short rows, of hogs and cattle, or cotton or any other crop if the timber owners desired and that it could mean a lot more money to the growers for their timber.

The Bulloch Four provided evening of entertainment Tuesday at their regular meeting.

Otis Hollingsworth, Carl Bishop, Bernard Banks, Charles Deal and Lewis Husey gave the group about thirty minutes of their favorite songs that went over well everywhere.

Timber owners missed a lot of good information if they did not attend the forestry short course. Horace Bird, Warnock president, asked Jos Deal and Joe Hodges to meet with him and outline the enterprises to be covered for the rest of the year and stated that the February committee would receive notices right away and the listing would be given the others at their February meeting.

He pointed out that the Scriber rule would give more than four times as much lumber in an eight-inch log than the Doyle rule, about twice as much in a ten-inch log, a third more in a twelve-inch log and would be equal to the Doyle rule in thirteen-inch and larger logs, from sixteen feet or longer.

Willie Wirehand's rural electricity can do a better job of washing for you in just a few minutes with an automatic laundry.

Today with the electricity supplied in farm areas by the 41 Georgia rural electric cooperatives, any housewife can keep the family in clean fresh clothes in snow or rain, in any kind of weather with a modern washer and dryer and ironer.

The modern Georgia farmwife of 1957 can enjoy any of the home conveniences of urban dwellers because of the job done during the past 20 years by the rural electric co-ops in bringing to the farm areas all the wonders of low-cost abundant electricity.

YOU HAVEN'T yielded to social pressure of allowing son and daughter to do this and that—drive the car before he's sixteen because "everybody else is doing it," or if you stick by your guns on many issues, even though you're terrifically unpopular with your children—well, it's time to do it. You've got to do it. You've got to do it. You've got to do it.

IT'S STRANGE that children love to do little things if their folks are around doing other things. The fault of our system seems to lie in the fact that we're all away from home too much.

Many times we're trying to do good but let's watch lest we dilute our goodness entirely.

Junior Woman's Club meeting here attracts large attendance

The meeting of the Junior Woman's Club of Statesboro Thursday was attended by delegations from the Women's Clubs of, Milen, Vidalia, Guyton, Statesboro, Sylvan, and the Savannah Federation of Women's Clubs, the Huntingdon Junior Woman's Club and the Savannah Junior Women's Club.

The guests were greeted by Mrs. H. E. Bray, president of the Statesboro Junior Women's Club, and Mrs. H. P. Jones Jr., a former president.

There was a social hour before the meeting at the Statesboro Recreation Center. Pouring coffee were Mrs. E. L. Barnes, first vice president of the Georgia Federation, and Mrs. L. M. Durden, president of the Statesboro Women's Club.

After the social hour the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Herman Bray.

Several vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. Bucky Atkins, Mrs. Belton Brantwell and Mrs. Frank Farr, with Mrs. Waldo Floyd accompanying them at the piano.

After Mrs. Taylor's address a short business meeting was held at which time members of the club voted to make a free will offering for the Hungarian Relief Fund.

The community affairs department with Mrs. Frank Farr, chairman, was in charge of the social hour. Mrs. Earl W. Hill, district president, was also present.

Mrs. Mamie K. Taylor, state president, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, was the honor guest and principal speaker. In her address Mrs. Taylor stressed that the women of the country, and especially the members of the federation, have a wonderful opportunity and a great responsibility, that women working together have a job to do in our communities, working towards the administration of the "Foundation for Peace."

She stated that women as citizens of the greatest state in the union, the Georgia Federation has done work that has been and is continuing to be a pattern for other states. Among one of the things the Georgia women have done is to start vocational training in the United States. The federation established thirteen vocational schools in the state, and the Georgia Federation paid the teachers, all of these schools have been taken over by the Southeast Regional Conference of the General Federation of Women's Clubs which is owned and operated by the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs. She also stated that the state convention will have someone in attendance at the State Legislature when it is in session, and regular reports will be sent to member clubs.

Mrs. Taylor called attention to the "Freedom Institute" which will be held at the University of Georgia in Athens, March 5-6. This has never been done before in the United States, women calling the citizens of the state to come and look at the freedom of Beta Sigma Phi meets at the Alpha Omega chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met at Hodges Party House on Monday evening, January 14. Hostesses were Mrs. Walter Stone and Mrs. Jim Harlow.

During the social hour a delicious refreshment course was served.

Mrs. J. S. Anderson, vice president, presided in the absence of Mrs. K. R. Herring. Various committee reports were heard. High on the list of business was the report of the ways and means committee from Mrs. Melvin Chapman, chairman.

Mrs. Jim Donaldson, Mrs. James P. Collins and Mrs. Julian L. Brannen presented a very interesting program on: arrangements of bare branches and forcing blooms. To illustrate this activity, they brought arrangements of pear, flowering peach, crab apple, dogwood, pussy willow and grape vine.

The table had an arrangement of camellias as a centerpiece, brought by Mrs. J. L. Brannen. There were twenty-two members present. Mrs. Sam Tillman of Durham, N. C., was a visitor to the club.

Members present were: Mrs. Carroll Herrington, Mrs. Frank Farr, Mrs. Tom Martin, Mrs. Davis Becham, Mrs. W. B. Wyatt, Mrs. Foy Olliff, Mrs. Eddie Rushing, Mrs. Ralph Bacon, Mrs. Sam Haun, Mrs. Frank Aldred, Mrs. Bob Priestley, Mrs. James Sikes, and Mrs. Z. L. Strange Jr., guest speaker.

BETHROTHED COUPLE FETED AT INTIMATE DINNER PARTY

On Friday evening January 11, Dr. and Mrs. Waldo Floyd were hosts at a dinner party honoring Miss Margaret Ann Dekle and Joe Pate Johnson, whose engagement is announced this week.

The table presented bridal beauty in the simple elegance of appointments. Centering the table was a tiered arrangement which rose from a table complete, encircled with exquisite pink perfection camellias. The peak of the arrangement was the top tier of Mrs. Sam (Virginia Lee) Tillman's wedding cake.

From this lovely pinnacle, camellias trailed in sculptured beauty, accented by the glow of pink candles.

A three course turkey dinner was served.

Dinner guests were the honorees, Margaret Ann and Joe and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Imman Dekle, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnston, Dr. and Mrs. Sam Tillman of Durham, N. C., and the hosts, Dr. and Mrs. Floyd.

The wedding will take place on March 2 at the First Baptist Church, Statesboro.

Miss Dekle attended the University of Georgia and is a member of the Alpha Delta Phi sorority. She is a graduate of Georgia Teachers College and is now employed by the Bulloch County School system as a teacher of speech.

Mr. Johnston attended the University of Georgia and is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. Mr. Johnston is entering the armed forces.

Following the program there will be a social hour with the Nevils M.Y.F. furnishing the refreshments. Mr. Johnston is president and Jane Branigan is chairman of the Christian Fellowship Sub District.

Civil Defense

Modern civil defense is nothing like civil defense in previous wars. Where once our danger was from fire bombs and high explosives, now it is from atomic, biological and new chemical weapons. The wide oceans that used to protect us have given way to the global bomber. Today we face more kinds of attack than ever before, and our danger is much greater.

Beginning this week with this issue the Bulloch Herald will present valuable information concerning the role you must and can play in the Civil Defense program in your community. Study these facts and go over them with the members of your family. They are important.

Bill Thornton

In July, the gasoline and oil meter assembly was moved, inventory received and training established. In August and the first of September, all supporting machinery was received and set in working condition, operators hired and training begun.

"The plant at present has 270 people producing six product lines and yet the schedule is not complete," Mr. Thornton said.
