Special exhibit at Flower Show features native plants

A special exhibit of the Spring Flower Show on April 23, sponsored by the Bulloch Council of Federated Garden Clubs at the Statesboro High School gym on West Grady Street, will feature thirty-six dried specimens of plants native to this section. The collection will include lilies, wild orchids, rare ferns, and specimens from the important pine family.
The collection has been especially selected by Dr. J. A. Boole, associate professor of biology at Georgia Teachers College.
Dr. Boole in talking about the collection, states that this section of the United States is virtually unknown botanically. The goal of his department at the college is to make a complete collection of plants of this area which has never been done.
Each spring, as a part of his class in field botany, he and his students explore locations as near as Lott's Creek and as far away as Tallulah Gorge in search of plant specimens.
Plants collected are "keyed" or identified before the process of drying. When properly dried by a painstaking process, the specimen is mounted, labeled and filed in a large steel cabinet and becomes a part of the herbarium at G.T.C. plant specimens are sent to the University of Georgia and on to the National Herbarium which is a part of the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D. C.
The Bulloch Council of Federated Garden Clubs invites you to become acquainted with this little known field of native Georgia flora at the Spring Flower Show on April 23, at the S.H.S. gym.
Show time is 3 p. m. to 9 p. m. Admission will be 50 cents.

Bulloch County's annual Barrow Show and Fat Cattle Show will be held at the Co-op Livestock Exchange Stockyards on Thursday and Friday, April 24 and 25, according to an announcement made today by W. C. Hodges, chairman of the livestock committee, under whose jurisdiction these shows are held, with the cooperation of other leaders and organizations in the county.

Mr. Hodges will serve as general chairman of the show and sales, with Tapp Bennett, director of agricultural development, Central of Georgia Railway, of Savannah, and R. O. Williams, Extension livestock specialist at Athens, serving as judges.

Livestock is now Bulloch County's biggest business, bringing to the farmers and buyers more than $3,000,000 annually. These annual livestock shows, held each year since 1936, have made the county a national center of development of this project in Bulloch, and the cooperation of farmers, 4-H and F.F.A., membership in the county, and organizations within the county has made this possible.
County Agent Roy Powell reports an excellent job being done by the boys and girls in feeding out pigs and calves for these events, and prospects are good for one of our best shows.

SHOWN HERE are some of the members of the Saturday morning "Playtime" group which meets each Saturday morning at the Fair Road Center from 10 to 12 a. m. 10 cases of dog bites reported by Post Office

Postmaster Reppard DeLoach recalls hearing since childhood that dogs are among man's best friends. He remembers also from his years in the postal service that dogs are sometimes a mailman's worst enemy.
The Statesboro post office has ten reported cases of dog bites during the twelve-month period from January 1, 1957 to date. Six cases needed medical attention. Some bites were inflicted innocuous teasing exercises by promising young things which hadn't yet learned how to act in polite society. Others were vigorous partakings of the victim's breeches by confirmed manthropes who don't give a darn for public servants and want the neighborhood to know it.
Postmaster DeLoach's point is this: he wants to deliver every body's mail, for delivering the mail is his business. The more complaints and complaints his postman is in your area. You'll get your mail, the carrier will preserve his posterior, and the taxpayer will receive better returns on his investment. The only losers will be the doctors, who surely can't make extra money without the pittance we give them for backside repairs, and the dogs, who surely can get by with an occasional "dog bite" or, or, or, on a leash or otherwise confined when the carrier comes to your house.

Recreation program here is recognized

The National Recreational Association reported this week that Dr. George D. Butler, one of the foremost writers in the country in the professional recreation field, has selected the Statesboro Recreation Program for inclusion in the revised edition of his new book, "Introduction to Community Recreation."
The announcement called attention to the articles about the local program printed in "The Municipal South" in 1954.
Dr. Butler is quoted as saying: "There are a number of features which merit including Statesboro in the new edition." He referred to the Statesboro program as an example of a well rounded program in a small city.
The new edition of the book will be used in the programs of the International Recreation Association which will mean circulation around the globe.

Editorials

The ten-year-old is a valuable asset

To the ten-year-old a birthday is something important. It's more than just another year added to his age.

To the ten-year-old Recreation Center of Statesboro it's not so important that its birthday came early this month—the important thing is that there is to be a celebration in which the whole community will be given an opportunity to share.

It was ten years ago this month that the Statesboro Recreation Program became a living part of this community.

