NUMBER 6

This could be the story of the Great Birth at Bethlehem as it might have been seen through the eyes of two average citizens of the day.

IT BEGAN in Bethlehem, at registration time. King Herod had ordered that all should register, so my father and I had joined hundreds from near and far on the trek to the City of David.

The streets were noisy and crowded, but we were soon settled comfortably in the quarters father secured for us with a small bag of coins. Others were not so fortunate. Most of the accommodations had been taken earlier and that which was left commanded a price most of the travelers were unable to pay.

Though tired from our long journey, the noise and excitement of my first trip away from home caused me to spend a rather sleepless night. The Innkeeper had posted a "No Room" sign on the door, yet there was an almost constant rap from newly-arrived travelers seeking rooms, most of whom begged only for a place to stretch out and rest their road-weary bodies. The Innkeeper turned them all away, refusing to further cramp his already crowded quarters. He almost forcibly closed the door on one insistent traveler who pleaded that he had a sick wife who must have shelter immediately.

"I have my troubles, too, my friend," was his caustic reply.

There were all sorts of interesting sounds in the darkness; the weary plodding of newly-arrived travelers, the scurrying of a dog, the baying of an ass, and the sound of a child crying in the night.

I walked to the window and then I saw the star.

It appeared suddenly, and was by far the most brilliant I had ever seen. So bright was its light that on the near hillside excited people, it seemed, because of the manner in which they moved about and gestured to one another. It was much too far for me to hear the sound of their voices, but I promised myself that on the morrow I would visit the stable and discover the cause of the excitement.

After the morning meal, I excused myself from my father's presence and started for the hillside. Nearing the stable, I was met by a young shepherd.

"There was excitement here last night," he said.

"Yes," I replied, "I saw it from my window. What happened?"

"A King was born, in this very stable."

"A King?"

"A true King, The King of all men."

"How foolish. Everyone knows that Herod is the only King. And, for a King to be born in a stable. What manner of King might he be?"

"The angels have proclaimed that He is the King of all men. I myself heard them." He looked up to the sky. "And, I saw them, too."

"And you saw this King?"

"I looked upon Him with my own eyes and I gave Him one of my most precious treasures—a newborn lamb. Of course, He could not speak, but His mother thanked me profusely for it."

"Then you are the foolish one, shepherd boy. I would not waste my time to look upon a King of sheep and animals who would be born in the cold dampness of a miserable stable, nor would I offer Him so much as a blade of grass. He be no King at all. Someone has deceived you."

I went away, telling myself that I did not believe the shepherd's story, yet, strangely afraid to enter the stable to look upon the child. Were He truly a King, I would have been terrified in His presence.

In the streets of the city, there was much whispering and gathering about. Moving from one group to another, I found that the excitement centered about the strange events that had taken place at the stable.

This I heard from the tongue of a venerable old man: "I looked upon Him as He lay there in the unkempt surroundings of that stable and it seemed to me that the very atmosphere seemed changed because of His presence. I say there is something exceptional about this child." And another, lifting his arms toward the sky, said in low voice, "Surely, this is the King promised to us long ago." A promised King, born in a stable, I thought. How confusing; it leaves me puzzled.

And there in the center of the largest group of all, I saw the shepherd boy, eager listeners pressing about him. He had been tending his sheep on a hillside, he said, when angels appeared, telling him to go to Bethlehem, where he would find a newborn King laid in a manger. He had been terribly frightened, but the angel had cautioned him to fear not, but to go to the stable with joy in his heart. Leaving his sheep untended, he had come to Bethlehem. Other shepherds had come too, as well as three men in royal robes who had come from a far distant land; guided, they said, by the light of a bright star that had bathed the stable and its surroundings in shining brilliance.

How I envied the shepherd boy at this moment—and chided myself for not having looked upon this King-child so that I too, might have a story to tell. After all, I had seen the stable and the excited people from my window, but what sort of a story could I make from that?

