Our most outstanding young farmer named

It is especially fitting that the young men of Statesboro should have prompted the search for the most outstanding young farmer in Bulloch County and to honor him for his accomplishments.

On Tuesday night of this week the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce, in special ceremonies at the Country Club, conferred the title of "The Most Outstanding Young Farmer of Bulloch County" upon Edgar Lamar Smith of R.F.D. 4.

Young men like the ones making up the membership of the local Jaycee organization set up tougher standards by which their contemporaries are judged and so the tribute paid Mr. Smith should hold greater meaning for him.

Good farming practices come natural to young Smith. His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith Sr., and his brother, W. H. Smith Jr., and Mrs. Smith are two of Bulloch County's

A Master Farm Family

Word reached us Monday morning just as our editorial page went to press that Bulloch County now has another Master Farm Family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lehman Dekle and their family, made up of Johnny, Remer, Bonnie and Mary of the Register community, were selected by the Progressive Farmer and the Agricultural Extension Service of the College of Agriculture at the University of Athens and honored at a banquet at Rock Eagle on Friday of last week.

The Dekle family joined the eight other Bulloch County families in this farmer's hall of fame.

We congratulate these young people for the additional fame they bring to our county and for the tangible evidence of their reward for working in the soil.

We have our say too

We have followed closely the recent campaign to put Governor Marvin Griffin's administration in a bad light by his opposition and recognize it as a part of democracy's provision which allows politicians to have their say.

And we're proud of democracy's provision which allows us to stand up to defend one of whom pretty hard things are being said and at whom severe criticism is being hurled without recognizing the simple fact that he's honest and intent on doing a good job for the state he serves.

State Highway Board Chairman Roy Chalker has been given the works by Mr. Griffin's opposition, including the Atlanta newspapers and some of the state's other newspapers.

We wish here and now to stand up for Mr. Chalker. We've known him a long, long time. We know him to be a fine person and deserves better than he's getting.

Because he is a supporter and friend of Governor Griffin he is being made a target by opponents of the governor's. And because he is in politics this campaign against him must be the price he pays.

While recognizing this fact, we are compelled to have our say too.

This Week's Meditation

gratefully) But, more effective than any physical discipline was the method of the conference. I think I would have gladly endured ten peach tree switch lessons if I could have been spared the verbal shaming which my father and mother could so effectively apply.

AS THE UNFAILING love of Mrs. Barney Ross helped her husband to freedom from narcotics, so the understanding love of one's family can help restore confidence and trust in oneself and in others. Paul was not dealing in spiritual unreality when he wrote the 13th chapter of 1 Corinthians and concluded: "So faith, hope, love abide, these three; but the greatest of these is love." For love is an indispensable part of family harmony.

Faith in God has proven to be a major weapon in Barney Ross's successful struggle for victory over narcotics addiction. And he attributes his faith to the priceless heritage of his "Pa." His father was an Orthodox Jew and his religion was his whole life. It may be true that a child will reject and revolt against his father's religion, but most of the time he will return to the faith of his father.

IN OUR PRESENT struggle to preserve the integrity and effectiveness of home life, we must well remember these three qualifications. Much of the increase in juvenile delinquency in our country today can be attributed to a decrease of discipline in the home. Control of the child in the home during his formative years can be something more than applying the adage—"Spare the rod and spoil the child." I can remember our own training at the mercy of a peach tree switch (If you missed this, you can be

IN THE DISTRICT of Columbia, the United Press reported this week, "Revolving door police patrols have brought some improvement, but residents still are afraid to walk the streets alone, particularly at night. The victims are as varied as the population, a 13-year-old newspaper carrier making his collection rounds, an elderly man sitting on his porch in a rocking chair, an impoverished widow and her little girl, begging home a bag of food given them by a sympathetic neighbor, a prominent downtown publisher, Mark E. Ehrhardt and his wife and sister from Louisville, Ky."

