To Beat the Band

By DALE JENSEN

WITH THANKS to the NEA Journal and Jack Burroughs, we bring you the following ballad. It's more than a bird song, it can perhaps be considered as we begin planning our new high school and curriculum.

DEER TACHER
 — A FABLE

Long ago, some giraffes, determined to educate their progeny, engaged a lion architect to build a school for them. Experienced only in building schools for young lions, he made the roof so low that the necks of the little giraffes burst through toward the sky.

This left the teacher — a pretty, young doe—wondering around in a forest of legs, unable to communicate with her pupils at brain level. In an emergency session, the giraffe school board decided to hire a bird to fly questions up to the deer teacher.

Finally, completely frustrated, the deer teacher took an unprecedented step. She went directly to her superiors and said bluntly, "If the architecture of the teaching program is wrong in the first place, no amount of teaching aids and administrative machinery will constitute, but so determined were the giraffes to educate their progeny that they tore the whole thing down and started over."

—Jack Burroughs, biology teacher, Appleton (Wisconsin) Senior High School.

New Arts and Industry Bldg. Will Open Soon

One or two sections of the new Industrial Arts Building will be opened in approximately two weeks. Complete access to the building will come in the spring quarter, according to Dr. Donald F. Hackett, chairman of the division of arts.

Some new equipment is included in the building contract, such as machine tools, classroom, office, and laboratory furniture, but most of the cabinet work will be done by the industrial arts division. Dr. Hackett stated that the new Industrial Arts Building will offer the best facilities in the south.

The two-year technical program of the division is moving ahead with an increase of 600 per cent in enrollment. Particular interest has been shown in the electronics division.

We regret to hear of our member Mrs. J. A. Patch being in the hospital and hope she will soon be out and back with us.

There are excellent reasons why the 1961 Cadillac so completely dominates the highways of America. The finest Cadillac in a long and distinguished history, it is a motor car which reflects an authority unchallenged by any rival. We can now control the situation—if...

With the university crisis now a week old, a lot of people in our state are looking at it from many angles.

There are those who are saying that what happened in Athens last week was not necessary, adding that proper precautions taken at the proper time could have forestalled the trouble.

There are those who are proud of the hard core group of students and those who have been identified as "outsiders" for their conduct in creating the campus riots.

There are those who see signs in the General Assembly indicating that our legislators have learned a lesson and are willing to repeal the massive resistance legislation now on our law books.

There are those who would ensure the college authorities for the way they handled the entrance of two Negroes into the University.

There are those who commend the college authorities for the way they handled the situation.

Here in our home county our two representatives reveal that a number of Bulloch Countians expressed concern for and objection to a now so-called "red carpet" treatment of the two Negro students received. Even expressing resentment that their sons and daughters had not been given such treatment, "red carpet" treatment that is. There is evidence, according to the statement of one local representative, that those who called him last weekend generally understood that there is nothing the legislature could do to keep the Negroes out of the University, but all objected to the way their entrance was handled. The other representative stated that most of the people who called him realized the integration couldn't be stopped but told him if they have to accept it they would like for all the children to be treated alike.

When all angles are examined one comes to the conclusion that, except for a group of those who will never release their commitment to segregation, the people of Georgia are conditioning themselves to live with the powerful forces which have thrust the situation upon them.

Properly accepted and handled the situation can now be controlled by the people of Georgia without the further intervention of our Federal courts and the use of U.S. marshals and the FBI.

It must have added to his happiness

It must have added to the happiness of Congressman Prince Preston to read of the announcement by the General Services Administration in Washington that a site had been selected for the new Federal Building which will house the Statesboro postoffice.

Congressman Preston worked long and hard and diligently to secure this government facility for Statesboro and Bulloch County, and when it is completed it will be a constant reminder of the many services he performed while representing the first district in our national congress.

ing threat as long as large segments of the population fail to get Salk vaccination protection. That threat can be eliminated when every susceptible person has been vaccinated.

