Miss Newton is speaker at P.T.A. Council meeting

There were fifty people present at the Bulloch County Council of Parents and Teachers Associations which met at the Stilson Elementary School Saturday with a very interesting and informative program.

Nine out of the eleven local units in the Council were represented by members who participated and shared in the day's activities.

The meeting was called to order by the new president, Mrs. Cluis Smith. After the inspirational, by Mrs. W. A. Groover, greetings were brought to the group by the local unit president, Mrs. Joe Atkins, and Mrs. Archie Nesmith, principal of the Stilson Elementary School.

The county school superintendent, H. P. Womack, was present and brought the group up to date on "What's Happening in Education," and stated some of the ways in which parents and teachers may help.

The main feature of the program for the day was the very interesting and informative talk on "Values of the Testing Program in Bulloch County," by Miss Leona Newton, Instructional Supervisor for Bulloch County schools. Miss Newton told the group that "when a test is given it shows the weaknesses and strengths in the child's work, which gives a good starting point for helping the child. She said, that terms such as "potential learning, capacity for learning, the ability to learn, and mental age, etc., were much better, and more pleasing to the ear than I. Q. in discussing the child."

It was very evident that the parents present were much concerned, and pleased with the valuable information that Miss Newton gave them, which left them with the feeling that they were now able to give more help to their child and its teacher, by having this patience and understanding that a test is a tool to help the child in his work.

Sgt. Riley Lord is tankman on Korea Duty

Sergeant Riley E. Lord, son of Mrs. Sarah Lord of Statesboro, allows us how "pretty monotonous at times."

He was talking about duty with the "stake-out-platoon" in Korea. He explained that men in the "stake-out-platoon" are staked out at strategic points along the north-south line of Korea, posted for the slightest rustling which must mean a communist soldier.

Sergeant Lord is a tankman and platoon sergeant and a veteran of eleven months of Korea duty this tour and of a hitch with the Third U. S. Infantry Division in Korea from December, 1951, to May 1952. He is 31 years of age.

In talking about his "stake-out-duty" he added, "You hear a lot of sounds. You can't tell if they are animals or what. It kinda keeps you worried. You can't pinpoint the noise. It's hard to tell what the movement is." He described the stake-out as similar to being on an outpost in wartime. "There is no shooting at you," he said, "but there is the same tension."

He has been in the service for eight years. His mother hopes he will be home soon.

HERE IS THE ARCHITECT'S DRAWING of how the H. Minkovitz and Son's new building will look when the present remodeling and renovation program, begun last week, is completed. The building is located at the traffic light where North and South Main Streets intersect at East and West Main Streets. The building was originally constructed by the late R. Simmons.

Modernization program underway at H. Minkovitz and Sons' Statesboro store

The first phase of the remodeling plans on the H. Minkovitz and Sons' building at the center of Statesboro is now well advanced.

Work began last week on an extensive renovating program on the store building with provisions having been made so that shoppers might continue to have easy access to the several departments.

Mr. Ike Minkovitz, chairman of the board of directors of the organization, announced that Jerome Construction Company of Savannah was the successful bidder for the work. Levy and Kiley of Savannah are the architects. Stearns and Bromberg Engineers and Designers of Memphis, Tenn., will plan the interior arrangements.

Mr. Minkovitz, in making a statement regarding the renovation program said, "We have confidence in the future of Statesboro and Bulloch County. We believe firmly that the public will continue to prefer to do their shopping for men's, ladies, and children's ready-to-wear and home furnishings in the main business section of a city the size of Statesboro, the main business section which is the primary source of revenue for our city and county governments. We believe that the people in this trade area like Minkovitz merchandise and values, plus our S & H Green Stamps, and will continue to shop Minkovitz in greater volume for dependable and style-right merchandise at the most competitive prices. We further believe that the city and county governments will cooperate with the merchants in providing adequate parking facilities for the main business section in order to attract a larger volume of trade."

