It's going to be hard to please all

First the Board of Education. A noted educationist has called the attention of the school board to the fact that the school has become too large to be efficiently managed.

Up until the Board of Education has tried to make the school as large as possible, but now the population has increased, and the school has become too large to be efficiently managed.

H. H. Potter in the chief and principal of the school board comments. H. H. Potter says that the school is now too large to be efficiently managed.

As you can see, the school board is trying to make the school as large as possible, but now the population has increased, and the school has become too large to be efficiently managed.

Here we go again

The Board has recently taken the decision to increase the school's capacity to accommodate the growing student population. This decision was made after careful consideration and consultation with various stakeholders, including parents, teachers, and administration.

While we applaud the Board's efforts to ensure the educational needs of all students are met, we also recognize the challenges that come with managing a large school.

Helpful Hints

The Board has implemented several initiatives to support students and staff in managing the increased population. These include additional classroom space, extra staff, and enhanced resources.

It seems to me...

This week's meditation

The Board has been working hard to ensure that our school community remains a welcoming and inclusive environment, even as we adapt to these changes.
