Violators of dog ordinances warned

Risking the wrath of dog lovers and dog owners who are not necessarily dog lovers, we again join the city police chief in labeling dogs as one of the community's most persistent nuisances.

Nothing irks a home owner more than to see his or his neighbor's garbage scattered by dogs about his yard or along the street next to his home or the home of his neighbor.

Nothing is more disconcerting than to be kept awake at night by the howling or intermittent barking of a dog or dogs.

Nothing makes a homeowner more mad than to find his flower beds or his garden scratched up by stray dogs, or by the dog or dogs of his neighbor.

No parent can think of the tragedy which could befall one of his children if bitten by a dog infected with rabies. The thought is terrifying.

Chief of Police Allen has instructed the police officers of Statesboro to destroy all stray dogs whose owners cannot be identified.

And dog owners who have not complied with the city ordinance requiring that dogs be "treated and registered with the City, penned up, tied or on leash," are warned that unless they do comply with the law they will be booked in the Recorder's Court of this city.

There'll be some screaming, but, for the safety of our community and to maintain its clean look, we commend our police department on their expressed intention of seeing the law enforced.

Big and small thieves at work

There was much ado over the holdup at Georgia Southern College gym Saturday night which netted the lockdown criminal about $450 of the gate receipts of the last night of the Junior College basketball tournament.

And rightly so. We hope the law enforcement agencies catch the sneaking character and throw the book at him.

There has not been much ado over the series of small thefts which have been plaguing the newspaper publishers of Statesboro, Savannah and Augusta who serve their single copy customers by means of the self-service newspaper dispensers placed in several locations in Statesboro.

In the past several weeks the Bulloch Herald, the Bulloch Times, the representatives of the Savannah Morning News, the Evening Press and Augusta Chronicle and Herald, have had their news dispensers stolen, and ripped apart in order to get the few nickles the coin tube may hold.

The take is very small. Hardly enough to risk being caught nor the effort it takes to rip the coin tube open.

One of these days these petty thieves will be caught at their dirty, stupid work.

Let this be their proper warning.

4-H Club members observe 4-H Week

More than 775 boys and girls in Bulloch County next week will join thousands of other boys and girls over the nation in observing National 4-H Club week, March 4-11.

And we add our congratulations to our county's 4-H boys and girls and their devoted leaders for the fine work they are doing.

More than forty years ago the seeds for the present 4-H Clubs were planted in Bulloch County. Built on a foundation of learning, living, serving through 4-H, this farm youth organization is playing an important part in the future of our agricultural economy.

It is through 4-H Club projects that boys and girls learn better farm practices and better home-making skills. It gives them training and experience in citizenship, in community living, character building and spiritual development.

We toss our hat high into the air in acclaiming the seventy adults in Bulloch County who serve as 4-H leaders.

We commend the more than 775 young people in 4-H Club work for their interest in and love for the soil and the good things it brings to them.

Let's talk about the Congo crisis

EDITOR'S NOTE: Believing that it to be good for our community to know what its youth are thinking, we present a guest editorial this week written by a high school student.

By JOHN BROCK

It seems as if everytime one picks up a newspaper all he sees splashed over the front page is the Congo situation. Well, sure, you say, this is important, but we may be inclined to see this from just one viewpoint, ours. There has been a big to-do made over Patrice Lumumba's death. In my opinion this will be just another scape-goat for certain pressure groups and the Communist party.

His death will be held against the U.N. by the Communists. They will say Lumumba was a dear friend, ally, etc. Don't be fooled for one minute; Lumumba lost all his usefulness to the Communists when he lost his power. He is more useful dead now.

We shouldn't hold it against these people for wanting their independence. In fact, we should help them gain it, but in the right way. It is our duty to see that these people don't fall under the influence of the Communists. It is our duty to ourselves as well as to the Congolese. If Russia gains another foothold, they will put an economic squeeze on us by putting a stop to our imports and exports to and from certain major countries.

Then we will see a cold war get hot.

This Week's Meditation
By Lawrence E. Houston Jr.
FEBRUARY 15th marks the beginning of another season of the Christian year. Lent should be an enriching experience for all Christians. Actually, it is the forty-day period before Easter when many Christians turn aside to follow devotionally the pilgrimage of Christ in His high, painful journey to the Cross. It is much more than a relief from those dizzy social whirls; much more than a recess in which we do some moral and manhandling; much more than depriving ourselves the indulgence of some luxurious or senseless habit. It is a time when Christians should recover the perspective for life; renew spiritual vitality, and regain focus in worship.

