This is the sixth time in seven years that the popular GTC faculty members have combined their talents for an evening program. Last year Mr. Broucek was at Florida State University taking an advanced graduate study.

The program is offered free of charge and is open to the general public. In past years music lovers from all over South Georgia have attended in large numbers.

Mr. Broucek, a native of Ohio, received his bachelor's degree in music at Baldwin-Wallace College, Berea, Ohio, and his master's at the University of Michigan.

Mr. Hooley, a native of Reno, Pa., took his bachelor's degree at Penn State, and his master's at Columbia. Both men are now working toward their doctor's degree in music. Broucek, Broucek at Florida State University, and Hooley at the University of Georgia.

The program for the concert will be announced later. Past programs have varied between popular and the better-known classical numbers. It is known that the two plan a medley of eight numbers from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

He says thanks

With many tourists using U. S. 301 screaming out loud when they are stopped for speeding along the highway in counties which have what are commonly called "speed traps," it comes as a refreshing breeze to have a traveler take time out to say something nice about Statesboro.

Mayor Bowen received a letter this week from a Mr. Richard N. Dieranian of Onondaga, New York. His letter in full is as follows:

"Dear Mayor Bowen,
"It would indeed be ungrateful of me not to write you, and express the gratitude I feel for the most courteous hospitality that I received from your city. You are indeed to be complimented on a police force that bends over backwards to be helpful.

"On Sunday, December 28, while enroute to Miami, an axle on my car broke down several miles out of town. Since it was Sunday, and hard to find access to a garage, I was forced to go to your police station. Two of your officers came out to where my car had broken down, and brought my family back into town, to a motel, and assisted me in getting my car into town. One of the officers was named Spence, the other I am sorry that I do not know, but I certainly would like my appreciation expressed to both.

"Nowhere in my travels have we ever been treated so royally, and it is hard to find the proper words to express my thanks."

(Editor's Note: The two officers were Grady Spence and Milton Larley.)

This sort of courtesy on the part of our police officers means a great deal to our community and we commend them for it.

Check your checks

You as a businessman would not take a wooden nickle in exchange for goods sold, now would you?

Well, there are some who are accepting what could just as easily be called "wooden checks" and giving out good hard cash for them. In Savannah and Columbus, that is.

Word came out of Savannah on Monday that a ring of check forgers seems to be operating in Savannah and Columbus. And it can be assumed that they could be operating in between which would include Statesboro and Bulloch County. One of the persons for whom a bad check was paid gave his home town as Metter.

The checks being given in Savannah are purportedly payroll checks of the American Cyanamid Company and are drawn on the Liberty National Bank and Trust Company, one of the depositories of the Cyanamid company. The checks are bearing the serial numbers in the 4800 range, and are in the $80 to $90 range.

Supermarkets seem to be the places being hit by these forgers, including an A & P store, the Quick Check Company and a Colonial store.

Businessmen are urged to instruct their clerks to be extremely cautious in cashing checks for strangers. Be sure that the person presenting a check to be cashed is one known to the personnel who has the authority to cash them.

Don't be a sucker

That's the warning being issued this week by District Public Health Engineer Jack D. Wheelchel.

Last week a citizen of Bulloch County was charged $100 for cleaning out a home septic tank. The normal charge for this service, according to the health engineer is between $20 and $25.

So this citizen was "took" for $75 to $80.

Mr. Wheelchel suggests that before you contract for the cleaning of your home septic tank, get the price first, and if it is over $25 contact the local health department before having the work done.

Needed protection

If our present Legislature will recognize its responsibility as the leaders of our state, then in the future housewives in Statesboro and Bulloch County and Georgia, will begin looking for the stamp "GD" on all the meats she buys at her favorite meat counter. This stamp would mean that the Georgia Department of Agriculture has inspected the meat and found it good.

Commissioner Phil Campbell has promised strict inspection of meats if the Legislature passes laws to establish rigid inspection of small Georgia meat-packing companies not engaged in interstate business. These companies themselves are seeking such inspection and welcome it. It would put them in a favorable competitive position with the huge packers who boast of the United States Department of Agriculture's "USDA" stamp.

Housewives need this protection. We shudder to think of the kind of meat they could be and may be getting in places which are not interested in the quality of meats they sell, but only in the money it brings in.

We hope that the Legislature will set up this protection.

FIRST MAN IN SPACE...