My father's business had not kept him so occupied that he had not heard of the birth of the so-called child-King. As we were preparing to leave the city for the long journey home, he asked if I had heard anything in the market place. When I told him the things I had seen that night and the talk I had heard on the streets, he said that we would visit the stable as it was on the route that led us out of the city. "We must see the birthplace of the King," he said.

It was indeed a simple shelter, little more than four walls. Through a hole in the roof the morning rays of the sun slanted downward, casting a bright halo of light on the stable's only furniture, a crude manger where the child must have lain. Reflections from the sparse straw scattered there made it appear to be lined with shining wisps of gold.

"So, this is the birthplace of a King," my father said, in an unbelieving tone. "How uncomfortable for a King." He walked forward, stopping just outside the shaft of light that encircled the manger. He reached out as if to catch the sunlight in his hand and for a moment he stood there, motionless. Then he jerked his hand away, as if he had been burned by a torch.

Curious, I stepped forward and experienced some form of shock, half expecting to be burned or to experience some form of shock, but the ray of light felt only warm and comforting. Again my father extended his arm and this time he did not draw it back, but stood there his eyes resting unblinkingly on the manger.

And then suddenly I saw the reason for his bewilderment, and impulsively I drew back. Here indeed was an illusion or a miracle!

The glittering light seemed to form an unapproachable aura about the crude crib and though the hand could pierce that light and move back and forth, it cast not a single shadow upon the glowing manger, nor even slightly dimmed the gold-like lustre of the wisps of straw scattered there. This was no earthly light, no simple ray from the sun.

We knelt there in the stillness of the stable, a man who was no longer cynical; a child who had discovered faith. For one brief moment it seemed that the most tender scene was repeated; the God-child, wrapped in swaddling clothes, slept peacefully in the manger while the tender and loving hands of His Mother hovered about Him.

And in the distance, there sounded the voices of the angels repeating our whispered words of praise, "Hail to the King —A King has been born in Bethlehem!"

Christmas Means Many Things to Many People

THE UNIVERSAL JOY of Christmas is certainly wonderful.

We ring bells when princes are born, or toll a mournful dirge when great men die.

Nations have their red-letter days, their carnivals, and festivals, but once in the year and only once, the whole world stands still to celebrate the advent of a life. Only Jesus of Nazareth claims this worldwide, undying remembrance. You cannot cut Christmas out of the calendar, nor out of the heart of the world.

There are many lovely legends which surround Christmas. There are beautiful songs. A half fairy lore has gathered around it. There are the ancient traditions of dusky woods and mystic rites; the magnificence of simplicity of Christian observance, from the Pope in his triple tiara, borne upon his portable throne in gorgeous state to celebrate Pontifical High Mass at the great altar at St. Peter's, to the country church preacher, humbly kneeling with his tiny congregation, here in Bulloch County. The lighting of Christmas trees and hanging up of Christmas stockings, the profuse giving, the happy family gatherings, the dinner, the fellowship—all these are the natural signs and symbols, the flower and fruit of Christmas.

For Christmas is the day of days which declares the universal human consciousness that peace on earth comes only from good will to men.

CHRISTMAS MEANS MANY Things to Many People. To the man of wealth, the man who has everything, Christmas may mean the cigarette lighter his wife gives him with a price tag of $1,000 on it. To his wife, to whom he has given everything—worldly things that is—Christmas may mean the sable fur coat she gives her with a price tag of $50,000. To their son, with whom they have given everything, Christmas may mean that new sports car with a price tag of $5,000 on it. These have so much that Christmas has come to mean little for them.

CHRISTMAS MEANS MANY Things to Many People. To the man, who like the first, has everything, Christmas may mean the half dozen rose bushes his wife gives him for his hobby garden. To his wife, to whom he has given his love and affection every day in the year, Christmas may mean the tiny, old-fashioned music box he found in an antique shop. To their son, with whom they have shared their love and affection, Christmas may mean the delight that comes with the receiving of an album of fine recorded music. To these in his family, Christmas means love, a time of happiness and spiritual growth. They have so much that Christmas grows and grows in its meaning for them.