Appalling numbers of men, women and children are now suffering from crippling attacks of polio that might have been prevented had they only made use of the weapon which they themselves helped forge through their voluntary contributions to the March of Dimes.

A Salk shot series now will give a measure of protection before the 1961 polio season.

Are you protected?

The 'Y' triangle means a great deal

On Wednesday of next week the District Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association will meet in Statesboro. It will bring together a group of people in the district who are interested in the young people of this section, who are members of the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs sponsored by the YMCA.

For more than a century the Young Men's Christian Association has helped millions of young men and women grow up into solid, responsible citizens.

Today the Y triangle still symbolizes spirit, mind and body, these meaning friendship and understanding to boys and young men for over 100 years.

Through the Y clubs in our high schools our young people are learning the things which help to mould character, the things which stand them in good stead as they become adults.

We welcome the members of the district committee and wish for them a fruitful meeting and commend them for the part they are playing in the lives of our youth.

Protected?—if not

Polio can still strike any of over 85,000,000 unvaccinated Americans, bringing with it a lifetime of crippling, a future limited by crutches, braces or iron lungs—perhaps even death. Are you protected or are you one of that 85,000,000?

Polio epidemics still occur as was demonstrated by 1960 outbreaks in Rhode Island, the Carolinas, Puerto Rico and other areas. Paralytic polio remains a continuing

Why I Like to Live in Statesboro

At the tender age of twenty months, my daughter Deborah furnished us with some exciting moments. Aside from the expected movements of that age level, there were some unexpected activities.

ONE OF THESE unusual activities was her running to the radio, turn the volume to its highest pitch, and then twist the selection knob back and forth. You can imagine the results. A loud mass of confused voices, some in other languages, attacked our ears and bedlam reigned.

Is there much difference today? Are we not confused and clamor of the many voices vying for our attention? Let us turn back to the illustration of the radio and listen in on several high-frequency channels.

There is the station we might call INTERNATIONAL. What a jumble of tongues! With Russia's prowess in the missile race, the Red Chinese's drive for a full-scale war, Cuba's defection to Communism, anti-Americanism rapidly growing across the world, and the Jewish people, Tennessee Williams words in the "Class Menagerie" were never more appropriate: "How your candles out, for nowdays the world is lit by lighting."

WE TURN to the station designated NATIONAL. The clamor of many voices is greater than ever. We are facing a recession or will America continue to prosper? There are fifty million sex maniacs each month. One million illegitimate babies are born every year. There are three times more criminals than in 1900. The dominant mood of the day is fear, despair, and boredom. We live in the "April Age." Americans average taking thirty-three pounds per minute. Goethe's comment is telling: "Humanity twists and turns like a person on a sick bed." It is the "April Age."

WE TURN to the station marked RACIAL TENSION. We Georgians can no longer say that the problem is at a distance. It is upon us, and the recent developments at the University of Georgia point up the severity of the situation. There are many voices telling us that we must maintain a comfortable economic condition, which in turn the editor's uneasy chair

This is the second of the reasons "Why I Like to Live in Statesboro" written by members of the Senior Citizens Club of the Statesboro Recreation Center. We believe they tell a story and are of interest to many whose reasons for liking to live in Statesboro may be the same or varied. If any of our readers feel the urge to tell us "Why I Like to Live in Statesboro" write the Editor's Uneasy Chair, Box 210, Statesboro, Georgia. We'll be happy to print them. And if any there are also interested in providing the best for their city as a whole, too, we might learn how to improve our community.

AN OUTSTANDING development which has and will continue to mean so much to our city as well as to our youth in their social and physical development is our Recreation Department, which is unequalled in any city of similar size. I'm sure a person who is so interested in providing proper opportunities for the young people are also interested in providing the best for their city as a whole, too, we might learn how to improve our community.

IT IS A comfort to know that in case of sickness we have a well equipped hospital and competent staff to render the necessary service. The size of the town also appeals to me, and small as we have the necessary institutions, business establishments, organizations for health and social welfare.

