THE BULLOCH HERALD

Enrollment at G.T.C. summer school is 941

Total enrollment at Georgia Teachers College for the first session of summer school is 941, according to Miss Viola Perry, registrar.

This total is the fourth highest in G.T.C. summer session history. In 1950, during the boom days of the G. I. Bill, a record enrollment of 1,104 attended the first session.

Of the total, 210 are enrolled in the school's first graduate program, 600 are undergraduates, 50 are enrolled in the Savannah workshop, and 81 are attending an on-campus workshop for elementary science teachers.

Dr. Zach S. Henderson, G.T.C. president, and Mr. Paul F. Carroll, dean of the graduate school, both expressed their pleasure over the large enrollment. Regular new student counseling procedures are being directed by Dr. Ralph Tyson, dean of students, because 37 first quarter freshmen are attending the first session.

Elementary education majors make up a large portion of the graduate school, as was expected, but sizable numbers are enrolled in each of the other areas of study. These include health and physical education, English, social science, exact science, industrial arts, and music.

The second session will be conducted at G.T.C. from July 28 to August 20. Students may register for one course, and gain five quarter hours or three and one-third semester hours.

Kirstin Pihl says farewell to local Rotarians; leaves for home July 29

Miss Kirstin Pihl of Hagersten, Sweden, Rotary International Fellowship Student under the joint sponsorship of the Statesboro and Millen Rotary Clubs, made her farewell speech to the local Rotary Club on Monday of this week. She has been a student at G.T.C. since September of last year.

Miss Pihl will return to her home in Sweden the latter part of July. She already has passage on the "Stockholm" sailing from New York City.

She arrived here on September 21. While at G.T.C. she did outstanding scholastic work and participated in many extra-curricular activities. She was named "Miss G.T.C. of 1958" in the college's annual beauty revue held in conjunction with the annual Homecoming. She made thirty-five talks to groups since she arrived in Statesboro.

JOHN THOMAS HODGES

WINSTON HAGAN

Winston Hagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hagan of Route 2, Statesboro, and John Thomas Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Hodges of Route 6, Statesboro, Ga., have been awarded an all expense paid trip to St. Louis and Chicago for one week by Farm and Ranch Magazine Company of Nashville, Tenn. These boys won the trip by selling the most magazines in a campaign sponsored by the local F.F.A. chapter and Farm and Ranch.

They are being accompanied on the trip by officials of Farm and Ranch, J. N. Baker, district supervisor of vocational agricultural education, some of the teachers of agriculture from the three states represented and boys from F.F.A. chapters throughout Georgia, Florida and Alabama.

They left Swainsboro, Georgia by Trailways Bus, Friday, June 13, and returned Saturday, June 21.

In St. Louis they visited the world famous St. Louis zoo, saw the St. Louis Cardinals and Milwaukee Braves baseball game, and toured the Purina Mills experimental farms.

In Chicago they saw a baseball game between the Chicago White Sox and the Boston Red Sox, Shedd Aquarium, where they saw 10,000 specimens of fish. They visited the International Harvester plant, Riverview Park, the nation's largest midway, the Chicago Board of Trade, the world's largest grain exchange.

Editorials

There's no rest

There's no rest for the farmer. He's beset by problems on all sides and caught in the middle of the new well publicized "price-cost squeeze."

The perennial plagues, the boll weevil and the bollworm, are descending on him again.

The farmers are in for a hard battle this year to keep down the damage to cotton by these pests. One would think that the hard, cold winter we experienced would have killed the darn things. But not so. It is reported that counts of 250 boll weevils per acre in many South Georgia counties are showing up even before cotton bolls are formed and are doing their damage on the squares and buds of the young cotton plants.

There is no need to warn farmers of these pesky problems. But we do believe that his friends who live in town should be acquainted with some of the facts of farm life to create a better understanding between us and an appreciation of our farmer friend's problems.

Don't put it off

So you've been putting off writing that letter for a long time. You've been meaning to write Uncle Joe B. and Aunt Minnie Ruth, but you just didn't get around to it.

It was not that it cost only three cents to mail the letter, it was just that you didn't get 'round to doing it.

Well the high cost of living being what it is, you better get those letters written before August 1.

For come August 1 the three cent stamp joins the parade of H.C.L. items, and it'll cost you four cents to mail that letter to Uncle Joe B. and Aunt Minnie Ruth.

And if you think you can save on the two cent post card, look again—it'll be three cents.

And if you get in a hurry your air mail stamp will go to seven cents come August 1.

The preacher wrote

The Rev. William T. Bodenhamer, pastor of the Ty Ty Baptist Church, has announced his candidacy for governor.

He sent our 4,000 letters to Georgia ministers and received replies from 700.