CHRISTMAS MEANS MANY Things to Many People. To the little boy on North Main Street and the little girl on South Main, Christmas means the little round fat man with the rosy cheeks—the man with the long flowing white beard, dressed in the red suit with the wide black belt and the reindeer riding the skyways on a cold wintry night and who, by some form of wonderful magic comes down the chimney and leaves a new tricycle and a dozen other wonderful things. To children Christmas is the most wonderful time of all, and its meaning is lovely.

CHRISTMAS MEANS MANY Things to Many People. To the father and mother of our little friend on North Main Street and to the father and mother of the little girl on South Main Street, Christmas may mean weeks and months of work and worry over saving enough money to buy the new tricycle, Christmas means the need to sacrifice that they might give the ones they love the things they know Santa Claus will bring them at Christmastime. And this father and mother find Christmas worthwhile when they see the happiness which surrounds their child.

CHRISTMAS MEANS MANY Things to Many People. To many Christmas means just a two-day holiday during which to recover from the rigors of the pressures built up to push up the year's sales over last year's sales.

To many Christmas means a time to worry about how to meet the bills run up during our momentary madness brought about in the name of the Christmas spirit.

CHRISTMAS MEANS MANY Things to Many People. The ministers of our churches are becoming alarmed over the ever increasing commercialization of the birthday of our Jesus. They are concerned about the growing use of alcohol as a means to celebrate the birthday of our Jesus.

BUT COME CHRISTMAS DAY, deep down in the hearts and souls of all men there is a spark of the real Christmas when the whole Christian World prostrates itself in adoration around the crib of Bethlehem and rehearses in accents of love a history which precedes all time and will endure throughout eternity. As if by an instinct of our higher, spiritual nature, there will well up from the depths of our hearts, emotions which challenge the power of human expression. We will seem to be lifted out of the sphere of natural endeavor to put on a new life and to stretch forward in desire to a blessedness.

YES — CHRISTMAS Means Many Things to Many People!

DO YOU HAVE THE RIGHT?
SOMETIME AGO I read a pamphlet published by the National Council of Churches of Christ, and written by Dr. Ronald Bridges. It contained a most intriguing title—"The Right to Celebrate Christmas." Who ever thought that a person had to earn the right to celebrate Christmas?
Dr. Bridges contends that while children are born with the right to celebrate this joyous occasion, adults must qualify each year. (Oh! to be a child again!) Many times when you hear groans and complaints about the burden of the holiday season, you can strongly suspect that the complainer has lost his right.
WHAT DO YOU do to qualify for Christmas? Dr. Bridges offers two suggestions: First, you must become reconciled. It is a time to strengthen our spiritual accounts as well as matter of financial concern. A mother once advised her daughter on the eve of her wedding: "Clara, never go to bed without your house and soul in good order."
Soul supervision is difficult at best, and in the mad rush to prepare for Christmas can easily be forgotten. Yet, how can we be at odds with our fellowman at Christmas?

It Seems to Me...
max lockwood
It seems to me that this is a good time of year to think back over the weeks and months of 1957 which are now behind us and are a woven part of the history of our lives.
There are many things to be remembered and to be grateful for. When we gather around our Christmas trees on Christmas morning, amid the squeals of delight and shouts of "Christmas Gift," let's take time out to sit quietly while some member of the family reads again the Christmas Story from the Gospel of St. Luke, and another member in a prayer of dedication to him "who loved us and gave Himself for us." Then, if seems to me, we shall have earned the right to celebrate Christmas.
If you will forgive me for so using this column this week I would like to use this opportunity to express deep appreciation to all of you who have helped to make these ten years here such happy ones for me and my family.
Thank you for the share of the work you have shouldered

