The innocent suffer with the guilty

Accusations of operating speed traps are being hurled again at counties in Georgia through which U. S. Highway 301 passes.

State automobile associations get what they call "complaints" from their members to the effect that the members are being trapped for speeding by fee-hungry officers in certain counties, and forced to put up cash bonds the officers know will be forfeited. The automobile associations then put out "the word" and suggest that the tourist seeking the sunshine in Florida either avoid Georgia altogether or use some other through highway.

Bulloch county is not included in those counties so accused. But it is true that because our county includes U. S. 301 we feel the effect of the so-called speed traps operated in other counties.

We have been building up tourist good will for years, and our relations with the touring citizens have been excellent. But the recollection of scores of favorable impressions can be clouded by one county officer along our 301 who sets up a trap to catch tourists.

We believe that the race-track driver should be speed trapped. We believe in using any means at hand to stop the person who uses our highways as a speed trap endangering the lives and property of those who use the highways.

They're satisfied

Students at Georgia Teachers College expressed complete satisfaction with the selection of Miss Kerstin Pihl as "Miss G.T.C." to reign over the college's beauty festival held as part of the Golden Anniversary celebration at the college.

The editors of The Georgian, student publication, interpreted this feeling as a boost in international relations among students at the college. Miss Pihl is at G.T.C. as a Rotary International exchange student from Stockholm, Sweden. She is sponsored by the Statesboro and Millen Rotary Clubs.

Miss Pihl has appeared before many groups in Bulloch County and our neighboring counties. She makes a fine impression and all who have met her and heard her talk have fallen under her charm.

It is a compliment to her that her fellow students applaud the honor conferred upon her.

Safety Good Turn

During March, April and May, the Boy Scouts of Bulloch County will join Boy Scouts over the nation in the promotion of traffic safety. Then in June, July and August they will promote outdoor safety. In September, October and November their safety emphasis will shift to home safety.

During National Boy Scout week, which was observed February 7-13, Scouts distributed safety literature to highlight their Safety Good Turn campaign.

This Safety Good Turn effort can be far reaching in its objective to help reduce death and injury and destruction of property on our highways.

It deserves the complete support of every adult and every teen-ager who holds and enjoys the privileges of a driver's license and who attaches a high value to living.

We commend these young people upon adopting this type of project for this year.

To eradicate screwworms

If you are a farmer whose livestock has been subject to the screwworm an opportunity is being offered by the State Department of Agriculture to cooperate in a program to rid Georgia livestock growers of this killer.

All farmers are being urged by Commissioner of Agriculture Phil Campbell to report screwworm cases to their county agents immediately after cases of screwworms are discovered. In addition farmers are being asked to collect at least ten of the screwworms, place them in a small bottle of water and take them to the county agent's office for identification.

Commissioner Campbell states that farmer cooperation will be of great value to the Department of Agriculture in its effort to eradicate screwworms in the Southeast.

properly. And if automobile associations ignore the fact that many of their complaints come from these potential highway murderers, then they are doing their membership an injustice. And if they fail to admit that many of the bond forfeitures which they pay as part of their service to members' are for legitimate, run-of-the-mill speed limit violators then they are doing the communities through which our highway runs an injustice.

We are concerned about speed trap labels attached to some of our 301 neighbors. But we are concerned also about highway safety and endorse any method of reducing the terrific slaughter that continues on our highways.

Our neighbors on the Claxton Enterprise suggests that the biggest part of enforcing highway safety should be delegated to the state patrol. "County officers should not be allowed to make arrests on highways unless they can definitely prove recklessness and danger to other lives. Town policemen would be regulated accordingly. If a motorist is a menace, he should be arrested and punished, but he should have the benefit of a doubt—as the law also provides," writes the newspaper's editor.

Something must be done and done soon, or our tourist business will be in the same fix as our farming business.

When a family, conspicuous by their absence from worship services, sets the minister coming to their house, they are doing themselves for staying away from the house of God.

It dawned on me the other day that to say to a person, "Why don't you come back to church," is approaching the problem on the wrong level. While Jesus preached and taught in a positive manner, we have done ourselves with a negative approach to the building of His Kingdom. And, in so doing, we have done Him a great disservice. To delinquent members we have said, "If you don't attend church you will go to Hell," or "God will remember your indifference in the Judgment Day." Our Puritan forefathers tried this approach to no avail many years ago.