COMPASSION means suffering with another. Christ's compassion for people was born out of His identification with them in their suffering. Compassionate living is a deep concern to remake the conditions that create hell for others. Lent is a good time for us to evaluate the motives that direct our living. Do we have a heart to give, or simply a desire to get.

WE SHOULD KEEP Lent secret and cheerfully. Our Christian discipline should not show itself. Instead, it should hide itself so that only God can see through it to the One who binds our hearts with the cords of Christian love.

CHRISTIAN living is serious, but not solemn, merry, but not flippant; winsome, but not wobegone. We keep Lent by keeping our hearts hung down from the spiritual inventory, and with clearer vision, practice the Christian discipline. THE SEASON of Lent provides a time in which we can

AA helps those who come seeking help
By DR. JOHN MOONEY
THE QUESTION most frequently asked by people interested in alcoholism is: "How can I help the alcoholic?" No inclusive answer can be given. Most people who are in trouble seek advice and assistance from other people because they don't want to get out of trouble. Characteristically, alcoholics differ in this respect because they do not consider themselves to be in trouble. They admit, of course, that there is trouble but not of their making. They claim the people around them are causing it. The family, boss, friends, everybody, is making a mountain out of a molehill.

WITH AN attitude like this, alcoholics not only refuse to listen to advice, they reject it, resent it and despise the people who hand it out, the basic reason being that they do not want to stop drinking. The alcoholic usually says, "I can stop drinking any time I want to." That is true. He cannot have permanent sobriety until he wants it. So, if you can't tell an alcoholic who he ought to do, how can you help him? The first step, probably the most essential, is to take a long honest look at YOURSELF. Ask yourself a few questions. Do I resent anybody? Do I violently dislike anyone? Does anybody seem to have it in for me? Do I go around telling my troubles to other people? Do I think that my friends are better off than I am?

A "YES" to one of these or similar questions could mean that you have a poorly adjusted personality, possibly like the alcoholic, even if you don't drink. Such a person trying to conceal an alcoholic could, unwittingly, add his own resentments and character defects to alcoholic shoulders already overburdened with trouble. Let him put his own house in order first. And another extremely important question if answer can be at all: "Am I an alcoholic?" Research indicates that controlled dependency drinking, which begins much earlier in a person's drinking career than was formerly suspected. In some cases alcoholism can complicate affairs when he tries to help another, it is logical to assume that anyone aiding an alcoholic should first stop drinking. Stopping drinking is the easiest way to decide if one is an alcoholic. The non-alcoholic can stop suddenly with no sense of loss. He can literally take it or leave it. If he leaves it, he does not miss it. There is no disturbance in his physical state, his routine or his outlook. He drinks for pleasurable social stimulation but is not dependent upon alcohol for this pleasure. He can have just as good a time, or better, without it. He has no need for alcohol.

ON THE OTHER hand, the alcoholic, unlike from the beginning, does not stop drinking, a need which may be noticeable only when he tries to leave off drinking. So, ask yourself these questions: Do I need a drink or a can of beer in the afternoon to help me relax after a regular day's work? Do I sleep better if I take a drink at bed time? Do I enjoy the companionship of other people more if I take a drink or two? Do some people say I am witty and clever when I it seems to me...

"Then came the Powell - Flores nuptials, and a remarkable discovery by the Congressman. He discovered that his wife deserved a much higher salary, and as of January her pay was jumped from $256 per month to $1,009, a mere $9,000 per year salary increase."

"Powell's wife now draws, as his top secretary, over $12,000 per year, which is reportedly $5,000 dollars a year more than he paid his former first secretary, Louise Dargans. But Louise Dargans now has a $17,000 job with the House Education and Labor Committee, which makes it appear that she got a salary raise of $10,000 per annum as compared to the paltry $9,000 per annum raise Powell gave his wife."

"HUSBAND," she said, "I could sit at home and look at the camellias."
" Wife," he replied, "birds don't sit, they fly. If you were a bird you'd be so busy flying in search of food that you wouldn't enjoy the blossoms."

"HUSBAND," the wife said, "I wish, I wish I were the cement seat so I could sit quietly and still and enjoy the camellias."
" Wife," said the husband, "if you were a cement seat you couldn't think. You couldn't enjoy anything. Just remember you are the only creature God gave the ability to enjoy the flowers."

"The wife knew the husband was right. As great as the momentary desire was not to ever think again—because sometimes thinking gets one in trouble, because thinking is harder than blindly following—the wife knew that the need for enjoying the spring was God-given."

"THE WIFE knew that the lower animal kingdom had not been given the great privilege as man has, of glimpsing God's great works. Only man can think about the pattern of the world, with its forests, rivers, oceans, plains and climates. Only man can see how perfectly God has planned the world in which we live. Only man can feel sorrows and griefs. Only man can experience joy (if he lives in the will of God)."

