COUNTRY HOME SEEKER

YOUR ADVICE, PLEASE

It has been suggested that I divide my farm into two, three and five-acre tracts, to include both open and wooded areas. I am sure that you, with your deep drilled well would be supplied to all tracts, at the usual expense of individual wells.

The recreational opportunities would be exceptional, including horseback riding, fishing, ideal conditions, and the use of a large pond, set down amidst surroundings of notable beauty; a paradise for nature lovers.

Though few in number, these tracts would be moderate in price and the location only a short distance from town via paved road.

Now, I would appreciate learning whether there are many people to whom this kind of residential property would be of interest and, also, what kind of restrictions would be desirable. Pertinent suggestions of any kind would be welcome.

All communications will be considered confidential. No prizes are offered but those who respond will receive first choice of sites when and if the property is marketed.

Thank you. Please address: ADVERTISER, Box 419, Statesboro, Ga.

Jaycees 1958 Empty Stocking drive set for December 8-10

Fred Hodges, president of the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce, announced this week that the Jaycees' annual Empty Stocking Fund drive will be concentrated in a three-day effort this year beginning on Monday, December 8, and closing on Wednesday, December 10.

In making the announcement, he stated that Bob Usery and even more so, Mr. Usery, named chairman of the 1958 Empty Stocking Fund.

Mr. Usery and Mr. Copeland explained that the three-day effort is being used so that the drive will not be drawn out over a period of time but could be concluded in plenty of time to prepare their collection for proper distribution.

They stated that the distribution of their collection to the needy families in the county will be on the same basis as in the past. Miss Sara Hall of the County Welfare Department will work closely with the Jaycees to make sure that the greatest number of families possible will benefit from the drive.

"We will accept any useable clothes, toys, canned foods, and even more," Mr. Usery and Mr. Copeland said.

Members of the Jaycee organization will ring doorbells on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, December 8, 9, and 10, from 7 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Anyone not at home on these nights who has something to contribute to the Empty Stocking Fund may call Mr. Usery at 4-5597, or Mr. Copeland at 4-5597.

Mr. Hodges, on behalf of the Jaycees out on the three-day drive urges the citizens of Statesboro to go through their closets now and select the clothes that are still good but which the members of the family will not or do not use. Have them ready when the Jaycees begin filling "Empty Stockings" so that the less fortunate ones in the county might have the semblance of a "Merry Christmas."

He added that citizens may, at nighttime during the drive, deliver what they have to contribute to the empty building, formerly occupied by the bakery on East Main Street.

Checks for the fund may be mailed to Mr. Usery or Mr. Copeland or to the Empty Stocking Fund.

Editorials

We commend James Smith and the Jaycees

There are reasons why Bulloch County is recognized as one of the best counties on the great state of Georgia. One of the reasons is that its farming community keeps abreast with the changes in farm methods and practices.

But the principal reason is something more intangible. It's the men who put these farming methods and practices into effect. And these men hand down to their young the incentive to continue in the ways they have developed and the desires to stay in step with the changing farm picture.

And then there is a group of young business men of the county to whom this business of young people making farming their business is important. Such a group is the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Last week they selected a young Bulloch County farmer and singled him out to honor as "The Most Outstanding Young Farmer in 1958." And it was no accident that they selected James H. Smith of RFD 6 for this honor.

Mr. Smith's record as a farmer warrants such recognition. He joins the ranks filled with other outstanding young farmers—Delmas Rushing Jr., William Cromley and Lamar Smith—selected by the Jaycees since they inaugurated the annual custom of honoring the county's young farmers.

We commend Mr. Smith upon his selection and we commend the Jaycees upon their interest in promoting the farm community of our county.

It all adds to the total picture which, when framed, shows Bulloch County to be the finest county in the country.

Christmas Cantata

There always should be music at Christmastime. Joyous music, sung in joyous mood. Music sung to glorify God.

For years there has been music in Statesboro at this time of Christmas. This year there will be more.

On Sunday evening, December 21, the Statesboro Music Club, with the choirs of all the churches in Statesboro, will present its annual Christmas Cantata at the First Baptist Church.

This deserves the attendance of all of the people in the community. An hour spent within the sound of great music, sung in the House of God, can bring peace and satisfaction to one's heart and soul. And God knows, there is need for that in this coming Christmastime.

Mark your calendar and save that evening for music.

Becoming men

So you missed the Tobacco Bowl football game Friday night at Memorial Park.

Well, don't miss the next one on Thanksgiving, 1959.