Hooray!

It gives us a tremendous cause to know that there are some who do not believe in this business of receding business.

And so the announcement that Robbins Packing Company is about to spend a lot of hard-earned cash money in the expansion of their meat-packing plant located here in Statesboro sent us outside where we threw up our best-up editorial hat high into the air and it is now in an orbit to rival those of Explorers I and III.

Putting their faith in that wonderful little character "Lil' Robbie" who has winged their way into the homes of a lot of people and now they have answered "Lanky Frank," the long answer to the hogdog shortage, who has won the hearts of the small fry and the grown folks too.

We commend the officials of Robbins Packing Company for their courage and faith in this section.

'Know your government'

Statesboro Rotarians have been given a rare opportunity during the past several months to hear the nation's outstanding leaders as part of the program committee's planning, with the assistance of Congressman and Rotarian Prince Preston.

Called "Know Your Government Better," the program has brought several government officials to Statesboro from Washington to discuss their duties and responsibilities to the nation.

Let's Put This Guy In The Controlled File

This Week's Meditation

By The Rev. L. E. Houston Jr.

TRUTH IS WHERE YOU FIND IT

I LIKE THE westerns. Now that I have confessed, I have probably lost some friends and gained some others.

The Club owes its only honorary member, Mr. Preston, a vote of appreciation for the part he has played in assisting with the program.

To clear the record

Least some of the readers of Mr. Roy Harris' Augusta Courier might be confused we wish to make clear a reference he made in his March 31 issue to "Rufus Bulloch, carpetbag governor of Georgia."

The Mr. Bulloch to which Mr. Harris referred is not our Mr. Bulloch for whom our great county was named.

Our Mr. Bulloch is Archibald Bulloch, Revolutionary War leader, who was active in the organized resistance to the British in Georgia in the 1770's.

A joy to the soul

Before it's too late take time out and visit around your home town.

In all the years we've lived here we can't remember the yards and streets looking more lovely. The dogwood, the azaleas, the crab apples, the spirea, the white iris, the wisteria—all have turned our community into a fairyland of beauty.

With one of the roughest winters in many years behind us it is a joy to the soul to see the handwork of God revealed in nature.

Be a contributor

You take a dog and you train him right, and then leave him alone and you got a good dog. The same applies to boys. Spoil a dog early, and no amount of hollering will cure him.

This was written by Robert Ruark in his book, "The Old Man and the Boy." It was contributed by one of our readers interested in dogs and boys.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

Mr. Leodel Coleman, Editor The Bulloch Herald Statesboro, Georgia Dear Leodel:

Just finished reading your editorial page in this week's issue of the Bulloch Herald (April 3, 1958) and I am compelled by something inside me to put on paper as nearly as possible my feelings; emotions may be a better word.

First of all, your choice of the Easter Story by Luke is admirable. I hope that everyone of your readers included these two columns. It is a familiar story, but some of us, inclined to think that we know it by heart, pass on to something more "newy"; a murder, an automobile, or a juicy bit of scandal. It is my hope that some who might not be urged to pick up a Bible and read the story of the Resurrection, will read your column and perhaps a seed of God's divine plan may take root.

The Rev. L. E. Houston, in his column, emphasizes the life of lying and deceit. Exhibit impatience to a child and watch the development of a spirit of impatience toward all children.

SUSPECT the actions of your husband or wife and get set to deal with the gnawing cancer of suspicion.

Break the habit of attending church school or worship services and notice how quickly you develop an indifferent attitude toward your faith.

THE FOUNDATION upon which this organization is based includes leadership, character development, scholarship, thrift, organized recreation, improved agriculture, citizenship and patriotism. In the program planning the youthful leader learns to conduct public meetings, to speak in public, to buy an asset, to solve his own problems and learn good financing practices.

ALTHOUGH ONE may trace the beginning of this organization back to World War I days, it was actually organized, as we know it today, in 1928.

THE F.F.A. is an organization which has as its membership boys studying vocational agriculture in the secondary schools of America. It is an important part of the program of vocational education in Agriculture in our schools.

ONE MINISTER, after directing the on this truth, decided to prepare a sermon. He used the story of Samson and how his strength was known to the first one.

GOD HAS ALSO provided his people with the life and teachings of Jesus, the church, and a multitude of faithful Christian friends who can find strength for the day, and make loud the voice of the umpire in his soul.