IN A MAJORITY of these attacks, 9 out of 10, according to police records, the assailants are teenagers, boys and young men, and most of the time they are from the teeming Washington slums. While few of the victims are killed or machine gunned down in the style of the criminal element of yesterday, still many are brutally beaten, and some are often permanently injured from these attacks. In Dallas, Texas, criminal activity among these youthful groups continues to climb. This is true in our neighboring Savannah. This is true in Brooklyn, California, and according to an F.B.I. report, true in every section of the nation. While only a small percentage of the teenage population is involved, all teenagers have been indicted by the public and by the press.

ONE OF THE steps toward a "cure" for this national "disease" is to appeal to the youthful population themselves to help seek out the answer. OUR APPROACH toward a solution must be on a national level. It must be free from political intrigue or interference and the suggested approach toward a workable program must not be hampered by leaders of government who are afraid they will lose a vote in some future campaign.

NEXT WEEK in this column I will be bold enough to offer some suggestions which I feel should be considered by those in authority and with more intelligence than I. The suggestions may or may not be considered good ones, but there is one fact which you, the reader, can accept with assurance, they are made after hours of thought and study and they came with the sincerity of purpose one finds in the heart of those who love our youth.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

OUR FRIEND Dan Bland has furnished us some additional information on the history of Georgia Teachers College.

In the history of the college as prepared by Dr. Jack Averitt which appeared in the Georgia-Ann's Golden Anniversary Edition, and in the Bulloch Herald on February 13, the list of students who attended the school from March 25, 1908, included only members of the seventh grade, enrolled on February 5, 1908.

MR. BLAND, who was a pupil in the seventh grade, then remembers that Lanie Rushing (Mrs. George T. Beasley), John Rushing (now of Brooklyn), Brantley Blitch and Grover Johnson, all withdrew from school shortly before March 26, 1908.

Herman Talmadge Reports From Washington

PERHAPS THE GREATEST danger of the continuing cold war is that the ever-increasing cost of the new and complex armament required for our defense may bankrupt this country.

An atomic submarine costs eight times more than a submarine of the type used during World War II and the price of a B-32 jet bomber is 32 times that of the old propeller driven B-17. The outlays which will be required for the missiles, with which our armed forces of the future will be equipped will run into the staggering billions. That is why it is absolutely essential that serious thought be given to reducing the cost of our long-range military program through the use of those phases of it which offer the greatest return in terms of preparedness for the money spent.

This article has also been condensed in "Reader's Digest" in the March issue. THE JUDGE tells of the Italian household with father in charge, says that it is essential to live by and the child who disobeys them is punished. Of course this lack of authority is felt in the American school as well as the home. The child comes to school undisciplined and what can the teacher do? How to love living in your new home. LET ELECTRICITY HELP you all through the day, all through the house. It makes the work go easier, the jobs go faster. In your kitchen, for example, wonderful, work-saving electrical appliances can help you every step of every meal, from storing the food to doing the dishes. Your all-electric laundry—washer, dryer, iron and ironer—can make minutes do the work of hours. At housecleaning time you'll find yourself humming along with your vacuum cleaner. Afterward, you can relax in the cheerful brightness of your living room with your favorite records or television show. Electricity not only gives you free time but helps you enjoy it. Only electricity can do so many jobs and do them so well at such low cost. That's why the average home we serve uses three times as much electricity as 20 years ago. No doubt about it; people like to Live Better . . . Electrically. GEORGIA POWER COMPANY A CITIZEN WHEREVER WE SERVE

The Decision That Needs No Explanation! There are relatively few personal decisions a man can make that command the unanimous approval of his friends and acquaintances. And among these is his choice of a Cadillac car. For the things that inspire a man to Cadillac are simply too numerous to be overlooked. Considered from a standpoint of its beauty—or its Fleetwood luxury—or its performance—or its craftsmanship—or its soundness of investment—Cadillac occupies a position entirely its own. At the heart of this great goodness is, of course, Cadillac's experience in the creation of quality cars. DR. AND MRS. STAPLETON CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY
Two people with individual desires and inclinations but with sufficient love for each other to bring these varying attributes into a complete harmony who are able, after fifty years of companionship, to gladly renew their vows, have met with the fullest measure of success.