Rev. W. A. Tyson Jr., pastor of the Young Harris Methodist Church, Athens, and a former pastor of the Greensboro Methodist Church received one of the letters. In his column in The Athens Banner-Herald, the letter he wrote to Rev. Bodenhamer:

"Prayerfully, it is inconceivable to me how any person who has been called of God to preach could, under any circumstances or for any reason, exchange that high calling for the Governor's Chair or any other position. In my opinion I would much rather be the pastor of the Ty Ty Baptist Church than hold any position, political or otherwise. I am strongly convinced that you will do yourself a great disservice, as well as the Kingdom of God, if you run for Governor of the State of Georgia. I could not give my support to any man who would exchange the high calling of God for any other office."

Getting Away From The Daily Grind

This Week's Meditation

By The Rev. L. E. Houston Jr.

AIR-CONDITIONED CHRISTIANS

Well, it's hot! Or does anyone have to remind you. And all about us, folk are trying to cool off, to adjust to a sweltering South Georgia summer even before summer has officially begun.

SOME ARE vacationing in the mountains, others have scrambled to the seashore, and the rest of us either are getting set to endure it, or purchase an air-conditioning unit. One person philosophically put it like this to me: "Well, some of us have been here a long time, and our summers have come and gone. I reckon if we didn't want to stay we wouldn't."

I AM QUITE sure that my family wants to stay, but we decided we could endure it a little better if we purchased an air-conditioning unit. This we did in lieu of a vacation this year, (and probably for years to come) and already we are reaping its cool benefits.

But all is not comfort yet. One still has to go out of doors and catch his breath as he feels the crush of hot humid air. Our main problem is we haven't learned how to air-condition the whole earth.

COULD IT BE that some of us have become "air-conditioned Christians?"

One might guess as much if he watches the attendance figures at church during the summer season. Some churches just close up for the "hot months," and almost every minister is acutely conscious of "the slump." I am positive that some parsonages have promised his pastor that as soon as the church is air-conditioned, he will be present.

PICK UP YOUR NEW Testament and read of the Christian Church as its activities are recorded in the Book of Acts.

That early church would have worn out because the doors were always open to every man.

Air-conditioning is fine for physical comfort, but it can rob the heart of its warmth and vitality if it is put to a spiritual use. "Air-conditioned Christians" — May their tribe decrease!

Herman Talmadge Reports From Washington

IN STATING that Congressional investigations can "lead to ruthless exposure of private lives in order to gather data that is neither desired by the Congress nor useful to it," the Court seemed to say that data on Communist activity is not useful to Congress. While the Court admitted it has no authority to prescribe "rigid rules" for Congress, at the same time asserted that courts could recognize the separation of the Legislative and Judicial Branches only "up to the point where their own duty to enforce the constitutionally protected rights of individuals is affected."

The Internal Security Subcommittee said it could not imagine "a more fragrant usurpation of legislative power" than this attempt to substitute the judgment of appointed judges for the judgment of the elected representatives of the people. It recommended immediate action by Congress to enact legislation to preserve the autonomy of the two branches.

The principal reason which Chief Justice Warren, author of the ruling, cited in its defense was that forced revelations about an individual's past, when judged by the standards of the present, may harm the individual and those with whom he is identified. The Subcommittee's comment about that was: "In other words, if he has been doing something wrong and people find out about it, he may get hurt."

IN ITS DECISION the Court held that it was "not concerned with the power of the Congress to inquire into and publicize corruption, maladministration, or inefficiency in agencies of the government" which prompted the Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security to conclude in its 1957 Annual Report: "In other words, it is all right for Congress to expose corruption, maladministration, or inefficiency, so long as it doesn't try to expose subversion."

The principal reason which Chief Justice Warren, author of the ruling, cited in its defense was that forced revelations about an individual's past, when judged by the standards of the present, may harm the individual and those with whom he is identified. The Subcommittee's comment about that was: "In other words, if he has been doing something wrong and people find out about it, he may get hurt."

But, we'll go on paying ten and fifteen cents per bag for our boiled peanuts, including the pops.

We screamed.

The boy laughed as he said, "some of 'em are getting fifteen cents a bag!"

Oh, the hot boiled peanuts has on us. Oh, if we could just resist them.

But, we'll go on paying ten and fifteen cents per bag for our boiled peanuts, including the pops.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

One day we admitted in a group of men that we are not a fisherman and that we do not go fishing. The individuals in the group were amazed. They became interested in us as a rare specimen and suggested that they should see a doctor or something.

We looked at each other. We had read that when something bothers one it should be "brought out in the open," so we made public admission of our failing. We had gotten the impression from our fishermen friends that something must be wrong with us. We wrote in our column here that we are not a fisherman and that fishing holds no interest for us.

Then a surprising thing happened. Several men told us they are not fishermen either and that they were a little embarrassed about it and were reluctant about admitting it. They appreciated our speaking up for their feelings.