Check forgers tripped up by long arm of coincidence here

An Editorial

The report of the Senate Committee on Government Operations is in, signed, sealed and delivered by its members. Senator William P. Trotter, chairman; Senator Carl E. Sanders, vice chairman; Senator Bobby Lee Cook, secretary; and Senators Glenn W. Ellard, Hugh L. Gillis, George L. Jackson and Dixon Oxford, members.

Governor Ernest Vandiver in a statement released on January 8, wrote of the report:

"I ask the people of Georgia to study these proposals carefully and talk with members of the Legislature about them. I ask the help and cooperation of all citizens in getting the job done. Particularly, I request the help of the newspapers of the state and other information media in disseminating the contents of this report and in offering helpful comments on its implementation."

We thank Governor Vandiver for inviting our comments.

"Governor, we wish you would not abolish the recently created Georgia Recreation Commission as recommended in the report."

"We are a part of the Recreation Board here in Statesboro and we are familiar with the crying need of help for small communities which wish to set up recreation programs for the youth of their towns and not knowing how to go about it. They came to Statesboro seeking help, advice and inspiration from the program we have here. We help all we can, but more and more communities are wanting to make sound investments in the future through their youth."

"It is for these people and their communities for whom the Georgia Recreation Commission was set up. To help them organize and set up sound programs to provide supervised recreation for the young people. To us that is a worthy objective for any agency and of those who guide our future. To us, there is no question of economy involved in the abolishment of the Georgia Recreation Commission."

"To us, here is a service for which there is an established and great need about to be caught up in a whirlwind and abandoned in the name of economy."

"Don't let this happen."

"The Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, the Georgia Municipal Association support the Commission in the work it has set out to do. The people in these groups are close to the youth in their communities and they want to see proper recreation programs put into operation."

In the three months the Commission has been active forty-five counties and many communities in Georgia have sought help, guidance and direction in laying the foundation for setting up strong and effective recreation programs.

It is for these and others like them, for whom the Georgia Recreation Commission was conceived and created.

"Let's not let them lose it."

Ten churches take part in church census

The long arm of coincidence reached out and tripped two would-be check forgers as one attempted to make a deposit in the Bulloch County Bank on Tuesday morning of this week.

J. Brantley Johnson, the bank's cashier, was reading the description of the activities of a pair of check forgers in the January 19 issue of the Georgia Bankers Association Bulletin.

A man was up front at a teller's window and was waiting to open an account with the bank. He presented a check for $25.00, made out to "Edward W. Wilson," saying he was from Clayton, Georgia. He wanted a description of the activities of a pair of check forgers in the January 19 issue of the Georgia Bankers Association Bulletin.

It was about here that a Wells Fargo agent, the company with whom the Bulloch County Bank has a contract to transfer silver and old currency, by armored truck, walked into the bank.

The man, noting the guard and not knowing that he was just coming into the bank for a routine, scheduled pick-up, became nervous. He began making excuses to get away from the bank, saying he needed to put some more money in the parking meter for his car.

In the meantime Mr. Johnson, now alerted to the situation, got word to Mr. Wallis Cobb, the bank's president, who in turn called the local police.

The would-be depositor, by now, had moved away from the teller's window and out of the bank around the corner where a confederate was waiting. They were confronted by a city policeman who was not aware of what was going on. He did not notice Mr. Cobb at the bank's rear door, pointing to the two men moving down West Main Street towards a 1953 green Cadillac, parked near the B. B. Morris Company. The police followed and at this time Officer Tucker came up. He detained the two policemen they had the two men at the parked automobile and questioned them.

Upon checking the Georgia census will be a final briefing at which all the volunteer census-takers will be present.

"The purpose of this census," said the Rev. J. Robert Smith, pastor of the First Baptist Church, speaking for all ministers taking part in the project, "is to provide our churches with a blue print of our responsibility in this community."

Serving with Rev. Smith are the Rev. Lawrence Houston and the Rev. J. R. Wooley.

