Let Us Give Thanks Today

Today is Thanksgiving Day. It's a long way back to 1621 when Governor William Bradford of the Plymouth Colony wrote to the Mayflower about the first Thanksgiving for the pilgrimage.

There have been years of war. There have been years of disease.

There have been years of drought. There have been years of plenty.

There have been years of disaster, and years of triumph.

There have been years of happiness, and years of sadness.

We have always had reasons to be thankful. And we always will.

But today, on this special day, let us give thanks for all we have, and for all we are.

There is much to be thankful for. Our families, our friends, our neighbors.

There is much to be thankful for. Our health, our work, our leisure.

There is much to be thankful for. Our past, our present, our future.

Let us give thanks today, and every day, for the blessings that we have.

This Week's Meditation

It Seems to Me...

An honest approach

Recently, Georgia Poultry Producers has been involved in the creation of a new educational program designed to help poultry producers understand and appreciate their birds.

One of the main goals of this program is to improve the relationship between producers and their birds. By providing producers with a better understanding of their birds, we hope to create a more positive and productive atmosphere.

This program includes several components, such as training sessions, workshops, and resource materials. The goal is to help producers become more knowledgeable about their birds and how to care for them.

We believe that this program will have a positive impact on the poultry industry in Georgia and beyond.

We encourage all poultry producers in Georgia to participate in this program and to take advantage of the resources available.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

When it comes to Thanksgiving, there are many different perspectives and feelings associated with the holiday.

For some, it's a time of reflection and giving thanks for all they have. For others, it's a time of family gathering and enjoying good food.

But for many, it's also a time of unease and discomfort.

There are those who may feel uncomfortable with the commercialization of the holiday, or with the way it is often portrayed in the media.

There are those who may feel guilty for not being able to give thanks in the same way as others.

And there are those who may feel shut out of the celebration altogether.

We understand these feelings, and we respect them.

But we also believe that it's important to find a way to give thanks, in our own way, and in our own time.

This Thanksgiving, we encourage you to take a moment to reflect on what you are grateful for, and to express that gratitude in a way that feels right for you.

Whether it's through a quiet moment of prayer, a heartfelt letter to a loved one, or simply taking a moment to appreciate the beauty of the world around you, there are many ways to give thanks.

We hope that this Thanksgiving will be a time of joy, of healing, and of renewal.

We wish you all a happy and healthy Thanksgiving.

Here is the Lark by Studebaker — the one car or right for the needs of the times. It is sweeping average visitors from the earth public, the press, its dealers — and even dealers of competitive makes. Here is your new dimension in motoring — a high-spirited passenger on the inside, (small), modu-lar compartment on the outside. (nearly 1 foot shorter than conventional cars), economy where you count from ten miles on a half-mile-one, minor HK — top performance from either the spirited six or super-responsive V8 engine: handle like a dream, drive on a wing, poke where others can't — quickly built and engineered by Studebaker engineers in simple, close and classic styling — harmonizing wheels and tires and our rich and hunter-right touring, fully upholstered in satin and vinyl, or a total of the floor space, and power prices start under $1,000. The Lark is the car of choice in a perfect balance of passenger comfort and driver convenience. You can look where it counts: smart, sensible, spirited — it's a hospital.