Well, those who are not fishermen we have the following. We clipped it from the Springfield Herald. We believe our fishing friends will enjoy it.

THE LOWEST FORM OF HUMANITY

The fisherman is without a doubt the lowest known form of the human species.

In the first place, the fisherman is utterly lacking in morals. He will lie, cheat, beg, and steal without batting an eye in order to gain the slightest advantage. Now, the "loved" fellowman, He has never been known to tell the truth about the size of his fish or where he caught them. He swears like a sailor and finds it necessary to drown his sorrows, which are numerous. Assuming the role of a great sportsman, he does not hesitate to stoop to any means which he thinks might yield results. As for keeping the law, he never considers it, unless the game warden is around.

The fisherman is the perfect example of an egotist. If he manages by any method—he it ever so foul—to catch a few little helpless fish, he struts around for days and his manner becomes unbearable. When he ties into a monster of the deep, just one pound and three ounces (in weight) he imagines himself engaged in a momentary struggle in which he must assert his patient, merchantly, and his adversary. Now, his smallest brain in existence, is color blind, and has no hearing mechanism. The fisherman thinks nothing of using gang-bangs—nine to a little wooden plug—or a 20-pound line to hold a ten-ounce fish. Anything is fair, says he, in love, war, and fishing.

Metering the News at Rockwell

Rockwell executive from Germany here

Henning Rehder, executive assistant to the president of Rockwell Manufacturing Company's L.L.O. Werks (Works), has recently completed a week's visit to the local plant. From Statesboro, the last manufacturing plant on his itinerary, Mr. Rehder returned to Pittsburgh and from there departs for Hamburg, Germany.

One of the newest of Rockwell acquisitions, L.L.O. Werks is a two plant operation, one in Pinneberg and the other in Munich, Germany. Employing approximately 1,500 people, the company manufactures 2-cycle gasoline engines, 2-cycle diesel engines, automatic transmissions and Rockwell Nordstrom valves.

During his fifteen weeks in the United States, Mr. Rehder visited the majority of Rockwell plants as he gathered knowledge about Rockwell products and the Rockwell organization. In Statesboro, Mr. Rehder spent most of his time studying parking meters and prototype meter operations.

On June 16, Mr. Rehder was introduced to the members of the Statesboro Rotary Club by Mrs. W. Brown, general manager of the local plant.

Employees at Rockwell's summer picnic

The Rockwell Statesboro Corporation was host to its employees and their children at the company's summer picnic held Saturday afternoon of last week in the picnic area at Georgia Teachers College near the old gym.

The early afternoon was filled with athletic events for the kids including the fifty-yard dash, the three-legged race, softball and a picnic contest for all "girls" over fifteen.

A picnic lunch of chicken and ham with the trimmings was served at 4:30.

The committees handling the picnic included Eunice Collins, Juanita Stubbs, Sylvester Lord and Clyde Freeman, employee activities; Dock Edenfield, arrangements; Jack Herzog, games; Robert Wiggins, signs and publicity; Selfie Chester, food; Elene Roberts, drinks; Clyde Hendrix, parking; Dreta Barnes, door prizes; Rachel Turner, prizes for athletic contests; E. M. Olson, clean-up, and Virgil Harville, public address system. Manager Sam Brown graced the table.

Preston trying to locate Civil War Vet widows

Congressman Prince Preston of this week the Veterans Administration has requested his assistance in trying to locate an estimated 1,500 widows of Confederate veterans believed to be entitled to federal pensions.

The request was made by the Administrator of Veterans Affairs who told Congressman Preston of V.A.'s problem in trying to identify the widows, who for the first time are eligible for V.A. pensions under recently signed Public Law 85-425.

The new law also provides pensions for the two living Confederate veterans, Walter W. Williams of Franklin, Texas, and John Salling of Slant, Virginia. Both men have been contacted by V.A. field representatives and assisted in filing their claims.

The widows, however, present another problem, Preston explained. Only those Southern states which pay similar benefits have partial rolls of Confederate beneficiaries.

The United States has no official records of these beneficiaries, and since the benefits are not automatic, the widows will have to file application forms which may be obtained in person or by letter from any V.A. office.

The two Confederate veterans are eligible for the same pension benefits as would Veterans and Union counterparts, $101.59 a month, or $135.45 if physically disabled or blind. Widows under 70 are entitled to $40 a month over 70 to $65 a month. If the widow was married to the veteran during the Civil War service, she is entitled to $75 a month.

"I hope the few surviving widows of our honored Confederate dead will take advantage of the Federal pension recently provided," Preston stated.

"A letter to the Veterans Administration in Washington or a visit to any local V.A. office will enable any Confederate widow to obtain the application forms, the First District Representative stated.
