Rural roads, a political hayfield

We refuse to get our dander up and blow our top over the politician-generated issue over Governor Griffin's recommendation that the total capitalization available for rural roads construction be increased by fifty million dollars so that rural road building can be carried on in the future without any serious curtailment.

The Rural Roads Authority is one of the many authorities set up by the State of Georgia. There is the School Building Authority, the University System Building Authority, the State Farmers Market Building Authority, the Bridge Building Authority and others.

Without the School Building Authority we would not be without the schools it helped us build when they were sorely needed. Without the University System Building Authority our Georgia Teachers College would be unable to build the new classroom building coming up. Without the Rural Roads Authority the Leefield to Stillson road, the Arcola to Bryan County line would be still dirt roads.

Governor Griffin's proposal to increase by fifty million dollars the capitalization of the Rural Roads Authority is designed to allow rural counties to plan for the future. It is unfortunate that the proposal has been fouled up in a bid for power in the forthcoming race for governor of Georgia.

The money itself is not the real issue. There is little concern over other millions of dollars that the state is spending on scores of other state services. The highway department has always and always will be a field for making political hay for candidates for chief executive of Georgia.

The present program was widely acclaimed by individuals and the press when it went into operation. If it was a good program then, why is it not as good now?

Charges of political pressures by each side in favor of or against the proposal are the order of the day in this political chess game. Such pressures have been with us throughout the history of Georgia. It's a calculated part of our government and must be recognized as such.

William Bates, Atlanta Constitution political editor, in Monday's Constitution wrote that Mr. Vandiver, president of the Senate and an unannounced candidate for governor of Georgia, "needed an opportunity to dispel the feeling in some quarters that he was unable to jump into the political fray and slug it out with the best of them. Griffin's road proposal gave him that opportunity. And he's making the most of it." Mr. Bates wrote that Mr. Vandiver's "decision was not greeted with enthusiasm by some of his advisors and supporters."

By the time this appears there will have been a public hearing which was scheduled for Monday of this week. We believe that as people of our section are for Mr. Griffin's proposal, recognizing all the political shenanigan over it for what it is.

This week Rockwell Statesboro Corporation is two years old and we say "Happy Birthday."

By now there must be full realization of what this industry here in Bulloch County means to us as a business community. With farm income decreased there is a turning to industry to help make the difference in the farm family budget.

Over three hundred people—Bulloch County people—some earning all their living and some members of families supplementing the family earnings at Rockwell. The will add over a million dollars to the economy of their home community—and that is not small money.

We hate to think of the status of many of our community had Rockwell elected to have settled elsewhere. And we believe that there should be a feeling of loyalty, a feeling of belonging to on the part of those who have benefited from our community's newest industry, now only two years old.

Let's all join together in saying to Rockwell, "Happy Birthday, and may you have many more here."

Waiting for a $3 tag

Our local tax commissioner says that his 1953 auto tags are not selling like hot cakes. As of Friday of last week he had sold only about 1,200. And that's short by over 7,000 of the number sold last year.

Could it be that folks are listening to the three-dollar tag some politicians are singing, in hopes of saving a few dollars? We would like to save money, and would be happy to get our tag free if politicians want to give them away. But we believe that right now Georgia has more serious problems confronting us than a hassle over cutting the price of auto tags to three dollars.

People able to drive $2,000 to $5,000 automobiles are surely able to pay $7.50 or $10 for the privilege of operating it, and the difference will not help solve the high cost of living.

Let's advise our politicians to abandon this hassle and remember that they are supposed to be community leaders attending to affairs of state.

A statistician is a man who draws a straight line from an unfounded assumption to a foregone conclusion.—Answers.

Tourists: People who travel thousands of miles to get a picture of themselves standing by the car.—Irish Electrical Trader.

Who rules the roost? Just watch that Rockwell, "Happy Birthday, and may you have many more here."

Doctor King pointed out the tremendous decrease in cases of polio as a result of the Salk vaccine made possible by the "March of Dimes." Figures of the U. S. Public Health Service show that there were only 5,834 cases of polio in the United States last year—compared with 15,400 cases in 1956 and 29,270 cases in 1955.