The reason I don't beg people to attend church anymore is because I have found it to be a matter of desire. They don't come because they lack the motive that brings them.

Here is a central truth of Christianity. The Spirit of Christ moves people to follow after Him. And I am tempted to believe that the reason many people evade the church is because His Spirit is absent from their lives.

The task of every minister and every concerned Christian then is this: To exemplify and to teach this distinguished truth that separates Christianity from all other religions. Love for, and faith in, and devotion to Jesus Christ motivates a person, not only to church attendance, but to service in every area of Christian concern. For it is the motive that moves!

Spotlight on Statesboro B.P.W. Career Women

Mattie Tanner is originally from Wheeler County, Georgia. She came to Bulloch County, however, in 1933, graduating at Georgia Teachers College, in 1932. Following graduation, she taught in the Bulloch County schools for four years.

In September 1956, Mrs. Tanner became associated with the Bulloch County Department of Public Welfare, as case worker. She is a member of the team which reviews case records, interviews parents and others who may be familiar with case histories, and makes recommendations as to services needed. These activities of the department include: disabilities growing out of illness, accidents and birth deformities which force many persons in Georgia, and elsewhere, to accept some form of assistance—aid to the blind, the totally disabled, or parents or guardians of dependent children. Having a part in helping to restore these people to economic independence is a rewarding service. Mrs. Tanner says she is an active member of the Statesboro Business and Professional Women's Club, which she currently serves as chairman of public affairs, synonymous with action. Its work has always been such that it has been able to cooperate with other committees in its work with the public, but its special province, legislatively speaking, has been in such matters as the long standing project of jury service for women.

Mrs. Tanner, her husband, Bob, Tanner, and their son Robert, reside on South Main Extension.

SOMEHOW the snow's coming in the very early morning, but hours later further enchantment to the winter wonderland.

My alarm went off as usual around 6:30 a. m. I groggily awoke in the dark room for a house coat and with half-closed eyes dragged my sleepy body to the bathroom to wash away the snow-covered earth that was discovered in each family. Regardless of exact words everyone expressed a splendid surprise.

ON OUR way to school we passed happy children throwing snowballs or building snow men. Even mothers were out in it.

The school ground was soon shoveled clean by the many hands that were making snow balls. The principal trickered all over the grounds with the children. One father told how he heard a little voice calling to one of his daughters to wake at the call but decided it was the other daughter calling. Then he heard a tapping at the window and discovered a young one outside in the snow calling to her friend. Nobody wanted anybody to miss this experience.

This Week's Meditation

By The Rev. L. E. Houston Jr.

IT'S THE MOTIVE THAT MOVES

WE are a mile and a half from church, you know, and it rained today, so we can't go.

We'd go ten miles to a party or show, though the rains should fall and the winds blow.

But the church is different, we'd have you know, So, when it rains, we can't go. But we always go to things we like, and we ride.

If we can, if we can't we hike. We're a mile and a half from church, you know, and a tire is flat, so we can't go.

But we'd fix it twice to make a visit, and if there's a ball game we wouldn't miss it.

We'd mend the tire if at all we could, and if we couldn't, we'd go afoot. When a hunting pleasure is all the style, the church will have to wait awhile.

We're a mile and a half from church, you know and our friends are coming, so we can't go.

To disappoint our friends would seem unkind, but to neglect our church, we don't mind.

We want to please our friends on earth, and spend a day in feasting and mirth.

But sometimes, when we come near the end of our days, we'll go to church and mend our ways.

—George C. Degen

I have stopped begging people to come to church. My experience, I think, has been the

AFTER SIX O'CLOCK—A WHITE SHIRT

As smart as a colored shirt is for daytime wear, it is absolutely incorrect for evenings, declares Miss Avedale White, sell, clothing specialist, Agricultural Extension Service. When the clock shows that it is after 6 p. m., a white shirt is a must—except of course, for very informal occasions.

Clothing specialists at the Agricultural Extension Service say never push an iron on knitted fabrics because it will stretch. Place the iron lightly along the lengthwise rib.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

ON TWO OCCASIONS last week we were completely at peace with the world. We were devoid of ambition, of envy, of anger, of pride. We were simply at peace with all.

For an hour early on each of the two mornings last week when our community waked to find itself blanketed under a cover of white softness we sat at our window and looked upon a scene of complete loveliness.