The peak was reached by Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapleton Sunday when their children honored them on their Golden Wedding Anniversary with a surprise dinner in the banquet room at Mrs. Bryant's kitchen. The three-tiered wedding cake, finished with yellow roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom, was the only table decoration.

The children and grandchildren and a few close friends gathered to pay tribute to this couple on their great day. Peter O'Million, son-in-law was master of ceremonies and called on his wife, Mrs. Winifred Stapleton O'Million, Eldest Stapleton, Miss Maude White, and Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Martin, who paid tribute to the worthy couple by extending hearty congratulations and wished them many, many more happy years, after which a telegram was read from the other son, Cyril Stapleton, Washington, D. C. who was unable to attend.

The wedding cake was of the fashion pound cake made by a gift from the White Sisters. The beautiful corsage for the bride, and the boutonniere for the groom of yellow carnations were gifts from the Martins.

Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Peter O'Million and daughters, Marsha and Carla of Savannah, Mr. and Mrs. Edna Johnston and daughters, Paula and Pamela of South Carolina, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Martin and Misses Maude White, and Lillie White of Nevils.

MRS. WYNN SURPRISED ON HER BIRTHDAY

JANET BRANNEN FETED ON SEVENTH BIRTHDAY
Mrs. Dock Brannen honored her daughter, Janet, on her seventh birthday with a party Saturday afternoon at Frances Kindergarten on Savannah Ave. Thirty guests were invited. They wore play clothes so they could enjoy the swings, slides and other playground equipment.

Janet's cake was a doll cake with pretty pink roses encircling it. Cake and punch were served. Yo-yos were given as favors. Friends of Janet's were invited.

CYNTHIA JOHNSTON ATTENDS FORMAL DANCE AT CITADEL
At the Citadel in Charleston, S. C., Miss Cynthia Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Johnston, was starry-eyed as she danced at the most important formal dance of the year at that great college. She was the guest of Plebe John Dekle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Imman Dekle, for the annual Valentine night. On Sunday they attended the impressive chapel service.

NOVELTY CLUB WITH MRS. UPCHURCH
Mrs. J. F. Upchurch was hostess Thursday afternoon to the Novelty Club at her residence on West Grady Street.
Red flowering quince and paper white narcissus were used in a Valentine arrangement, and the refreshments and table appointments carried out the Valentine motif. The guests were served strawberry short cake, quince, nuts and potato chips and Valentine candy.

In contests and names prizes were won by Mrs. C. P. Claxton, Mrs. Clyde Martin, Mrs. Bunnie Cowart and Mrs. Burton Olliff. Bingo furnished some entertainment and prizes for everyone. Mrs. H. M. Teets received the cover-all prize. Others present were Mrs. O. M. Lanier, Mrs. Henry Lanier and Mrs. Bannah Cowart who was a visitor.

ANNOUNCEMENT
The Statesboro Primitive Baptist Church will meet Monday afternoon, March 3, at 3:30 p. m. in the church annex. Hostesses are Mrs. Levee Kennedy, Mrs. Allen Rimes and Mrs. Dovie Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Pittman High are crowned

Statesboro were crowned "Mr. and Mrs. Pittman High" at the "Clubs on Parade Dance" given February 14. Miss Shellmott is a Beta Club member, editor of the year book, and news editor for the Little George-Anne. Mr. Hendrix is a senior member of the F.F.A. and does outstanding work in both agriculture and industrial arts.

They were chosen by secret ballot of the senior class and the faculty. They were voted the two most outstanding members of the senior class, terrisalidus emlv.

