THE BULLOCH HERALD Dedicated To The Progress Of Statesboro And Bulloch County

VOLUME XVII—ESTABLISHED MARCH 26, 1937 STATESBORO, GEORGIA, THURSDAY, JUNE 13, 1957 NUMBER 30

Byron Dyer named district agent for Southeast Georgia

County Agent of the Year in 1953 and winner of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Superior Service Award in 1956, Byron Dyer of Bulloch County will become district agent for Southeast Georgia on July 1, 1957.

Dyer, who has been county agent in Bulloch since 1954, will replace L. R. Lanier who is retiring.

Other officers installed were Wendell Burke, first vice president; Robert F. Donaldson, second vice president; Al Sutherland, third vice president; and K. P. Mikel, treasurer.

Long noted as an agricultural leader, Bulloch produces more swine and cattle than any county in the state, and its value of crops produced has been in first place for a number of years.

Dyer also promoted forestry as an agricultural crop to be harvested. In 1955, 544 per cent of the land in the county was timbered.

Let's make our neighbors citizens

In proper time the Mayor and City Council will call for the election in which the citizens of Statesboro will be given an opportunity to show their neighborliness by approving the petition of citizens in our "suburbs" to become citizens of Statesboro.

Citizens of the sections of our community who are living in Statesboro but outside of Statesboro's official city limits have filed petitions in accordance with the law asking to be included in our city limits.

Approval is entirely in the hands of the voters who now live within the city limits to be expressed in the city election.

Approval will mean the extension of police protection, extension of garbage collecting services, extension of water and sewage, and other services, and create a sharper contrast between the "haves" and the "have nots," progress is not real and cannot be permanent.

When the time comes let's prove our neighborliness and welcome our friends into the city, and remember that our community is one of good will and friendliness and not let our progress turn us into just another city of 10,000 or more people.

Approval will mean that the population of Statesboro will show a substantial increase in the 1960 census—some say up to 10,000 and maybe more.

All these things are accepted as evidence of progress and a healthy growth which brings recognition and admiration by other sections of the state, and result in general benefits from many sources.

This to some means an influx of new wealth, new spendable income, and new status.

And we are for it. Since we established this newspaper in 1937 we have been lending our voice to the promotion of progress.

But let us ever keep in mind this:

So long as all the increased wealth which modern progress brings, goes but to build up fortunes, to increase luxury, and create a sharper contrast between the "haves" and the "have nots," progress is not real and cannot be permanent.

When the time comes let's prove our neighborliness and welcome our friends into the city, and remember that our community is one of good will and friendliness and not let our progress turn us into just another city of 10,000 or more people.

Approval will mean that the

They plan too

Looking to the future our neighbors in Portal and Brooklet are seeking ways to bring about a balance between their agriculture and industry.

In January of this year citizens of Portal organized the Portal Community Development Corporation with specific intention of promoting the industrial development of their community.

Two weeks ago members of the Brooklet Kiwanis Club met with the same idea—to seek ways of promoting the industrial development of their community.

Community leaders in these two towns are recognizing that they can no longer depend entirely upon farm income for their growth. They are seeing other communities like theirs wowing industry and are girding their resources to do the same.

They have the assurance of help from the Georgia Department of Commerce, the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, and such great industries as the Georgia Power Company, and the Central of Georgia Railway Company.

These communities sent their leaders to Statesboro on May 16 to confer with state leaders who came here to discuss "How to Get More Industry in 'Your Town' Georgia."

Out of such determination and under such strong leadership Portal and Brooklet can go far in the growing competition among Georgia communities for a share of industry now moving into our state. Such determination and concern for their established way of life deserves strong support from all in our county. For today and never before we are all interdependent on each other.

See the baseball game

Local baseball-hungry fans will be given an opportunity to satisfy their hunger next Wednesday afternoon, June 19—and for free. Well, there's the drive to the ball park and there'll be lunch and some other small incidental expenses—but you'll get to see the Savannah Redlegs play the Augusta Tigers, both teams in the South Atlantic League.