Except for the few mocking birds who make our neighborhood their world there was absolute stillness. The magnolia tree stood there in majesty with its leaves crowned with a white coronet. The limbs on the dogwood trees stretched out under tiny white sheets, as if that were all the cover they needed just before blooming. The camellia bush were pinker as they struggled among the snow-covered leaves. The tree locust trees, gaunt against the background of white, managed to accumulate a tiny layer of the snow on their limbs. The rose bushes looked as though they had given up all attempts at putting out new leaves after several tries. The pine trees were making good their role as Christmas trees.

It dawned on me the other day that to say to a person, "Why don't you come back to church," is approaching the problem on the wrong level. While Jesus preached and taught in a positive manner, we have done ourselves with a negative approach to the building of His Kingdom. And, in so doing, we have done Him a great disservice. To delinquent members we have said, "If you don't attend church you will go to Hell," or "God will remember your indifference in the Judgment Day." Our Puritan forefathers tried this approach to no avail many years ago.

The reason I don't beg people to attend church anymore is because I have found it to be a matter of desire. They don't come because they lack the motive that brings them.

Here is a central truth of Christianity. The Spirit of Christ moves people to follow after Him. And I am tempted to believe that the reason many people evade the church is because His Spirit is absent from their lives.

TODAY MANY of our people have lost that confidence in the press. They have lost it for simply enough a great number of these newspapers no longer merit that confidence. Using questionable tactics to say the least and having based their logic on unproven statements, writers have worked to increase their own feeling of importance and by so doing have tried to bring about a decline of the respect of our people for the integrity of the publications involved.

SOME OF THESE leaders in the newspaper field have used front page columns to express opinions and in an undercover way have tried to influence public opinion either for or against this or that movement. These undercover editorial columns would very properly appear on the editorial page where they are made readily accepted as the opinion of an individual and not that of a newspaper or its publisher.

SOME OF THESE bigger dailies, with their larger staffs, have assigned clock and dagger agents to assemble evidence, not information, in order to spread mis-information through banner headlines which often times is not true in its entirety but never telling the complete story, thus appealing to a certain group of low type individuals who always enjoy seeing anyone persecuted. If these newspapers are interested in seeing a bad situation corrected, then quite properly this "information" should be presented to the local law enforcement officials or others in authority so that the proper action may be taken.

THERE ARE some outstanding men and women in the newspaper field who still honor their profession by the loyalty they have for the unwritten code of presentation of the facts and personal opinions. William Bates of the Atlanta Constitution and Louis Harris of the Augusta Chronicle are two such writers.

There is a real need in Georgia to keep our press free. There is a greater need to keep our press clean for the people who has lost the confidence of the people does great harm to those causes and leaders in which are unfortunate enough to receive its endorsement.

THE AUGUSTA dailies are doing a splendid job of presentation of facts pointing out to the people of the area certain conditions which should be improved. No attempt has been made to place blame or to persecute those people who may or may not be involved. This is not the job of a good newspaper and quite properly this task has been left to those in positions of authority to investigate and determine what measures should be taken.

AS WE BEGIN our entrance into a new era, that of the conquest of space, perhaps this would be a good time for our newspapers to make a new statement of policy. Out of this statement could come a better understanding of that policy by the people who respect the press. This would help to regain the prestige which has been so carelessly tossed away by those who hold no real appreciation for the intelligence and understanding of the people for whom they write.

ONE NEIGHBOR called another and the sleepy male neighbor said "Hello." The neighbor said, "Tootsie, look outside!" The gentleman would about the exact state of what he thought was a strange-voiced lady. But he did look outside!

ONE OF the most unusual things about the snow was the camellias which were blooming beautifully but were later cut and looked pretty in the house.

IT WAS A great day on the Thursday of last week when pandemonium reigned in the House of Representatives. One representative cried. Others came to near blows, and bedlam broke out generally. Reports From Washington

THERE IS NO better example of the extent to which Congress has delegated away its constitutional powers in recent years than is found in the case of the Bureau of the Budget.

This agency of the Executive Department was created by Congress in 1921 for the sole purpose of assisting the President in preparing the annual budget which he is required by law to submit to Congress. But over the years it has had its power repeatedly broadened, both by acts of Congress and by executive order, until it now exercises virtually dictatorial control over all federal spending.

