School, Labor Day weekend means—be careful

This week provides us with another excellent reason for getting out our drum sticks and banging away on our drum urging automobile drivers, parents, children and traffic enforcement officers to tighten up on this business of traffic safety.

School opens this week. Parents transporting their children to and from school will be increasing the use of the family car. Hundreds of children will still walk to and from school. Scores of them will ride their bikes. School buses begin their regular pick-ups and running the school routes.

Granted that all the children who attend school have been given training in the practice of safety and have been warned of the dangers of traffic, it still is a grave responsibility of the man or woman or youth at the steering wheel of his or her or the family automobile.

The thought ever-most in the minds of drivers should be that children can become so involved in their own special kind of activities that, at a crucial moment, they may forget and make a fatal step.

Just a little patience, understanding and slowing down can provide the margin of safety we owe to all children.

It's a nine months' job, but one worth every bit of extra effort we put to it—and there's no accounting for the tragedy avoided.

The merchants here in Statesboro will join businesses all over the nation in observing Labor Day, Monday, September 2. This means that many people here and all over will use it as a long weekend and long weekends mean more travel.

Because of the short "vacation bonus" which the weekend provides the highways are going to be over-crowded. It's going to take a lot of patience, a lot of courtesy, a lot of alert thinking and fast action to be the defensive driver needed today on our highways.

Fourteen people were killed in Georgia during the 1956 Labor Day weekend.

This can be reduced to zero this year if you assume the responsibility that is yours on the highways which are ours.

Fix the determination in your own mind to make this a safe weekend.

4-H members rate

This week we toss our beat-up straw hat for more of Bulloch County's young people.

Betty Jo Brannen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Brannen of Statesboro, was named secretary of the southeast district 4-H Club Council at Rock Eagle Camp recently. She also won the senior girl's talent contest last Wednesday at the 4-H camp.

Among the winners in the senior 4-H contests were Maxine Brunson, who tied for first place in the project of cotton and its uses. Thomas Chester won third place in the electric project. Mary Dekle won third place in the meal preparation project.

In the junior division Bill Smith won the "between meals snacks" project, Sue Belcher won third place in the better breakfast project, Beth Nessmith won third place in the girls' electric project, Penny Sue Trappell won first place in the muffins project, and Patsy Poss won second place in the junior talent contest, Ellen McElveen won third place in girls' health and Mary Alice Belcher won first in the dress revue.

Other juniors winning were Arnette Mitchell, first in public speaking and Judy NeSmith, third in the yeast bread project.

Blue award cards went to Jean Nessmith, home improvement; Sarilyn Brown, biscuit; Ed Brunson, public speaking; and Thomas Joyner Jr., tractor maintenance.

A red award card went to Bonnie Dekle in senior dress making. Bulloch County 4-H members have always stood high in their district and area and state competitions and this year is no different. We commend all these for their accomplishments.

These young people are part of

BIG PARTNER IN FREEDOM...

LABOR DAY—SEPTEMBER 2

Herman Talmadge Reports From Washington

THERE WILL BE those who, because of the First Session of the 85th Congress did not pass hundreds of new laws, will call it a "do-nothing Congress."

To such persons who measure achievement only in terms of quantity, I would reply in the words of the late Senator James A. Reed of Missouri: "What we need to do is to stop passing laws. We have enough laws now to govern the world for the next 1,000 years."

The appointment of John Groover as assistant principal of the Statesboro High School will be greeted with enthusiasm by parents and high school students alike.

John Groover, the son of Mrs. Nancy Groover and the late George Groover, has a particular spot in the hearts of the young people of this community. Quiet, unassuming, earnest, with a surprising sense of humor he has endeared himself to all who come in contact with him.

We are happy in the appointment and join his friends in saying "congratulations."

It's a great idea

Gov. Marvin Griffin indicated recently that the State of Georgia is close to buying Stone Mountain. And if our state does buy it, Gov. Griffin visualizes a big centennial celebration there in 1961, that year being the 100th anniversary of the start of the War Between the States. Such a celebration would focus attention on the great progress we have made since those dark days of the 1860's.

We like the idea. We have always wanted to see the great monument on Stone Mountain completed. And our people, as a nation, are still young enough to like to go to celebrations, be they annual fairs, or community celebrations. And such a centennial celebration as the one suggested by Gov. Griffin should be a honey.