This Week's Meditation

By The Rev. L. E. Houston Jr.
The throes of "brainwashing" one sermon out of his mind and another in, together with necessary calls to the sick.

But, the one tension that lingers long after Sunday evening has come and gone is this: Have I helped the people to make the transition in their thinking from the material to the spiritual and from the temporal to the eternal? Has their time, spent in church, been a vital worship experience—a time when God has become real?

ONE COMMON misconception in religion which troubles most ministers (this one in particular) is the idea that to be religious one only has to assume a certain air and submit to a set of rules or prescribed laws, no matter how distasteful it might be. This may have been the prevailing conception in the age of the Old Testament. But Jesus put religion on a different plane. He emphasized the motive of the heart. Real religion, to Jesus, consisted in life being lived under the "expulsive power of a new affection." That is, worshipping God and serving Him under the compulsion of a soul aflame with love.

JANE, the third personality, in the case history entitled "The Three Faces of Eve," discovered this truth when she said: "I have decided that religion can be used just as a tonic. It must be something that comes from inside."
Then, and then only, will the tension that lingers away to peace that lingers understanding.

Herman Talmadge Reports From Washington

GEORGIANS IN CONGRESS have called on the Post Office Department to pay deserved tribute to the memory of the late Senator Thomas E. Watson as the father of Rural Free Delivery.

All 12 members of the Georgia Delegation during the Second Session of the 85th Congress signed a letter drafted by Congressman Paul Brown of Elberton requesting the issuance of a special commemorative stamp in honor of Senator Watson and his contributions to the development of rural mail service in this country. Congressman Brown and his friend, Congressman Tom Murray of Tennessee, who is chairman of the House Committee on Post Office and Civil Service, personally delivered the letter to Postmaster General Arthur W. Sumnerfield. Mr. Sumnerfield since has advised the Georgia Delegation that the matter has been taken under advisement by the Department's Citizens Stamp Advisory Committee.

ALTHOUGH THE FIRST official suggestion that the Federal Government inaugurate a rural mail service came from postmaster General Wanamaker in 1891, the Library of Congress reports that it was Senator Watson who first proposed the idea. The stamp will be issued at Norwood, Georgia.

It is interesting to note that Senator Watson's inspiration for Rural Free Delivery dates back to 1869 when, as a boy clerk working in Norwood, Georgia, he witnessed the inauguration of

YOU HAVE to be a newspaper man and a printer to be a casual observer. Yet, to be compounded confusion existing everywhere and you think it almost a miracle that out of it all comes those huge directories, printed, and bound ready for delivery by the thousands.

IT ALMOST ruined our lunch. We were standing on the mazzanine of Davison's in Atlanta at the fancy food department. We were looking at a pile of fancy fardines displaying cans for sale at three for 99 cents. We overheard a lady back of us say, "I'll take three cans of barbecued sparrows and three cans of barbecued caterpillars." "The lady's crazy," we allowed to ourselves. Our curiosity prompted us to turn to the counter where the lady had given her order. Sure enough there were stacks and stacks of cans of barbecued sparrows and barbecued caterpillars. But not for us!

OUR OFFICE is in a mess. We closed the State in Athens and we believe there's no other like it in the Southeast. We spent over two hours going through the plant and office with amazement each of the many operations. Nearly 200 employees were there, and they are all local men and women. receive 12 years of public education. Three hundred and sixty-two of these high schools are for white students and 212 are for Negro students.

THE RECORD of the Griffin Administration in the field of education is without equal in the history of our state. Listen to what these leaders in education have to say.

THE GEORGIA Story in Education today is indeed an exciting one. Today, nearly a million children are enrolled in our public schools. Some 682,000 are white children and 331,000 are Negro children. These children attend classes in 2,177 schools in 198 systems in our 159 counties. We have 575 four-year high schools with every child having the opportunity to

THERE'S ONE thing about a newspaper editor. He expects a lot of you. He expects you to write something every time his paper goes to press. Well, that is, if you're supposed to write for him.

THERE'S THE "budget your time" subject. Millions of words could go into an article about how to make the most of your time. But who likes a hypocrite? And if you're a wastrel of time, how can you honestly tell others how not to waste time? The Girl Scouts would make a good article. The troop you're personally concerned with is a grand one. Some days you'd like to twist their arms and some days you feel like hugging them. They're so lovely. Yes, you really ought to write about them. But, they deserve a good story and there's doesn't seem to be a mood for an article on Girl Scouts.