Herman Talmadge Reports From Washington

TRADE POLICIES which favor foreign goods at the expense of American industry and the jobs of American workers were colorfully and truthfully described recently by Robert S. Lynch, chairman of the Board of Atlantic Steel Company of Atlanta, as "holding a gun at our own head with one hand digging our grave with the other."

Testifying before the House Committee on Ways and Means in opposition to the proposed extension and liberalization of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, Mr. Lynch told Congressmen that indiscriminate foreign imports of steel products, up as much as 412 per cent in some categories since 1933, have forced his firm to skip its first dividend since the depression and lay off one-third of its workers.

THE BLAME for this rests squarely on the doorstep of the Federal Government, which has used trade as an instrument of its abortive foreign policy of attempting to buy friends with foreign aid dollars. It has built and streamlined foreign industry and, through manipulation of tariffs under the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act, it has opened the doors of this country to the flood of low-cost goods through American business and jobs expendable and has met all complaints with the reply that to do otherwise might make some neutralist nation mad with us.

It is impossible to agree with President Eisenhower that it is "our own economic self-interest" to give the Executive Branch authority to further reduce tariffs by 25 per cent over the next five years. To the contrary, our economic salvation depends that Congress reassert its constitutional authority to control trade and impose sufficient quotas and tariffs to assure the maintenance of this country's industrial vitality.

THE SPELL the fire had cast over us was broken and the hateful mention of taxes and money (or the lack of the latter) had spoiled our happiness. Well, nobody would mind paying taxes, if everybody who had anything to do with the government would be frugal and careful and honest with our money, we lamented.

WHY I've got to finish the fire that we are the government—the and I end all the rest of the folks in the country. I told him that we were responsible for things good and bad by our work or our indifference. But I often have to give this little pep talk to myself.

I had better be doing the same thing.

Max Lockwood writes a good column and I particularly like this week's "This is the Time." The best compliment I can make is to say that I wish that I had written it. It expresses my thoughts of spring and Easter.

One of the finest young groups of our city is, there are really two of them, are the H-Y and Tri-H-Y, and Virginia Russell selected them as her subject this week. It is an inspiring story to us older people who see these young people take such an active part in the religious life of our city, and thanks to Virginia for telling us about their activities.

And thanks to you, Mr. Editor, for your Easter Editorial Page.

Sincerely, AL SUTHERLAND

ON AUGUST 30, 1950, the 81st Congress of the United States passed Public Law 740, granting a Federal Charter to the Future Farmers of America organization. This organization, founded in 1917 has long been recognized as one of the outstanding youth organizations in the world.

There are some who feel that in these days of agricultural surpluses and with the trend toward urban living the need for this type training is not so great as in earlier years. However, the need is greater than ever before for a revised program of education for our youthful leaders in our rural towns, on our farms and in our cities. The city dweller needs to have a basic understanding of the role played by the development of sound programs of farming for our country.

PERHAPS THE F.F.A. will be able to find an answer for some of these questions. Lister as their first aim is the objective to develop competent, aggressive, rural and agricultural leadership. These youthful leaders can do much to help us solve our problems and it is my belief that through organizations such as this the ultimate answer will come.

THE F.F.A. is an organization of which all Americans can be proud and we would do well to join with the Future Farmer as a wonderful opportunity for him to begin to say his creed, "I BELIEVE IN THE FUTURE OF FARMING, WITH A FAITH BORN NOT OF FWORDS BUT OF DEEDS..."

IT SEEMS TO ME that this is a wonderful opportunity for these youthful leaders to make some outstanding contribution to their profession. How can we explain in these days of

We Make Our Insurance Rates

Not because of Insurance Commissioner Zack Cravey—not because of the insurance companies—not because of the recent legislative investigation, but because of you and me.

We, ourselves, have brought on inflation. The cost of every commodity is greater today than it was in the "good old days." Taxes, food, gas, clothing, etc. This all means higher repairs to our property damaged by fire and by tornado, and to repairs on our automobiles.

PERHAPS THE F.F.A. will be able to find an answer for some of these questions. Lister as their first aim is the objective to develop competent, aggressive, rural and agricultural leadership. Many farmers still depend on cotton as important cash crop

By ROY POWELL, County Agent

OUR SOIL * OUR STRENGTH

By E. T. "RED" MULLIS, Soil Conservation Service

Farm drainage is becoming an important problem with the co-operators of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District in Bulloch. Heavy rains this spring have caused a lot of low areas, natural ponds or depressions, and seep areas to be too wet to plow. This is especially true over the lower one-third of the county.