Spotlight on Statesboro B.P.W. Career Women

Pearl Deal is one of those women who have at one time or another joined hands with their husbands in business as well as marriage. Wife of Stithard Deal, whose 12-year term of office as sheriff of Bulloch County terminated January 1, 1957, she served as his deputy for 12 years.
Very much a woman regardless of her unusual job, Mrs. Deal handled the dual role in a home-business career very successfully. A woman deputy on the job, she remarked, has some slight gentling effect, and angry people are not so apt to explode when a woman deputy is in the chair. Once a woman proves her ability, she gets cooperation from the men.
Although she is no longer serving as deputy sheriff, she continues to serve the judges of Superior and City Court as woman bailiff, and in addition to this, works with the tax equalizers. Capable both at home and in the business world, she confides however that her husband and her new home are her first interests.
Mrs. Deal was born at Collins, Georgia, in Tattnall County, where she finished high school. She attended Georgia Teachers College, Statesboro, and has taught in both the Tattnall County and Bulloch County public schools.
The Statesboro Business and Professional Women's Club, of which she has long been a loyal and enthusiastic member, has greatly profited in every area in which she has worked. She is currently serving the club as co-chairman of membership. Membership in B.P.W., she believes, is a wonderful thing be-

MRS. STITHARD DEAL

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

Christmas came early this year to many people in Bulloch County.
To the harried Christmas shopper the store, formerly occupied by Aldred Grocery, looked just like any other small department store. Counters, filled with toys; hangers filled with dresses, suits; shelves filled with shirts, skirts, shoes. And people making selections. But they were not paying for them.
They were accepting the items they needed as "gifts" from the Junior Chamber of Commerce's "Filled Stocking Fund." Christmas gifts—not charity.

THE PEOPLE of Statesboro and county responded with open, warm and generous hearts to the Jaycee's annual Empty Stocking Drive. They contributed hundreds of toys—new toys, for the most part. There were clothes, good clothes, including men's suits, sweaters, overcoats, shirts, ties, shoes. There were clothes, dresses, suits, coats, sweaters, jackets.

AND THE MOST wonderful idea of all was the way the Jaycees, under the direction of Miss Sarah Hall and her staff, succeeded in eliminating the feeling of charity. Every family, known to be in need by Miss Hall and her staff, was invited to come to the "Jaycee Filled Stocking Store" on East Main Street. There was no doubt that his heart lay close to the soil of his home county. There was the little girl who, for the first time in her life, had a doll all her own. One she saw, fell in love with, and was told it was hers for the mere lifting of her tiny hands and clasping it to her tiny body.

THERE WAS a cash register at the center of the store building—but it was unattended and there was no sound of it ringing up sales. There was only the feeling of here's Christmas come early for many people.
This is a wonderful thing these young businessmen of Statesboro are doing and we're sure that their Christmas will be the better for having done it.

LEST OUR local Chamber of Commerce ring down their wrath on our heads over the weather story we had in last week's paper in which we revealed that the county's temperature at one time dropped to ten degrees.

As we have worked together to build the program to which me and my family have dedicated our lives. Your help, your counseling, your guidance and your money has been well mixed with the faith and hope and sweat which has brought about some measure of success in our work. Thank you for your friendship and for the friendly greeting so pleasantly given as we pass you on the street or meet you in your home or in your place of business.
Thank you for the good schools you have helped to build in which we can educate our children.
Thank you for the beautiful places of worship you have

Thru the P's of Virginia Russell

IT'S LATE in the afternoon what we can give for Christmas when most everyone has finished up the shopping and wrapping of gifts and even delivering them, and opening them, too.
Yet, somehow, some of us are never quite pleased with our gifts. They seem cheap and we declare we're certainly going to have a big Christmas savings by next year. They also seem inappropriate. When we bought them, we were either in a hurry, or our feet were killing us, or else the gifts seemed just the thing at the time. It was later that we wondered why in the world we bought this or that, anyhow.
ONE WAY to figure out what gifts are best is to think back and recall what gifts have meant most to us. Some gifts have been serviceable, to be sure. Some are many years old and still in use, and we have enjoyed and appreciated them.
THE STORY of the fir tree which was so impatient to grow up and see the world is so typical of all of us. We hurry, hurry through life, often without realizing that this is the moment to enjoy life, and enjoy it with someone near us.
We can't wrap ourselves up in a pretty package but we can give of ourselves in kind and encouraging words, in visits and in love. For after all, it was just such a gift that made Christmas for us.