FIVE B. C. SENIORS AT G.T.C. COMPLETE GRADUATION REQUIREMENTS

Five Bulloch County seniors completed graduation requirements from Georgia Teachers College at the close of the fall quarter.

They are: Mrs. Daisy Gignilliat, Twin City; Shirley Ann Jenkins, Statesboro; Vondra Lanier, Twin City; Richard Mauds, Statesboro; and Robert Donaldson, Statesboro.

These seniors, among thirty-one to complete degree requirements in December, will receive their degrees at the annual commencement exercises held in June.

CLYDE MITCHELL, back home from the furure show in Chicago, showed us newspaper headlines showing the news that Chancellor Harmon W. Caldwell. "Few men in public life have displayed the depth of understanding of all levels of education as has Governor Marvin Griffin. He has supported substantially both technical and scientific education. This action will be of increasing value to the state, the region and the nation, and these contributions will long be remembered by the citizens of Georgia."—Edwin Harrison, president of Georgia Tech.

Governor Griffin's fine record in his executive support of the University System of Georgia is proof of his personal appreciation of the challenges confronting the college students seeking an education in our state-supported institutions. By devoting adequate funds to the task early in his administration great deficiencies in equipment, salary scales and facilities have been overcome. Governor Griffin has served to maintain an ever-growing acceleration of resources, intelligence, and vision to place Georgia foremost in educational ranks of the nation."—Noah Langdale Jr., president of Georgia State College, Atlanta.

Question of working wives to be studied in Georgia during 1959

How much does it mean to a family—financially speaking—for the wife to take a full-time job away from home. The question of whether a wife should take such employment is one that will be studied by hundreds of Georgia families in 1959, says Miss Hilda Dailey, home management specialist, Agricultural Extension Service, University of Georgia College of Agriculture.

These figures are averages, but they fail to show all the variations," Miss Dailey explains. "For example, wives of all adult families spend less for hired help and more for clothing. Wives with children under six did well to 'clear' little more than half of their earnings. Wives with no children under 17 'cleared' a little more than three-fifths of their total earnings."

In recent years more wives are working in the labor force. Miss Dailey reports. Since 1940 the percentage of employed wives (who are living with their husbands) has risen from 15 to 30 per cent and is expected to rise still more because of higher prices, higher pay, and increased educational levels.

In 1958, the Extension specialist says, 365 working wives living in small cities in Georgia were interviewed as to job-related expenses. Here are some of the findings of that survey:

1. Expenditures for paid help, household work, care of children, and laundry amounted to as much as $403 and as little as $143. The difference in amount was directly related to the difference in ages of children. The higher figure was spent for help by wives with children under six.
2. Employed wives spent more, on the average, both for clothing and personal care than non-employed wives. The average for clothing was $197 for the employed and $113 for the non-employed. Employee wives reported expenditures averaging $54 for personal care, non-employed wives, $33.
3. Average income for the employed group was $2,200.

If you are one of those who would like to judge the record of the Griffin administration by the failures of some of the little people found in every administration then you may not be interested in this report. Stilson news short this week; Correspondent offers poetry

By Mrs. W. H. Morris

In last week's Bulloch Herald, I, along with many other readers, enjoyed the two New Year's greetings that were written in the Unseay Chair section of the editorial page of the Bulloch Herald. This week I have very little news and I have a sort of poem I enjoyed and I think you may like it too. It goes like this:

Figure it out for yourself, You're all that the greatest have had; Two arms, two hands, two legs, two eyes, And a brain to use if you would be wise.

Miss Newton is speaker at P.T.A. Council meeting

There were fifty people present at the Bulloch County Council of Parents and Teachers Associations which met at the Stilson Elementary School Saturday with a very interesting and informative program.

Nine out of the eleven local units in the Council were represented by members who participated and shared in the day's activities.

The meeting was called to order by the new president, Mrs. Cluis Smith. After the inspirational, by Mrs. W. A. Groover, greetings were brought to the group by the local unit president, Mrs. Joe Atkins, and Mrs. Archie Nesmith, principal of the Stilson Elementary School.

The county school superintendent, H. P. Womack, was present and brought the group up to date on "What's Happening in Education" and stated some of the ways in which parents and teachers may help.