WE AGREE with Jeremy Taylor who writes: "A good wife is heaven's best gift to man—his gem of virtues, his casket of jewels; her voice is sweet music, her smiles his brightest stars, her kiss the guardian of his innocence, her arms the pale of his safety, her industry his surest steward, her lips his faithful counselors, her bosom the softest pillow of his care."

There are a lot of people in Statesboro and Bulloch County who qualified for a job as teller in a bank, if cashing a check for $63, giving the customer only six bills, none of which can be dollar bills, is the sole qualification. Many people called because along that we agree with formation along that we agree with the Vancouver News Herald, who says:

"The happy existence of the greatest racket man has ever put across woman, enables the racketeer to bind a robust maiden to him and his home with a gold ring worth as little as five bucks. In exchange, she for him and his—labor which is open market would fetch $200. With $15 knocked off weekly for board and lodging (made consumable only by her own efficient self service), in forty years of married life she trades a $5 bauble and someone else's name."

Center and Swim Center area. One of the paramount problems of our city is the proper use and proper attitude of dealing with leisure time.

There are many youth and adult service programs in our county. All are doing a fine job. Should all of the programs be better coordinated the services rendered would be of greater benefit to our people.

THE MEMORIAL swim center is a serviceable area. More than 50,000 persons have visited this phase of the recreation project this summer. Plans have been drawn for the addition of facilities in this area of the park for use by all age groups.

opening of his renovated store "Henry's" on East Main today. Charlie Joe Mathews is offering space in his new building back of the Singer Sewing Center, Buford Knight and Lehman Franklin are making progress on their new motels. Harry Smith improved the rear of his jewelry store on South Main Street. All this combined to make our city more clean and attractive.

BUSTER BOWEN is observing his twentieth anniversary in the cleaning and laundry business in Statesboro. Buster figures that in the twenty years he has been serving the citizens of this section he has paid out over one million dollars in salaries. He says his annual payroll now is between $75,000 and $80,000. That makes the Model Laundry and Dry Cleaning one of the city's small industries which are making "big industry."

At the earliest possible date the entire park area should be fenced around the outer areas for safety reasons. For this purpose a modern and chain length variety of fence should be used. While the initial investment would be large the long range saving would make the original purchase worthwhile.

Space will not permit the amount of discussion needed to cover the following points. Listed here it is hoped are points of interest which will lead Mr. and Mrs. Statesboro and Bulloch County to ask some questions concerning the future of recreation in our community.

WHAT makes us TICK? TWENTY YEARS AGO experts were still saying the farmer didn't want, wouldn't use, and couldn't pay for electricity. Time has proven them wrong. TODAY, Georgia's rural electric cooperatives serve over a quarter million rural homes, farms, and businesses. The co-ops serve them well. WHY WERE CO-OPS successful in doing a job the big utilities refused to tackle? The answer lies deep within the hearts of millions of men and women across rural America. It is the same answer the pioneers gave when they started west in covered wagons—and opened a new door to progress. THE ANSWER LIES in the quiet determination of strong and sincere folks who met a common need by working together. By friend working with friend, neighbor joining neighbor. By forming co-ops to bring themselves a vital service. The Rural Electrification Administration—REAA—has helped. It provides loans at reasonable interest rates. BUT IT TOOK COURAGE—and cooperation—to electrify rural Georgia. Georgia farmers led the way to an achievement of which we all may be proud. That's why we say... CO-OP ELECTRICITY IS GOOD FOR GEORGIA! Farm Bureau 83 Farm Bureau leaders met here; Wingate discusses farm problems

An enthusiastic meeting of eighty-three Farm Bureau leaders from the First District was held at Mrs. Bryant's kitchen in Statesboro Wednesday night, August 21. H. Wingate, Georgia Farm Bureau President discussed problems now facing farmers, stressing the need for an adjustment of peanut prices and cotton grading and support prices.

Mr. Mack Guest, and Mr. Troy Barton of the Georgia Farm Bureau office outlined membership plans for September throughout Georgia. Other out-of-town Farm Bureau leaders attending the meeting included Alex M. Norman of Screven County and J. T. Stubbs of Bryan County, the First District directors; Mrs. J. T. Stubbs, district director of Farm Bureau women and Mrs. Willett Robinson of Screven County, vice chairman of Georgia Farm Bureau women. In addition to county officers from all counties in the First District except two, W. C. Hodges, president of the Bulloch County Farm Bureau and Mrs. Willett Robinson, membership chairman in Bulloch County will be held at an early date to formulate plans for the membership drive here.