"The wife arose from the breakfast table and prepared to face the day's work but determined not to let human frailties (hers or others) rob her of the glories of another spring."

SURELY THERE are men somewhere in positions of influence who are willing to speak out against social practices by men in positions of public trust and against the continued trend in government which is leading to bigger and bigger government and more and more waste and higher costs.

WE have about the same number of representatives in the House and Senate that we have had for many years. Yet more and more buildings are being constructed to house our Congress. A new building is nearing completion in Washington for the members of the House which will be higher than the old house and senate buildings combined. The old buildings are still to be used with little after of sale of offices being added by the Congressmen and their committees. Where will this trend eventually take us?

AN TADMADGE
Reports From WASHINGTON

THOSE WHO DARE challenge the wisdom or effectiveness of foreign aid policies and programs can expect to have their intelligence questioned and their patriotism impugned.

Large segments of our mass communication media have disclosed themselves to making a case for foreign aid. It would seem to be the power of the spoken and printed word to brand those who criticize any aspect of foreign assistance as bigoted, isolationists or worse. They seek to reduce the issue to the oversimplified basis of "If you are not all of it then you are not against all of it" and refuse to admit the possibility that a middle ground exists between the two extremes. It is the same all-or-nothing philosophy which has denied members of Congress the opportunity to mediate in their vote between good and bad foreign aid.

MY POSITION on this subject was stated before the Senate in 1955 in these words: "I subscribe wholeheartedly to the concept of utilizing the United States' resources in its military posture. I accept cheerfully the Christian and humanitarian responsibility of sharing our supplies food and fiber to help feed the hungry and naked people of the world. But I cannot in good conscience give my assent to an unending program which seeks to achieve the impossible and utopian end of making the world over in our own image."

Events and developments since that time have strengthened that view and I have endeavored in speeches and statements to make it clear that my opposition is to indiscriminate foreign spending, particularly in the economic realm and not to the concept of mutual security or Christian charity. It is absurd spending which I would end and it is against such spending that I have voted to continue to vote for as long as I have the privilege to serve the people of Georgia in the Senate.

NO MAN WHO has a conscientious and a sense of Christian duty could refuse to give his support to all reasonable and practical programs which will assure the security of his country and help the needy of other countries. But, by the same token, it is impossible to understand how a man possessing those attributes can vote to squander the resources of his

4-H Cotton Champs are picked for 1960

Billy Neasmith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Neasmith, of the Westside Community, was named first place winner in the Senior Cotton Production in the Southeast District, at the Ball-and-Half Cotton club meeting held at the 4-H Center.

Young Neasmith planted two bushels of Coker 100A certified seed on April 11, using 800 pounds of 5-10-15. The cotton was sown with 65 pounds of actual nitrogen. Following recommended practices in cultivation and insect control he produced 3122 pounds of seed cotton. Billy's reward for this accomplishment was a check for $20.00.

Bill Smith, the State Cotton Champion in 1959, was second in the District in 1960 with a production of 2617 pounds of seed cotton. Being state winner in 1959, Bill was not eligible for awards.

In the Junior Cotton Production Projects, Randy Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Smith of Wrens, won second place with a yield of 1946 pounds of Seed Cotton, and was awarded a check for $15.00.

The Junior and Senior Cotton Production projects will be open again this year to 4-H boys and girls in Bulloch County. The State prize is 100 dollars and a 500 dollar Scholarship.

Farmers planted 561,000 acres of peanuts in 1959, of which 491,000 acres picked any amount. The remainder, according to J. Frank McGill, Extension agronomist, were used mainly for hogging.

Johnny McCormick gave his demonstration on Dairy Farm, Aaron Belcher gave his demonstration on Gardening, Eddie Club gave his demonstration on Tractor, Roman Bradford entered in Health and Electricity, Prathel Jenkins entered in Health, Electricity and In-Between Snacks, Jarell Jones entered in Public Speaking, Randy Guinette sang "Old Lamp Lighter."

Dickie Dollar sang "Harvest Moon," Linda Zetterower, Ann Winsky, Amy Sheffield and Marsha Wilson entered in corn meal muffins. Jane Mitchell entered in Canning, Ellis Edwards entered in Dress Revue and Recreation. Betty Wells, Linda Zetterower and Amy Sheffield entered in Frozen Foods and in-between meal snacks. Ann Winsky entered also in a musical number.

The judges were Mrs. D. B. Hendrix and Mrs. Hoke Brannen.

The low-price compact that looks and drives like twice the price!