Records at the local Health Department show that a total of 8,104 polio shots were given in the county last year. However, only 2,482 patients completed the series of three shots during the year. Three shots are necessary for full protection. Very few adults have completed the series, according to Dr. King.

"We urge everyone to give full support to this worthwhile undertaking. The 'March of Dimes' through your contributions has developed a completely safe and effective vaccine to conquer polio.

This Week's Meditation

By The Rev. L. E. Houston Jr.

DESIRING TO BE TAUGHT SOME MONTHS ago I mentioned in this column Nevil Shute's new and terrifying novel, "On The Beach." At the time I had not read it. After almost making myself a nuisance around the college library asking if a copy had arrived I was handed one even before it was cataloged. And dropping all else, I sat down to read it.

The story is a projection into the future and concerns itself with life on the earth after a nuclear war. The Short War, as the conflict was called, destroyed all life in the Northern Hemisphere and the radio-active dust, driven by the winds, settled in the Southern Hemisphere and slowly but surely annihilated the lives of the remaining inhabitants.

THE STORY centers around a group in Australia who are waiting for the inevitable call to death. One of Shute's characters, Peter Holmes, is discussing with his wife the holocaust. She asks: "Couldn't anyone have stopped it?" He answers her: "I don't know... some kinds of illness you just can't stop. I mean, if a couple of hundred million people all decide that their national honor requires them to drop cobalt bombs upon their neighbors, well, there's not much that you or I can do about it. The only possible hope would have been to educate them out of their silliness." IT SEEMS to me that Peter Holmes was showing insight into the problem when he points out education as the answer to much of our barbarism and inability to live as brothers in our world. But, I believe that another character in this unusual story points out yet a deeper need on the part of humanity today.

Commander Dwight Towers was the commanding officer on the sole surviving American submarine. With his girl friend, Miora, he visits an art gallery in an Australian city and speaks his dislike for all religious art. "I like them when they are full of color and don't try to teach you anything." Now, how can education be meaningful if there is no desire to be taught?

COMMANDER TOWERS was right in inferring that religion tries to teach us something. For the Christian religion is concerned with the whole of life, not simply a part. And it contends to stand for world peace, world brotherhood, and the dignity of the individual. We might well let religion that in our hearts the desire to be taught before "On The Beach" becomes a reality.

Spotlight on Statesboro B.P.W. Career Women

Lucile Fordham, formerly Lucile Miller, was born and reared in the 48th District of Bulloch County, Georgia. She is the wife of Wiley Fordham, one of Bulloch County's representatives to the State legislature, and they have two daughters, three granddaughters, and one grandson, of whom they are very proud.

In addition to being a helpful wife, good mother, and lovable and affectionate grandmother, Mrs. Fordham has, for the past fourteen years, successfully operated "Fordham's Beauty Shop in the Sea Island Bank building.

She has been a member of the Statesboro Business and Professional Women's Club for a number of years, and is currently serving as co-chairman of the organization. Realizing that state legislative platforms are important in the B. P. W. Federation's program for advancement of women, she takes advantage of her opportunity to "lobby" with her husband representative. She practices a gracious approach in this, as in all else, which is not only to be preferred but gets better results.

Other organization membership includes Order of the Eastern Star, of which organization she is Past Matron, and Elk's Auxiliary. Mrs. Fordham is an active member of the Statesboro Primitive Baptist Church.