As recently reported by U. S. News and World Report, "Official agencies have come to accept the standing instruction: 'Clear it with the Budget Bureau.'"

THE EXTENT of this control was brought home to Congress in the revelation during the hearings on national security held by the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee that part of the money appropriated by Congress for missile development was withheld from the Department of Defense by the Budget Bureau. The explanation given for this action was that the rate of the fiscal year's spending was threatening to push the national debt above the legal ceiling.

The authority, both delegated and assumed, now exercised by the Budget Bureau begins with the budget requests and extends through the actual expenditures. Not only can the Bureau reduce

Dr. King warns public of septic tank cleaners

Dr. Hubert U. King, medical director of the Bulloch County Health Department, this week issued a warning to the public to be on the lookout for unscrupulous septic tank cleaners.

"From time to time Dr. King said, 'we received reports at the health department concerning certain people offering to clean septic tanks. Some of these people mislead the public by cleaning tanks which do not need cleaning and by overcharging for their services.'

"When a septic tank fails to operate properly, the owner may assume that it is due to a full tank when actually there may be some other cause. The unscrupulous tank cleaner will clean the tank without any other investigation and regardless of whether the tank needs cleaning or not.

"The public should pay particular attention to the charges for this service. Unprincipled operators will be vague about total costs quoting a 'usual charge,' but later presenting a bill for many times this amount when the job is finished based upon so much per pound, etc. It would be wise to agree upon definite charges before the job or at least a maximum charge.

One of the greatest blows which Congress could strike for the restoration and maintenance of constitutional government would be to clip the usurped wings of the Budget Bureau and reassert its rightful power over the manner in which the people's money is spent from the federal purse.

The boys were asked to wear blue jeans and the girls were to wear pedal pushers. Mrs. Hook, assisted by Mrs. Charlie Joe Mathews, Mrs. Julie Hodges, Mrs. Hobson DuBoise and Mrs. Jake Smith, served chocolate cake and ice cream. The birthday cake was a nine-ounce cake though it was slanting white with five white candles. A fence around the cake kept the cowboy and Indians from roving off the range. The boys received cowboy watches, and the girls were given watches a bit daintier than those presented to the boys. There were forty-five of the younger set present. Mrs. Bob Brant assisted in games which were played in Mrs. Hook's back yard.

CHARLIE LOCKWOOD HONORED ON EIGHTH BIRTHDAY

Saturday afternoon, February 15, wasn't exactly a day to celebrate a birthday, but with some changes made Charlie Lockwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Lockwood, and twenty-seven boys had a very comfortable and jolly good time in whooping it up on Charlie's eighth birthday.

The shack at the Recreation Center was far better equipped to face the cold than were the shacks at Valley Forge. After relay races, and the awarding of prizes for the winners, the call for refreshments was greatly appreciated. Hot dogs and slices of their choice, including slices from the big white birthday cake with eight candles on top, plus the bubble gum and balloons which were given for favors, the boys really thought they had had it. Then came the newest accessory for our bike riders, play goggles, which probably saved the guests from snow blindness.

OUR SOIL • OUR STRENGTH
By E. T. "RED" MULLIS
Soil Conservation Service

Terracing operations have begun in earnest with cooperators of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District in Bulloch County. Last year's heavy rains brought out a very great need for properly planned and applied water disposal systems on many of our farms. They also pointed out inadequacies of many existing systems which have been applied in the past and allowed to go down.

The Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District is striving to keep water disposal systems modern. This is keeping pace with modern methods of farming. Our parallel terracing systems in conjunction with sided V-type or natural waterways will do the job of taking off excess water without carrying away valuable topsoil and fertilizer. Mr. Hines Smith is installing a complete system of parallel terraces and waterways on his father's farm in the Nevils community. His system of over five miles of terraces protecting over seventy-five acres of good Norfolk and Tifton class soil has only three areas of short row areas below two sided waterways (with bahia grass) two W-types and one V-type, receive the water from the terraces and conduct it safely to the natural streams below without damage to the land.

Mr. T. W. Sowell is installing a beautiful system of parallel terraces and waterways on his farm about five miles east of Statesboro just north of U. S. 80. He is protecting about sixty acres of Norfolk and Tifton class two and three soils with five miles of terraces and eight W-type waterways (with bahia grass to sod with). He will have six short row areas with all this terracing.