The value of home fertilization insurance to farm families was discussed and those in attendance were reminded that new applications for this insurance through the Farm Bureau must be submitted before October 1.

Mr. Futch advised the farmers that he was available for sampling fertilizer where they desire a new analysis on this material by the Georgia Department of Agriculture.

NEVILS

The Nevils Farm Bureau highlighted its meeting last Wednesday night, August 21, with a queen and talent contest. Miss Judy Nessmith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Nessmith, was selected out of many fine talent numbers as talent winner. She gave a rendition on the xylophone and was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. W. D. Lee of Nevils. The queen selected for the Nevils Farm Bureau was Miss Jimmie Lou Lanier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cohen Lanier. Miss Lanier was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. George R. Kelly of Statesboro during tap dance routine. The queen contestants are required to give some form of talent. The judges for the contest were Mrs. A. L. Abernathy, Miss Sara Hall, and Mrs. Carlton Kirby, all of Statesboro.

Mr. Walton Nessmith, who is Blue Cross representative for the Nevils community, urged all farmers who desire to enroll in the Blue Cross hospital plan as new subscribers must do so before October 1. This will be the last opportunity Farm Bureau members will have to enroll a reduce rate until the next drive, which will be held in 1958.

Farm Bureau 83 Farm Bureau leaders met here; Wingate discusses farm problems

An enthusiastic meeting of eighty-three Farm Bureau leaders from the First District was held at Mrs. Bryant's kitchen in Statesboro Wednesday night, August 21. H. Wingate, Georgia Farm Bureau President discussed problems now facing farmers, stressing the need for an adjustment of peanut prices and cotton grading and support prices.

Mr. Mack Guest, and Mr. Troy Barton of the Georgia Farm Bureau office outlined membership plans for September throughout Georgia. Other out-of-town Farm Bureau leaders attending the meeting included Alex M. Norman of Screven County and J. T. Stubbs of Bryan County, the First District directors; Mrs. J. T. Stubbs, district director of Farm Bureau women and Mrs. Willett Robinson of Screven County, vice chairman of Georgia Farm Bureau women. In addition to county officers from all counties in the First District except two, W. C. Hodges, president of the Bulloch County Farm Bureau and Mrs. Willett Robinson, membership chairman in Bulloch County will be held at an early date to formulate plans for the membership drive here.

The value of home fertilization insurance to farm families was discussed and those in attendance were reminded that new applications for this insurance through the Farm Bureau must be submitted before October 1.

Mr. Futch advised the farmers that he was available for sampling fertilizer where they desire a new analysis on this material by the Georgia Department of Agriculture.

NEVILS

The Nevils Farm Bureau highlighted its meeting last Wednesday night, August 21, with a queen and talent contest. Miss Judy Nessmith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Nessmith, was selected out of many fine talent numbers as talent winner. She gave a rendition on the xylophone and was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. W. D. Lee of Nevils. The queen selected for the Nevils Farm Bureau was Miss Jimmie Lou Lanier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cohen Lanier. Miss Lanier was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. George R. Kelly of Statesboro during tap dance routine. The queen contestants are required to give some form of talent. The judges for the contest were Mrs. A. L. Abernathy, Miss Sara Hall, and Mrs. Carlton Kirby, all of Statesboro.

Mr. Walton Nessmith, who is Blue Cross representative for the Nevils community, urged all farmers who desire to enroll in the Blue Cross hospital plan as new subscribers must do so before October 1. This will be the last opportunity Farm Bureau members will have to enroll a reduce rate until the next drive, which will be held in 1958.

PORTAL

Bulldozer links past and present

It was the year 1946 and the bulldozer operator had no idea he was about to link Bulloch County's present with Bulloch County's past.

He was bulldozing a new road near Cone Hill's place east of Statesboro when he cut into an Indian grave.

The late Fred W. Hodges, then chairman of the County Commissioners was notified. Mr. Hodges was intensely interested in Indian relics and was jubilant with the new discovery. He called Mr. C. H. Fairbanks, a National Parks Service agent who came and began working in the area.

