CHARLESTON, S.C. - The young Georgia Southern rifle squad continued to improve on Saturday at the Inouye Marksmanship Center as it competed against No. 20 UAB, No. 21 The Citadel and The Citadel Women. Overall, the Eagles scored 4,438 points in their first road match of the season with three shooters finishing in the top 10.

The Eagles posted a 2,196 in smallbore, 17 more points than they shot in the season opener. Freshman Lillian Herring posted a 557 to lead the way as she finished ninth in the discipline. Her score was 19 points higher than the first match of her career. Senior Lydia Odlin had one of her best performances of her career, posting a 553, just three points shy of her career best. Ashley Judson record a 548 and Amelia Price registered a 538 in her first collegiate match.

In air rifle, Odlin led the way with a 569 to place fourth in the discipline. Judson posted a 568 to finish in a tie for fifth while Herring shot a 566 and Pierce shot a 539.

Overall, Herring finished eighth, while Odlin place ninth and Judson placed 10th.

Words From Coach Worman:

"Our first away match of the year presented many challenges and opportunities for growth. I was proud of how the freshmen embraced these opportunities and showed determination to use them to their advantage for the competitions to come. They've only been collegiate shooters for eight weeks, and there's no other way to get better than to learn and discover the things that you don't know along the way. There were some fine performances today, which proves that diligence and commitment to the process do pay off. We will keep at it!"