WE GOT TRAPPED into listening to a radio on Friday morning of last week. All we got out of it was that confusion reigns supreme. The announcer, a character calling himself "Uncle Bobby," finally got through to us that that was all we were supposed to get out of it—Confusion with a capital C. Confusion compounds confusion and ends in confusion and if we don't get out of this then "Uncle Bobby" has succeeded to a certain degree in accomplishing his contrived confusion. In our attempt to orient ourselves we resorted to Webster's International Dictionary which restored our peace of mind. "Confusion" allows WID is "overthrow; defeat; discomfiture; ruin; loss of self-possession; act of mixing or blending, or state of being mixed or blended, so as to produce incorrectness or error. A mental state characterized by unstable attention, poor perception of present reality, disorientation, and inability to act coherently..." That figures... to wind our watch we turned the knob on the radio.  SIGN OF THE TIMES—A cough medicine now advertises "A guaranteed cough" medicine.  HERE'S ANOTHER ONE—Two men, each a caucasian, were working on a roof. The scaffold broke and they fell down a chimney, Santa fashion, and landed in a fireplace. They got up, stretched themselves, walked around the room and realized they weren't hurt. Then they looked at each other. Yet the man with the clean face went to wash up, the one with the dirty face went back to work without washing. Why did they do this? We don't know the answer either, but the one who was browsing through some old newspapers.  SET ASIDE Friday morning, February 7, for the celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of Georgia Teachers College and the ceremonies at McCrean Auditorium that morning to how each could help the other to do a better job. SURVEYS WERE studied, graphs were projected and conclusions were reached. In the background helping to tie the conference together was the very skillful staff of the center. These folks, training in how to help people plan, did a masterful job of guidance without trying to "run" the conference.

This beautiful building located there on the University campus is a thing of great value to the people of Georgia. To describe it in one word perhaps say it is just like a large hotel. Concerning the structure this is true, but this new giant of a building is so much more than that. In this new facility Georgia is the first in the south with such a program and second in the nation. The only other one of its kind is located in Michigan.

DAILY THERE are groups of folks from all over Georgia meeting together to plan for the present and the future. Bringing with them their special problems and their talents for helping solve those problems, the end result being better programs on the community level which in turn will mean a greater Georgia on every level. These two hundred representatives of agencies and people dealing with recreational planning and activities, took a good look at the proposal of the Georgia Recreation Society to establish at Georgia Recreation Commission. They studied it, compared it with other states and with other plans. Following the conference study sessions the group in executive session unanimously endorsed the legislation calling for the creation of such a commission. With only one recommended change in the bill, which was adopted, the groups joined together and sent this resolution to the Governor. "That the present Governor's Conference on Recreation and Leisure Time Use endorse the bill proposed by the Georgia Recreation Society, which calls for the creation of the Georgia Recreation Commission." Unanimously adopted.

Our prayer is that this plan will be accepted in Atlanta as the General Assembly meets this week to study and consider it. You can truthfully say to your legislators, this is a program for Georgia and for her people. No single person or groups will receive a blessing but rather will all the people of our great state be blessed.

ANY COMMUNITY in our state today which does not have the benefit of sound recreational planning is taking a great risk concerning the conservation of its human resources.

Our prayer is that this plan will be accepted in Atlanta as the General Assembly meets this week to study and consider it. You can truthfully say to your legislators, this is a program for Georgia and for her people. No single person or groups will receive a blessing but rather will all the people of our great state be blessed.

THEN ON SUNDAY I sat in church and listened to the young people conduct the morning services. Young people were doing this all over the state. One girl spoke about the poster showing a boy asking God to help his unbeliever.

The program was splendid but very moving and caused some of us older folks to get right emotional. There's something mighty touching about the freshness of young and when the youth are trying to live good clean lives and establish their beliefs in God. SITTING THERE in church I wondered how we can help young people most. If they are to believe in God, we will have to examine our own beliefs and discover what we believe. Words uttered are useless if we don't live them.

IT WOULD be foolish for teachers to teach democracy with a fierce passion if people don't vote, if people don't believe in democracy and show it. Teachers and all adults have a tremendous responsibility to our young people to our country and to our God. Those young eyes are watching us every day. They will not believe what we say but what we live.

How are we living? It shows what we believe.

and all had had the advantage of the fullest educational opportunity. Yet only seven scored passing grades and none posted a mark higher than 75. Only 13 made more than 60 and 11 averaged less than 50. Of the 26 competing for nomination to the Air Force Academy only two passed algebra and only 10 vocabulary. On the algebra portion of the quiz, 14 made less than 40. The only consolation which Georgians can take is that most other Senators report similarly-poor grades on the part of applicants from their states.