Working with a tiny trowel and a whisk broom Mr. Fairbanks removed the dirt from around the skull and bones of the body found in the grave. The backbone, ribs and arms had disintegrated badly. The leg and thigh bones were drawn up under the chin of the skull in the position characteristic of Indian burial customs.

Mr. Fairbanks stated that the Indians found here were the direct ancestors of the Creek Indians of the 1400-1700 era. They were farmers and planted about the same things we now plant, such as squash, corn and beans.

In addition to the body of the Indian turned up by the bulldozer there were several stone axes, a pipe, beads, pottery, a conch shell used to drink casino tea from, and tiny arrow points.

There are some in the county who have collections of arrow heads which were found in ploughed fields and in places where Indians might have met in assembly. South of Statesboro where Middleground Primitive Baptist Church now stands is said to have been an assembly ground of the Indians, known as "Five Points," named for the five paths leading to it.

The bluff on the Ogeechee River, where Magnolia Lodge is located and where Indian relics have been found, is believed to be another Indian assembly ground.

The first white man in Bulloch

It is interesting to speculate about the first white man in Bulloch County. DeSoto, in his search for wealth, came up from Florida through Georgia, and crossed the Savannah River at Silver Bluff, a point twenty-five miles south of Augusta. Did some of his soldiers wander into the land that is now Bulloch County? Or did some Spaniards cross Bulloch County on the old Spanish trail that ran from Mobile, Alabama to North Carolina through Bulloch County? Or was it some white trader such as George Galphin who did extensive business with the Indians of east Georgia?

However, it is known that the first white man to make the most profound impression on Georgia was James Edward Oglethorpe. Under a charter granted by

This Is

The Story of Bulloch County

The English governor, Oglethorpe and his friends in 1733, colonized that part of Carolina lying between the Savannah and Altamaha Rivers and reaching all the way to the Mississippi River and beyond. This was put under the government of a group of Trustees in London who were too far away to understand the problems of this new country.

Each family sent over at the expense of the Trustees received a grant of only fifty acres of land. Those who paid their own expenses got larger grants of five hundred acres. These were passed on to the sons. The first Colonists were not allowed to import strong liquor and slavery was forbidden.

Bulloch, a part of Savannah County

In 1741 the Trustees divided the Province of Georgia into two counties. Savannah County including all the settlements along the Savannah River and both banks of the Ogeechee River which included what later became Bulloch, and Frederica County which embraced Darien, Frederica and the area south of the Altamaha River.

In 1752, a year before the original charter was to run out, the Trustees asked the English Government to take over the rule of the Colony. This was done with a Royal Governor as administrator, aided by a Provincial Congress and Council.

On March 17, 1758, under Governor Henry Ellis an Act was passed by the legislature dividing the Province of Georgia into parishes providing for religious worship according to the rites and ceremonies of the Church of England. However, there were numerous dissenters in the Province—Presbyterians, Lutherans, Congregationalists, Methodists, a few Baptists and Hebrews. To all sects except Papists free toleration was accorded.

Eight parishes were created. They were St. Paul's, St. George's, St. Matthew's, Christ Church's, St. Philip's, St. John's, St. Andrew's and St. James'.

When the regions south of the Altamaha River became a part of the Colony in 1763, four additional parishes were created. They were St. David's, St. Patrick's, St. Thomas' and St. Mary's.

St. Philip's Parish was designated as "the town of Hardwicke and district of Ogeechee on the south side of the river Great Ogeechee extending northwest up said river as far as the lower Indian trading path leading from Mt. Pleasant and southward from the town of Hardwicke as far as the swamp of James Dunham including the settlements on the north side of the north branches of the river Medway with the island of Ossabaw and from the head of the said Dunham's swamp in a northwest line." This parish included what today is Bulloch and Bryan counties. A number of deeds to property in Bulloch County carry the name of St. Philip's Parish.

After the introduction of slaves into the state about 1750 it became profitable to establish large plantations to raise rice and indigo which were exported in large quantities and required slave labor to produce.

The wealthy accumulated large holdings in the coastal areas. There was no place for the small farmer, and after 1750 the small farmer moved further afield into what was then the back country, following the rivers like the Ogeechee, sometimes settling in groups but very often settling individually. These settlers were true pioneers living under an economy of self-sustenance.