Last Friday night the Midget Varsity football teams of Statesboro and Swainsboro met in Memorial Park stadium and played a thriller. Statesboro won 33 to 7. The score is not the thing.

Before the main event and at the half-time the football fans were treated to the finest exhibition of football seen here in many a day. Before the Midget Varsity teams played the field was taken over by the Tiny Mites. There were four teams on the field. Two teams at the north end of the field and the teams on the south end of the field. It was like a three-ring circus. The little shavers, eight to ten years old, knocked heads like Georgia Tech and University of and in red, these tiny mites are flashes of real football as they faked, bucked, forward passed, lateraled out, sneaked and ran up and down each end of the field. Dressed out in full football regalia in blue, in green, in yellow and in white, these Tiny Mites are the embryo Blue Devils of 1964-1965.

Between the halves the Mighty Mites, four teams of them, took over the field and you could see the progression. These Mighty Mites are just a little bigger than the Tiny Mites, and one saw little tighter football. These are the Blue Devils of 1962-1966.

The main event brought together the Midget Varsities of Statesboro and Swainsboro in the first annual Tobacco Bowl game. It was a joy to the football fan to see these boys handle themselves on the field of play. Their sportsmanship was wonderful to behold. And the fans loved them. It is proper that they should be commended.

And we should be thankful for our people like Max Lockwood, superintendent of the Recreation Department, Gilbert Cone Jr., sports director at the center, and Ralph Turner, coach, and George Hagins Jr., assistant coach of these teams. For it is they who are the moulders of these children, learning to become youth and men.

It's an old song

We sing an old refrain this week.

"Do Your Christmas Shopping at Home."

There's no music to it, and there are no other verses. Just the chorus — "Do Your Christmas Shopping at Home."

The storekeepers of our community are your neighbors and our neighbors. They are members of your P. T. A., and sit next to you in your church. Their children play beside your children at the Recreation Center. They provide employment for, and are the sources of income for some member of your family. They are interdependent upon each other. The auto dealer is dependent upon the department store owner whose employees buy automobiles. The department store is dependent upon the auto dealer whose employees buy suits and shoes, and coats and frills for their wives. The grocery store operator is dependent upon the hardware store owner whose employees buy meats and groceries, and the hardware store owner is dependent upon the grocery store operator whose employees buy garden hose, pots and pans, paints and fishing tackle.

And so it goes, each dependent upon the other.

And all contribute to the business of supporting the churches, the schools, the recreation program, the city and county governments.

And when you spend the money created here in large shopping centers, that is money lost to this community.

It's that simple.

Think twice before you shop out-of-town.

Join us in our song... "Do Your Christmas Shopping at Home."

You'll be glad you did.

VOICE FROM THE NORTH POLE

This Week's Meditation

By The Rev. L. E. Houston Jr.

"Oh! say, can you see, by the dawn's early light, What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming, Whose broad stripes and bright stars through the perilous night, Over the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming, And the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air, Gave proof through the night, that our flag was still there."

JUST WHEN YOU NEED HIM I am quite sure that you have often felt, as I have, that who follow after Jesus Christ catch a much needed glimpse of Him just when we need it the most. Sometimes it comes in the words of an inspiring hymn, or a prayer, and sometimes in the recognition of God's hand in the world which He has made.

JUST WHEN I need Him most, He is there to comfort, to guide, to inspire, and to challenge. This is the reassurance which I need, and it always comes, just when I need it most.

Statesboro B.P.W.

So you want to be a teacher? answered by Mrs. Nell Godbee

The Statesboro Business and Professional Women's Club are spotlighting careers in which young women may be interested in. Members of the club here are writing about the careers in which each is working and are answering the question, "So You Want to Be..." with her career classification filled in.

This week Mrs. Nell Godbee answers the question, "So You Want to Be a Teacher?" Mrs. Godbee is corresponding secretary of the local B. & P. W. Club and is a fourth grade teacher at the Mattie Lively Elementary School. She writes:

"There are many requisites for a successful school teacher. The first is a love for children and a strong desire to help them grow into happy and useful citizens. Then patience and understanding are necessary as the teacher works with all types of children. She must motivate so that the quick ones develop initiative to go beyond the requirements, the average ones are inspired and the slow ones achieve."

"To become a teacher, the first thing to do is to prepare for the field in which you want to teach. It may be in college, high school, upper elementary or primary. This preparation involves getting a high school diploma, a four-year college degree, and even further study for a master's or a doctor's degree. A teacher never stops studying, really, because of the constant changes in methods of teaching and she would stay abreast of the times in her chosen field."