We Go Places At Louisiana
Northwestern State College of Natchitoches, Louisiana, has recently named a new science building in honor of Dr. John Edward Guardia, late husband of Mrs. Marjorie T. Guardia, of the English division at Georgia Teachers College.

A graduate of Louisiana Northwestern, Dr. Guardia later took advanced degrees at the University of Chicago and at Peabody College in Nashville, Tennessee. He returned to the Louisiana Institute as head of the department of geography, in which capacity he taught geography and related subjects here.

Miss Guardia and her daughter Genevieve had been informed of the memorial plans earlier, but the commemoration was not made official until it was approved by the Louisiana State Board of Education at a recent meeting.

P.T.A.'s hear speech expert at joint meet

The Sallie Zetterower P.T.A. sponsored a joint session of the several P.T.A. groups of the Bulloch County schools, Monday, February 10, at 7:30 p. m. in the Statesboro High School auditorium. The meeting was presided over by Don Coleman, principal of the Sallie Zetterower School.

Mr. Coleman introduced Mr. Sherman, principal of the Statesboro High School who welcomed the many parents and teachers present. Mr. Womack, county school superintendent, will take a few words of welcome.

The six grade students of the Sallie Zetterower and the three church members presented their three-page number directed by Mrs. Juanita Abernathy and Mrs. Harriet Clark, public school music teachers of Bulloch County.

Don Coleman introduced Dr. Stanley Ainsworth, chairman of the program for exceptional children at the University of Georgia, who spoke on "The Exceptional Children Program in Georgia."

A graduate work at State University of Iowa and received his Ph. D. degree from Northwestern University. He has taught in the public schools and has contributed to several publications including "Education of Exceptional Children and Youth."

Mr. Coleman extended an invitation to Statesboro and Bulloch County people to attend the annual P.T.A. supper which will be on Wednesday, February 19, from 6 until 8 p. m.

A following period followed the meeting with the Mattie Levey Sallie Zetterower and Statesboro High P.T.A. groups acting as hosts.

Room count was taken for each P.T.A. represented. Miss Sallie Zetterower's six-A won the highest attendance prize and Miss Sallie Prime's six-A won the second prize for the Sallie Zetterower P.T.A.

THIS IS THE PROPOSED new classroom building which will house the science, home economics, and business education departments. The bonds have not been sold yet. The building will probably cost in the neighborhood of $600,000. It will extend from the library past East Hall down to the post office. Within the next few years both this building and the new dining hall student center building will both be completed. This will be just another one of the radical physical changes which will take place on this campus in the next ten years. And another step forward in progress at G.T.C.

Baseball Schedule Set; Profs Begin Training

The Georgia Teachers College Professors will play a 29-game baseball schedule this year, according to baseball coach J. I. Clements Jr.

This Is The Story of Bulloch County

Chapter VII - Installment 2

This week we continue our "Story of Bulloch County" which we began on August 29, 1957.

Slavery, Secession, War

The wife of a plantation owner had no easy task. To manage a household consisting of 30 or 40 slaves required good management.

The white child had a small Negro child assigned as a companion and was taught to feel his or her responsibility for this child.

A slave might obtain his freedom by provision in his owner's will that he be freed or he might be given his freedom for some especially courageous service.

Runaway slaves could be committed to any jail in the state and the jailer would advertise for the owner.

Purchases of goods by free persons of color and slaves were limited. One could not sell them liquor, printed matter, ink, writing paper, etc.

Farm Bureau County agent urges tobacco growers to produce only top tobacco in '58

Due to the unfavorable reaction to increased production in 1957, tobacco growers are urged to produce only top quality tobacco in 1958.

There are some planting, fertilizing, transplanting and spacing tips from the Extension Tobacco Specialist, John B. Preston that will help you produce top quality tobacco.

1. Fertilize according to capabilities of your tobacco soil taking into consideration the fertilizer applied to the previous crop grown there.