The problems of transportation and communications were very important to the settlers who were moving into a region where no roads existed, so it was natural that the first comers should settle on the rivers and creeks.

Early deeds recorded in Bulloch

One of the early deeds, recorded in the clerk's office of Bulloch County, refers to property bought by William Fletcher in the Parish of St. Philip, originally granted by King George III of England in June, 1760, to John Stafford, bounded at the time of the survey by Lambeth Lane's land. Another piece of land sold by Jacob Hoffman to Abraham Stafford on Black Creek was originally granted to Israel Reiser in 1767 and was transferred to Jacob Hoffman in 1785. A deed to Henry Touk by the heirs of Frederick Rester was originally granted by King George III on April 7, 1767, to Fred Rester. John Dukes received a deed from Sherrod McCall in 1896 to a tract of land along Black Creek in St. Philip's Parish, originally granted in 1768 to Andrew Bird. Deeded to Alexander Lane in 1801 was property originally granted to Joseph Ironmonger in 1766. Another record describes a grant made by King George III on March 3, 1767, to John Caspar Werth of lands on Ironmonger Creek on the south side of the Ogeechee River. Also recorded is a grant of land to John Flerl by the King dated October 7, 1766, on Black Creek and a grant made to John Werth adjoining the land of John Flerl dated May 3, 1768. On April 2, 1805, Stephen Denmark bought a piece of property from Benjamin Dasher that was originally granted to Martin Dasher on February 5, 1765. This property was bounded on the east by the Ogeechee River, northwest by M. Plummer, southeast by Thomas Davis, southwest by John Lane. Stephen Denmark also bought a tract on February 10, 1803, originally granted to John Adams Treutlen on September 2, 1765, and located in St. Philip's Parish on Ironmonger Creek.

Statesboro, Georgia, Thursday, August 29, 1957

The names on some of these grants indicate that some of the first settlers in what is now Bulloch County were people from the Ebenezer settlement known as St. Mathew's Parish. The Ebenezer colony was founded in 1734 by a group of seventy-eight Lutheran refugees who fled from the persecution of the Archbishop of Salzburg in Southern Germany. Oglethorpe accompanied their leader, Von Reck, to select a settlement on Ebenezer Creek. Later the settlers moved six miles further to Red Bluff where they built the well known Jerusalem Church.

The Ebenezer Colony grew rapidly and by 1743 there were about 1,200 of these German Protestants, most of whom settled around Ebenezer. As they sought new lands they pushed toward the Ogeechee River and the lands that became Bulloch County.

Other Salzburger families to come into Bulloch County early were the Zetterowers and Groovers.

Charles Zittrauers (Zetterower) was one of the Salzburgers to come into Bulloch County from the Ebenezer Colony. He and his family came from Salzburg, Austria and settled around Ebenezer. The King of England offered him amnesty and a life annuity if he would support the King during the Revolution, but he refused and supported strongly the Colonists in their fight for independence.

According to a family record, John Gruber (Groover) was born in 1739 in old St. Philip's Parish, Georgia. He was the son of Peter Gruber and his wife, Mary, German immigrants who came to the Colony of Georgia in the 1730's. Volume 7, page 446, of the Georgia Colonial Records by Chandler shows a grant of fifty-two acres in St. Philip's Parish made on June 11, 1772, to John Gruber. He fought in the Revolutionary War and was murdered by the Tories in 1780 at or near his home on Cowpen Branch in Effingham County.

TOOL KIT
... per employe

It takes a lot of money to give a Georgia Power Company worker a job. The Company's plant investment, or "tool kit," averages $105,000 for each employe.

"Tools" come high in this industry. A single steam-electric turbine may cost many millions of dollars. A substation transformer may be priced in hundreds of thousands. Each year

Civil Air Patrol has active unit here; needs more recruits

Back in the fall of 1955 the late Henry E. Clifton, photographer and civil aviation enthusiast together with others interested in aviation began investigating the possibilities of establishing a Civil Air Patrol Squadron in Statesboro.

Following intensive planning and checking into the requirements of a group of men who possessed the required skills gathered together and held an organizational meeting on July 13, 1956. Twenty-three Statesboro men turned out for the meeting. Major Louis Scott, commander of the Savannah Civil Air Patrol, and his staff of officers were present to explain and help with the organization.

Mr. Clifton was named commander of the new unit. After some delay the charter was granted and the unit activated.