The program is offered free of charge and is open to the general public. This is the sixth time in seven years that the popular GTC music faculty members have combined their talents for an evening of piano music.

NuGrape Co. here changes ownership

Mr. and Mrs. Troy L. Stanfield Sr. of Savannah, announced this week that they have purchased the NuGrape Bottling Company from Mr. J. Allen Vickery who had operated the plant here for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanfield have been in the NuGrape bottling business for twenty-eight years in Savannah. They state that there will be no change in the personnel of the plant here.

Collins Frozen Foods, Inc. is spotlighted here

There was excitement in the voice of Mr. Jack H. Garrett of Sandersville when Mr. Dave Dulany, national advertising director of Dulany Frozen Foods, Inc., made a part of a radio broadcast on January 14.

Mr. Dulany's phone call to John H. Dulany, founder of the Dulany Company packages of frozen vegetables, juices and seafoods, told her over long distance telephone that Mrs. Stanfield's name had just won a year's supply of Dulany frozen foods.

We must support this new movement

Representatives of 16 counties in the Coastal Empire section, including eleven in Georgia and five in South Carolina, met in Statesboro on Wednesday of last week and laid the foundation for a long-range economic development program for the region.

These men heard some of the hard facts on the alarming decline in population in many of the counties represented in the meeting. But they also were told that their counties have the potential to minimize bad trends and promote favorable economic trends.

These men were here at the invitation of Statesboro's Mayor, W. A. "Bill" Bowen, who feels that this section should seek ways of better exploiting the resources of this great Coastal Empire section.

Some of Georgia and South Carolina's outstanding experts were present at the meeting.

J. W. Fanning of the University of Georgia College of Agriculture, a man who knows this section like a book, was here. Phillip Hamner, an Atlanta economist, promised that the next ten to fifteen years will be important in the development of the area of which Statesboro and Bulloch County are an important part.

So true, so true

"All that is necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing" was the text Mr. Shelby Myrick took in talking to the men of the Statesboro Rotary Club on Monday of this week.

Mr. Myrick, in enlarging on his text, said that gradually, day by day, our liberties are being taken away from us, and that unless business men like the ones in the Rotary Club and other civic clubs get together and do something about it the day will come when we'll have little liberty left.

However, he held forth great hope and faith in the country home, the cradle of the wonderful heritage of this great Southland, saying that the real power of the United States rests in the country home where the head of the house comes in from work, has supper, gathers about him his family for family prayer, a song, and so to bed.

Mr. Myrick who came to Savannah in the late 1890's and has practiced law since, found a responsive chord in his listeners. What he said he said with sincerity and fervor, for it is what he believes.

"All that is necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing."

His guiding principles

"My fellow Georgians..." First words of many Georgia governors. And used by Georgia's new governor, Ernest Vandiver, in his inaugural address immediately after taking the oath of office on Tuesday, January 13.

In the opening statements of his inaugural speech he set forth the principles which he expects to guide his administration. They are:

Economy. Reform. Reorganization. Integrity and Preservation of our way of life.

He then spelled out these several principles.

Other outstanding business and industrial leaders were here to help our people in this new direction.

Out of this meeting of city and county leaders, businessmen and industrialists, came the decision to form an area economic development council. Mayor Bowen was named temporary chairman to go about the organizing plans.

The counties in this Coastal Empire section must have a sound plan for taking full advantage of the potential we know to be here. The instrument through which this can best be accomplished is such an area development council as visualized at the meeting. It would serve in an advisory capacity for the coordination and promotion of all the best in our area.

The initial step for organizing this council will be made in February when two representatives of each of the sixteen counties will meet.

This movement deserves the full backing and encouragement of everyone in our community. Statesboro and Bulloch County must join with the cities and counties in this area in this endeavor to develop it to its full potential.

And may we say, that if Governor Vandiver succeeds in following the principles he has laid down for the next four years he will have deserved the applause of all his fellow Georgians. If his friends will allow him to adhere strictly to these guiding principles, they, too, will have done the state a great service. If his enemies will allow him to follow these guiding principles, they, too, will have done the state a great service.