The Soil Conservation Service working through the Ogeechee River S.C.D. is meeting this drainage problem head-on. Solutions are being worked out for cooperators as rapidly as possible, but time limitation is an important factor. It's like the old saying about the leaky roof. When it isn't raining you don't need it fixed, but when it is raining you can't get out to fix it. Most folks, however, do get their roofs fixed during sunny weather.

It might be a good idea for cooperators to plan and con-soil capable of producing a bale per acre.

1. Prepare soil thoroughly.
2. Use 500 to 800 pounds of 4-12-12 per acre and side dress with 40 to 60 pounds nitrogen per acre.
3. Plant with resistant varieties, as Empire will resist, Coker's Self-Planting, Plains and Dixie King.
4. Plant with resistant varieties, as Empire will resist, Coker's Self-Planting, Plains and Dixie King.
5. Plant one bushel of machine delinted, or 15 to 20 pounds acrid delinted, seed per acre. Seed should be planted with a conventional type planter equipped and treated for seed-borne diseases. Use certified seed. Best seed germination is obtained when soil temperature is 65 to 80 degrees F.
6. Space three to six plants per foot of row in 36 to 42-inch rows.
7. Practice pre-emergence weed control in Georgia. Cotton can be planted with a conventional type planter equipped for planting, rolling and spraying the soil surface in one operation.

For complete ground coverage, use 6 to 7.5 pounds of Chloro L.P.C. (active ingredient) per acre.

If sprayed in 12-inch band directly over the row and in 6-inch rows, use only one-third of the complete recommendation. For adequate ground coverage one gallon of solution per acre to reach inch of band width sprayed should be used. Example: 12-inch band is treated, 12 gallons per acre would be required. Follow manufacturer's recommendation in mixing.

Chloro L.P.C., when properly applied, usually will control annual weeds from four to six weeks. For best results, the treated band should not be disturbed until cultivation or hoeing is needed for weed control.

Middies should be plowed, being careful not to let fresh soil fall on treated bands. After end of chemical control period complete cultivation should be dropped until lay-by time.

When using pre-emergence treatment, seed can be hill-dropped six to eight seed per hill 12 to 14 inches apart. This eliminates chipping. Seed should be covered one to one and a half inches deep. If seed is drilled, chipping should not be done, or should be delayed, until weed control period has expired.

The Bulloch Troops were organized before the bombardment of Fort Sumpter. This group assembled at the place of W. D. Braman on October 6, 1861, left for Savannah on October 7, and was mustered into the Confederate service on October 10 by Colonel Rockwell for a term of twelve months. They were under the command of Dr. A. I. Hendry, Captain.

Before the expiration of its term it was reorganized and enlisted for the duration of the war with Captain George B. Best.

The company was first attached to the Second Georgia Battalion with Lieutenant Colonel Montgomery Cummings as commanding officer.

After about twelve months these troops were attached to the 5th Georgia Cavalry Regiment, commanded by Colonel B. H. Anderson. This regiment did picket duty on the coast of Georgia and South Carolina and was ordered to the Olustee fight in Florida but railroad facilities were so poor that it arrived a day or two after the fight.

They returned to the Georgia front and met Johnston's army at Kennesaw Mountain. Sergeant Marion Miller was killed at the Chattoahoochee River by a fragment of a shell, the first casualty. A young

"Willie Wrethand" Says

Plenty of boll weevils survived this past winter, according to the survival count recently conducted by the Georgia experiment station. It's too early to tell what sort of weevil year this will be, but it will pay to find them and destroy them early in the season.

THIS WE KNOW!

- That the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) was created by an act of Congress dated May 20, 1936.
- That prior to the enactment of this legislation less than 3% of Georgia farms had central station electric power.
- That the Georgia General Assembly passed enabling legislation in 1937 known as the "Electric Membership Corporation Act" which was approved March 30, 1937.
- That Georgia farmers organized "Electric Cooperatives" because it was the only way to get electricity to the farms within their time and generation.
- That TODAY because of 41 Electric Cooperatives we have electrified 96% of Georgia farms and rural establishments.

THIS WE BELIEVE

- That our business is private enterprise at its best.
- That although the future is uncharted we have FAITH in our enterprise; in Georgia farmers and the spirit of fair play that prevails in the utility industry.