These two cooperators are really doing a fine job. They are building their systems on the more gradual that can do the job in one operation. V. E. Cressy is the contractor with C. O. Rohler the operator.

Farm Bureau
More profits from fewer acres is problem facing farmers today

More profits from fewer acres is a problem facing most farmers today. Continued emphasis is being placed on controlled production of several crops.

Proper use of fertilizer and lime can play an important role in maintaining or increasing profits in a controlled crop economy. Acreage of crops can be reduced, but the unit cost of production can be decreased and net profits increased.

To illustrate this point, assume a farmer needed 1,000 bushels of corn to feed his livestock or to sell. If his average production was 100 bushels per acre, it would require 10 acres to grow the 1,000 bushels, with very little or no profit would be obtained.

But if adequate mixed fertilizer and lime and other good cultural practices were used and he applied 40 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre, he could increase his own yield to 54 bushels per acre. Then, it would require only 18.5 acres to produce 1,000 bushels of corn, and based on research results, he would make about $668 total. If nitrogen application was increased to 80 pounds per acre, it would take even less acres, only 13.5, to produce 1,000 bushels of corn because the average yield would be 74 bushels per acre.

If it were desired to maintain the same profit as was obtained at the 54-bushel yield level but with practices to give 74 bushels per acre, only 9.8 acres would be required and the total production would be only 725 bushels. This illustrates how profits can be maintained but still reduce production.

Fertilizer and lime used on the terraces and conduct it safely to the natural streams below without damage to the land.

Nevils News
'Valentine Prayer Service' is held at Nevils Methodist Church Sun. night

Mr. Powell states that according to research information only three basic fertilizer ratios are needed to correct any soil fertility condition in Bulloch County. They are: (1) Even phosphate—even potash fertilizer ratio such as 4-12-12 or 12-12-12. Soil test information indicates that 42 per cent of the fertilizer used in Bulloch County should be of this ratio. (2) High phosphate—low potash such as 5-10-5. Approximately 5 per cent of the fertilizer used should be of this ratio and (3) low phosphate—high potash such as 5-10-15 or 0-10-20. Soil test information indicates that 53 per cent of the fertilizers used in Bulloch County should be of this ratio.

For the correct fertilizer ratio to use on a particular farm, says County Agent Powell, "Don't guess—test."

EFFORT MADE TO Wipe Out Screwworms

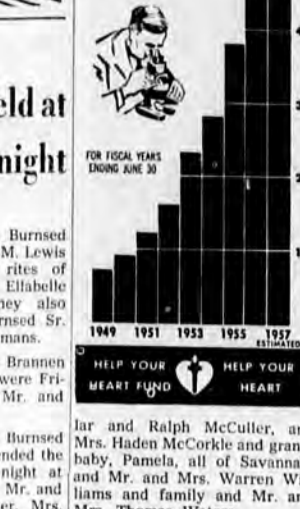

Georgia farmers this week are being urged to cooperate fully in an intense effort to wipe out screwworms now while the screwworm population is low due to the assist given by the eradication program by the unusual cold weather of recent weeks.

The screwworm eradication program is a joint project of the Georgia and Florida Departments of Agriculture, the Agricultural Extension Service, University of Georgia College of Agriculture, and the Agricultural Research Service of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Commissioner of Agriculture Phil Campbell is urging all farmers to keep a sharp lookout for screwworm infestations in all kinds of livestock and to report any and all infestations promptly to their county agent. Each farmer who finds any screwworm infestation is requested to treat the wound, put 10 worms in a bottle of clean water, and to notify or take the worms to his county agent station and that all county agents have been notified of their responsibility as clearing agents for the eradication program. Each county agent will contact his area veterinarian as soon as he receives a report by a farmer of any screwworm infestation in his county.

Sutton added that all county agents and veterinarians have information on the recommended measures for treating screwworm infestations and will give this to farmers upon request.

Pittman P.T.A. hears program on guidance

Guidance in the home and at school is merely the development of independent and happy individuals." This significant statement was made by Miss Helen Duncan, dean of women at G.T.C. when she spoke in the lines of guidance at the meeting of the Marvin Pittman P.T.A. Wednesday night, January 15. Other significant statements from her interesting discussion were: "Guidance should start in the home with the preschool child and continue in elementary as well as secondary school and college." Another provoking thought made by Dean Duncan was that parents pose the biggest problems for the teen-ager, as he struggles through the transition age which exists for him between childhood and adulthood; also that their second big problem is "teachers."