Robbins Packing Company has purchased nearly 3,000 seats for the game and are giving the tickets away for free to those who ask for them at their favorite grocery.

And if you feel you are getting too old to drive to Savannah just to see a baseball game—we bet Junior would like to see that game.

It does our heart good to learn of these honors and speaks highly of the quality of young people going out of the homes of our citizens and the schools of our community.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

Once in a while one of our readers reads something which he or she thinks warrants printing in the Herald. This week we received such a piece with the suggestion that it might be worth printing on. It was written by Dr. Charles Allen who writes for the Atlanta Constitution. We agree with our reader-friend and give it to you here.

STEALTHY THEFS TAB WITH FALSE WORDS

What are the worst things one can steal? Normally, we think of stealing in reference to money or material things, but that is not the most harmful form of stealing. When Mark Twain married Olivia Langdon, she was a devout Christian. But he cared not for religion and thus he scoffed at her beliefs. He made light of her going to church, reading the Bible and reading the scriptures.

Eventually she gave up her religious practices. Later a very deep sorrow came to her life. Mark Twain loved his wife and it hurt him to see her broken heart and crushed spirit. He said, "Livy, if it comforts you to lean on your faith, do so." Sadly she replied, "I can't. I don't have any faith left."

The realization that he had destroyed her faith haunted him to his dying day. Many times he would have given all he had to restore it, but he couldn't. It is far worse to steal one's faith than to steal one's money.

Also, it is worse to steal one's good name. There was a certain minister whose health failed. He went to work for a wealthy farmer and was trusted with large sums of money. One day he was on his way into town with a large sum of money to deposit in the bank. A man held him up to rob him. The minister said: "I have two boys but all that I have to leave them is my good name. That good name is worth more to me than life. If I let you take this money from me, it will bring suspicion upon me because some would doubt that I had actually been robbed. Therefore, the only way you can take this money is by first taking my life. If you want it that badly, go ahead and shoot."

So, the man for religion and thus he scoffed at her beliefs. He made light of her going to church, reading the Bible and reading the scriptures. Eventually she gave up her religious practices. Later a very deep sorrow came to her life. Mark Twain loved his wife and it hurt him to see her broken heart and crushed spirit.

Being a student at school he accepted the obligation to prepare himself for a useful place in society. When he failed to study when he cut class, when he did not do his part in receiving an education he was stealing from society the contribution and services that he could make if he were properly prepared.

There are many ways to be a thief.

Often, at the great events of our lives, we fail to realize the full import of the moment because of concern for the unimportant. When our babies are baptized we are hoping they won't squall, at our marriage ceremonies we sometimes are preoccupied with concern lest the best man has lost the ring, etc.

PERHAPS THESE reasons often find us sentimental or emotional at other people's weddings, at other people's babies' baptisms, instead of our own. We are relying on our own and have time and heart for the full meaning of the service.

HAVING COME by this knowledge somewhat from experience I vowed I would enjoy the graduation exercises of our oldest son from Columbia Theological Seminary, and let the true meaning sink deep into my soul.

Thought and planning went into the preparations for the trip. I checked the list carefully as the bags were packed. Dress, shoes, gloves, hat, pocketbook, hose, etc. Nothing would detract, this time!

SUNDAY MORNING brought the first jolt. After dressing carefully I discovered that I had left the hat at home for my dress. Further search showed that the belt for the second dress was at home, too. The dress had been sent to the cleaner and their belts had not been put with them later.

To add to this discomfort, it became necessary to sit in the

Meditation for This Week

By THE REV. TED PAGE

THE SPIRIT-LED LIFE
"If ye be led of the Spirit," Galatians 5:18.

One of the greatest joys of the Christian life is to know that the Holy Spirit dwells within and is ready, able, and willing to lead the life at all times. We point out only three things here that are true of the Spirit-led life.

I. IT IS A SPIRITUAL LIFE
"As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." (Romans 8:14). The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are children of God. (Romans 8:16). To be led by the Spirit, one must be a child of God—born of God. Through the spiritual birth life is given this spiritual nature.

