Let's support this

On Tuesday, February 10, representatives of the sixteen counties in this section of Georgia will meet here to firm up the new Coastal Empire Development Council.

At a meeting here on January 14 city and county leaders from the section heard state experts on planning and area problems sounding the alarm for the future.

At the Monday meeting of the Statesboro Rotary Club Mr. Frank Hood of the Community Development Division of the Georgia Power Company, put it sort of bluntly—"you'd better get on the ball." These are our words, he put it in a little different language, but that's what he meant.

Citing the loss of population in the counties in our section, he told the Statesboro Rotarians that only an extensive study of the problem and diligent and long-range planning will halt this out-migration from our counties.

That is just exactly what the meeting to be held here February 10 expects to do. The Coastal Empire Development Council is to be set up and begin the important step of planning for the development of this area.

This step deserves the support of every business man, every farmer, every industrialist in our community. It must have this support or else!

A fine gift

With the cooperation of the community working with Mr. Max Lockwood, superintendent of the Statesboro Recreation Department, and the members of the Statesboro Junior Woman's Club, Mr. Fred W. Darby's gift of land to the Junior Woman's Club can become a meaningful one.

Mr. Darby gave the Junior Woman's Club a lot of land across the drive which goes through the Recreation Center. The Junior Woman's Club plans to build a Girl Scout building there and the Recreation Department is working with them to make the plans a reality.

We commend Mr. Darby for his gift which will add to the community's hold on its young people. It is a fine gesture and one which should bring satisfaction to Mr. Darby, to the young girls who are now Girl Scouts and who will become Girl Scouts in the future and to the members of the Statesboro Junior Woman's Club, who are dedicated to the business of helping build this community into the finest there is.

Check forgers warned

After the experience of the two check forgers here recently we suspect that Statesboro will be marked in red on all check-forgers maps who scour the nation seeking fertile ground into which to plant their bogus checks.

It must have come as a shock to the man who tried to ply his nefarious plan when he ran into trouble at the Bulloch County Bank on Tuesday of last week.

We commend the bank employees, the bank officials and the city police and the sheriff's office in the fast wrap-up of the swiftly moving attempt to secure funds from the bank here by means of a forged check.

And let future would-be check forgers be warned. Don't try it in Statesboro.

They fought hard

We commend our recreation supervisor, Max Lockwood, our representative, Francis Allen, and all those others who fought so diligently to save the Georgia Recreation Commission. It was a fine thing they did.

And we believe that time will reveal how important the thing is for which they fought. We believe that the time will come when the commission will be revived that it might carry on the good for which it was set up.

When you believe a thing is right and you fight hard enough for it, it is bound to prevail against the strongest of opposition—just give it time.

High up it goes

For the members of the cast of "Soldadera," the play presented by the Statesboro High School, we throw up our hat high into the air.

For you see the play won first place in the State Drama Festival in Athens on January 24.

The play had already won first place in Region 2A held at Georgia Teachers College on January 13.

The cast included Kay Minkovitz, Janice Clarke, Lynn Collins, Linda Cason, Cynthia Johnston, Sue Ellis, Sara Adams and Wendell McGlamery.

And for Sara Adams we toss it back into the air for receiving the award for "best actress" in Region 2A. In Athens she was given special recognition by the judge, though no awards are presented as such in state competition.

The play was directed by Mrs. Bernard Morris of the speech department of Statesboro High School.

We think it fine that our young people bring recognition to our community while at the same time earning for themselves something intangible which will mean much to them as they grow older.

Bloodmobile here

The Bloodmobile is here today. Set up at the Recreation Center it will receive donations of whole blood from 1 o'clock to 6 o'clock this afternoon.

The story of giving blood that others might live is an old one and the appeal for blood donors is a recurring one.

You give blood from the goodness of your heart. You become a blood donor because you hate to think of someone needing it and not being able to have it in fast supply. There is always that possibility that the one needing blood may be you, or some one dear to you.

If you are moved to be generous today, go to the Recreation Center this afternoon and become a blood donor.

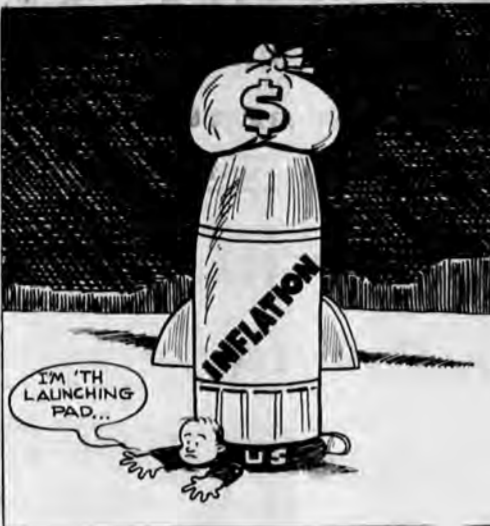

It's like making a deposit in the bank for future need.