Miss Marjorie Crouch, state "Teacher of the Year" for 1956, acting as director of the discussion, followed Dean Duncan's remarks with the film, "Parents Are People Too" and emphasized the preceding discussion.

Dr. Ralph Tyson, dean of students, G.T.C., emphasizes the psychiatrist's formula "P.L.C. Tender Love and Care," as the first principle in child guidance. He stressed also the fact that his final terms that guidance is the technique which helps parents and teachers meet the needs of the children.

Father Rademacher from St. Matthews Church, prefaced his prayer in his "Moments of Inspiration" by emphasizing the necessity of parents and teachers working toward an understanding between each other, in order to best lead the child.

Mrs. Gladys Dukes, health department nurse, presented a film for the March of Dimes polio program.

Mrs. Emmitt Scott, president, presided over a short business session.

Mrs. Pafford, principal, announced that Statesboro would have an outstanding authority of guidance speaking on February 10, at 7:30 p. m. when Dr. Stanley Almsworth speaks on the exceptional child, with emphasis on the bright child. He also introduced the 26 new student teachers to the group.

SPORTS At The Rec Center

By GIL CONE JR.

In the basketball program at the Recreation Center last week, the game that highlighted the basketball week was in the men's City League.

Rockwell defeated Aldred by a score of 45 to 41 in a game which was very close all the way and ended up having to go into a three minute overtime. The big man for winning Rockwell was Vernon Lewis who scored 20 points. High scorer for losing Aldred was Hershel Faulk with 16 points.

In the Junior Girls' League the Wild Cats defeated the Bobble Sox 11 to 6 and the Spit Fires won over the Hurricanes 19 to 10.

In the Junior Boys' League both games played on Friday were very close. The Cardinals led by Captain Jimmy Kirksey edged the Blue Devils by a score of 35 to 32.

In the second game played it was nip and tuck throughout the entire game but the Red Caps finally came out on top by one point to win by a score of 19 to 18. The difference in the game was the fine accurate set shots made by Jack Paul for the Red Caps. Paul scored 10 points while Donald Nesmith for the Pilots scored 9 points.

In the Senior Boys' League the Gold Bricks defeated the Gremlins and the Dynamites took one from the Cobras.

The Midget Boys' League had two good games. The Thunderbolts won over the Rattlers 13 to 9 with Bill Wyatt being high point man for the Thunderbolts with 5 points. The Indians defeated the Cobras 6 to 5. Larry Deal was high point man in the game with 3 points.

Lehmon Dekles, Master Farm Family Jaycees honor Lamar Smith as O. Y. F.

Bulloch County increased the number of farm families in the state's farmers' hall of fame to eight on Friday last week when the J. Lehmon Dekle family of the Register community was named a Master Farm Family by the Progressive Farmer Magazine and the Agricultural Extension Service of the College of Agriculture, University of Georgia.

This honor was conferred upon Mr. and Mrs. Dekle and their children, Johnny, Remer, Bonnie and Mary, in special ceremonies at Rock Eagle last Friday.

Other Master Farm Families of Bulloch are: Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith, 1927; Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Gay, 1936; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brannen, 1939; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hodges, 1941; Mr. and Mrs. Delmas Rushing, 1947; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blich, 1950; and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith Jr.

Those from Bulloch County attending the ceremonies at Rock Eagle were W. C. Hodges Jr., president of the county Farm Bureau; Roy Powell, county agent; Mrs. Sara Thigpen, home demonstration agent and Mrs. E. L. Anderson, Jr. a member of Mrs. Anderson's family. Mr. and Mrs. Emory S. Gay of Jenkins County, was also named Master Farm Family.

Bronze plaques were presented to the Lehmon Dekles by Alexander Nunn, vice president and editor of the Progressive Farmer magazine, and W. A. Sutton, director of the Extension Service.

In presenting the awards Mr. Nunn said, "From the earliest days of the program emphasis has been placed on the family as a team. It isn't enough for a man to be a good farmer or for his wife to be a good homemaker or for both of them to be good citizens and good leaders. Master Farm Family awards are based on high standards in all these fields."

Mr. Dekle started his farm career with eighteen acres of land on which he raised corn, peanuts, hogs and timber.