ACTUALLY, though, the loveliest gifts aren't always wrapped in tissue paper and tied with a pretty ribbon. Somehow the gift of oneself is about the grandest gift there is.

and at another time rose to 107 degrees, we better sort of qualify our story.
These lows and highs are what make our county's weather interesting. For the most of the time we drift along with Father Time being very generous to us in the matter of weather.

During this year—January 1, 1957, to date—there were only ten days when the temperature went below freezing and that for only a few hours. Only two days in January, the 14th and 15th, and two days in December, the 12th and 13th, did the thermometer drop below freezing and stay there for more than twenty-four hours. Only seven days in the entire year did the thermometer rise over 95 degrees.

There are homes which boast of growing Christmas trees, a tropical fruit, kumquats, and even grapefruit.
Why there was one year, according to some of the old-timers, who say 'tis really true, when the 25 degrees was the low for a three-year period.

Well, what we're trying to say is that the "exceptions" in our weather only emphasize the wonderful climate with which we are blessed here in Bulloch County.

Thank you for a clean well kept city in which to live; for good government, health services, fire and police protection, for debt-free management and for all the things which are necessary and go into the building of a fine community.
And so the Lockwood family joins hands together to wish to each and everyone of you a happy holiday season and may the New Year be filled with all the good things of life and most especially with good health for you and for all those whom you so dearly love.
Our best to you.

THE BULLOCH HERALD Farm and Family Features

Flue-cured tobacco allotment is set at 713,468 acres for 1958
The U. S. Department of Agriculture today announced a 1958 national flue-cured tobacco allotment of 713,468 acres and the continuation of the flue-cured variety discount program for next year.
Since the 1958 national allotment is only slightly more than 712,600 acres available this year, the farm allotments in effect, the flue-cured tobacco allotment will be the same as in 1957. The slight increase in the total allotment results from allowances for allotments to farms which have not grown flue-cured tobacco during the past 5 years, for correction and for adjusting inequities among individual farm allotments.
In the referendum July 23, 1955, a total of 97.3 per cent of the flue-cured tobacco growers voting favored quotas for the 1956, 1957, and 1958 crops. Marketing quotas have been in effect for flue-cured tobacco since year since enactment of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, except for the 1939 crop for which they were disapproved by growers.
Primes for the 1958 crop of flue-cured tobacco varieties Coker 139, Coker 140, and Dixie Brought 244 will be supported at one-half the support rates for comparable grades of other varieties. This is a continuation of the variety discount program in effect for the 1957 crop. These varieties have been classified by Federal and state scientists located in the flue-cured area as "low to lacking in flavor and aroma, generally of light body, and/or currently with poor acceptance in trade."
As a protection against the planting of mixed or inferior seed, flue-cured growers are strongly urged to get planting seed from reputable and dependable sources.
Flue-cured tobacco is grown in North Carolina, Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Alabama.
Family Life Specialist Miss Audrey Morgan, Agricultural Extension Service, believes poetry should be read for the sheer pleasure it gives, never use it as a reading exercise or force a child to memorize it as a punishment, she advises.
Miss Hilda Dalley, home management specialist, Agricultural Extension Service, says if your sink is low, place a wooden rack in the bottom of it and use a dish pan for washing dishes, thus avoiding leaning over the sink.
Harry L. Vause was elected Worshipful Master and other members elected and appointed and installed to serve with him during 1958 were: Willie R. Kelly, senior warden; E. W. Barnes, junior warden; Burton C. Henry, senior deacon; Bernie C. Waters, junior deacon; Hiram B. Dollar Sr., senior steward; Today J. Harville, junior steward; Leon D. McEveeney, past master, custodian of works; and members re-elected were Frank J. 1, 1958.

