Boy Scouts camping out on courthouse square for a week

The Boy Scouts of America will be camping out on the courthouse square for a week, starting February 15. They will be setting up their tents and participating in various activities related to scouting. The camp will provide a fun and educational experience for the scouts, and is open to the public for visitors to observe. The event is part of the Boy Scouts' efforts to promote scouting and its values in the community.
There are ways to help, make sure you do.

Everyone in our state government is concerned with the growth of providing a safety net for this population. The need for such a system in Georgia is due to the ongoing challenges faced by individuals and families. Let's work together to ensure that these needs are met.

Elder Hendricks recalls old times.

If you have a story to tell or need help with something, please contact Elder Hendricks. He is a wealth of knowledge and has been a pillar in our community for many years.

Newborn town

There appears to be no rattles there.

Proposals for a newborn town have been made but the Town Council of Statesboro, Ga., has yet to take any action on the matter. The proposal, according to the mayor, was made by a group of citizens who are interested in establishing a new town in the area.

The mayor said that the group has presented a detailed plan for the new town which includes a proposal for a new public school, a hospital and other public facilities.

The mayor added that the group is also interested in establishing a new town in the area.