The delegation from Statesboro High School to the thirteenth annual Youth Assembly has drafted a bill which they plan to introduce in the Georgia General Assembly. The principal purpose of the bill is to establish a salary system of compensation for the sheriffs of the state of Georgia in lieu of fees and other compensation. The bill provides for the salaries of the sheriffs of each respective county to be based on the population of the county served.

With this bill, the county commissioners or other governing authorities, with the approval of the sheriff, may employ deputy sheriffs as the need demands, and provide for their compensation. It will determine whether county-owned vehicles will be provided to either the sheriff or deputy sheriffs. The passage of this bill would greatly help to discourage speed traps and would put an end to sheriffs who care nothing for serving the people but take the job only as a means of increasing their own personal income. It would tend to make law enforcement more uniform and would create better relations between Georgia and the other states. If a peace officer is placed on an adequate salary, rather than depending on revenues from speed traps, there is more interest in courtesy and safety.

Statesboro Woman's Club supports move here against obscenity

The Statesboro Senior Women's Club at their regular monthly meeting February 20, went on record as supporting a move to remove obscene literature from news stands in Statesboro, and heard O. J. Cliett of Metter talk on conservation.

Mrs. L. M. Durden, president of the club, reported that members have attended two meetings with reference to removing obscene literature and will hold another meeting on March 9.

Mrs. Kermit Carr, chairman of the International Affairs Committee reported that funds have been collected for cotton and linen yard goods to be sent overseas to refugee camps in the Middle East. It was also reported that the club has donated $105.00 to the Bulloch County Library air-conditioning fund.

During the business session of the club, a nominating committee was named, composed of Mrs. C. P. Olliff Sr., Mrs. Wilton Hodges and Mrs. Charles Cone.

Mrs. Tom Brown, chairman of the conservation committee, presented Mr. Cliett, the guest speaker for the afternoon. Mrs. Cliett is work unit conservator for Candler and Evans counties. With the help of the wage-hour law, Jimmy Redding, president of the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce stated that small businesses would suffer most if the law were extended. Mr. Redding said that every businessman in Statesboro and Bulloch County should be in this file.

The question to be discussed at the March meeting of the Federal Wage and Hour Law which now requires employees in interstate commerce to be paid a minimum wage of $1 an hour and time-and-half after 40 hours a week, he made applicable also to local businesses which heretofore have been specifically exempted from the law's coverage?

City gets check from Ga. Power for $9,771.54

A check for $9,771.54 was delivered to the city of Statesboro February 21, 1958 by W. Tom Martin, district manager of the Georgia Power Company.

This payment represents three per cent of the gross receipts in 1957 for the sale of electricity to the company's customers of the company under the Municipal Partnership Plan. The three per cent tax is paid by the company in place of occupation and franchise taxes and is in addition to the company's property taxes. These taxes were paid to the county and city in December.

The Georgia Power Company's total tax bill for 1957 amounted to more than $24,000,000. Of this amount, more than $20,000,000 is being paid to the communities of Georgia under the Municipal Partnership Plan. This is an increase of more than $300,000 over 1956 and included for the first time payments to towns in the company's Valdosta division.

City, county, and state property taxes totaled $4,840,000 in 1957. The $24,900,000 total tax figure does not include the Georgia three per cent sales tax which the company pays on materials used in its operations.

During the month of March revival services will be held in most Methodist Churches in the state. Congregations in the South Georgia Conference will hold their meetings the week of March 9, and North Georgia Conference churches will have theirs the week of March 23.

This campaign to "Tell Georgia About Christ" is part of a national emphasis upon evangelism this year. It is believed that the simultaneous nature of these meetings will add greatly to their effectiveness and interest.

The Rev. Dan H. Williams, pastor of First Methodist Church, states that additional information as to the visiting preacher, hours of services, etc., will be released next week.

S.H.S. students draft bill for Youth Assembly in Atlanta on March 6

The delegation from Statesboro High School to the thirteenth annual Youth Assembly has drafted a bill which they plan to introduce in the Georgia General Assembly. The bill provides for the salaries of the sheriffs of each respective county to be based on the population of the county served.

With this bill, the county commissioners or other governing authorities, with the approval of the sheriff, may employ deputy sheriffs as the need demands, and provide for their compensation. If a peace officer is placed on an adequate salary, rather than depending on revenues from speed traps, there is more interest in courtesy and safety.