YOUR NEWSPAPER LIGHTS THE WAY OF FREEDOM

It is essential to the future of our nation that we have a free press. The press is the voice of the people and it is the duty of every citizen to support a free press.

Hamilton's assurances held true for almost a century and a half, but for the past 25 years we have seen the worst fears of the early citizens realized. Appointments have been made on the basis of political persuasion rather than the qualifications of the individuals named and

This Week's Meditation

By the Rev. L. E. Houston Jr.

BY THEIR FRUITS DID YOU EVER stop to consider the distinctive features of your community, or the institutions that make up the life there? In my home town of Fort Valley it was the Peach Blossom Festival which, for a long time, highlighted each year's activities. In Savannah, it has been the St. Patrick's Day Parade. For me, St. Patrick's Day was just an obscure holiday of the Irish until I was assigned as the pastor of a church in Georgia's second city. Then, St. Patrick's Day took on new meaning and produced a distinctive flavor to community life in that formerly distinctive city.

THIS WEEK marks the annual Homecoming festivities for Georgia Teachers College, a distinctive institution in Statesboro. Things will begin to hum beginning with the Beauty Review on Friday night. Lovely young ladies, in evening gowns of exquisite beauty, will move across the stage at the Auditorium in the company of their escorts, each vying for the coveted title, "Miss GTC."

Saturday will find the campus a beehive of activity as organizations frantically make last-minute preparations for their floats, the featured attraction of the afternoon parade. Later comes a huge barbecue for alumni, faculty, students and friends of the college. And, finally, a big basketball game will signal the end of a perfect Homecoming for Georgia Teachers College.

THERE IS something thrilling about living in a college town. The atmosphere is different! And whether one can explain it or not, it is true of course that there are those who are called to lead. Truly we do have a headquarters building from which comes excellent aid to help carry out our programs. But the real strength of the Legion is not found in its chosen leadership on a com-

Justices have been installed who were totally devoid of judicial restraint and the other attributes which Hamilton considered essential in a dictator. In fact, one else might arbitrarily choose to serve on the Supreme Court.

The Constitution sets forth specific qualifications which must be possessed by those serving as President or members of Congress, but it is completely silent about the prerequisites for appointment to the Supreme Court. Its only references to members of the High Court are that they shall be appointed by the President with the approval of the Senate, shall hold office during good behavior and shall not have their salaries reduced during their tenure on the bench.

THE RATIFICATION of the Constitution was jeopardized by the failure of its framers to provide specific qualifications for the federal judges until Alexander Hamilton assured the people that their fears were "a phantom."

It is essential to the future of our nation that we have a free press. The press is the voice of the people and it is the duty of every citizen to support a free press.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

"Sleep Well Tonight... Your National Guard is a name that is the assurance that the local unit of the National Guard was Monday morning as we rode by the Army on U. S. 301 North. The Guard has erected a larger sign near the gate to the Army area with that assurance pointed on it.

IT SORT of gave us a warm and secure feeling to know that men who are our neighbors and men who are your neighbors are taking time out each week to assure us that we'll sleep well tonight.

Let's never sell our National Guard short. These men are doing a thankless job and pay that is not enough. For, who do you, who are not in the Guard, would do what they are doing for what they are getting? Answer that to the satisfaction of your neighbor and then you can qualify to justify your criticism of our Guard.

WE MAKE A BIG TOTO about that a wonderful community we have. How clean it is, how nice the homes look, how well-kept our yards are, how clean our streets are. But we wonder if we do not sort of have our fingers crossed when we say these things. For a drive down through that section of town, "Black Bottom" makes liars out of us all.

NOW THAT OUR police have been relieved of the little business of "feeding the parking meters" for those who park and leave pennies on the windshield of the men and women whose policemen who check the meters to insert the pennies to move

An address to the First District Convention of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary, Sunday, February 1, 1959.

"UNTIL EVERY member of every post has given of himself to the concepts for which the American Legion was founded then we will not have reached that place in our effort where all of our energy and all of our talents and abilities are being used.

"We must remember the great role which we must play as an individual in the affairs of our post and of our community. The Legion program in Georgia is no stronger than it's weakest post and no weaker member. There are too many of us who have made that great error in judgment where we feel we can forget our individual responsibilities of leadership and leave to those in command the decisions which will shape our policies and our efforts toward keeping America strong and great.

"THERE ARE those of us who think in terms of the Legion as an organization which is run by the big brass with the top decisions being made in some mythical headquarters which will shape our policies and our efforts toward keeping America strong and great.

There are too many of us who feel that our duty to our organization is filled when we have paid our dues. There are too many of us who give and through a determination never dreamed of work to make our communities a better place to live in.

THE clock up on the meter, the policemen can go back to some of the more important business of patrolling our streets. The findings of the police department indicated that the purpose of the parking meters was being prostituted by the very people for whom they were designed to help.