A study of his principles, finds little room for compromise and it will make it difficult for Governor Vandiver in the months ahead. Already he is running into difficulties. The Senate Committee on Government Operations, now known as "The Watchdog Committee," in its initial report swung a heavy ax, recommended the abolishment of a lot of things, and changes in others. Some of these recommendations fail to recognize vital needs of the peoples of Georgia and so are at cross purposes to Mr. Vandiver's principles.

It is hoped that our new governor will use his good discretion in reconciling these recommendations with what he knows to be good for his peoples.

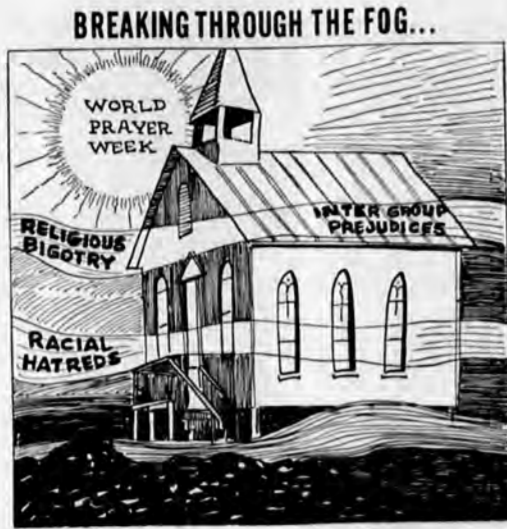

A fine performance

Those citizens of the city and county who are members of the Statesboro Concert Association and the students of Georgia Teachers College who took time out Sunday afternoon to attend the first of the concert attractions were richly rewarded.

The dancing of Bambi Linn and Rod Alexander, two of the fine dancers of the nation, and their company was a delight to behold.

They captivated their audience with their delightful presentations, their colorful costumes and youthful and charming personalities.

It was a fine Sunday afternoon.

UNDERSTANDING IS THE KEY

THE PRESENT turmoil in Cuba points up once again the need for understanding among the nations of the earth. Not that I agree with the revolutionary government's policy of speedy war trials that end up with the firing squad. But, I do feel that there should be an attempt on the part of all Americans to understand rather than just criticize. To be sure, there is a fine line drawn between naive tolerance and Christian understanding, but it is there, and surely every thinking person ought to try to discover it.

Much of the criticism that comes to our "native land" can be traced to those who feel that the United States never tries to understand their position in a certain matter. All we do, they say, is stand in judgment and seek to turn both government and people to our way of thinking.

IF ONE DOUBTS the truth of this, then let him study the Middle East. This has been my private hobby recently, in that I was asked to teach a part of a mission study on the Middle Eastern nations. I am constantly amazed at the insight which can be gained when one opens up his mind to the ways of other people.

If you read in the January issue of TRUE magazine the article entitled "Splendor, Squalor, Slavery and Savagery" in Saudi Arabia, you will gain some insight into the customs of those people. Shocking is hardly the word for it! And yet, as I looked at the pictures of severed hands and read of the other terrible punishments which befall the criminal there, I realized that this barbarism (to us) has foundation in their religious beliefs. The Koran (the Muslim bible) calls for justice

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

BILL HOLLOWAY has a problem at his floral shop on Fair Road. Being a florist and interested in things growing, one would think that it is not really a problem for Bill. But you see it's got Bill's building looking a little like the Leaning Tower of Pisa.

It all began when Bill built an addition to his shop. He had to cut down a chinaberry tree to make way for one corner. But the tree did not die and is now growing. It's pushing up the corner of Bill's building.

SOMEONE SHOULD take time out and remove and put up somewhere for safe keeping the marble marked in the hallway of the old school building with the steeple on South College Street. The building is gradually deteriorating and it will not be long before it'll be beyond reclaiming and unless the marble marker is removed it might go the way of so many other historic landmarks in our county.