"The salary of a teacher is based on the kind of degree received and the number of years experience. It is true that the pay scale for teachers in Georgia is not the highest in the United States, but neither is it the lowest."

Ticklers By George

"Here's your allowance, and the next time I borrow a couple bucks, I don't want you to tattle to your mother!"

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

SO YOU GOT a shock when you woke up Monday morning and found it to be December 1, and then a little mental calculation revealed that it's only 24 days until CHRISTMAS! But by the time you read this it's already only 20 days away. And if you deduct Sundays you have only fourteen more days in which to be ready for Christmas Eve. Time flies, Right? Right?

WE DID IT AGAIN Covered some of our camellias, that is. When the newspapers and the radio first began spreading the word last week that there would be a hard freeze on Saturday and Sunday nights, with the thermometer going to plunging to 20 degrees below zero, we were not going to pamper and over our camellias, like we've been doing year after year. They're grown up now and can take it... and anyway experts say that you should let them take care of themselves."

That's what we told ourselves off and on all day Saturday while working in the yard. But you know going to be by their own from now on! Anyway, the thermometer didn't go as low as the predictions indicated, so we just went to all the trouble to cover our precious camellias.

FOR THOSE who have manifested an interest—we have completed our sunken terrace on our back yard. Well, almost completed it, that is. We still have a little trimming to do. This is the project we began five or six years ago in our back yard. We dug a hole and filled it with concrete, 30 feet long and 20 feet wide, and paved it with old brick from several sources including the old First Methodist Church. We

THE PICTURE is being painted and already we can see enough of it to know that the South again will be on the defensive when the members of the House and Senate return to Capitol Hill in January.

The artist who is painting this picture is one for whom all of my adult years I have felt a feeling of great admiration. To see him now as he wields power over the Southern representatives in the Congress to bring about compromise after compromise on the civil rights and other important issues gives me a feeling of much sadness. It is a hopeless feeling which comes when one loses confidence in the Russian way of education to gain control of the schools and colleges of this nation.

The problem of school integration is a simple one indeed to solve. The Supreme Court has ruled that separate but equal facilities are not legal. Therefore it is a problem for the individual states and not the Supreme Court to find ways to implement this decision. When the respected and intelligent leaders of a sovereign state meet together until a workable solution is found by these leaders themselves, then under our system of government this would be and is an honorable decision.

SOCIAL REVOLUTIONS such as are involved in this matter of school integration are movements which have taken hundreds of years in the history of mankind. Such a revolution cannot and will not come about in a matter of a few years and those who believe that they can and who are in a position to force the issue will but have in their conscience the destruction of public education in the South.

The educators at Emory University who issued their manifesto on the integration of schools question this week have taken upon themselves a great responsibility. Since Emory is a private institution and since its staff believes so completely in this question one wonders why its doors have not long since been opened to the members of all races.

TO THE LEADERS of the South I would say that this is not a time for compromise. To do so betrays defeat. Let us fight every inch of the way in the halls of Congress and when we are defeated, if indeed we should be at all for we have long since moral principles in which we place our faith.

To submit to federal control of education is to submit to an usurpation of power and control in Washington which will ultimately bring about the destruction of these United States.

THE COLD SPELL that came upon us after such warm weather sent camellia growers into a frenzy. No one knew whether to believe the weatherman and cut his blossoms, hoping they would keep till today for the Camellia Show, or to gamble on the weatherman's predictions and leave the blossoms intact.

This warm weather caused me to remember the early part of the winter twelve years ago. There were roses blooming in December.

I REMEMBER a lot about that Thanksgiving twelve years ago. I had invited in several guests for Thanksgiving dinner but decided at the last minute to let my neighbor have the turkey. The nation had hardly recovered from World War II. But civilians in several parts of the country were being held in internment camps. We had had an order in for a new baby for over three and one half years. Finally the delivery came through on Thanksgiving Day.

We had not been able to get a battery for the old car. I can't recall whether or not a battery was unavailable or whether with which to purchase a battery were unavailable or whether we had grown so accustomed to pushing the car that we just hadn't bought one. But I do recall feeling some previous apprehensions about my being able to help push the car at such a time.

Until now things had always worked rather smoothly. We parked in front of the jail in town and pushed off from there. One little problem did sometimes occur. Occasionally someone parked in front of us and we had to wait an hour or so for him to move. At home we parked on a slight hill and pushing the car was little trouble.

I REMEMBER that the youngest boy chose the time of our departure for the hospital to cut his hand. He required five stitches. There never has been a time when I could have the whole stage.