H. P. WOMACK, county school superintendent, told us last week that the Bulloch County school kids will get two weeks vacation this coming Christmas.

WE THINK that every citizen in Bulloch County who can qualify should have to serve just one time on the Bulloch County Grand Jury. This group is the strongest force within the county. Their authority is great. What they think and recommend is completely for the good of the county. They do not arrive at their recommendations by snap judgment. They are careful and searching investigation and consideration. We are lucky that the men and women whose names are on the jury list are of the highest quality.

Principal's Message

Only four or five months to go—in fact so far as class work is concerned only three months and two weeks more. The last two weeks, you will remember, are taken up with exams and last minute preparations for graduation.

"The work that is possible in this last half of the year, or could be unbelievable so far as amount is concerned. If you fine boys and girls will stop and think how vitally important a good foundation in basic fields of study—fields that we usually call subjects—is, you would, I feel sure, bend every effort to mastering every assignment made by your instructors.

Truly, young people, it is a frightening thing to think of starting a new life in a new time without an education—and an education is "big business." It is hard work and, believe you me, you can never get that education without sacrificing much of the so-called "good times" we would like to have.

Sometimes I think the best times in anyone's life is the realization that through hard work and sacrifice he has done a good job—in mastering a math lesson or in writing a good paper or in preparing a business lesson.

I don't like to hear someone say "I could go back over my school days I would work harder." You know if you will really stop and think that time passes swiftly and that God's word, your parents, and your teachers remind you of this duty to yourselves.

As a friend that feels close to you, that is truly hopeful for your success, that is ready to lend encouragement wherever he can, let me beg you to study. Your friend, S. H. SHERMAN.

Resolved: That the Russian system of education is preferable to that of the United States, was the topic of the recent region 2-A debate held on Friday, January 9. Debating in Statesboro and representing Statesboro were Cheryl Winchel and Johnny Johnson, ninth grade students. Opposing Statesboro High were debaters from Screven County High School who represented the negative side of the question. Both sides had forceful and interesting speeches.

so much still left to be done. In a nation of plenty with food and natural resources still unexplored, there are those of our country who are cold and hungry at this very hour.

"In a nation which is recognized in every corner of the world as having found a security for its people unheard of in all of human history, this afternoon we must look to a record of mental fitness which is shameful and carries with it an indictment of our civilization.

"I declare to you here this afternoon if the members of the Legion Posts in Georgia had assumed the personal responsibility for which they were found such a thing could never have happened in our state. Your state commander made himself heard. He raised a cry against it but how small this is, how hard it is for a man to heed the cry of a commander when he stands alone.

"THE AMERICAN Legion, in all its greatness, has yet to find a way to look into the hearts of all its membership and light the flame of conscience which will make us stand erect and assume the responsibilities of citizenship which must be a part of our everyday lives if we are to ever accomplish the goal of making our communities a better place in which to live.

"With every Legionnaire in every post working toward the common good we can light the way to better homes, better schools, better churches, better working and living conditions, and ultimately to a better world for all mankind."

"Did you know, or rather will you believe, that last year in this America of ours 50 per cent of all the automobile thefts were committed by children under 18 years of age. Forty-eight per cent of all the burglaries were committed by children under 18 years of age and almost 20 per cent of the rapes were committed by youngsters less than 10 years of age.

"This past week in Atlanta, Georgia I stood across the street from the Capitol building and I watched workmen cover the Capitol dome with solid gold.

"Mrs. J. C. Preterorius spent last week with relatives in Holly Hill, S. C.

"Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Jones visited Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jones at Bluffton, S. C. during last week.

"Mrs. C. S. Cromley has returned to her home here from Atlanta where she has been for several weeks.

"Mrs. W. D. Lee spent last Saturday in Hinesville with her mother, Mrs. R. R. Walker.

"Mrs. Barbara Griffith of Atlanta was the weekend guest of her mother, Mrs. J. H. Griffith.

"Miss Jimmie Lou Williams of Savannah spent last weekend with her mother, Mrs. J. M. Williams.

RESEARCH LABORATORY FOR ATOMIC AIRCRAFT

The new $14 million Air Force Nuclear Research Laboratory, located in Dawson County, two miles south of Dawsonville, is one of the world's most advanced technical installations. Built by Lockheed, it will be used in the development of the first U. S. nuclear-powered aircraft. Along with its new role as a technological center, Dawson County is registering progress in other fields. It ranked Ellis among the nation's top producing counties last year; poultry and poultry products accounted for almost 95% of farm income. The area is also recognized as an important timber reserve; woodlands, lakes and waterfalls dot the countryside, making Dawson County one of the most beautiful sections of the State.

In progressive Dawson County, and throughout Georgia, the United States Brewers Foundation works constantly to assure the sale, best and also under pleasant, ordinary conditions. Believing that strict law enforcement serves the best interest of the people of Georgia, The Foundation stresses close cooperation with the Armed Forces, law enforcement and governing officials in its continuing "self-regulation" program.