There is much to suggest to newcomers that Statesboro is a fine city in which to live. I am really proud to be a resident.

THE TIME: January 15, 1961. The place: The campus of the University of Georgia. The scene: In the lobby of one of the places of residence of the students.

Those present: Students at the University from all over Georgia and from other states. About twenty persons in number and myself.

As if no attempt had been made by police and University officials to break up the demonstration would it have gone on the serious proportions it reached?

A FRIEND of mine had business to attend on Sunday afternoon and he asked me to make the trip with him. He attended a business session and I visited with student friends at the University. To the best of my ability to remember these are some of the things the students are saying to me in the immediate vicinity of the active crowd.

THESE QUESTIONS and answers continued for a period of more than three hours. The students seemed eager to express their feelings to someone who wanted to listen. For more than an hour I simply listened to them as they expressed themselves to one another.

There is much resentment against the Dean of Men, the Athens police force and particularly against the University officials by one member. A serious blow has been dealt the prestige of the national and state press and news services on the campus of the University. According to the reports of the students much of the pictures and "mob" scenes shown were actually staged by the news gatherers themselves. Students were rounded up and asked to present various "moods" for the benefit of cameramen and reporters. Many blamed the press for most of the disturbance.

THE STUDENTS deeply resent the pressures being exerted by the College Administration against the overall student body. Some said they felt that the faculty members were also being pressured by the Administration in an effort to pass on the pressure against the students.

The students have clearcut orders from University and police officials not to congregate in anyway or to attend any scene where a disturbance might be in order. Students in military science have been told that their commitments would be cancelled should they become involved and mass expulsion is believe will become a part of the day.

The students believe the FBI to be active on the campus and say that many students have serious questions by them and "warned" to stay clear of future demonstrations.

Salute TO GEORGIA COUNTIES

COLUMBIA COUNTY
CLARK HILL DAM
CREATES VAST RECREATION SPOT

Columbia was formed from Richmond County in 1790 to become the 12th county in the state. This central northeastern Georgia county covers 306 square miles. Appaling, now the county seat, was important in America's early struggle for independence from England. Here, around 1772, Daniel Marshall successfully defied British law dictating religious freedom, opening the way to new types of worship in this country.

Today, Columbia County is known for its dairy and poultry farms and for the enormous Clark Hill Dam and reservoir. The dam, at a cost of $46,000,000, stretches 200 feet across the Savannah River and controls 70,000 acres of water. This lake has become a popular recreation center. Other towns of note in this county are Harlem, Evans, Grovetown and Martinez.

In Georgia counties where the sale of beer and ale is legal, assure their sale under pleasant, orderly conditions. Believing that strict law enforcement serves the best interest of the people of Georgia, the Foundation stresses law enforcement cooperation with the Armed Forces, law enforcement and governing officials.

Mid-term tests vacate all the SHS 'hangouts'

Franklin is deserted, there is no one at the Pharmacy, the Georgia Theatre is experiencing a 75% drop in attendance, and the pool hall is temporarily closed. Where is everybody? There must be a logical explanation. There hasn't been an air raid, there has been no Martin invasion, no reformation movement is raging through the city. There is but one conclusion to be drawn from all this: it's mid-term test time.

SHS scientists attempt rocket launching

By AGNES FARKAS A Cuban cow was reportedly killed by fragments of an unsuccessful 7.2 ton satellite launched recently from Cape Canaveral. There wasn't a Cuban or any other cow around when the Science Club launched Vanguard, Jr. at Cape Statesboro (Statesboro airport). Lucky for the cow because our rocket was unsuccessful also. Vanguard, Jr. a fourteen inch aluminum rocket powered by a solid fuel of zinc and sulphur, blasted off with a sizzle and huge spurts of blue flame, flew to the left and plunged into the ground. This did not discourage our budding scientists, Randy Black and Ernie Campbell, who are already making plans for building the next one. Mr. McKenzie, co-sponsor of the Science Club, encourages the boys in their interest in space science. Relatively few students at Statesboro High are interested in science, but they are really missing something. Willard F. Libby, 1960 Nobel Laureate, says: "We scientists are the only people who are not bored, the only adventurers of modern times, the real explorers—the fortunate ones."