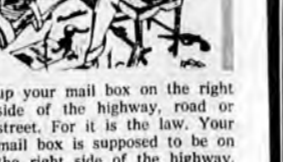

It Seems to Me...

"IN GEORGIA, we believe that a sound, well rounded program of education is essential to the continued cultural and economic progress of our state. For this reason, we are committed to the development of an educational system that can meet any challenge... that will be second to none in quality and quantity of training and services it offers."

THE STORY in transportation is the same. Four years ago we had a total of 4,245 state owned school buses. Now we have 664 more buses serving the school children of Georgia. In 1954 we allocated $9,505,000 to the adequate, comfortable and safe transportation of our children to and from their homes. Last year the state of Georgia allocated $12,355,000 for this purpose, an increase of 31 1/2 per cent.

IN 1954 we had a total of 982,467 pupils in our public school system. That year we allocated $117,633 for each child. In 1958 we had a total of 993,550 pupils enrolled, an increase of some 12 per cent. In 1958 the state allocated some $146,566 for each child. This was an increase of 25 per cent over the 1954 figure. In 1958 the state allocated even with the 12 per cent increase in attendance.

IN 1954 we had 26,797 state allotted teachers serving in our 159 counties. Four years later this had increased to 29,900. The average teacher's salary in 1954 was $2,888.76. In 1958 this figure had risen to $3,825. This is an increase of 26 per cent in just four years. In the four years up your mail box on the right side of the highway, road or street. For it is the law. Your mail box is supposed to be on the right side of the highway, road or street in the direction in which your rural mail carrier travels. This is a safety precaution investigation shows that many accidents have occurred because the mail carrier had to cross the line of traffic to serve a mail box on the left side of the highway in the direction in which he was traveling. Walter Crozier on RFD 3 says his "customers" have cooperated and all his boxes are now placed according to the law. "And I appreciate it," he says.

Realizing the need which existed to give our rural boys who had finished high school but were unable to attend college the opportunity for further educational training, the state allocated 40 per cent more funds for this purpose over the 1954 allocation. Attendance at all state trade schools increased 29 per cent during these four years.

FULFILLING his promise to extend the school lunch program to all of Georgia's school children, the Governor increased the allocation for the school lunch program by 50 per cent. Taking advantage of the Federal Government interest in the school lunch program he painted a 25 per cent increase in funds from the Federal Government for this purpose. In the special Federal Government program for milk for Georgia children the Administration succeeded in obtaining almost a million dollars for this purpose, an increase of 150 per cent over 1954.

Believing in the conservation of our human resources the Griffin administration increased the number of rehabilitated disabled Georgians from 4,552 to 10,343 in the last four years. The allocation of funds for this purpose increased by 55 per cent.

Next week, the story continues.

Herman Talmadge Reports From Washington

THE ACTION of the United States Senate is overwhelmingly reaffirming its status as a continuing legislative body with a resounding victory for constitutional government.

The true significance of the recent debate on Senate rules was for greater than the mere question of how many votes would be required to shut off debate. While it is most regrettable that the Senate did not see fit to keep its rule on limiting debate unchanged, the fact that a slight revision was made in the number of votes by which cloture can be imposed should not be allowed to obscure the more important fact that the Senate emphatically rebuffed those who sought to destroy its assigned constitutional role as a permanent council of states sitting as an integral part of the federal establishment.

MEMBERS of the radical coalition which demanded that the Senate demote itself to the status of a temporary body on the order of a state legislature claimed they were opposing so-called filibusters but their real motive was to so weaken the Senate that it could be taken over and run at any time by any irresponsible majority which might determine to force its will upon the nation.

Since it first effected its organization on April 6, 1789, there has not been a time in our na-

Thru the P's of Virginia russell

THERE ARE as many faces to child rearing as there are facets to a diamond.

Not least of these faces is that of "hand-me-downs." Every mother knows how wonderful it is to have a good friend or a close relative whose child is slightly older than hers.