I REMEMBER the hospital was always overloaded. Another worry had been the necessity of occupying a space in the hall (as many patients did.) A call to the hospital indicated one precious bed in the ward. What a blessing I remember that in my room. (I did finally get a room.)

I REMEMBER that I nursed all the babies in the hospital who were hungry. We laughed out the broad line forming in my room. (I did finally get a room.)

And I remember that friends brought me roses from their yards—they were blooming in December twelve years ago.

A LOVELY white-haired lady was put in the empty bed. She stayed uneasy all the time for fear some nurse would try to give her a baby.

I also remember the disgust I felt for the young nurse who

Reading the 83 to Success

YOUR CHILD'S READING AND YOU

During the month of November the Statesboro Regional Library is featuring children's books and emphasizing the theme "The family that reads together—grows together." Exhibits of books for children can be seen at the library.

"Books, magazines, comics, records, radio, television and movies, all these, taken together, are the instruments of communication by which today's children live and learn and grow. For parents and educators the task is to see the place of each and all of them in our children's lives and make the greatest use of them for the children's benefit. Each has something unique to contribute, and together they provide a dynamic symbiosis of today's living."

"Our role is to be alert to all that goes on in our children's world ready to offer a book that further explains a motion picture, or to direct attention to television or radio program that amplifies a book just read, or to discover how comics may open up new avenues for a child to explore in reading. One experience leads to another, and each enriches the whole."

These quotations are taken from Joseph Frank's book Your Child's Reading today. This and other books are available at the library which are written to help parents help their children and themselves—share adventures from books. The following books are suggested as guides for parents:

"A Book of Children's Literature," by Lillian Hellwell. This book brings together a body of old and recent literature, and at the same time supplies standards for selecting literature for children.

"Proof of the Pudding" by Phyllis R. Fenner. This book does not tell what boys and girls ought to read but what they like to read and why and how they can be encouraged to read more.

"Education of the Innocent," by Frederick Werthan. A Book specifically directed at those "comic books that depict crime, whether their setting be urban, western, science fiction, jungle, adventure, or the realm of superstition."

"Helping Your Child Read Better," by Robert M. Godson. Chapter by chapter roundup of questions frequently asked on how to tell whether or not your boy or girl is reading adequately. How to find out what may be holding him back... what to do about it.

MERRY WEEDER GARDEN CLUB HOLD NOV. MEETING

On Tuesday of last week Mrs. Bartow Lamb and Mrs. Dan Lester were hostesses to the Merry Weeder Garden Club at the Lamb home on South Main street.

Mrs. Lannie Simmons and Mrs. Hoke Brunson brought a lovely arrangement of greenery, bright red berries and yellow berries in an oblong vase.

Mrs. Ronald Neil, president led the varying discussions concerning Christmas.

Mrs. Jack Wynn was especially interesting as she gave a table of flowers used in the Bible.

The hostesses served a party plate with sandwiches, coffee and divinity candy.

There were 22 members present.

Among those who went to Athens to attend the University of Georgia-Georgia Tech game on Saturday were: Mr. and Mrs. Walker Hill, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hook, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wynn and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Robert Tillman.

increased sympathy and understanding. This can result from picture books read aloud to the youngest, on to books for older children.

"Teachers have a five-day working week and the school term is nine months. There is a great deal to be done, in connection with your regular teaching duties, for your school. This includes good planning, grading papers, reporting to parents and P. T. A. All of this can be dull; or it can be the most satisfying work in the world. Satisfying in that you feel you have had some small part in helping children grow and develop, both physically and mentally.

"No matter what your pay in dollars and cents, you forget about your remuneration when you find a note on your desk or slipped into your hand that says, 'You are a good teacher and I love you.' Even though you know they have written that note to the three previous teachers, you are glad to be included in the circle.

"You forget about the pay check when you have quieted a frustrated child, upset by emotional disturbances he can't quite control alone.

"As a teacher you must recognize and emphasize the many kinds of human talent; emphasize the many ways the varied individual potentialities may be realized. We must vary the educational paths required by all of these different talents. This means we must not neglect the pupils not considered college material. This group can attain much success if the schools and teachers recognize their talents and needs in developing them.

"They can also become useful citizens. We must not confuse achievement with human worth. We should value both highly.

"There are many vacancies in the teaching profession. The prepared person, the sincere worker, the socially adjusted individual will find no difficulty in securing a position in this profession."

Mrs. Bowen said that gifts should be gift wrapped and marked for man, woman or child. They are to be delivered to Mrs. W. W. (Dub) Brannen at the Standard Oil bulk station near the bus depot before December 10. She stated that anyone, not a member of the Woman's Club may prepare gifts for this project.