Mayor Bill Bowen and the then county commissioner, Allen R. Lanier, lent their support to the program and the city and county built a home for the unit at the local airport.

Since then the local C.A.P. has grown. The unit now operates two radio stations and has set up a fine program for the boy cadets. Recently several ladies have joined the C.A.P. and the unit is currently recruiting girls for the cadet program.

The C.A.P. is designed to provide a group of "minute men" ready at all times to help in case of emergencies such as floods, tornadoes or other disasters; provide safe, certified standby pilots and airplanes ready at any time for mercy flights, search and rescue missions.

The C.A.P. is a 100 per cent voluntary organization. It needs the support of every citizen in the county. It needs the moral means of communications. Pictured above is Van Tillman who is a licensed radio operator for Civil Air Patrol. Van will teach radio to the cadets. Photo by Clifton.

Revival begins at Clito Church

The Rev. Charles Swartz, pastor of the Clito Baptist Church, announced today the beginning of revival services at the church on Monday, September 2, with the evening service at 8 o'clock. The revival will continue through Sunday, September 8. The pastor will do the preaching and George Dwinnell will lead the singing. Services will be each evening at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Song convention to meet Sunday

The Bulloch County Singing Convention will meet at Lawrence Baptist Church on Sunday morning, September 1, at 10:30 o'clock. The church is located eighteen miles southeast of Statesboro on the Pembroke Highway.

On Saturday night at Friendship Baptist Church there will be a sing with some of the singers to arrive on Saturday to spend the weekend.

The Blind Davis Trio from Gastonia, North Carolina, and Mr. T. B. Bunting of Waycross, Ga., will be here for the convention.

On Sunday evening this group will present a musical program at Bethel Baptist Church. The public is invited to attend.

THE STATESBORO SQUADRON of the Civil Air Patrol is now accepting women and girls for members. The age of the girl cadets are from 14 to 18 years of age. Those over 18 will become senior members. The Savannah squadron of girl cadets recently visited the Statesboro squadron. There were from left to right: Privates Leonell Kitchens, Maureen Fortune, Barbara Black, Lieut. Peggy Kitchens and Pvt. Jake Dickey. Lieut. Peggy Kitchens was selected as one of the outstanding cadets of Georgia for this year. She participated in the international exchange cadet program and spent several weeks this summer in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. The above group recently attended the encampment at Warner Robbins Air Force Base along with the Statesboro squadron and other squadrons in the southeastern Georgia area for a period of ten days. Mayor Bowen joins protest to increase price of natural gas

The City of Statesboro, along with all other cities and gas companies served by Southern Natural Gas Company, wholesale suppliers of natural gas, has been notified of a new schedule of rates which Southern Natural proposes to put into effect September 14, 1957. Unless suspended by the Federal Power Commission, this new schedule will increase natural gas rates approximately 33 per cent.

Mayor Bill Bowen stated this week that the Mayor and Council have taken immediate action on behalf of the citizens of Statesboro to protest this proposed increase which will effect every user of natural gas in the area served by Southern Natural.

Acting through the Georgia Municipal Association, of which Mayor Bowen is a director, Statesboro, together with thirteen other Georgia cities served by Southern Natural, has filed a letter of protest and intention of intervention with the Federal Power Commission in Washington, D. C.

The Georgia Public Service Commission has filed a petition for suspension of this rate increase pending a final hearing before the Federal Power Commission in Washington, and has appointed two of its members to handle the details of the proceedings.

The Mayor and City Engineer James Bland, will leave for Atlanta on September 10 to confer with representatives of the Georgia Municipal Association and the Georgia Public Service Commission in an attempt to ordain and organize the efforts of all affected Georgia Cities in fighting this rate increase.

There was no rainfall during the week of readings, August 24, through Sunday, September 1, were as follows:

Monday, Aug. 26	High 90	Low 67
Tuesday, Aug. 27	90	65
Wednesday, Aug. 28	93	66
Thursday, Aug. 29	88	69
Friday, Aug. 30	83	68
Saturday, Aug. 31	96	65
Sunday, Sept. 1	98	70

Total rainfall for August was 1.54 inches. Normal for August is 6.46 inches.