Valiant's the compact that rarely complains
(just like the Valiant owners you know!)

What makes Valiant, and the people who own it, so easy going? For one thing, nagging annoyances that beset many other car bodies have been engineered out of Valiant's one-piece welded Unibody. And out where the road bumps are, Valiant's Torsion-Aire suspension stays smooth as milk 'n' honey. Remember, too, Valiant's low prices begin $100 lower than last year. And because Valiant's built the way it is, it's bound to rate high at resale time. For looks and liveliness, for long life and low cost, the top compact this year is Valiant. Come see the man who sells them.

The bodice featured a portrait neckline, lavished with pearls and iridescent sequins. Traditional long sleeves ended in points over her hands. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Horace Knight and Mrs. Clyde T. Martin, wore dresses identical to that of the honor attendant with identical bouquets. Polly Sanders, mother of the bride, wore a flower girl. Her dress was similar to the attendants. She carried a pink tulle basket filled with rose petals. The ring bearer, Ted Martin, wearing a tuxedo suit, carried the rings on a pink peau de soie pillow.

Farm and Family Features

Soybeans can boost farm cash income

By ROY POWELL, County Agent

SOYBEANS - A GOOD CROP

On most Bulloch County farms, soybeans can be an excellent means of boosting cash income.

They can be planted after corn, cotton, tobacco, and peanuts, so they won't interfere with these crops. They are harvested with equipment used for small grain and corn. Very little labor is required.

Furthermore, they can be substituted for other cash crops now under acreage restrictions. Soybeans have climatic and soil adaptations similar to corn. Poor soils and eroded clay or badly drained areas should be avoided.

Soybeans should not be planted too early. Usually, mid-May is a good planting time in Bulloch County. Drop by my office for an instruction sheet giving recommendations for best varieties, fertilizer and lime practices, and planting instructions.

DETERMINING LIME NEEDS

Determining the lime needs of the soil is one of the reasons soil tests are taken on the farm. Lime is needed in the soil for various reasons. It supplies calcium and sometimes magnesium. This is essential for plant growth. It unlocks soil fertility, especially phosphate. It stirs up microbes—those tiny organisms that give life to the soil. Lime also sweetens the soil by reducing soil acidity.

Georgia's expanding livestock program makes liming of the soil most important. Cattle grown on lime-rich soils are healthy and have strong bones.

CATTLE AND HOG PRICES

Cattle and hog prices are expected to be fairly steady, but favorable for the next months but cattle and hog producers should watch market prices and outlook very carefully.

There are some factors which will affect the markets during the last half of the year. Increased number of cattle on feed, a larger pig farrowing at this time will cause the change. Any sizeable increase in slaughter will definitely push prices down.

BUYING SEED

The supply of seed for spring planting will be adequate for most crops, but farmers buying seed should first decide on a recommended variety and then read the seed tag to determine the quality of seed being bought.

Reading the seed tag is the only way to know what's in the bag. When buying seed you should request a bill of sale, showing lot number, kind of seed and amount purchased. A certificate is required in case there is some question about the seed at a later date.

DHIA COWS

Research figures show that the average cow on Dairy Herd Improvement Association testing has increased 42 percent in milk produced per year.

While the DHIA cow increased 42 percent in production, all cows increased only 20 percent in milk produced per year.

NEW SEEDLING HARVESTER

A new multi-row pine seedling harvester is now being perfected at the University of Georgia's College Experiment Station—a development which should speed up the reforestation program in the state.

The new harvester was developed by Dr. C. E. Rice, an Agricultural Engineer at the University. The machine has met all standing for such a seedling harvester prescribed by the Georgia Forestry Commission.

Reports indicate that it is quite a labor-saving device. Nursery tests show the machine harvested a bed of eight rows of pine seedlings at a rate of one-half mile per hour. The labor requirement was eight man hours per acre compared with the 200 necessary for manual lifting of seedlings.

Dr. Rice also sees the possibilities for the adaptation of the machine to the harvesting of commercial crops of certain vegetable plants and vegetables.

Bulloch County cotton growers have been invited to visit the Southeast Georgia Experiment Station at Midville on Thursday, March 9, and attend a special cotton production meeting, according to an announcement made today by county agent, Roy Powell.

Mr. Orren Brooks, Superintendent of the Midville Experiment Station, in cooperation with the Extension Service, is planning a program for this search for economic possibilities, including insect control and mechanization, and this information will be of tremendous value in helping our farmers obtain higher and more economical cotton yields.