Curry Leads Professors In Home Victory

The Georgia Teachers College Professors came from behind here Friday night to nip Pikeville (Ky.) College 31-30 in the last 17 seconds in their first home game on December 11.
Trailing 79 to 73 with 2:45 remaining, the Profs scored eight points to a lone free throw by the visiting Bears with the climax coming on a 20-foot jump shot by Chester Curry with 17 seconds left.
Pikeville's All-American candidate, John Lee Butcher, didn't dissipate the 1,500 fans at the game. He hit for 31 points, most of them coming on long jump shots. Four Profs scored in double figures, with Curry's 24 leading. Cary Moore, the junior transfer from Mercer, played his best game of the year and added 21 counters.
Team captain Ronnie Rush scored 19 points, took off 12 rebounds and made seven assists to lead both teams in the latter two departments, despite fouling out with six minutes left.

The G.T.C. Story from 1908 to date

Georgia Teachers College is one of the seven white senior colleges in the University System of Georgia. As these needs and problems have changed, each administration has adapted the college program to meet the needs of the state. In its history the college has served in turn as an elementary school, a high school, a normal school and a teachers college.

The college originated as one of ten district agricultural and mechanical schools established through a legislative bill introduced by H. H. Perry of Hall County and supported by Governor Joseph H. Terrell. To secure the location of the First District school, the people of Statesboro and Bulloch County gave 300 acres of land, installed and furnished lights free for ten years, and contributed $25,000 in cash. At first no appropriation was made by the state for maintenance, the provision being that all funds derived from fertilized and oil inspection fees would be utilized for the support of the district schools. This arrangement proved unsatisfactory and was replaced in 1911 by an appropriation bill of the legislature with annual allocations for maintenance.

The First District Agricultural and Mechanical School was opened on February 7, 1908, and continued as such until August, 1924, serving on an elementary and secondary level. During this period, however, the school maintained a special course for teachers. Seventy per cent of the women graduates entered the teaching field.

With the rapid expansion in public school enrollments following World War I, the growing need for teachers became the concern of the people of Southeast Georgia and of the State Department of Education of Trustees, a legislative enactment converting the First District A. and M. School into the Georgia Normal School was passed. It was approved by Governor Cliff Walker on August 15, 1924.

In the following four years Georgia Normal School developed rapidly to the status of a four-year institution. The degree of B.S. in Education was conferred for the first time to members of the June Graduating class in 1929, and in the summer of 1929 the legislature passed a bill changing the name of the school from Georgia Normal School to South Georgia Teachers College.

In 1931, the tax-supported colleges, previously under the management of separate Boards of Trustees, were placed under the control of a single board, the Board of Regents, and all the institutions of higher learning were coordinated into the University System of Georgia. In 1939 the Board of Regents changed the name of the college from South Georgia Teachers College to Georgia Teachers College.

On Friday, November 15, 1957, the Board of Regents approved the granting of master of education degrees in seven fields for Georgia Teachers College. This was a fitting climax for 50 years of educational progress at Statesboro.

Fall enrollment at G.T.C. this year is 914, largest in the school's history.

John H. Strickland, Maytag regional manager at Statesboro, Ga., was one of the over 300 members of the Maytag field organization attending the first Maytag International regional manager meeting at the appliance firm's Newton, Iowa, headquarters, December 17 and 18.

Army Specialist Third Class Gordon Jones Jr., whose father lives on Route 2, Statesboro, Ga., will spend the Christmas holidays in Hawaii with members of the 29th Infantry Division.

In Hawaii since last July, Specialist Jones is assigned to Company B of the division's 125th Signal Battalion.

Seven men from the First District have served as members of the Board of Regents since the organization in 1933. These include: S. H. Morgan, Guyton, 1933-37; John G. Kennedy, Savannah, 1937-41; E. Ormound Hunter, Savannah, 1941-42; Carey Arnett, Halcynsdale, 1942-43; J. L. Renfro, Statesboro, 1944-45; Jim Peterson, Soperton, 1945-55; F. Everett Williams, Statesboro, 1955-.

Rockwell Statesboro Corporation honors 22 employees for service

At a recent informal luncheon, Rockwell Statesboro Corporation general manager Sam W. Brown honored twenty-two employees for their long service with the company.