Keep our Georgia strong is fine goal

KEEPING GEORGIA STRONG
Among the 12 southeastern states, only 4 rank lower than Georgia in the amount of personal income spent on higher education.

If we are to compete with the other states in the country's fastest growing, most industrially competitive area, Georgia must better this ranking.

During the past 10 years per capita income in Georgia has increased by over 50 percent. If we are to expect a continuing increase in income of the citizens of this state, we must give much more than lip service to increasing support of the University System of Georgia. At the same time, we must bear in mind that every other state is also going to increase its percentage of personal income spent for higher education.

The University System needs the help of every citizen of Georgia to insure that it continues to grow. Only in this way can we produce the leadership sandwiches, potato chips, cherry tarts and coffee.

High scores were won by Mrs. Delmas Rushing Jr., receiving a vase. Low score went to Mrs. Emory Brannen, receiving an ash tray, and cut went to Mrs. John Ed Brannen, receiving perfume, and visitor's high went to Mrs. Emory Brannen, receiving a box of candy.

Others playing were Mrs. Allison Davis, Mrs. Arelha Temple, Mrs. Eubie Riggs, Mrs. H. H. Olliff Jr., Mrs. J. B. Johnson, Mrs. Otis Holloway, Mrs. Graham Bird, Mrs. T. L. Moore Jr., Mrs. H. L. Banks, Mrs. Reginald Anderson, Mrs. L. J. Holloway, and Mrs. Jimmy Alther.

Senior Tri-Hi-Y meets at SHS

Thursday, Jan. 12

By DOTIE DONALDSON

The Senior Tri-Hi-Y held its monthly meeting Thursday, January 12 at 7:30 p.m.

Darlene Youmans gave a responsive reading along with the program on thoughtfulness and the members discussed YMCA Week and the annual Youth Mayor Election which will take place after school in the gymnasium.

Besides the resolution concerning religion, we should concern our social and physical welfare. Proper care of the individual is a very important factor. Ask yourself these questions: "Do I get proper rest?" "Do I eat the correct foods?" "Do I have adequate exercise?" If your answer is "No," then now is your chance to reform yourself through New Year's resolutions.

Dr. Averitt to head GSC study group

Dr. Jack N. Averitt, chairman of the social science division at GSC, has been appointed to serve as chairman of the Self-Study group of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The purpose of the self-study visit by the Commission on Colleges and Universities of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is the improving of the educational effectiveness of member colleges and universities.

Procedure Designed

The self-study procedure is designed to help colleges and universities reassess their objectives, measure success in attaining them, explore ways and means by which educational efficiency may be improved and prepare for the ever increasing demands upon institutions of higher learning.

It is one that permits each institution to measure itself qualitatively and to be measured by the evaluating visiting committee through identification of strengths and weaknesses, problems and solutions.

Plan Growth

The self-study is not a status study only but is one which should make it possible for the institution to project its educational program and to plan its growth within the framework of its purpose.

The two-year self-study by an institution must be comprehensive and include every important facet of the institution.

Purpose Given

The purpose of the self-study is a critical analysis of the institution itself, with frank recognition of weaknesses and problems, with recommendations for solutions to the problems. There must also be indications of differences of opinion where these have developed in course of the study.

The report will stress the critical areas, unique programs, and facets of the institution which are of special interest or concern to the faculty, admin-

Jaycees name Cloyce Martin 'Outstanding Young Farmer'

Mr. Cloyce T. Martin of the Denmark community was named Bulloch County's "Outstanding Young Farmer" in special ceremonies at the Tuesday night meeting of the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce held at the Forest Heights Country Club.

They have two children, two boys, four years of age, and one girl, eight months of age. His brother is Mr. Hollis Martin, whose engagement to Miss Faye Sanders of Statesboro was announced recently.