2. When soil fumigants are used, maximum rates should not be exceeded. Maximum rates are: D-D, 10 gallons per acre; W-40, 7 1/2 gallons per acre; and W-85, 2 1/2 gallons per acre.

LOW VERSUS HIGH ANALYSIS FERTILIZERS The use of low analysis fertilizers such as 4-8-6 and 4-8-8 is costing Bulloch County farmers thousands of dollars annually.

3. Choose a proven variety of tobacco until a new variety is known to be acceptable. Varieties that have proved to be satisfactory in Georgia over the years are Hicks, Golden Gold, Golden C, Cure, White Harvest and 402.

Professors Play Host to NAIA Tournament; GTC, Stetson, Rollins, and Mercer Are Set

Four old rivals, Georgia Teachers College, Stetson University, Rollins College, and Mercer University, will make the field in the District 25 NAIA tournament this weekend, according to an announcement last week.

The tournament will be played at Georgia Teachers College gymnasium for the third straight year. Dates are Friday and Saturday, February 28-March 1. District 25 is made up from schools in Georgia and Florida who hold membership in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

In the opening round, Georgia Teachers will oppose Mercer and Stetson and Rollins will square off. During the regular season G.T.C. split two games with Mercer and the Stetson-Rollins series also ended one game apiece.

The Saturday night winner will represent Georgia-Florida along with 11 other teams at the national tournament at Kansas City, March 12-15. This will be the twelfth annual District 25 tournament and previous winners have been Oglethorpe, 1947; Mercer, 1948; Miami, 1949; Tampa, 1950; Florida State, 1951; Tampa, 1952; Stetson, 1953; Mercer, 1954; Florida State, 1955; Georgia Teachers, 1956; and Stetson, 1957.

Tournament entrants were determined by the Dunkel system ratings of February 17. Each team establishes its own rating on a national basis according to its win-and-loss record and the result margin as compared with the strength of the opponent.

Ratings of NAIA member schools on that date were: Georgia Teachers, 51.5; Stetson, 51.2; Rollins, 47.0; Mercer, 44.8; Florida Southern, 42.8; Oglethorpe, 24.2; and Piedmont, 20.6.

REGISTER H. D. CLUB MEETS AT HOME OF MRS. LEON HOLLOWAY The Register Home Demonstration Club met Friday, February 14, at the home of Mrs. Leon Holloway with Mrs. L. J. Holloway and Mrs. Inman Carree as hostesses.

A beautiful devotional was given by Mrs. C. B. Holland. Mrs. Thigpen gave a demonstration on ceramics, stools and tid-bit trays.

The club agreed to help beautify the grounds of the Register School.

Refreshments were served and consisted of chicken salad sandwiches, lemon cheese cake, topped with whipped cream, nuts and coffee.

Twenty-five members and three visitors enjoyed the meeting.

A summary of the story as it appeared in the New York Times is as follows: Prof. Cecil J. Olmstead, a professor of law in New York University, is director of the Inter-American Law Institute. This institute brings Latin American lawyers to the United States each year for post graduate work.

Prof. Olmstead will proclaim the program a success in a tenth anniversary report soon.

He said in an interview last week he considered the program "the most successful of its kind" in the United States. "It is the best defined and the longest sustained of any in the country," he declared.

The program, the first of its kind in the nation, was designed to build an effective bridge between the legal systems of the Americas.

In addition to promoting intra-hemispheric understanding, its purpose is to develop a cadre of lawyers equipped to handle legal, commercial and governmental problems throughout the American republics.

The Inter-American Law Institute of which Prof. Olmstead is now director, is a permanent part of New York University's law center.

Prof. Olmstead describes it as a "private Point Four Program." He said that plans are in the making for turning the program into a "two-way street" by sending lawyers from the United States to Latin America for study and training. He also said a group of three would leave early this summer.

Prof. and Mrs. Olmstead spent some time in Latin America last Summer.