THESE RESULTS reflect not upon the boys but rather upon the system of which they are the product. The unpleasant truth is that over the last quarter of a century the practitioners of so-called progressive education in their preoccupation with the adjustment of the individual, have substituted the right to march in a commencement procession for the right to an education.

The theorists have shifted emphasis from required application in mastering the three R's to free choice of subjects by the pupil—that choice more often being social science and handicraft than math, physics or chemistry. And therein have been produced the high school graduates whom our colleges find mathematically and scientifically illiterate, unable to spell or write a simple essay and ignorant of any foreign language and barely proficient in their own.

IN RUSSIA a student completes high school after 10 years of study and in that time receives 1,353 hours of classroom and laboratory instruction in the sciences and nine years of training in one foreign language and six years in another. In the United States where secondary education is such studies receive, at a maximum, only 756 hours in science and three years in one language.

The warning in this to the United States was well stated recently by one of America's foremost scientists and scholars, Rear Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, father of the atomic submarine—in these words: "The scientific revolution is upon us and we have not prepared to meet its ever-spreading demands. The launching of the Sputnik is a providential warning; we will disregard this warning at our peril."

THE GRADES MADE by Georgians on the Civil Service examination given those seeking appointment to the service academies brought home with a jolt the failure of our vaunted American educational system to prepare our youth for competition in a world in scientific revolution.

THE MEMBERS of the Statesboro Woman's Club are a peripatetic group of citizens. Way back the first part of last year they began working toward air-conditioning the library on South Main Street. They have accumulated some money from several projects they have sponsored. They had a big bridge and canasta benefit party on Tuesday afternoon of this week with the proceeds to go into their library air-conditioning fund. If anyone who uses the library a lot and knows how warm it can get in the building during the summer months, wishes to make a personal contribution, send your check to Mrs. L. M. Durden, Statesboro, Ga., and mark it "air-conditioning fund."

Like the two suits advertised in SATURDAY EVENING POST and LADIES HOME JOURNAL, one of our two suiting watches has been Sanitone Dry Cleaned 50 times, the other is brand new. 1958 outlook for field and horticultural crops discussed

By ROY POWELL
County Agent

Last week I looked back on 1957 and its accomplishments in soil and water conservation. I found that cooperators of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District have matured in their attitudes toward soil and water conservation and are going about the job of conserving their own soil and water in a businesslike manner. In other words, they have come to realize that if the job is worth doing (and they know it is) it is worth doing right.

This week I would like to look forward into 1958. As many of you know, Mr. Hak Young Kim from South Korea was with us for a month during December and, as you know, orientals have a way of philosophizing. Mr. Kim came to this conclusion:

AT LAST!
All Garments of Wool and Wool-like Fabrics can now be DRY CLEANED with original body and texture fully retained every time. SOFT-SET® Perfected by SANITONE!

"Willie Wirehand" Says

ELECTRIC HEAT... CAN'T BE BEAT!

DO YOU KNOW... that you can install efficient electric heat in your home, new or old, for no more—and probably less—than any other type of central heat?

And that fuel cost—at our low rates—will be no more, and probably less, than any other fuel available in the rural and suburban areas we serve?

THESE ARE FACTS. Ask us to prove them!

Do you know that insulation—to prevent heat loss—is the key to operating economy with any type of fuel? And that great advances have been made in recent years, both in insulating materials—and their application?

THESE, TOO, ARE FACTS. We know how to insulate your home for greater economy, in installation and fuel costs. Our members can have this information for the asking.

ELECTRIC HEAT can't be beat! We are convinced this is true. We invite your inquiries, and think we can show you why. Which is another reason why we say...

CO-OP ELECTRICITY IS GOOD FOR GEORGIA!

The Rev. Kent Gillenwater giving series of 'studies in Hosea'

By MRS. E. F. TUCKER

The Rev. Kent Gillenwater is teaching the book "Studies in Hosea" at the regular prayer services at the church every Wednesday night.