It can then discern spiritual things, appropriate spiritual blessings, and manifest spiritual influence. Only the spiritual life will be led by the Holy Spirit.

II. IT IS A SUCCESSFUL LIFE
The spiritual life will be able to overcome the work of the flesh. "Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh" (Gal. 5:16). That is, as Christ's have crucified the flesh with affections and lusts" (Gal. 5:24). The works of the flesh are enumerated in Galatians 5:19-21. Study each one of these seventeen works which portray sin in all its hideous aspects. The very least of these warnings: "They which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God." The Spirit-led life will be able to overcome these works of the flesh. The Spirit-led life can succeed in the battle of life.

III. IT IS A FRUITFUL LIFE
Jesus said to His disciples, "I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain" (John 15:16). The Holy Spirit will produce Christian character and cause it to bear Christian fruit. "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance" (Gal. 5:22). These nine Christian virtues characterize the life of the inward state (love, joy, peace); in expression toward man (long-suffering, gentleness, goodness); and in expression toward God (faith, meekness, temperance). The Spirit-led life will be a fruitful-bearing life.

The child of God can be led by the Holy Spirit and can overcome the world, the flesh, and the devil, and can bear much fruit to glorify God.

Holy Spirit, faithful guide, Ever near the Christian's side; Ever lead us by the hand, Pilgrims in a desert land; The weary souls forever rejoice While they hear that sweetest voice, Whispering softly, "Wanderer, come! Follow Me, I'll guide thee home."

and missed the one I was looking for. I began to imagine things such as his having left his cap and gown at the Seminary. It was necessary to sit through a part of the service in this agitated state before the seniors who were choir members, joined the choir. There, of course, was the one senior who meant most to us. (Confessing my worry to him later he laughed and told of one poor senior who did leave his cap at the seminary and had to send his wife for it.)

THE COMMENCEMENT speaker was the brother who had baptized our boy (the first baby he had ever baptized soon after he had been ordained a minister twenty-four years ago.)

The diplomas were awarded and thus ended another milestone of a glorious experience.

Outside we greeted friends (Aunt Sophie Johnson was a beautiful sight) and relatives and enjoyed every emotion without another worry, in spite of a jetted dress!

THE FAST WRITE-OFF program was a write-measure used in both world wars and the Korean War to speed the production of defense items. Its sole purpose was to provide incentive for industries manufacturing war material by allowing them to recover their investments quickly by deducting their plant costs in five rather than the usual 20 years allowed for depreciation.

It was never intended that this law should be used as a vehicle for subsidizing firms engaged in normal, peacetime pursuits and the grant to the Idaho Power Company under its terms not only is incompatible with our free enterprise system but also is indefensible from any standpoint. It should prompt Congress to do what it ought to have done long ago; that is, repeal this statute at this session.

THERE IS A place in our economy for both public and private power and there should be no conflict between the two. Both have made inestimable contributions to the growth and progress of this nation and the rural electrification program has done more to aid the farmers of our country than any single act of legislation enacted during the past twenty-five years.

In instances where private power is adequate to meet all demands and that power is made available to R.E.A. Cooperatives at reasonable rates, the Federal Government should not enter into competition with the necessary projects, then it is the responsibility of the Federal Government to undertake sufficient public power projects to supply the needs of our citizens.

OUR SOUL * OUR STRENGTH
Sole Conservation Service By E. T. "RED" MULLIS

Mr. H. L. "Pat" Brannen is having complete soil and water conservation plans prepared for his farm in the Emory community. Mr. Brannen is cooperating with the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District in this project. The Soil Conservation Service is furnishing technical assistance for planning, and will assist in applying the needed soil conservation practices to the land.

Mr. Brannen plans to install a complete water disposal system on his sloping land. Recent heavy rains have shown a need for terraces where he did not think terraces were actually needed. Pastures of coastal bermuda, blue grass and lespedeza on Class III land will make for better land use.

On his woodland Mr. Brannen is doing a good job of management. He is thinning thick stands of pine to allow for maximum growth. He plans to clear scrub hardwoods and plant pines on his scrub oak land.