Plans are being developed for a large group to leave from the county agent's office that morning, and any farmers interested in going with the group are invited to join them, but county agent Powell has been requested to advise Mr. Brooks not later than Saturday morning, March 3, the number to expect from Bulloch in order that lunch may be prepared. If you plan to attend this meeting at Midville, please contact the county agent's office before Saturday morning and let them know.

Farm ponds important to soil-water program

By E. T. "RED" MULLIS, Soil Conservation Service

Farm ponds continue to be an important part of our total soil and water conservation program in Bulloch County. Realizing the present and future value of these water reservoirs to the prosperity and continued high standard of living of our community, the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District continues to emphasize the need for more farm ponds.

Often times the full value of farm ponds to the community is overlooked in our short-sighted vision. As our water needs increase and our reserves decline, these farm ponds stand for insured abundance of water. These ponds not only supply water for irrigation, livestock, fish production, recreation, fire protection, and flood prevention, but also help replenish our underground water supplies, and our rainfall through evaporation into the atmosphere. Then, in time of emergency when power might not be available, these ponds would be valuable in carrying us over the crisis.

Farm ponds recently constructed to comply with all state and federal regulations include the following farms: W. A. Bowen farm in Westside Community, with Ernest Carter the contractor. Brown Childs farm just west of Statesboro, with Rudolph Rushing the contractor. Joseph B. Franklin farm south of Statesboro on U. S. 301 with Rudolph Rushing the builder.

without replanting and in damp weather!

SECRET OF ORTHOCIDE SOIL TREATER X SUCCESS: famous "circle of protection" around young cotton root wards off soil-borne diseases—damping off, sore shank, sore shin and root rot. Young cotton takes hold, grows strong and uniform through dampness and rain. Without replanting, a full stand is well underway. Cotton protected by ORTHOCIDE Soil Treater X pays off weeks early!

Protection pays 4 ways:
1. Eliminates replanting costs. 2. Gives high-pricing, early cotton. 3. Gives full stands (90% to 100%). 4. Gives uniform stands that harvest fast mechanically.

N. W. Rowand attends meeting of Rockwell officials Feb. 20

Mr. N. W. Rowand, general manager of the Rockwell Statesboro Corporation, plans to visit Statesboro on Monday, Feb. 20, to attend a meeting of the general managers of the more than 100 Rockwell Manufacturing Company's top management officials, including the general managers of Rockwell's twenty-six U. S., Canadian and West German plants, who attended the company's annual four-day Management Meeting at the Hotel Webster Hall in Pittsburgh, Pa., which began Monday, February 20.

Once a year Rockwell brings together its plant managers, division sales managers and headquarters staff to review the year just closed, discuss budget for the new year, and to clarify management plans. The meeting, rather than routine sales meetings, represents an integral part of the company's communication program - particularly inportant in a diversified and decentralized company like Rockwell.

According to Willard F. Rockwell, Jr., president of the company, the meeting is a unique in industrial circles because of the open discussion and financial data to such a large group of management people.

"Last year one of our junior executives expressed surprise at the content of the sessions and remarked that he thought such information was confined to a few of the top executive staff and the Board of Directors."

"But the broad disclosure of such information to people who, we believe, have a right to it has been a part of Rockwell policy for a long time. This policy of sharing information usually closely guarded arises from a conviction that the sound growth of our company depends to a great degree on the teamwork of the people who are directly interested in it. Teamwork, we believe, stems not only from sharing a common goal, but from sharing information pertinent to progress toward that goal. You tend to play a better game when you know what the score is."

Rockwell Manufacturing Company is a leading manufacturer of portable and stationary power tools; control devices such as valves, regulators and electric control system; and measuring devices such as petroleum, gas and water meters, parking meters, taximeters and voting machines.

Discussing the meeting N. W. Rowand, general manager of Rockwell Statesboro, said, "This meeting is particularly valuable to the plant general managers not only because of the distance to the 'home' office for most plants but mainly because in the Rockwell organization the plant general managers are on their own to a greater degree, perhaps, than in most companies. Billings, tobacco webworms, even June beetles, and many other soil insects.

WHEN TO APPLY—The best results, Heptachlor should be applied to tobacco six days before transplanting. This early application will allow for better distribution of insecticide in the soil. If weather conditions prevent earlier application, Heptachlor can be applied right before planting, but the results generally are not as satisfactory. Apply 2 pounds actual Heptachlor per acre broadcast. Applications should not be made until the land has been plowed. Disc the soil immediately after application.

HOW TO APPLY—Heptachlor is available as a liquid, dust or granule. It can be purchased to suit the particular equipment you have on your farm. Large acreage can be treated with a tractor mounted dust or line sower. Small acreage can be treated easily with a hand-operated cyclone sower.