THE FEELING of guilt is dreadful when one encourages one's sister to continue buying good clothes for her daughter or son, telling her that it pays in the long run. Of course, the long run is the run when the clothes are handed down and it definitely pays the receiver of these clothes.

WHEN THERE IS a baby expected in a family and one of the long run is a boy, I am likely to find myself saying, "It would be mighty nice to have another boy, but definitely cheaper." The expectant mother sometimes looks at me as though I had a loose screw. Besides children of strong to assure us that no measure affecting the lives, fortunes and sacred honor of the American people or any region of the country can be proposed without some Senator having the opportunity to resist it and to warn the nation of its consequences.

A SMALL church one is likely to notice "Sunday clothes" for several years, worn first by company for each other, the younger one costs almost nothing in the way of clothes for a season. Sometimes the second grows so fast that he just wears the out-grown clothes immediately.

Next to a brother or sister to hand down is a cousin. In such cases, it takes much power to keep from wanting the girl not to be rough with those clothes, or of warning him or her not to spill peach juice, etc. on that pretty dress or suit that will be mailed to a son or daughter someday.

Farmers soon will begin to fertilize for spring plantings

By ROY POWELL, County Agent

BUYING FERTILIZER — Pretty soon now you farmers will be buying fertilizer for your spring-planted crops. Naturally you hope for a good return on such a big and important investment. Three steps that will help you get the most from your fertilizer dollar, according to our Extension agronomists, are:

1. Have your soil tested and buy the recommended kind and amount of lime and fertilizer.
2. Buy fertilizer on the basis of cost per pound of plant nutrients rather than cost per ton alone.
3. Buy fertilizer with as high a total percentage of plant nutrients as possible under local conditions. For example, a 4-12-12 is a better buy than a 4-8-6 per pound of plant nutrients.

EFFICIENT DAIRYING

This month the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service is recognizing Georgia's most efficient dairymen. If you are a dairyman and would like to improve the efficiency of your herd, recordkeeping may be the answer to your problem. I can't imagine an efficient dairyman who doesn't keep good records.

Three good recordkeeping systems are now available to all Georgia dairymen. These are: Standard Dairy Herd Improvement Association, the Owner-Sampler, and Weigh-a-Day-a-Month.

Extension Dairyman Sid Diamond says these programs benefit dairymen by (1) showing him how much feed to give each cow, which can result in important savings; (2) showing him which cows should be culled from the herd as unprofitable producers; and (3) supplying him accurate breeding data for selecting good herd replacements.

Weigh-a-Day-a-Month is a simple, low-cost system which costs the dairyman only 5 cents per month per cow. The dairyman, under this system, simply weighs the output of each cow in his herd, morning and night, one day a month. He sends these

'Life's Highway' was presented at Nevils MYF Sunday night

By Mrs. Jim Rowe

One of the most interesting programs on "Life's Highway" was presented at the Nevils MYF at the regular meeting Sunday night under the chairmanship of John Thomas Hodges.

As the group assembled into a circle around the piano in the church annex, the following program was rendered:

Prelude and special selection on the piano according to Judy Nesmith. Directing the hymn singing and a reading, "I have a Rendezvous with God," was given by Sandra Nesmith. In keeping with the theme of the program, "Life's Highway," Buddy Anderson read from Matthew and Acts, for the Scripture reading. The first Psalm was beautifully led by Charles Deal, with the group reading responsively.

A very inspiring talk on "God and Life's Highway" was given by Alwyn Burned. At this point in the program John Thomas conducted a very interesting and lively discussion on "God's Highway" and "Those Who Trod It."

Linda Chester read the poem, "A Highway and a Low." The program was concluded with prayer by Judy Nesmith and the lasting memory of "His Banner Over Me," beautifully given by Kay Hendrix. Delicious refreshments were served by Sandra and Judy Nesmith. Kay Hendrix and Linda Chester will have charge of the program next Sunday night and Alwyn Burned will furnish refreshments.