During his remarks to the group, Mr. Brown was especially mindful of the experience that was represented, and what that experience meant to the company in regard to efficient and quality production. He pointed out that as they grew with the company, the company gained manufacturing experience and prospered too.

For example, 35 years ago when Ray Barge was started with the company, it was operating only one or two plants. The name was different, and the product line was limited. Last year, Rockwell had more than 20 plants in operation, producing over 30 different products. "Experience," said Mr. Brown, "is synonymous with growth and prosperity."

Receiving service pins set with precious stones were R. H. Barge, engineering, 35 years; F. S. Henry, machine shop, 30 years; and G. N. Martin, lead warehouse, 30 years.

Others receiving service pins were W. L. Taylor, machine shop, and S. T. Pollak, industrial meters, 25 years; W. N. Kristinger, tool room; A. C. McLean, tool crib; E. J. Cullen, gasoline and oil; D. B. Vestal, assembly; Nelson McCormick, production; W. L. Seemel, inspection, received 20-year awards.

H. E. McArdle, tool room; W. J. Barry, production; C. F. Raith, purchasing; Wallace G. Cook, shipping; J. F. Herzig, accounting; W. N. Lewis, sales; received 15-year awards. E. A. Walton, register; F. J. Sward, machine shop; George Young, gas meter; J. P. Savage, manufacturing; Lawrence Tierney, inspection; received 10-year awards.

Dent Newton named chairman of 1958 Heart Fund Drive in Bulloch

Mr. Dent Newton of Statesboro has been selected as chairman for the 1958 Heart Fund Drive in Bulloch County, Brunswick A. Bagdon, state campaign chairman, announced this week. Mr. Newton, a Bulloch Countyman, works at the Rockwell Statesboro Corporation.

Mr. Bagdon said the Heart Association was proud to have Mr. Newton lead the Bulloch County Heart Fund Drive this year. "We feel certain that under such able leadership our drive in this area against heart disease will be an outstanding success," he said.

According to Miss Hilda Dalley, home management specialist, Agricultural Extension Service, Georgia homemakers with a family of five or more received an average of 10 minutes a day help with washing dishes.

The Heart Fund drive, conducted in February each year, is the Heart Association's single appeal for funds to support the heart program of research, education, and community services. The GHA also contributes to the national research program of the American Heart Association.

New GTC Transit Coach

With Safety Equipment

College Purchases New Deluxe Heavy Duty Bus

The above is a photo of a Blue Bird Deluxe All-American Transit Coach similar to the one purchased by Georgia Teachers College. The GTC coach will be painted and equipped similar to the one in the photo except for the designation sign on front.

The coach for Georgia Teachers College is a 33-seat adult passenger coach equipped with headrest reclining type seats, deluxe heavy-duty luggage racks inside, four under-floor luggage compartments, three heaters, and all safety equipment such as first aid kit, fire extinguisher, etc. This coach is approximately 29 feet in length with a wheelbase of 179 inches, which makes it easy to maneuver in traffic, powered by a 212 horsepower Ford engine and equipped with air brakes.

There will be some delay in the delivery of this unit because of the special headrest reclining type seats. These seats are being purchased from the National Seating Company, and they cannot promise the Blue Bird Body Company delivery of the bus

For maximum winter grazing, oats should be fertilized with 80 to 100 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre. This recommendation is from J. R. Johnson, agronomist-project leader, Agricultural Extension Service.

M.D.A. drives nets $1,050

A citation of merit is in order for H. P. Womack, superintendent of Bulloch County Schools and civilian co-chairman, Capt. Carroll L. Herrington, Statesboro Unit of National Guards, and co-chairman, Harriet Holleman, chairman Youth Group — Canister Committee, and Mrs. Claise Smith, President of Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, who said local residents had contributed approximately $1,050.00 to the fund drive for the 1957 March for M.D.A., which terminated recently.

This money will be used for research seeking a cause and a cure for muscular dystrophy and for patient service, clinics, transportation, educational and recreational programs for child and adult victims of the disease.

