This Rockwell Manufacturing plant is only one of the many facilities in the United States and Canada.

In 1956, Rockwell Manufacturing Corporation purchased the old Statesboro Railroad Company plant, a 50,000-square-foot factory building on Fifth Street. The company continued to operate the factory at this location until 1961, when it moved to a new facility on the outskirts of the city.

The company has since grown to become a major employer in the area, with a workforce of over 1,000 employees. The company is committed to providing high-quality products and services to its customers, and continues to invest in new technologies and processes to maintain its position as a leader in the industry.

The company is proud to be a part of the Statesboro community, and is grateful for the support of its employees and customers. The company looks forward to continuing its growth and success in the years to come.

Plant best seed to get best results

BY BERT PARRISH

For the best results, follow these tips:

1. Choose the right seed: Select a disease-resistant variety suitable for your area and soil conditions.

2. Proper planting depth: Follow the recommended planting depth for your specific crop. Deep planting can cause rot and disease.

3. Adequate spacing: Allow sufficient space between plants to promote healthy growth and reduce disease spread.

4. Early planting: Starting seeds early can help prevent late-season diseases.

5. Regular care: Keep plants well-watered and monitor for signs of disease or pest damage.

Remember, the key to good results is choosing the right seed and providing proper care throughout the growing season.