Gary Franklin's 210-pound Yorkshire barrow was named grand champion of the barrow show here Thursday night, August 29, at the Producers Cooperative Livestock Exchange barn. Robbins Packing Company bought the champion for $26 per hundred pounds of live weight. Gary won $15 for showing the champion, plus the prize money offered for winning first, second, and third places in his class.

The reserve champion was shown by Edwin Harris, A 190-pound Duroc and Hampshire cross. It sold to the Robbins Packing Company for $25 per hundred pounds.

U. S. No. 1 and U. S. No. 2 hogs in the show were sold to Robbins Packing Company for $22.30 and $22 per hundred pounds, respectively. The lighter weight hogs were sold for $20 per hundred pounds, which were also bought by Robbins Packing Company.

James Parcell, livestock specialist for the State Department of Agriculture, and Bob Blacklock, farm representative of the Standard Oil Company were judges for the show. The Bulloch County Livestock Committee composed of W. C. Hodges, J. H. Wyrant, R. K. Roberts, J. D. Dekle, and Leodine Coleman were sponsors of the show.

Joe Bowen finished first in the light weight class, as well as fifth place. Dean Henley finished first and third in the medium light weight class. Ricky Nesmith finished second, James Harris fourth, Thomas Chester, Indiana and other places, fifth, and Thomas Joyner, sixth. James Harris was first and second in the medium weights. Jappy Akins wins top honors in Georgia Duroc show and sale

Jappy Akins won top honors in the Georgia Duroc Breeders Association show and sale held recently at Valdosta. His two gilts ranked first and second in the show that included approximately sixty of the best animals from the top duroc breeders in the state. These two gilts were also judged superior, with only one more of that rating in the show.

Akins sold these gilts for the first and second highest prices in the show at $275 and $215. He also has other entries that have had other places where he has bought the best duroc available.

A son of Jesse H. Akins and a graduate of Statesboro High School (three years ago), he is active in F.F.A. and 4-H work. He is an active member and secretary to Southeast Bulloch Young Farmer Organization.

Blue Devil fans offered reserve season tickets

R. J. Kennedy Jr., chairman of the Statesboro High School board of trustees, announced this week that the high school athletic association, controlled by the trustees, will offer reserve season tickets for the five home games of the Statesboro High School Blue Devil football games this fall.

Mr. Kennedy stated that the decision followed a popular demand for a reserve section in Memorial Stadium.

He stated that the ticket sales will be handled by members of the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce as a public service. They will receive nothing for their efforts but the thanks of the football fans of Statesboro.

Adult season tickets will sell for $7.50 each and student season tickets will sell for $2.50 each.

Mr. Kennedy stated that there will only be a limited number of these reserve season tickets sold and will be sold on a "first-come-first-served" basis.

The home schedule of the Blue Devils is as follows: September 13, Douglas; October 4, Dublin; November 1, Swainsboro; November 15, Sandersville; and November 25, Millen.

The rest of the schedule includes: September 29, Eastman; October 11, Metter; there; October 18, Blackshear; there; October 25, Swainsboro; there; and November 8, Saxby; there.

Six C.A.P. cadets at Robbins A.F.B.

Six Cadets of the Statesboro squadron, Charles Gerald, Gary Hink, William O'Connor, Ivy Shuman, Jonas Tanner, William Vanderford, were among 171 Civil Air Patrol cadets, both boys and girls, gathered at Robbins A.F.B., Macon, Georgia, for annual C.A.P. encampment recently.

Cadets lived in Air Force quarters, ate in the regular mess, visited points of interest on the base, shot on the rifle range, enjoyed helicopter and fixed-wing aircraft orientation flights, saw instructional films on first aid, the Air Material Command, and other subjects participated in swimming, athletics, picnics, dances, and other base facilities.

They drilled for a parade which exhibited the skill developed not only there but in months of intensive practice at home. They received instruction in military customs and courtesies, learned of military discipline in, and heard character guidance lectures by the encampment chaplain, Lieut. Col. J. E. Jordan, U.S.A.F.R.

Encampment this year was a departure from other years in one respect—it was completely self-governing. The cadet officer echelon handled all problems of administration and government, discipline, and scheduling, supported by a senior member staff.

Lieut. Col. Harris Wynne, cadet section director, Georgia wing, C.A.P., was encampment commander. Commander of cadets was Cadet Major Walter Laffer Akins, John Godbee, and Charles Kirkland and County School Superintendent H. P. Womack.