Going about over the county looking at ponds and terraces after heavy rains has convinced me that our greatest weakness is establishing a good sod to protect our engineering practice. Waterways not properly sodded are washing out badly. Ponds dams and spillways are sheathing off before the sod is established satisfactorily.

In the case of ponds, many farmers are allowing livestock to ruin what little sod is established. I believe Mr. O. W. "Pat" Simmons has the best idea on this. He fenced off his ponds with 100 per cent DDT baited. Planes and spiders can be best controlled.

THE DEBATE over the development of Hell's Canyon in the Pacific Northwest has raised two basic questions: (1) What is the proper relationship between public and private power in this country? and (2) Is it a proper function of the Federal Government to subsidize private enterprises?

These questions were put in focus by the recent action of the office of Defense Mobilization in granting the Idaho Power Company a fast write-off of $65,206,094 of the $103,000,000 cost of the two dams which the Federal Power Commission has licensed it to build in Hell's Canyon. This will permit the company to deduct that amount from its income taxes during the next five years and will be the equivalent of a $10,500,000 interest-free loan which, at present interest rates, will cost the taxpayers of this country some $97,000,000 to finance over the 50-year period that it is repaid.

Farm and Family Features

Farm Bureau members grateful for Agricultural Authority

Farm Bureau members generally are grateful to Governor Marvin Griffin for activating the Agricultural Commodities Authority. Especially so in Bulloch County since the Governor found it convenient to name one of the Farm Bureau's prominent members to this board, Paul Nesmith. Mr. Nesmith is the five-year member of the board.

During the recent years, since World War II, farmers have urged that some program be devised whereby they could promote more research on their products, advertise and put on a general promotional program for cotton and its products, to bacco and peanuts.

Farm Bureau members formally asked for such a program some 10 years ago and got the necessary legislation passed in 1951. The program just had never been activated and put into operation. Mr. Nesmith and the others on the board will now proceed to bring this program into a functional activity.

Farmers generally feel that they can do a lot by working together to help solve some of their problems. Promotional activities can be carried on by a group but not by individuals.

DENMARK
The Denmark Farm Bureau met Tuesday night to study cotton insects that are giving them so much trouble right now, boll weevils, boll worms, flea hoppers, aphids, thrips, stink bugs, and the many others not generally considered much trouble.

The color slides and information on these numerous insects indicate that the list of insecticides available to control boll weevils which included BHC, toxaphene, aldrin, dieldrin, heptachlor, endrin and captafen are available locally as a dust or as a spray. These dusts or sprays are used for boll worms also with 100 per cent DDT baited. Planes and spiders can be best controlled.

RURAL ELECTRIC cooperatives are the most democratic of all types of corporations. Each co-op member—who must also be a consumer and receive electric service from his co-op—has an equal voice in the conduct of business.

Every year we hold an ANNUAL MEMBERS MEETING. All members are urged to attend. The public is cordially invited.

AT THIS MEETING, the manager and officers will report. Members will elect—or reelect—directors to their board. This Board of Directors, leaders in their communities, acts for the entire membership in all matters of policy. Directors serve without compensation.

Unlike many other corporations, where the amount of investment decides voting power—and tends to place control in the hands of a few—each co-op member has only one vote. Control remains in the hands of the many.

Often, at the great events of our lives, we fail to realize the full import of the moment because of concern for the unimportant. When our babies are baptized we are hoping they won't squall, at our marriage ceremonies we sometimes are preoccupied with concern lest the best man has lost the ring, etc.

DR. K. R. HERRING PRESIDES AT MEETING IN SAVANNAH
The sixth district of the Georgia Chiropactic Association met in Savannah at the De Soto Hotel on Sunday, June 9.

The guests were entertained on the terrace which overlooks a green lawn with flower borders; the children's playground and the out-door kitchen. Shasta daisies in a summer straw hat, wide-brimmed and trimmed with huge yellow bow, made an unusual and attractive arrangement. Centering the pink marbled top refreshments table was a bowl of pink roses. Assorted sandwiches, lady fingers, cookies and cheese wafers were served with Coca-Cola from an ice-filled wheel barrow.