James Tucker of Savannah was a visitor here last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Lee of Brooklet spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Knight and son, Vernon of Savannah, visited relatives here during the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. White and children, Ann, Jimmie and Barbara Sue of Statesboro, were visitors here Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilson visited relatives in Vidalia last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Turner and family have moved from Statesboro to the farm of Mrs. N. G. Cowart.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Baker through which profits are lost or reduced.

FATS AND OILS
Supplies for export during 1957-58 will again be larger. Lower prices expected should encourage foreign buyers, but the total amount exported will depend heavily on U. S. export aid programs. Increase in production is putting downward pressure on soybean prices.

Georgia's average per acre yield of thirteen bushels compares unfavorably with the 22 1/2 national average. Competition with other food oils and by products will hold overall cotton seed prices fairly close to present levels. Good quality planting seed will be scarcer and higher in price. Lard output will move upward about eight to 10 per cent as pork production goes up during 1958. As a result lard prices along with pork prices will go below 1957 levels.

VEGETABLES
The increasing importance of processed vegetables in the vegetable consumption pattern is a factor of importance to Georgia vegetable growers. Production of vegetables under contract is likely to increase because of the market's need for volume and standardization.

Georgia vegetable growers should consider carefully possibilities for developing volume sales and standardized quality vegetables. Marketing agreements are also useful vehicles for guarding against competition of low quality products. Careful attention to details in the planning and conduct of production programs can plug some of the leaks and mistakes.

The Truth About Air Ride

-and why it's better in a Buick

Every window of every Buick is SAFETY GLASS.

Most cars have always used horizontal leaf springs. Some use horizontal torsion bars. For 2 decades, Buick has used nothing but upright coil springs at all 4 wheels for better, softer cushioning. And to get the most out of these buoyant upright springs—to bring additional solidity, balance and stability to the ride—Buick developed a new kind of chassis. This exclusive Buick chassis has the rugged roadability of a massive X-braced frame and the true-tracking steadiness of Buick's Rotoflow Torque-Tube Drive. Developed and perfected by 20 years of experience with upright springs, Buick's Miracle Ride Chassis today turns out to be a "natural" for replacing upright coil springs with upright air springs. It's this exclusive chassis engineering experience that gives you in Buick the smoothest, most advanced, most experienced air ride* in the world.

ROCKWELL'S ANNIVERSARY

OPEN HOUSE

JANUARY 31, 1958

HELP US CELEBRATE TWO YEARS OF PROGRESS...

...two years of progress that all our neighbors have helped make possible. We'd like everyone to see how we've come from an empty plant with inexperienced people to a bustling machine shop and assembly plant turning out a wide variety of complex products—all in a short two-year period.

Much of our progress has been due to the wholehearted cooperation we have received from Statesboro and Bulloch County residents. Our 330 employees and many townspeople have pitched in to help make all our jobs easier and to get us off to a running start. Without this splendid cooperation we could not have enjoyed such progress.

In recognition of the helping hand so many of our neighbors have extended, we are inviting all Bulloch County and Statesboro citizens to help us celebrate our second anniversary here.

The date is January 31. Why not plan to be with us? Our doors will be open to the public from 1:00 P.M. until 8:00 P.M. and we promise interesting plant tours and a piece of our birthday cake. This is our way of saying thanks for helping us make the Statesboro Division a vital link in the chain of Rockwell plants serving the nation.

Rockwell now operates plants in 24 cities, coast to coast

Rockwell Manufacturing Company is a good neighbor in 23 other communities, with plants spread from coast to coast.

The Rockwell emblem appears on 125 different products, most of which contribute in some measure to your health and happiness. Basic product lines include gas, water and petroleum meters, industrial meters, parking meters, taximeters, fare registers, gauges, pressure regulators, valves and power tools for home workshops and industry.

Our future here in Statesboro is bright; for our Statesboro products are serving the growing markets of the great Southeast and the entire country. Our future is also secured by the fact that we have stable employment which is not subject to seasonal variations. Our variety of products also lends security because a decrease in demand for one product is often made up in increased volume on another.

With the continued cooperation of a fine group of willing employees and the splendid support of the Statesboro community, we look ahead to future growth in which all can share.