Mrs. Bowen said that gifts should be gift wrapped and marked for man, woman or child. They are to be delivered to Mrs. W. W. (Dub) Brannen at the Standard Oil bulk station near the bus depot before December 10. She stated that anyone, not a member of the Woman's Club may prepare gifts for this project.

Postmaster gives tips for Christmas mail

Some tips on Christmas mailings this year were issued today by Postmaster DeLoach.

To assure yourself of fast, worry-free Christmas mailings, Mr. DeLoach suggested these steps:

1. Parcels should be insured. Sealed parcels may be mailed at the third or fourth class postage rates without labels, notations, or endorsements of any kind authorizing the opening of parcels for postal inspection.

2. Combination Mail, one of the newer services of the Post Office Department, may often be used to good advantage. It permits a mailer to enclose a letter or a message inside a gift parcel simply by paying the appropriate letter rate postage, plus the postage for the package itself.

3. Certified Mail, another of the newer postal services, which permits mailers to obtain proof of delivery of Christmas letters or cards having no intrinsic value for a postal fee of 20 cents, may be used to good advantage.

4. Registered Mail, which provides greater security protection to letters and parcels carrying items of real financial value, may be used to good advantage.

5. Special Delivery service, which provides expedited delivery of Christmas letters or cards, may be used to good advantage.

6. Registered Mail, which provides greater security protection to letters and parcels carrying items of real financial value, may be used to good advantage.

livery at the office of address during prescribed hours, is often useful.

6. Air Mail and Air Parcel Post, which provides quick delivery of cards and parcels to all sections of the country, can help greatly with Christmas mailings.

7. Postal delivery zone numbers, which speed handling of mail, should always be used whenever possible.

8. The "facing" of letters and cards so that they are all stacked the same way, with the address facing the same way, as well as the tying of mail into "Local" and "Out-of-Town" bundles will expedite mail, particularly when larger quantities of mail are sent.

9. Free labels for "Local" and "Out-of-Town" bundles are available at post offices.

A free postal pamphlet—available at all post offices—entitled "Packaging and Wrapping Parcels for Mailing" should answer practically all questions any Christmas mailer might have on preparation of Christmas parcels for mailing.

IT WAS A WONDERFUL WAY TO START CHRISTMAS, BULLOCH COUNTY FOLKS AGREED (l-r, just waiting, getting aboard, meeting Santa and carols by Statesboro High School Girl's Choir.)

More than 2,000 Bulloch youngsters welcome Santa Claus

More than 2,000 children of Statesboro and Bulloch County rode the Santa Claus Special train, sponsored by the Statesboro and Bulloch County Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants Association, to Dover Wednesday afternoon, December 3, when it made two trips to meet Santa Claus to bring him to Statesboro to officially open the Christmas season in this community.

Nine hundred forty-four kids made the first trip which left Statesboro at 1:30 p. m. and arrived at Dover about 2:05. Santa Claus was waiting for them in a red caboose standing on a railroad siding. As the train pulled into Dover, the children of Georgia backed its 13-car Special up to the caboose it represented a great moment in the lives of those riding the train.

One thousand thirty-nine made the second trip which left here about 3:45.

Santa was escorted to the courthouse square where he officially turned on the Christmas lights over the streets of Statesboro and declared it Christmas-time in Statesboro. The Statesboro High School band and the Statesboro High School Girl's Choir provided a Christmas music background.

See Editor's Uneasy Chair for additional details.

Rotary Christmas Christmas party is Tuesday p. m.

Members of the Statesboro Rotary Club will be hosts to their Rotarians at their annual Christmas party at Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen Tuesday night, December 16.

President Gerald Groover said that the Christmas party is "really just our regular meeting held at nighttime with our Rotarians our special guests." He added, "Nothing fancy, our regular type meeting with a program, singing, and after a short illness, Rotary Club members will bring a toy, properly wrapped and labeled 'for boy' or 'for girl' to be put under the Christmas tree and later to be contributed to the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce's 'Empty Stocking Fund'."

Sam Brown, chairman of the Christmas Party, said that members are expected to report at Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen with their Rotarians in time to begin eating at 7:30 o'clock. "Mr. Bryant has arranged to have the meal on the table hot and ready to eat exactly at 7:30," Mr. Brown said. He pointed out that there are several other events Tuesday evening in which Rotarians are interested and "we want to have our party over as early as possible."

He suggests that members of the club be at Mrs. Bryant's earlier than 7:30 and be ready to begin promptly at that time.