Clever contests made fun for the group. In one contest a large tray containing a wide variety of small articles was examined by each of the guests and the one who could list the most items received a black vase. This was won by Mrs. Sam Brown. In the second contest Mrs. Johnson Black was awarded a ceramic cheese set for having the most items in her pocketbook, a total of forty-one. There were thirty guests at the party.

MAKE THINNING PAY
A thinning of pine timber stands should at least pay for itself, believes Dorsey Dyer, district forester, Agricultural Extension Service. Usually a thinning is not made until trees that are to be taken out can be used for pulp wood, fuel wood, posts or some other profitable use. Small acreages should be thinned heavily to eliminate frequent costly light thinnings.

2000 Today's Concrete Highways will serve into the 21st Century

Concrete has proved its unusual durability by serving 30, 40 and more years in heavy-duty highways all over America. Even where the roads have been resurfaced, the rugged concrete slab still carries the load.

Today, rugged concrete pavements are being built to deliver smooth-riding and dependable service for fifty years and more, well past the year 2000 A.D. This outstanding life expectancy of concrete roads is achieved at moderate first cost and very low maintenance cost. These factors make durable concrete the logical choice for paving every mile of the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways within this state.

Pittman Park Church observes first birthday

Pittman Park Methodist Church, meeting at the Marvin Pittman School on the campus of Georgia Teachers College, will observe its first anniversary on Sunday, June 16.

No money could be expended by the authority except upon the recommendation of the commodity committee upon which the charges are collected. Members of the commodity committee must be producers of the given commodity in question.

Commodity program proposals and objectives would be presented to producers in advance of the referendum.

Any commodity program, even after a two-thirds majority vote, would go before producer vote again for consideration of continuance after three years of operation. If less than two-thirds of those voting approved, the authority would cease to collect funds for continuation of the commodity's program three months after the referendum.

Any producer dissatisfied with such charges has a right to demand and receive from the authority a refund of such assessments. The demand for refund must be in writing to the authority within 30 days from date of assessment.

No member of the authority or commodity committee would receive any salary, only expenses and per diem when actually engaged in performance of duties. The authority may retain up to 10 per cent of all funds collected for administration expenses.

Agronomists at the Agricultural Extension Service recommended certified Martins Combine Milo, Redlan, and Redline 66 grain sorghum. They say seed should be treated.

Rural Mail Box Week

The Statesboro Post Office is planning the post office all over the nation in their annual Rural Mail Box Week. There are 222 of these F.F.A. mail boxes in the county which have the approval of the post office. At the right is a common sight which makes for slower and less satisfactory mail service. He estimates that 50 per cent of the mail boxes are in need of replacing or repairing.

He stated that the carriers are used with the mail boxes project of the Future Farmers of America, and added that the F.F.A. boys have erected 222 boxes in the county. He commended some of the patrons who have attractive mail boxes including those of Loy Waters, Charles Robbins Jr., C. T. Motes, C. O. Bohler, Eugene Martin, Franklin Lee, H. M. Beasley, J. O. Alfred, L. F. Martin, and other home owners in Edgewood Acres.

"There are many others, but these are some of whom I have heard the carriers mention," Mr. DeLoach said.

Congressman Preston denounces Civil Rights bill before the House

Congressman Preston H. Preston denounced in ringing terms the Civil Rights bill now before the House of Representatives and called on his colleagues to defeat the measure which "substitutes justice by injunction for the precious right of trial by jury."

Preston said that Nikita Khrushchev's recent prediction on a television program that the enforcement of the sweeping provisions of this so-called "Civil Rights bill" will require a horde of bureaucrats and Federal agents to enforce it, was a "Kremlin see in this iniquitous Civil Rights bill an enormous stride in the United States toward the police state under which the oppressed people of Russia have been suffering."

"Khrushchev's optimism about the adoption in this country of the Russian mode of government is further explained when it is considered that the Police State legislation is not sponsored by a subversive group but by the very members of the President of the United States and the Republican administration which he heads," Preston declared.