This speaks well for the good citizens of Bulloch County for their generosity in contributing time and money to help those who cannot help themselves.

Taking part in the drive were the local National Guardsmen, directed by Captain Herrington, and 15 teenagers directed by Harriet Holleman and many other adults under the supervision of Mr. Womack and Mrs. Smith.

Donald Stewart at Fort Gordon, Ga.

Donald E. Stewart, son of Mrs. Mamie Lou Stewart of 106 West Main Street, Statesboro, has completed eight weeks of infantry basic training in the Second Training Regiment at Fort Gordon, Georgia.

SOIL AND WATER NEWS
The U. S. fish hatchery last week finished up their delivery of broam to district cooperators here in Bulloch. Those farmers receiving broam were R. V. Vickery, D. L. Tankerley and Benny Earl Deal of the Middle-ground community, W. A. Bowen and James Call of Westside, William Cromley of Brooks, Brooks Hendrix of Clito, and Chisby Denmark of Nevils. According to Miss Doris Oglesby, housing equipment specialist, Agricultural Extension Service, new liquid detergent are good to use with automatic washers which have a cold wash setting for woolens.

All that certain tract or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the 45th G. M. District of Bulloch County, Georgia, containing 242.5 acres, more or less, and bound as follows: north by lands of L. O. Rushing estate and by lands of John Coleman; east by lands of J. A. Stephens and by lands of John Coleman; south by lands of Foster Williams and west by lands of L. O. Rushing estate and reinvest the proceeds, because of the small income of said wards' property sought to be sold.

This the 10th day of December, 1957.

EDDIE MAE RUSHING, guardian of Norma Sylvia Rushing and William Robert Rushing, 1-2-4tc. (130) CA.

Statesboro Report

by S. W. BROWN, General Manager Statesboro Plant - Rockwell Manufacturing Company

CHRISTMAS IS A TIME when many of us think of the events of the past year and take stock of the good things that have come our way.

One of the fine things which has happened to Rockwell is the way it has been accepted into the community—how it has been welcomed and made to feel "at home" in Statesboro. There are many ways this spirit has been shown, but it has been made most evident by the genuine display of good feeling and interest toward Rockwell and its people. For this we are very thankful.

The display of interest in the Rockwell operation is indicated most by the number of inquiries we get about the plant, its operations, and its people. This being the case, we've decided to start this little column which will appear from time to time. We'll call it a Statesboro Report because it is meant as an informal report to you on what's going on out at our plant.

The emphasis that has been on our schools recently brings to mind the vital services our schools perform for the community. From our brief acquaintance with the Statesboro School administrators, it's easy to see that they are following the American ideal of providing a rounded, useful education for the community's children. It is their aim to develop every child as far as his abilities permit.

Here at the Statesboro Division our experiences are parallel because school is in session all year long. We have a constant program of education for our people from the day they are employed as trainees. Some classes are organized to permit formal instruction with lectures and demonstrations, but the great part of our in-plant education takes place right on the job. Here our supervisors and older employees take a new employee under their wings and pass along their experience so that those employees learn to do their jobs well. As our people gain greater skills and abilities, they are moved on to more challenging jobs which require more training and experience. Just like the public schools, it is our constant aim to develop our people as far as their abilities permit.

In future "Statesboro Reports" we hope to tell you specifically how some of our people have responded to this training and have advanced themselves as a result of it. We'll also pass along information on our products, our local operations, and other stories which will help Statesboro get better acquainted with Rockwell and its people. Just as you, as an individual, want your friends to know you better, so it is that Rockwell wants to be known and understood by the community in which it operates.

The merchant on "Main Street" has an advantage over us. He can display his wares in his windows where you can see them when you shop or go to the movies. Located as we are on the edge of town there is a possibility that some folks might forget about us. That's exactly what we don't want to happen. The purpose of these "Reports" is to see that it doesn't happen. We are as much a part of Statesboro as the merchant on "Main Street" and these "Reports" are our window displays. We hope you will enjoy reading them as they appear from time to time.