"Dear Charles" To Be Presented By Masquers For This Quarter

On the nights of March 4 and 5 the Masquers will present their winter quarter production, "Dear Charles," which like the fall quarter production, "Ring Around the Moon," is an adaptation from a French original.

During an interview, Ed Ward, stage manager of the production, gave the following account of the comedy: "Dear Charles" is the story of a famous author who has three children but has never quite found time to complete her family with a husband.

She has instead established a bargain portrait over the fireplace as their father, "Dear Charles." This arrangement works very well until two of her children decide to get married.

Hilarious comedy prevails from here to the end of the play as she seeks the aid of her children and then of their real fathers to help solve her problem.

Mrs. Sara Thigpen gave a demonstration of molding and finishing ceramics and other hand work.

Several members were present. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Topping the plentiful food list in February and March will be prunes and pork, according to Miss Mary Gibbs, nutritionist, Agricultural Extension Service.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Ruben Belcher. Mrs. J. A. Addison gave the devotional.

Mrs. Thigpen installed the new officers after the business meeting.

WARNOCK H. D. CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. DON BRANNEN The Warnock Home Demonstration Club held its regular February meeting at the home of Mrs. Don Brannen which was beautifully decorated with flower arrangement and pot plants.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Ruben Belcher. Mrs. J. A. Addison gave the devotional.

First Baptist Church plans to begin new church auditorium

By MRS. JOHN A. ROBERTSON

At a conference held Sunday night, February 16, at the First Baptist Church, plans were made to start the new church auditorium at an early date, so last Monday morning work started toward taking the old building down, and the new church will be built on the same site, in front of the beautiful educational building that was completed several months ago. Ernest Cannon of Statesboro is the contractor for the new building.

While the church is being built, the workshop service will be held in the Methodist Church on the first and third Sundays, beginning next Sunday morning and continuing until the new church building is ready for occupancy. At the close of the service Sunday morning a ground-breaking ceremony will be held and all friends and well-wishers are invited to attend the special service of ground-breaking. The Rev. Kent L. Gillenwater is the new pastor of the Baptist Church. He and his family moved here last Summer from Atlanta.

Miss Ollie Mae Lanier presented her group of sixth grade pupils of the Brooklet Elementary School in a unique program last Friday afternoon in the school auditorium. A group of girls gave a lovely devotional in song, and the entire class presented a musical program, giving twelve vocal selections, with Barbara Kennedy and Patsy Mills, pianists, assisted by Nancy McCall and Jaquita Jones on the Xylophone. The closing numbers of the program was a "square dance," with the students in special costumes.

FOR BETTER PERMANENT PASTRES
 General fertilizer recommendations on permanent pastures are 400 to 600 pounds of 4-12-12 per acre in North Georgia. In South Georgia, 5-10-5 may be substituted. These recommendations are from J. R. Johnson, agronomist - project leader, Agricultural Extension Service. He urges the use of soil tests.

John Conner, dairy marketing specialist, Agricultural Extension Service, says hot chocolate or cocoa offered at breakfast in cold weather is one way to increase milk consumption.

Blue Devils in tourney finals for state champ

Gene Neville went on a 23-point spree to lead Statesboro High School Blue Devils to a 59 to 45 victory over Calhoun County in Macon Tuesday night in the semi-finals of the Georgia Class A basketball tournament.

Last night the Blue Devils played the deciding championship game at the state level. (The Bulloch Herald was already printed before the game was played.)

Representing the National Safety Council was National Postmaster Frank Hook, who presented the awards, after which the local postmaster, D. R. DeLoach, gave words of commendation and praise.

"The issuance of these awards is an example of the Post Office Department's vital interest in promoting the national vehicle safety program," said Postmaster DeLoach.

When Mr. Taylor and his family went to Rutland, only a handful of the 60,000 people living there had heard the Gospel. It is an area of great opportunity for Christian witnessing, according to Mr. Taylor.