The main feature of the program for the day was the very interesting and informative talk on "Values of the Testing Program in Bulloch County," by Miss Leona Newton, Instructional Supervisor for Bulloch County schools. Miss Newton told the group that "when a test is given it shows the weaknesses and strengths in the child's work, which gives a good starting point for helping the child. She said, that terms such as "potential learning, capacity for learning, the ability to learn, and mental age, etc., were much better, and more pleasing to the ear than I. Q. in discussing the child."

It was very evident that the parents present were much concerned, and pleased with the valuable information that Miss Newton gave them, which left them with the feeling that they were now able to give more help to their child and its teacher, by having this confidence and understanding that a test is a tool to help the child in his work.

Sgt. Riley Lord is tankman on Korea Duty

Sergeant Riley E. Lord, son of Mrs. Sarah Lord of Statesboro, allows us how "pretty monotonous at times."

He was talking about duty with the "stake-out-platoon" in Korea. He explained that men in the "stake-out-platoon" are staked out at strategic points along the north-south line of Korea, posted for the slightest rustling which must mean a communist soldier.

Sergeant Lord is a tankman and platoon sergeant and a veteran of eleven months of Korea duty this tour and of a hitch with the Third U. S. Infantry Division in Korea from December, 1951, to May 1952. He is 31 years of age.

In talking about his "stake-out-duty" he added, "You hear a lot of sounds. You can't tell if they are animals or what. It kinda keeps you worried. You can't pinpoint the noise. It's hard to tell what the movement is."

He described the stake-out as similar to being on an outpost in wartime. "There is no shooting at you," he said, "but there is the same tension."

He has been in the service for eight years. His mother hopes he will be home soon.

HERE IS THE ARCHITECT'S DRAWING of how the H. Minkovitz and Sons' new building will look when the present remodeling and renovation program, begun last week, is completed. The building is located at the traffic light where North and South Main Streets intersect at East and West Main Streets. The building was originally constructed by the late R. Simmons.

Modernization program underway at H. Minkovitz and Sons' Statesboro store

The first phase of the remodeling plans on the H. Minkovitz and Sons' building at the center of Statesboro is now well advanced.

Work began last week on an extensive renovating program on the store building with provisions having been made so that shoppers might continue to have easy access to the several departments.

Mr. Ike Minkovitz, chairman of the board of directors of the organization, announced that Jerome Construction Company of Savannah was the successful bidder for the work. Levy and Kiley of Savannah are the architects. Stearns and Bromberg of Savannah are the engineers and designers.

Mr. Minkovitz said that plans call for an extensive re-arrangement of the departments on all four floors of the store in order to provide larger selections in many items and to make shopping easier in wider aisles with many self-selection type fixtures, in a comfortable, leisurely atmosphere.

Check forgers tripped up by long arm of coincidence here

The long arm of coincidence reached out and tripped two would-be check forgers as one attempted to make a deposit in the Bulloch County Bank on Tuesday morning of this week.

J. Brantley Johnson, the bank's cashier, was reading the description of the activities of a pair of check forgers in the January 19 issue of the Georgia Bankers Association Bulletin.

A man was up front at a teller's window and was waiting to open an account with the bank. He presented a check for $295.00, made out to "Edward W. Wilson," saying he was from Clayton, Georgia. He wanted a description of the activities of a pair of check forgers in the January 19 issue of the Georgia Bankers Association Bulletin.

It was about here that a Wells Fargo agent, the company with whom the Bulloch County Bank has a contract to transfer silver and old currency, by armored truck, walked into the bank.

The man, noting the guard and not knowing that he was just coming into the bank for a routine, scheduled pick-up, became nervous. He began making excuses to get away from the bank, saying he needed to put some more money in the parking meter for his car.

Upon checking the Georgia State Police files, the two men were identified as being the same as the forgers mentioned in the Bulletin.

The Christian Church and the Statesboro Lutheran Mission have joined with the First Baptist Church, the Calvary Baptist Church, the Pittman Park Methodist Church, the Statesboro Primitive Baptist Church, the Trinity Episcopal Church, and the Church of God, in the religious census to be taken in the city of Statesboro Sunday afternoon, February 1.

The census is a joint undertaking of these ten churches and will be taken by more than 250 volunteers from the memberships of the churches.

On Thursday, January 29, there will be a final briefing at which all the volunteer census-takers will be present.

Upon checking the Georgia State Police files, the two men were identified as being the same as the forgers mentioned in the Bulletin.
